THIS CITY NEED BE CAREFUL JUST NOW

Conciliation Will do More With Legislature Than Bull Dog Attack. There will be a meeting of the Boosters' club tomorrow night at the Ziegler cafe hall, to discuss lower county salaries and food protection. If the people turn out en masse or if only those invited, "every loyal citizen of Albuquerque," shall be present, it is evident that an adjournment must be taken from the hall to an outside gathering.

The purpose of the meeting is said to be the election of a big delegation to go to Santa Fe and let the legislature know what is wanted by Albuquerque and this part of the Rio Grande valley. The railroad is to be solicited for reduced rates and a grand junketing trip seems to be in anticipation.

The increase in the ordinary expenses of the army and navy is only $3,500,000. The garisons of Korea and Manchuria will be reduced by one division each. The army and navy appropriations amount altogether to $35,000,000, but no mention is made of the progress of the monster battleships now under construction at the government yards, and in England. The Japanese railway guards in Manchuria will be an independent corps of volunteers. The adoption of the two years service system in the infantry will increase the efficient strength of each division by 800 men annually, but it is expected that in two years the standing army will be increased by 150,000 men.

POEMS WE REMEMBER

Bessie's white lips never faltered, for she tore the air to shreds. Though around her was a circle of such sadly aching heads, And she tangled up the hearth-rug, as she wildly would recite To our awful admiration, "Curfew shall not ring tonight!" Bessie gives one that tired feeling, like Auditor Sargent's explanation, in the territorial council, of his opposition to the district attorney bill.

TO STOP UNITED IRISH LEAGUE MEETING.

Dublin, Feb. 11.—Extra police have been drafted into Charles street, Tipperary, today to prevent the holding of a proclaimed United Irish League meeting tonight. Serious trouble is expected. Patrick Purcell, who holds about sixty acres of land, resisted eviction very stubbornly a few days ago. When the landlords, bailiffs and police arrived to evict him they found the house strongly fortified, and garrisoned by a band of young men. The police and bailiffs were beaten back and the eviction was abandoned. All land grabbers have got notice to immediately quit the district to save themselves and others from unnecessary trouble. Moonlight outrages are of nightly occurrence now in Connemara, notwithstanding the large force of extra police. It has been stated that the local authorities intend to proclaim the counties of Galway, Sligo, Mayo and Clare under the peace preservation act.

INVENTOR EDISON SIXTY YEARS OLD TODAY AND WILL

Now Devote His Time to Playing with Electricity Instead of Money Making. INVESTIGATORS IN NEXT 100 YEARS MAY LEARN

New York, Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, is 60 years old today. In an interview yesterday he said it was now time for him to knock off work and play a while. "For forty years I have been making experiments with electricity," said Mr. Edison, "but all these years I have been turning these experiments into commercial value so fast that I have not had chance to play with electricity for the fun of the thing. But from tomorrow I am going to give up the commercial end of it and work in my laboratory purely as a scientist. That will be a pleasure that I have long promised myself." Edison said he would be daring, for a man who would venture a prediction as to the next great step in the application of electricity. "We are all busy collecting data, we investigators," he said, "and may be in 100 years more we will begin to suspect something."

The engine was in charge of Walter Robinson, an expert representing the Shay Locomotive works. He was caught beneath the engine and crushed to death. Leonard Jacobs was also buried beneath the wreckage, and was dead when taken from the mass of broken steel and wood.

TRIAL OF ADAMS BEGAN AT WALLACE TODAY

Considered First Step in Conviction of Leaders of Western FEDERATION OF MINERS FOR GOVERNOR'S DEATH

Spokane, Feb. 11.—A great legal battle for the life of Steve Adams began this morning at Wallace, Idaho. This is considered the first step towards the conviction of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners, who are charged with the assassination of former Governor Frank Steunenberg, of Idaho.

The crime charged against Adams is the murder of Fred Tyler, a settler who disappeared in August, 1904, and whose body was found later. In Harry Orchard's confession, which implicated Adams and other federation men in the murder of the governor, it was declared that Adams and Jack Simpkins killed Tyler because he had taken up a timber claim.

LAIRGE OUTPUT OF GOLD IN SOUTH AFRICA.

London, Feb. 11.—The total gold output from the mines in the Transvaal for January was 529,521 ounces from the Witwatersrand district valued at $11,246,319, and 20,444 ounces from the outside districts valued at $438,495, making a total of $11,684,815. This is the largest total for one month since the mines commenced working. The British South Africa company gives the mineral output in Southern Rhodesia for the month as follows: Gold, 48,323 ounces; silver, 5,515 ounces; lead, 60 tons; coal, 5,547 tons; Copper, 9 tons; wolframite, 1 ton, and chrome ore, 1,344 tons.

AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTION.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 11.—The Bessemer Pig Iron association, which controls about 1,000,000 tons of the 1907 production, has already disposed of four-fifths of that total. Foreign iron is now finding sale in the local markets at slight concession. About 2,000 tons have been sold this week below the recent high prices. There is no falling off however in the inducements to bring the staple across the water. Several cargoes are discharging from South Shields, England, today and more are expected from Glasgow, Scotland. The steel authorities are taking a sanguine view of the situation.

THAW TRIAL WAS RESUMED TODAY UNDER A CHANGE OF CONDITIONS GENERALLY

Judge Forbade Women to be Present and so Thaw's Family Was Absent Except His Wife When Witness.

JUDGE WANTED TRIAL HIS WAY AND NOT DELMAS' WAY

Defence Made Effort to Get Thaw's Will Before the Jury. Then Excused Mrs. Thaw and Called Insanity Expert, Dr. Wagner.

New York, Feb. 11.—The opening of the fourth week of the Thaw trial brought a new order of things in the court room, and all women other than half a dozen active newspaper writers, who have followed the case since the beginning, were barred by order of Justice Fitzgerald. As a result there were several rows of vacant seats, when Thaw was called to the bar.

The prisoner walked to his seat at his counsel's table without a single friendly nod to greet him. No member of his family was in court. That the defense would proceed with the struggle to have Thaw's will accepted in evidence, as testimony to show his unsoundness of mind, was indicated by Delmas, who asked that J. D. Lyon be called as the first witness.

Lyon testified that he has been engaged in the banking business for a quarter of a century and is now connected with the Union National bank. Jerome objected to the defense proceeding with the witness, while the examination of Mrs. Thaw was not complete. He thought that the defense should offer some explanation of its purpose in interrupting Mrs. Thaw's testimony. Delmas stated that he considered that enough evidence had been introduced to establish a prima facie case of unsoundness of mind and he interrupted Mrs. Thaw's testimony to better satisfy the district attorney of this unsoundness.

Lyon Identified the Will. Delmas asked that Lyon merely be allowed to identify the envelope and package (will) it contained. Jerome finally withdrew his objection and the witness identified the package as having been in his possession from some time near April 1, 1906, until the latter part of November, 1906. Attorney J. E. Gleason, who has had charge of Thaw's papers since the tragedy, was the next witness. He said the envelope containing the will was in his possession since December 11, 1906, when he received it by mail from Pittsburgh. Absolutely no change had been made in the document since then.

Mrs. Thaw's Note Produced. Delmas asked Jerome to produce the note which Mrs. Thaw passed to her husband at the Cafe Martin the night of the tragedy. Jerome sent for the note and offered no objection to its being introduced in evidence. Delmas read it as follows: "The b— was here a minute ago, but went out again." "Mrs. Thaw said 'b—' meant 'blackguard,' and referred to Stanford White."

Judge Acts Arbitrarily. Mrs. Thaw asked if she ever knew of her husband carrying a pistol. She replied she knew of it some time after Christmas eve, 1902, but never knew of his carrying a pistol anywhere except in New York. Jerome objected to several questions asked by Delmas, and in each instance Justice Fitzgerald sustained the objection.

Finally Delmas asked if he was to understand that the court's rulings on specific questions were to indicate that no further questions along the line of conversation between the witnesses and defendant were to be allowed. "The court has gone as fully into the matter as it desires," said the judge.

Delmas then changed the nature of his questions, but Jerome still objected, on the broad ground that some alienist should show Harry Thaw was of unsound mind at the time of the occurrence, covered by the questions of the counsel, and that the stories told him might have affected his mind in the way counsel desired to indicate. The judge sustained all objections.

Delmas then announced that as the court's rulings prevented him from going into these matters, because of lack of preliminary foundation he would ask leave to withdraw witness for time being and proceed along other lines. Jerome agreed to the temporary withdrawal and a recess was taken. As the court's ruling has based upon the discharged right to use his discretion as to the matter.

LOBBYISTS AT SANTA FE FOR SAN MIGUEL DIVIDE. Special to The Evening Citizen. Santa Fe, N. M., Feb. 11.—The names of the discharged employees have not yet been announced by the chief clerks, but arrangements are being made to pay them off. Clerk Staplin of the house, has gone to Taos, where his father-in-law, Pat Lyons, died suddenly. Charles Safford, traveling auditor, will be his substitute without pay. No important legislation was slated for today. Lobbyists have reached here from East Las Vegas to advocate the division of San Miguel county.

order in which proof must be offered, and do not go to the subject matter of the questions, if the defense is able to make prima facie case of mental unsoundness at the time of the shooting or prior thereto, then it is understood the evidence which has been excluded will be admissible.

Dr. Wagner on the Stand. The first witness this afternoon was Dr. Charles E. Wagner, alienist. He said that when he first examined Thaw in the Tombs, the latter was suspicious and feared he would be declared insane.

There is a rumor that the jurors in the Thaw case have petitioned the court to hold night sessions. They are weary.

THOMAS EDISON, FAMOUS INVENTOR, FAILING.

Atlantic City, Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison, of East Orange, the famous electrician and inventor, celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday today in a very delicate state of health. He arrived here a few days ago in a special car and took up quarters in the Hotel Chalfonte. He had to be removed from the station to the hotel in a cot and has since been confined to his room. His physicians have given orders that he is to be disturbed on no account. The fact cannot be concealed that he is fast falling but it is hoped that the air of Atlantic City will do him some good. It is stated that Mr. Edison is suffering from paralysis. When taken ill about fourteen days ago, he was putting the finishing touches to a storage motor, which he confidently hoped, would revolutionize electricity.

GREAT WHEAT FIELDS NEAR HUDSON BAY.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—The agricultural committee of parliament are today considering the report of John Macoun, naturalist and the Canadian geological survey, dealing with the possibilities of wheat growing in the more northern latitudes in the Canadian northwest. To the committee Macoun stated that altitude was a determining feature in the agricultural possibilities of that country. When he got three miles back from Hudson bay, he noticed that the effect of that body of water on vegetation disappeared. He also stated that a noteworthy thing about wheat growing was that the grain seemed to accommodate itself to a remarkable degree to the climate in which it was grown. The committee will report to the house in the course of a few days.

TITLE OFThe American Flag--Much
Historical Reminiscence
for Citizen.ORIGINATED DURING THE CIVIL WAR BY A SAILORThe Flag to Which First Applied
Now in the Museum of Salem, Mass.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The addition of another star to the national flag, with the addition of Oklahoma to the union has had the effect of stimulating investigations into origins and traditions that have for years passed unheeded. While iconoclasm has swept away many of the myths dear to the hearts of school-boys for generations, the renewed interest in the subject, tempered and governed by the modern methods of historical research, has thrown a flood of light upon many of the obscure problems in the evolution of the stars and stripes.

Particularly is this true of the striking phrase "Old Glory," which, since the war with Spain in Cuba and the Philippines, has become the popular designation of the starry banner. It is a phrase with blood and iron in it that appeals irresistibly to patriotic imagination and voices an ambitious, aggressive optimism that harmonizes with the new dominant spirit of nationalism. No other nation in the world has so significant a pet name for its standard.

There have been a number of theories as to the beginning of the phrase, and not a few myths have won a brief currency in explanation of its origin. But the story of the false claimants the honor of inventing this striking descriptive phrase appears to belong to an old sea captain and the hour of its birth was in the storm and stress of the life and death struggle of the republic in Cuba and the Philippines. Now agree that the father of "Old Glory" was Capt. William Driver, of Nashville, Tenn., and that the first flag to float under this title is now preserved in the museum at Salem, Mass., where Capt. Driver was born in 1803.

Driver came of sturdy New England stock and was a typical American sailor of the days when the stars and stripes was a familiar spectacle in every port of the world. He won fame as the rescuer of the mutineers of the British ship Bounty in 1811. Driver was in command of the brig Charles Dorr at the time and restored the mutineers to their homes on Pitcairn Island. In 1837 Driver gave up the sea and removed to Nashville, Tenn., where he died in 1886.

The flag that flew at the peak of the Charles Dorr was "Old Glory," and destiny had decreed that it should play an important role in the civil war. Just before the brig left Salem on its cruise in 1831, a party of friends presented Capt. Driver with a large and beautiful American flag. It was done up in strops, and when sent aloft and broken by the breeze, Driver, in his enthusiasm christened it "Old Glory." When he went to Nashville he took the flag with him.

When the civil war broke out, it found the retired shipmaster a determined union man, but he was without sympathy even in his own family. Like most men bred in the habits of command on the sea, he was dictatorially outspoken in his beliefs, and his sentiments were known throughout the city. Naturally he gained the ill will of the more radical of the confederates, and his knowledge of their enmity made him tremble for the safety of his cherished flag which for more than twenty years had proudly floated from the roof of his house on every holiday.

When Tennessee threw off her allegiance to the union and joined her sister states of the confederacy, Capt. Driver's "Old Glory" suddenly disappeared. With passion flaming high in those days of intense feeling, the confederates decided that the flag must be found and destroyed. But the most painstaking searches were in vain. Not a trace of it could be found, and Driver assailed the hunters for the old banner with chuckling derision. With needle and thread, when the days of danger came, Capt. Driver had quilted the old flag into a comforter on his bed, and it remained his bedfellow, unsuspected by the confederates and even by members of his own family, until February 25, 1862, when the federal troops entered Nashville and the stars and stripes floated once more over the state capital.

Driver immediately ripped the protecting stitches out of the old comforter and released the flag he had so jealously guarded and obtained permission to raise the historic ensign in the place of the small regimental colors which were floating over the city. A corporal's guard was sent with the old man to his house and the immense flag, containing 116 yards of bunting, was escorted to the capital and with his own hands he unfurled it from the flagstaff, amid an outburst of enthusiasm from the assembled soldiers. As its broad folds sprung to greet the breeze, Capt. Driver, with tears streaming from his eyes, declared: "Those Texas rangers have been hunting for that flag for these six months without finding it, and they knew that I had it. I have always said that if I could see it float over that capital I should have lived long enough. Now 'Old Glory' is up there, gentlemen, and I am ready to die."

In a letter to a newspaper in Salem, Mass., describing this event, Capt. Driver refers repeatedly to the flag as "Old Glory," and tells how he presented it to the sixth Ohio regiment. He declares that the Ohio soldiers will carry the old banner to the gulf and raise it over the capitol in every cotton state. He was a rather voluminous correspondent, and so persistently did he refer to the flag as "Old Glory" that he won the title of "Old Glory" Driver.

But this predilection that the historic old flag should lead the triumphant march to the sea did not materialize. The first time it was raised over the Tennessee capitol a sack was blowing and, in addition to this, during the night a large number of confederate bullets plowed their way through the folds of the banner. His great purpose accomplished, Capt. Driver, fearing the destruction of his beloved flag, replaced it with a newer and stronger standard, which he had concealed with "Old Glory." This second flag he presented to the sixth Ohio, and it was carried by that regiment until the close of the war. While on its way home, in the headquarters baggage wagon, a mule with an omnivorous appetite nosed it out, and before discovery was made had eaten half of the bullet-torn colors.

Capt. Driver kept as a sacred relic the flag he had so successfully guarded—the original "Old Glory." After his death it found a resting place in the Salem museum.

One of the myths shattered by recent investigations of the origin of the national flag is that which had attributed the derivation of both the stars and stripes in the flag to the coat of arms of the family of George Washington, which includes both of these devices. But beyond this coincidence there is no evidence whatever to prove the assertion. The most recent authority, Peleg D. Harrison, after painstaking investigation of the subject, says:

"Those who have thoroughly investigated the subject say that no mention of any connection of the Washington escutcheon with our national flag has been found in Washington's correspondence or writings. Neither is it alluded to in the published correspondence of his contemporaries. Had these devices been derived from his arms, it seems certain that Washington or some associate would have been very likely to have mentioned the honor that his selection conferred upon him."

The stripes on the continental union flag, the immediate predecessor of our national emblem, may have been formed by placing six white stripes across the red ensign of the United Kingdom. Historian Benson Lowndes would never believe that the Washington arms were the beginning of the flag, and so expressed himself in a letter to Thomas Gibbons. He thought the stripes might have been suggested by the flag of the English East India company, with which the colonists in the sea ports had long been familiar.

The idea of the adoption of stars as a device for a national standard may have originated in Boston, as the earliest known suggestion of a star for an American ensign appeared in the Massachusetts Spy of March 10, 1774, more than three years prior to the establishment of the stars and stripes.

SIERRA COUNTY RANCHMEN
SUFFER INDIAN DEPREDATIONSHistory of Murder of D. A. Saunders.
Work For Territorial Rangers.

According to what seems to be an authentic report, one day last week, some cowboys in the employ of T. J. Ross, of Hermosa, when out on the range unexpectedly ran across a bunch of five Indians near the lakes on the Rio Seco, near the Sierra County Advocate. When discovered the Indians were cutting up a beef which they had just killed; they had also killed a horse. When the boys appeared on the scene the Indians fled. On March 19th, 1905, D. A. Saunders, of this place was shot to death on the Animas. Fred Mills was arrested and tried for the crime, but was acquitted. During the trial the defense attempted to prove that the murder was committed by Indians, but the proposition met with strong disfavor. But Mills was cleared simply because the prosecution established the time of the killing that made it impossible for Mills to have been at the scene of the murder as established by the prosecution. Mills proved a clear alibi, but the public mind was not satisfied—the Indian part was generally denounced a fraud, and the murder remained a mystery, to be solved by time. Time never ceases its onward course. Last September a party of several Indians raised Chas. A. Anderson's ranch on South Fork, not far from Chisler, this county, stole some horses, took his provisions and his bedding. Several cowboys took the trail of the marauders and after five days riding they overtook the Indians, and just what happened the public can only surmise by the Indian trophies that the boys brought back with them. Among the articles of plunder captured from the Indians was a gold watch and also a revolver, both of which were positively identified as belonging to Saunders and were carried by him when killed. The recovery of the watch and the gun solved the Saunders murder. And now there are more than twenty Indians in the mountains, whose fault it is that they are there? If the territorial rangers want to get real busy let them take up the trail of the outlaws. If these Indians are not captured or run out of the country there will be more mysterious murders.

Plays And Players

(By Bernard Cowen.)

New York, Feb. 11.—Last week brought forth two important new productions and the revival of several old ones with new and varied interpretations.

At the Liberty theatre we have had for the first night another play of western life, "Salome Jane," based on Bret Harte's novel "Salome Jane's Kiss." The play was as well received as have been the other western successes. The adaptation was especially prepared for Miss Eleanor Robeson by Paul Armstrong. The effect of the play was heightened by several features which proved a novelty to New Yorkers. A background of novel scenic effect is made by the famous "redwoods" of the region and the four acts and five scenes of the play take place wholly within the boundaries of Calaveras county, California. The characters of the play, fourteen in all, were taken from the life that surrounds the district. The action is confined to a period of only sixteen hours extending from the afternoon to the following dawn. Much difficulty was experienced in securing the cast because of the odd western "types" in the new play, which aside from Miss Robeson, includes H. R. Warner, Reuben Fox, Ralph Delmore, Holbrook Blinn, Earle Browne, Henry Harmon, Stephen Wright, James Seelye, Ada Dwyer, Frances Golden Fuller and Ruth Abbott Wells.

At the Lyric theatre E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe began their first engagement under the management of Lee Schubert. They selected for their first week "John the Baptist" by Herman Sudermann. The time of the play is 29 A. D. and it is performed in five acts with a prelude. The prelude shows the wild and rocky country near Jerusalem at night time. The people are eagerly discussing the announcement of the marriage of Herodias to her brother-in-law, Herod Antipas, traitor of Galilee. Herodias having left her husband, Philip, the brother of Herod, and fled to Herod's palace, carrying with her, her daughter, Salome. When John learns of the intentions of Herodias he declares his purpose of going to the palace to denounce the marriage. The first meeting between John the Baptist, Herodias, Herod and Salome takes place during the first act in an open square before Herod's palace. The second act shows a hall in Herod's palace and the living room of Herodias and Salome. Herodias has sent for John to remonstrate with him for having reproached her in public in the market places of Jerusalem. She tries to win him to her side and to overcome his opposition to her marriage to Herod. She offers him power and the kingdoms of the world, even going so far as to point to Salome and suggest that she might be offered as the price of his silence. In majestic lines and with great show of play John indignantly refuses. The third act is divided into two scenes. The first taking place in a room in the house of Jehoshaphat and the second showing a stony open space in front of the eastern gate of the temple, called the Gate of Shushan. The people are assembled at the temple waiting the arrival of Tetrarch, when Herod, Herodias and their train of followers enter. John goes up the steps to the temple to bar his way. The people await in anxious expectation, most of them having picked up stones, ready to hurl them at the approaching procession. The servants of Herod approach John, seize him, push him from the steps of the temple and lead him off in chains.

John's prison in the city of Galilee is shown in the fourth act. Two of his disciples call upon him there and tell him of the coming of Jesus, who is reported to be on the way near the city. John gives them a message to Him, expressing his belief that he cannot die before he hears the answer.

In those days, Carillo wrote, "Wilde's thoughts were basted only with the lustful dance of Salome. No day went by without his talking to me of Salome. Now it was a passing fancy, now he started his dreaming of the Hebrew princess, again he stood for hours before the jeweler's windows building for himself the ideal combination of gems with which to festoon the body of his idol. One evening he asked me suddenly in the midst of the street, 'Don't you think she is better entirely naked?' He was thinking of Salome. 'Yes,' he went on, 'absolutely naked. But strewn with jewels, all ringing and tinkling in her hair, on her ankles, her wrists, her throat, enclosing her head and heightening with their myriad glittering reflections the unchastity of that unchaste amber flesh. For of an unknown Salome, who is a mere tool, I refuse to hear a word; no, Salome knows.' Another time his Salome was all chastity.

"Once we were at Jean Lorrain's. Before the picture of a beheaded woman, a very pale head, Wilde exclaimed, 'Why, this is Salome,' and at once he imagined a princess who brings her lover the head of John, and then immediately sends her own head also, because she fancies her self despised by the young man. 'It is exactly like that,' he whispered. Nubian gospel discovered by Bois-siere tells of a young philosopher to whom a Jewish princess makes a present of an apostle's head. The youth says to her smilingly, 'What I had rather have is your own head, sweetheart!' On that she goes away, pale and that evening a slave brings the young philosopher on a golden plate the poor little head of his sweetheart. The scholar says 'Why all this blood, and goes on reading Plato. Don't you think that is Salome?'

Seldom has the frothy musical charm of Rossini's opera, "The Barber of Seville" been so delightfully displayed to the public as it was this week at the Manhattan opera house. When this work was given its first performance of the present season, throughout the evening the audience was kept in smiles. The whole performance was bubbling with mirth. The song of the Count d'Almaviva was given with a vigor and a good voice at the start. He soon found himself and, in addition to singing beautifully, he acted with far more freedom than at any previous time here. Rosina was sung by Plunkert, who was at her very best in this colorful role.

ROOSEVELT'S RICH "LOAFER" FRIEND MAKES STARTLING EXPOSURES OF RAILROAD FINANCE

CLOSELY GUARDED AND SENSATIONAL SECRETS OF OVER-CAPITALIZATION AND "UNDERGROUND" METHODS OF DOING BUSINESS LAID BARE BY THE FREELANCE INVESTIGATION OF C. S. HANKS—UNVEILS ENORMOUS WEALTH HIDDEN BY THE RAILROADS—ALARMED, THE GREAT TRANSPORTATION TRUST FLIES TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE, TO SQUELCH HANKS, WHO HAS, HOWEVER, SERIOUSLY IMPRESSED THE PRESIDENT.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—The "friend at court" of the railroads, the United States senate, promises a big reaction over a movement to amend the Hepburn bill so that it will give the interstate commerce commission power to lower railroad rates all over the country, place a specific valuation upon railroads and place a limit upon their capitalization.

The first picket gun in the senate has been fired in a resolution to investigate the authority of C. S. Hanks to compile statistics for the interstate commerce commission.

Hanks has made a partial report to President Roosevelt personally, but has not completed his labors. So far he is convinced that there is possible a scientific basis for railroad rate-making. This is contrary to all authorities on the subject, including the interstate commerce commission. How seriously the president is impressed is shown by the fact that he has appointed a special commission to inspect Hanks' work and report to him in person.

Here are some things Hanks says he has found:

Railroad capitalized at four million made to carry thirty million two years later.

Railroad capitalized at $846,000 per mile. Cost of a mile not over $50,000.

Railroads organize terminal and switching companies on capital provided by the public. Public gets 6 per cent interest on bonds; terminal companies paid from 30 to 700 per cent by railroads as "rentals."

STORY OF A "LOAFER'S" HUNT FOR BIG BEAR.

(By Gilson Gardner.)

Special Correspondence. Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—This is the remarkable story of a rich man who has been working for the public without salary for the simple reason that President Roosevelt, who was his classmate at college, told him that he was a loafer.

His name is Has, Stedman Hanks. He has been in Washington for seven months, paying his own board, hiring experts and drugging during the midnight hours to accomplish something which he thinks will be of service to the man in the street.

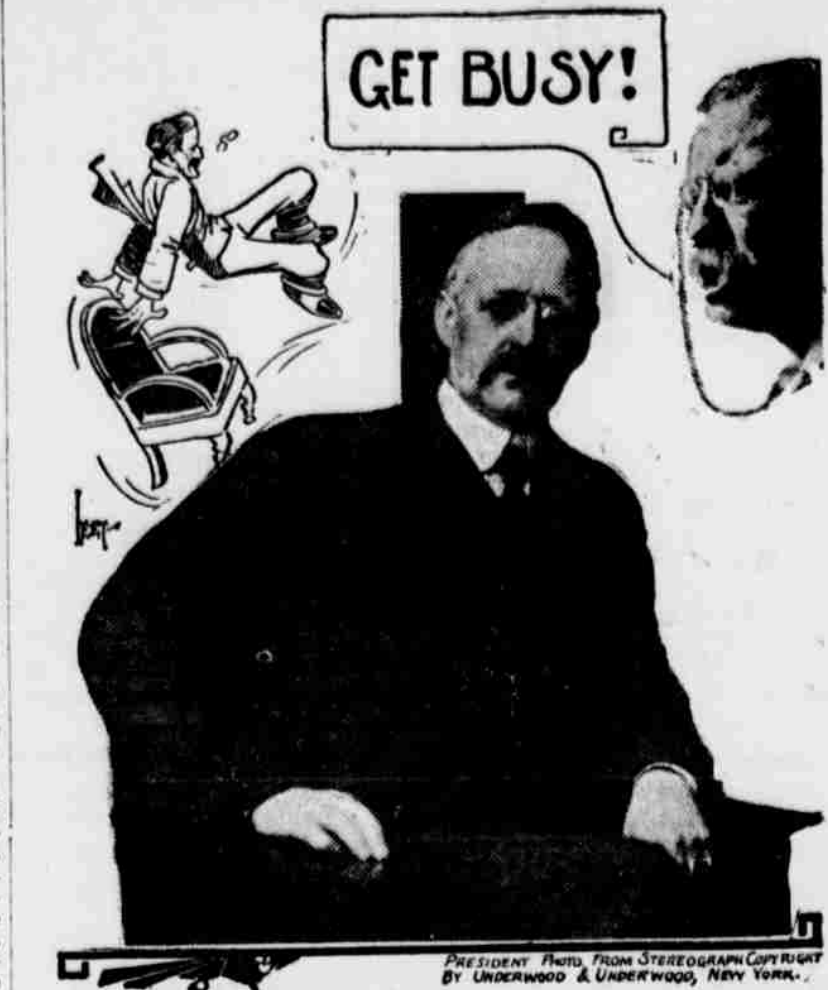

Mr. Hanks believes the government ought to see that railroad rates are reduced materially all along the line. He thinks the president's rate bill is good enough so far as it goes, but he has a very firm conviction that the machinery for making it effective is not as perfect as it should be.

The president and Hanks are good friends. They have enjoyed outdoor sports together. Mr. Roosevelt did not mean in an offensive sense that Hanks was a loafer. What he meant was that Hanks was a drowsy, a picher whose talents could well be devoted to the general good without entailing a sacrifice. He suggested a line of activity when Hanks one day told him that the interstate commerce commission's statistics were no good.

"Prove it," said the president. "Give me a chance and I will," said Hanks.

"I will give you all the chance in the world," said the president. "Go ahead. Use the machinery of the interstate commerce commission. Put your experts to work doing anything that is necessary. Make good."

Starts To Prove It. Mr. Hanks proceeded to open headquarters at the interstate commerce commission's office, and has been at work. Now he is ready to talk, but

ROOSEVELT'S RICH FRIEND, C. S. HANKS, WHOM THE PRESIDENT TOLD TO "GET BUSY," AND WHO GOT SO BUSY THAT THE GREAT RAILROAD TRUST FINANCIERS ARE SERIOUSLY ALARMED.

"When a certain railroad, not far from Boston, has each mile post set so that the road is a mile short in every 43 miles, and when certain other railroads on Aug. 27, the day before the Hepburn law went into effect, sent a car load of its books out on its lines and had them burned, one is apt to light a cigar and have another thought on the ethics of corporate management."—C. S. Hanks.

not to tell the whole story yet.

"Since last June," said Mr. Hanks to your correspondent, "I have been at work in Washington at the offices of the interstate commerce commission, and I have spent several thousand dollars of the good money of the United States in clerical services, and some of my own, to show that the freight and passenger rates of this country can be reduced ten per cent without affecting the dividends or the stock of any railroad or the wages of any employee."

Capital Upon Capital. "In connection with this work certain other facts have come to my attention which may be of interest. For example, I found in my examination of the railroad reports that a few years ago a certain railroad corporation obtained control of a small railroad line capitalized at $5,000,000, and within two years this road, after being absorbed by the larger system, was capitalized at $30,000,000. That this road was able to float this extra $25,000,000 worth of bonds and stock on the market may not interest us, but we are interested in the fact that whatever we ship over this system has to pay freight rates sufficient to allow the road to pay interest on this over-capitalization."

Any Ethics Count. "Another case which came to my attention is that 102 miles of a certain railroad system is capitalized at $846,000 a mile, and when we keep in mind that the average cost of building a road is anywhere from $29,000 to $50,000 a mile, one can begin to realize that the real railroad situation is not what it is popularly supposed to be."

"I could give you a basket full of similar illustrations of over-capitalized railroads, and because of such knowledge one can have many a good

"I have been told on good authority that certain Wall street men, who controlled a certain large railroad system, regularly telegraphed instructions the last of each month from New York to the main office of the railroad what the books should show the net earnings were to be for that month."—C. S. Hanks.

think whether business ethics apply to corporate management or not.

The Terminal Trick.

"Take another class of cases. A railroad from A. to B is earning so much money that it cannot even conceal its earnings. It therefore, incorporates on the line of the road a terminal station or a switching company. If it is to be a terminal station the cost of building it is paid for by selling to the public terminal bonds, the railroad corporation keeping the stock which represents the ownership. It is, consequently, a family combination which the public does not trouble itself about, as the interest on the bonds is regularly paid. Under the charge 'rent for tracks, yards and terminals,' which covers every station on the line of the road, an exorbitant rental charge is paid to this particular terminal company."

"The game of checkers is in getting a large amount of money out of the column of 'earnings from operations' into the column of 'earnings from other sources' so that the railroad earnings of the road will be hidden and the public cannot demand lower freight and passenger rates."

"The statistics of the interstate commerce commission show 365 such terminal and switching companies. My correspondence with the railroad corporations disclosed 720 such companies. Sometimes the stock of these terminals is not owned by the railroads themselves, but by individuals who are in the deal, and when I tell you that this stock pays 30 per cent, 45 per cent, 50 per cent and in one case 700 per cent, one is inclined to sit up and think."

ALBUQUERQUE MAN TAKES SOCORRO HOTEL

Negotiations are in progress whereby R. A. Avery of Albuquerque will doubtless become the lessee of the Winkler hotel of this city, says the Socorro Chieftain. The change in proprietorship has been made necessary by the fact that Mr. Winkler and family must have a rest from the hard work they have been doing for some time in conducting both a hotel and a mercantile business. Mr. Avery is a hotel man of eighteen years experience and comes to Socorro highly recommended for his business ability and integrity. It is his purpose to conduct the hotel of which he is about to take charge in the very best manner that circumstances and his knowledge of the business will permit. It is expected that he will take charge of the business immediately. The Chieftain bespeaks for the hotel under the new management the same liberal patronage that has always been extended to it.

BACK GIVES OUT.

Plenty of Albuquerque Readers Have This Experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them—They can't keep up the continual strain. The back gives out—it aches and pains.

Urinary troubles set in. Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. L. H. Wentworth, 316 Eighth street, East Las Vegas, N. M., says: "I am glad to recommend your Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me cure my complaint of five or six years standing. I had backache very bad and I wore plasters nearly all the time, but my greatest trouble was with the kidney secretions which were very scanty. Doan's Kidney Pills removed every symptom of the backache and entirely cured the urinary trouble. I think that a remedy as good as Doan's Kidney Pills should be known by every kidney sufferer."

OPPOSED TO ALL REPUBLICAN ISSUES

Such is Verdict of Governor Herrick, of Ohio, on Senator Foraker.

DEAD ENGINEER HOLDS THROTTLE FOR A MILE

White House Green-houses Receive Valuable Collections of Orchids.

Washington, D. C., When former Governor Herrick, of Ohio, was in the city to attend a meeting of the McKinley Memorial association, he gave out the following interview:

"Senator Foraker's attitude in this affair is not much of a surprise to us out in Ohio," remarked Governor Herrick. "We do not regard it so much an evidence of his love for the colored man, but rather as his availing himself of an opportunity to oppose a republican administration. You know of the man who is always 'agin' the government." Well, Senator Foraker may not be 'agin' the government," but he has maintained an unbroken record of being 'agin' republican administrations, whether state or national.

"This opposition seems to be temperamental and constitutional in his case. Therefore, we take it less seriously, perhaps, than other people are inclined to take it."

"As we recall history in Ohio, Senator Foraker has been opposed to every prominent republican who seemed to be in his way or whom he conceived to be inimical to his interests. For instance, among those he has opposed we can recall Sherman, McKinley, Hanna, Nash, Herrick—I refer to myself as governor—Taft, Burton and Dick, until Dick's surrender. As for national administrations, he opposed Harrison and McKinley, while the country is thoroughly informed as to his attitude toward the Roosevelt administration."

"In fact, as I now recall it, the senator has been out of sympathy with republican administrations, both state and national, for the last twelve years. As I said before, if it were not for these facts, we might take his championship of the colored brother as against President Roosevelt more seriously."

SENSE OF DUTY KEPT

DEAD HAND ON THROTTLE.

Philadelphia: For about one mile the Pennsylvania railroad's Congressional limited was piloted through the night, over switches and past sidings, by a corpse. The engineer, Joseph Thomas, had been killed at the Diamond street bridge, and his battered head was hanging out of the cab window, although the left hand, its habit so firmly ingrained that death could not break it, still held the throttle firmly.

This train is one of the fastest on the road. There were seven Pullman cars attached to the big locomotive, and in spite of the snow the express was being whirled through on time. Between the Schuylkill river and the North Philadelphia station there is a stretch of track where engineers are in the habit of running at high speed.

George Michener, the fireman, says that he spoke to Thomas just before reaching the Diamond street bridge, and it is certain that the accident must have taken place there, for there are no other bridges farther on which have abutments close enough to the tracks to do any damage.

Thomas must have leaped out of the cab to look at his locomotive. There was no sound by the accident, and the fireman did not know anything was wrong until the station was near, and the train seemed to be on the point of rushing by it at the rate of sixty miles an hour.

"Hey, Joe," he called, "what's the matter?" There was, of course, no answer. Then Michener sprang over to the engineer's seat of the cab and saw what had happened. He closed the throttle and brought the train to a stop, somewhat more suddenly than usual, perhaps, but the passengers did not know what had happened.

Thomas' body was lifted from the cab and sent to an undertaking establishment. The engineer was 45 years old. Several other engineers on the road had been killed by these bridges with some abutments close to the tracks. Michener continued his run with another engineer.

PRESIDENT'S PREROGATIVE

QUITE WORTH HAVING.

Washington, D. C., George H. Brown, landscape gardener of the public grounds in the District of Columbia, has just received a lot of rare orchids. The plants came as a present to Mrs. Roosevelt, and represent the varieties to be found in the Philippine islands. They will be placed among the flowers intended for use in the executive mansion.

Three of the thirty-three green-houses under Mr. Brown's supervision are set aside for the white house flowers, and here the president's favorite heliotropes and tube roses are jealously cared for. Mrs. Roosevelt plus her faith to the white jessamine, and her second choice is the pink "Killarney" rose. The pink cactus dahila, however, is named for Mrs. Roosevelt.

The president's strawberry patch is doing finely this year, and he may expect to enjoy the first ripe berries from the greenhouses about the latter part of March, as the fruit is now

MARRIED TWICE WITHIN

LIMITS OF SAME MONTH.

New York: J. Clifford Fagan and Miss Eva Elizabeth Sraw, who lives next door with her mother and step-father, have been married twice in the last four weeks, notwithstanding the stepfather's elaborate precautions to prevent their union.

They are seeking his forgiveness now, and may get it. Miss Shaw lacked two days of being eighteen, but Clifford was twenty-four, and they say they didn't know the law as well as they might. So they went at 5 a. m. to the Rev. Henry M. Warren and were married.

The girl told her mother, who reminded her that the marriage had a flaw in it, as the bride was under the age of consent. The mother advised the daughter to have another ceremony performed, and it was done.

WILLING TO BE SECOND,

THOUGH NOT THE FIRST.

New York: James W. Pickens, son of the late Governor J. W. Pickens, of Mississippi, a soldier of fortune, and Mrs. Rosalia D. Uffly, whom he came to wed when he heard her husband was dead, were married in this city and have left for South Carolina to spend their honeymoon. He came from Uruguay, South America.

Pickens went to Bastrop, Texas, some years ago to work on a ranch, and there met Rosalia Dove, daughter of a rich ranchman. He loved her, but she married another, and that set the governor's son roaming.

He traveled South America over and never heard a word from Texas until recently, when he learned that his rival was dead. He renewed his suit and won. The widow met him in this city and they were married by Rev. Henry M. Warren.

SENATOR ELKINS LOSES

CASE INVOLVING $5,000.

Washington, D. C.: A verdict of $5,000 against Senator Stephen H. Elkins, of West Virginia, was rendered in the circuit court in favor of Robert Burton and George A. Durbell, both of Baltimore, in their suit for $500,000 for services rendered in connection with the acquisition of the Western Maryland railroad by the West Virginia state.

Attorney Worthington late in the afternoon filed a motion for a new trial, basing this motion upon the three following reasons:

Because the verdict was contrary to the evidence; because the jury in rendering the verdict evidently disregarded the instructions of the court, and because of errors in law in the instructions given to the jury by the court.

Mr. Worthington served notice on Attorney Calvert that he would call this motion up in the circuit court Friday morning. Mr. Calvert accepted service of the notice, but declined to waive the two days' notice allowed under the practice of the court, and the motion cannot, therefore, be made until Friday, Feb. 15, the next succeeding motion day in this court.

Mr. Calvert declined to make any comment upon the verdict, and stated that until he had a conference with Attorneys Osborne, I. Yellott and Edward M. Hammond, of Baltimore, and Forest W. Brown, of Charlottesville, Va., nothing would be determined as to further procedure in the case.

When Cascarets Candy Cathartic were invented in 1836, and the formula was perfected after much experimental labor by highly scientific chemists, it was our aim not only to produce a perfect combination of EFFECTIVE CONSTITUENTS, but to have every ingredient the very best in point of PURITY and QUALITY that could be obtained.

We established a standard of PURITY and QUALITY and MEDICINAL STRENGTH, that has been maintained for all these years, and every Cascaret tablet has been as harmless, pure, gentle and effective as every other one.

The substances that enter into a medicinal formula, to produce the desired effect, to be SAFE and ever TRUSTWORTHY, MUST be clean, fresh, carefully selected and compounded with painstaking supervision.

The eternal vigilance necessary to secure the ingredients of Cascarets in the most PERFECT CONDITION, so as to get the best effect without any danger from intruding substances, has never been relaxed.

What is the result?

There has never been a disappointment, never a complaint. The people of America are today buying over ONE MILLION BOXES a month of Cascarets Candy Cathartic, a recognition of their dependable qualities to do what is claimed for them, as the best medicine FOR THE BOWELS as yet discovered.

Our patrons are all our friends, loyal and more than satisfied of the standard, honest, reliable MERIT of our preparation. It is today the greatest FAMILY MEDICINE in the world.

We attribute Cascarets' great success to PURITY, QUALITY and MEDICINAL EFFICIENCY, backed by Truth and Honesty in our dealings.

The Congress of the United States, on June 30, 1906, passed a PURE FOOD AND DRUGS ACT to protect the Health of the People against adulteration, misstatement and careless processes. This law went into effect January 1, 1907, and will help to banish all questionable practices and preparations. We endorse the law.

The essence of this law was anticipated by the makers of Cascarets when the first box was made ten years ago, and every precaution was taken to establish Cascarets as the standard, reliable and responsible Bowel medicine for the American People.

We shall continue in our purpose to produce the best product possible, and are proud of the confidence of our friends, a commercial confidence which will never be betrayed. All druggists, 10c, 25c, 50c. Try a little 10c box TODAY. 75c

ATTORNEY JEROME'S METHODS

The Citizen reproduces the following editorial from the Denver Republican, giving it this paper's most hearty endorsement. Too often the office of district attorney is prostituted to personal ends—sometimes by the little fry to punish their enemies, sometimes by the larger lights to secure additional notoriety for themselves. But here is what the Republican said on Friday:

"Without regard to the question of the guilt or innocence of the defendant, the methods used by District Attorney Jerome in prosecuting the case against Harry Thaw, charged with the murder of Stanford White, are anything but those which a public prosecutor should employ.

"While the lawyers representing the defendant in a criminal prosecution have a right to take advantage of any defense which may be available, standing squarely upon the legal presumption of his innocence, the duty of a district attorney is solely to bring out the facts and show what the truth is concerning the person accused of violating the law.

"It would be abominable for a district attorney to suppress evidence within his knowledge by which the innocence of the accused might be established, even though the defendant's counsel might be ignorant of the existence of such evidence or, knowing it, might not appreciate its importance.

"The end and aim of every prosecution under the criminal laws should be justice, for the state has no greater interest in the punishment of those who violate its laws than in the acquittal of those whose innocence may be established. To punish the innocent is a far more heinous crime, if done with knowledge and deliberation, than any offense of which the victim of such malice may be guilty.

"District Attorney Jerome seems to be more interested in posing as an expert cross-examiner than as an officer of the people sworn to see that the laws are executed. He is in the lime light now, and nothing could afford him greater delight. To him the trial of Thaw is a melo-drama in which he plays a leading role, and the more sensational it becomes, the more will he be pleased.

"Were he to offer as an excuse his desire to secure the conviction and punishment of criminals, it could be shown that a fair, yet earnest and thorough prosecution, manifesting a desire to get at the truth in all cases, would result in far more convictions than the stacy methods which he employs can ever secure."

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

In the adjoining column The Citizen reproduces an article from the New York World, on gambling in Arizona. While the article is written in a humorous strain, it contains more truth than poetry. The Citizen has no approval of gambling. The writer of this knows not a single game of chance or skill on which money is won or lost. He never made but one bet in his life, and he is absolutely unable to comprehend the feeling of the man who can sit up all night at a game, or who will risk his hard-earned money on the turn of a card, the throw of dice, the revolution of a wheel or the result of any other contingent event, whether it be the election of the president or the outcome of a horse race.

But while he cannot comprehend the feeling which leads to these things, he knows that such feeling exists in human nature, that it exists among all people, tribes and kindreds of the earth, that it has existed through all the past and that it exists in this age fully as strongly as it existed in the ages which have gone before.

Actual experience has been that to grapple with it successfully requires vastly more than the enactment of a law and the placing of it on the statute book. The sentiment of the community must back the law, and even then gambling will go on in secret places, where the eye of the law does not reach. All that can be hoped for from legal enactment, is to deprive gambling of its public character and as a licensed business. The general evolution of sentiment in a community is the only effective remedy.

In the meantime, so long as gambling is a legal business, the wholesale abuse of the men who pay their license and carry it on under the law, is ill-timed and improper. This writer has known men engaged in gambling who were honorable in all their dealings with their fellowmen. In fact, there seems no reason why the man behind the game should not be as respectable as the man in front of it. The one who creates the demand for any thing is on an absolute parity, as far as that thing is concerned, with the one who supplies the demand.

BUSINESS MAN'S HINT

The Autobiography of a Business Man is an interesting article published in Everybody's Magazine. The following reference to advertising in newspapers is selected from the article for the benefit of some Albuquerque men engaged in business, who have the notion that window and bill board advertising are ample for their purposes:

"For a number of years I advertised only in my windows and in some of the street cars, because I did not feel that I could afford to advertise in the daily papers. Two years ago last September I was having a cravatette coat sale, and I succeeded in selling for a couple of weeks, about fifty coats a day. I thought I would try a column ad in one of the morning papers. I selected the paper this ad appeared in because they gave me a good position in the paper. The result was the next day the sales, which formerly had been about fifty a day, jumped to 143, and in fifty days I sold over 5,000 rain coats.

"For the year following that sale I continued to advertise in this one paper. Last fall I felt that I could afford to invest, say about $5,444 in advertising in some of the other papers. I used three morning papers and three evening papers, the best in Chicago. The results have been something phenomenal. I did not have to invest the $5,000. The profits came back from the newspapers' advertising before their bills came in, and I do not figure today that I have a dollar invested in advertising."

The morning democrat organ pretends to be very sorry because its chickens have come home to roost. So it proceeds to vilify the legislative house most villainously. It has been said from time of old that honey catches more flies than vinegar, and only one without sense enough to go in out of a rain could imagine for a moment that the way to secure a favor is to blackguard those having that favor under their control. The conclusion is therefore inevitable, the morning democrat organ either lacks sense or had a desire to prevent Albuquerque's obtaining this needed assistance. The latter is the more probable in view of the fact that the organ has become more virulent, outrageous and intolerant in its abuse of the house, since it has become known that a reconsideration of the bill by the house might not be impossible.

The following sketch of the great lawyer who is so successfully conducting the Thaw trial, is taken from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Philip Michael Delmas was born in France on April 14, 1844. He removed to California in his boyhood, and was graduated from the Santa Clara college with the degree of A. B. in 1862. A. M. in 1863, and received the degree of Ph. D. in 1893. He was graduated from the Yale law school an LL. D. in 1865. On April 7, 1868, he married Pauline Hope, in San Francisco. After his admission to the California bar in 1868 he practiced law in San Jose until 1882, and since then in San Francisco. He was elected district attorney of Santa Clara county in 1888. He was chosen regent of the university of California in 1885 and delegate-at-large to the democratic national convention in St. Louis in 1894. He is a Catholic, a member of the Pacific and Union clubs, and the author of "Speeches and Addresses," published in 1901. He resides at Casa Delmas, Santa Clara county, and has his office at 210 Call building, San Francisco.

GOVERNMENT MAPS SHOWING WIDE RANGE OF MISSOURI RIVER

One of the most striking instances of the damage which follows the shifting channels of large rivers is well shown in maps of Leavenworth, Kans., where especially careful surveys have been made from time to time by army officers stationed on the government reservation.

At this point, as well as for many miles both up and down stream, the Missouri river wanders in an aimless manner back and forth across the bottom lands it has cut out for itself and not only changes its course with each flood, but is continually, to a lesser degree, eating into its banks and washing away farms and crops in a manner most discouraging to the industrious agriculturist.

Careful surveys were made of the river bottoms in 1880 by army engineers and detailed maps were engraved which are now nearly valueless because of the subsequent shifting of the channel. Surveys made at the request of the war department during the past season by Glenn Smith, of the United States geological survey, have helped to call attention to these changes. A comparison of Mr. Smith's map with those of earlier years shows very clearly the drainage which has resulted from the varying channel.

The valley floor is now about three miles wide and nearly level and, where safe from overflow and cutting, produces splendid crops of wheat and corn. This ground is also valuable for its minerals, as it is underlain by a fine vein of soft coal. These lands are nominally worth from $100 to $125 an acre, but owing to the fact that state lines may be shifted any spring by an excessive flood or the farms wiped out entirely, values are necessarily uncertain. The channels have shifted so rapidly in late years that, whereas fifteen years ago steamboats plied regularly as far up river as Omaha, there is now no line above Kansas City. At many points the channel has shifted in these fifteen years over a mile of ground, and where once were fertile farms are now only brushy, gravel banks and worthless sand bars.

The government spends each year great sums of money for making maps and in recent years those prepared by the geological survey have been used as the basis for preparing plans for land reclamation work of all kinds. On them are given all the data needed for locating the irrigation systems of the arid region, the drainage works for large tracts of swampy land or the controlling works for such rivers as the. It may be said that their importance in such connections is only beginning to be appreciated.

The surveys begun last summer by Mr. Smith will probably be completed during the coming year. The resulting map which will cover an area of approximately 400 square miles, or ten miles in each direction from the army post, will be known as the Leavenworth Special. It will be drawn on a scale of 24 inches to a mile.

MUCK RAKING SHOULD BE FOLLOWED BY REFORM YEAR

Nineteen hundred and six will have in history the unique distinction of "the muck-rake year."

It was pre-eminently a year of exposure.

There is reason to hope that as a result 1907 will be marked as a year of decided reforms.

Newspapers, magazines and public men of all stations have united in the denunciation of existing wrongs. They may be expected now to unite in demand for effective correction.

It looked for a while during the past year as though the affairs of the country were mighty bad. But just when they were by exposures made to look the worst they were really at their best.

For all the exposures developed nothing actually new except an ennobled public conscience.

And an ennobling of the public conscience is the best thing that can happen to any people.

We simply opened our eyes to evils that had long existed. And now that our eyes are opened to them it may be expected that our hands will be raised against them.

The year 1906 was a cry of shame. The year 1907 ought to be a shout of triumph.

The insurance scandals, the packing-house abuses, the railway rebates and various methods of trust machinations in evasion of the laws have been laid bare and partially corrected.

A notable step has been taken in the prosecution and in some instances the conviction of a type of criminals who heretofore have regarded themselves as immune from prosecution because of their standing in the business world.

Never before have opportunity and public spirit more auspiciously come together for tremendous reforms.

The next page of American history ought to be the best in the book.

GAMBLING PROBLEM NOT BY ANY MEANS EASILY ENDED

On the first of April, according to a bill just passed and signed, gambling must stop in Arizona. Believing apparently that there is no levity about the prescribed date, the tiger has gone into mourning. There is crape on the roulette wheels and the faro layouts are stacked off with candles. The days are days of despair at Phoenix and the nights are nights of sorrow. All Arizona wonders what, for soulful recreation, is to take the place of the games which, for thirty years, have been open ones in the territory.

Such desperate grief is touching in the contemplation. It might bring tears to the eyes of a Gila monster. And yet, here in New York, back of the pity which rises naturally for fellow-men in distress, a suspicion will lurk that the mourning in Phoenix may prove to have been premature.

We remember that the Empire State has powerful anti-gambling laws. They are imbedded in the constitution. They penetrate the penal code. Apparently they are as baffling as the steel bars of a Frank Parrell fortress of chance in the mid-metropolis. Nevertheless, there is joy of life and the green table still remains for those who seek with pleasure, persistence and a pull.

It is of record, we think, that one Al Adams plied up millions in a game too mean to be called gambling, that "The" Allen has grown old at taking bets without an indictment, that almost three hundred pool-rooms do business in New York City with only occasional interruption and that, as regards the higher-up phases of the pastime of risk, Canfield's has never been missed in the closing.

The more the thing is looked at, the stronger grows the feeling that Arizona has really responded to a false alarm. Life had grown a trifle tame out there. The glory of the road agent had departed. It was no longer considered exciting, eccentric or expedient to shoot up a town. And the statehood situation has become but mildly irritating. Something was needed to give a new zest to territorial sport—a something which is plainly to be found in the new anti-gambling enactment. Unless the atmosphere of Arizona is legally more biting than that of New York, we do not look for a lessened demand from Phoenix for the cards, chips and wheels of green-cloth dalliance.—New York World.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS

William B. Havens and Miss Mayta Terry were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon at the residence of the groom's father, Rev. W. W. Havens. Rev. Thos. Harwood performed the ceremony. The bride was formerly a resident of Rock Ford, Colo., while the groom is a well known employee in the mechanical department of the Morning Journal.

Mrs. Lillian Robbins, clerk in the Learned & Lindemann music house on Gold avenue, has returned from her home in Philadelphia, where she has been absent for the past six weeks. Mrs. Robbins, who arrived here Saturday, says the weather conditions in the east are such that she is glad to get back to the sunshine territory, despite the fact that she left her family there.

Among the various Santa Fe accidents of last week is one just reported from Gallup, which involves the death of a section hand by the name of Exigne Gona. Gona and another section man were returning to the town on a handcar when they were overtaken by the California, limited No. 2, which struck the handcar. Gona was killed but his companions succeeded in saving his life by jumping.

The American Lumber company band's outdoor concert on Saturday evening was listened to by a large gathering of people who remarked on the excellence of the performance and the constant improvement resulting from the training which it has undergone during the few weeks since its birth. There is certainly no room for doubt that this organization is destined to occupy the first place among the musical organizations of the southwest.

"I've lived in California 20 years, and am still hunting for trouble in the way of burns, sores, wounds, boils, cuts, sprains, or a case of piles that Bucklen's Arnica Salve won't quickly cure," writes Charles Walters, of Alhambra, Sierra county. No use hunting, Mr. Walters; it cures every case. Guaranteed by all druggists. 25c.

LOST AN EYE; MRS. A. M. WHITCOMB SEVERELY INJURED THEN LOVE; SUICIDE

Trinidad Miner Blows Hole Through Abdomen Because Love Was Unfaithful.

Special to The Evening Citizen. Trinidad, Colo., Feb. 10.—Because he lost an eye in a small mine explosion several months ago, and thereby was jilted by the girl he loved, Steve Rosac, 35 years old, who also went by the name of Sakas among his fellows, committed suicide in his home at Primero Friday night.

The man came to this country from Austria a number of years ago, and soon after his arrival in New York met a woman named Lillian Adams, who promised to marry him after he had saved up what she considered sufficient money. He came west, got work in the Primero mine, and each pay day—trusting her implicitly—sent back as much money as he could spare, sometimes more, keeping himself a pauper.

One day he sent her his picture, showing the eye lost since coming west. Then her love ceased, he heard no more from the girl he loved, the base deceiver who in jilting him kept the several hundreds of dollars he has so faithfully sent her by mail to New York.

The Austrian moped over the matter of his lost love, and Friday night decided to end it all. Procuring a Winchester shotgun, he placed the muzzle against his abdomen and fired the charge by pushing the trigger with the ramrod. The charge entered his body, tearing a great gaping wound open and causing almost instant death.

BOUNCED A ROCK OFF HIS "HADE" DECLARES WARD

NATIVE WOMAN TAKES EXCEPTION WHEN DOG CATCHER ATTEMPTS TO RUN IN HER FIDDS.

The manifested desire of the city fathers to get rid of the superfluous canines that run amuck in Albuquerque, has not been lost upon City Dog Catcher Ward, who has lately been pursuing stray dogs with renewed zeal. But dog catchers sometimes run into things they are not looking for and these circumstances bob up in the most unexpected places.

For example, bright and early this morning Ward espied four Fidos in a bunch. They were near the Santa Fe crossing at Tijeras avenue. Here was a canine coup sure enough. He made ready his trusty lasso. Then something happened. It was Guillermo Romero, a big rock, Ward says. That is why he didn't get the dog.

Guillermo is a native woman. She lives near the Railroad crossing and owns the dogs—all four of them.

Ward had the woman arrested. He declares she bounced the big rock off the back of his head with such force that the rock was nearly broken. He was looking up witnesses who would testify about the rock throwing after Patrolman Salazar had taken the woman into custody.

"Those little things are a few of the risks incident to the dogcatching business," was later suggested to Ward at Judge Craig's office. "Foh de lawd sakes, am dat good to eat?" he inquired.

Frightened by Horseback Riders, Indian School Team Runs Away at Isleta

Mrs. A. M. Whitcomb, daughter Elizabeth and son Howard, were thrown from a buggy at Isleta yesterday and Mrs. Whitcomb was severely injured. The children escaped with a bad scare.

The accident occurred just after the Indian dance. A party of horsemen returning from the dance and more than ordinarily hilarious, frightened the team of B. B. Custer, of the local Indian school, which had been hitched in front of the general store of Charles Sals. The team broke loose from their hitching and dashed up a highway thronged with people and vehicles. The buggy of Frank Wilson, of this city, was the first to collide with the team. Mrs. Whitcomb was a little out of line of the runaway team and escaped with being brushed to one side. Mrs. Whitcomb's rig, which was near-by, fared worse. It was directly in line and the runaway team struck it almost squarely, turning it over, throwing the occupants to the ground with violence.

The children were on their feet in a moment, but Mrs. Whitcomb was stunned and had to be carried to the depot, where she was placed on an improvised cot on a special train and brought to this city. Her injuries amount to a line of bruises along her right side and are not of a serious nature.

PLENTY OF POTATOES IN THIS COUNTRY.

New York, Feb. 11.—The big markets in the east are getting all the potatoes they can handle to advantage. In the east and middle west it is claimed that not over 20 to 40 per cent of the crop remains unsold. Prices in New York are around 30 to 35 cents per bushel f. o. b.

The movement out of Maine is heavy. Shipments to January 1st amounting to 5,040,000 bushels, an increase of 1,220,000 bushels over the same period of last year. Reports from the big potato countries of the Empire state almost without exception that the crop keeping well in storage. In parts of Pennsylvania the demand is slow about 75 per cent of the crop being held. In several Wisconsin counties 25 to 50 per cent of the crop remains unsold. In a few important potato producing sections in Michigan as high as 50 to 75 per cent of last fall's yield is said to remain in sight. In Minnesota 33 to 50 per cent of the crop is held. The receipts of potatoes in Chicago for 1906 totalled 10,499,000 bushels, and in New York 9,168,000.

ISLETAS READY FOR SPRING

Acequia Dance Announces That Ditches Are Clean.

CROWDS WITNESS SPECTACLE

Picturesque Village Was Scene of Gay Festival—Kodaks were Snatched.

Several hundred people from the city witnessed the Isleta Indians do what they call their acequia dance. Rigs from the city began pouring into the quaint village of adobe huts and native color as early as 10 o'clock in the morning. Many took their lunch baskets and camp lunch, while a few went hungry or ate crackers and cheese purchased at the few stores the village boasts of. At noon the California limited arrived with a load of at least a hundred sightseers, and at 2 o'clock a special carrying at least a hundred more railroad men and their families arrived.

The dance began about 3 o'clock and lasted an hour. Fifteen minutes before the dancers made their appearance there was the sound of the tom-tom, very much like a muffled drum, which came from houses on two sides of the plaza, around which the town centers. The time was slow and very much like a funeral dirge.

Then from one of these houses came a stream of probably seventy-five Indians, all men and women, from the gray haired chief to the papoose of four summers. The colors they wore were gorgeous and of every hue of the rainbow. The dance step was a backward and forward shifting of the feet, something half two-step and half waltz step, the Indians keeping time to the drum with their arms as well as their feet, and chanting a low humming tune, if tuneful it could be called, with a flying elevation of the voice intermittently breaking the spell. An Indian with a dignified appearance guided the dancers in a circle, while other lieutenants or dignitaries paraded the plaza, keeping the circle of sightseers back and smashing threatening kodaks. However, many pictures were taken.

Several times the dancers circled around an imaginary center, and then went zig-zag back from whence they came. The first line of performers were just making their disappearance, when a line came from another house across the plaza, and the performance was repeated.

The acequia dance is a demonstration the Isletas make when they have finished the work of cleaning the irrigation ditches and are ready for spring.

ROOSEVELT COUNTY MAKING GREAT GROWTH

Much has been said and written relative to the great and continuing growth of eastern New Mexico and of Roosevelt county in particular, says the Elida News. An argument more forcible than that found in the books of the county treasurer can not be had at any time. The following statistics are an irrefutable argument of our claims relative to growth and progress.

Receipts for Roosevelt county, 1905, $39,918.58; disbursements for 1905, $24,115.55; balance on hand January 1, 1906, $15,803.03. Receipts for 1906, $52,085.67; disbursements for 1906, $48,487.36. Balance on hand January 1, 1907, $23,598.31.

ESCAPED CONVICTS ARE IN MATCHO CANYON

The two convicts who escaped from the penitentiary at Santa Fe on Friday were reported in the vicinity of Matcho canyon, says the Las Vegas Optic. A prospector in the mountains had his cabin rifled in his absence and reported the fact to the mounted police. Two of the latter are now in this vicinity searching for the men.

A KISSING BUG APPEARS AT LAS CRUCES.

A good story is being told of a Las Cruces man which was brought to light by the proverbial youngster, says the Rio Grande Republican. The little child of the family had said its prayers and kissed everybody good night except the hired girl. "Aren't you going to kiss me good night, too?" asked the girl. "Nope," replied the young hopeful. "I saw papa trying to kiss you this morning, and I don't want you to slap me the way you slapped him." And the young hopeful's mother is wondering if she won't be able to do her own work from now on and save the expense of keeping a girl.

AN EARTHQUAKE AT STEEPLEROCK.

On Wednesday of last week, January 30, there was a sharp earthquake at Steplerock, says the Lordsburg Liberal. It shook the windows in the company house viciously and lasted about three seconds. It has not been discovered that it had done any damage.

INTERESTING BUT UNIMPORTANT

CARTOONIST CONDO HAS CAUGHT THE IDEA OF THE WAR SPIRIT IN JAPAN. THE SOUSED GENTLEMAN HAS A UNIFORM AND GUN, AND ESPECIALLY A CANTEN, ALL OF WHICH ARE SUFFICIENT TO FIRE PARTLY CIVILIZED PEOPLE TO UNWONTED AND RIDICULOUS ENTHUSIASM. BUT THE BOSS OF THEM ALL, THE MIKADO, IS WISE AND EDUCATED AND APPRECIATES FULLY THE BEAUTIES AND DELIGHTS OF CARRYING ON A WAR WITHOUT MONEY. SO THE SOUSED GENTLEMAN DOESN'T CUT ANY ICE AT ALL.

SUCH ABSURD ANTICS ARE NOT CONFINED TO THE JAPS. EVEN IN THIS COUNTRY THERE ARE SOME WHO THINK THEY CAN CLEAN OUT EVERYTHING IN SIGHT, ESPECIALLY INCLUDING THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND ITS VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS. BUT LIKE THE DRUNKEN JAP, THEY ARE MORE RIDICULOUS THAN FORMIDABLE. THIS IS ILLUSTRATED BY THE DEMOCRAT MORNING ORGAN OF THIS CITY. ## THE STREETS FOR A BED WHEN SALAZAR IS FULL

POLICE PICK UP TWO AS AFTERMATH OF SABRATH DAY CELEBRATION.

P. Lair Salazar, the police say, has a habit of becoming intoxicated and going to sleep on the streets. He has been picked up frequently by officers in a half-comatose state and locked in the city jail.

Last night Salazar fell into the clutches of the police again. It was the same old offense. Drunk and asleep on the streets. Arraigned in Judge Craig's court this morning, Salazar pleaded guilty and received a double dose, which means $10 and costs.

P. Pantoni, an Italian, was picked up by the police last night intoxicated. He received the usual fine this morning from the magistrate.

GODCHAUX INVADERS THE KICK-A-POO TRIBE

CARLSBAD RED MEN UP IN MEMBERSHIP—WASHINGTON WAS A RED MAN.

Leon L. Godchaux, great sachem of the Improved Order of Red Men of New Mexico, residing at Deming, spent Wednesday and Thursday of this week in town, assisting Kickapoo tribe to get under good headway for another year, says the New Mexico Sun. Mr. Godchaux is not only Great Sachem of New Mexico, but he is the territorial representative to the great council of the United States. He has been twice elected great sachem and is now employed by the great council as traveling auditor, organizer and reorganizer. The order is the oldest American order, being organized at the Boston Tea Party, when patriots disguised as Indians, threw the tea into the sea. Washington was a red man, as well as all the other early patriots. The order not only keeps alive the customs of the Indians, but has several benevolent features, such as caring for the sick and burying the dead. Mr. Godchaux complimented the local tribe and said he saw no cause why it would not some day be the best tribe in this territory. He left for home this morning.

Virginia Thornton, his leading woman, shared with him the glory of his triumphs. She is, perhaps, the best emotional actress seen upon the boards of the local playhouse this season.

The story of "The Ragged Messenger," which has been dramatized by George Paston and W. B. Maxwell, is altogether worth while. Read it. You will find it even stronger than "The Christian." The story has a mission because it contains a moral lesson.

"THE RAGGED MESSENGER." At the Elks' opera house Saturday night a large audience witnessed a play with a powerful sermon in it. Creston Clarke was the preacher. If the applause, which greeted the climax, is a criterion, he converted every one in the house. It was a striking reminder of the power of the stage, the subtlety of the actor and his art.

True, the play offers a "ragged messenger" exceptional opportunity, but Mr. Clarke and his capable support were equal to the advantages afforded and they held the audience breathless at times, until the curtain fell upon the last scene.

Mr. Clarke is a young man and in the first two acts of the play he appeared to lack force. He evidently held himself in reserve for the strain of the tense situations that were to follow.

THE COUNCIL.

Fifteenth Day—Afternoon Session.
Pursuant to adjournment the council met at 3:30 p. m. President Spies in the chair. The chief clerk read the roll—Mr. Dales absent owing to illness. A message from the house was received. Chief Clerk Staplin of the house announced that the house had passed over the governor's veto, house joint resolution No. 4, providing for the payment of employees and for contingent expenses. Mr. Spies then moved that the council take up for consideration the message from the house under suspension of the rules. Mr. Miera was called to the chair by President Spies following the reading of the communication from the governor vetoing the resolution providing for the pay of employees and contingent expenses, while the president took the floor to read certain statements in the message. He made a strong plea in behalf of the passage of house joint resolution No. 4. He then moved that the vote by which the resolution had passed the council the first time be reconsidered, which was duly seconded and carried.

This had the effect of bringing the resolution again before the council. ## RAILROAD THAT WILL COMPETE WITH THE PANAMA CANAL IS OPEN

(By Frank E. Roberts.)
Salina Cruz, Mex., Feb. 6.—When Gen. Porfirio Diaz, president of the republic of Mexico, and Sir Westman Pearson, today nominally superintendent of the unloading of the first ton of freight from the steamship Venture and saw it loaded into a freight car ready to be transported over night across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec on the Tehuantepec National railway to Coahuila, makes possible.

In this manner is fulfilled the dream of Cortes, who in the 1520's was so sure that ocean would meet ocean across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec that he asked for and received from Charles V. of Spain an immense tract of land on the Isthmus. This land is now known as Las Marquesas, or the estates of the Marquis of the Valley of Oaxaca.

The map of the world best illustrates the commercial importance of this great project which has now become a reality, especially so when it is understood that it is claimed by the builders of the canal to be the best shipping route of the world that the cost of unloading shipping across the Isthmus and reloading it at the other terminus will not be as great as that expended in the longer haul to the Isthmus of Panama, and the necessary canal tolls.

The actual difference in distance from New York to San Francisco between the Tehuantepec and the Panama route is 1,182 miles, the former being 4,925 miles and the latter 6,107. The average saving in distance is about 1,250 miles. The ordinary freight steamer makes about ten miles an hour, or 250 miles a day. It will take a steamer about one day to pass through the canal and the freight about two days to cross the Isthmus, inclusive of the docking, unloading and reloading, leaving still four days to the advantage of the Tehuantepec.

A land-locked, commodious and almost ideal harbor has been built into a sandy beach at Salina Cruz. Docks and wharves and warehouses sufficient to accommodate the shipping for years to come have been constructed. Upon these has been erected the most improved and modern docking machinery.

The whole length of the road is 190 miles, while the distance from one port to the other, as the crow flies, is 125 miles.

ALBUQUERQUE BOY MARRIED AT CLAYTON

The wedding ceremony performed at the Catholic church last Wednesday, whereby Miss Cleofas Gallegos, of this place, and Mr. Sandoval, of Albuquerque, were made man and wife, was far and away the greatest social event of the season, says the Clayton Citizen. Miss Cleofas has been reared among us and leaves a nest of warm friends who join with the Clayton in wishing her and her worthy husband happiness and prosperity.

"You seem to have won considerable favor," remarked the old cab horse.

"Yes," replied the touring car, "I feel that I can honestly say I have made a hit."

CHRONIC ULCERS

EXTERNAL EVIDENCE OF INTERNAL POISON

Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal, it is a sure sign of a diseased condition of the blood. The sore itself is simply an outside evidence of some internal poison, and the only way to cure it is to remove the deep underlying cause. Sores and Ulcers originate usually from a retention in the system of bodily waste matters and impurities. These should pass through the natural avenues of waste, but because of a sluggish condition of the different members they are retained in the system to be taken up by the blood. This vital fluid soon becomes unhealthy or diseased, and the skin gives way in some weak place and a Sore or Ulcer is formed. The constant drainage of impurities through a sore causes it to fester, grow red and inflamed and eat deeper into the surrounding flesh, and often there is severe pain and some discharge. S. S. S. is a sure remedy for Sores and Ulcers. It is nature's blood purifier, made entirely of vegetable matter, known to be specific for all blood diseases and disorders. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, and removes the poison and impure matter, so that the sore is no longer fed with impurities, but is nourished and cleansed with a stream of healthy, rich blood. Then the place begins to heal, new flesh is formed, the inflammation subsides, and when S. S. S. has thoroughly cleansed the circulation the place heals permanently. Special book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice desired will be sent free to all who write.

AMUSEMENTS AT ELKS' OPERA HOUSE

"JULIUS CAESAR" BY CHAS. B. HANFORD TONIGHT.
Because of the rarity of the play on the stage a few words about it may not be amiss. The first authentic record of its performance in this country was on Christmas night, 1767, in New York City, and Miss Cheer was the first Imogen. The production was most unpretentious and attracted only ordinary attention. Thirty years later on April 24, 1797, at the John Street theater, in the same city, quite a celebrated production was made, with Mrs. Johnson, who was then known as the "Siddons of America," playing the much may be said in praise. The part is beset with extraordinary difficulties. Perhaps of all the heroines of the great dramatist none demands a greater range of emotions and none is more exacting. Miss Drofnah has great sincerity, much earnestness of purpose. Her lines are delivered with an intelligent comprehension of the text, a proper emphasis and a due regard of the author's intention. In her joy at the letter from her husband she was convincing, and her indignation over the advances of Iachimo were no less effective than were her grace and kindness after his apology. The scenes of the dis-role Imogen and her husband, a player of much popularity, was cast for Pisanio. It is interesting to Memphis people to note that Cloten of this memorable performance was Mr. Jefferson, who lived until 1832, and left an heir of note, whose heir in turn became the great Rip Van Winkle, so dear to all local theater-goers. There have been a succession of Imogens since that time. Anna Cora Mowatt made a great success in her part, but in later years Adelaide Nelson, in 1877, Fanny Davenport in 1879, Mrs. Modjeska, in 1888.

During the Margaret Mather engagement at the Grand opera house, Memphis, people witnessed a spectacular production of the play and their last performance of Miss Mather, for she died only a few weeks later.

Now Mr. Hanford brings this play into the open again and presents it in a way wholly pleasing. Of Miss Drofnah's own performance covery of the headless body of Cloten, whom she takes to be her husband, was also most telling in its dramatic strength. Indeed the criticism of her work must be favorable.

EASTERN LINES CURTAIL CAR ORDERS

Freight Rates Will Be Increased, and Expenses Cut Down.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 11.—Should this year's crops be anything like as large as those of last year, the car scarcity from which the entire country has suffered for months is likely to be greatly accentuated. Owing to present conditions in the money market of a number of roads that are in sore need of new equipment have not only ceased to place additional orders, but it is stated that they are actually trying to get rid of some of the orders they have already placed. Several of the eastern trunk lines are said to be in negotiation with western roads to take the new equipment they have ordered, and if these succeed the trunk lines involved will worry along through the year with the supplies they now have on hand. What the effect will be on the general prosperity of the country it is easy to conceive from the experience of the last twelve months.

Nor is it in the matter of car supplies alone that fresh expenditures of money are to be curtailed greatly. A careful investigation of the entire situation by some of the leading executives has led to the statement that the annual budgets of the roads, including Chicago alone, have been pruned to the extent of $25,000,000.

Executive and traffic officials of the Central and Trunk Line Freight associations are discussing the proposition of increasing commodity rates 10 per cent by increasing the minimum load of a car.

Traffic officers declare that higher rates will be entirely fair, for if they are not fair to both shipper and carrier the interstate commerce commission will step in immediately with its dictum. These officials declare that all manner of expenses have increased during the past few years, including the price of the railroad product shipped in large quantities over the lines, but that freight rates have not increased and have been materially decreased. One officer went so far as to say that if another tenth of a mill was cut off the rates there would be no dividend to railroad stockholders. It is just about the reverse of this, or the addition of a tenth of a mill that will probably be effected by the proposed increase in rates. The increase in the minimum load of a car will mean, in effect, from 20 to 30 per cent added equipment. At the same time, there will be a larger maximum.

DELANEY TO BE GENERAL AGENT FOR SANTA FE.

F. J. Evans, who has been agent for the Santa Fe for three years at Emporia, arrived in Wichita Saturday and took charge of the Santa Fe freight offices and yards. The sending of Mr. Evans to handle the freight on the Santa Fe there has been contemplated for some time, but nothing definite was known as to when the new agent would take charge of affairs until last Monday.

It is understood that L. R. Delaney, who has been agent for the Santa Fe at Wichita for ten years, will be given a position as general agent and will devote more of his time to the passenger business than the road.

The addition of Mr. Evans as freight agent is the outcome of the gradually increasing business, which has developed year by year until it was found essential that the company put an additional man in its office at Wichita in the capacity of freight agent.

Mr. Evans has been an employee of the Santa Fe company for nineteen years and his advancement has been the outcome of conscientious services rendered. For the past three years he has been the Santa Fe agent at Emporia. Prior to this he was for six months chief clerk in the office of the division superintendent of the company at Topeka. He was for several years agent for the company at Osage City, Kan., and was previously chief clerk to the agent at Emporia.

Mr. Evans has been popular in his dealings with the public in the various capacities, and he has been esteemed and liked as a citizen in the several towns where his work has called him. Mr. Evans is married and has a son ten years old. His family will arrive today.

BOILERMAKERS STRIKE AT BLOOMINGTON.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—About 100 boilermakers employed in the shops of the Alton road at Bloomington have gone out on a strike, following a refusal by the company to increase their wages. Officials of the company held a conference Saturday, and afterwards stated that they were considering the advisability of closing the shops entirely. This would throw more than 800 men out of employment, but the officials declare that this will be necessary if the boilermakers remain out. It is said to be impossible to keep the entire shop going for a long period with so important a department closed, and that the company is so well up in the work that a shut-down for a time could be made without harm.

"SWASTIKA" CLUB OUGHT TO BE LUCKY

Cimarron has organized a baseball team and the name of "Swastika" has been adopted as its official name, says the Cimarron News and Press. Excellent grounds have been laid out on the north side, south of the railroad and the necessary paraphernalia has been purchased for the team. A practice game was given Sunday afternoon and from the material on hand it is evident that the team will soon be able to meet all comers.

The team will be provided with handsome blue uniforms upon the breasts of which will appear the "Swastika" emblem. Cimarron will have reason to feel proud of her new ball team and it is certain that before the season ends the last composed it will render a good account of themselves.

In addition to the "Swastika" ball team a "Swastika" polo team has been organized and in the practice game Sunday afternoon some well directed plays were made. The horses used were green ones at the game but they displayed the kind of mettle that goes to make up good polo ponies.

Home Insurance the Best

WE CANNOT refrain from again saying something about Home Insurance. Every time that the proposition presents itself of the tremendous amount of money that is being sent out of New Mexico and Arizona for life insurance to eastern cities, the conviction comes home with increased force that a home company ought to be patronized and the money remain in the West.

The revelations of the past year of the way the enormous surplus of the big Eastern companies has been handled and speculated with ought to emphasize the fact that the people of the West should stop pouring their money into Eastern channels when it can be placed in home insurance, and every dollar of it kept and invested at home.

It is gratifying to note that home insurance is year by year receiving more and more its just deserts. Statistics show that during the past year home companies far exceeded foreign companies in the amount of business written. Why cannot this same record be made here? It can if every individual who takes out a policy the coming year will carefully weigh the proposition of the value it is to keep his insurance at home before he puts his name to the application of any insurance company.

The Occidental Life Insurance Company of New Mexico and Arizona is owned and controlled by the leading business men of the two territories, and offers exceptional opportunities to ambitious and capable men and women to sell its policies.
