Grave symptoms later developed and he died last evening. The cause is believed to have been cancer.

ATTORNEY WHITE IS KISSED BY CLIENT

Reward For Saving Miss Josephine Kelly From Gallows.

Baltimore, March 28.—Mrs. Josephine Kelly threw her arms around United States Senator William Pinkney White in open court Tuesday and kissed him in a transport of gratitude. She is the 80th client accused of murder whom the aged counselor has successfully defended.

Mrs. Kelly shot and killed her sister, Miss Ida Gaff, because the unmarried woman had stolen the affections of the married woman's husband. The story the wife told on the stand recently was punctuated with sobs, and she was several times near a collapse. She said:

"I came home from shopping and found Ida in my house. She would not go out. I told friends to take her away. She picked up a big stick and said something about killing me with it and I ran into the front room, with her after me. And that's all I know."

"Then you began shooting?" asked her counsel.

"I got my husband's revolver some way and I don't remember shooting."

"Why did you order Ida Gaff away from your home?" he finally asked.

"Because she was always running after my husband."

When Mrs. Kelly returned to her seat beside her counsel she looked completely dropping her head on her arms, which rested on the counsel table, she cried and moaned: "Oh, my God, my God!" She continued crying and was led away by her friends, still sobbing, and with her nerves shattered.

The wife had emptied the revolver at the sister. When the jury brought in the verdict of not guilty, Mrs. Kelly jumped up and threw her arms about White and kissed him on the cheek.

APPEAL TO LAW IS PLAN OF MANAGERS

Erdman Act Provides For Arbitration When Parties Cannot Come to Terms.

RAILWAY MANAGERS SAY THIS WHAT THEY WILL DO

Minnesota Supreme Court Decides For Great Northern To Issue $60,000,000 Bonds.

Chicago, March 28.—The labor leaders in the conference, which was interrupted yesterday by the refusal of the men to accept the offer of the general managers of the western railroads, met today to consider the move threatened by the managers to avoid the strike.

The managers announced that they will invoke the aid of the Erdman act of congress, which provides for arbitration of such questions. The leaders of the labor interests would not discuss this phase of the situation today, and declared that they are yet unable to say what they will do in regard to it.

The Erdman law, which passed in 1898, provides for a board of arbitration to consist of three members, of which the railroads shall choose one, the men the second, and these two the third. If no third arbitrator shall be selected inside of three days, the chairman of the interstate commerce commission is to name him, with the approval of the labor commission.

The men have repeatedly declared that they will not arbitrate the questions at issue in the present controversy.

Trainmen Will Walk Out.
Representatives of the trainmen and conductors decided today that they will ignore the proposition of the general managers of the western railroads looking to arbitration, under the Erdman act. They voted to persist in their preparations for a strike. They declare that a walk-out is imminent unless the managers make some further concessions.

COURT DECIDES AGAINST ATTORNEY GENERAL YOUNG.
St. Paul, March 28.—The state supreme court today upheld the Great Northern railroad in its contention that it had a right to issue $60,000,000 stock, authorized by the board of directors some months ago, and which was enjoined by Attorney General Young, who claimed the company should first obtain the state railroad and warehouse commission and submit to examination to show the necessity and purpose of such issue.

STORM TURNS DAY INTO NIGHT

Great Electric Storm Hovers Over Chicago, Resulting In Many Deaths.

Chicago, March 28.—Chicago and vicinity was struck Tuesday afternoon by a remarkable freak storm, which, while only of a few moments' duration, caused one or more deaths and very heavy damage. The rapidity with which the storm came on created alarm.

A balmy, typical spring day was, in a few moments, transformed into practical night. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the air suddenly filled with dense clouds and darkness spread over the city.

Terrific lightning and heavy thunder preceded a hard hail storm. In the south end of the city a girl was killed by lightning and it is said that there were one or more deaths just across the Indiana line from lightning.

Just as the thousands out enjoying the beautiful spring weather had found shelter, the storm passed and the sun reappeared, but it shone on masses of wrecked electric, telegraph and telephone wires, broken and dismantled poles, suddenly swollen streams and dismembered trees in the parks.

Michigan reports immense damage to telephone and telegraph wires and the damage in northern Indiana was also very heavy. In portions of Iowa and Kansas, it is reported, the storm took the nature of a cyclone, and did great damage.

Along the lake shore in Indiana small towns suffered badly. Hammond, East Chicago, Hegewich and Forty others report much wreckage from the wind and hail and fires due to lightning.

St. Stanislaus' Roman Catholic church was set on fire by lightning and destroyed. If the stroke had come five minutes sooner it would have caused a harrowing tragedy. Forty children who had been attending a parochial school in the basement of the structure had just left when the flash came. Many of them were huddled on the porch of the adjoining rectory in order to escape the rain. They were badly frightened, but uninjured.

Three tall steel smokestacks at the works of the Western Steel & Cast Foundry company collapsed under the roof of the mill and many of the workmen had narrow escapes from death.

STRIKES EXTENDING AT NORTH AND SOUTH AMONG LABOR

Traction Company in Montgomery Has But Seven Men Left Out of 150.

MINE TROUBLES IN BUTTE ARE HAPPILY COMPROMISED

Montgomery, March 28.—An account of the strike the traction company has given up its efforts to operate the street cars. Only seven of the 150 employees still remain with the company. The efforts of the mayor to settle the difference by arbitration failed, the general manager declaring that his company would "stand pat."

Miners' Trouble Compromised.
Butte, March 28.—By a large majority the Butte miners' union accepts the agreement made between its executive committee and the operating companies of Butte. The vote was taken yesterday and the count was not completed until today. The new sliding agreement was adopted for five years. The smelter men of Butte will vote today on a similar sliding scale proposition, and the smeltermen of Great Falls will vote tomorrow.

POOR OUTLOOK FOR THE MAIZE CROP IN ARGENTINA.
Buenos Ayres, March 28.—The outlook for the maize crop is a very bad one at present. Nearly a month of drought has done tremendous damage to the maize plantations, and it is estimated that already fifty per cent of the total crop has been lost. If rain does not fall soon the damage will be even greater and the surplus for export will be very small indeed, as added to the want of rain, the grasshoppers have also done some damage to the young corn.

From the districts of 9 de Julio, Chivilony, Sulpacha, Carlos Cesarea, etc., advice is to hand that the crop is completely lost. The general opinion is, that even if rain were to come now our export surplus would not be much more than 1,500,000 bushels. Late stock interests are also suffering severely from the same causes, as the pasture lands are all shriveled up, and unless the drought comes to an end soon large numbers of cattle and sheep will be dying by starvation. The province of Entre Rios has suffered especially in this respect, and farmers there have been slaughtering large numbers of their sheep in order to leave sufficient for the rest.

PRESIDENT MUCH PUT OUT AT ATTACK OF RALPH BURTON

In Quandary Whether or Not to Answer. Some Advising That He Do So.

OTHERS ADVISE THAT HE SAY NOTHING IN REPLY

Washington, March 28.—President Roosevelt is between the devil and the deep sea on the Burton matter. He does not want to engage in a controversy with Burton for fear it will dignify Burton, and yet he does not like the strictures against him to go unanswered. He has discussed the affair with everybody but the newspaper men. Several western members of congress in the west where, as is the case, he has found the Burton statement worrying him. He had read every line of the statement he could find in the eastern press and was fairly itching to talk, but not for publication.

Aside from the strictures Burton placed upon him, the thing that excited the president the most was the big reception Burton received at Abilene. "It is inconceivable to me," said he, "to a western member, 'how a community of law-abiding people would turn out with banners to meet a man just released from jail.'"

When told that probably the people of Abilene believed that Burton had been persecuted, the president replied "Burton had his day in court."

Some of his advisers want him to reply. They say that if Burton's statement is left unchallenged many people will believe every word of it. This is what the president is afraid of. It is not break down his own popularity especially in the west where he is the strongest. But other advisers claim he will make a fatal mistake by getting into an argument with a man just out of jail and not only dignify Burton but will belittle the president. So he is between two fires. His natural impulse is to reply, but whether he will or not no one knows.

The impression is that Burton will keep nagging him until he is forced to say something. Bright and early today the president sent for the letter which the pardon clerk, Peyton Gordon, wrote to Burton about a pardon. Gordon produced it in person. Had it contained an out and out promise to pardon Burton, the president had determined to have a new pardon clerk by night. But it did not. But the substance of the letter was given out for publication with a statement that Burton's statement that he had been offered a pardon, was untrue.

Hartridge also said that Thaw will take the witness stand in his own behalf and answer any questions the commission may ask.

THREE BIG B'S ALL CALL.

ON PRESIDENT TOGETHER.
Washington, March 28.—It was lucky that nobody "started anything" at the white house the other day. Had trouble started it's pretty certain that it would have ended at the morgue for the unwise originators. "Bat" Masterson, "Ben" Daniels and "Bull" Andrews all happened to drop in to see the president about the same time. Both "Bat" and "Ben" have notices on their guns. "Bull" is not supposed to have shot daylight through any of his brethren, but he has been in some pretty tight places down in the lively southwest and it is not recorded that he ever showed the white feather. He is at present delegate to congress from New Mexico, but gained his nickname and political training in Pennsylvania. Masterson is just now a deputy marshal over in New York, but is known and respected for his deeds throughout the old border states. When it comes to getting out a shooting iron, and getting it out quick, few are believed to excel Marshal Masterson. Ben Daniels is United States marshal of Arizona and one of the most indefatigable crook-chasers that the department of justice has upon its payroll.

CHICK STAHL COMITS SUICIDE WITH CARBOLIC.
West Baden, Ind., Chas. S. Stahl, known in base ball circles as "Chick" Stahl, committed suicide today in his rooms at the West Baden Springs hotel by swallowing carbolic acid. No cause is known. Stahl was captain of the Boston Americans.

Albany, March 28.—The bill for recount of ballots cast at the election for mayor of New York, November, 1905, passed the assembly by 118 to 2.

EX-SENATOR BURTON VERY BITTER

(From Photo Made Immediately After His Release From Prison. EX-SENATOR RALPH BURTON AS HE LOOKED UPON RE-ENTERING HIS HOME TOWN.

Albion, Kan., March 28.—Former Senator Ralph Burton, now from his prison cell, is back among his home folks again, to begin life anew. In his heyday Senator Burton never enjoyed popularity anywhere in Kansas more than in his home town, where he was looked upon as one of the plain people. He has a large number of friends left here, as his public reception shows.

This does not mean that the town believes him guiltless, nor that every one believes him a victim of persecution, but that he is known here as a man of ability and who has always treated his neighbors fairly.

Since the expiration of his term in the Iron Mountain, Mo., jail, Burton has been very bitter in his comments upon his conviction for practicing before a government department for the plain people. His fight is largely against President Roosevelt, and he expects to conduct a magazine as part of his campaign for vindication.

AMERICAN DELEGATES TO BE INCREASED

President Will Send Larger Number to Hague Conference.

THIS WILL ENABLE MORE CAREFUL COMMITTEE WORK

Mexico and Uncle Sam Not Yet Sure of What to Do For Honduras.

Washington, March 28.—The president has concluded to increase the number of American delegates at the second Hague conference. This proceeding will not have any effect, however, upon the disposition of various projects that are being considered at the gathering, because each nation represented is entitled to but one vote. But because of the complexity and importance of the program it is felt by the president that the American delegation should be enlarged to permit a subdivision into committees if need be.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT FOR HONDURAS REPUBLIC.
Washington, March 28.—The state department received a dispatch today from United States Minister Merry, at San Jose, Costa Rica, announcing that it is reported that Amapala, Honduras, is being bombarded. Amapala is the chief iron-ore port on the Pacific side, and President Bonilla, of Honduras, is reported to have fled there. Senior Creel, Mexican ambassador, Secretary Root, had a conference concerning the provisional government in Honduras. Mexico and the United States have not yet decided upon what course they will follow, but it is likely they will recognize the provisional government.

THE AMERICAN LUMBER COMPANY LOSES J. N. COFFIN

Resignation Tendered Last Week to Take Effect June 1.

John N. Coffin has resigned as business manager and assistant secretary-treasurer of the American Lumber company. The resignation was tendered to the directorate of the company, when in session last week and accepted, and will take effect June 1. Mr. Coffin's successor will then be named.

When he took this afternoon regarding his plans for the future, Mr. Coffin said that these he did not care to state. He expects to remain in the city, although he did not say so, it is very likely that Albuquerque will continue to be his home, which will be learned by his and Mrs. Coffin's many friends with pleasure.

"I leave the services of the company with the most friendly relations existing on both sides," said J. N. Coffin. "I had a purpose in tendering my resignation, which purpose, however, I do not care to make public at present. This much you may say. I expect to make my home in the west."

Mr. Coffin has been with the American Lumber company since shortly after its inauguration.

OFFICIAL PAPER FOR CITY OF ALBUQUERQUE

PRESCOTT SAYS ARIZONA IS BOOMING

Millions Bing Invested in That Territory to Develop Old and New Mines.

MEXICO, CALIFORNIA, IDAHO,
COLORADO FEEL MOVEMENT

High Price of All Metals Keeps
Mining in Very Fore Front of Paying Enterprises.

Prescott, Ariz. Reports received here from all the important mining centers of the territory have developed the fact that millions of dollars are being expended for the equipment of both old and new properties with mining machinery of all kinds. Orders have been placed with manufacturers for very extensive supplies of hoisting plants, pumps of high capacity, engine compressors, piping, mill equipments and all the requisites for large mining operations according to the most approved and scientific methods. It is widely recognized among experienced mining men that all this modern, labor-saving machinery will make it possible for one man to do the work of ten of a few years ago. The chief need of the copper mining industry of the territory just at present appears to be in the line of adequate smelting facilities, but this need is being rapidly supplied. Not only have old smelters been overhauled and improved, but a large number of producing companies have gone extensively into the construction of new smelters of enormous capacity and designed to meet the requirements of the many grades and kinds of ore now being handled. It is a matter of note that the increase in the copper production of the United States during 1906 amounted to only about 5 per cent, but that the larger part of this increase is credited to Arizona. Among the most active of the companies now being developed in the effort to meet the increasing demand for copper are the Hull properties, the Verde Grande, and the Consolidated copper creek in Yavapai county, the Dan O'Carroll group in Pinal county, the George Wingfield Santa Cruz county. These mines are all situated upon the same great mineral belt extending diagonally across the territory, and they are all making rapid progress in installing extensive equipments of machinery and supplies.

Hermosillo, Mexico. The present high price of copper has given great impetus to the development of the new copper mines of this district. At the Lluvia de Cores mine the work of drilling and production has progressed during the past week, and the company now has nearly 400 tons of ore on the dumps ready for the smelter. This ore assays from 10 to 15 per cent copper. The drifts large quantities of native copper are appearing, indicating the presence of extensive ore bodies. From numerous assays recently obtained it is figured that much of the ore in the Lluvia will yield $10 to the ton in gold, which should pay the company's running expenses and provide for the cost of additional machinery as needed.

Georgetown, Calif. A number of gold properties located on the famous Mother Lode, which were abandoned as worked out after having yielded enormous profits of old time methods are now being reopened. With the aid of modern machinery it is undoubtedly true that the mining situation in this district is likely to witness a decided up-turn during the coming month. George Wingfield, one of the principal owners of the Mother Lode, is now heavily interested in gold properties in this vicinity.

Idaho City, Idaho. Mining men in this section are manifesting keen interest in the preparations now being made for placing the McKinley gold property upon adequate production basis at an early date. The prospect work on the property has been long and thorough, covering a period of over eight years. Superintendent Ernest McKinley states that the preliminary work on the main tunnel shaft is practically completed, and that as soon as the necessary machinery can be installed the tunnel will start into the side of Jupiter mountain with the purpose of penetrating the mineralized veins at right angles. He also states that the financial backing of the company is now fully assured, and that the mine operations will be conducted on a scale entirely adequate to the proven value of the property. As says taken from the McKinley claims have shown values running as high as $2,000 to the ton in gold, the general average being about $50.

Breckenridge, Colo. The Wellington lead and zinc mine continues to report valuable strikes of ore, as depth is attained in the workings. A high grade shoot recently encountered produced samples that fairly glittered with lead and zinc. It is stated that this ore also contains enough silver to defray much of the expense of its removal. The encountering of this shoot is regarded as having no small significance for adjoining properties, since the Wellington company confidently counts upon taking out $1,000,000 worth of ore from this one vein. The financing of this company was successfully terminated during the winter.

Patagonia, Ariz. The general manager of the Mansfield copper mine reports that smelter analysis of ore now ready for shipment shows a gross value of over $100 per ton, and that the mine will undoubtedly be able to produce large amounts of this grade of ore in the near future. He further states that the assured vein which was encountered a few days ago has now been proven to be over 200 feet in width, and that it is impregnated through and through with copper sulphides. The Mansfield company has just with drawn its treasury stock from the market, funds having been obtained sufficient for the completion of development operations at an early date.

New York City. There is every indication that the banks of this city will soon be accepting high-class mining shares as collateral on loans. Such a condition already prevails in Boston, where even the most conservative trust companies are lending on dividend-paying copper shares at a margin of 30 per cent. The newly established National Copper Bank of this city will make a business of lending on copper shares; and since the stock and produce exchange have begun the listing of mining stocks, the increasing popularity of this class of securities seems assured.

Winkelman, Ariz. S. D. Gardon, mine superintendent at the Two Queens group, stated in a recent interview that he looked to see the property become a heavy copper producer, but with unusual values in gold continuing to great depth. He stated further that owing to the rich strikes of gold made at the Two Queens a few months ago a large amount of eastern capital has lately been coming into the district with a view to security control of neighboring properties. One of these, a short distance from the Two Queens, brought the price of $250,000. The Guggenheims have lately conducted exhaustive tests to determine the extent and quality of the ore bodies of this district, and the fact that capitalists are now devoting much attention to the improvement of the railroad and smelter facilities of Pinal county is significant of a general confidence in the mineralized values of the section.

Baxter Springs, Kans. An increase of $1,000,000 in the valuation of the lead and zinc shipped from the district during the year the corresponding period a year ago is reported.

Arizona is Covered With Snow. When No. 2 came in this morning, persons who were about the depot, or who saw the train even from a distance, were made to understand why the air was unusually crisp this morning. No. 2 was literally covered with ice and snow. The chief need of the copper mining industry of the territory just at present appears to be in the line of adequate smelting facilities, but this need is being rapidly supplied. Not only have old smelters been overhauled and improved, but a large number of producing companies have gone extensively into the construction of new smelters of enormous capacity and designed to meet the requirements of the many grades and kinds of ore now being handled. It is a matter of note that the increase in the copper production of the United States during 1906 amounted to only about 5 per cent, but that the larger part of this increase is credited to Arizona. SOME PECULIAR THINGS ABOUT GEOGRAPHY

Why Boundaries of States Are
So Crooked and Uncertainly Defined.

RIVERS WHICH ARE LOST
AND OTHERS HAVE DIED

Some of These Things Which Occur in New Mexico and Near Albuquerque.

(By Frederic J. Haskin.)

A little girl who was taking her first lesson in geography inquired of her mother: "What makes the lines between the states so crooked? Why are some states shaped as oddly?" No wonder that the mother had to get help to explain. There are few grown-ups who could answer these questions satisfactorily. Our forefathers used such crude methods of dividing many of the state divisions, that some boundary lines are as hard to decipher as a maze in a king's garden.

Take the old eastern boundary of New York for an example. The line was described as starting as "a rock in the ancient road or wading place in Byram River," following a direction that would lead by a "bunch of hornbeam saplings" from Georgia, which was surveyed in 1819, was defined quite as lucidly. This was said to begin at "a rock due south of the old Indian town of Nickajack," passing due east in such a manner as to "leave old D. Ross two miles and eighteen yards in the state of Tennessee."

A tiny parcel of land in southwest Massachusetts was given to New York in 1855. It was a small cove that was practically inaccessible from the east, and because of this it became a most desirable place for prize fights, the offenders being able to slip back into New York easier than the officers could get in from Massachusetts. So to break up this interesting game of hide-and-seek between the law-breakers and the law enforcers, the bit of land was given to the state that could best police it.

In the earliest surveys of the United States, rivers and like natural boundaries were pressed into service to determine the limits of different territories or grants, and much trouble has resulted from the shifting habits of these kinds of boundaries. Had not the commission that fixed the division between the United States and Mexico decided upon a certain channel of the Rio Grande, where that river is used as the line, the citizens in that part of the world would have a hard time deciding whether they are Americans or Mexicans, because the river changes its course so often.

The people of California and Nevada may still be living in one another's territory for all they know as the boundary line was hard to establish and may vary half a mile. Just where the elbowlike bend comes in the line in Lake Tahoe, and it is almost in the exact middle of that lake that the boundary line was taken. While the boundary thus established has been accepted, and is generally recognized as being correct there may be a dispute over its exactness some day. For many years the northwest boundary line of the United States was just about as easy to locate as the famous "Seven Cities of Cibola," for which the early explorers searched so futilely. The old treaty states that the line should be "due west from the Lake of the Woods to the Mississippi." This might have been fairly approximated if the Mississippi had lived up to the expectations of the treaty-makers, but it continued to wander through the state after its own independent fashion, fully two counties to the southeast of the lake. In a half century or so the line was made more definite, though the point finally chosen as the "northwestern point" is now well under the waters of the lake.

It was not until 1842 that Maine knew just how much territory she had in her northeast corner. The old treaty of 1781 defined the boundary as "following the St. Croix river to its source," thence north to the Highlands that divide the waters of the Atlantic from those of the St. Lawrence. As no one knew which of two rivers emptying fifty miles apart was the St. Croix, or which set of highlands or whether the Bay of Fundy might be considered an arm of the Atlantic, early Maine geography was rather mixed. When Lord Ashburton and Daniel Webster straightened the matter out fifty-nine years later, they gave seven-twelfths of the disputed land to the United States and five-twelfths to England.

The most famous boundary line in the United States is that dividing Pennsylvania and Maryland. It was surveyed in 1763 by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, and they are credited with running the whole line with the exception of twenty-two miles. The line was called "Mason and Dixon's Line," and received its political prominence at the time of the great "Missouri Compromise" in 1820. In 1830, Isaac H. Dooley, in a famous speech, referred to it as the boundary line between the growing factions of the north and south. Since then it has been an integral part of history. The boundary line between Massachusetts and Connecticut has never been accurately determined, a strip of the Merrimack Valley being in dispute.

Vermont has no claim on the Connecticut river, because the old grant of the colony of New York defined its boundary as reaching to the Connecticut, and Vermont was carved from the eastern part of New York. Virginia is in the same fix where the separating Tennessee from Georgia is appointed to establish her boundary line fixing it on the southern bank of the river, leaving Maryland's dominion to extend over all the streams.

In the great basin between the Rockies and the Sierra Nevada lie the ghostly "dead lakes." Rivers that flow down to the dry edges of these one-time great reservoirs, and are licked up by evaporation and the Chinook winds. Of all the lakes that once lay there only Great Salt Lake, Lake Tahoe, and Deer Lake are left. The Southern Pacific rolls for 165 miles across the bed of what was once Lake Lahontan, and passengers gazing idly from the windows may see the terraces and wrinkles in the crust of the fossil lake, which nature robbed and defrauded of its crystal treasures ages ago.

Akin to these ghost-lakes are the lost rivers that flow with all the swiftness and clearness of other streams near by, then disappear into the earth as mysteriously as if they were spirit streams. In the valley of the Rio Grande there are many little rivers of this kind. Just south of Santa Fe is the River Honda, which flows broad and deep for many miles, then suddenly disappears out over a sandy plain and disappears. A few hundred feet from where it goes out of sight there is a small stream, and there are some of these streams end in tiny brackish lakes, but most of them disappear in the sand beds. On the coast of Mexico the clear water streams that discharge into the Gulf from underground channels many feet below the level of the sea, and these are thought to be the same waters that disappear up in the states.

In the valley between the Pecos and the Rio Grande, beginning near Sandia mountain, the bed of an old river with all its tributaries, its falls, its shallows, and its fascinating bends. It is 300 miles long and many feet wide, but it is only the ghost of a river, for there is no water there. It passes by the ruins of Gran Quivira. Its bed is strewn with broken lava, and it terminates in a salt marsh. The Indians have a legend that long ago the waters were deep and swift, and until one day a great fire swept down the valley, lapping up the waters, leaving the bed empty, the banks barren, and the valley desolate forever more.

Crater Lake, Oregon, is said to have the greatest depth of any freshwater lake in this country. Its maximum depth being 1,936 feet. Lake Tahoe is possibly next in the enterprising effort to send water down through the fires in the center of the earth, for the measuring lead shows 1,645 feet there. Lake Erie enjoys the distinction of being the only one of the chain of Great Lakes that has a current, this being due to its shallowness.

The total number of navigable miles of the Mississippi river is estimated at 2,161 miles for average steamers, and 2,237 miles for small steamers. All the tributaries of this river combined would make a distance of 13,165 miles long, and a steamer to traverse this would go a distance slightly greater than from New York to Bangkok, by way of London. If it were a pretty lively steamer it could make such a trip in about fifty days. The Mississippi river discharges into the Gulf 675,000 cubic feet of water every second, and is the only river in the United States flowing into the ocean the Gulf being reckoned here as a part of the sea. The Gulf of Mexico never has deltas, nor more than one month.

There are many mysteries of the ocean that the centuries have hidden, and which scientific study is only just now discovering. The men in charge of the work of the Gulf of Mexico hydrographic office have found in the Gulf of Mexico, about 200 miles off the southern coast, in a direct line from the Atchafalaya river, a pool of oil. This oil lies in the water to a depth of about three feet, and covers a large surface. No one can account for its being there. It has also been found that the currents of the Gulf have made an eddy that settled into a pool of dead water. This eddy catches the floats and jetsam of the sea, and looks totally unlike the rest of the Gulf water in its coloring.

is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable it taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

THREE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS FOR CHARITY IN JUST TWO YEARS

FIRST COMPILATION OF THE MIGHTY DELUGE OF PHILANTHROPY BY AMERICAN MILLIONAIRES SHOWS GIGANTIC TOTALS—HALF GOES TO EDUCATION—ROCKEFELLER IS KING OF CHARITY, GIVING TWICE AS MUCH AS CARNEGIE.

(Copyright, 1907, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

New York, March 27.—Recent colossal benefactions by American millionaires to philanthropic causes have suggested the civilized world, and have registered a new and heretofore undreamed-of height of charitable enterprise.

Each day the newspapers record some new mighty tributary to this golden flood.

That some definite idea of the exact proportion of these benefactions might be had the Newspaper Enterprise association, of which The Citizen is a member, has just compiled a complete list of important public gifts by American millionaires since January 1, 1905.

This first compilation of the stupendous philanthropy of the day totals $297,364,000.

It must be understood that the list does not include the thousands of gifts of less than $50,000 by individuals in all parts of the country. It also does not include many benefactions by anonymous persons, or church donations and charities, or gifts by societies, cities, states or individuals for relief in times of calamity, such as the San Francisco disaster. It is also exclusive of organized charity.

It is estimated that complete total of American philanthropy from January 1, 1905, would show an amount in the neighborhood of half a billion dollars.

The $297,364,000 accounted for in the accompanying compilation, if equally divided among all the inhabitants of the United States and its island possessions, would give to each man, woman and child about $3.

If reduced to silver dollars the total would fill a pit seventy-five feet square and seventy-nine feet deep.

A significant feature of the list is the enormous gifts to education, to-

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Putatively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same governing nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

NEW SCHOOL LAW

In The Citizen last evening was published a most excellent summary of the new school law. This writer read it with much pleasure; and while it may require some months for those who will be charged with the execution of the law, to become thoroughly familiarized with all its parts so as to secure easy and harmonious action of the whole, The Citizen is free to express its opinion that the new school law is one of the very best enacted by the thirty-seventh legislature.

It also pleases this paper to find that the two very objectionable features, against which The Citizen was the first paper in New Mexico to utter its protest, were eliminated. The appointment of county superintendents, instead of their election, which was much the worse, was killed in the house; the requirement of excessive qualifications—excessive in quantity and character—which was the other feature to which The Citizen objected, was so far modified in the council as to eliminate the ground of The Citizen's objection. The law as it now stands should very materially improve the condition and work of the rural schools in the territory.

No doubt it is rather too early in the condition of public education at the present time, but The Citizen desires to go on record as expressing its expectation of the arrival at no distant date in the future, of the time when the pupil who has passed through the grades below the high school, will have wherever high schools are, the choice of taking the high school course on his way to the college; or the agricultural course, similar to but in the place of the high school; or the manual training school, in the place of either of the other two. In other words, the high school should consist of three different departments, the pupil or his parents having the choice of which of the three he shall take.

The Evening Citizen congratulates its friend and neighbor, the Las Vegas Daily Optic, on having broken its long silence, and in doing so uttering an emphatic expression of opinion. Last evening the Optic said: "The territorial board of immigration will meet in a few days to organize and elect a new secretary. It is hoped by everybody who is at all inclined to see a square deal, that the board will select a secretary who is not in any way connected with a newspaper or printing plant. The board has a large amount of printing done each year, and it should be distributed among the publishers of the territory, and not all done in one office. If a man can be found who has been prominently identified with some organization that has been active in the development of the territory's natural resources and the advancement of her commercial interests, he should be chosen. This bureau has done very effective work in the past and if ability, rather than political preference, is considered when the new secretary is elected, it will continue to be a great power for bringing new people and new capital into the territory."

The suspicion that dead-wall advertising, or the circus-poster type of publicity, is not all that it should be, has attained such proportions in the navy department, according to the Washington, D. C. Herald, that it has been decided to have an investigation which shall show the relative advantages of advertising in the newspapers for recruits and the solicitation by colored posters. There are those who entertain the theory that the best sort of recruits are obtained from the newspaper advertisements, on the very reasonable argument that men who fail to read the newspaper want columns are not apt to be desirable in any capacity. A considerable sum has been expended annually in putting out huge posters of ornate design in order to attract the attention of the chance pedestrian who may be expected to read the alluring proposition of employment with large compensation and privileges if the candidate for these circumstances of life will apply to the nearest naval recruiting station.

The New York Sun's affection for the capitalistic end of an argument is so well known that any plea it may make for capital is apt to be misconstrued, says the Courier-Journal. However, its protest, expressed in its choicest irony, against the present habit of writers, speakers and politicians of casting aspersions upon railroad officers is just and timely. It is no crime to be a railroad president. The position is one of responsibility and honor, and it usually requires a man of big caliber to fill it. The discovery of questionable practices on the part of a stock jobber like E. H. Harriman is no justification for attacks upon men who are in charge of the operation of properties requiring the soundest judgment, the fullest experience and infinite resourcefulness. The crime lies in being a dishonest railroad president. Send him to the penitentiary, but treat the others with the consideration and dignified respect which any man, high or low, deserves who is achieving something.

New Mexican: "Turning Good Friday into Arbor day is not a precedent that will appeal especially to the people of New Mexico, the majority of whom are members of churches that observe the day as one of penitence, silent retrospection and fasting, while Arbor day in its nature is one of festivity. This is to be regretted, for Arbor day was intended and does give an impetus to tree planting. The concerted effort of schools, societies and private individuals to mark the day with the planting of trees and shrubs often meant the beginning of decisive civic improvement. Naturally, when it comes to a conflict between an obligatory duty to church and a voluntary effort to observe Arbor day, church members at least, will choose to perform the former."

"Graft," says the Morning Torture of the coming public. Does Danny so soon forget how those "white-winged reformers" forced an unwilling governor to give them every office at his disposal in return for their votes? Does Danny not remember that the "thirty pieces of silver" he received was appointment as a member of the bureau of immigration? Does he not know that he is trying with might and main today to control that bureau and to install as its secretary a member of his gang who will do his bidding without conscientious scruples? "Graft" is a dangerous word for the morning paper to use. Why not substitute "business proposition?"

The New York Evening Mail made a poll of the enrolled republicans of New York city as to their preference for the presidential nomination, with the result that three voters out of four want Mr. Roosevelt to be the party standard bearer in 1908. The Mail takes this vote in conjunction with the expressed preferences of several western state legislatures to mean that three-fourths of the members of the republican organization in the country desire that Mr. Roosevelt shall again become a candidate.

The joint committee of the Massachusetts legislature on constitutional amendments has reported favorably upon a proposition to submit to the people at the next election the question of electing United States senators by the people. Just how Massachusetts expects to affect the question doesn't appear.

At Las Vegas, before the United States court commissioner, Robt. L. M. Ross, during the present month, there were made eleven final proofs and twenty-six homestead entries. That is going some in the land office business.

THE BOYS' CLUB OF WHICH HARRIMAN IS THE PRESIDENT

E. H. Harriman was as proud as if he had just swallowed a new railroad when a large audience of society folk gathered in the ball room at Sherry's to witness a performance of "The Gondoliers" by The Boys' club, of which the financier has been president for thirty-one years.

Organized to furnish wholesome amusement to the boys of the east side, the club has grown and prospered wonderfully, and its roster of 1,500 active members includes no more active or heartily interested "boy" than Mr. Harriman himself.

The ball room was transformed into a small theatre and the production was staged and costumed more like a Broadway picture show than an amateur undertaking. A full orchestra played the tuneful score.

Boys Delight in the Affair.

There was a delightful racket and mingling of voices behind the scenes, while the audience was gathering, but when the lights were lowered and the curtain was turned on the stage quiet reigned.

Charles Stahl, with a do-or-die, Cassabianca air about him, stepped before the curtain to speak the prologue. It proved later to be sheer modesty on the part of Charles when he said:

"We pray you neither criticize nor chide,
But let our youth and good intention hide,
Like charity, a multitude of sins,
And win your favor ere the play begins."

In the interest of strict truth it must be said that there were about forty very nervous young boys on the stage when the curtain rose and the opening chorus began, but before many lines had been sung the opera was moving along vivaciously and with a swing that brought generous applause from all present.

Why, where did you get all the pretty girls? was the question each spectator asked of his neighbor. There were fair-haired and dark-haired girls, a score in all, with prettily colored cheeks, fine eyes and gleaming white teeth, all tastily costumed and wearing their skirts with dainty grace. That is, they were make-believe girls, for among the fair damsels were champion boxers and wrestlers of The Boys' club, and their healthy beauty was acquired by hard work in the "gym" of the clubhouse at Tenth street and Avenue A.

Harriman Enjoys the Play.

Mr. Harriman, who occupied an aisle seat beside his wife, smiled at the questions about the girls, for he knew the "girls" and that they were real American boys, maybe inclined to be a trifle too "scrappy," but all right at heart, and he rose and walked back with his hands stuffed in his pockets, to better appreciate the gay scene on the stage.

William Schmidt, prima donna, was one of the big hits of the production. He assumed the feminine role of Gleanetta, and Charles was Tessa, and when the two Gondoliers began to make love to the pair William couldn't make his eyes behave and had the house in a roar of laughter by his finished love-making.

James Richardson, as one of the Gondoliers, could not quite divorce himself from the idea that "Bill" Schmidt was "Bill," and not the lovely maiden he pretended to be, and was just a trifle cold, but Frederick Strangio, a handsome boy, who played the other Gondolier, made the most vociferous kind of love to brother Charles Schmidt, and so the cast was balanced. Strangio's performance was a really remarkable one, but that could be said of practically all the cast.

The real fun came at the end of the first act. There was a scramble from the stage, and the artists in wigs, powder and brilliant costumes, looked in on the audience as they passed the door and then scrambled into a private dining room, which had been converted into a dressing room.

Hook Me Up, Please.

Half the audience, men in evening clothes and women in fine dresses, flocked to the dressing rooms to get better acquainted with the actors, and found them making a rapid change of costume. Under their stage finery, the boys were very decollete gymnasium shirts, but the presence of society women did not interfere at all with costume changing, and soon some of the women who had come in to look on, were impressed into service by requests from the boys to "hook me up," or "Please pin this thing where it belongs."

Mr. Harriman strolled in to the dressing room.

"How's the boy?" he asked, waving his hand to one of the youngsters at the door.

"Pretty well, thank you; how's yourself?" replied the youngster, waving right back at him.

"So this is William?" asked one.

"Yes, I'm Bill," replied the prima donna in a voice that proved his high notes on the stage to be falsetto. Bill will probably be a fine bass singer when several years more are piled on his shoulders. He also hopes to be a champion wrestler.

The second act went off with a flourish and the boys were heartily congratulated. The elaborate program done in book form, contained some advertisements that caused amusement and speculation among the audience. One man initiated some of the display advertisements. The advertisements and his initiating ran as follows:

"From a friend whom the public eye turns into a shrinking violet." Probably J. D.

"From a friend in the background." E. H. H. himself.

"From a friend whose generosity is equalled by his modesty." A. C. Another library.

"From a friend who does not favor publicity." J. P. M.

The patronesses of the entertainment included the Mesdames Charles E. Alexander, Joseph H. Choate, Henry O. Havemeyer, Richard Mortimer, R. Fulton Cutting, William Church Osborn, Sidney Dillon Ripley, Cortland Field Bishop, Brandish Johnson, Percy R. Pyne, John Henry Hammond, John M. Bowers, E. H. Harriman, J. Borden Harriman, Otto H. Kahn and Francis P. Kinnicutt—New York Americans.

PERVERTED PRIDE OF ENGLISH LORD CAUSES BIG EXPENDITURE

A wealthy English lord has paid $125,000 for a picture in order that he might destroy it. The rich man is Lord Aberdale of Duffryn. The picture was that of Miss Camille Clifford, former American chorus girl and servant, now the daughter-in-law of Lord Aberdale.

The painting, which was by a celebrated artist, showed Miss Clifford posed as a house maid. Her sleeves were rolled to her elbows. She carried a slop pail. It was the picture of a handsome, rosy, healthy American girl.

When Aberdale learned of his son's marriage he also learned about the picture. He vowed he would buy it and destroy it and make his beautiful daughter-in-law a leader of society in England. He spent a fortune to find the picture. He bought it and burned it. And that's a pity. It is a loss to the world when a thing of beauty that might be a joy forever is destroyed. The painting is described as a thing of beauty. Besides, it is a loss to the house of Duffryn which was ashamed of the picture. It would have been worth while to hang the speaking portrait of the young wife, posed as a servant girl, beside the stiff pictures of the ancestors of Aberdale. The English aristocracy badly needs the infusion of some healthy, normal blood, and the picture would have been proof that the later descendants of Duffryn were sprung from the loins of honest, healthy, independent, virile American stock. Lord Aberdale's grandchildren are to be congratulated, although—poor things—they may never know from whence comes their good, rich blood.

EL PASO SHOOTERS DEFEAT DEMING SPORTS

El Paso, Texas, March 25.—The El Paso Gun club won the trophy event Tuesday in competition with the shooters from Deming by a score of 214 to 204. It is well that they did it, too, for had Deming won again, it would have been the third consecutive victory for the marksmen from the Windmill City and the cup would have belonged to them permanently, according to the rules under which it was given.

There was a big attendance at the shoot, which was held at the club grounds near the end of the Boulevard car line and the marksmen were busy all day.

C. Rathel, of Deming, won the sterling silver trophy cup offered by A. H. Richards, for the highest score made by a non-resident shooter. His score was 179 out of 200 shot at. As usual Will Rand led them all with a score of 181 out of 200 shot at.

In the main trophy event the shooting was between a team of five men from El Paso and a similar team from Deming. Fifty targets were shot at. The score in this event was as follows:

El Paso—

Total	214

Deming—

MAYOR HENRY DIES AT LAS VEGAS

Edward Henry, formerly mayor of East Las Vegas, and a well known and highly esteemed citizen of the Meadow City, died there yesterday morning at his residence, 812 Seventh street. Mr. Henry was in his 87th year, and his end came as a result of old age. Till a comparatively recent period he retained his strength and faculties but for the past few months it was evident to those about him that his energy was failing, and when in the early part of February he took to his bed it was recognized by all that the end was near.

Mr. Henry had lived in East Las Vegas since 1881. He early identified himself with the best interests of the city of his adoption, and almost from the first became an active force in the development and upbuilding of the municipality over whose destinies he was later called upon to preside. He was particularly interested in educational and philanthropic matters and contributed much to the development of the present excellent school system. He leaves many friends and his death is regretted by all who knew him.

COMIC OPERA BY ELKS PROMISES TO BE AN EXTRAVAGANZA

Will Float Under Title of
"Elks' Tooth or The Isle of Mystery."

The greatest thing ever put on in Albuquerque, is the expression used by every Elk in speaking of the coming production of the great spectacular comic opera, "The Elk's Tooth, or the Isle of Mystery," which will be given by local talent April 3 and 4. The stage setting of act I, representing a modern ocean liner at sea, is the most elaborate setting of its kind in the country today. It was painted by Sosman & Landis, of Chicago, from photographs, and is absolutely true in every detail. None of the scenery in the Elks' opera house will be used in the production. Every drop was sketched from photographs and sketches made especially for "The Elk's Tooth." An excellent cast has been secured and the members are rehearsing every day and evening. The Albuquerque Elks are famous entertainers and in producing this splendid opera they will make it their crowning achievement along the entertainment line. When the Elks decide to do a thing it is a foregone conclusion that it will be a success, as every one is a hustler. In conversation with Mr. Bennett, the chairman of the entertainment committee, today, he said:

"We have a great surprise in store for Albuquerque people. 'The Elk's Tooth' is the best comic opera seen here in a long time, and when the people realize what a great show we will have, there will not be a seat empty in the opera house, April 3 and 4. We are going to give our patrons a rare treat."

AWAKES AFTER A FIVE WEEKS SLEEP

Curtis McCollum Speaks For First Time Since His Injury.

Striving desperately to make his hearers understand him, Curtis McCollum, who five weeks ago was found in an unconscious condition at Santa Fe, and who since then has been a patient of the sanitarium in this city, today showed the first sign of returning life when he began to talk. Since recovering from the effects of his tongue the man has talked almost constantly, but his utterances are mere jumbles of words and convey no meaning.

McCollum's case is one of the most remarkable ever recorded at the local hospitals. For five weeks he has lain as one dead and life has been kept in his emaciated body by means of liquid foods given him with a spoon. During his long sleep he has never spoken and scarcely moved.

It is now believed by the physicians in attendance who have watched the case with considerable interest that the man will recover. He is able to sit up and eat with relish. The man feeds himself, using knife, fork and spoon without difficulty.

He does not, however, realize as yet his condition, and does not even know those who have cared for him. The man's long sleep is believed to have been caused by a hemorrhage of the brain, which probably left a blood clot pressing upon the delicate organism. The clot, the physicians believe, is gradually being absorbed and as soon as it disappears McCollum will become rational. It does not absorb of its own accord, it may be necessary to remove the clot by one of the most delicate of surgical operations.

A feature of the man's condition is the fact that he uses the plural pronoun "we" in speaking. He imagines there is always some one, a dual personage with himself.

He answers questions after they have been repeated steadily for some time, but his answers are not always correct and he never says the same thing twice.

The people of Albuquerque are familiar with the case, which has aroused considerable interest in addition to that among the physicians. It is believed that when McCollum regains his mind, he will take up a train of thought identical with that which occupied his mind at the time he was injured, and will know absolutely nothing about the long sleep in the hospital in this city.

MRS. HENRY GOETZ CHARMING HOSTESS

Mrs. Henry Goetz, of 1023 North Second street, entertained a number of lady friends at her home yesterday afternoon in honor of an anniversary of her birth, and after a few hours of social chat at the home, the party repaired to the Zeiger Cafe, where an elaborate luncheon was served.

Henry Goetz, the husband of the hostess, is the manager of the Zeiger Cafe, and his efforts, together with those of David Combs, the head waiter, terminated in what was pronounced one of the most unique dinner parties of the season. The event might well have been called an Easter party, since all the decorations and the color scheme embellishing the private room in which the luncheon was served were emblematic of Easter time. The ladies congratulated Mrs. Goetz very enthusiastically upon her success and Mr. Combs came in for his share of praise in the manner the event was carried out.

GANS-NELSON FIGHT TO BE REPRODUCED

The Haggy Scenic company last night reproduced the Gans-Nelson fight, and some sensational and comedy pictures at the Casino. Owing to the chilly weather and many other attractions in the city, the crowd was not as large as the show merits. The pictures were all put on in first-class order and every one was an interesting subject. In the Gans-Nelson fight every blow was a knockout, and could plainly be seen and showed the much disputed fowl blow in the forty-second round. Nelson's fighting tactics are much similar to Jeffries'. Gans' footwork is fine, and some of his side-stepping clever, frequently leaving Nelson's sledge-hammer blows to the air.

The war reproduction, perfectly depicted infantry, cavalry and artillery in action, and for a battle scene was extraordinarily bright and clear. The comedy and sensational pictures were also good.

The show is on again tonight, closing its engagement with tonight's performance. The fight is announced to be repeated, and many new pictures in addition. All points considered, this is the best show of the kind that has come to Albuquerque.

ROCK ISLAND SHOPS BURN AT CARRIZOZO

As the result of a fire supposed to have been started through the dropping of a lighted cigarette by a Mexican employe, the general shops of the El Paso & Southwestern railroad at Carrizozo, N. M., were completely destroyed by fire yesterday evening. The blaze originated in the tool room and under the encouragement of a high wind, spread rapidly. Every means within the power of the town authorities and the employes of the road were used to prevent the advance of the conflagration. Their efforts proved futile, however, and the shops are a total loss. The officers estimate the damage at about $200,000. Five engines and a number of cars were destroyed along with the buildings. Nearly 150 men are out of employment through the destruction of the property and the business of the town will suffer accordingly.

Dr. Sheridan Rebukes City
Physician For Not Giving Him the Laws.

Dr. W. M. Sheridan was fined $10 in the police court this morning for having failed to report a case of measles, which he was treating. This was the first prosecution of this nature to come before the officers for some time, and Dr. Sheridan's case was brought about by his ignorance of the city laws requiring physicians to report such cases as soon as they are discovered. The doctor has been in the city but a short time, and this morning pleaded that he was not made acquainted with this law when he began practicing here. He suggested that the city physician be instructed to make new physicians acquainted with the laws governing practicing medicine, and the judge retorted that one should make himself acquainted with the laws governing his own profession. The doctor paid his fine.

HANNA - CRUICKSHANK NUPTIALS AT SAN MARCIAL

San Marcial had another wedding Tuesday evening, the principals of which are two of the best known people of the territory. The groom was W. H. Hanna, superintendent of the Santa Fe reading rooms at San Marcial, and one of the oldest railroad men of the territory, and the bride was Mrs. Ida D. Cruickshank, the widow of the late Dr. C. G. Cruickshank, of San Marcial, whose death occurred about three years ago. Rev. Givan, of San Marcial, performed the marriage ceremony. A large number of friends were present at the wedding, which took place at the home of the bride.

SMALL BLAZE AT BENJAMIN HOME

The fence surrounding the home of Harry Benjamin, 514 West Marquette avenue, was found to be on fire shortly after noon today, and a fire alarm was turned out. The firemen made a quick run to the scene and extinguished the fire before it had done any damage other than burn the hole in the fence. A boy near the fence also was on fire. It is supposed the latter became ablaze from hot ashes which had been deposited near it and that the blaze spread to the fence.

HOUSE OF LORDS YET FIGHTS COMMONS

Bill Regarding Marriage With
Sister of Deceased Now
Bone of Contention.

ENGLAND'S NEW CHAMPION IN ART OF SELF-DEFENSE

Interesting Career of the Late Otto
Goldschmidt, Husband of Swedish Nightingale.

(By William True Hawthorne)

London, March 27.—The deceased wife's sister bill continues to stand out as the Gordon and most enduring subject of quarrel between the Lords and Commons—the commonality—but just why this is so is not easy to determine. The measure is one that revives memories of the century-long antagonism between the two houses as representatives of the civil and ecclesiastical powers, but it is far from clear to the logical mind why the church should have prohibited marriage with a deceased wife's sister. There is no scriptural sanction for the prohibition, and many, if not all, of the great branches of the Christian church have always permitted these marriages.

Even the Catholic church which has done so much to exalt the marriage tie, has freely granted dispensations for these unions between man and sister-in-law. The principle of marriage with a deceased wife's sister has been affirmed by the House of Commons so many times that it is hard to doubt as to the sentiment of the public, but the bill has uniformly been rejected on reaching the House of Lords. This sentiment, however, resistance to its final adoption has been measurably weakened by the passage of a bill sanctioning marriages of that character in the British colonies, and but for the survival of bigotry and prejudice this question of purely family significance would seem to be appointed to a decision, near at hand, in the affirmative. Sir Brampton Gordon, in moving the second reading of the bill in Commons, claimed that, far from weakening morality, it would strengthen it by removing an unnatural bar to marriage.

He enlightened the discussion with a new definition of the private member of the house—"a member who is not paid." After Lord Robert Cecil moved the defeat of the bill in the speech extremely able, but which had a strong eighteenth century ecclesiastical flavor, an admirable speech in favor of the bill was delivered by Sir Henry Fowler. He was always an accomplished speaker, and on this topic his voice rang with all its old resonance. He reminded the house of the fact that the learned consist of the Catholic church, Cardinal Wiseman, described the restraint on these marriages as a regulation of the church, not a prohibition by God. And that there was no difficulty in obtaining a dispensation from Rome for it. To the argument "Why should we relieve people who contract these marriages from the consequences of their own act?" Sir Henry Fowler asked, amid applause, "What about the children? It is the children who suffer from the legal ban on these marriages." In the end the bill was carried by an overwhelming vote, but the opponents, who have blocked its final passage on many former occasions, seem determined never to leave nothing undone to prevent its passage in the final stage of legislation.

England has a new champion of the manly art of self-defense. He is Gunner Moir, and it took less than three minutes to evince his superiority over Thomas Smith, the previous champion, and through his superior powers to win something like $2,000 a minute.

The National Boxing Club never brought off a contest that embodied so much fighting in such a brief while. Moir and Smith met for the championship of England, and $7,500 rested upon the result. In one of one round of Queensbury tactics Moir rendered his opponent more experienced opponent unfit for further effort and got the decision. Tactics in boxing are most vital, and Smith made a fatal error in forcing the issue. He went in to beat a man who has tremendous hitting power, and it proved a sad error. Moir led with his left and got in a shower of short-arm jabs. Then bringing his right into requisition, he well-directed blow, landed with great force on the point of the jaw, gave the verdict in favor of the Gunner. English boxing cannot be so soft as his opponent's, and through his superior powers to win something like $2,000 a minute.

Aside from the fact that Otto Goldschmidt, whose death is announced from South Kensington, was the husband of Jenny Lind, the Swedish Nightingale, his career was an interesting one. It is recalled that he made his debut in London at a concert in 1848, more than half a century ago.

He first met Jenny Lind in 1849, when he played the piano at a concert she gave at his majesty's. During two years' residence in London he won fame as a solo pianist, and eventually was asked to succeed Julius Benedict as the conductor of the Jenny Lind concert in America. This tour had been arranged by Edmund, who had settled for 154 concerts, the Swedish Nightingale to receive 200 pounds for each, as well as a share in the gross receipts. It was during this trip that Goldschmidt married the gifted vocalist, the ceremony taking place at Boston in 1852, and his wife took up her residence in London. He was a member of the teaching staff of the Royal Academy, being appointed vice principal in 1862. He, however, gave few lessons, and he was possessed of ample means apart altogether from the fortune earned by his wife, and his leisure was spent in composition. His most notable work is the oratorio "Fith," which was performed at the Her-ford festival of 1867, and was subsequently given in Hamburg and Düsseldorf. Some of his songs have won well deserved popularity. Mr. Goldschmidt was a great admirer of Bach, and in order to give a performance in London of the cantata "The Mass in B minor," he formed the Bach Choir, and it was in 1876 that this work was heard for the first time in this country in its entirety. The performance, which was conducted by Mr. Goldschmidt, was the more memorable because Jenny Lind had coached the singers.

It was also in conjunction with his renowned wife that Mr. Goldschmidt organized concerts for the purpose of founding in England the now valuable Mendelssohn Scholarship.

After Jenny Lind's death, at Malvern, in 1887, Mr. Goldschmidt retired from the musical profession. The action brought in the king's bench division by Miss "Kitty Gordon," the well known musical comedy actress, and her husband, for damages against the Accident Insurance company for the loss of a fur coat ended yesterday in a verdict for the plaintiffs, Justice Bray assessing the damages at 1,000 pounds.

Miss Gordon, who is the wife of Captain the Hon. Henry W. H. Herford (brother of Lord Deedes), at the end of 1905 paid a visit to America to play in "Veronique," and an insurance company, which had insured her at 3,700 pounds, was effected with the defendant company. She stated that on leaving New York she packed a fur-coat, for which she had paid 1,000 pounds, in a trunk, and when she arrived in London the trunk had been tampered with and the fur-coat abstracted.

Captain Herford also deposed to seeing the coat put into the trunk at New York.

Defendants denied that the policy covered the fur. Justice Bray, however, gave an opinion in favor of the plaintiffs on all points. He came to the conclusion that Captain and Mrs. Herford were witnesses of truth. The cloak was, he thought, put into the trunk in America and was missing in England. On legal grounds he was also in favor of the plaintiffs, given under his judgment for 1,000 pounds with costs.

By a resolution passed by a majority vote of the whole board, under suitable provision of the by-laws to designate two or more of their number to constitute an executive committee, which committee shall, for the time being, as provided in said resolution, or in the by-laws, have and exercise any or all the powers of the board of directors, which may be lawfully delegated, in the management of the business and affairs of the corporation, and shall have power to authorize any officer of the corporation to be affixed to all papers which may require it.

The board of directors and the executive committee shall, except as otherwise provided by law, have power to act in the following manner, viz.: a resolution in writing, signed as affirmatively approved by all the members of the board of directors or by all the members of the executive or other committee, and thereafter with original or with duplicated signatures inserted in the recorded minutes and properly dated, shall be deemed to be the action of such board or such committee, as the case may be, to the extent therein expressed, with the same force and effect as if the same had been duly passed by the affirmative vote at a regularly convened meeting.

Subject to the foregoing provisions the by-laws may prescribe the number of directors to constitute a quorum at their meeting, and such number may be less than a majority of the whole number.

The corporation reserves the right to amend, alter, change or repeal any provision contained in this certificate in the manner now or hereafter prescribed by statute for the amendment of the certificate of incorporation.

Such provisions, we have hereto set out in full and seal this 25th day of March, 1907.

TRAIN SERVICE ON SANTA FE CUT-OFF

Ninety Days Will See Regular Trains Running From Belen to Kansas City.

J. V. Key, superintendent of construction for the Santa Fe, before returning to his headquarters at Belen that it was true that the cut-off had been completed and that trains were running from Belen to Kansas City, and that connections were being made at Texico with trains for the southern Kansas division and Kansas City, and that regular passenger service would be established between Belen and the east within ninety days.

"The statement made to the effect that regular train service would not be established on the cut-off for two and a half years is about two years and three months off," continued Mr. Key. "Why, we will have the Brownsville extension in operation and running trains from the Pacific to the Gulf on a direct line by that time."

The cut-off has been completed and Mr. Key is now turning his attention to the Belen-Rio Puerco link, which is being built by Grant Bros., a Los Angeles construction company. The work of building this twenty-eight mile road is about two-thirds completed.

ROUNDHOUSE CAT RIDES

The Portland, Me., roundhouse cat arrived at Waterville, of the same state, after what the train crew considered an eventful trip.

When Pete Coyne's big engine left the roundhouse of the Maine Central at Portland yesterday morning pussy was found asleep in front of the fireman's seat in the cab. She was put off and the engine was hooked on to a long string of freight cars.

When the train arrived at Brunswick Engineer Coyne, while oiling, found the cat at perfect ease in a snug little place between the great driving wheels alongside the boiler and just above the airbrake cylinders. At his approach the cat arose and leisurely walked around the locomotive. All the way from Brunswick persons at the different stations saw the cat on the front of the engine apparently unconcerned and unmindful of the stiff wind, the flying cinders and the rattle and bang of the machine as it passed over the 55 miles of road.

When the train arrived in Waterville the cat was as black as any other black cat. It was given a bath and placed in charge of one of the train crews and is now back with the old folk.

MEANS BRASS BUTTONS FOR TICKET CLERKS

Rumor is afloat that all ticket agents of the Burlington system on and after the first of April will be required to appear in uniform, according to a recent ruling decided upon by the officials of the road, says the Topeka Journal.

Of course, this ruling, if it goes into effect, will not be welcome news to a large number of the ticket agents, especially among those who are working for meager salaries in the smaller towns, for every agent will be compelled by the officials to buy his own uniform, the same as do the conductors and brakemen of the various lines throughout the country.

There is an advantage, however, to be gained from such a proceeding, and that is the fact that the agent who does not happen to be at the ticket window, but who is out on the platform or at some railroad business, and he is wanted by the stranger for something very important and it would be almost impossible to locate him without some insignia. And there are times when the trainmen are in a hurry to communicate with the agent and he is hard to pick out from a platform full of people hurrying to get on and off the train.

SANTA FE SHOWS HOW IT DISTRIBUTES ADVERTISING

The question is often asked how railway system is advertised and how much it costs. The question is answered by W. H. Simpson, general advertising agent for the Santa Fe. In reply to what is done with the appropriation of $400,000, Mr. Simpson states that $175,000 is spent with newspapers on the Santa Fe lines and $225,000 with newspapers in the middle, eastern and southern states. Magazines and illustrated weeklies get approximately $25,000, theater pro-

NEWSPAPERS ON WALL PAPER PROVE

How Severe Was the Blockade of Railroads in the Northwest Recently.

Washington, D. C., March 28.—The interstate commerce commission recently received a number of letters and papers from the northwestern states that they were snow bound and shut off by the impossibility of the railroads getting their trains through during the late severe storms of that region, which show to what great extent the people of that portion of the country were in. In addition to making heroic efforts to keep from freezing to death because of the lack of coal, business of all kinds seems to have been practically paralyzed. Some of the newspapers forwarded to the commission prove that the publishers were unable to receive their usual supply of blank paper as these publications have reached here printed on all kinds of paper substitutes.

For the first time since the civil war, perhaps, publishers of papers were driven to use wall paper as a substitute for white paper. The "Osnobrock Independent" of Cavalier county, North Dakota, is held at the office of the commission as a great curiosity. On the outside sheets the Independent looks much like the ordinary country newspaper, but instead of the news of the near by country of "patent insides" these pages were decorated with the fancy designs of the wall paper artists. The "Eddy County Provost" of New Rockford, N. D., the "Carpio Weekly News" of Carpio county, N. D., and the "Madlock Standard" of Madlock, N. D., were printed on common wrapping paper. In explanation of his edition the editor of the "Standard" has to say in his lead editorial, among other things:

"We ask our readers to deal leniently with us for issuing a curtailed edition on wrapping paper. We have paper piled up in the railway freight house at Jamestown, but the incompetent official who presides over the destiny of the Dakota division of the Northern Pacific is working out a problem in compound ignorance with a crippled snow-plow—off again, on again, broke again. It is hard enough to combat the powers of sin and Satan, while traveling through this vale of tears, but to doublehead through by taking a Jim Hill and a snow blockade as excess baggage is more than frail mortals can endure with Christian resignation, and the inhabitants of Benson county and the state at large might with righteous indignation raise the cry for government ownership of railroads to clear the evil days when the railroads will own both the farmer and his lands."

WABASH SECTION MEN GO BACK TO WORK

The strike of the section men on this division of the Wabash, asking $1.75 a day instead of $1.25, promises to be lost. Monday morning brought a carload of foreign laborers here, but on their arrival nearly all of the men returned to work, threatening to go out again on Saturday if the advance is not granted.

Engineer Cozzins, who was in charge of the extra freight engine of which blew up near Onawa, Monday, killing the three men who were in the cab, had an extremely narrow escape from death. He had been riding in the cab not ten minutes before the catastrophe, but had gone to the rear of the train, fortunately, before the accident occurred. He tells friends in this city that he has not yet recovered from the shock.

ORIENT TOBACCO POPULAR IN AMERICA

Brought to This Country by Immigrants From Turkish Empire.

The demand in the United States for the mild Turkish tobacco has increased enormously within the past fifteen years. Before that time the oriental tobacco were a clubman's luxury, and scarcely known even by name to the great army of smokers. Now there is no tobacco shop so humble it does not carry on its shelves a half-dozen varieties of the nicotine leaf from Turkey, Greece, Egypt or Persia. Thousands of pounds of the eastern tobacco pay toll at the customs houses of the United States for admission into the country where the climate here has its origin. For according to the botanicalists, the tobacco plant has spread its trail of perfumed smoke from its primary home in America in an irresistible geographical conquest of even the most distant parts of the world.

The introduction of the Turkish tobacco into the United States completes the last link in the three country tour of the globe.

Had it not been for the household dissensions of the unspeakable Turk and the troublesome Armenian, the tobacco circuit of the world might have been long deferred. When the slaughter and massacre of helpless women and children reached their sanguinary climax not long ago, it started a stream of immigration from Armenia, Syria and Macedonia to the United States, and these thousands of refugees from Turkish barbarism brought with them the taste and demand for the mild tobacco of Asia Minor. To these immigrants is attributed the general introduction of Turkish tobacco throughout the country where once re-established in its birthplace it jumped into favor with rapid strides and was given a warm welcome for its homescoming.

Transplanted From Mexico.

Tobacco was not introduced into Europe until the latter half of the sixteenth century. Francis Hernandez de Toledo, a physician, was sent by Philip II to Mexico to investigate its product in 1565. He brought the plant back to Spain and cultivated it for medicinal purposes. When Spain it was introduced into other countries in Europe. Jean Nicot, Lord of Villenain, French ambassador at the court of Portugal, purchased leaves and seed from a sailor from Florida, and sent them to France as a "herb of peculiarly pleasant taste, good medicinally, and in fever." In fact, it was as a new drug, a panacea, that the weed was used and spread throughout Europe, and Nicot's part in its distribution has been recognized in the name of the herb. By the time tobacco had found its way into Italy, Germany and England, smoking had become very general, and the historic war against the use of the weed soon followed with ignominious defeat for the foes of tobacco, in spite of the fact that many smokers were tortured to even burn alive for violating the law against the use of the weed.

For a long time it was supposed that the tobacco plant was introduced into Turkey by the surrounding Moslem countries from Spain by way of the Moors and Northern Africa, but recent investigation shows great doubt on this theory of migration. It now is the general opinion that tobacco entered Turkey by the back door instead of the front, and by way of the Philippines instead of Spain. After the conquest of Mexico and the Philippines, a large trade sprang up between these two countries. The Spaniards carried to the Philippines with them the pineapple and the yam, the tobacco plant. Its cultivation rapidly reached large proportions in the islands and developed new and distinctive varieties. From the Philippines the Malays carried the seed to Sumatra, Ceylon and India, from whence it was but a short geographical step to Persia and Turkey, where the weed had a bitter struggle with fanatical Moslems and bigoted sultans and shahs, who slit the noses and cheeks of smokers, and frequently burned them alive, and, in the end, tobacco won the victory, as it had elsewhere.

The best tobacco, as well as the strongest, grown in Turkey, is the Latakia, of Northern Syria. It is dark colored, and resembles perique, but has an individuality of its own. The mild, yellow leaf called "Turkish" in this country is grown mostly in Greece and in the vicinity of Cavalla, in Macedonia. From it the Turkish cigarettes are made. The Turkish and Greek takes upon cigarettes and cigarette paper are so high that the bulk of the Cavalla tobacco is shipped to Egypt and there manufactured.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local application, as the ear cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Kirk Mitchell was locked up last night for being drunk, and this morning was fined $5 or five days. The man had no money and was returned to the city jail. Mitchell said he came in yesterday from east of the mountains and that he expected to work here. When arrested, he had revolver on his person, but as it was not loaded and because he had not made any boasts of it, no more serious charge than a plain drunk was proved against him. However, the gun was taken from him.

BERNALILLO COUNTY DISTRICT COURT

C. S. JURY GETS RECESS--JOHN VAN VIVA ASSAULT CASE TO BE CALLED NEXT.

The case of Goldsmith Bros. of Los Angeles, versus Hachich & Glom, of this city, which was begun yesterday and the nature of which was explained in these columns last night, occupied the time of the territorial petit jury all morning and was still being argued at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The United States petit jury was dismissed this afternoon until Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. This came somewhat as a surprise to most of the jurymen, who had returned to the court house after dinner, expecting to be used through the week.

The case of John Van Viva, charged with assault with intent to kill, will probably come up Saturday. It was intimated today that this would be the first work of the United States petit jury when it convenes.

Van Viva, it will be remembered, is the Indian who assaulted a United States scout at Fort Wingate about a month ago. He is now in the Bernalillo county jail, and it is said he is suffering severely from rheumatism. The scout whom Van Viva attacked came into the city with another scout some ten days ago, preparatory to testifying against him when the case comes up for trial.

Suits entered in the district court today were as follows: The Fairbanks Morse company versus the Mesa Agricultural Park association, and Nellie Cardell versus Joseph Cardell.

Defendants in criminal cases, who have been indicted at the present term of the district court, will be gathered at the court house at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the court will call all cases and arraign the defendants. It is the hope of the clerk that those persons who have been indicted will appear with their counsel this morning, as the business of the court will be lessened with in as short a time as is possible.

STRONG COMBINE FORMED BY DRY GOODS JOBBERS.

New York, March 28.--A new and what promises to be an important development in the dry goods jobbing business has come to the front in the formation of the Empire Dry Goods company, along lines suggested, more or less remotely, by the Claitor company and its string of allied stores. This company is primarily a combination and the outgrowth of opportunities and needs that appealed especially to several of the larger stores for retail located in Boston, Buffalo, Rochester, and Akron, Ohio. Five prominent dry goods houses are represented in the new company. E. A. O'Connell, of the James A. Houston company, of Boston, is president and the members concerned feel that it is a specially good selection and presages success. The company has already begun business with completely equipped and well stocked salesrooms, and, it is said, will act, more or less, as a clearing house for the business houses already named. Everything betokens an early entrance upon a business of great activity. The nominal capital is no index of the volume of transactions expected, and will be limited at present, to $20,000. By the plans upon which the business is based, it is believed to be ample for its present purposes.

Home Insurance the Best

WE CANNOT refrain from again saying something about Home Insurance. Every time that the proposition presents itself of the tremendous amount of money that is being sent out of New Mexico and Arizona for life insurance to eastern cities, the conviction comes home with increased force that a home company ought to be patronized and the money remain in the West.

The revelations of the past year of the way the enormous surplus of the big Eastern companies has been handled and speculated with ought to emphasize the fact that the people of the West should stop pouring their money into Eastern channels when it can be placed in home insurance, and every dollar of it kept and invested at home.

It is gratifying to note that home insurance is year by year receiving more and more its just deserts. Statistics show that during the past year home companies far exceeded foreign companies in the amount of business written. Why cannot this same record be made here? It can if every individual who takes out a policy the coming year will carefully weigh the proposition of the value it is to keep his insurance at home before he puts his name to the application of any insurance company.

The Occidental Life Insurance Company of New Mexico and Arizona is owned and controlled by the leading business men of the two territories, and offers exceptional opportunities to ambitious and capable men and women to sell its policies.
