STANDARD OIL SPEEDED IN FOREIGN FIELDS

Archbold's Testimony Shows
Great Corporation Successfully
Competes With Four Hundred Companies Abroad.

PRODUCTS REACH ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD

Claim Made That Company's
Business Abroad Brings Trade
Balance in Favor of United States.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]

New York, Nov. 30.—The development of the Standard Oil company trade in foreign fields has been the subject of evidence in the government's suit to dissolve the oil combination and gave John D. Archbold, vice president, an opportunity as a witness to spread on the records, some interesting facts. Of the total amount of illuminating oil refined by the Standard in 1906, Mr. Archbold stated that 63 per cent was sold abroad. Export figures of other years further showed that the Standard exported the major portion of its illuminating oil.

The line of testimony with regard to the immense foreign trade indicated that during the period of the Standard Oil trust the trustees poured millions of the company's earnings back into the construction of new refineries and pipelines.

Resuming his testimony today in the government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company, John D. Archbold, vice president of the company, was questioned about the Vlas, Kefauver and Charter agreement of 1927. Mr. Archbold told of the signing of the agreement and of the property held by certain individuals for the benefit of the stockholders of the Standard Oil company.

"The capital stock of the Standard was $3,000,000," said Mr. Archbold, "but the plants and property were valued at $30,000,000."

Mr. Archbold described in detail the inventory of the Standard's plants, property and all assets at the time of the agreement. All plants, generally speaking, were acquired for cash. He then gave the reason for the formation of the Standard Oil trust, saying:

"It was due as a simple and effective form of holding the property. We were advised by counsel that neither the Standard Oil company of Ohio nor any other corporation could effectively own or safely, perhaps, hold the property, which was widespread in many states whose laws were restrictive of the rights of corporations. The trusteeship was suggested as a simple method of bringing together the property and form a token of ownership, which would have a market value and enable the owners to have a more effective administration of the property."

was sold abroad and 37 per cent at home. Mr. Archbold told of the difficulties in the introduction of refined oil abroad. There was much competition from oil interests of the Dutch Indies said Mr. Archbold and the task of maintaining the business in the orient was very difficult.

Extraordinary precautions are being taken in view of a possible hostile demonstration tomorrow. Madame Steinheil will be brought at an early hour and will be kept henceforth in the congregate.

UPLIFT COMMISSION AT WORK IN CALIFORNIA

Hears Many Reasons Why Farm Life
Is Distasteful to Young America.

Sacramento, Nov. 30.—There was a large attendance at the meetings of the division of the commission on country life appointed by President Roosevelt, now making investigation in the central states. Among the members of the commission present were Dr. H. L. Bailey, chairman, of the board of agriculture, New York; Henry Wallace, of Iowa; W. A. Beard, of Sacramento; and Dr. J. E. Stiles, of the marine hospital service.

Farm and country life and all its phases were widely discussed by the commissioners and farmers. The discussion developed into an inquiry into the question as to the reason why farm life in general has so many sides that are distasteful both to the farmer and people who work for him, encouraging a desire for the city with its excitement and greater comforts. Long hours of toil, lack of school facilities, lack of social life, dearth of companionship and poor prices for products were some of the reasons given why farm life is distasteful.

Jenkins, Jr., on trial at Brooklyn, charged with larceny of $50,000 of the funds of the Jenkins Trust company, was the subject of the defendant's good character. Arguments for both sides will probably be completed and the case placed in the hands of the jury tomorrow.

VIRGINIA RATE CASE GOES TO STATE COURT

SUPREME COURT RULES
ON NOTED CONTROVERSY

Complaining Roads Must Go Through Procedure Provided by Virginia Law for Adjudication of Dispute.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Justice Holmes today announced the decision of the United States supreme court in the case of the Virginia railroads versus the state corporation commission of Virginia calling in the question of the order of the commission fixing a uniform rate of two cents a mile for carrying passengers in the state. The decision reverses the judgment of the eastern circuit court for the eastern division of Virginia but only on the narrow ground that the railroads should have appealed from the commission's order to the supreme court of Virginia by seeking the intervention of the federal courts.

In effect the court directs that the railroad companies take their case to the state court of last resort and that in order to prevent injustices through the application of the statute of limitations, the case be retained on the docket of the United States circuit court by which was originally decided favorably to the roads.

It is not the intention of the decision that the railroads should resort to the Virginia supreme court to enforce their appeal. It is rendered in order to the federal supreme court, but that if the verdict of the Virginia court is not satisfactory the roads may resume the proceedings in the United States circuit court. On this point the court said:

"If the rate should be affirmed by the supreme court of appeals and the railroads still regard it as confiscatory they may at liberty to renew their application to the circuit court without fear of being met by a plea of res adjudicata. It will not be necessary to wait for a prosecution by the commission."

In this case the Virginia commission had fixed a rate of two cents per mile and was proceeding to publish it and take the initiative into its own hands. The railroads went into the circuit court of the United States and obtained an injunction against the commission enforcing the rate on the ground that it was confiscatory. The supreme court of the United States in this case the members of the Virginia commission demurred not raising the question of the merits of the two-cent rate but claiming that the commission had exceeded its authority and jurisdiction of a court and its authority was therefore res adjudicata and could not be renewed into or interfered by the circuit court of the United States.

The supreme court, Justice Holmes delivering the opinion, overruled the contention, holding that the commission is not a court when making a rate but is acting in a legislative capacity and its action is not res adjudicata and is not beyond the reach of the federal courts, if it violates any provision of the constitution of the United States. Under the Virginia system, however, an appeal is given, a right from the action of the commission making the rate to the supreme court of appeals of that state. The supreme court of the United States further held that the action of the court of appeals of Virginia or such appeal from the commission, in making the rate, is itself legislative and that the federal courts are not to be required to inquire into, and if it violates any constitutional right of the carrier, is subject to be enjoined in the circuit court of the United States. The supreme court further held, however, that as the state of Virginia had given this right of appeal from the commission, the final legislative word of the state in regard to the rate is not in the state court of appeals but in the state legislature under these circumstances, it is proper for the carrier, before going into the federal court to see if the state court of appeals will correct the error of the commission which is complained of and if it refuses it will then be time for the carrier to come into the circuit court of the United States.

The court of the United States, therefore, while reversing the decision of the court below, ordered that the bill be retained in the circuit court of the United States for the purpose of appeal. It is taken to it and if it is not too late to take an appeal, the order of the United States circuit court enjoining the Virginia commission must be affirmed. The circuit court, however, entertains the appeal, then the railroads would have the right to proceed in the circuit court of the United States to question the validity of any order of the Virginia court of appeals, as contrary to the United States constitution. The railroad claim that they are practically given every substantial right which they contend for.

The court's action in reversing the circuit court decision was based on the fact that the railroads had failed to appeal to the United States supreme court before invoking the intervention of the United States circuit court.

LARGE PROBE LIKELY TO BE PROLONGED

COMMITTEE WANTS POWER TO SUBPOENA WITNESSES

Stand-Pat and Revision Members Both Desire That Inquiry
Shall Be Complete Before Bill
Is Framed.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]

Washington, Nov. 30.—Determined to bring before it those who have criticized the hearings on the proposed revision of the tariff bill and said that there is much important information to be obtained before the framing of an impartial tariff bill can be undertaken, the ways and means committee of the house will request congress to authorize it to subpoena witnesses to appear at supplementary hearings. While the committee has been holding sessions which have lasted late into the night, much time has been wasted and too frequently but one side of the question has been presented. Witnesses in many cases have been entirely unprepared to furnish the committee with adequate information as to comparative cost of labor in this country and abroad.

W. Van Cleave, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and C. E. Miles, chairman of the tariff committee of the same organization, have frequently attacked the methods used by the committee. Chairman Payne has strongly resented the attack and the request to congress for the right to subpoena witnesses has been a principal theme of his statements. Van Cleave and Miles, who have not appeared, despite special invitations.

The wish of the committee to get at the facts with regard to tariff revision has been reiterated by Chairman Payne "for the stand patters" by Champ Clark for the minority members and by several republican members who are determined to represent the views of President-elect Taft.

The desire for authority to subpoena witnesses and to hold as many hearings as will be required necessary. During the progress of the hearing it has become evident that the various factions in the house are united on the subject of tariff revision. A bill that will be a thorough and impartial revision of the present tariff law. It will also include a careful rejudgment of the working and provisions in order to eliminate any possibility of misinterpretation by the courts. If there is any opposition to a thorough revision it is generally believed that it will develop after the bill has been passed by the house and reaches the senate.

Secret Amex. of Portland, Ore., a burly bag manufacturer, said that the Pacific coast manufacturers needed a greater protection against the cheaply made Calcutta burlap bags. Since the passage of the Dingley law, he explained the cost of labor had increased 20 to 30 per cent on the coast and manufacturers had been forced to reduce the price of their burlap in Calcutta and India.

The vanguard of the revolutionists occupied Grand Convo, a town of 16,000 inhabitants, about thirty miles west of Port au Prince, without firing a shot, and it is expected that this force will be sent ahead to clear the way if an obstruction is offered.

General Simon himself engaged in previous movements of the same kind. In 1902 he declared himself in favor of General Anton Firmin for the presidency, and the latter pursued similar tactics to those now being followed by Simon.

In a statement issued today General Simon stated that he desired to re-annex the country from the French rule of Port au Prince, and that the people should be free to elect a new president, but it is not known whether he favors General Firmin for that office or is working in his own interests. The followers of General Firmin have not shown any great activity so far.

Pauls-Sannon, the former minister of foreign affairs, who was one of the leaders who took refuge in the French legation at Port au Prince, is reported to have been removed from office by the president, is one of the leaders in the movement, who is believed to be on his way to Port au Prince.

It is claimed that a director of posts appointed to hold office and who shall receive a high salary, will tend to improve the service through a continuity of policies for the benefit of the postal service. By providing for seven assistants the disadvantage due to frequent changes and the appointment of inexperienced men to the four offices of assistant postmaster general, can, it is believed, be obviated. The assistant directors are also to hold office during good behavior. To perfect the system of management the provision for fifteen superintendents to have direct charge of the fifteen separate postal districts, has been decided on. Another provision is that the assignment of certain duties now performed by the third assistant postmaster general to a commission of appeals. This commission would hear all fraud orders made on the admission to the mails of second class matter. The reorganization of the postal laws is also a part of the work required of the commission.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]

Port au Prince, Nov. 30.—Every hour brings the revolutionary army nearer to Port au Prince, and a feeling of impending disaster has taken possession of the people. The advance guard of General Simon's forces is now not more than twenty-five or thirty miles from this city, and up to the present the insurgents have swept all before them.

The government losses at Azua, Vean on Friday and the rout of the loyal troops have caused considerable alarm among the officials of the government with possibly the exception of President Nord Alexis. Every effort to have him take himself out of the country has proved a failure, and the aged president, who has faced revolutions before, announces his determination to fight to the last.

It may be that President Alexis feels the confidence he expresses in his ability to check the advancing army, but the residents of Port au Prince certainly are not of the same mind. Many of them are panic-stricken and the great majority of the natives have closed and shuttered their doors, and business houses have put bars across the doors and windows of their residences. There is an uneasy feeling among the foreigners residing in the city, and the harbor of the warships of the United States and France, from which forces unquestionably will be landed if the insurgents succeed in passing the gates of the city or at the first sign of disorder and pillage.

Flags of different nations are flying from the homes of many foreign residents, the markets are deserted and the country is in a state of confusion. The people are in a state of panic and are fleeing precipitately and refuse to return. The situation has become so serious that an official proclamation has been issued, advising the citizens to remain in their homes and to observe strictest order. The proclamation also states that the government will take measures to preserve order and to protect the property of the citizens.

Throughout the day and tonight the streets were patrolled by bodies of troops who are maintaining order. So far as can be seen all of the officials and soldiers here remain loyal and are facing the coming revolution calmly. The divisions of troops are entrenched at the convergence of three roads, several miles outside the city, and it is not expected that General Simon's forces will reach the crossroads until possibly Wednesday.

The vanguard of the revolutionists occupied Grand Convo, a town of 16,000 inhabitants, about thirty miles west of Port au Prince, without firing a shot, and it is expected that this force will be sent ahead to clear the way if an obstruction is offered.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—The question whether the wages of a seaman can be garnished was decided today in the negative in the United States supreme court in connection with the case of James L. Holt sought to attach the wages of a seaman named Tuley who was in the employ of the navigation company. The Hawaiian court held that under the law this could be done and the supreme court affirmed this judgment, the opinion being by Justice Day.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR TIMBER AND STONE ACT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—The secretary of the interior today approved new regulations under the timber and stone act of June 2, 1879. The act provides that timber and stone lands shall be sold at the minimum price of $2.50 per acre. They have heretofore been sold at a flat rate of that sum. Under the new regulations adopted today such lands must be appraised and will be sold at the appraised value. The regulations don't apply to applications already pending.

When the procession started from the station a dozen mounted police took stations about the carriage of the ambassador and acted as outriders until the residence on Scott circle, where the procession was to end, was reached. The carriage was guarded by a detachment of mounted police and were the objects of a great deal of speculation.

Considerable interest was displayed by the order in which the visitors walked and entered the carriage. The order in which they entered was as follows: First came Tang Shao Yi, the special ambassador, and Prince Tsai Fu, escorted by Assistant Secretary Wilson and Colonel Roosevelt. Then followed Minister Wu, who is out-ranked while the special ambassador is here, and Mr. Ching Menaw, who is said to be slated to take a high position in the Chinese diplomatic service. They were escorted by Commander Sims and Mr. Straight. Other carriages followed in strict order of rank, the last carrying several gentlemen. The carriages were escorted into the residence by a detachment of mounted police and were the objects of a great deal of speculation.

EPOCH-MARKING DIPLOMATIC CEREMONY AT WASHINGTON

Secretary of State Root and Baron Takahira, Ambassador from Japan, Exchange Notes Defining Policy of United States and Nippon in the Far East.

(By Morning Journal Special Licensed Writer)

Washington, Nov. 29.—Secretary of State Elihu Root, on behalf of the United States, and Baron Takahira, ambassador on behalf of Japan, yesterday afternoon exchanged diplomatic notes defining the policy of the two governments in the far east. The actual ceremony of exchange was very brief. Secretary Root handing the ambassador a note which bore his signature, and the ambassador giving to Mr. Root a paper defining Japan's policy and bearing his signature. Assistant Secretary of State Bacon, second secretary of Embassy Masamune Hachizura and Mr. Belmont, Mr. Root's private secretary, were witnesses. After an informal exchange of congratulations the ambassador and his secretary left.

The full import of the notes has already been set forth in the Associated Press dispatches. They will be made public simultaneously in the United States and Japan tomorrow night, with a view to their publication in both countries on Wednesday morning.

The exchange of notes is based on the idea of encouraging and defending free and peaceful commercial development in the Pacific and to this signatory parties have prepared a series of articles expressing their intention.

Legislative action by the senate is unnecessary and the declaration of exchange of notes will not have to be referred to that body. The declaration is not a treaty, simply a reaffirmation of what both Japan and the United States have stood for in China and the far east generally. It has no legal standing, but its greatest benefit will be that derived from the moral effect it will exercise in the future diplomacy governing the far east. In this respect, it has been likened to the Monroe doctrine in American history.

It was pointed out today as rather a singular coincidence that the exchange of notes with Japan regarding China should occur on the same day as that on which Tang Shao Yi had come to thank the American government for the remission of the boxer indemnity.

His manner and excellent speaking voice give an additional charm to the lovable character of the village jester as he is found in hundreds of small towns in real life. Raymond Whitaker and Margaret Pitt have the well chosen roles of the boy and girl sweethearts, both lending the pleasantness to their personalities to the parts.

The comedy parts are also well taken, those of Ophelia Smart, the Yankee storekeeper, with 1214 invested in stock, and 2438 in outstanding obligations, and Martha Nelson, sister of John Nelson, the clergyman, are jewels of consistency, playing the people of simple life like they might have spent their life in an off-the-beat-of-Maine village, instead of having traveled around the country in "them there kivered cays," as Ophelia might say. Oh, the program says, keeps the grocery at Newberry and leaves Martha on the side. But from the way he hangs around the Nelson home, the store must be the side line and the courting of Martha the real business of his daily life. Both Mr. Waldron and Miss Galey are excellently funny, even in plain view of the cemetery that Mr. Dosske has pointed out as well on the back drop.

A villain is evidently an essential to the life of the stage as the footlights, the music and the scenery. "The Sexton" has a villain, a real, black hearted villain, who wears the conventional silk hat and frock coat that all fourmen villains wear, after 8:15 in the evening.

QUESTIONS OF ECONOMY.
A quart of tub oysters costs you 40c. It is half water. You pay 20c for a quart of water, or 80c for a quart of oysters. Rather expensive whichever way you figure. But if you look it more closely to pay nearly as much for a pint of "Seaship" oysters—solid meats—as you pay for a quart of watered oysters? "Seaship" oysters are firm, fresh, clean and well packed in ice. No possible contamination. And the pint of "Seaship" will go as far as a quart of watered oysters to say nothing of the five, ten, twenty, or thirty. "Seaship" comes packed in a steel container with ice around the container—no ice in the oysters. We sell "Seaship" only, and guarantee them.

SAN JOSE MARKET.

TEN CARLOADS OF SHEEP SHIPPED
Big Consignment of the Woolly Out of Corona; Work Progressing on Valuable Mining Properties.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Corona, N. M., Nov. 25.—J. M. DuBois, one of the prominent sheep raisers of this section, this morning shipped ten double-deck cars of sheep to Kansas City. The animals are in splendid condition and will market well.

Work is progressing rapidly at the camp of the Corona Queen Mining company. It is expected that the company will soon give employment to a large force of men. The work just at present is more of a preliminary nature preparatory to extensive mining operations. The Corona Queen has proven beyond the shadow of a doubt that there is ore in these mountains, and it is only a question of a short time until large quantities of ore will be shipped from here.

Colonel Henry C. Judd, prominent mining engineer and general manager of the Corona Queen, left this morning for New York.

Phil Holman returned today from a business trip to Las Vegas.

LIVING ADVERTISEMENT

Glow of Health speaks for Postum.

It requires no scientific training to discover whether coffee disagrees or not. Simply stop it for a time and use Postum in place of it, then note the beneficial effects. The truth will appear.

"Six years ago I was in a very bad condition," writes a Tenn. lady. "I suffered from indigestion, nervousness and insomnia."

"I was then an inveterate coffee drinker, but it was long before I could be persuaded that it was coffee that hurt me. Finally I decided to leave it off a few days and find out the truth."

"The first morning I left off coffee I had a raging headache, so I decided I must have something to take the place of coffee. This headache was caused by the reaction of the coffee drug—caffeine."

"Having heard of Postum through a friend who used it, I bought a package and tried it. I did not like it at first, but after I learned how to make it right, according to directions, on pkg. I would not change back to coffee for anything."

"When I began to use Postum I weighed only 115 lbs. Now I weigh 170 and as I have not taken any tonic in that time I can only attribute my recovery of good health to the use of Postum in place of coffee."

"My husband and I am a living advertisement for Postum. I am glad to be the means of inducing my many friends to use Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Well-being," in pkg. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

How One Doctor Successfully Treats Pneumonia.
"In treating pneumonia," says Dr. W. J. Smith of Sanders, Ala., "the only remedy I use for the lungs is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. While, of course, I would treat other symptoms with different medicines, I have used this remedy many times in my medical practice and have yet failed to find a case where it has not controlled the trouble. I have used it myself, as has also my wife for coughs and colds, bronchitis, and I most willingly and cheerfully recommend it as superior to any other cough remedy in my knowledge." FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Wall Street.
New York, Nov. 30.—Indecision marked the speculative sentiment in the stock market today. The price movement was extraordinarily maintained and the conflicting movements seemed to be so nearly balanced in their power to affect sentiment that neither was able to prevail. That the market was being subjected to a churning process by powerful hands was the fairly obvious inference from its action. The most conspicuous opposed movements were those in St. Paul and United States Steel. St. Paul showed aggressive strength at different times and the brokers employed to the buying of the stock gave the impression of an accumulation by the most powerful of the financial groups habitually active in the speculation. The shares of St. Paul in the upward tendency were, for the most part, amongst the less conspicuous low priced stocks. The usual market leaders including the Harriman Pacifics, the Hill stocks, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Refining were inclined to move in company with United States Steel. The feature of the day in the wider financial significance was the evidence of the capital requirement opening before the markets. The announcement of the sale of $50,000,000 of American Telephone and Telegraph convertible bonds to bankers seemed unexpected and was of portentous effect on sentiment.

This was partly due to the announcement of a privilege to underwriters of the previous $100,000,000 issue of these bonds to subscribe in the present case at 92, although the bonds sold Saturday in the market as high as 95 3/4. Today they declined to 94 and the company's shares also fell two points. While the original price of the underwriting of the first $100,000,000 of these bonds was 94 3/4, the price to the syndicate was reduced to 91 in January of 1907 when the syndicate took care of a note issue of $25,000,000. The money was unaffected by this or by the arrangements for the December settlements. There was some further advance in foreign exchange rates and gold exports to France to continue under discussion. Interior money markets were dull and easy and bankers attribute this to small demand for commercial uses. Closing stocks: is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

UP, INSTEAD OF DOWN.

It has been pointed out, many or less broadly, for some time past, that the tariff revision about to be undertaken by congress, would be a boon to the nation, rather than a detriment, and the indications seem to point more and more distinctly in that direction. The latest we have on this point is given in a New York letter to the Record-Herald, by William E. Curtis, a careful writer, and one whose statements are always worthy of confidence. Referring to the probable tariff changes Mr. Curtis says:

"The tariff merchants in New York agree that the tariff trade is much larger than they expected. Taking into consideration the effects of the tariff, which have not entirely passed off, the fact that it is a presidential year, and that congress is about to revise the tariff with a possibility of changing the rates of duty upon many classes of goods. I find, however, that there is no concern among American importers or American manufacturers who compete with imported goods. They are convinced that the disposition of the congressional committee is to advance rather than to reduce duties; to increase rather than diminish the protection that now is extended over American manufacturers."

"Those who are in the confidence of the members of the finance committee of the senate and the ways and means committee of the house, have received assurance that if any important change is made in the existing tariff it will be by the addition of another column of duties after the French and German plan. This will give a maximum and a minimum to be applied according to circumstances, and the present rates will be adopted as the minimum. The maximum rates will be from 10 to 25 per cent higher than the present schedule, and the president will be authorized to apply them to imports from countries which discriminate against American merchandise and particularly our agricultural products."

"It seems to be generally held among importers that the present rates upon all competing imports will remain unchanged. Therefore, as long as the result of the revision was known, and in fact for some time the importers became satisfied that tariff would be raised, they released the import quantities of goods in the bonded warehouses and called larger orders than have been given for months past."

"A gentleman who is familiar with the foreign trade tells me that the export trade to Europe within a week after the revision amounted to $100,000,000, and that the bulk of the many kinds of merchandise we are in the habit of importing from Europe and Japan, although the proportion of high-tariff articles is not so large as some would have you believe."

"The Washington after question sign indicates that while some will remain from the bonded warehouses, and on Thursday 757, whereas the average is about 500 a day in such times. During the past year 204 was considered a good business. More than $1,500,000 was paid in duties on the day after election, and the average is now about $100,000 a day, in comparison with $100,000 and $200,000 a day during the twelve months previous. Mr. Fowler, the collector of the port of New York, tells me that the revenue collected here from customs during the month of November will be double that of any month of the previous year, and he believes that the imports will increase steadily from this time on."

One of the strongest reasons for doubting that any material reduction of a general character will be made in the present schedule of duties, and which Mr. Curtis does not mention in the foregoing letter, is to be found in the fact that our national expenses have grown to such an enormous figure that it is impossible for us to cut down the amount of revenue derived from the tariff without imposing additional internal taxes of some sort, and that as a policy to which the people of the country in general are radically opposed.

AN EXTRAORDINARY TOG.

The fatal collision between two ocean vessels in New York harbor, which was reported in our news columns yesterday morning, was due to conditions which have prevailed along the Atlantic coast for about two weeks, and which are said to be without parallel in the history of the coast. The Herald, in referring to this matter in its issue of last Thursday, said:

"Old residents of New York, considering the almost unprecedented density and persistence of the fog overhanging the city and harbor this week, may naturally wonder if atmospheric conditions here are changing and becoming as prolific of fog as those in London. Doubtless the amount of dust particles suspended in the air over New York continues to increase with the rapid growth of the city, and modern experiments have demonstrated that minute particles of floating dust facilitate the formation of fog. But our climatic conditions are changing materially. The chief cause of our prolonged and dense fogs is not dust, for explorers have often reported thick fogs, lasting more than eight days, in the far south over which the air is perfectly dust free."

For the greater part of the time during the last two weeks, the fog has been so dense in the vicinity of New York that it has been absolutely impossible for vessels to move even in the shallowest and most careful manner without taking great risk of disaster, and the case referred to was only one of several of like character that have occurred during the time mentioned. It is worthy of note, at the same time, that it has been observed by old residents of New Mexico that our climatic conditions here for the past two or three weeks have been strikingly unusual, from which it would appear that the weather machinery of the whole continent is more or less "out of gear."

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

According to a summary of the forthcoming Census Bulletin upon marriage and divorce in the United States during the twenty years from 1887 to 1906, the number of divorces are increasing about three times as fast as population. This is, perhaps, the most startling fact in the statistical information collected by the government for the study and analysis of sociologists. This is the second inquiry upon these subjects undertaken by the federal authorities, the first having been made by the bureau of labor, under the direction of Carroll D. Wright, and covering the period from 1881 to 1899, and as the latter inquiry has been made under the same expert guidance, the findings of the two reports have been considered together.

In the twenty years covered by the present report there were in the United States 12,922,044 marriages, the annual number having increased from 423,068 in 1887 to 547,259 in 1906. The proportion was not uniform, however, the year 1892 having shown a decrease under the influence of the panic of the preceding year, normal conditions not having been restored until 1893. It has been estimated that if the average annual increase in marriages for the five years ending with 1906 had continued for the next 45 years, the aggregate in-the later period would have been greater than it was by 255,812. As it may be assumed that many of these persons did not marry at all, there is suggested an economic loss to the community not often contemplated in connection with periods of financial depression. The marriage statistics show that in each year something over 4 per cent of the unmarried adult population marry, and the marriage rate based on the total population is higher in the United States than in any other country for which trustworthy statistics are available. Compared with the marriageable population, however, the rate is not so high as in Hungary.

Turning to the subject of divorce, the census office finds that the number in the twenty years from 1887 to 1906 was 228,738, as against 945,625 in the last twenty years. At the beginning of the forty-year period covered by the two investigations, divorces occurred at the rate of 18.000 a year; in 1906 the annual number was 90,000. From 1870 to 1900 the population increased 30 per cent, while the divorces granted increased 79 per cent. In the next decade, 1900 to 1910, the population increased 25 per cent and divorces 70 per cent, and in the following decade, 1910 to 1920, an increase of 21 per cent in population was accompanied by an increase of 66 per cent in the number of divorces.

The divorce rate per 100,000 population increased from 29 in 1870 to 52 in 1906. In the former year there were one divorce for every 3,441 persons, and in the latter year one for every 1,213. Since it is only married people who can become divorced, a more significant statistic is that which is based, not upon total population, but upon the total married population. The rate per 100,000 married population was 81 in the year 1870 and 200 in the year 1906. This comparison indicates that divorces in the present day and in our time are common, considered with married population, as it was forty years ago. A divorce rate of 200 per 100,000 married population is equivalent to 2 per 1,000 married population. Assuming that 1,000 married people represent 500 married couples, it follows that in each year 4 married couples out of every 1,000 secure a divorce. This does not mean that only 4 marriages out of 1,000 are terminated by divorce. The rate is an annual rate, continuingly operative, and comes far short of measuring the probability of ultimate divorce. The available data indicate, however, that not less than 11 marriages in 12 is ultimately terminated by divorce.

DO YOUR SHOPPING NOW.

It will be greatly to your advantage, as well as to the accommodation of the local merchants, for you to do your Christmas shopping now. At present the stocks are full and complete, the goods have not been culled, and there is no lack of customers to interfere with you in finding what you want. If you attend to it now, you can take your time to it, can have the cream of all the stocks to select from, and get what you want, but, if you wait till the last hour, as many do, you will find the best of everything gone, and you will have to take not what you want, but what you can get.

TIME TO INTERFERE.

It is the general impression throughout the country that the time has come for the United States to interfere and put an end to the condition of anarchy now prevailing in Hayti. From all appearances this will have to be done sooner or later, and the sooner we attend to it the better. We would not have France assume to be his brother's keeper, but the position in which circumstances have placed him makes it incumbent upon him to do so as a collection among our little neighbors when they are rent by anarchy which their local authorities are unable to control. It is a duty he owes to civilization, and he can not avoid it.

WHERE IT CAME FROM.

It may be of some interest to look up the origin of the word "almshouse" as it was 100 years ago. A month of the time when it will be necessary to hang on a new one. The following information on this point, we are indebted to the Montreal Standard:

"The origin of the word 'almshouse' is derived from the Arabic words alim, which means to feed, and thus apply to the management of alms. Almshouses in which they were employed by the Alexandrian Greeks, but it is uncertain when they were in-

ALL OVER THE WORLD.

For some years past it has been customary for Americans in England to observe Thanksgiving day after the custom at home, but the practice has been such progress of late that the date of the festival is now being observed in a large number of people who are apt to put unwavering belief in the scriptural remarks of Zedekiel and Old Moses.

A MISAPREHENSION.

Our correspondent who signs himself "An Anxious Inquirer" is laboring under a misapprehension. The archaeological society does not ask for the new capitol building, nor the plaza, it only wants the "old palace," and such additions thereto as it may order the territory to build from time to time, and five thousand dollars a year from this date till Gabriel blows his trumpet, which may possibly be quite a while.

A SUPREMACY EFFORT.

A supreme effort is being made in England to popularize cremation, and crematories are to be scattered all over the country. In London and in some of the big provincial towns the overcrowding of cemeteries is nothing less than a great public scandal. When it is considered that about seventy-two thousand persons die in London every year, or two hundred a day, it is really almost incredible that people will go on adding the ground around the city in which they live with a ring of decomposing matter.

REPUBLICAN CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Men to Head Young Men's Organization for Next Year Selected at Last Night's Meeting.

At a well attended meeting of the Young Men's Republican club, held in their club rooms on West Silver avenue last night, the following officers were unanimously elected to head the organization for the year 1909:

C. O. Cushman, president; D. M. Ferguson, first vice president; John Wilson, second vice president; J. B. Brown, secretary; D. H. Boatright, treasurer; John Bonville, patriotic instructor. The following gentlemen were elected to serve upon a permanent executive committee: H. W. Hopkins, Dr. J. W. Elder, R. J. Jacobson, P. McCallum, E. Kates, R. Spitz, A. E. Walker, John M. White, Ed. L. Medler.

The Cushman committee reported to the meeting that there were plenty of funds in the treasury to lease club rooms, purchase furniture, and club conveniences for them, and still have money left for their maintenance. The committee reported that it had been conducting negotiations for the leasing of permanent club rooms and a meeting place in the Luna-Strickler building, but that the negotiations had not yet been completed. It is believed, however, that the rooms in this building will be secured and the work of furnishing them in style will be commenced soon. For the present the organization will maintain a suite of offices in the Luna-Strickler building, and the business of the club will be conducted from there. The rooms on West Silver avenue, which have been occupied by the club for some time have been given up, and the furniture stored away until needed in the new club rooms.

Case of John Hart Versus Citizen Publishing Company Drags on Before District Court; Lengthy Arguments by Counsel Yesterday.

The case of John Hart versus the Citizen Publishing company, in which the plaintiff asks damages to the amount of ten thousand dollars and costs of the suit, on account of losses alleged to have been sustained by reason of the publication by the Evening Citizen on August 23, 1906, of an alleged libelous article, was still before the court at 2 o'clock last evening when an adjournment was taken until 9 o'clock this morning.

ATHLETIC SMOKER BIG SUCCESS

Excellent Program of Boxing, Wrestling, Fencing and Other Stunts Pulled Off by Albuquerque Association in Armory Last Night.

"The cleanest and cleverest program of athletic stunts witnessed in Albuquerque in a long time," was the unanimous verdict of those who attended the smoker given by the Albuquerque Athletic Association in the armory last evening. The program was varied enough to suit the tastes of a large number of people, and, judging from the hearty applause accorded the performers, it was just what was wanted.

The first stunt was a marvelous exhibition of strength, given by Simon Deschler, a well known blacksmith of the city. Mr. Deschler performed seemingly impossible feats of strength with ease and grace. He lifted a pair of immense wagon wheels, attached to a heavy axle, as high as his head, and twisted them around as if they were the wheels of a bicycle. A number of clever parallel bar stunts were also included in Mr. Deschler's performance.

Professor Kennedy, instructor at the armory, gave a fine exhibition of bag punching. David Lane and Clarence Davidson, two members of company C, gave a decidedly clever fencing exhibition. Both young men handled the sabers with ease and the match was very interesting.

The "Creole Kid," of Albuquerque, and Kid Davis, of Oklahoma City, fought six rounds to a draw. The fight was very close and the referee was through. The Creole Kid was not in as good condition as he might have been, while Davis was in the pink of condition and forced the fighting all the time. He had the Creole Kid going south several times, but evidently did not care to follow up his advantage and put his opponent to sleep.

Kid Gillette and Roy Taylor, two local wrestlers, pulled off a fine exhibition of wrestling. Taylor finally succeeded in putting Gillette on the ground, but it took him twelve minutes to do so. Both lads wrestled with much science and demonstrated the various uses of the half Nelson and hammer lock holds, to the admiration of the audience. Gillette was the lighter of the two, but made up in wariness and stamina what he lacked in weight. His opponent, however, was the more experienced and succeeded several times in breaking safe holds, finally throwing him.

Kid Lavigne, a local boxer, and Professor Kennedy, the athletic instructor of the club, fought six rounds of the club. Kennedy handled him as always with ready for more. The referee finally called the fight off at the end of the fourth round. Lavigne being at the end of his rope, and could have been unable to stand up for another round. Kennedy proved himself to be a master of the art of boxing and played with his opponent and could have had him away at almost any stage of the four rounds.

At the conclusion of the smoker Major Ruppe, of the armory board, announced that if the athletically inclined men of the city were satisfied with the evening's performance, and would care to have a similar event in the near future, he would be willing to do all he could to arrange for another smoker, saying that he had plenty of talent which he could line up at any time. The only assistance that he asked was that a sufficient number of men be induced to join the club to justify holding the affair.

In spite of several counter attractions last night, there was a large crowd present at the armory. Only members of the national guard or of the athletic association were admitted. This rule will be enforced in the future and those who desire to attend the smoker must provide themselves beforehand with membership tickets in the club, which may be secured from Mr. Ruppe.

The next big event in army circles is the dedication of the new armory, which will take place December 3. Governor George Curry and a number of territorial and national guard officials will be in the city and assist in the dedication exercises, which will commence at 8 o'clock in the armory building. Following the dedication, a big military hop will be held. Music for the dance will be furnished by an orchestra of ten pieces. Preparations have been going on for the event for some time, and it is expected that a large crowd will attend. Tickets are Delicious Doughnuts.

If you like crisp, flaky doughnuts, richly browned, and yet with not a suspicion of greasiness, try the following recipe by Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln:

Beat one cup sugar and two eggs very light, add one teaspoon melted lard, one cup sour milk, and one-fourth level teaspoon each of cinnamon and salt. Mix one-half level teaspoon soda with one scant teaspoon of baking powder with one cup flour, stir it in and add more flour till stiff enough to roll out. Have as soft as possible to roll, one-third inch thick. Cut into rings and cook in hot, deep lard. The fat should be hot enough for the dough to rise to the top immediately.

Doughnuts fried in lard lie like lead on the stomach; lard is indigestible. Coffee, on the contrary, makes food that even an infant can digest with ease.

CHIEF OF POLICE OF SAN FRANCISCO DROWNED

Officer Who Was Figured Largely in Graft Prosecution Disappears from Launch While Crossing Bay.

(By Morning Journal Special Lead Wire)

San Francisco, Nov. 30.—William J. Biggy, chief of police of this city, was drowned late tonight while returning across the bay in the police launch Patrol. Chief Biggy had been at Voltaire, a suburb, to call on Police Commissioner Kelly, who resides there. He boarded the launch to return to the city about 10 o'clock and when the boat was out on the bay complained of feeling cold to Engineer Murphy, the only other occupant of the launch. Murphy advised Biggy to go to the cabin at the stern of the boat.

Murphy then went forward to attend to his engine and did not see the chief again. He came on deck as the boat neared the city and noticed that the chief had disappeared. A search of the boat failed to locate him.

Mr. Murphy made all haste to the dock where he reported the accident and went out into the bay again to search for the missing officer. Numerous boats were hurried to the scene and a careful search for the body began.

Ever since the suicide of Morris Haas, the man who attempted to kill Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, and later took his own life at the county jail the relations between Chief Biggy and the graft prosecution have been strained to the breaking point. Charges and counter charges have been filed by the parties to the controversy in the attempt to fix the blame for the fact that Haas had secured a pistol while in jail. Charges of incompetence and dereliction of duty have been filed against the chief and in return he filed similar charges against Captain of Police Burke, who searched Haas in the court room, and Captain of Detectives Thomas, who was in charge of Haas at the jail.

William J. Biggy was appointed chief of police by Mayor Taylor after the latter had been placed in office following the removal of Mayor E. E. Schmitt. Biggy succeeded Jeremiah Dinan, formerly a detective sergeant. When Abe Ruef was arrested the prosecution asked that Biggy be appointed chief and he given custody of the prisoner. For eight months he held this position and at the expiration of that time was appointed chief of police in September, 1907.

THE BAZAAR PROVES ENTERTAINING

Musical Program at Novel Affair Given by Ladies of W. C. T. U. of Unusual Excellence Last Evening.

The bazaar and entertainment given by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon and evening at the Presbyterian church was a novel and very successful affair and well attended.

The exhibit of ironing, washing, mending and cooking "in process" made a great hit. The musical program was the feature of the evening, such well known singers as Misses Bluecher, Neher, Cartwright and Hughes participating, while the work of the young ladies' quartet was especially pleasing. The violin solos by Master Bruce Ramsey, aged thirteen, and Miss Lorna Lester, aged eight, were delightful and received great credit on their instructor, Miss Estelle Valok. Enjoyable recitations were given by Mrs. Bonadum and Miss Davis and Mr. Green rendered a piano solo.

WORK ON FEDERAL BUILDING WILL BE RESUMED SOON

Mr. W. Roberts, federal building inspector, returned to the city yesterday morning from Fort Bayard, where he has been for the past few days attending to business connected with the letting of bids for some government work. Mr. Roberts received official notice yesterday to the effect that all plans and specifications for the Albuquerque federal building have been approved by the chief architect in Washington, and that orders to proceed with the actual construction of the building will be received within a few days at the most.

Contractor A. W. Allen, who has the contract for the construction of the building, yesterday placed a force of workmen on the site and commenced the work of getting everything in readiness to proceed with construction work as soon as the orders are received from Washington.

The news that the work on the building is to be resumed will be well received in Albuquerque. The original plans for the building called for a two-story and basement building. The foundation had been almost completed when a halt on the work was called on account of suggestions made to the federal authorities in Washington that the building as planned would be inadequate for the needs of Albuquerque. An additional appropriation of $10,000 to be used in making the building a three-story and basement structure, was made by congress. This change necessitated a number of alterations in the original plans, and several months have elapsed since the time the building was first started. Everything in connection with the building, however, has now been arranged to the satisfaction of both the federal authorities and the contractor and the work will be resumed this week and rushed to completion.

EXTRAORDINARY NOTICE

OWING to unforeseen circumstances having arisen, the Big Closing Out Sale at the Lion Store, which ran from October 19th to November 21st, and which was advertised to close on the latter date, will be continued through the month of December, until January 1st, 1909. At the closing of my store on the evening of November 21st, it was my full and firm belief that I had ended the last day of my mercantile business in that place, but owing to later and unforeseen complications, which were entirely unavoidable on my part, it has become necessary to continue the sale as has been already announced. To say that I regret the affair is putting it mildly as it will interfere seriously with prearranged plans for the disposition of my time

Wednesday Morning, Dec. 3rd, '08, the Lion Store Will Again be Open for Business

It might be well to state that, despite the heavy drain upon our stock during the month of the sale, we are not sold out by any means, but on the contrary are able to supply in fresh and unsoiled condition any article that has been sold heretofore. We invite a continuance of the liberal patronage that was bestowed upon us during the former sale

My Dear Friends:
I am back again to dear old Albuquerque. This year I have established my headquarters at Stronk's Book Store. It is next to the postoffice, which makes it very handy to mail my packages.

I have looked the town over and find no place so well adapted to my wants and purse. They have everything in Toys, Dolls, Games, Fine Xmas Stationery, Leather Sofa Pillows, Wall Hangers, Moccasins, Hand Bags, Pocketbooks, Calendars, Fountain Pens, Books of every description. In fact they have hundreds of hand-some things too numerous to mention that will suit to a dot. Then best of all, much of the stock was bought at a big discount and priced accordingly. This past year has been rather a dull one and I've got to make a dollar go as far as possible.

Two Troops of the Eighth Cavalry in City on Way to Fort Apache, Arizona, Last Night and Stragglers Keep Officers Busy.

Two troops of the Eighth Cavalry in charge of Major Allen were in the city on a special train last night en route from Yellowstone, Wyoming, to Fort Apache, Arizona, where they will be stationed. An Albuquerque was the last stopping place for "refreshments" the officers spent a strenuous hour last night and buglers did considerable trumpeting to gather in the stragglers who scattered thriftily over town in a jiffy and were slow about turning up. An officer of the regiment said that two troops of the Third Cavalry are coming from Fort Sam Houston, Texas, to take the place of the Fifth Cavalry troops at Fort Whigham, N. M.

Richard Jones played a fairly large part in the Elks' ball room last night with his singing of a long list of favorite ballads, the kind of songs which, for the most part, will always be popular when well sung. Jones' voice is a musical marvel in its range and his high notes are particularly sweet. He found especial favor with the audience in his singing of "Dolly Gray," "Dear Old Girl" and other songs equally well known and tuneful.

The supporting company, presenting a roving farce, "Don't Tell My Wife," gives a very satisfactory evening's entertainment, aside from Mr. Jones' singing between the acts.

BIG PAPERS WOULDCHANGE OUR NAME

Prospect of Immediate Admission of New Mexico Brings Forth Plea That New State Be Named Lincoln.

After leaving New Mexico to fight her own battles for a trifling little matter of fifty years, some of the big newspapers of the middle states and the east, now that there is a fair prospect for immediate admission, propose to supply the new state with a name, holding that New Mexico will not do.

The Chicago Tribune recently carried an article advocating editorially that the new state be named "Lincoln." This editorial has been widely copied throughout the east and has inspired a number of other editorial suggestions to the same end. The Tribune editorial follows:

The suggestion for appropriate memorials to Abraham Lincoln in connection with his centenary are many. One correspondent contends that a state should be named for him. President Roosevelt has expressed the hope that he may be given the privilege of signing bills for the admission to separate statehood of New Mexico and Arizona. The words "New Mexico" mean nothing. They recall a chapter of history not pleasant to most citizens. Their abandonment for the name Lincoln would cause no regret to the people of the territory. The suggestion is a good one. It ought to be followed up.

Our states are named after English and French rulers, after favored lords, after famous explorers, after Indian words, often full of meaning, after features of the landscape. In one instance only has an American statesman been honored in this way. With the admission of Arizona and New Mexico the continental territories will come to exist, save distant Alaska, other states may be formed from Texas. Movements for division elsewhere have been favored in the past and may be noted in the future. But if any one is to share with Washington the glory of having a state named for him, Lincoln is undoubtedly the one to choose. It would be a happy situation if the honor could be given his name in the year of his birth's centenary.
