

1968

Stranger

Charles G. Bell

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/nmq>

Recommended Citation

Bell, Charles G.. "Stranger." New Mexico Quarterly 38, 4 (1968). <https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/nmq/vol38/iss4/62>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by the University of New Mexico Press at UNM Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in New Mexico Quarterly by an authorized editor of UNM Digital Repository. For more information, please contact disc@unm.edu.

CHARLES G. BELL

STRANGER

Out of towering darkness,
Flash and thunder;
The lights go off together.
The old woman

Understands a moment
Then forgets, gropes
From lamp to lamp
To flick them on,

Bewildered
Calls the cat. . .
To bring the years'
Lost kittens from the storm.

A door slams in a gust,
Trees brush the window,
Rain in sheets goes
Solid on the screens.

She trips and stands smiling,
Lost but not worried
(It is we
Who draw back in fear);

The smile on her lips,
She calls into the darkness
Further
Than drowned light:

"Here Kitty,
Kitty, Kitty;
Come Kitty, Kitty;
Come Kitty."