

1968

Winter Morning, Albuquerque

James Bradford

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/nmq>

Recommended Citation

Bradford, James. "Winter Morning, Albuquerque." New Mexico Quarterly 38, 4 (1968). <https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/nmq/vol38/iss4/71>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by the University of New Mexico Press at UNM Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in New Mexico Quarterly by an authorized editor of UNM Digital Repository. For more information, please contact disc@unm.edu.

JAMES BRADFORD

FORMY FATHER

A man in a white suit is handsome in the sunlight

Falling behind his eyes are granite cliffs

Coils of ice
are faster than the eye

Guilt edged pictures
every several frames

White on white

JAMES BRADFORD

WINTER MORNING, ALBUQUERQUE

An old woman in a black coat turns at Central and Second and hobbles toward the sun

Ages of crows have passed through her

Lightly
she steps
into the sky