PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS TAKING HAND IN EFFORT TO SETTLE TROUBLE ON

Southern Pacific---The Incomes of 225,000 Are Involved in the Settlement of the Question.

JUDGE GAYNOR DELIVERS ABLE ADDRESS ON RAILWAY

Strike of Railway Clerks Has Been Declared off by Grand Chief Wilbur Braggins of the Brotherhood.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt took a hand yesterday in the grave labor situation, threatening the strike of the firemen on the Southern Pacific, and caused a conference to be held at the Palmer house last night with the result that the controversy is in a fair way of being settled.

The meeting was held in the rooms of the Interstate Commerce commissioners W. A. Knapp and E. E. Clarke, who arrived from New York in the morning, and immediately set to work to bring the warring chiefs of the railway brotherhoods together. Announcement was made today by Knapp that prospects are bright for peace. He said that Chief Hannahan of the firemen and Stone of the engineers, are practically agreed on a basis of settlement, under which the strikers on the Southern Pacific will go back to work tonight and tomorrow.

The details of the settlement, he said, would be worked out today. Clarke, it is reported, was encouraged by President Roosevelt over a long distance telephone before leaving New York. He carried with him the president's wishes that everything should be done to patch up a truce between the engineers and firemen and that they should be allowed to settle their general disturbance on railroads, of immense consequence to commerce.

Clarke is also said to be in communication with Dr. Charles V. Neill of the labor bureau who is in Texas, endeavoring to arrange for a settlement in accordance with the president's plan. With the arrival of the fireman and the trainmen, already engaged in the negotiations, one of the greatest conferences ever held will be opened, and the incomes of about 225,000 men for the next year may be affected by the outcome.

RAILROADS ARE PUBLIC HIGHWAYS SAYS GAYNOR

New York, Jan. 7.—Taking as his subject: "Are Our Railroads Public Highways or Private Roads?" Judge Wm. J. Gaynor addressed the "Forum" last night. He took the position that all railroads are public highways, controlled in fact by the national government and by the states through which they run. At considerable length he discussed the legal aspect of the case between the people and the railroads. He said that while personally he objected to government ownership of railroads, he was convinced that as the last resort the people of this country would compel the government to own the railroads unless the abuses, which in his opinion, now existed, could be prevented. As a remedy he suggested that the government appoint a general freight agent for each railroad. In conclusion he spoke of the low rates given freight coming from foreign countries, to offset the protective tariff duties. These rates are some times as low as one-sixth of the rates given domestic goods.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE GIVES NIGHT TO SUBJECT

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Because of the conference with the representatives of various branches of the railroad employees, which continued through the greater part of the night, the members of the Interstate Commerce commission were late today beginning business. Harriman matters are not to be taken up before tomorrow. The charges made for switching livestock cars. Chicago stock yards was the first matter to be considered today.

Left to Referendum Vote.

Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce commission, announced today that it had been decided that the question of the strike on the part of the Southern Pacific firemen should be left to a referendum vote of the men on the road. Chairman Knapp declared that in his opinion there would be no strike.

UNITED STATES 1905

COAL PRODUCTION.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Compend statistics now show that the coal production of the United States reaches over 300,000,000 tons for 1905. The value is estimated at $476,765,964. Of this total the output of anthracite coal amounted to 77,659,850, or six per cent of an increase over the preceding year. The output of bituminous coal for the same period amounted to 222,315,250 valued at $395,106,114. The increase in the production of bituminous coal in 1905 over 1904 was therefore 36,599,802 tons in quantity, and $294,902 in value. This is the fourth time that the United States coal output reached 200,000,000 tons.

JAPAN HAS A TRAINED ARMY IN THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Honolulu, Jan. 7.—More than half the population of Hawaii is Japanese, and the little brown men are coming by every steamer from the Orient.

They came originally as laborers for the sugar plantations. But now they are invading every occupation and calling. They already monopolize several of the smaller lines of retail trade. Quarrying and stone cutting, which was formerly done by the Portuguese, is now almost entirely in their hands.

They have brought their militant spirit with them. When it became known that a United States army officer stationed here had reported to the war department that there were two regiments of Japanese fully organized and equipped, from colonels down, the members pursuing various callings and occupations, but ready instantly to respond to duty at the mikado's call, it was thoroughly believed by the people here, although officially denied in Washington, that such a report had been made.

There is practically a standing army of Japs in Hawaii.

Military organizations of young Japanese have been formed openly all over the islands. These drill publicly. On Japanese holidays, such as the emperor's birthday, they take part in processions and public gatherings of Japanese.

On the last emperor's birthday several companies of them took part in elaborate maneuvers in Kapiolani Park at the foot of Diamond Head, about three miles from the business center of Honolulu.

Among the Japanese in the islands are many veterans of the war with China and the war with Russia. They wear their war medals as proudly as veterans of our Civil war wear their G. A. R. badges. That the military spirit is strong in the Japanese is shown in many ways. For instance, it is almost universal among children; little boys especially, that when dressed up they shall wear a military cap of some kind.

Hawaii's population is probably 160,000. Of this number, nearly one-half—fully 70,000—are Japanese. The remainder is composed of native Hawaiians, part Hawaiians, Chinese, Porto Ricans, Negroes, a few Filipinos recently brought here, Portuguese, and 10,000 to 12,000 Americans, Germans, British, Norwegians and representatives of other European countries.

The Japanese have been coming here steadily for fifteen years. Sometimes they have come at the rate of only 200 and 300 a month. At present they are coming at the rate of about 2,000 a month.

Hawaii would have been absolutely overrun with Japanese long ago had it not been that at times they have left for the Pacific coast almost as fast as they arrived here. But the number here has kept steadily increasing. It is a genuine invasion.

IF BACA WASN'T DRUNK WHAT WAS HE?

CIRCUMSTANCES OF TELEPHONE SMASHING AT SAN ANTONIO ARE AS THEY WERE PUBLISHED.

"The effort to injure Baca is a plain case of dirty work" is the way the Morning Journal puts it this morning, in a fake dispatch, in an effort to make capital of the smashing of a telephone box at San Antonio by Lieut. Cipriano Baca, of the territorial police.

The Evening Citizen called up San Antonio this morning by long distance telephone to verify the facts published Saturday. The facts are as they were published. Baca was in John Banch's saloon and smashed a harmless telephone receiver because someone that he called up refused to talk to him. Baca had been drinking, and if he wasn't drunk he was feigning drunk. It is also said that he asked Ben Williams to see the newspapers and see if he couldn't head the story off. The Morning Journal must have been seen.

If Baca wasn't drunk when he smashed the telephone, he certainly must be non compos mentis when he's sober.

FORGED ORDER SAVES THE LIFE OF SIX TERRORISTS

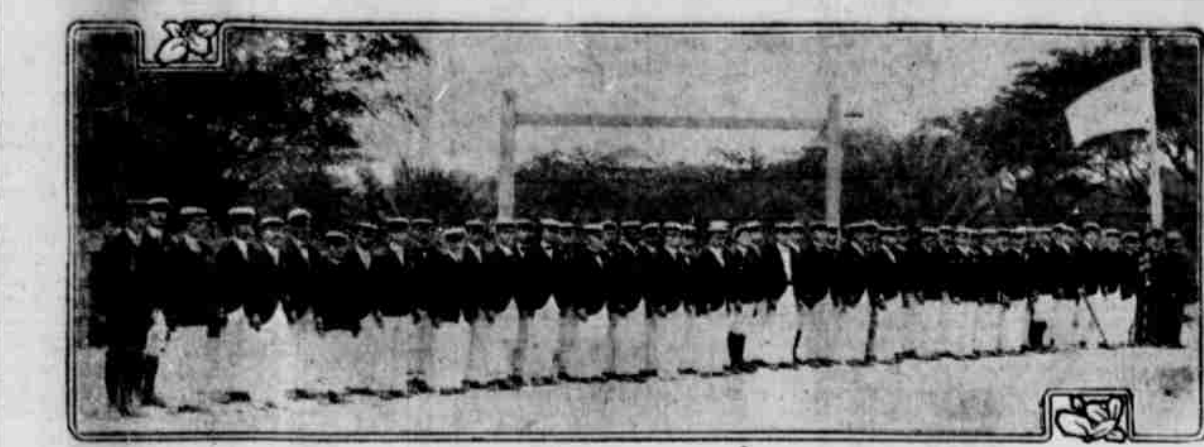

Odessa, Jan. 7.—Six terrorists have been saved from execution by the revolutionists, who utilized an official cipher to hoodwink the governor general. While the terrorists were waiting for the execution, Mayor Reynolds received a cipher from St. Petersburg, apparently bearing the signature of General Pavlov, military procurator, commuting the sentences to life imprisonment. It has been learned that the order was a forgery.

ALFREDO SALAZAR GOES TO THE PEN

Young Man to Serve Year Suspended Sentence Which Becomes Operative.

Alfredo Salazar, son of Mrs. Placido Salazar, of Borealis, was taken to the territorial penitentiary this morning by Sheriff Armijo where he will serve the one year of suspended sentence Judge Abbott gave him for forgery about two years ago. At that time Salazar was tried and convicted of forging a pay check at the Santa Fe shops. Judge Abbott gave him a year in the penitentiary but suspended sentence pending his good behavior. Salazar has been active with his pen again lately and succeeded in getting himself into custody so his suspended sentence became operative. Judge Abbott ordered him taken to the penitentiary late Saturday afternoon.

Salazar is 23 years old and of good appearance. He comes of good family. His mother has come to his assistance several times when he was arrested for wrongdoing. It was through her pleadings with the court that her son's sentence was suspended when he was convicted of the forgery charge.

Sheriff Alcarlo Montoya arrested Salazar here on December 6 last. He had been indicted by the McKinley county grand jury for forgery and the warrant was placed in the hands of the Valencia county sheriff. He was brought to Albuquerque and lodged in the Bernalillo county jail.

Salazar is also "wanted" in Gallup where he is alleged to have forged a check on the firm of Clark M. Carr. The young man also has a local reputation that is decidedly unsavory. He has been kept out of trouble for wrong doing several times in the past by his widowed mother.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN AT MATTHEW'S DAIRY

Fire of an unknown origin destroyed two cow barns and several other outbuildings at the Matthew's dairy Sunday night. One horse was burned to death, but the cattle were loose in the pens and escaped.

"The damage will amount to about $2,000," said L. R. Thompson, the proprietor of the place, yesterday. "The origin is a mystery. There had been no fire or lanterns about the place for twelve hours, and the employees are not allowed to smoke about the buildings. In my opinion it was started by some wandering tramp, who took refuge in one of the buildings from the cold, and possibly dropped a cigarette, or else it was the work of incendiaries. I am prone to believe the first theory."

The light from the blaze could easily be seen from the city. As none of the dairy cows were burned, customers of the dairy will receive their milk as usual. The dairyman says that the burned buildings will be rebuilt immediately.

The buildings burned had just recently been erected and were across the road from the old buildings, which have been a landmark in the neighborhood of the Indian school for many years.

TO CONSTRUCT GIANT DAM FOR NEW JERSEY

Patterson, Jan. 7.—The Passaic river flood district commission are taking steps to construct an immense dam across the Pompton river at Mountain View to flood the Pompton basin. The work will cost nearly $4,000,000 but the commission in seeking power for the construction of the dam explained that the floods in the Passaic valley in 1902 and 1903 cost $10,000,000 so the dam is to be built for the prevention of further floods. Water can also be furnished to several municipalities at a very low price.

CASE OF MYERS WOMAN TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

New York, Jan. 7.—Attorney general Jackson today entered suit in the supreme court against Geo. B. McClellan, praying that the latter be ousted from the office of mayor on the ground that he has usurped his office, whereas Wm. R. Hearst is legally entitled to the same. This new proceeding has nothing to do with the quo warranto action which last week was temporarily enjoined at the application of Mayor McClellan.

CASE OF AGGY MYERS GOES TO SUPREME COURT

Kansas City, Jan. 7.—Judge John F. Phillips, in the United States supreme court here this morning, allowed an appeal to a United States supreme court from a decision rendered last week, when he denied the petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Mrs. Aggy Myers. ### COUNTY COURTS CAN NOT HANDLE FRANCHISES

Denver, Jan. 7.—The state supreme court today handed down a decision denying the right of any county court to try cases in which the validity of franchises is contested. Ordway, who had been fined for contempt by Judge Lindsey, for refusing to testify in the case in Lindsey's court, attacking the validity of the franchise of the gas company and the tramway company. The decision of the supreme court was unanimous.

SANTA FE HAS ANOTHER LUCKY WRECK

Eleven Cars Leave Track at Bluewater---Makes Total of Three For 36 Hours.

Three rather bad but lucky wrecks were the result of the Winslow division of the Santa Fe during the thirty-six hours ending Saturday night. They were bad wrecks from a point of view of destruction of property and loss of time to the railroad, where time is money, and lucky because they insured no loss of life.

The debris of the No. 1 wreck of Thursday evening at Gonzales had hardly been cleared away, when train No. 8 jumped the track three miles west of Bluewater, within twenty miles of the former wreck. The first wreck was a collision, and the result of a misinterpretation of orders. The second wreck was a derailment, the cause of which is a mystery.

Passenger train No. 2 figured in the third wreck, which occurred in the Gallup yards Thursday night. The front trucks of the mail car jumped the track, causing very little damage but a big loss of time.

In the wreck of passenger train No. 8 eleven cars left the track, including the private car of Mr. Gaunt, superintendent of telegraph for the Santa Fe. The place was a down grade and the train was making schedule time. The engine and one empty baggage car remained on the track. The first car to leave the rails was the combination express and baggage car, and the shock was so violent that Express Messenger J. C. Crow was thrown on his head in the corner of the car beneath a pile of turntable trunks and express packages. His injuries, however, amount to only a scalp wound and a few bruises about the hips. Mr. Crow lives in Los Angeles, and refusing to go to a local hospital, is now on his way home on train No. 1, which left here last night.

The wreck occurred about 6 o'clock in the evening, but owing to one of the derailed cars striking a telegraph pole and tearing down all the lines, news of it did not reach here until a man walked to Bluewater, the nearest telegraph station. The first train to reach here from the wreck was the baggage car that remained on the track, and a light engine. In the car were Messenger Crow, Railway Postal Clerk W. W. Perkins, of North Platte, Neb., and M. W. Spencer, of 422 North Sixth street, and several passengers. Perkins and Spencer were both slightly injured, the former being bruised and the latter having a broken rib. This stub train arrived here at 10:20 o'clock.

Superintendent Glibson and Conductor Jesse Miller made a personal inspection of the track where the wreck occurred, but were unable to reach any conclusion as to the cause. The track seemed in perfect condition. Something must have fallen from beneath one of the cars directly on the rail, thus causing the derailment.

The first train to pass the Bluewater wreck was No. 4 of Saturday night, which arrived here at 8 o'clock last night, just twenty hours late. Local officials think that traffic will be restored to its normal state by this evening, unless some unforeseen impediment should interfere.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS

Observing the Fiftieth Anniversary of Its Birth Today at Washington.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—The American Institute of Architects is observing the fiftieth anniversary of its birth in the Octagon house here today. Invitations were extended to kindred societies of art, archaeology and science with the result that over 1,000 delegates from all states in the union are in attendance. The old Octagon house, the headquarters of the institute where the convention is being held was designed and built in 1798 by Dr. William Thornton, the architect of the national capitol, and was occupied as the executive mansion for some time by President John Adams. Frank Miles Day, the president of the institute, delivered the annual address and pointed out that this was the only representative national society of architects in the United States, its membership being between 800 and 1,000. The institute has accomplished much for the good of art as the Tarnsey act, under which many government buildings are now under course of construction, was enacted through its efforts. It initiated the movement for systematic improvement of cities in this country and secured the appointment of a park commission to report on the development of Washington. Through its efforts the remodeling of the white house and the extension of the capitol on lines which would have destroyed their beauty were prevented, it having been the intention of the authorities to improperly locate the agricultural building. The institute aided materially in the establishment of the American academy at Rome, a post-graduate school in architecture, painting, sculpture, and music and in other branches has always helped with a willing hand. The principal guest at today's proceedings was Sir William Aston Webb. There will be a reception in his honor in the Corcoran art gallery tomorrow night when he will be presented with the first gold medal issued by the American Institute of Architects, for distinguished services to architecture. Sir Aston Webb is the foremost member of the profession in England and one of the most eminent of living architects. He is a member of the Royal academy, professor of architecture in London university, chairman of the board of architectural education in London and has erected more important public buildings than any other man in Europe. He designed the national memorial to Queen Victoria and Albert museum, the Royal college of science, the new Admiralty, the new war office building, the Imperial institute in London, and other conspicuous works. He has built many churches also and has restored many old and historic ones, among them that of St. Bartholomew the Great, in Smithfield, London. He came to America especially to attend the meeting of the institute and met with a great ovation. A bronze tablet to the fifty architects who founded the society in 1857 will be unveiled in the Octagon house after the annual banquet. Two of the original founders of the institute still remain after fifty years of professional life, viz. Leopold Eidlitz, of New York, and Charles Babcock, emeritus professor Cornell university. Both are present today.

Two Leading Families of That

MARRIAGES IN NEW YORK INDICATE GOOD TIMES

Indian Chief Secures Augmented
Popularity by His Engagement to Denver Heiress.

Atlanta: That this is a weird and pathetically tragic story that comes from the beautiful little Georgia town of La Grange. Within the sound of the laughter and song incident to the wedding of a sister, a bright and promising young Georgian, son of one of the oldest, proudest, and most aristocratic families in the south, is shot down for an offense personal in its nature, but seemingly inadequate for a just defense, by a grandson of the greatest Georgian who ever sat in the senate of the United States.

Briefly, the story is this: Young Hill, of Atlanta, grandson of the famous Senator Benjamin Hill, had been very attentive to the younger sister of Dr. Frank Ridley, of La Grange. For some reason the engagement of the young people was opposed by the Ridleys, young Hill being denied the house. At the wedding of another of Dr. Ridley's sisters, both Miss Ridley and Mr. Hill were present. Prone ever to laugh at locksmiths, love laughed as usual in this case, and young Miss Ridley and Hill engaged in conversation. After the ceremony, the bride and groom, Ridley and Hill, had some words on the veranda of the Ridley home. During the progress of the quarrel Ridley knocked Hill down. Hill arose, pulled his pistol and shot the doctor.

MARRIAGE INCREASE IS INDICATIVE OF PROSPERITY
New York: Dr. Darlington, health commissioner, has summoned up the year's marriages in the city. He said that the great increase in marriages and births in 1936, over 1935 and all other years caused him to believe that the people must have been prosperous in the past twelve months.

"People must have money before they decide to marry," said Dr. Darlington.
The number of marriages in Greater New York was 48,355, an increase of 5,700 over the year 1935. Three-fourths of these marriages, according to Dr. Darlington, were performed in Manhattan. The number of births reported in Greater New York was 114,772. It was the highest number of births ever reported to the health department.
"The increase in marriages and births," said Dr. Darlington, "shows a state of prosperity."

SANTA CLARA INDIANS ELECT A GOVERNOR.
Colorado Springs: Advice from the Santa Clara Indian pueblo, near Espanola, are to the effect that on last Thursday the braves of the tribe unanimously elected to justice Adolfo Chazaria governor of the pueblo.

Governor Chazaria has long been a leader among the Santa Clara Indians. A few months ago he achieved a large amount of publicity through his engagement to Miss Cora Arnold, a Denver heiress and owing to the many difficulties, which made their appearance, the two could not be married in the capital city. The wedding day of the Denver girl and her distinguished dusky lover had been set, and it was found that the Episcopal clergy of the church Miss Arnold belonged to would not perform the ceremony.

GIRL NIGHT OPERATOR PIEVENTS BAD WRECK.
Hutchinson, Kan. News: Hutchinson, night operator at Arlington, near here, prevented a wreck of two Rock Island freight trains on Thursday night. Through a confusion of orders a westbound freight cleared from Arlington just as an eastbound freight left there for two stations west. A moment later Miss Breckelridge was ordered to hold the westbound train. Langdon station, which was between the two trains, is not a night telegraph office.

After Miss Breckelridge had tried in vain to reach Langdon she resorted to the telephone and located John Spence, a farmer who lived near the railroad track. She told Spence the situation, begged him to get a lantern, wrap it with a red cloth and hurry to the track. He did so and arrived in time to flag the westbound train, with the second train only half a mile away.

INFORMATION IS NOT KIDNAPING, SAYS JUDGE.
Chicago: A man trapped into the commission of a crime cannot be punished under the Illinois law.
Equally it is impossible to punish one who steals "information."
Both rulings were made by Judge Crows in the criminal court.
Peabody, Houghton & Co., brokers, asked the imprisonment of John

Flynn, charged with the theft of a book containing the names of big investors.
The firm represented that they found Flynn, recently a clerk in their service, to be planning a change of employment, and suspected that he sought to take information to their rivals.
As a test they left the bond investors' book where he could find it. They say he took it. The firm places a value of several hundred thousand dollars on the volume.

It is expected that other German cruisers will visit the gulf ports in February and March and Baron Von Sternberg has notified the state department at Washington to this effect. The officers and crews of the Bremen and Panther will be hospitably entertained while here and in Tampa.

FARMERS TO FIGHT
WHEAT CORNERS.
Spokane, Wash., Jan. 7.—Farmers all over this state are forming branches of the United States Wheat Growers' association for the purpose of pooling interests and getting better prices for products. The main object of the association however, is to protect the members of the association from corners and combinations. In some parts of the state farmers still hold one-third of the 1936 grain crop as the present quotations do not go above 50 cents. The farmers as a rule are out of debt, and rather than sell at these prices they will hold the grain until next spring when big prices will rule.

It will be completed by the time the bank is ready to move into its new quarters on the site of the old custom house building in New York.

It was also decided to take steps to secure a site in Westminster for the monument.

CHURCH IS BURNED.

It was a historic pre-reformation relic, six miles north of here and was of unique construction. It had an outside stair leading to the loft and watch tower, in which guards were posted to watch over the dead in resurrection times.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Albuquerque Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

J. J. Young of Raton, N. M., passenger engineer between Las Vegas and Raton, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and was greatly pleased with the results I got from them. I had been having backache and twinges of pain in my back and also a slight urinary trouble, and when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box. They cured me of the trouble, and I can speak highly of them. I know of a great many other railroad men who have used your remedy with good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

GREATEST BOOK ON SINGLE METAL

Ever Published in Any Land
Is the Stevens Copper
Handbook.

The sixth annual edition of the Copper handbook, the only publication devoted exclusively to the copper industry, has been issued, being several months later than usual in appearance, owing to the sickness of the author, last spring, but matter of much later date has been used than in preceding issues, so that the book is as nearly up-to-date as its predecessor, and far more bulky and exhaustive in its treatment of the manifold phases of an industry that is world-wide in scope.

The Copper handbook is encyclopedic in scope, but is written throughout in plain language, easily understandable by those lacking a technical education. The work begins with a chapter on the history of copper, followed by articles on the geology, chemistry, mineralogy, metallurgy and uses of the metal, with eight chapters devoted to condensed descriptions of the known copper deposits of the globe. A glossary of mining terms will be found useful to all readers not thoroughly conversant with practical mining, milling and smelting. The statistics of the copper trade and of copper share finances are covered in forty pages of highly condensed and accurate tables.

The major portion of the book is devoted to a chapter describing practically all known copper mines in the world, and listing every copper mining company of importance. This chapter is arranged alphabetically, by titles, rendering it self-indexing, and saving more than 50 pages of double-column index that otherwise would be required to merely give the titles of the 4,626 mines and companies listed in the book, there being 777 more titles than in the preceding annual edition. The descriptions range in length from two lines, in the case of unimportant, old and idle properties to nearly 16 pages in the case of Calumet & Hecla, a mine that employs seven thousand men and will have paid one hundred million dollars in dividends by April next.

The detailed descriptions in the main chapter of the book are especially valuable because of their completeness, covering, as they do, exact titles, full addresses, details of organization, officers and finance. In addition to full and careful particulars regarding location, acre, reserves, mine development and prospects. Heretofore works of reference devoted to mines have confined themselves either to the copper industry or the mining end, but the Copper handbook covers all the features of interest to investors, miners or scientists; not of one mine or company, but of thousands; not in one district, but in every district of the world.

Investors possessing this book have at their command a fund of information that not only will enable them to form an intelligent opinion of the legitimate copper mining shares, but which will warn them against hundreds of the entirely too numerous chases of mining companies, formed solely to sell stock. The Copper handbook may be termed an investment insurance policy to the man who lacks the costly equipment for independent investigation that is maintained by those who have millions invested in mines.

The Copper handbook is the only publication in the mining field that gives ratings to the mines and companies, of which there are many. The good companies are commended and the fraudulent companies are denounced in plain language. The ratings on faith, but the facts on which such ratings are based are given in detail. The accuracy of the ratings is demonstrated by the fact that many of the hundred companies denominated as fraudulent, not one has been brought into court.

The publisher makes the unusual offer of sending this book, on a week's approval, fully prepaid, to any address in the world, without any advance payment. This offer has been made for six years past, and the publisher states that of the many thousands of books so sent out, less than three per cent have been returned as unsatisfactory, and less than three per cent of the books retained remain unpaid for, the percentage of loss, on this plan of unlimited credit, being less than the average allowed by most business houses maintaining credit bureaus, which speaks well for the inherent honesty of the average man, when put upon honor.

The Copper handbook, Vol. VI, for 1906, issued Oct. 15th, 1,116 pages, octavo, breviter type, $5 in buckram binding, with gilt top; $7.50 in full library morocco, full gilt; Horace J. Stevens, editor and publisher, 278 Postoffice block, Houghton, Michigan.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away. Albuquerque People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down, without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well.

Juan A. Ortega, ex-policeman of Loma street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "If all troubled with pain in the back have that annoyance ended as quickly as the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Ireland's Pharmacy, ended mine, then backache is to kidney complaint would cease to have any terrors for users of this strengthening and curative preparation. No one in Santa Fe need be in the least dubious about using Doan's Kidney Pills if they require a medicine to strengthen their kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PUSHING WORK ON DIVISION DAMS

Contractor Nelson Left El Paso so for Selden, N. M., With Laborers and Supplies.

Thirty laborers left El Paso Thursday night for Selden, N. M., where they will work on the division dam which is being installed by the government in the Rio Grande river at that place, says the El Paso News. They were accompanied by Contractor J. P. Nelson, who also made heavy purchases of supplies necessary in conducting the work.

"The work on the division dam means a big thing for El Paso," said Mr. Nelson at the Sheldon hotel, where he stops during his brief visits to the city. The majority of the laborers have been secured in this city and by January 15 will have a number of skilled mechanics at work on the dam.

Constructing Engineer E. M. Hall, who has charge of the district comprising New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma in the reclamation service, has offices in the Guaranty Trust building on San Antonio street and in speaking of the division dam and the six miles of canal which will be constructed by Contractor Nelson within the next four months, Mr. Hall said:

"Ten per cent of the construction work of the division dam has been completed, and Contractor Nelson is rapidly increasing the equipment, so that making rapid progress. He has 100 laborers at work, and between 65 and 70 teams."

"The machinery for the heavy work on the dam has been shipped, and the lumber and piling necessary will be on the ground within a few days," he is expected to complete work re-enforced with steel will start on the dam by February 1.

"The government diversion dam is being constructed at the estimated cost of $200,000, together with the six miles of canal which is a portion of the Rio Grande project of the reclamation service. "Water will be furnished the ranches adjacent to the diversion dam and canal at $40 the acre, this amount to be paid to the government in ten years without interest. The water necessary in irrigating the soil east of the dam will be furnished at the actual cost of keeping up the canals which will be about 25 or 30 cents the acre."

"In the government reclamation service there are some 300 engineers and assistants in the field in charge of the numerous projects which the government has for reclaiming the land which was for years a barren desert, and making it into productive ranches. The work projected has been divided into eight districts, each of which is assigned to a superintendent. The district in charge of each one of the districts, and the work is being pushed as rapidly as money is available for carrying on the work."

Mr. Hall is in charge of the district which embraces New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma, and expects to make El Paso his home for several years before the government completes its numerous Rio Grande projects in diversion dams and canals for furnishing a sufficient water supply for irrigation in the southwest.

The money expended by the reclamation service is being returned to this fund by the government from the sale of acreage in large tracts.

Territorial Topics

PTOMAIN POISONING

KILL TWO GIRLS
Two little girls, children of A. M. Hove, secretary of the Pecos Water Users' association at Carlsbad, died Saturday morning from ptomaine poisoning. The whole family were poisoned several days ago. Mr. and Mrs. Hove were lost from poison and the shock. Hove is an ex-newspaper man.

SOUTHERN NEW MEXICO

CATTLEMEN WANT GOOD PRICES
The cattlemen of southern New Mexico it is understood, will have a large number of one, two and three-year-olds for sale in the spring. The cowmen of that part of the territory will undoubtedly hold out for an advance of $1 per head over last year's prices, which will be $14 for ones; $17 for twos and $20 for three-year-olds.

INDIAN SCHOOLS UNDER

SUPERINTENDENT CRANDALL
The following is the monthly attendance for December at the various Indian schools under the supervision of Superintendent Crandall: U. S. ### WATKINS NOW IN

BUSINESS IN TORREON
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Watkins and their son, Lewis, who for many years were residents of Gallup, and who are well known in Albuquerque, are now located in Torreon, Mexico, where Mr. Watkins is in business. Judging from papers sent from Torreon, that city is becoming very important, now having a population of over 40,000 people. There are many Americans in business in the city and a paper in English is printed there. Mines and ranches are the source of the city's revenue.

NEWSPAPER WRITER MAKES

ANOTHER SNARK.

A telegram conveying this message was received from George A. Sheets, chief of police at Salt Lake City, this afternoon by Attorney R. H. Hanna, says the New Mexican.

Doubtless learning that the authorities were hot on his trail and had located him in Salt Lake City, E. H. Snedeker, who is wanted in this city and at Estancia for uttering checks drawn on a bank in which he had no funds, skipped out by the light of the moon. Whether he left a trail of worthless checks there is not known.

ROSWELL INSTITUTE FOR

TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS.
The annex to St. Mary's hospital at Roswell, has been completed and is now open to persons afflicted with tuberculosis, for which special purpose it was built. It is a frame building so constructed as to give a row of rooms, each having a front door and porch and well ventilated and lighted. Electric lights, steam heat, bath and toilet, hot and cold water and an electric bell system, are all complete equipment. There are ten rooms for patients, one for the sisters and one in the kitchen, making twelve in all.

LEG RUN OVER BY

WAGON WHEEL FRACTURED
The other day Claude Rawson, son of the real estate man, while riding on the brake of a wagon loaded with wood, slipped and fell underneath the same, the wheel passing over his leg, says the Estancia News. The bone was broken just below the knee. He was a very little fellow and tried to walk home, but soon found out he could not. While Dr. Norris was reducing the fracture he talked merrily with those around him and only once showed any sign of a whimper. This is pretty good for a youngster not yet in his teens. At last report he is doing nicely.

ARIZONA WILD CAT

ATTACKS A WOMAN.
At sunset the other day a large wildcat emerged from the forest at Pine, Arizona, in search of prey about the barnyard of a resident on the outskirts of that town. The housewife, Mrs. Belle Pomeroy, sought to scare the varmint from the place and protect her children who were being chased by it, whereupon the cat made for her, and having cut her off from the house chased her into town where she ran screaming for help. Will Fuller, her brother, got to the woman before the cat had overtaken her. The cat sprang at him, but with rocks and heavy kicks he defended himself, and finally succeeded in killing it. There have been other instances of the wildcat attacking people in that vicinity lately.

ROOSEVELT DAM WORK

SUSPENDED UNTIL SPRING.
Word was received from Roosevelt, Arizona, that the work of building the big dam has been suspended until spring on account of damage done by rain and snow. Salt river at Roosevelt is not very high, but it has again succeeded in washing out the cofferdam and in delaying work indefinitely.

The cofferdam was washed out by the flood several weeks ago and it had been scarcely repaired when the rain of December 21 washed it out again. The contractors have decided to suspend further operations until spring and over half of the men who have been employed on the project have left Roosevelt. It snowed all day Monday and a heavy fall covers the mountains down as far as the dam.

ATTEMPT TO GRAB

UP A CITY PARK
There is about to begin in Carlsbad a legal battle over the possession of several of the designated city parks. During the beginning of Carlsbad's career there were four areas or blocks set apart and deeded to the town government as city parks. Two of these areas have been occupied as such or given over to public use such as schools, etc.

But with the passing out of existence of one of the old companies that was then doing business at Carlsbad, there seems to have arisen a misunderstanding regarding the legal status and as the property adjoining one of the parks has been conveyed to a firm of real estate men representing the old trust company, were about to

ADULTERATED FOOD TRUST THROWS BRICKS AT HIM

BECAUSE HE URGED PURE FOOD LEGISLATION, DR. H. WILEY, CHIEF OF THE BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY, IS A MUCH ABUSED MAN.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—In the government service for twenty-four years and never promoted or demoted. That is the remarkable record of Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture. Dr. Wiley is a bachelor or this probably never would have occurred. A wife would have insisted that he resign or go higher.

Dr. Wiley is wedded to his work. He gives it his time, energy and affections. Evenings, when other men are at home playing with their children or getting acquainted with their wives, Dr. Wiley is poring over his test tubes and writing treatises on poisons.

In return for this devotion to the public service Dr. Wiley is one of the most thoroughly abused men in the country. In Chicago a weekly magazine was founded for the sole purpose of saying disagreeable things about him. In all large cities in the country are trade papers which give columns every week to mud-slinging slanders. In the library of the government's bureau of chemistry is a department consisting of the volumes of anti-Wiley literature collected from all sources.

Every conceivable effort has been made by the adulterated food and drink trust—which includes the whiskey trust—to bring Wiley into discredit and get him removed from his office. At one stage of the game formal charges were filed, accusing Dr. Wiley of corruption. The secretary of agriculture called for the proofs. Nothing has since been heard from the charges. And their filing occurred many weeks ago.

Dr. Wiley is the author of 101 published articles on chemical subjects, 27 published addresses, and one text book on analysis. He holds patents on five inventions, one for a pneumatic railway, and another for making smokeless powder. He is likewise occasional poet and a popular at dinner talker.

Dr. Wiley comes from Indiana, where he was born near Kent, in Jefferson county, graduated from Hanover college in 1867. His later education was at Harvard and the German universities.

PASSING OF RABBI KAPLAN

The rabbi who on Saturday night stepped down and out, after his infamous article against the whole southern people had been called to public attention by The Citizen, may be used to point a moral if not to adorn a tale.

Mr. Kaplan claimed to be a Jew, but to judge from his course in this community he was an Ishmaelite—his hand being against every man. A year ago, it will be remembered, he published an article in which he arraigned the clergy of this city as ignoramus and hypocrites. This was overlooked as the "vain vapors of a mind diseased by the infection of its own over-weening self-conceit." But it must be confessed that since he began the publication of the "Barbarian," rightly so named, his chief desire seemed to be the provoking of discord between the members of his congregation and the other religious denominations of the city.

This was the more uncalled for because in Albuquerque, above many other places in the world, the people of all religious faith—from the agnostic to the most fanatical religionist—were living in peace and recognition of mutual rights, civil, political, social, and all others. His religious diatribes were therefore not only unnecessary, but absolutely harmful.

But when he uttered a filthy attack upon a whole section of our country, he reached his limit, and the Congregation Albert is to be congratulated upon the quick and emphatic manner in which they took action.

Just at the close of the war Charles O'Connor was requested to bring indictments against the leaders in secession, but he declined, saying that he knew not how to bring an indictment against a whole people. Mr. Kaplan seemed able to do so. However, his effort and its consequences are hardly worthy of emulation.

Still, had Mr. Kaplan confined his generalization to the men of the south, it is probable that little attention would have been paid to his slanderous article; but when he included the women of the south in his effusion, he passed the dead line.

There is one subject on which all Americans—regardless of racial descent, religious belief, or sectional abode—are united, and that is reverence for our women. In no other land on the face of the globe is woman held in such high esteem as in these United States. The feeling is thoroughly chivalric, and may be sometimes quixotic, but it is ingrained in the very heart and soul of every self-respecting American. This feeling Mr. Kaplan did not seem to realize. Hence his attack upon the women of the south, and hence the spontaneous and overwhelming indignation of the community. Nor does The Citizen believe the rising tide of wrathful indignation had been any less if Mr. Kaplan had selected for his theme the women of the east, of the west, of the north, or of any other section or sub-section of our country.

The Citizen has found so many persons desirous of reading the unfortunate article of the late rabbi, but unable to procure it, that the offensive part of it is here reproduced.

Speaking of the crime of rape on white women, and on even baby girls of six years of age, who died from the outrage, the rabbi said:

Now, in the name of all that is good and holy, if this crime of the negro is so hateful to white people that it is punishable by mob violence, why, I thunder forth from the mountain tops, do the white men of the south, with the fewest exceptions, practice daily that same crime on negro women? If I had taken the trouble to convert negroes to Judaism, I would take a pride in being an example of righteousness and morality to these disciples of mine, and not an example of privileged immorality and high-handed desecration of the fundamental institution of society, the home. If you do not know, you ought to know, that in the south it is no disgrace, it is an acknowledged privilege of every white man to have a colored woman as a concubine. By their economic dependence, the negro women must obey, and when they obey, as they must, behold the hollow mockery to point to the negroes as an immoral race! How in the name of decency and common-sense justice can you blame the negro for occasionally imitating your vile practices which you show him every day? This, too, is a problem that will never be solved by anyone except the white women of the south. The southern white woman is proverbially lazy, incapable of doing anything, incapable of earning the salt that goes into the bread she eats. She is therefore dependent, body and soul, upon her lord and master, her husband. She nor you may put it that way, but I put it that way because it is the unvarnished truth. Hence she is her husband's slave, his toy, his plaything, and must acquiesce in everything he does, for her living depends upon him, and him alone. She knows, and knows well, the institution of concubinage that exists in the south, but she as well as the concubine are dependent on the man, and they can say nothing—just grin and bear it. Now, if the southern women were capable of making their own living, they could say with terrible earnestness: "I want you, my husband, to be true to your marriage vow, or behold, I prefer to make my own living, honestly and morally, rather than live with an immoral man."

ROOSEVELT ON PANAMA

The superintendent of public documents, Washington, D. C., has requested The Citizen to publish the following:

Roosevelt on Panama Canal.

President Roosevelt's special message to congress concerning the Panama canal has been issued in an illustrated edition, which may be procured from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., for fifty cents per copy.

The exhaustive matter in which this subject has been treated in this message, with the addition of seven appendices and twenty-six full-page illustrations, makes the publication a veritable text-book on this subject of world interest.

An exchange says that the exports of breadstuffs from the United States give evidence of a permanent falling off, and the prediction is now made that the maximum attained a few years ago will never be reached again. This opinion is based on the assumption that the growing population will consume all the increased wheat output, and that the disposition to convert corn into meat will increase, leaving little of it for export. Some may mourn the absence of swelling figures of breadstuffs in our export tables, but the sensible observer who has acquainted himself with the fact that the domestic consumption is tending to the profit of the farmer by giving him a market near his door will rejoice rather than mourn over the outlook.

The investigations of the division of foreign markets, in the agricultural department, bureau of statistics, disclosed that the world's meat trade in 1904 amounted to about half a billion dollars in value. This total was made up of $124,000,000 for live meat animals, $254,000,000 for packing house products, and $29,000,000 for poultry, game, etc. The percentage of the meat imports of the world derived from the United States was 40.4, for live meat animals, 34.2, and for packing house products, 45.3, France and Denmark being excepted from these three computations. The percentage for poultry, game, etc., was 4.3, omitting France, Belgium, Denmark and Norway. Figures for 1905 are not yet ready.

The grand jury that indicted George W. Perkins made him an apology, and the indictment itself was District Attorney Jerome's apology to the people. Now if Perkins will apologize to the New York Life policyholders, the new leaf can be considered turned clear over.

The girl whom the men describe as a "jolly good fellow" does not always cross first under the matrimonial wire.

PROPOSED TAXES ON INCOMES AND INHERITED WEALTH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—There is nothing particularly experimental or even radical in President Roosevelt's recommendations that congress pass laws proposing taxes on incomes and inheritances. Both plans have been tried successfully in foreign countries; and one of them has been put into successful operation temporarily in the United States.

During the Spanish-American war the United States passed an emergency inheritance tax law, which went to the supreme court on a test case and was there upheld. Thousands of dollars were turned into the United States treasury during the brief period when the law was in operation; and its repeal came only as a result of the conviction that the revenues were not needed.

Great Britain has had considerable experience with both income and inheritance taxes. Its income tax has been in operation for more than 15 years, and during the year of 1905 the revenue derived from this source amounted to nearly $160,000,000. A shilling to the pound, or about 25 cents out of every $5, is the basis of the English act. The law is quite popular with the masses of the people, resulting, as it does, in making the rich man pay a proportionate share of the taxes, instead of the more common practice of burdening the poor man with the greater portion of it.

The English tax gatherers' returns show that there are some swollen fortunes in King Edward's domain. In 1905 incomes amounting to a quarter of a million dollars and over were reported by 19 individuals, 113 firms, and 794 corporations. Incomes amounting to $100,000 to $250,000 were reported by 219 individuals, 1,042 firms and 2,540 corporations.

All whose incomes are $800 a year or less are exempted from the income tax. The amount in Great Britain thus exempted is $5,540,372 pounds. The income of funds devoted to charitable purposes is likewise exempt, and incomes amounting to $50,000,000 escape taxation under this head. Another exemption is insurance.

People who have studied the income tax law in Great Britain report—that what may seem impossible to many people—a greater distribution of wealth in that country than in the United States. As bearing on this topic the following table is of considerable interest.

Taxes on incomes of the following amounts are paid by the following number of persons:

Pounds.	Persons.
From 100 to 200.....	140,154
From 200 to 300.....	96,659
From 300 to 400.....	34,280
From 400 to 500.....	17,300
From 500 to 600.....	8,562
From 600 to 700.....	4,788
From 700 to 800.....	4,019
From 800 to 900.....	2,045
From 900 to 1,000.....	2,600
From 1,000 to 2,000.....	6,044
From 2,000 to 3,000.....	1,401
From 3,000 to 4,000.....	551
From 4,000 to 5,000.....	290
From 5,000 to 10,000.....	433
From 10,000 to 50,000.....	219
From 50,000 and upward.....	19

According to the British tax returns, therefore, there are about 700 acknowledged millionaires in the kingdom. The richest Englishman in the Duke of Westminster, who owned to an estate amounting to $200,000,000. Lord Inchiquin acknowledges $100,000,000. In the $50,000,000 class come the dukes of Devonshire, Buccleuch, Derby, Bedford and the marquis of Bute.

The question of tax dodging is a live one in Great Britain, as in other countries. The poorer people have a confirmed belief that many of the rich pay taxes on a smaller income than they acknowledge, and that many people are untaxed whose incomes are large enough to come within the taxable class. This belief finds confirmation in the opinion of some expert sociologists, among them A. L. Bowley, of the London School of Economics, who claims that there are in reality 1,200 millionaires in the kingdom, instead of 700, and that the total number of those who ought to pay income taxes is $33,320, instead of $70,372.

The so-called "death tax"—as the inheritance tax is called—is not so easily evaded. Death brings all estates into probate, if they are of any size, and here the government gets its hand upon the assets and takes a share for the state. This inheritance tax is rated according to the degree of relationship of the people who receive under the will of statute. Close relatives pay a smaller rate than distant relatives who inherit the wealth.

For example, children pay one pound in every one hundred to the state; brothers, sister and nephews pay three pounds to the hundred; uncles, aunts and cousins pay five pounds in the hundred; others, more distant relatives, pay ten pounds in the hundred. So there is a graduated scale which makes larger inheritances pay at a higher rate than small ones. Estates of a million dollars pay on the basis of eight per cent for the direct heirs, and correspondingly higher for collateral heirs.

The death duties in England amounted in 1905 to $15,000,000, this amount having been taken as the state's share from people inheriting wealth which they had no part in producing. The number of estates settled and from which this revenue came, was 63,919.

There is an occasional effort made by rich men to dodge the inheritance tax by transferring property before death. The duke of Westminster, England's richest man, did this trick, and the case was taken to the courts and brought to the highest tribunal, in an effort to make the estate pay its tax. But the court held that the transfer by the duke of all his personal property to his eldest son was a legal and proper transfer, and that it was the misfortune of the state that it should lose its share in the inheritance.

PROPOSED INTERNATIONAL MOTOR BOAT RACE

Word was received in New York on Monday from Sir William Gray-Wilson, governor of the Bahamas, that arrangements had been completed at Nassau for the reception of the international motor boat race, known as the "Flag to Flag" Miami, Florida, to Nassau, N. P.

A meeting was held on Dec. 15 at the government house, Nassau, over which Sir William Gray-Wilson presided, to arrange some of the details for the reception of the big race, and the motor boat and sailing regatta which will be given at Nassau on the 11th and 12th of February.

The committee in charge of the regatta reported that they had received a cablegram from the New York representative of the "Flag to Flag" race, stating that the United States navy department had agreed to furnish a war vessel for the purpose of escort to the race, and that the navy department would make a critical study of the work of the motor boats in the 160 mile race from Miami to Nassau.

Sir O. D. Maleson, chief justice of the Bahamas, spoke in favor of the regatta and Commander F. J. Lobb, of the royal navy, was made chairman of the regatta committee, of which committee the Hon. C. A. Fraser, R. W. Sawyer, R. H. Curry, Frank Holmes, E. P. Solomon, and A. P. Crawford are the other members. A large subscription to the regatta fund was made, the same being headed by his excellency, the governor and the chief justice.

It is proposed to start the big race at Miami Feb. 8th, on the completion of the Palm Beach motor boat tournament and it is expected that the entries from owners of the high powered boats at Palm Beach will be available for the international race.

All others who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

The proceedings in connection with the installation of officers of G. K. Warren Post, Grand Army of the Republic, on Saturday night were enlivened by the presence of the ladies of the auxiliary organizations. An interesting program, in which the ladies participated was rendered and the latter portion of the evening was spent in social intercourse.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grunfeld, preparatory to their contemplated trip to eastern cities, were entertained at dinner on Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. George L. Brooks at their residence, No. 903 West Copper avenue. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Grunfeld there were present Mr. and Mrs. Clark M. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Montague Stevens, Mr. Herbert Brooks and Mr. R. W. Hadden.

This week being set aside by the Evangelical alliance as the world's week of prayer, will be generally observed by the churches throughout the city with special services. The First Methodist and Presbyterian churches will unite in meetings each evening during the week. Tonight and tomorrow night the meetings will be held at the Lead avenue church and on each evening thereafter in the First Presbyterian church.

At a musical party given on Saturday afternoon by Miss Fay C. Leonard to her pupils, a contest which was being conducted between the pupils of the first and second grades was brought to a close. The affair was given at the residence of Miss Leonard, on South Walter street, and proved a most interesting and enjoyable occasion, each one of the pupils present contributing toward the entertainment with a musical selection. Miss Emma Wolking carried off the badge of honor and Chester Clark also acquired a prize in the scale contest. At the close refreshments were served.

LOBATO FIRED AT MORRIS FIRST

Three Enemies Advanced Upon Him Armed With Pistols, Divulged at Hearing.

When the preliminary hearing of John Morris, the express messenger who shot and killed Catala, Lobato on New Year's night at La Juncion, was held in Santa Fe yesterday afternoon before Judge John T. McPherson, the shooting occurred, testified that Lobato fired the first shot, and that the witnesses for the defense testified that the Lobato brothers and their companion were all armed when they advanced upon the young messenger, according to the Santa Fe New Mexican.

A Santa Fe fireman testified that he thought Morris fired at Lobato first, but he declared Lobato had his pistol leveled at Morris when the latter shot him. From his testimony it is added that as soon as the firing began he beat a hasty retreat into another room and did not see the actual shooting. He remained in the room until after the firing had ceased.

All of the testimony was not heard at the first session of the preliminary, which was continued until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when it will be resumed.

The territory is represented by District Attorney R. C. Gortner, Assistant District Attorney C. C. Catron and B. M. Read, attorneys for the defense. Pritchard and E. C. Abbott appear for the accused, who is being held on two charges, murder and assault with deadly weapon. When the district attorney wanted to take evidence on both charges at once, counsel for the accused objected and he elected to take up the murder charge first.

Manager Charles Penner, of the Harvey eating house, was called to the stand. He testified that he was not in the lunch room at the time of the shooting, but was in the office adjoining. He said that he heard one shot fired, which was followed quickly by others, and a few minutes later a man came backing out through the office door holding a pistol in one hand and having his other hand against the side of his face. He stated that he had advanced toward the lunch room door when he heard the shooting, but did not go in, as the man who staggered backwards in the office had a pistol in his hand and pushed him out of the door after that he the witness returned to the window into the defense.

Other witnesses who had been subpoenaed were: John A. Lobato, wife of the hotel; Joseph V. Barras, operator; Geo. Bath, Fred Kammer, P. J. Ellis, Romero, Jacobo and O. P. Morris. Lobato, who was with the butler, testified that the shooting is probably the principal witness for the prosecution. He appeared in the court room with his head banded.

David M. White, a civil engineer, was introduced and testified as to the accuracy of a map of the inside of the eating house which he had prepared at the instance of the prosecution, on which was located the scene of the events as the testimony was taken.

Morris sat in a chair close to his counsel and appeared to be following the testimony closely. He seldom turned his eyes from the witness being examined and was not visibly affected by the proceedings. The court room was crowded.

HIS RESIGNATION WAS PROMPTLY ASKED

And Rabbi Kaplan Who Has No More Influence in This Community Will Leave.

Last Saturday evening, after The Evening Citizen came out denouncing Rabbi J. H. Kaplan for his brutal, uncalculated assault upon the daughters of the south, prominent members of the Temple Albert congregation, over which the disgraced rabbi presided, acted promptly, demanding his resignation, and this afternoon a well known Jewish merchant, one who is foremost in all enterprises looking to the future welfare of this city, informed this paper that a settlement will be made with Dr. Kaplan and he will forthwith leave Albuquerque.

A meeting of the board of directors of the congregation will be held tomorrow (Tuesday) evening at the Temple, on West Gold avenue, after which, says our informant, the passing of the rabbi will have become a reality.

When Rabbi Kaplan viciously attacked the Protestant ministers about a year ago and a storm of indignation spread over the city, the directors of his congregation had him "on the carpet" then, and told him, in emphatic words, that they would not tolerate another such attack on the people. Hence their promptness in the present case, although more aggravated than the attack on the ministers, because pure, virtuous women are assailed, is to be commended by every law-abiding man and woman of every nationality or creed in the city. This paper congratulates our Jewish brethren and citizens on the positive stand they took in the matter, and Rabbi Kaplan did right in acquiescing in their wishes, because his usefulness in this community has now passed.

It is learned today that when the Barabur was being bound for mailing, on January 2, previous to its issue, the attention of the rabbi was called to the article, and he was told that it would cause serious indignation among the people. Having so much confidence in his "greatness" of thought, he thought, "but the people were not slow to show their indignation. It was not too late then for the rabbi to have suppressed the offensive edition."

ADD FROM MR. CRAWFORD

Dr. Kaplan is a man of sufficient intelligence to be recognized by all whose calm judgment is of any value, as utterly incapable of deliberately and maliciously insulting anyone, least of all the noble women of the south. He has made the mistake he made once before of stating a recognized truth in such a manner under the influence of malicious indignation, as to cause a serious misunderstanding. But the purpose of so many of these articles is to contrive his moral and civil disobedience into an intentional insult without a perversion of the truth. Owing to my illness, this is perhaps the only article that has been printed without my first seeing it. In every case where I have suggested changes where misunderstanding was sure to follow, he has accepted the suggestion in the most absolute innocence of any unkind intention, that I know of no one else can know how far from his mind in this instance was any purpose but the most exalted. Everybody makes mistakes, but we shall recognize after his departure that Albuquerque has lost one of her most unselfish and public-spirited citizens.

Respectfully,
E. E. CRAWFORD.

GRIM REAPER CLAIMS HON. PEDRO CASTILLO

DECEASED HELD MANY POSITIONS OF TRUST DURING LIFETIME OF FIFTY-NINE YEARS.

After a lingering illness Hon. Pedro Castillo, one of the best known native born Spaniards of the Rio Grande valley, passed away at his home at Bernalillo Saturday evening at the age of 59 years. The funeral occurred this morning at Bernalillo and was largely attended. A large number of Albuquerque relatives and friends attended.

Pedro Castillo was born at Belen, Valencia county, in 1848, and was one of three sons of Jose Felipe Castillo. His father was one of the pioneers of the valley. Educated at St. Michael's college at Santa Fe, the deceased entered politics at an early age and held many public positions of prominence and trust during his lifetime. He was chairman of the Bernalillo county board of county commissioners before the county was divided and Sandoval county was originated on the north. After the division of the county he was elected county commissioner of the new county, which position he held at the time of his death.

The deceased is survived by a wife and several children.

CATHOLIC MISSION OPENED LAST NIGHT

Large Audience Gathered at Church of the Immaculate Conception.

The mission at the Catholic church has awakened a profound interest, and was strikingly in evidence yesterday morning by the vast concourse of young, middle aged and elderly ladies, who thronged the spacious auditorium. Even a larger number was in attendance at the evening service, giving tokens of the earnestness and the generosity in complying with the soulful pleading of the missionary. The subject last evening was an attractive one and lent itself readily to a fine oratorical development. The scope of the address was the beauty, value and destiny of the human soul. The idea of its beauty was unfolded by striking comparisons drawn from the richest ores of nature and lucious fruits of the tropics. After discoursing in glowing terms on the beauty of the body, when vitalized and animated by a humane intellect, the reverend gentleman went on to develop the innate natural beauty of the soul. Unite the body with its beauty of form, its bewitching symmetry and perfection is the noblest object which appeals to the eye, the soul with its transcendent beauty is the noblest object of the mind. What, therefore, the mind is above matter, what the intellect is above sense, what the spiritual is above the material, so the native beauty of soul ranges above the body. The value of the soul be proved from the creative act of the father, who made all the beautiful things of this world for man, and then fashioned man in the nobler part of his being after the image and likeness of God. The soul of man today stands as the masterpiece of divine handwork in a matchless creation of beauty and loveliness. Every thought that ranged through the mind of Christ, every word that fell from his sacred lips, every act performed in love and charity for a wicked world, every scope and purpose the salvation of souls, or in the language of St. Paul, "for me," and hence rightly for every individual soul. His profound utterance, which rings true for all time, puts beyond cavil the value of the human soul, in the richest words, "What profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his immortal soul?" This priceless soul, dowered and enriched by marvelous powers has been entrusted to my keeping with the solemn injunction to do business until me, or to praise, reverence and glorify him in this world and be happy with him in the realms of eternal life.

Tonight Fr. O'Malley will speak on an interesting subject, "The Shoals of Life."

CARBON CITY IS WELL OFF FOR MAYORS

The town council of Gallup is in a cove. At a recent meeting the resignation of Mayor Sanjule was reconsidered. Mr. Sanjule may retain the office. Alderman Jacobson, who was selected as Mr. Sanjule's successor, also lays claim to the office. To be made a mayor and then vice versa to be made in the short space of two weeks is the situation of the town, and as the council does not see how he can accept such a situation. As a result of his absence at the meeting at which Mr. Sanjule's resignation was reconsidered, the town has two mayors. The councilmen refused to take definite action because Mr. Jacobson was not present. Of course, Mr. Jacobson will be invited to take a seat among the aldermen again. How this invitation will be accepted remains to be seen and then there is some question about the legality of the change. At least some of the councilmen are prone to believe there is and this is the cause of the quandary.

PROBATE COURT

Attorney Felix H. Lester appeared in probate court this morning, as counsel for J. F. Skinner and A. J. Pearce, with a petition to revoke and set aside the report of A. Coleman, administrator of the estate of the late Antonio Flory. Probate Judge Jesus Romero disallowed the petition for the reason, as the court stated, that it was not presented at the proper time. Mr. Lester promptly prayed for an appeal to the district court. The final report of Gregorio Apodaca, executor of the estate of the late Antonio Flory, was approved by the court and the bondsmen and executor discharged.

The reports of the appraisers of the estates of George Timmis, deceased, and the late Claude Girard, were approved. J. H. Wroth was appointed guardian of Bessie W. McCleery, and his bond in the sum of $7,000 approved. The supplementary final report of E. V. Chavez, executor of the estate of Henry L. Warren, deceased, was approved and the executor ordered to pay over the proceeds of the estate to the heirs.

The petition of Marcelina Gonzales, praying to be appointed administrator of the estate of Carlos I. Gonzales, was approved. The amount of the bond named was $1,600. Mary Masset was appointed administratrix of the estate of P. Massett. Bond, $2,400. O. N. Marron was made sole executor of the estate of the late Robert Condon. Court adjourned at 2 o'clock this afternoon, after having been in session since 10 o'clock this morning. It will resume tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.
Payson Ripley, trainmaster for the Santa Fe at San Marcel, came in yesterday.
Mike Dragoie, the North Broadway general merchant, says he is not dead, notwithstanding the "fault-finder" on the Morning Journal, who was kind enough to write up his death notice for this morning's issue. He also wishes to deny that he was or is 55 years of age, and that he "made a specialty of gold and silver filigree work." He claims positively that his wife is not in Los Angeles, and his remains will not be held to await her coming before funeral arrangements can be announced. He says his heart has been working faithfully since the "fault-finder" on the Morning Journal had him dead, hence he must be alive.

MORTUARY

Mike Gargoura.
The funeral of Mike Gargoura, who died of heart failure Sunday morning, will be held at Strong's chapel tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Gargoura conducted a jewelry shop on North Third street. He was well known in Albuquerque, where he has lived for the past few years. His wife, who lives in Los Angeles, will be here for the funeral. Mr. Gargoura was a Mason and an Odd Fellow. He was 55 years old.

NEW YORK IS TRYING HOW DIVIDED PLAN

Of Government Will Answer. Odell Is on the War Path.

VAST AMOUNTS PAID IN DIVIDENDS THIS WEEK

Mayor McClellan Seems to Be Losing Out in Fight With Tammany.

Special Correspondence. New York, Jan. 7.—For the first time in a generation New York state is indulging in the novelty of a bipartisan government in every sense of the word.

Since New Year's day the governor and the legislature have been republican, while every other elective state official is a democrat. It is a situation which puts each party on its mettle and gives promise for a bitter and bitter fight during the next two years.

The republicans naturally realize that only the most circumspect and efficient government policies can protect them from further encroachments from the democrats at the next state election. The democrats, on the other hand, are keenly alive to the fact that as active and energetic espousers of popular measures they will have an excellent chance in 1908 to secure additional power.

Governor Hughes, himself a broad and independent man, another fact that does not give great satisfaction to some of the republican machine politicians. Lieutenant-Governor Chandler, his understudy, is a democrat, and so are the new men in the offices of the secretary of state, state controller, attorney general, state treasurer, and state engineer. The incoming of these democrats, after absolute control of the state government for twelve years had been in republican hands, turned loose an army of republican officeholders in Albany.

Odell Is in the Ring.

To add to the gaiety of political affairs, Benjamin B. Odell, late governor and chairman of the republican state committee until he was deposed last fall, has taken up his residence in New York and has begun a campaign to regain control of the party organization of New York county. Governor Odell is a fighter and one of the best political organizers the state has seen. There is no doubt his action at this time has created great interest.

Congressman Herbert Parsons, who defeated the Odell forces at the primaries last September and won the chairmanship of the county committee, is the personal representative of President Roosevelt and made his fight with the open backing of the white house and also with the open backing of Governor Higgins at Albany.

As Parsons is a resourceful man, and still has the support of Washington, there is a chance for a battle royal between Parsons and Odell for the county organization which will carry with it the balance of power in the next state convention and an important position in the national convention in 1908.

Immense Dividends Paid.

This is a busy season in Wall street as the banks, trust companies, and corporations are hard at work distributing the regular January 1st interest and dividends on bonds and stocks. It is conservatively estimated that during the last four days $150,000,000 of this money has been so distributed.

The records in Wall street, with some minor companies missing, show interest disbursements of 559 companies, and the government bond interest which also must be handled, amounting to $105,626,217. This list includes 212 railroads, 262 public service corporations, and 45 industrial and miscellaneous companies. The dividend disbursements recorded on 255 companies show a total of $71,345,975. This is on 96 industrial and miscellaneous companies, 47 public service corporations, 43 railroads and 70 banks and trust companies.

The largest amount disbursed in dividends this month by any one corporation was by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which distributed $2,172,256. The next largest amount was $2,967,950, paid by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad. The largest interest payment by any one corporation was $3,905,244, paid out by the Great Northern, while the Canadian Pacific paid out nearly as much, the amount being $3,300,375. The United States Steel corporation paid out $1,530,375, and the Consolidated Gas company of New York paid out $1,449,775.

Bill Posters Triumph. New York's greatest art gallery is to remain undisturbed. The supreme court has decided that the advertising signs in the subway must remain.

Threats to tear down pleading descriptions of the merits of sawmill breakfast food or the Gentlemen's Home Journal are without avail. Ever since the subway was built and leased to the company controlled by August Belmont the city has made one attempt after another to compel the lessee to remove the variegated posters and other display signs from the handsomely tiled stations.

Action after action has been brought, but all have failed in the that the city, having leased the road courts, which now have held finally without restriction or reservation, cannot prevent the operating company from subletting the advertising privileges.

This privilege of placing signs in the stations and cars of the subway system is said to be worth $50,000 per year from the mere leasing of the privilege to an advertising concern.

Biggest Vault in World. According to orders that have been placed with the Carnegie Steel company by the National City Bank, the latter, when it moves into the present business house for its banking home, will have one of the largest vaults in the world.

This vault will be built so as to guarantee to withstand artillery attacks. The gigantic vault, which, it is understood, was the idea of Frank Vanderlip, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury and now vice president of the bank, will be installed in less than a year, as the bank plans to move into its new quarters about January 1, 1908.

According to specifications it is to be the most modern affair of the kind ever built. It is to be armor proof, so that it would not be destroyed in the event of a bombardment of the city either by sea or by land. The building itself may be sheltered by the most powerful shells yet known, and yet the vault would not be destroyed.

Some 200 tons of armor proof steel will be used in the construction, and the vault will be built two stories high. There will be room enough to store the $25,000,000 worth of securities usually in the bank's custody and the vault will be used exclusively for the business of the institution. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $300,000.

Remarkable Race of Ships.

A remarkable ocean race ended a few days ago when two heavily laden freighters churned their way through the Narrows and docked after a 16,000 mile trip from Calcutta.

The steamers, laden with spices, had left Calcutta two days apart late in October and nosed their way into port neck and neck. One of the vessels was the Swazi, a British tramp steamer, and the other was the Marienfels, a German freighter. Each vessel reported severe hurricanes on the trip, especially in the Bay of Bengal.

From the time the Swazi cleared from Calcutta on October 25, leaving the Marienfels in port, neither vessel caught sight of the other until the day before they came into New York harbor. As weather had been made between the respective crews, in Calcutta, as to which would reach New York first, the close finish furnished plenty of excitement.

Training for Policemen.

To carry out an idea of Police Commissioner Bingham for a training establishment for the horses and the mounted men of the police force the city has closed a contract for a plot of twenty-two acres adjoining Kissena park, in Flushing, where the new establishment will be located. This, according to Gen. Bingham's plan, the horses and men of the force are to be trained to the minute. The site selected is to cost the city $105,000, and when the ground is formally turned over to the police department there will be built an exercising track for the horses.

There also is to be laid out an athletic field for the members of the force. There are now 280 horses in use in Brooklyn and Manhattan. One of the things to be taught the training grounds will be how to approach and stop runaway. Here new members of the mounted squad will be taught to do stunts on horseback.

President's Tamed Skins.

Lovers of the animal skin would have been interested in the collection recently mounted at the workshop of a Seventh avenue taxidermist.

They were all native animals, some half a dozen in number, and represented the fruits of a hunting expedition of President Roosevelt in the Rocky mountains. He had sent them on here to be mounted for use in the white house.

One of his injunctions to the taxidermist was to mount the heads flat, as he declared he had too many "stumbling blocks" in the way of mounted heads already.

Mayor McClellan Losing.

Instead of making any progress in his campaign to depose Charles F. Murphy from the leadership of Tammany hall, Mayor McClellan seems to grow weaker as the fight goes on.

A year ago, when McClellan ignored Murphy in making his slate of officers and appointed some men who were bitterly antagonistic to the Tammany leader, an intense internal warfare was started. McClellan openly declared that he would use the entire patronage of his office to depose Murphy and for a time things looked equally for the latter. The tactics of McClellan soon brought influential Tammany men and district leaders to Murphy's support, so that, as the month went on, McClellan's strength shrank more and more.

There is no question but that the election in November of many democratic state officials favorable to Murphy strengthened the hand of the Tammany leader. In the reorganization of Tammany hall for 1907, which has just been effected, Murphy demonstrated the absolute certainty of his control. Out of thirty-six district leaders in the executive committee only two voted against him, and he was able without delay to unseat three McClellan men.

More Rapid Transit.

John B. McDonald, the contractor who built the present subway, is out with a new rapid transit plan. He has laid before the rapid transit board a proposition for a new subway which he believes will solve the problem of handling the traffic between Brooklyn and Manhattan. Mr. McDonald is ready to bid for the construction of the tunnel he proposes. The new subway, as planned, would be eight miles long, connecting the lower part of Manhattan with the most crowded residential section of Brooklyn. On the land sections it would be a tunnel, but the line to Brooklyn would cross the river by the new Manhattan bridge and the line from Brooklyn would use the Williamsburg bridge.

It is estimated that it would cost $10,000,000 to carry out the plan, but Mr. McDonald is entirely confident that it will solve the problem of the congestion of the bridges.

SHE WILL MAKE A TOUR OF THE WORLD.

Mrs. Ella Spencer, mother of Assistant District Attorney Spencer, of Chaves County, left her home at Roswell recently for Chicago, where she will visit her daughter, Miss Spencer, who is world's secretary of the Young Woman's Christian association. Together they will make a tour of the world. They will go first to San Francisco, then to Japan, China, India and Australia, and return by way of France, England, and other points of interest.

SOCIETY WOMAN SEIZED AS A STREET WALKING PICKPOCKET

REMARKABLE CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY ON NEW YORK STREETS IN WHICH WOMAN OF HIGH POSITION WAS JERKED TO JAIL AND LOCKED UP WITH THUGS AND THE VILEST.

Special Correspondence.

New York, Jan. 7.—Of all the peculiar experiences of the Christmas holiday season, that undergone by Mrs. Jeanne Trautman, a well known society woman, and wife of Dr. Alex. Trautman, a wealthy physician of 369 Lexington avenue, is most amazing.

While walking on Fifth avenue on Christmas eve, among a throng of hustling holiday shoppers, she was suddenly seized by a man whom she claimed to be a total stranger, then, accused of a crime of which she asserted her innocence, she was hustled off to a tenderloin jail by a policeman, and was there compelled to spend several hours in the society of thugs and low drunkards until friends finally came to her rescue and furnished bail for her appearance before a magistrate.

The charge of petty larceny was preferred against Mrs. Trautman by Peter J. Hogan, a stenographer, of 120 East 20th street. Hogan claimed that on the previous Saturday evening he met a woman in Fifth avenue "she tried to induce me to buy her a drink," said Hogan, "but I refused. She then threw her arms about my neck and told me I was about the nicest man she had ever seen, and then she kissed me. I left her soon after this, but the next morning I found my roll of $12 gone."

When on Christmas eve Hogan saw Mrs. Trautman in the holiday crowd on Fifth avenue, he immediately seized her, and alleged that she was the person he had met the previous Saturday night. Mrs. Trautman, who claimed she had not been away from her home on Saturday night, except with her husband, asserted her belief that Hogan was either crazy or badly confused. Her husband and her society friends were free to assert that in case Hogan proves to be entirely sane, they will heap vengeance upon his head.

"This town won't be big enough to hold him if I get my hands on him, unless he is insane," said the doctor. Guests of the Trautmans, who were being entertained at a Christmas celebration at their country home at Great Neck, Long Island, threatened to attend the trial Thursday in a body and chastise Hogan with dog whips.

Girl Official of Indiana Paved the Way With Smiles

CAREER OF MISS MARY A. STUBBS, FIRST WOMAN IN ELECTIVE OFFICE—ELECTED HER FATHER TO START WITH.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 7.—Charming Mary Stubbs, twenty-five years of age, is now chief of the state bureau of statistics, appointed by Governor Hanly to the first elective office ever held by a woman in Indiana. Although she had not been elected to it, she might as well have been, for to her was due the first election of her father to the office. In last November, on the day upon which he was re-elected, he contracted a cold which put him in the grave a week ago. That is how the office became vacant.

The appointment of a woman to this $2,000 office, to fill out the unexpired term, is one of the unique things Governor Hanly has done, and it had no precedent. But carefully looking up the matter, the governor could find nothing forming a constitutional bar to appointing a woman, and gladly availed himself of the chance to let the daughter, already a clerk in the bureau, move up into first place.

He called Miss Stubbs to his office. The governor asked her how she would like to succeed her father, and before she could overcome her surprise, he handed her the commission for the office. The news was received with satisfaction by all state officials, with whom Miss Stubbs is a favorite. Miss Stubbs entered upon her duties immediately and will continue to serve until Jan. 1, 1909.

It is said that Miss Stubbs had a greater personal acquaintance among the politicians of the state than any woman in Indiana. Two years ago she got down on the floor of the state republican convention and worked for her father, who was a popular traveling man. Support was pretty evenly divided for and against him on the first ballot. Miss Stubbs rounded up the Wabash county delegation and solicited their votes.

"Well, if Joe Stubbs has a daughter as pretty as you are, we will vote for him," said the leader of the delegation. Last fall he was re-elected without opposition.

Miss Stubbs is a stenographer. She had a clerkship in the state republican headquarters and her cordiality and smiling courtesy to party workers who had business there, unexpectedly made her father a possibility for the nomination. He went into the convention with unexpected strength, so effective had been the artless girl's ingenious electioneering in his behalf.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Commerce will be held at its banking house, on Monday, January 7th, 1907, for the election of directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of any other business that may properly come before the meeting. W. S. Strickler, Cashier.

DOES NOT OBJECT TO GOAT MEAT

BUT SENATOR O'NEILL OF ARIZONA DOES KICK ON THE PRICE ASKED.

"When the legislature convenes," said Senator Eugene Brady O'Neill, "I propose to introduce a bill making the selling of goat meat a felony." This remark was made to a group of Phoenix men congregated in front of the court house, out from the shadow of the building, where the frost of the morning was still to be felt, says the Phoenix Gazette.

The gentlemen or present were discussing the alleged practice of some butchers in Arizona of selling goat meat for mutton. The goats are purchased for about $2 a head and sold as sheep meat at fancy prices, it is said.

Senator O'Neill stated that he had no objection to the sale of goat meat as goat meat. "I like a little goat myself occasionally, but when I call for mutton I don't want goat," said Senator O'Neill, and furthermore I don't care to pay a fancy price for goat meat either as such or under the masquerade of mutton."

Senator O'Neill went on to remark that there are few sheep slaughtered here. Very often when you think you buy mutton you don't get it. He said some of his auditors agreed that such was the case and expressed a hope that such a law would be passed by the twenty-fourth legislature.

HO FOR MEXICO AS THE OASIS

Great Caravans of Shriners Will Go There January 22.

WILL GET WARM WELCOME

Southern Republic Will Succumb to Fez and Crimson Cap.

City of Mexico, Jan. 7.—Unprecedented cold in the United States, coupled with the universal desire to visit Mexico, and the further fact that the Shriners always travel in large caravans is causing hundreds of Nobles of the mystic order to make application and prepare to join in the pilgrimage to this city next month.

The latest advices from the Imperial Potentate are to the effect that he confidently expects to have with him from three hundred to four hundred when he arrives here on January 18, 1907. There are many Shriners yet to be heard from and the local members may find themselves entertaining five hundred of the nobility of the northland.

They will come over the National lines from Laredo and are scheduled to arrive in Mexico City on Saturday afternoon, January 19. They will bring with them their oriental robes, costumes, fees, etc., besides a car of paraphernalia to be used in the ceremonies here.

The new dancing academy hall on Fourth Independencia has been secured for Monday and Tuesday evenings, January 21 and 22, and local mills are now busy grinding out "tucking machines," not made made of pure lava, hoisting and dumping apparatus with slides of silvered timber, and such other bric-a-brac as may be necessary for a complete performance when the rest gets here.

All committees are busy with preparation and anticipation and when joined by half a thousand of the best men in America they feel that they will be fully equipped and competent to introduce the Shrine to Mexico and Mexico to the Shrine with due pomp and ceremony and give the seventy-five or more candidates a run for their money.

Applications are coming in daily for membership from all over the republic, and all the local Masonic bodies are working overtime making eligibles. Masonry is experiencing a veritable boom in Mexico and the coming of the Shrine bids fair to unite them all, by its bond of brotherhood, in an enthusiastic legion of searchers after truth.

Arrangements for the Shriners excursion are being made and preparations for their entertainment while in Mexico City are also being made. E. E. Young, assistant general passenger agent of the National lines, has been working on arrangements for the excursion during his recent visit in San Antonio. The excursion will start from St. Louis January 16, with the Imperial Potentate, A. B. Clayton, and about 150 Shriners aboard. A number of members of the supreme council are expected to come. In addition to those who start from St. Louis many Shriners will join the excursion in the southern states, particularly Texas, so that the number is expected to be at least double the number starting from St. Louis by the time it reaches this city.

Benson Quick, city passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific at St. Joseph, Mo., will probably be one of the train, which will be run through in good time, arriving in Mexico City January 19. The ceremonies incident to the establishment of a temple in this city will take place January 21 and arrangements to make the affair as brilliant as possible are under way.

SILVER CITY IS BOOMING SAYS COL. J. W. FLEMING

Col. J. W. Fleming of Silver City, N. M., is in El Paso for a few days on business, says the El Paso News. Col. Fleming was mayor of Silver City for nineteen years and is one of the most ardent believers in the future of the town. "We are prosperous at Silver City," said the colonel. "Our mines are doing well and promise to do better, and the cattle interests of the surrounding country were never in better shape than they are now."

"The Grand Central mine, a silver lead proposition at Chloride Flats, a mile and a half from Silver City, is a bonanza. Two cars of ore sent to El Paso from this property yielded 300 ounces of silver per ton, and the lead run averaged 58 per cent. Pretty good, eh?"

"And we have copper there, too. The Tyson company operating in the Buno mountains, fourteen miles west of Silver City, has just opened up a vein of 2 per cent copper that has been proven for 200 feet in width with no idea of its length or depth. It is the big copper strike of the territory, and I believe will put Silver City in a class with Bisbee and Jerome as a copper producer."

"Like all the southwest we are handicapped by a scarcity of labor. We are offering $2 and $4 per day for miners with no takers. We will pay any reasonable wage to get men if they will only come in and go to work."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

LOBBY COULDN'T 'RETAIN' MR. SMITH

HOW T. ROOSEVELT DISCOVERED SMITH, THE NEW COMMISSIONER OF CORPORATIONS — A POOR YOUNG LAWYER IN LEGISLATURE WHO WOULD NOT BECOME COUNSEL FOR RAILROAD.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Most careers can be traced to accidents, and the career of Herbert Knox Smith is no exception. It was to the accident of Bill Jones' untimely taking off that Herbert owes his.

Smith is the man who is to succeed Garfield as commissioner of corporations. He has been Garfield's understudy for three years and has done his part in making things interesting for Standard Oil.

The aforesaid Jones was president of the ward club at Hartford, Conn., when he died. Smith lived in the ward, but was actively engaged in practicing law and reading books by the bale.

Guy Roberts wanted Smith to become president of Bill Jones' place, Smith knew nothing about politics, but Roberts made him get busy on the plea of good citizenship, and he was elected.

From that the descent was rapid. Not content with the chairmanship of the ward, Smith aspired to the head of the town committee. He got it. He served two years and descended to the state legislature. Among these depraved wreches he served a whole session, and, with the rest, rubbed elbows with the agents of bribery and corruption. One of them wanted to retain him "as counsel"—which, as a lawyer, was proper. But Smith refused to be retained.

Then there was the usual railroad fight. The New York, New Haven & Hartford railway wanted a "little bill." This bill would do away with competition in railway building. Smith led the scrap against it. The bill did not pass.

It was a great mystery to the railway lobbyists. Here was a poor young man who refused to be "retained" and who did up their bill. They did not know that Smith had been left a little fortune by his maid, an aunt, and was not really poor at all. Smith was very close-mouthed about that. He just smiled, kept a good conscience, and passed up their money.

But the scandal spread, and it soon became known to a number of people that Smith would not take a bribe. Through President Hadley, of New York, it came to the ears of Roosevelt.

And that is why, in the summer of 1903, while corporations were busy with congressmen, arranging to fill the new office with "a good man" that Smith received a letter from Oyster Bay asking him to call. He never had met Theodore Roosevelt, but Roosevelt simply found him.

You know the rest, except that Smith is unmarried, and fancy free; that he is 37; that he smoked a pipe; that he plays tennis (earning part of his salary, as it is alleged, by being pulped on the tennis court back of the white house at the will of the chief executive); that he is genial but not dissipated; that he wears a close-cropped mustache; that he knows a joke, and does not mind.

CONDUCTORS ON COAST LINES PROTEST

Against the Sixteen Hour Bill and Petition Against Its Passage.

The Order of Railway Conductors on the Santa Fe coast lines has passed resolutions protesting against the proposed sixteen-hour law on which the United States senate will vote January 10. The preamble and resolutions are as follows:

"Whereas, There are now pending in the congress of the United States measures intended to take away from the men employed in the train service of interstate railways the right to dispose of their services under conditions and upon terms satisfactory to themselves; and

"Whereas, The nature of the railway business imposes conditions little understood by the general public, among them the fluctuations in train movement from week to week, month to month and season to season which create corresponding variations in the quantity of train service required and consequently in the demand for the labor of trainmen; and

"Whereas, The efficient handling of the public business entrusted to interstate railway carriers requires the arrangement of the runs of train crews so that in many cases the distances covered can not always be traversed, when conditions are at all adverse, within sixteen hours, and this is especially true of what are known as 'turn' runs, which are universally prof cause they spent at the comfort and

"Resolved, That we, the members of Division 150, of the Order of Railway Conductors, condemn any legislative proposal for the restriction of the number of hours during which railway trainmen shall be permitted to dispose of their labor, and that we especially protest against the passage of the bill known as S. 5132, introduced by Senator La Follette, or any similar measure."

TRAMP PAID DEARLY FOR STOLEN HIDE

With a hip and arm broken and internal injuries, a man whose name is supposed to be William Williams, was found in the railroad yards opposite the depot in Hiesbee, Arizona, by Rev. Harvey M. Shields. He was picked up and taken to the Calumet and Arizona dispensary, where he died before any aid could be given him. He was about 45 years of age. When Williams was found he was intoxicated.

In the dead man's pocket was found a letter addressed to William Williams, and from this it is supposed his name was Williams. On the envelope was a return address to Mrs. Debalon, 2525 Seventeenth street, Denver, Colo. A telegram has been sent her, but no word has been received.

It is thought Williams was bumping his way into Hiesbee and was attempting to leave the train when he was thrown, causing the injuries. That he was not struck by a train is vouched for by the night yardmaster, who claims he knows of no train passing the place where Williams was found that could have hit him. No one in Hiesbee who saw the dead man was able to recognize him.

R. E. Pellow, who was recently appointed the new manager of the Alvarado, is expected here in about ten days. He is now turning over his duties at the El Paso Hotel to his successor, C. W. Sommer, of Chicago, who arrived in that city last Saturday. Mr. Sommer has been in the service a number of years and is sent to El Paso to take charge of the Harvey house, which is an important one in the system. He left the position of assistant superintendent and the dining car department, with headquarters in Chicago.

All employees of the car department of the El Paso and Southern system were given a raise of salary on the first of the year. Some of the men were given a large increase, while others were raised less. The increase averages about 10 per cent and affects over 200 employees of the road.

SOME OF THE 2,000 STORIES LAMPS TOLD MILLIONAIRE

COURT GIVES HIM $5,000 FOR LIGHTENING MISER'S CLOSING DAYS WITH YARNS.

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 7.—Abram Brokaw, millionaire miser, just doted on stories, and for 362 weeks before his death he was told about 2,000 by Captain Lewis Hams. For his service, and for keeping off designing women, and acting as spiritual adviser, nurse, secretary and custodian of the $1,000,000 in securities that Brokaw kept in a bureau, Hams received the magnificent reward of $400. He sued and was given $5,000. Here are samples of some of the stories:

Back in the '40s, the Millerites had many followers, and a day of judgment had been set. In one family, the husband was a believer and the wife a skeptic. One night about midnight, when a thaw had followed a heavy snowfall, they were awakened by a rumbling, crunching sound. Out of bed the husband sprang, shouting: "The world is coming to an

and may the Lord have mercy on sinners!"

"Oh, you simpleton," said the wife, "it's just the snow sliding off the roof."

There were some great hunters in the early days of Illinois, and some of them could spin yarns. One told of pursuing a wolf that ran very slowly, and was easily overtaken and killed. When the wolf was dissected, a four-foot chunk of log chain was found in his alimentary canal. The wolf had assimilated six feet already.

INNOCENT MAN GIVEN A FIFTY-YEAR SENTENCE, BUT NOW HE IS FREE

James Dowdall and His Mother

San Francisco, Jan. 7.—Rescued from a living death in San Quentin penitentiary, to which he had been sentenced for 50 years for a crime of which he was innocent, James Dowdall is today a free man, although he can scarcely realize it.

So terrible was his experience that for a time he actually became a madman. His hair turned gray and he prayed for death, cursing God for not sending it.

The verdict of guilty was hurriedly returned, the sentence of 50 years pronounced, and Dowdall was placed in stripes and taken to San Quentin.

At the end of two weeks John Slemens and Louis Dahner, the gasp-thugs, were arrested. They confessed to the crime for which Dowdall had been convicted, turning over the loot. Everything became as plain as day. Dowdall was proven wholly innocent and instantly released.

"My only realization as I heard the door click behind me," said Dowdall, "was that I was dying—not an ordinary death, but a slow, painful one that might take 50 years. I watched the minutes, each one an hour, and cursed God and everybody. I became a terrified, crying creature, no longer a man."

"Then, one day a man came to the grating in the corridor."

"Hello," he said, "are you Dowdall?"

"I was surprised. 'I guess so,' I said. 'I was once. Now I'm Number 21,859.'"

"You're not," he said. "You're James Dowdall and you will be free in a week. A man named Slemens has confessed to your crime."

"I stood there in wonder. I did not yell. I did not sing. I did not laugh. I was not overjoyed. My mind refused to grasp the thought. It was too big a thing and too unexpected."

"What do I intend to do? I am going back to my mother. She is the only friend I have. We will leave San Francisco forever. We will go where we can be alone to live simply the sweet, beautiful future."
