PER CENT IN YEARCommercial Talkers Cost Less Than Typewriters—No More
Fake Interviews.

(By Frederic J. Haskins.)

There are about 200,000 young men and women in this country who make their living as stenographers, and several thousand other young men and women who earn a livelihood by teaching stenography. They have a competitor in the form of a machine which is threatening to get their jobs away from them. The phonograph threatens to do for the stenographer what the automobile has done for the horse. Its makers claim that the talking-machine is going to branch out from being a mere musical toy and become a factor in business.

The use of graphophones and phonographs in business has obtained to some extent for several years, but it is only lately that the idea has been taken on a large scale. The sales of commercial talking machines have increased five hundred per cent in twelve months, and this despite the fact that advertising has been limited to one or two class publications. The factories are making arrangements to increase the output of the machine, and a campaign of general advertising is to be begun, which the manufacturers believe will put talking machines in almost every office in the country, and practically eliminate the use of shorthand in business correspondence.

The ordinary stenographer in a business office does not take on an average of more than ninety words a minute. Nearly every man who dictates can think faster than the stenographer can write shorthand, so he has to hold back. In dictating to a phonograph there is no time wasted nor interruption to the thought, because the machine goes right ahead at any pace he can set.

The reporters of debates in the two houses of congress have for years read their shorthand notes into phonographs, from which they are written out on typewriters. Court reporters have also been using the machines in this way for years with great success. Commercial talking machines cost less than typewriters of standard makes, and it is not impossible that the tremendous increase in their sale in the past year is the beginning of a business campaign which will make them almost as common as typewriters.

Another new use for the talking machine is for newspaper reporters. A small machine has been invented which may be carried about like a camera box. When a person consents to give an interview he will be permitted to talk it into the machine, and the statement will come out verbatim. This will be an advantage to two sets of people, those who have suffered by having their words wrongly quoted in newspapers, and those whose reports are denied when the man interviewed finds out, too late, that when he said didn't have the proper effect.

One of the oddest contrivances in which the phonograph figures is an automobile horn. It is put on in the form of a grotesque dwarf's head, and is operated in the same way as the ordinary "honk honk" nuisance. Inside is a phony office in the country which yells: "Look out! Clear the road!"

When Edison invented the phonograph in 1877 there were many brilliant predictions for his crude machine. It was claimed that the phonograph would be fitted with a horn which would throw the sound very far, and that a machine mounted on the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor could be used for warning signals to mariners. But the talking machine was not of a very high order. There was a scratching, metallic accompaniment that was anything but pleasant, but the improvements and additions to the machine have removed these disagreeable features to such an extent that it now gives most creditable reproduction. In one Nebraska town a large graphophone is doing the work of a church choir.

The very latest suggestion for a new use of the talking machine was made by a railway publication just after the wreck on the Southern railway which resulted in the death of President Samuel Spencer. In the inquiry into the causes of the wreck there was a dispute between the telegraph operators about what messages had been sent governing trains. The suggestion is to have a recording talking machine in every railroad telegraph office. It would make a complete and absolutely correct report of every message sent, which, could be read by any operator.

In connection with this it is interesting to note that it was while experimenting with a telegraph instrument that the principle of the phonograph was discovered. Mr. Edison stumbled onto the principle of the phonograph. He was attempting to perfect a telegraph-sending instrument which would send the dots and dashes of the Morse code by the opening and closing of the circuit through perforations in a sheet wrapped about a cylinder of metal. He found that the perforations representing dots and dashes produced the same effect upon the needle when the cylinder was again revolved under it. Thus the phonograph was born.

The use of the graphophone and telephone in conjunction has been discussed as a method of solving several problems of the growing business of the country, but with the talking machine dealers the union is an accomplished fact. One agent in a New York town has regular weekly concerts over the telephone. He has a score of his record-buying customers connected with his store, and a large funnel on the telephone receiver, gets out samples of new records received, and turns on the talking machine. After the concert he calls up each customer and takes orders.

The best singers of the world are employed by the talk machine companies to "make records," and those lovers of music who live in remote sections of the country and can never hope to see the Metropolitan opera house may for a small outlay hear Eames and Sembrich and Caruso sing. Making records is the most interesting part of the talking machine business to the public. The process of making the cylinder or disc, which is "played" only the individual machine is simple. The original record, made in soft wax or soap, is taken and plated with metal—gold is best—and this plate is re-peated with several heavier coats of metal.

The soft material is taken out of the plate and as many records as are needed are molded from the matrix thus formed. The little scratches on that plate mean the voice of a singer who must be paid a large salary, but the records can be reproduced over and over again. The solo sung in a loft on Sixth avenue will be heard in China twenty-five years hence, as fresh and sweet as ever.

The talking machine is just thirty years old. Although it is generally regarded as a musical toy, the nations of the world are spending millions of dollars for it each year. But the manufacturers believe its possibilities as a time-saver in business will soon make it one of the great factors in our commercial life. Instead of a mere contrivance for amusement, they are backing up their judgment by making enormous investments in enlarging the capacity of their plants, and the truth or falsity of their predictions will soon be established.

A "poser" is born, not made, and those few who have proved themselves fitted for the work command large salaries. Some singers who have made great reputations on the stage are total failures when it comes to singing to the talking machine. Edwin, for instance, could not be "posed" for record-making. Mme. Emma Eames Story is particularly successful, and after making many records learned how to "pose" herself without any instruction, advancing and retreating before the machine in obedience to its laws, which she knows, but which nobody understands. She, and many other singers of great fame, have declared that the talking machine has been of great benefit to them in pointing out faults which they themselves had overlooked.

The great singers did not take kindly to the machine at first, and indeed, it is only within the last few years that the bright particular stars of the opera would consent to sing into a machine so that their voices might be mechanically reproduced throughout the years. Nordica held out longer than any of them, and in consequence the talking machine men were all the more anxious to have her sing. Recently she capitulated and signed a contract to make records for a New York concern.

Some voices are naturally adapted to the business of making records. One ambitious girl, who had been unable to secure a position in the chorus of a big musical comedy, was asked to sing into a machine. She sang several times, and when she had finished went to the desk to pay for the records. Imagine her joyful surprise when the manager asked her to accept $20 for the records, and offered her a regular position at a weekly salary three times as high as she had hoped for in the chorus. She is still making records and is also one of the best "posers" in the business.

FINANCING THE VERDE GRANDE
COPPERHas Now Reached Well Advanced Stage and Development is Progressing.NO DEDUCTION REQUIRED
FOR IRON IN ZINCCopper Has Risen 132 Per Cent
Since the Year 1902, and Still Rising.

Jerome, Ariz.—The financing of the Verde Grande Copper company, whose property adjoins the United Verde claims in a distance of several thousand feet, has now reached a well advanced stage, and with an ample supply of funds for all present needs the management is carrying forward development operations rapidly and on an extensive scale. A full equipment and supply of machinery is to be installed on the property at an early date, while the sinking of the main shaft is being pushed vigorously both day and night.

Turning to the lead and zinc camps, especially those of the south-west, we find a condition of unparalleled prosperity. The demand for both metals has increased with amazing rapidity, owing to the numerous new uses found for them year by year in the commercial and mechanical arts. While prices fluctuate, they still maintain a steady upward tendency, and the present confidence of the producers in the future of the metals would seem to be entirely warranted.

Of iron, tin and platinum it is scarcely necessary to speak. Their position in our commercial system is always secure, and the producers of these metals are not likely to go begging for a market. There can be no question as to the present status of the metal markets, or as to their future as long as prevailing industrial conditions shall continue. No indication of any change is yet visible in the whole horizon. Activity is widespread; crops are uniformly good; harvests are abundant; labor troubles are less frequent; and the general standing of the national government is entirely sound; banking and railroading are upon a firm basis; and no great political upheaval has even been suggested.

As a result of these conditions, the production of the metals does not constitute a boom, but rather a period of healthy prosperity and expansion, in which the mining industry is carrying on its regular share. The production of the metals must increase year by year to meet the actual demands of the times; the backing of capital is absolutely essential for the development of new producing properties; and in spite of all warnings and preachments to the contrary, the popularity of mining investments seems likely to increase rather than to wane. The public as a whole is generally on the right track in matters of this kind.

Baxter Springs, Kan.—The lead and zinc producers of this district are deriving much satisfaction from the policy now pursued by the regular companies in paying the regular price per ton for zinc ore containing as much as 7 per cent iron. Such ore was formerly penalized for its iron content, but the new policy has been so successful that the producers have for some time made a practice of deducting nothing for iron contents running as high as 4 per cent, and the adoption of a similar policy by domestic smelters would appear entirely reasonable in view of the improved methods of smelting in vogue, by which the iron values are largely saved and turned to account. Last week's shipments of zinc ore from certain portions of this district were the largest in the history of the camp.

Boston, Mass.—Copper, the metal at 26 cents per pound is now an accepted fact in the world's markets, with little prospect of any further concessions from this figure. According to a high statistical authority the price of copper has risen 132 per cent since 1902. In the face of this increase it is pointed out that 25 copper stocks have made an average gain in price of but 100 per cent, the price of the metal is now the highest in over thirty years, so that a general appreciation in copper shares would appear to be justified through the fact that the popularity of unlisted shares in young and vigorous properties is on the increase throughout the east.

Cananea, Sonora, Mexico.—Plans for betterment on a very extensive scale for the Greene-Cananea property are now practically ready to be put into execution by the newly reorganized company. Great activity in the copper mining centers of this state is much in evidence; mining experts and investors are flocking to the district by train loads; and the development of new and promising copper properties is almost the sole topic of conversation in parlor cars and hotel lobbies. In the vicinity of Hermosillo the investment of large amounts of capital is now showing splendid results and such richly mineralized properties as the Mine Mexicana, the Lluvia de Cobres, and the well known Wright mines are now compelling general and genuine enthusiasm among local stockholders and visiting experts. The outlook for Sonora copper interests was certainly never brighter than at present.

Cripple Creek, Colo.—By the employment of the simple pumping process a number of valuable mines in this district have recently been completely drained, and that too at comparatively small expense. The Old mine on Beacon hill has been very successful in this line, and now shipping ore at the rate of two cars weekly. At the Delmonico, also located on Beacon Hill, development work is being carried on by its owners, and a number of rich strikes already have rewarded the efforts of the management. The water in the Delmonico is rising, entirely surface seepage, and is very easily handled.

Boise, Idaho.—Thomas Greenwood of New York, while here in the interest of a syndicate of eastern capitalists investigating mining properties under investigation by experts, surprised not only with the tremendous activity apparent in Idaho mining circles but also with the wonderful advancement and up to date appearance of the whole region. He stated that the people of the east have no idea whatever of what is going on here. Mr. Greenwood is only one of a large number of capitalists and mining experts who have recently been looking into the record and splendid possibilities of the famous Boise basin and its rich gold producing sections of southern Idaho.

Central City, Colo.—Mining operations in Russell Gulch are likely to assume enormous proportions with the coming of spring; and at present a number of producing properties are under investigation by experts representing eastern syndicates with a view to their betterment and the securing of increased output. The recent rich strikes in the Saratoga are attracting wide attention, and work on the Hampton just to the east of that property is being vigorously pushed with a view to operating in the same vein which is now conceded to extend beneath the two tracts. The draining of these properties by the New House tunnel is a source of much encouragement to their owners.

Boise, Idaho.—Prospector Robert McKinley has returned from a visit to Kansas City, where he has been in the interests of the McKinley Gold Mines company. He reports that the mining industry in that state is well under way, and that the situation is meeting with the most gratifying success. The company is planning to extend its operations to the south, where values are said to have been found running as high as $2,000 to the ton in gold.

Breckenridge, Colo.—At the Wellington lead and zinc mine a new tunnel has recently been completed to receive ore from the Oro tunnel in addition to the 75 tons daily now being run through the main tunnel. Besides lead and zinc the mine is now showing good values in silver, and the cross-cut from the Oro tunnel is going steadily forward toward the gold vein uncovered at the surface.

Winkelman, Ariz.—The development of the mineralized portions of this district has been conclusively that gold and copper are to furnish the chief values, and the latter will probably be the more permanent source of wealth. The district is in the various camps. Eastern capital has been very generous to Pinal county mines, and the resulting prospecting has been very successful. At the Two Queens group, where rich values were discovered but a few months ago, the main tunnel has already been run to 275 feet and will be required to run but thirty-four feet more before cutting the mineralized vein. Good sulphides and shipping ore are now in evidence in the shaft.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Placer operations for gold are now being planned on a very extensive scale for the placer fields along Douglas creek in Albany county. It has been conclusively demonstrated that the district is heavily mineralized, and a number of large dredging companies are now about ready to undertake very active operations. The American Gold Placer Mining company is soon to install a very powerful dredge; and in view of the recent improvements introduced in placer mining methods by which large values can be saved, it is likely that important results will be effected. It is stated by experts that the Douglas creek placer lands contain mineral values to the value of over $20,000,000, which could be recovered at a comparatively small cost of modern scientific methods.

LONDON NEEDS $35,000,000 NEW LOAN

Causes Drop in Securities of That City—Movement to Protect Song Birds.

NEBRASKA SEEMS TO WANT TAX DODGERS

Senator Burton Goes Free Friday
But President Refuses Restoration to Citizenship.

London, March 20.—London's reputation of municipal ownership and municipal socialism has been followed by similar results throughout the country, and the following result is that a great deal of borrowing will have to be done, for invariably the socialists have proved to be better at running in debt than in paying it. The new regime in metropolitan London is confronted with an embarrassing situation. The old council left unpaid bills amounting to $25,000,000 and future commitments aggregating $100,000,000. This necessitates an immediate new loan of $35,000,000. These disclosures have caused London securities, which rose sharply on the result of the election, to fall to the old figures. The first measure taken will be to organize an independent audit of accounts to ascertain the true condition of the city finances.

MOVEMENT TO PROTECT SONG BIRDS IN NEW YORK.
Albany, N. Y., March 20.—Sportsmen from all over the state, farmers and everybody interested in the song birds of the state and the protection of bird life, are pushing the bill introduced for a hunting license which is now before the assembly. The bill provides for a dollar license, which the great majority have already announced their willingness to assume. It has the endorsement of all the large clubs and of hundreds of individuals who are sportsmen. The Audubon societies favor the bill because it was the first practical method proposed for the real protection of birds.

NEBRASKA WOULD THE TAX DODGERS.

Omaha, March 20.—If a law that has been introduced in the Nebraska legislature becomes operative, Nebraska will soon become the grand refuge of rich men who want to dodge their taxes. This act creates a board of immigration which provides for a board of commerce, industry and immigration, the intent of which is plain on its face. It is being to offer to men of wealth from the outside world who have large sums of money in bank an opportunity to bring it to Nebraska, place it in banks for safety and not be in fear of paying a large tax on it. In fact, under the provisions of this law there will be no tax whatever, although it is not just that way. Any man can come to Nebraska and declare himself a citizen, and become a secretary on the advisory board of the board of immigration, and upon being appointed his compensation will be equal to the amount of taxes he may pay on his deposits in banks, and will be paid to him promptly on his presentation of his tax receipts. He may secure the benefit and protection of this law when he enters the state and declare his residence, although such declaration does not make him a voter until he has lived in Nebraska for at least six months. The bill is strongly supported by industrial and commercial bodies of the state, who argue that New Jersey has invited the trusts, that Texas has passed bountiful exemption laws, and that South Dakota has bid for the divorce business, and why should not Nebraska secure the ready cash?

EX-SENATOR BURTON WILL NOT GET PARDON.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—The efforts to get a pardon for ex-Senator Burton have all failed, and they may as well give it up. His term of imprisonment expires on the 22nd, and the ex-senator and his friends wanted him restored to citizenship and to the eligibility to office, of which his sentence deprives him, but the president is obdurate and relentless. He thinks that instead of his sentence being shortened, it should have been longer, and he would make it longer if he could. So ex-Senator Burton is deprived of the right of ever holding office again.

COMEDY DRAMA IN AID OF LITTLE CRIPPLES.

New York, March 20.—At Carnegie Lyceum tonight the "In Quantum Club," an amateur organization devoted to theatricals, will present William Gillette's comedy drama, "Because She Loved Him So," for the relief of the Darrach Home for Crippled Children. This organization has the distinction of being the first of its kind in New York City. It takes charge of little cripples who are helpless, and must suffer much if kind hands do not look after their welfare.

AUTOISTS PLEASED AT MAYOR JOHNSON'S JUSTICE.

Cleveland, O., March 20.—Mayor Johnson's dismissal of a case against two automobilists and the discharge of the policeman making the charge against them has greatly pleased the automobilists, who claim that they were not proceeding as fast as the policeman claimed they were. The culprit was the superintendent of an automobile factory who while testing a car on Euclid Heights hill, was halted by a policeman, who claimed that the superintendent was traveling "at the rate of 150 feet every eight or nine seconds, or a speed of twenty-five miles an hour." Notwithstanding the remonstrance of the superintendent that the auto-meter in the car showed a speed of 12½ miles an hour, the case was taken to the station for trial. Before the case was called, the policeman discovered his mistake and on his reappearance boldly claimed that the car was traveling at the rate of 200 feet every eight or nine seconds, twice that first claimed, and making the rate of speed fifty miles an hour. The party swore that their auto-meter showed 12½ miles an hour. The case finally came before Mayor Johnson, an experienced motorist himself, and he took the word of the motorist, dismissed the case and also dismissed the policeman.

DEMONSTRATING AGAINST ADIRONDACK LAND ACT.

Albany, N. Y., March 20.—The opponents of the land act, which is intended to take charge of the Adirondack territory, are here in force today to fight the Adirondack bill, which comes up before the joint committee of both houses of the legislature. A mass meeting in the same line was held on March 14th under the auspices of the chamber of commerce of Albany. The interest in the subject of the Adirondacks is intense. It was briefly explained by some of the opponents that the forest reserve had been originally created to protect the water courses, and to foster the best interests of the entire state, both industrially and commercially. That efforts were now being made to break down this protection afforded by the constitution to grab great tracts of lumber, especially in the Adirondack region, and to dam and otherwise utilize the streams for electrical power purposes. W. P. Peckman, representing the Indian lake residents, strongly advised that the act of the legislature be invoked to fight the amendment.

TARIFF CONTESTS HAVE GROWN 500 PER CENT

New York, March 20.—The office of a special department in the office of the appraisers of the port, to cope with the extraordinary increase in the amount of protests and appeals resulting from tariff correspondence and controversies, is emphasized by statistics prepared by customs authorities. The increase of transactions in 1907 over 1904-5 aggregates 500 per cent. After the passage of the bill by congress authorizing the appointment of two additional appraisers, Colonel Fowler instituted the bureau of protests and appeals, which will be attached to the newly formed 11th district or division, of which C. T. Lexow became the chief. The new organization pointed chief, in view of his acquaintance with the business, his service extending over thirty-five years. It is believed that erroneous reports will be entirely eliminated, thus doing exact justice to the importers and to the government, as well as safeguarding the revenues.

HEART LEAGUE RUNS TICKET IN SENECA FALLS.

Seneca Falls, N. Y., March 20.—The complication of the election in this town has been greatly increased by the running of an independent ticket by the independent league, or Heart party, which has not given up the ghost, by any manner of means, but is determined to fight on its own hook, without any reference to the democracy. The organization of the Independence League Citizens club came as a great surprise to all classes of citizens, the new organization putting into nomination for village president George B. Neapass. It is predicted that he will make a strong run, carrying a large following of his fellow democrats, but the democrats insist that Neapass' nomination has increased the chances of their candidate, Ferdinand Iseman. The struggle is certainly a lively one.

NASHVILLE'S SAFETY WOULD COST MILLIONS.

Nashville, Tenn., March 20.—The national board of underwriters has submitted a report as to what in the board's judgment Nashville needs in the matter of protection against fire. There are seventy-two specific points in the report in which recommendations are made. The fire department is declared to be still too small and not as efficient as it ought to be. They want the pumping station re-modelled, and waste prevented and readjustment of the water distribution system, and many other matters of importance which will cost Nashville several millions of dollars. The board says that the only way to get better rates, as the present rates are suited to the conditions and bear a direct relation to the risk involved.

BOWER PRODUCES COM- PANY'S BOOKS IN COURT.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 20.—L. F. Bower, comptroller of the Allis-Chalmers company, came into court this morning producing the books of Bullock company. Bower did this in compliance with a court decision on proceedings brought against him in the United States district court for contempt of court, in refusing to answer questions concerning the stock of the Bullock Electric company of Ohio, which was a defendant in a damage suit brought in a New Jersey court. Attorneys of the plaintiff argued that the Ohio company is really in the jurisdiction of the Milwaukee court, attempted to show that the Bullock company is a branch of the Allis-Chalmers company. W. M. Whitfield, president of the Allis-Chalmers company admitted that he is vice president of the Ohio company, and that he exercises supervision over the business of the concern.

ATLANTA'S CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ANNALS DINNER.

Atlanta, March 20.—Tonight is the occasion of the annual banquet of the chamber of commerce of this city, and special efforts have been made to render it an extraordinary fine affair. It will be held at the Piedmont hotel. President J. Willie Pope will preside, and will introduce as the principal speaker of the evening W. W. Finley, president of the Southern railway. It is supposed that the banquet will exceed 500 in number. The members of the Cotton Seed Crushers' Association of Georgia, who were invited to the banquet, met this afternoon in the room of the chamber of commerce, and considered the question of making Atlanta their headquarters for the coming year. It is certain that all the arbitrations between members will be conducted here.

INVITES PROPOSALS FOR NAVAL SUPPLIES.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—Proposals are being received today at the bureau of supplies and accounts to furnish the navy yard, Charleston, a quantity of naval supplies. The bids are numerous.

SHIPS WILL SAIL UN- DER AMERICAN NAMES.

Hamburg, March 20.—The Hamburg-American line has announced its appeal to American sentiment, and renamed two of its steamships. They will enter the service during the present year and have been renamed the President Lincoln and President Grant. They were the Berlin and Boston. The steamer now building in Europe will retain the name of Europa.

Wellman, With Wonderful Big Airship, Nearly Ready for Flight to North Pole

Special Correspondence.
Chicago, March 20.—Modern air navigation will receive its most thrilling and difficult test next month, when Walter Wellman, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, will sail for the north pole in the largest and best equipped airship ever built.

Wellman's flight was scheduled for last summer, but it was decided to give another year's work at the factory in Paris to the great balloon and its wonderful car.

Wellman, who has made two unsuccessful attempts at the pole, is now studying airships for years for the purpose of employing that means of transportation in a dash north. He is now an expert. The party will probably consist of five. Wellman will be the chief. The others are:

Major H. B. Hersey, well known as an enthusiastic aeronaut, one time member of Roosevelt's rough riders and now a member of the Aero club of Paris; M. Gaston Hervey, an aeronaut-in-chief; Maxwell J. Smith, wireless telegraph expert; M. Paul Colardeau, expert mechanic. Major Hersey recently won the balloon race across the English channel, and has a record of seven ascensions in ten days.

The plan is to sail from Dane's island, northern Norway, at which place the parts of the balloon will be assembled. The party will go as far north as possible in the airship, and if it fails to carry them to the pole they will proceed farther north by an ice automobile which they will carry in the car.

They will also have wireless telegraphy equipment and will attempt to communicate regularly with a station at Hammerfest, Norway.

Wellman has been in Paris all winter watching the finishing work of M. Godard, builder of the airship, and he will start for the north in a few days.

The airship, which has been building two years, is of the most practical balloon type. The supporting gas bag is 164 feet long, with its greatest diameter 52½ feet. The surface of the bag contains 21,093 square feet, and is capable of holding 224,225 cubic feet of gas; its lifting power is 16,000 pounds, or eight tons.

The car is entirely of steel tubing, measures 52½ feet from stem to propeller, and contains an engine room and cabin for the crew. Below this structure is a basket to carry the supply of gasoline, this weight also to serve as ballast.

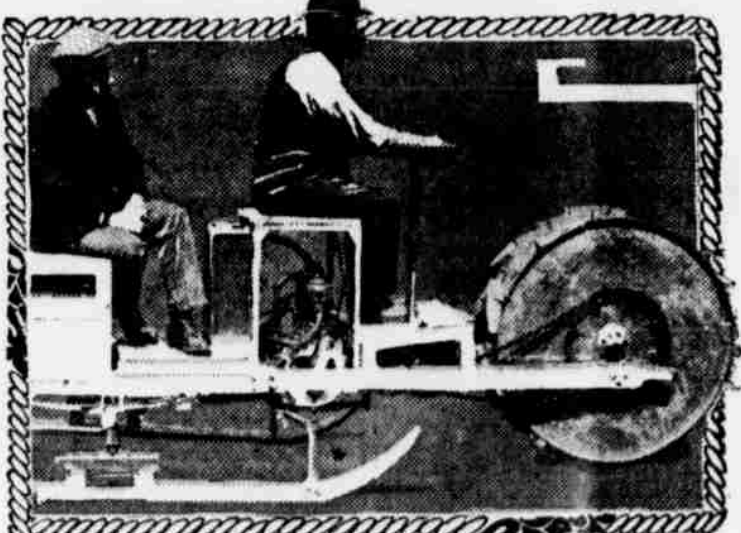

The ship has three engines, one of seventy horse power, another of twenty-five horse power and the other of five-horse power. With only the big engine in operation, the machine is designed to make twelve miles an hour in a quiet atmosphere, and nineteen miles an hour with the three motors working.

The steering apparatus is managed in a simple manner from the cabin of the vessel.

The ice automobile, or motor sledge, is small, and designed solely to haul sledges over ice or heavy snow crust; it looks like a miniature road roller, but is very light in construction.

THIS PHOTOGRAPH PRESENTS A FRONT VIEW OF THE CAR WHICH WILL BE SUSPENDED FROM THE GREAT BALLOON. ONLY PARTS OF THE GIANT RUDDERS SHOW. BEHIND THE MEN STANDING IN THE CAR IS THE CABIN IN WHICH THEY WILL LIVE. BELOW THE CAR WILL BE STRAPPED THE GASOLINE BASKET AND THE ICE AUTOMOBILE. WELLMAN IS SEEN IN THE ABOVE PICTURE ON THE EXTREME RIGHT.

THE ICE AUTOMOBILE FOR THE WELLMAN EXPEDITION. NOTICE THE GREAT DRUM-LIKE WHEEL IN FRONT. IT IS BUILT TO BE HEAVY AND IS EXPECTED TO BALANCE THE REST OF THE MACHINE IN CLIMBING JAGGED ICE HILLS. THE SPIKES OF SHARP STEEL WILL GRIP THE ICE.

MERCURY DOES NOT CURE BLOOD POISON

While Mercury and Potash may mask the disease in the system and cover up the outward symptoms for awhile, they cannot cure Contagious Blood Poison; when the treatment is left off, the disease will return worse than before. Mercury and Potash eat out the delicate lining of the stomach and bowels, produce chronic dyspepsia, cause the teeth to decay, make spongy, tender gums, affect the bones and nerves, and often cause Mercurial Rheumatism, the most hopeless form of this disease. Thousands have taken the mineral treatment faithfully for years to find, when it was left off, that the disease had only been smoldering in the system, and the old symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, falling hair, copper-colored spots, swollen glands, sores and ulcers, etc., would return in all their hideousness, and they were no nearer a cure than when they first commenced the treatment. S. S. S. is the only certain, safe and reliable treatment for Contagious Blood Poison. It is the one medicine that is able to go into the blood and cure the disease permanently, and without injury to any part of the system. S. S. S. does not cover up anything, but so completely removes the poison that no trace of it is ever seen again. This medicine will also remove any bad effects left by previous mineral treatment. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks; we offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral in any form. Write for our home treatment book, and if you desire special medical advice, our physicians will be glad to furnish it, as well as the book, free of charge.

WALL STREET FEUD UN- DOING OF HARRIMAN

Special Correspondence.

New York, March 20.—More than Wall street rumor substantiates the story that Harriman has lost his railroad supremacy and with it millions of his fortune. The new position of his enemies, Morgan Hill and Keene, is eloquent proof that Harriman has suffered.

Whether or not Roosevelt had anything to do with the trouncing of Harriman, the facts coming to light now that the panic is over, show that a great railway feud has been fought to a finish on Wall street.

Harriman started the last bull market by a great 10 per cent Union Pacific dividend. He is believed to have then sold his holdings nearly down to control. He showed faith in the bull market, but was by putting all the money back into railroads and with it bought control of the Baltimore & Ohio. The market has been downward ever since without interruption.

Morgan is known to have been putting stocks on the market for six weeks as fast as it would absorb. With him and Jim Hill, an old enemy of Harriman's, and Keene, whom Harriman broke in the Northern Pacific corner. The Moores and Daniel Reid and the entire Rock Island crowd with Morgan are bitter at Harriman for trimming them in Alton.

The belief is general that this powerful crowd is in wait for Harriman. When the January break came, Harriman bought furiously believing the market was at the bottom. The other crowd sold continuously.

The climax came when Harriman was reported to have sold 200,000 shares of Union Pacific at a private sale. If he sold previously down almost to bare control this 200,000 shares would wipe it away. It is through Union Pacific that Harriman controls Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and the newly acquired Baltimore & Ohio. All is gone if Union Pacific is.

Two great facts stand out to prove this. Harriman's allies are the Stanuards and the crowd of Wm. Rockefeller, Rogers, Frick. It has just become known that Rogers has been hard pressed, and Wall street authorities say he's been going about hat in hand. It is significant that his pet scheme, supposed to be privately financed—the Tidewater railway—was forced last week to make a loan of ten millions. The second fact is that Jim Keene is the happiest man in New York and smiles now for the first time since Harriman broke him and drove his son-in-law, Talbot Taylor, into bankruptcy.

IRON AND STEEL WORKERS STRIKE FOR HIGHER WAGES.

Hammond, Ind., March 20.—All the employees of the mills of the Republic Iron & Steel company at East Chicago struck today for higher wages, 800 men walking out and completely tying up the establishment.

The men have been receiving on an average of $1.75, and demand $2 per day.

Superintendent Grove said today that the plant would be closed indefinitely before the increase would be allowed.

The strikers, who are organized as far as unions are concerned, assert that if their demands are not conceded by tonight the men in the works of the Interstate and the Indiana Steel companies will also go out.

Each of these establishments employ about the same number of men as the Republic company. No disorder has occurred.

MR. CARNEGIE'S OPPORTUNITY

It is said that Mr. Carnegie is soon to give Chicago another overgrown educational institution. Just what form it will take is not known, but it is to overlap in extravagant outlay Mr. Rockefeller's octopus of learning.

But the present university fills the local field of technology. Mr. Armour has occupied the local field of technology. The Washington University provides for post-graduate work and higher research, and the Rockefeller fund of $10,000,000 supplies help to the smaller established colleges, so that Mr. Carnegie will find himself well hedged about in any effort to make an educational asplurge.

Yet if he is looking for an opportunity to really reduce the obesity of his wealth, there is one chance left left to him along the line of educational uplift. If he would set aside his income for one year, say $10,000,000 or $20,000,000, as a fund to promote industrial schools, he would do a greater practical good than all his former gifts added to Mr. Rockefeller's, have accomplished.

The income from this fund could go in some such a way as he has used in dispensing his library endowments, to such towns as would maintain industrial schools. It would pay the whole or the larger part of the initial cost of the school buildings and equipment, and would doubtless result in at least as eager a scramble for such schools as there has been for the libraries, while the beneficial results would be incomparably larger.

America is not in any present need of greater opportunities for cultured education. No boy or girl who has the ambition for higher learning can fail in it because of his remoteness from a college. Every state has them not singly, but in quantities. But the boys who wish to fit themselves for a trade, and they are at least ninety of the hundred, find the door of apprenticeship closed and the way to skilled workmanship almost as difficult as the way to a profession.

To change this is within Mr. Carnegie's power. With the magic wand of his surplus millions he can bring to thousands of boys the incentive to intelligent hand training and the opportunity to develop latent talents that would bring them into their own, that they in turn might give it to the world.—Duluth News Tribune.

QUESTION OF TAXATION

The question of taxation is always a prominent one before each legislative meeting, not alone in New Mexico, but wherever a lawmaking body assembles. In one legislature now in session, fully fifteen new tax measures have been introduced.

Among these bills are measures providing for specific taxes on private freight line companies, telephone companies, foreign corporations doing business in the state, board of trade transactions, a registry tax on mortgages, the increase of the railroad gross earnings tax, a special tax on the retail liquor business, an income tax, an income mortgage tax, and a tax on cigarette dealers. These provide for a system of indirect taxation that would greatly increase the state's revenues. Some of them are simple in principle and application; others are decidedly complicated and would require intricate administrative machinery to put them in force.

Commenting on these measures, an exchange in that state thinks that nothing could show more forcefully the necessity of a permanent tax commission to sift out such legislation in advance and provide indispensable information to assure the legislature that in such a broad reach of experiments it was not making serious mistakes. Taxation is a science. It cannot be learned in one session of the legislature, no matter how single-minded the members may be nor how patriotic and sincere. Taxation experts are fewer than astronomers or great artists, and the study of it from the legal standpoint is not half the battle of mastery.

These facts have led several of the states to consider the desirability of having a permanent tax commission.

Some time tomorrow, the day ending at midnight, the troubled existence of the thirty-seventh legislative assembly of New Mexico will come to a close. That a sigh of relief and a feeling of gladness will ripple over the territory from the San Juan to the lower Pecos, from the Hato mountain to Stein's pass, cannot be doubted. And yet, no legislature ever met with higher possibilities of usefulness. The majority was so overwhelmingly republican, that nothing need have prevented the enactment of the best laws. The personnel of the membership was exceptionally good—a long way above the average as to character and ability. Everything pointed to a session which the people might long remember with gratitude and gladness. But such has not proved to be the case. The lemon of discord entered and blighted every prospect. The session has been a wrangle, and said to say not on political grounds. The interests of the people have been lost sight of in a discord as unnecessary as it was unfortunate. Such will be the position of the thirty-seventh assembly in the estimation of the future.

New Mexico: At the rate that immigration is coming into this territory, especially into the eastern half, New Mexico will have fully 400,000 people in the census of 1910, and probably a larger number. A majority of those who have come into the territory since 1900, who are arriving in it these days, and who will come by 1910, are farmers who expect to make a living and attain a competency by tilling the soil. These are the best possible citizens, and there cannot be too many of them. Many of them have already made a success in farming in sections that up to within very recent years were thought to be arid, unproductive and unfit for successful cultivation for all time to come. Those who are coming now are still better prepared and will benefit by the experience of those who have come before them since 1900 and have experimented considerably in dry farming and fruit growing directions. All in all, the outlook for the Sunshine territory for the next few years is of the very best.

The Arizona legislature has not only delegated gambling, but the capital of that territory has made even social card parties for honors or favors an offense. And now comes Councilman O'Neil, of Maricopa, the county where the capital is located, with a bill prohibiting what is commonly known as "treating," and puts a stop to one person's buying a drink for another, under penalty of a misdemeanor. Blakely's local option bill providing that a majority vote only is necessary, instead of two-thirds as heretofore, to wipe out saloons in any community, passed the council by a vote of 8 to 4. The council also passed the juvenile court bill, providing that children under twelve years of age who are incorrigible shall pass under a period of probation before being committed to the reform school. Surely, Arizona's wings must be growing.

New Mexico: House bill No. 161, providing for managing the territorial school lands, seems to have for its object the simplifying of the managing of these lands and the giving to the commissioner of public lands such powers that there will be less friction. It gives him additional help in the office and for classifying and caring for the lands in an expert way. He has long needed such assistance. With this additional help a strong leasing system can be built up that will come day by a great thing for the territory. The bill, however, should be amended so that all lands that congress gave to New Mexico schools and educational institutions shall be withdrawn from the market and not sold, but leased.

It is not good policy to sell them in their present undeveloped state. Ten to twenty years from now, when the great southwest will be settled, these lands will have values that will be surprising. The territory can lose nothing by waiting a few years, and by waiting it will gain an immense profit through the rentals and increased values.

Las Vegas Optic: The appropriation bill which passed the house and came to the council last week has been divested of many of its best features by the council, and will probably pass that body, but it is generally understood that it will not be passed by the house. This will leave all appropriations the same as they were during the past two years, as the old appropriation bill will be effective in case another is not passed.

According to Dr. Crapsey, the church of the future will be a Socialist club, concerned only with the material welfare of its members. That would be quite sufficient, liberal to satisfy a goodly number, and with a get-rich-quick annex would be quite satisfactory to a good many more.

WHAT MRS. SAGE MAY DO WITH HER HUSBAND'S MILLIONS

The announcement that $10,000,000 of the late Russell Sage's money is to be given to the improvement of social conditions in this country has excited unusual interest. The editor of The Evening Citizen has received a number of letters asking for an explanation of the purpose of the "Sage Foundation."

It is difficult to do more than outline the possibilities of the fund because the plans, at this time, are rather indefinite.

It may be said that Mrs. Sage in her gift has turned philanthropy in a new direction. It is a new departure.

If the custom of multi-millionaire givers had been followed the money would have gone to colleges and universities or to public art galleries or to museums or to public libraries. But Mrs. Sage has elected to spend her money in helping that humanity which—nine-tenths of it—is given over to a constant struggle for existence.

The Sage millions are to go, first, to a study of the needs of the poor and weak, and then to the help of them. And that is also a new turn of philanthropy. Heretofore those who have given their lives to the study of the problems of ignorance, and poverty and vice—the thinkers and agitators—have been those who had no money to carry out their plans, save as they begged it.

Now men of brain and heart are to take up the problems of the poor and be given money to do something.

It is impossible to say just what the trustees of the fund will do, but it is easy to point out the things they might do in bettering social life. They might turn their attention to:

- The abolition of sweat shops.
- Enforcement of child labor laws.
- Tenement house reforms.
- Vacation and night schools.
- Play grounds for poor children.
- More free hospitals.
- Free public baths.
- Settlement work.
- Homes for aged and orphans.
- Free lectures.

There are only a few of the lines upon which the Sage trustees can work in relieving distress, equalizing conditions and opening the doors of opportunity to those who need.

And this is not alms-giving. It is helping the needy to help themselves—which is real charity.

WHAT THE NEW YORK TIMES SAYS ABOUT AGED MRS. EDDY

The New York Times gives some insight into the physical and mental conditions of the founder of Christian Science in the following:

George Washington Glover who appears as plaintiff in the suit, is Mrs. Eddy's only child. In December, 1843, when Mrs. Eddy was twenty-two years old, she was married to George Washington Glover, who had been a companion of her oldest brother, Samuel Baker. After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Glover went to Wilmington, N. C., where Mr. Glover could obtain high wages as a bricklayer. Six months afterward he died of yellow fever, and Mrs. Glover returned to her father's home at Tilton, N. H., where four months later the son was born.

It was stated that Mrs. Eddy gave up the son when he was a baby, but Mrs. Eddy has denied this. In one of her writings she declared that the boy was taken away from her just before her father married a second time, and that she remarried in order to get him back. The family which cared for him, she said, told him that she was dead and took him to the middlewest. She never saw him until he was thirty-four years old and had a wife and two children.

Another version has it that George Glover and his mother resided in the same town and at times in the same vicinity for thirteen years. After living with an aunt for a long time, George Glover went to live with a Miss Mahala Sanborn, who became very much attached to him. She became the wife of Russell Cheney, and they took the boy to live with them. In 1857 they removed to Enterprise, Minn., where young Glover enlisted for the civil war. He was wounded at Shiloh, became a United States marshal, then a minor, and finally went to live at Lead, S. D. Glover met his mother in 1878. He is not a Christian Scientist.

Last October it was reported that Mrs. Eddy was dying of cancer, and that she was under the domination of Calvin A. Frye, who acts as her secretary and coachman, and that Mrs. Parnella L. Leonard, of Brooklyn, impersonated the leader of the Christian Scientists before the public. It was stated that Mrs. Leonard, and not Mrs. Eddy, drove through the streets of Concord in a carriage with Frye on the box. It was also declared that Mrs. Eddy was visited daily by a Boston cancer specialist and that he was secretly treating her.

The Times sent a correspondent to Mrs. Eddy's home in Concord to investigate these assertions and interview her. With a small party of men, representing other newspapers, he was permitted to enter Pleasant View under the guard of members of the house. H. Cornell Wilson, head of the publication department of the Christian Scientists, prepared a list of three brief questions, and would not permit any others to be asked. These were carefully prepared questions were decided on fully an hour before the reporters saw Mrs. Eddy.

After the newspaper men had awaited Mrs. Eddy a long time, she suddenly appeared before them prepared for her drive. The gown was costly. Her hat was beribboned and bore white plumes. So extravagantly overdressed was she that she would have attracted attention anywhere, and although her hands shook with palsy, she was so roughed that she appeared to have the complexion of a young girl. She appeared to be petulant, impatient and fussy, but entirely dependent on Frye, who in footman's livery, stood beside her while she answered the questions.

All those who surrounded her endeavored to keep the reporters at a distance, and when Mrs. Eddy had answered the prepared questions in a low and somewhat indistinct voice she was immediately escorted to her carriage, and after the robes had been carefully tucked around her she was whisked away.

The impression gained by those who saw Mrs. Eddy was that while she might be in as perfect health as a woman of her years could be, she was in her second childhood, and was entirely dependent on the stronger minds of the more youthful persons who formed her household.

SUPERSTITION OF GAMBLERS CAUSES

Mutilation of $2 Notes--Shortest Senatorial Term on Record.

Washington, March 20.—The large number of two-dollar bills that have reached the treasury lately with each of the corners neatly torn off caused an investigation as to why these particular notes were mutilated in this peculiar fashion. They came in with the currency sent by various banks for redemption and were subsequently replaced with new notes.

It is no uncommon thing for notes to reach the treasury badly torn and in a short time the treasury officials had an explanation of the whole business. The members of the sporting fraternity, those who play the races and patronize pool rooms, the men of small bets, known as "pikers," were the fellows who invariably tore off the four corners of a two-dollar bill before placing it on a horse.

The explanation was simple. Utterly without reason, these men became possessed of the idea that this particular denomination of notes was unlucky and that no horse could win with a two-dollar note on him unless the corners had been torn away. It was not a crime to do this and the presumption is that the "pikers" will go on tearing away these corner fragments until some other superstition falls in with this one.

During the recent session of congress it was a new voice that announced "a message from the president of the United States," whenever an executive communication was transmitted to that body. The stern tones with which this announcement had in the past been made disappeared when former Assistant Secretary Barnes was appointed postmaster of Washington. The new assistant secretary to the president, M. C. Latta, and his voice is soft and musical. The rise of the latter has been remarkable. He was a Kansas lad when the Oklahoma territory was opened up and had been a school teacher as well as a stenographer. He was in demand in the early Oklahoma days and was soon in a country office at a good salary. He came to Washington as a clerk in the interior department, and three weeks after going to work was transferred to the white house. This was due to his expert methods as a stenographer and his trustworthiness, which was tested early. He is as modest today as a groom and came to Washington and everybody about the white house likes him, which is something that cannot be said of every member of the executive staff.

Fred Mulkey, the youthful senator from Oregon, elected by the legislature to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Mitchell, and who was permitted to sit in the senate only a trifle more than a month, goes back to his home with the idea that a senator's job is a good one and fired with an ambition to obtain a term that will give him a six-years' lease on senatorial life. After paying his respects to the president the other day, Mr. Mulkey remarked to the newspaper men that he liked the life very much and was coming back some day for a full term.

Mr. Mulkey's service in the senate was unique. When the republican vacancy occurred, there was a democratic governor, who naturally appointed a democratic member to fill the meeting of the legislature. The legislature met in January and Jonathan Bourne was elected for the full term and Mr. Mulkey to fill the temporary vacancy. Mr. Mulkey arrived in Washington after the last edition of the Congressional Record had gone to press. He never saw his name on the official list of the senate membership, save on roll calls, and his service was so brief that the committee in charge of the business of the body did not think it essential even to assign him to any committee. Mr. Mulkey had a private room and a secretary, but no work to perform. He always was in his seat and ever ready to respond to roll calls. He took things easy, enjoyed himself by getting acquainted and finding out what he could have done had he been in the senate longer, was pleasant and affable and everybody was his friend and sorry to see him go when his term expired. Mr. Mulkey can now return to Oregon and as long as he lives he will be known as "senator." Whenever he comes to Washington he will have the privilege of going upon the floor of the senate.

EX-GOVERNOR BRODIE GETS ANOTHER PROMOTION

Alexander O. Brodie, formerly governor of Arizona, has just been promoted from the position of paymaster and major to that of lieutenant colonel and assistant adjutant general in the regular army.

He is stationed in the Philippine Islands, where he went immediately after being given an army appointment.

Gov. Brodie's promotion comes after two years of active service, he having been appointed to office by President Roosevelt when the Arizona legislature was in session two years ago. His term as governor was made a few days prior to that of Governor Kibbey as his successor.

Col. Brodie's appointment, however, did not bring him into his first army experience. He was a graduate of West Point, and was long a member of the United States army.

Brodie, however, retired to civil life when the war broke out with Spain, and he became a member of the famous Rough Rider regiment as major, later being advanced to the office of lieutenant colonel. His association with Roosevelt in the war resulted in his being made governor of Arizona.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS WHEREABOUTS OF GABALDON GIRL

Was Last Seen on Barelais Bridge With Young Man. Believed to Have Eloped.

Juanita Gabaldon, the 13-year-old girl who mysteriously disappeared from the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Gabaldon, Sunday afternoon, is still missing.

The police were made acquainted with the case on Monday, but in the hour of recovery the girl, or getting some clue to her whereabouts by keeping silent, no announcement of the disappearance was made at the time.

The case is one that is hard for the officers to unravel. At the time the girl disappeared she was supposed to have been with another girl friend and two young men. The girl with whom Juanita left home says they went to the river bridge, south of town, and that she and her company returned to the home of the Gabaldons, while Juanita and her company crossed the bridge and soon were lost to sight in the distance.

When questioned by the officers the girl who was with Juanita told many different stories of the case and the police are of the belief that she knows the true state of affairs if she knew the same thing as the others. She says that Juanita was with a young man named Romero; that she does not know his first name, and that the girl she accompanied at the time she left them was unknown. Another story told by the girl connected another young man of Barelais with the case, but when this person was taken before the girl she admitted that he had nothing to do with it. She further states that she did not want Juanita to accompany herself and company when they returned, but that the girl who is now missing insisted upon going. She says that Juanita first asked her to get the permission of her (Juanita's) mother to go, and that she made this request of the parent and was refused. Then, says the girl, Juanita said she would go without consent, and that the four of them walked to the river bridge, where they remained for some time, and from which place Juanita and Romero left in the opposite direction, while she and her company returned home.

Because the girl claims to not know Romero's first name, the officers are of the opinion that his name is not Romero at all, but that if some young man really has eloped with the girl it is one whom her friend in Barelais is trying to shield. The police admit that the case just now is a puzzling one, but they have no doubt but what they will be able to find the missing girl and get her story in due time.

Pedro Gabaldon, the foster father or guardian of the girl, is an employee of the H. Benjamin & Co. furniture store on Gold avenue. He is much worried over the actions of the young girl and is himself assisting in the search for her.

MOTHERS FAVOR LIGHTS. DAUGHTERS AND PAPAS OPPOSE THEM

Which is the better: A town clock with lights or without lights? That is the question.

"It's 12 o'clock, Maude," from over the banister came a call.

"That's mother's voice," said the young lady to her best young man.

"No it isn't mother; the clock hasn't struck yet, and papa isn't home yet," said the girl.

She knew that the family clock had stopped.

"No, our clock is stopped—look at the hands," said mother, taking one more step down the stairs to get a better look at the situation in the parlor.

The young lady stepped outside, leaving the door open. She came back in a moment, with victory showing in every line of her face. The clock in the parlor was dark. "I can't see the dial, mother. There are no lights to light it."

The young man moved nervously. The mother came one more step down the stairs, and said a word all during the conversation that had past, and the situation was anything but comfortable.

"Well now, isn't that provoking. What's the use of having a town clock, if you can't see it. You must be coming to bed soon," she said, waving her hand at the clock.

The young people nestled comfortably together again.

"There," said the young lady to the timid young man, "I knew that I couldn't see that clock. I'm opposed to having lights on the clock and papa is, too. He says that the bell is so loud that it keeps mother awake."

POT OF TEA COST CORNWELL $5

Thomas Cornwell, the man who was arrested in the Sturges' lunch room last night, was given a hearing before Judge Craig this morning. Cornwell pleaded not guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly. Bonney Aron, the waiter who attended Cornwell in the restaurant, testified against him.

Cornwell contended that he had been invited to the lunch room by Charles Hubbell, who ordered two suppers and paid for them. He says Hubbell paid for the pot of tea, over which the trouble was caused, and was the reason he would not pay for it. Mr. Aron says Cornwell ordered the tea after Hubbell had left the room, and that he was under the influence of liquor at the time. Judge Craig, after hearing this evidence, fined Cornwell $5 or five days in jail. The defendant said he was to appear before the grand jury today and that he would pay his fine.

Thomas Trimble, the negro who was arrested last evening on a charge of having broken into the United drygoods store a few days since, this morning waived his preliminary hearing and was bound over in the sum of $500 to await the action of the grand jury. Being unable to give bond, he was remanded to jail.

DR. TIGHT IS OPPOSED O GREEN'S HOUSE BILL NO. 224

Says Saline Lands were Given to University by Act of Congress.

House bill No. 224, by Amos Green of Socorro county, which is now in the committee on territorial affairs, will not be legal, should it ever be brought from the committee and carried to the floor of the legislature, according to Dr. T. T. Tight, president of the University.

That land belongs to the University, by an act of congress, said Dr. Tight over the telephone this morning. "We were given it years ago, and should the Green bill pass it will not be legal. The saline lands referred to are in Socorro county and are under lease to Frank A. Hubbell. Mr. Hubbell has a ranch there. The University derives the revenue. The people making the trouble are those who have been in the habit of taking salt from Crater lake, which is located on the saline lands."

House Bill No. 224. The bill reads as follows: Section 1. That hereafter the saline lands within the territory of New Mexico shall not be subject to lease, or otherwise encumbered or disposed of, for a period of five years; but the same shall be reserved to the actual residents and citizens of New Mexico shall have the right to the free use of salt for domestic purposes from all salt lakes belonging to the said territory of New Mexico.

Section 2. That all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

CITY BUILDING CASE RESULTS IN VICTORY FOR CITY

Dimas vs. Vigil First Work for Petit Jury--Grand Jury Returns True Bills.

The case of Otero vs. the city of Albuquerque, involving the ownership of the city hall and the rent therefrom, has been settled and Otero is the owner of the building. The case was brought before the court by the city of Albuquerque, assigned to Dr. Henry and collected by him as wholly reasonable, and that Armijo or Otero have no room for complaint therefrom. It further finds that from the time Otero gave notice to the city to vacate that he is entitled to twice the amount of rent called for in the lease. The decision is considered a victory for Otero.

The case of Meloni & Eakin vs. Jose Casaus, resulted in a judgment for the plaintiffs of $25, by default.

The first jury case to come before the present session of the district court is that of Dimas vs. Vigil. This suit is one for damages alleged to have been inflicted in 1904, at which time, Dimas alleges, Vigil met him and gave him a severe beating. Vigil was tried in the original court a year ago and was fined $50 and costs. The testimony in the trial now on tends to show that the assault was an unprovoked one, though the defense is attempting to show that the men had met earlier in the day at Barelais and that the trouble was a result of a misunderstanding. It is representing the plaintiff, and W. C. Heacock is representing the defendant.

The grand jury reported several true bills this morning.

Territorial Petit Jury. The drawing of the territorial petit jury was completed last evening with the following jurors being retained:

Jerome Torres, Antonio Lopez, Jeronimo Anaya, Ambrose Garcia, Aragon, Frederico Baca, C. W. Kunz, Juan M. Montoya, Teodoro Sandoval, Francisco Sandoval, Juan Garcia, Carlos Garcia, Archie Weller, Jose Aranda, Jose L. Perca, Pedro Apodaca, Ignacio Rodriguez, Julian Mora, Antonio Jose Padilla, Louis O'Hannon, Samuel Garcia, Owen Dinsdale, Francisco S. Chavez, Louis Amsmeyer, William Gleasner.

This created another outbreak of applause and the sergeant at arms had to restore order.

The bill then passed over the governor's veto by a vote of 17 yeas to 6 nays.

The house then took up and passed house bill No. 178, to abolish the office of public printer by a vote of 16 yeas to 7 nays.

It then took a recess until 4 o'clock this afternoon to permit the joint conference committee to consider the draft of a new appropriation bill.

It is doubtful if this joint committee will be able to agree upon any plan in the shape of an appropriation bill in time to have the same passed in both houses before adjournment.

Some Minor Matters. The house took action last night upon a number of minor measures, the principal feature being the report of the joint conference committee on a bill to amend the act refunding to educational institutions funds expended in the location of lands, etc., with the recommendation that the bill be passed.

The house passed council bill No. 105, providing for an addition to the territorial capital and an executive residence, etc. The bill went to the governor today and will probably be signed.

The session lasted until 11 o'clock, when it adjourned.

In the Council. The council yesterday acted upon a number of minor measures and adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Another lively debate resulted when the steering committee reported favorably upon house bill No. 75, relating Artesia county. The bill was amended and passed over the governor's veto by a vote of 18 yeas to 5 nays. However, it will never be considered in the council.

The house passed council bill No. 105, providing for an addition to the territorial capital and an executive residence, etc. The bill went to the governor today and will probably be signed.

LAYING CONNECTING RAIL ON SANTA FE CUT-OFF

M. B. Fuller, who arrived here this morning from Montebello, says that the laying of the connecting rail on the Santa Fe cut-off is only a matter of a day or two. The western division has been completed for some time and the construction gangs on the eastern division, working westward, three days ago had reached a point only three miles from the end of the western division. This point is just east of Epik. The masonry work at Epik, where the cut-off track elevates in a sufficient height to form a bridge over the Rock Island tracks, is probably the most extensive in the world. The bridge is a cement arch forty feet high. The masonry work of this arch contains 80,000 cubic yards of dirt. The workmen employed doing masonry work on the eastern division have been ordered to Helen.

MISS HATTIE DROLETT BECOMES MRS. WM. MORRIS

Marriage Complete Surprise--Bride and Groom Off to California.

Friends of William Morris, the Railroad avenue jeweler, will be surprised to learn of his wedding, which occurred last night, and while his most intimate friends are experiencing the chagrin of the trick he turned upon them, he with his wife, is speeding toward California, where they will spend a three weeks' honeymoon.

Mr. Morris kept his plans a secret up to the last minute. The license was procured late yesterday afternoon, and at 7 o'clock the ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, of the First Presbyterian church. Almost immediately after the ceremony the couple were aboard the train that was to carry them on their honeymoon, as well as to whisk them away from their unsuspecting friends.

Mrs. Morris was Miss Hattie Drolett, a resident of Chicago, but for the last three months she has been living in this city.

Mr. Morris has rented one of the Dr. Wilson cottages on South Water street, and immediately upon their return from California the couple will begin housekeeping in their new and cozy home. Mr. Morris is a well known business man and has friends by the score who wish him well.

CLEVELAND IS SCORED FOR SPRING SHOOTING

Navy Department Unable to Find Heroes for Whom Medals Were Made—Other Gossip.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—From Cincinnati there has come an interesting bit of information that would seem to indicate that Senator Foraker is getting ready for the presidential campaign. It is reported that the Ohio senator has contracted with a lithographic firm for $2,000 worth of pictures and well known cartoons of himself.

Now, what does the distinguished Ohioan purpose doing with these pictures? That is the question the politicians are asking each other and it is a question that some of the more avowed candidates like Fairbanks Shaw would like to have answered. Mr. Foraker has a campaign on for re-election to the senate, as his term expires in 1909, but photographs of himself are not needed in that campaign. His face is pretty well known all over his native state, and as the senator intends to make an active canvass it is likely that every county in the state will have the pleasure of seeing his face to face before the April 1st.

Criticism Cleveland.

Former President Grover Cleveland has been criticised for many things during his official career and has had many admirers, but his proclivities as a sportsman were never made a basis for adverse comment until this season. In one of the most influential of the New York City dailies, prominence was recently given to a letter from a sportsman, who on the occasion to reflect upon the timeliness of the season Mr. Cleveland selects for his duck-hunting sport. This letter was called out by the announcement that Mr. Cleveland is now off on his annual hunting expedition. The former president is accused of violating the covenant of sportsmen, all true sportsmen, even if he is not violating the strict letter of the law regarding the closed season.

Can't Find the Heroes.

The navy department has stored away in its files a large number of bronze medals authorized by congress to be bestowed upon the officers and men who were under fire in West Indian waters in the war with Spain. The most singular thing about this collection is the fact that the most energetic efforts the department has not been able to locate hundreds of the men to whom they belong. Circulars have been sent out by the department to the post offices of the country calling the attention of the men in that war to the existence of these medals awarded by congress because of their bravery under fire and the department is anxious that the men should receive them.

The medal is a thing of beauty, struck off at the Philadelphia mint by a legislative resolution of March 3, 1901, the secretary of the navy was authorized to issue medals commemorative of the naval battles of the war, and the department is anxious that the men should receive them.

Lieutenant Commander Henry D. Wilson, in charge of the enlisted men's division of the bureau of navigation, will be glad if those who know the addresses of any of these soldiers would communicate the fact to them so that these medals are awaiting their claim.

Beauty and the Beast.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, daughter of the president, is a striking figure at all times, but as a horsewoman she is one of the most interesting objects for a tourist to come across. Mrs. Longworth is a horsewoman of skill, and accompanied by her husband, frequently takes long rides through the suburbs of Washington. Everybody in Washington knows the young matron and everybody loves her. A few mornings ago Mrs. Longworth had been out for a canter and concluded to ride by the white house and run in for a moment. Cantering up the avenue she turned towards the entrance gates, but as she reached the pavement her mount stopped and stubbornly refused to move in that direction. There was something he was afraid of, but Mrs. Longworth was determined the beast should respond to the wishes of his mistress. Then and there began the tug of war between beauty and the beast, and beauty of course came off victorious.

Mrs. Longworth possibly possesses some of the great will power of her distinguished father. She was determined to force the horse through the gate and her splendid horsemanship soon attracted quite a crowd of spectators. The officers on duty about the grounds offered her the aid of a mounted policeman, but Mrs. Longworth would not listen to the suggestion. The excited horse pranced and danced, lifting his forefeet high in the air with the grace and agility of the trained performer in the circus ring, while the rider with equal skill and grace clung to the saddle and controlled the horse. Never once did the rider use the whip. Her gentle words finally seemed to assure the distracted animal that it was all right and after probably ten minutes of resistance, he realized the futility of such opposition, and gave up the struggle. As quietly as if the rider had merely stopped a moment of her own accord, the horse passed through the gate and cantered up to the white house entrance.

Signing His Photograph.

The friends of Mrs. Cortelyou, wife of the new secretary of the treasury, are wondering in what capacity her husband will next affix his signature to her collection of his photographs. The other day when he was sworn in as the head of the fiscal department of the government, his first official act was to sign his name to the oath of office. At that time there were present a number of the heads of important bureaus and divisions, and Mrs. Cortelyou and a few of her personal friends. With almost nervous haste, Mrs. Cortelyou reached her husband's side and handed him a photograph, his picture of himself Mr. Cortelyou signed and added a sentiment that might naturally suggest itself to a loving and proud husband.

To her friends, Mrs. Cortelyou told the story connected with this picture. It was the fourth of the kind that Mr. Cortelyou had put his autograph. When, in 1900, he was promoted to be secretary to the president, Mrs. Cortelyou received her first autograph picture. The second was signed immediately after her husband became secretary of the new department of commerce and labor, which he organized. The third was signed immediately upon his assumption of postmaster general, and the fourth, as he became the active head of the treasury department. There are some people who predict that the remarkable rise of this remarkable man will not stop until he is the president of the United States. The promotions that have come to Mr. Cortelyou have been indeed, wonderful. Sixteen years ago he was a stenographer in the office of Major Rathbone, fourth assistant postmaster general. In that capacity, where he often acted for his chief during his absence, Mr. Cortelyou showed the same assiduous attention to business that has characterized him wherever he went. Serving there a short time a confidential clerk was wanted at the white house. Mr. Cortelyou was sent at once and at once gained the confidence of Mr. Cleveland. During the administration of President McKinley he became assistant secretary and finally secretary to the president. Here President Roosevelt found him and learned what manner of man he was. Strange things happen in American politics and those who know Cortelyou would not be surprised some day to see him in the white house as the chief executive.

Knox as Stalking Horse.

Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, does not appear to take seriously the announcement of his presidential boom at the recent Pennsylvania dinner in his city. "I am only a stalking horse," he said to some of his friends. "In a short time they will take the blanket off Murray Crane. The delegates from Pennsylvania are to be instructed for me only that I may eventually turn them over to my friend from Massachusetts."

Against Flag Advertising.

Congress has been urged repeatedly to enact a law making it an offense to use the American flag for advertising purposes, but for one reason or another such legislation has never been put on the statute books. Several of the states, however, have done this and in a decision handed down within the last fortnight the United States supreme court has held such laws are constitutional. The highest court in the country will be relieved with satisfaction by the great mass of Americans, who believe that the flag stands for something, and that the people who live under it should be taught to appreciate that fact. The case which called forth the decision came here from Nebraska. There was no dispute as to the facts. A couple of men engaged in the liquor business were prosecuted under the state law on a charge of selling beer in bottles upon which the star and stripe formed a portion of the decoration. The defense was that the law was unconstitutional and that it interfered with the private rights of citizens. The court, however, held that any common-sense law may protect the flag of the country from abuse and desecration, and this decision probably will have a far reaching effect upon other manufacturers and dealers who have marked up the flag and its tricolor through a window which had been enlarged for the purpose, with the permission of the landlord, the one unimpaired thing that permission to remove it in the same way would be given when desired. Upon the expiration of the lease the landlord refused to permit the plaintiff to enlarge the window, and insisted that he remove the piano. Upon the seeking of aid of a court of equity to compel the landlord to permit the removal of the piano, it was contended that plaintiff had an adequate remedy at law, but the Massachusetts court points out that relief by a legal action would be impossible, as the plaintiff would have no power which the plaintiff did not have to secure the piano's removal; further, that the plaintiff could not maintain a conversion, since the landlord did not set up any adverse title, but admitted plaintiff's ownership. Though the landlord had made no promise to the plaintiff that the piano might be moved as it had been brought in, the court decides that the promise made to the tenant entitled the plaintiff to a decree allowing him to remove the piano upon giving sufficient security.

Building Fairbanks Organization.

Vice President Fairbanks lost no time in leaving Washington for his home in Indianapolis for the summer, from which point he will keep a sharp lookout on the political horizon, watchful of all the breezes that may affect the presidential aspirations of avowed and receptive candidates for the presidency. The congress adjourned at noon on the 4th and at 3:45 that afternoon the vice president was speeding westward. The immediate reason for this hurry was Mr. Fairbanks' desire to reach his home city in time to tender a reception to the members of the Indiana legislature.

It was reported in Washington recently that some of the opponents of the vice president had built a fire in his rear in his home state, and that he may have had something to do with his anxiety to meet the members of the legislature who may be reasonably supposed to be representative politicians of the state. The friends of Mr. Fairbanks, however, profess to have no fear as to what Indiana will do when the time comes to announce her choice for the presidency. Just at present the followers of Mr. Fairbanks are more interested in the up-building of a Fairbanks organization in the states of the west and northwest. This is expected to follow the home-coming of the candidate and his relief from official duties at the national capital. The northwest is a region to which Mr. Fairbanks has paid but little attention up to this time, his energies having been devoted during the campaign to the hold on the situation in the south, a situation that he could deal with to greater advantage during the session of congress, owing to the presence in Washington of republican leaders from that section. According to report, Mr. Fairbanks has been quite successful in his arguments with the southern republicans and his friends hope he will be equally successful with the more rugged partisans of the northwest.

Saved Her Son's Life.

The happiest mother in the little town of Ava, Mo., is Mrs. S. Ruppel. She writes: "One year ago my son was down with such serious lung trouble that our physician was unable to help him; when, by our druggist's advice I began giving him Dr. King's New Discovery, and I soon noticed improvement. I kept this treatment up for a few weeks and he was perfectly well. He has worked steadily since at carpenter work. Dr. King's New Discovery saved his life. Guaranteed best cough and cold cure by all dealers. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free."

Mrs. Sage is Finally to Give Several Times Ten Million to Poor of America

HER GIFT OF $10,000,000 ONLY A BEGINNING—PLANS FOR TREMENDOUS GOOD OUT OF RUSSELL SAGE'S ACCUMULATIONS ON WALL STREET.

Special Correspondence.

New York, March 19.—It is now believed that Mrs. Russell Sage's great gift of $10,000,000 to the poor of America is only the beginning of a great fund which Mrs. Sage intends to finally create for the benefit of the lowly people of her own country. I have it today from good authority that as soon as the $10,000,000 donation is well started on its intended work, and more needs develop, Mrs. Sage will add more great sums to the "foundation," until the larger part of her fortune is invested in it—or several times ten millions.

This means that when this philanthropic woman dies the great riches accumulated on Wall street by Russell Sage during a lifetime of close at-

A SNAPSHOT OF MRS. RUSSELL SAGE DRESSING A DOLL FOR CHARITY.

Attention to business will pass in benefits to the unfortunates, the penniless and the suffering of the poor of America. The plan which Mrs. Russell Sage has adopted for administering her gift is a close parallel to that of John D. Rockefeller and the general education bureau, of the Rockefeller foundation. The delegates from the various states and institutions already organized to relieve the needs of the poor and the victims of unemployment and disease, just as the Rockefeller millions will help support colleges now struggling to educate the masses.

The organization under New York laws was for the purpose of directly aiding immigrants and in bettering conditions brought about by the yearly influx of a million poor people. This will be its first independent work, Mrs. Sage's advisors say, and the plans only tentative yet will cover a great field hitherto reached only in a sporadic way.

Tenement work is another field chosen for the Sage "foundation." Aid will be given to existing societies where their efforts are effective rather than in forming new channels of benevolence. Another line of independent work will be the support of men and women who shall study industrial, social and living conditions among the poor so that a better knowledge of them can be published broadcast.

The results of this investigation will determine largely the exact societies and organizations which the "foundation" will aid.

POINT OF LAW

Berry vs. Freedman, 78 Northeastern Reporter, 395, was a case involving the right to protect the flag of the country from abuse and desecration, and this decision probably will have a far reaching effect upon other manufacturers and dealers who have marked up the flag and its tricolor through a window which had been enlarged for the purpose, with the permission of the landlord, the one unimpaired thing that permission to remove it in the same way would be given when desired. Upon the expiration of the lease the landlord refused to permit the plaintiff to enlarge the window, and insisted that he remove the piano. Upon the seeking of aid of a court of equity to compel the landlord to permit the removal of the piano, it was contended that plaintiff had an adequate remedy at law, but the Massachusetts court points out that relief by a legal action would be impossible, as the plaintiff would have no power which the plaintiff did not have to secure the piano's removal; further, that the plaintiff could not maintain a conversion, since the landlord did not set up any adverse title, but admitted plaintiff's ownership. Though the landlord had made no promise to the plaintiff that the piano might be moved as it had been brought in, the court decides that the promise made to the tenant entitled the plaintiff to a decree allowing him to remove the piano upon giving sufficient security.

Making It Good.

I'd like a pair of talons, you know. Altho' I don't defend it, I'd simply fumigate the stuff. And then proceed to spend it. So your son has gone to New Haven. "Yes, he has entered the high school there." "I thought he was in Yale." "So he is. But he has cost me $5,000 this year, and that comes near making it a high school."

"Digins is one of the most thorough men I ever met. He goes to the bottom of everything." "That's perfectly natural. He was a chiropractor once."

But it'll take a flood like Noah's to clean Pittsburg.

They act like Exercise.

MRS. RUSSELL SAGE, FROM A RECENT PHOTOGRAPH. Mrs. Sage was born Sept. 1828, at Syracuse, N. Y., and she became 79 years old. For so elderly a woman she is remarkably active and clear-headed and she bids fair to reach the age of her late husband.

MYSTERIOUS CATTLE MARKET MURDER OF MEXICAN RECOVERS ITSELF

Cordova Choked by Grip so

Strong That His Neck

Is Broken.

Bulk Goes at $5.60—Sheep

Are 15 to 25 Cents Higher.

Special Correspondence.

Kansas City, March 18.—The cattle market closed last week in good condition, after having suffered some depression the first three days of the week account of heavy supplies at all the markets. Receipts here dropped down after Wednesday, and the demand improved rapidly, indicating a latent strength in the market. Supply today is 11,500 head, market generally steady, some small weakness on heavy corn-fed steers, while lighter steers, she stuff, and stockers and feeders steady to firm. The top price last week was $6.35 for choice corn-fed steers, nothing choicer was here today, bulk of steers at $5.00 to $5.60, cows $3.25 to $4.50, heifers $3.75 to $5.00, bulls $3.00 to $4.25, calves $2.50 to $7.00, stockers $3.75 to $5.00, feeders $4.25 to $5.25. Some pulp fed steers from Sugar City, Colorado, sold recently at $5.40, Colorado feeders at $4.60 to $4.95, rough hay fed steers $4.85 to $4.94. Considerable corn remains in the country and market for feeders is likely to remain strong balance of the spring months.

Mutton markets are strong and active each day lately, market 15 to 25 cents higher last week, and stronger today. Supply was moderate last week at 34,000, run today 11,000. Small runs are predicted for the next month or two at this point. Today's prices for a new top on lambs at $7.85, bulk of all the lambs here today selling at $7.60 to $7.85. Yearlings sold at $6.60 to $6.70 today, heavy yearlings at $6.25, weathers lately at $5.60 to $6.00, ewes $5.25 to $5.60. Along with the reduced supplies that are expected from now on, stronger prices are looked for, and require large numbers of sheep and lambs as a concomitant.

Capt. W. E. Dame, former district clerk, returned yesterday from Colima, Mexico, where he is managing the interests of the Colima Lumber company, a New York corporation. Colima is thirty miles from the Pacific coast. The captain will remain in the city till April 15, when he will return to Mexico.

Herr von Plehn, the German consul, left for the west last night on train No. 1 for California, where he will join his family. The consul was winced and dined the few hours he was in the city and when he left last night, he expressed himself as being well pleased with what he had seen and the way he had been entertained.

People living in the northern part of the city have a grievance against the Water supply company. Water was shut off last evening for several hours, and the same inconvenience was experienced again this morning. One north end denizen said that his wife hadn't had enough water in the house since morning to wash the baby's hands, and the baby isn't a year old yet, either.

HANS HANSON AT OPERA HOUSE MARCH 25

Dialect plays with characters drawn true to life and filled with the lights and shadows of rustic life, have within the past few years found a very warm place in the affections of theater-goers. Hans Hanson, which comes to the Elks' opera house Monday evening, is in this popular class and furthermore, has been pronounced by competent critics fully up to every accepted standard in poetry, situation and personnel. The scenes are laid in a quiet little hamlet and the characters introduced can be instantly recognized as indigenous to nearly every American country settlement. The piece bristles with strong dramatic action interspersed with plenty of clean wholesome comedy and has been the biggest kind of a hit ever since first produced. Seats on sale at Matson's.

VIVIAN CHAVES SHOTS AT MANUEL MARTINEZ

Vivian Chaves was arrested by Marshal Cole Tuesday afternoon after a warm chase across the prairie north of the city on complaint of Manuel E. Martinez, says the Las Vegas Optic.

Both parties live across the tracks at the Main street crossing and Monday evening about 8 o'clock Chaves who was drunk, had words with Martinez and drew a revolver which he fired at him. At a hearing before Judge Brown, Chaves stated that he was drunk and did not know what he was doing and remembers nothing about shooting. The judge turned the prisoner over to Marshal Cole and will render his decision in the case later in the day.

LABOR MATTERS ARE UNSETTLED AT DOUGLAS

Labor matters at Douglas are still in an unsatisfactory condition. It is reported that as a result of the offer made by the contractors to the carpenters of $5 as a maximum and $4 as minimum day's pay, together with the acceptance of other demands made by the carpenters' union, the masons have resumed work, the latter having instituted their strike out of sympathy with the former. The carpenters still adhere to their original demand for the exclusive employment of union men and a minimum pay of $5 per day. The contractors state that under no circumstances will they meet these demands in full and that if no spirit of compromise is manifested by the union the matter is ended so far as they are concerned.

Meanwhile the general public is being ground between the wheels and awaits with considerable impatience the settlement of the difficulty.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE TEN DONS

The Ten Dons held their annual banquet last night in Dr. W. G. Hope's spacious dining room, their wives being present as guests. Covers were laid for twenty-five. After coffee, speech-making was the order of the evening. Dr. Wroth, an toastmaster, called upon each member for a response to a toast. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. McMillen, Mr. and Mrs. Fox, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. Hodgins, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Asplund, Dr. and Mrs. Power, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hope, Dr. and Mrs. Wroth, Prof. and Mrs. Stroup, Mr. and Mrs. Cristy.

Robert Sheldon, of East Jordan, Mich., died at his rooming house, 315 North Arno street, at 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was about 22 years old and was afflicted with heart trouble. A brother was with him at the time of death and probably will ship the remains to East Jordan, though this will be determined by the answer to a telegram sent the parents this afternoon.

Home Insurance the Best

WE CANNOT refrain from again saying something about Home Insurance. Every time that the proposition presents itself of the tremendous amount of money that is being sent out of New Mexico and Arizona for life insurance to eastern cities, the conviction comes home with increased force that a home company ought to be patronized and the money remain in the West.

The revelations of the past year of the way the enormous surplus of the big Eastern companies has been handled and speculated with ought to emphasize the fact that the people of the West should stop pouring their money into Eastern channels when it can be placed in home insurance, and every dollar of it kept and invested at home.

It is gratifying to note that home insurance is year by year receiving more and more its just deserts. Statistics show that during the past year home companies far exceeded foreign companies in the amount of business written. Why cannot this same record be made here? It can if every individual who takes out a policy the coming year will carefully weigh the proposition of the value it is to keep his insurance at home before he puts his name to the application of any insurance company.

The Occidental Life Insurance Company of New Mexico and Arizona is owned and controlled by the leading business men of the two territories, and offers exceptional opportunities to ambitious and capable men and women to sell its policies.
