FEEL IS A COUSE OF FEARS DEED

YOUNG WOMAN FOUND DYING IN SANTA FE CANYON

Bullet Wound and Marks of Brutal Fingers Tell Story of Frightful Mistreatment at Hands of Captors.

VICTIM YOUNG SCHOOL TEACHER FROM SOUTH

Carried to Hospital, Starving and Weak from Wounds, She is Unable to Tell Story of Outrage.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 27.—At 1 o'clock this morning Gertrude Montgomery, victim of one of the most horrible assaults in the annals of crime, is believed to be dying. Every effort is being made to keep the unfortunate girl alive until she can have an opportunity to identify the men now believed to have committed the assault, but it is feared she will not live until morning.

This evening three convicts, all trustees of the New Mexico penitentiary, who have been employed on the road building gang in Santa Fe canyon, were placed in solitary confinement for examination in connection with the crime. The men are Gauderman, sentenced for eighteen months for assault, from Dawson, Colfax county; Tom Dyer, sentenced for two years for cattle stealing, from El Paso county; and Pas Otero y Chavez, a 20-year-old boy, sentenced for life from Lincoln county for murder.

These three men have been living in a small adobe house up the Santa Fe canyon, near the convict camp, where they have been employed. It is believed now that they caught the unfortunate girl while she was walking on the canyon and carried her off into the hills, where they kept her from Tuesday evening until Sunday morning, when they carried her to the canyon and left her in her fate, believing her dead. It is inconceivable that the girl could have lived for four days without food or shelter and wounded; and the supposition is that these men kept her alive during this time.

As soon as Governor Curry was informed of the crime in Santa Fe canyon this morning, he ordered the entire convict force there brought to the penitentiary and placed in cells. This was done immediately and all of the men were accounted for.

The three trustees were the only ones who had not been constantly under the eyes of the guards. They had been allowed to guard the adobe house without guard.

Gauderman had but three months to serve, Dyer but a few months and the Chavez boy had been a trustee for several years. The evidence against the three convicts seems to be circumstantial. If Miss Montgomery lives until morning she will undoubtedly be able to identify them, if they are the guilty men. In case she dies, as is now feared, identification will be more difficult. Capt. Fred Porfiori, of the mounted police, who ordered the men placed in solitary confinement this evening, declined to make any statement to the press.

"Circumstances point to these convicts as the guilty men," he said, "but we have not gone far enough with the case to make any statement. It is to be hoped that Miss Montgomery will be able to identify them, but the outlook tonight is that she will not last until morning."

The inexplicable feature of the case now is how the young woman found her way into the canyon and why she went there. The only explanation offered is that she walked there alone attracted by the scenery.

THE STORY OF GERTRUDE MONTGOMERY'S AWFUL FATE

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 26.—Gertrude Montgomery, an attractive young woman who came to Santa Fe six weeks from Silver Lake, La., seeking employment as a school teacher, was found this morning lying face down in the bottom of the canyon in Santa Fe canyon, about two miles from Santa Fe. She was still living but death was very near. There was a bullet wound in the back of her neck; her beautiful blonde hair was tangled and matted with blood and sweat; her hands and knees were cut and bruised where she had crawled over rough rocks; horrible bruises showed on her arms. Evidently her assailant or assailants had left her for dead.

Miss Montgomery is still lying tonight at St. Vincent's hospital and the attending surgeons believe that she may recover. The bullet which entered the back of her neck has evidently caused a partial paralysis. One eye is closed and she has not yet been able to talk. One ear is clogged with blood. She has not yet had strength to write and beyond nodding yes or no one has been able to give much aid to the men who are eagerly seeking her assailants.

The girl was last seen in Santa Fe on Tuesday morning. It is believed that she was assaulted somewhere on Tuesday afternoon and that since that time she has been crawling and crawling over the rough mountain side, seeking help. The officers were able to follow her trail by blood for three quarters of a mile up the canyon this morning.

Three arrests had been made up to tonight, one of them a Mexican, the other two Americans. Neither of the three men have been identified up to this time. They are being closely guarded. The feeling here is running high and there is some reason to fear violence should the assailant be positively identified.

The Finding of the Victims.

When Mrs. Mattie Martinez awoke this morning and looked out the window of her house near the old mill in Santa Fe canyon, she saw some one lying in the small arroyo through which a tiny stream runs. She sent her son down to see who it was. The boy returned immediately to tell his mother that it was a woman and that she was wounded. Mrs. Martinez immediately dispatched her son to Santa Fe to inform the officers. She went to do what she could. The lad went at once to the marshal's office and told him that a young woman had been found near his home dying and showing evidence of violence. The marshal immediately got a buggy and left. She was lifted into the buggy and brought quickly to St. Vincent's hospital where Dr. Sloan was called to attend her. Mayor Jose E. Serna, Capt. Fred Porfiori, of the mounted police, and Sheriff Charles Chesser left almost immediately for the scene.

Girl Was Starving.

When she was carried into the hospital Miss Montgomery appeared to be dying. Her condition was horrible. Her body was covered with blood. Her hair was matted and her face was pale. She was unable to move. Her hands and feet were cold. She was unable to tell her story. She was unable to tell her story. She was unable to tell her story.

Dr. Sloan probed for the bullet, which he found at the small of her back, probably from a .22 rifle. He says it had lodged in the front part of the head outside the skull, and that in passing around the base of the brain it had done considerable damage. Her eyes were closed and she seemed unable to use her lips. After she had rested for a short time and her injuries dressed, a number of questions were asked. It was believed that she had been assaulted and shot. Her head in answer. Could she describe her assailant? She hesitated again. She made an effort to write, but she could not. She had a pen in her hand and she tried to write. Up to this evening she has not been in a condition to talk or to write. It is not believed that she will recover and that by tomorrow she may be able to talk.

Awful Experience in the Hills.

If the theory of the officers is correct, the girl's experience seems to show that it is this girl has had an experience so awful that it beggars description. She was seen on the street in Santa Fe yesterday morning. She had not been seen since. It was presumed that she had left town with the few people who know her. She had found a room at the home of W. H. Kennedy, on Whittier street, and had been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Conway on Monday evening. The Conway's left town Tuesday morning and it was believed that she had gone with them. Therefore her absence created no comment.

Friday morning, however, Mr. Conway returned and told the people that she had gone with them. He said that she had been with them for several days. He said that she had been with them for several days. He said that she had been with them for several days.

MOORISH VILLAGES BURIED BY INVADERS

Rain of Shot and Shell Steadily Driving Riff Tribesmen Before Advancing Spaniards

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) La. Reata, Sept. 26.—The advance of the Spanish forces, personally followed by General Marina, commander of the operations, has been a steady one. The king's army, supported by a battery of artillery, was installed at Maormina to protect the line of communications. It is reported that the Moors are reforming behind a strong rocky position to the west of Soton.

Fatal Saloon Brawl.

Trinidad, Colo., Sept. 26.—Dr. Salazar is dead and Dr. Aragon is under arrest, charged with murder, as a result of a shooting following a quarrel early this morning in a saloon at El Moro.

Many Would-be Citizens Rejected.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Naturalization was refused to 2,667 aliens in the last fiscal year, a material increase over the rejection of would-be United States citizens in the preceding year.

ARRESTS MADE IN SANTA ROSA MURDER CASE

YOUNG BUSINESS MAN IS HELD ON SUSPICION

Evidence Thus Far Purely Circumstantial and Formal Complaint Has Not Been Filed; Developments Expected Quickly.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Santa Rosa, N. M., Sept. 26.—Three young men, all residents of this place, were placed under arrest this morning at the instance of citizens of Los Tanos under suspicion of having knowledge of the murder of 18-year-old Sarah Hutton, who was assaulted and killed in the hills overlooking Santa Rosa Friday afternoon.

Two of the men were released this afternoon, having been able to prove satisfactory alibis. The third, Robert Hoggins, is held under suspicion and at 1 o'clock tonight R. L. Hutton, father of the murdered girl, swore to a formal complaint against him, charging him with the murder. He will be given a preliminary hearing Tuesday morning. The evidence against Hoggins is thus far purely circumstantial and the chain of circumstances is not complete.

The body of the murdered girl was taken to Los Tanos, nine miles from here, this afternoon and will be buried there.

At the coroner's inquest held here today it was brought out that Miss Hutton came to Santa Rosa on horseback Friday morning, and went to the Wise Dry Goods company's store, where she made several purchases. Hoggins is the bookkeeper there and frequently takes customers to the store. He is a friend of Miss Hutton and had paid her some attention. He saw her while she was in the store. At 12 o'clock Miss Hutton was seen leaving the store, crossing the railroad tracks and going toward the hills. Bonita Montana, a Mexican woman, who lives about a half a mile out of town, told the jury that she saw Miss Hutton riding along the road, and that she turned frequently at least four times, as if looking for some one to follow her. About three hundred yards from the Montana woman's home the road enters the hills, and the woman says Miss Hutton stopped her horse there and looked back. Then she rode on. The thorough search along the road showed that when a little way up in the canyon Miss Hutton turned into a cross road leading to an arroyo which leads up from the railroad track. There she got off her horse and walked a short distance down the arroyo. At that point a man's footprints appeared and these footprints were traced back to a point near the railroad track. The ground shows further that two people sat down nearby. The road evidently the trail led the jury, for some little time. Then followed the story of the evidence of a struggle, blood and parts of the young woman's garments, such as a buckle and small bits of woman's clothing. The story was then told of finding the woman's body thrown into a crevice of the rocks, her head horribly beaten with stones.

The girl stopped in the arroyo and waited for some one with whom she had an appointment. The conclusion reached from the evidence: that the appointment was kept and that the girl made a desperate resistance to improper advances, was overcome and murdered to hide the crime.

A curious feature of the case is the absence of the girl's saddle. When last seen she carried a red coat, her hat and a hand bag, but no saddle. These and the girl's rifle have totally disappeared. John Hicks and half a dozen others of the best known trail riders and cowmen in this section have failed to find them after an all day search. There are several alibis in the immediate vicinity, which are very deep and it is thought possible the saddle, bridle and coat were thrown into one of them. This may account for their disappearance, but this is entirely theory.

The morning after the murder Hoggins went to Tucuman. He returned the same night.

Thus far the evidence against him is circumstantial. He has been able to account for practically all of his time during the day, and his friends declare that if he is the guilty man he must have kept an appointment with some one at the time of the murder. It is possible in view of the distance he had to walk and the time evidently occupied in the search, that he was with two other young men who know Miss Hutton were arrested this morning on the suggestion of Los Tanos people. Two of them were released this afternoon after proving complete alibis and Hoggins was not formally arrested until 1 o'clock, when Hutton swore to the complaint.

It is not known why Hoggins went to Tucuman and why, if guilty, of the horrible crime, he returned. His preliminary hearing will take place on Tuesday morning.

LURID TALE OF PIRACY PROVES BASELESS

Manila, Sept. 27.—Rumors in official dispatches that the revenue cutter Sack had been captured by Moro pirates, were proven unfounded and great apprehension was relieved by the receipt here today of news of the safe arrival of the cutter at Sandakan, North Borneo. On board was J. L. Perrin, collector of the port of Sandakan, who made the journey to purchase supplies. No word of an encounter with pirates was contained in the news of the vessel's arrival.

MUST SET NEW DATE FOR JUDGMENT DAY

West Duxbury, Mass., Sept. 24.—The time set for the trial of the world as revealed in visions to some of the Trilum Immortalists gathered at Ashford for several days, has passed. Dozens of faithful devotees have returned to their homes, but others have arrived to take their places.

The meeting in the chapel today was open to outsiders and was conducted much the same as prayer and testimonial meetings.

MINING CONGRESS AT GOLDFIELD OPENS TODAY

Nevada Town Making Elaborate Preparations for Reception of Delegates; Two Thousand Expected.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Goldfield, Sept. 26.—Two thousand delegates already on the ground and hundreds more on the way, there is every indication tonight that the twelfth annual session of the American Mining congress, which opens here tomorrow afternoon, will be one of the best gatherings the organization has ever known. It is estimated that 2,000 delegates will attend.

Goldfield is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the delegates. Main street has been strung with electric lights for several blocks. Interest in the approaching session centers in the attitude of the congress on the forestry projects of the government.

A committee on forestry and conservation was appointed at the 1908 gathering and the report of this body is eagerly awaited. The government is sending W. W. Dyer, secretary of the United States forestry service, to explain to the congress the attitude of the administration.

The report of the committee on national forest service will be held Friday by A. O. Greenwood of Duxbury, chairman of the committee and Mr. Dyer's address will follow.

Second in choice in the eyes of the delegates comes the selection of the next meeting place of the congress. Detroit, San Francisco and Spokane are in competition for the honor. The selection will be made by the executive committee to be appointed by the newly elected directors, and the right will center on the election of the delegates.

The next president of the congress to succeed J. H. Richards, of Boise, will be selected in the same manner. The organization being an incorporated body. But two names have been permanently mentioned thus far. They are San Francisco and Spokane. John Dyer of Salt Lake City, it is said that California and Arizona delegates are determined upon the election of Dr. Douglas, while Utah men are working for Mr. Dyer.

Numerous important matters of a technical nature will be discussed by the delegates and many important resolutions will be adopted before the session ends.

The Half Moon and the Claremont lay quietly at their anchorages, where they will remain until the naval parade of October 1.

But stirring about the feet of battle-ships there was an almost unbroken line of deep-sea steamers, jammed to the rails with spectators. At the same time a scurrying flotilla of motor boats was bobbing about in the loughered waters of the river carrying visitors to and from the battle-ships, which were receiving for the day.

TART PROVES POWERFUL PREACHER

STIRRING ADDRESS IN MORMON TABERNACLE

President's Sermon a Plea to People to Think Well of Their Neighbors and Put Hatred Out of Their Hearts.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Salt Lake City, Sept. 26.—In the pulpit of the famous Mormon tabernacle in this city, where last night ago Theodore Roosevelt, then chief executive of the nation, preached a long sermon on right living and the duties of good citizenship. President Roosevelt's address, which he said inspired him to try to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor and deliver a sermon.

Mr. Tart did preach a sermon—text and all—the immense auditorium in the tabernacle was filled to the top with a musical program of operatic and patriotic selections, the enthusiastic cheering as President Tart appeared and the quick response of the audience to points where he endeavored to impress upon his hearers, inspired him, the president declared, with higher thoughts of country and patriotism.

The president's sermon was an appeal for unity between the people, for attributing the best rather than the worst motives to the action of others when possible to do so and not to harbor hatred or animosity.

A soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger, was the text selected by the chief magistrate from the Books of Proverbs. The sermon was a homily, a plea for peace, a plea for unity, a plea for the president desired to make.

From the tabernacle he was driven in review of some 20,000 school children. At one point along the line a thousand of the people of the city, white and blue capes and caps waving to outline the national emblem.

Thence the president proceeded to the Young Men's Christian association, where he made a brief address to an audience composed entirely of men. Lastly the president attended service especially arranged for him at the tabernacle church. After this he made a long speech, making his way to Salt Lake at noon for Ogden, where he enjoyed an eighteen-mile ride through Ogden canyon and made his third address of the day at Lester park.

When Senator Stewart introduced the president to the audience in the tabernacle here this morning the cheering was so great that Mr. Tart could not begin his address for several minutes.

A soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger, is a text that has forced its way upon my mind during the last few days, when I have been in contact with the people and with those descended from the Latin races of Europe and I have had a chance to compare their methods of thought and their methods of speech and their social conventions and amenities with those of the Anglo-Saxon race. We Anglo-Saxons are we admit, a great race, but we are not perfect. We are not perfect. We are not perfect. We are not perfect.

"But it does seem as if they were depriving their families and neighbors of something in their living up to that standard in little things as well as in big things. The truth is, if we yield to negligence in the little things, we are bound to be negligent in the big things. We are bound to be negligent in the big things. We are bound to be negligent in the big things.

"The truth is that a man's life is his family with his wife, his children, his mother, his neighbor, is not made up of grandstand plays and all that sort of thing. It is made up of a series of little acts and those little acts and little self-restraints are what make up the man's character. I regret that there are many men and women many of them I hope who are better than they seem to their families and to their neighbors and that they are better than they seem to their families and to their neighbors and that they are better than they seem to their families and to their neighbors.

manifestation of our fellow men when they don't deserve it.

I don't know how it has been with you, but it has happened to me and this again with me that some man has done something that I did not like that I thought had a personal bearing and that I have said in my heart, 'Times will change and I will get even with that gentleman.' I don't profess to be free from these feelings at all. But it has frequently happened, I may say, generally, that the man did something that I could get even with that man and when that time came it seemed to me that I would demean myself and that I would show myself to man at all if I took advantage of the opportunity.

And so, my friends, what I am urging is less acrimony in public discussion—more charity with respect to each other as to what, none of us can do as he does and not to charge dishonesty and corruption until you have a real reason for doing so. I am the last man to pardon an evil-doer, but I have never any quarrel against individuals. I believe, and I regret to see it, that throughout this country the administration of the criminal law and the prosecution of crime is a disgrace to our civilization. It is one thing to prosecute the criminal when you have evidence and another to ascribe motives to the act of a man when you haven't any evidence and are just drawing on your imagination in respect to what you say.

PRESIDENT EN ROUTE TO BUTTE

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 26.—President Tart spent three hours in this city this afternoon and tonight is en route to Butte, Mont. Tomorrow morning he will arrive in Butte, Mont., and will encounter the second serious situation of his trip. At Omaha he was met by a strike called by the Western Federation of Miners, of which Charles H. Meyer, whose influence in the strike is well known, is president. In Idaho he was met by the acquittal of W. D. Haywood and George A. Pettibone, the two men who were convicted of the St. Valentine's day massacre.

From his arrival here at 1 p. m. today the president was taken for an eighteen-mile automobile ride through the Ogden canyon—one of the show places of the state. Afterward he addressed a big throng in Lester park, which he dwelt upon the scenic beauties and wonderful possibilities of the west.

"Another development," he added, "that I see on every hand is the assistance of your people, of the education of children. This whole trip from the time I struck Chicago until now, but during the last few days, I have seen beautiful, well-dressed, beautiful children, and when the children are all right everybody else will all right in the community. You have not any race suicide here that I am able to discover and your children occupy a place in the family that shows you are devoting the attention of your fathers and mothers which will make it worthy of the present."

Senator Borah of Idaho accompanied the president from Salt Lake City. At Cornish, Idaho, Governor Hildreth of the state, and Governor Gurnea of the state, joined the party.

It may be that the instruments will arrive this year after all," he said, "and as for the records and observations, their non-arrival here makes for difference whatever, as I have complete duplicates so that there will be no delay in compiling my story with all its details."

Dr. Cook did not appear to be greatly perturbed by the news he had received from Mr. Whitney. He hoped to see him in a short time and had a complete explanation of the occurrence at Etah.

Dr. Cook denied the report that he was about to bring suit for slander against Peary.

"There is no truth in the report," he said. "I have no intention of bringing suit. Naturally I am taking measures to have everything in order in case it is necessary, but I haven't even thought of suing suit and wish to control such reports at once."

If they are still at Etah, Dr. Cook's instruments may not arrive in New York until the spring of 1910. There is a possibility, however, of their reaching here before the instruments here, which may have reached at Etah after the Roosevelt left.

"I shall wait," continued Dr. Cook. "I think that Mr. Whitney knew what he had in his possession. It would be difficult for me to say what the instruments will have. The absence of the records and instruments will, however, not affect the ultimate result of the expedition. But it would be desirable to have the instruments here. Mr. Whitney certainly knew that the effects left with him were important. He was compelled to tell Mr. Peary that he had my things with him. He had no reason to suppress such information."

"I had not spoken to Mr. Whitney of any estrangement between Peary and myself. He had believed that a ship would come for him from the American coast and the things would go along with it."

The hearing of the instruments may cause delay in sending my records to Copenhagen, but will not affect the people who are to make the final investigation. There were some originals among the documents left with Mr. Whitney, but it will not make any difference if they are never found.

The instruments are not lost. The Eskimos know where they are. They will be looked after. Mr. Whitney has said no word except that they are at Etah.

As to the question of proof, that is the same when observations are made by one person or five or more.

"I am sure Peary had no means of getting my name of me since the middle of April, but he knew that I had some such."

Mr. Peary's records were packed separately in several boxes and these were put into a packing case. They could not be injured by falls or rough handling.

Regarding the possibility that a man might see within 200 or 300 miles of the pole and think he had got there, I leave that to the scientists.

"When Mr. Whitney met me on my arrival at Etah the first thing he said was, 'Well, I have been here in a luck year.'"

It is impossible to send any one to Etah to fetch the instruments and records at this time of the year as navigation is closed and if it were open a ship would take four or five weeks to get there.

"Mr. Whitney has said all that he need say on the subject of my expedition. The remark that has been made that I copied Peary's sledge is nonsense. He stated with me only the sledge. I never copied anything. I have not seen him

COOK RECORDS LEFT BEHIND BY PEARY'S ORDERS

Commander Declined to Allow Rival's Effects to be Brought Aboard Steamer Roosevelt at Etah.

CAN PROVE CASE WITHOUT THEM DECLARES DOCTOR

Peary Justifies Boorish Action on Ground That He Knew Cook Intended to Claim Discovery of Pole.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) New York, Sept. 26.—Commander Robert E. Peary refused absolutely to allow any of the records or instruments of Dr. Frederick A. Cook to be brought aboard the steamer Roosevelt, and was thus instrumental in causing these records to remain in a cache at Etah, according to Harry Whitney in a dispatch received here by Dr. Cook today.

The message, which came as a response to one sent by Dr. Cook, follows:

"Stratton, via Indian Harbor and Cape Resolute, N. E. Sept. 25.

"Dr. F. A. Cook, Waldorf, New York. Nothing arrived for me. Peary would allow nothing belonging to you on board. Had to leave everything in cache at Etah."

"Met Captain Sam, North Star. Did not go back after getting schooner bound St. Johns Lake steamer home. Hope you will see you soon. Explain all good accounts to me."

(Signed) "HARRY WHITNEY"

Dr. Cook was questioned today as to his view of the situation created by the action ascribed to Commander Peary, but declined to say anything derogatory of his rival.

"It may be that the instruments will arrive this year after all," he said, "and as for the records and observations, their non-arrival here makes for difference whatever, as I have complete duplicates so that there will be no delay in compiling my story with all its details."

VULTURES FEED ON MOULDERING CORPSES

Foul Birds Flock Over Water-Swept Louisiana Towns Strewn With Bodies of Men and Animals.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) New Orleans, Sept. 26.—On each side of the Gulf of Mexico, where the Gulf of Mexico meets the Gulf of Mexico, the bodies of men and animals are strewn about. The bodies of men and animals are strewn about. The bodies of men and animals are strewn about.

Today flocks of vultures, hived over the desolated towns of southern Louisiana, strewn with bodies of animals and men.

Among a hundred human bodies have been buried or buried in the mud where they were discovered. Two hundred bodies are known to be there, and there are possibly more undiscovered bodies in the marshes between the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico.

Butte Labor Trouble Adjusted.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 26.—The labor controversy in this city cannot have any effect on the visit of President Tart tomorrow. Differences of the two unions have been practically adjusted, and barring unforeseen complications, the men should return to work tomorrow night. Fewer disturbances have occurred and fewer arrests made in the last 24 hours than for any similar period in many months.

We Are "The Topic of the Hour"

BECAUSE

WE have demonstrated, to the buying public of Albuquerque, our ability to "make good." We know this because women delight to come here to shop, and they are coming in greater numbers every day. It is the logical thing for them to do because they know that of any advantageous buying they receive the full benefit and they know too that our stocks are noticeably superior in their completeness, for besides their general effect, they combine elegance of style, quality and price. You will find every value offered has exceptional strength, and our showings are finding delightful expression from discriminating shoppers. The styles that are to lead are fully represented in everything that is new and smart—or extreme, as well as the more practical, but only that which is genteel.

Our broad field of training as well as our careful preparation to serve you with only the newest and best, assures us of their immediate acceptance. "I have entered into no arrangement to meet Mr. Peary at any time."

PEARY JUSTIFIES REFUSAL TO CARRY COOK RECORDS.

Portland, Me., Sept. 26.—It was learned tonight from a source close to Commander Peary that the commander justifies his action in refusing to allow Dr. Cook's instructions, of records on board on the theory that he had been aware for some time of Cook's intention to claim the discovery of the pole. Peary, therefore, would sanction nothing to aid this project.

Peary's forthcoming statement concerning Cook, it was learned, will charge that Cook cannot produce shoes, sledges or other equipment that will show the wear and tear that comes from Arctic travel. This is the first intimation of any specific evidence that the commander will produce, although he has said he has evidence to disprove Dr. Cook.

It seems evident that Peary wants to issue his statement in the near future, and particularly since the arrival of Whitney at Indian Harbor. While he declared Whitney has no part in the controversy, Commander Peary has received messages concerning Whitney's progress.

The Roosevelt arrived unexpectedly today at Eagle Island. Peary's home, to leave Peary's personal belongings and receive supplementary orders.

After unloading Peary's belongings which filled four of five small boats the Roosevelt had steamed on tonight ready to sail for New York.

Commander Peary will go to her Harbor tomorrow for a conference with General Thomas H. Hubbard. He will remain there until Tuesday night, possibly later and it is there that he probably will issue the formal statement attacking Dr. Cook.

Although all hands on board the Roosevelt were instructed not to talk, Mr. Benson, the harbor pilot, said that he had talked with every Eskimo, who went in with Cook and knew everything of them, but was not at liberty to reveal what he had learned. Benson said, however, that Cook had practiced no experience when he went north, that he knew nothing about building sledges, and was absolutely inexperienced in driving dogs.

There is much doubt about the Roosevelt taking any part in any expedition in the Hudson-Fulton celebration, even though she should arrive in New York in time.

The Roosevelt with Taborville went there should arrive in New York Tuesday night or Wednesday.

PEARY'S PHYSICIAN TELLS OF MARTIN'S DEATH.

Pittsburg, Sept. 26.—In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Mary Goodell, Dr. John W. Goodell, who accompanied Peary on the dash to the North pole, described the trip in part as follows:

"You are aware that Commander Peary has at last reached the North pole, an achievement which means much to our country and the world."

"I was with the commander on the northern trip to Cape Columbia and across the ice to latitude 81 degrees 20 minutes. At this point the first two sledges turned back to Cape Columbia, where the expedition left last."

"The temperature on the ice was as low as 28 degrees below zero. I left the Roosevelt on February 16, with the first. I reached the Roosevelt, March 25, about from the ship nearly six weeks. After the northern trip, my time, until the return of the commander, was engaged in caring for the disabled men I brought in. I quote from my diary of April 15, 1909:

"Toos Marvin is gone, the Poleman has been taken. The Roosevelt's flag is flying at last. My heart is sore for the loss of a dear comrade. I had retired last evening and had not fallen asleep when I found the cry. The commander, (read) coming. Martin was my best friend, and we were expecting him."

"Borup came to the door and said: 'Martin is gone. He went through the ice. Two men had started back with Marvin. Recklessness. Reckless. How Marvin had gone along with the commander. How came to the big load and attempted to cross. The thin ice gave way. The broken surface showed that he had made a colossal mistake in penetrating the thin ice by a firm ice a few yards beyond. The ice water and colder air together in a few minutes must have benumbed his hands and rendered all efforts unavailing."

"The Eskimos arrived too late. They observed the footprints retreating at the edge of the broken land. The back of a koodlak (carved jacket) showing above the surface of the water. As is the Indian custom, a bag containing Martin's clothing was left at the edge of the ice."

DISGRUNTLED GUIDE PLANS TO FORCE MONEY FROM COOK.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 26.—Edward Barrill, the guide who was with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, on his trip to Mt. McKinley, says he will leave for New York Wednesday to meet Dr. Cook. He declares that he proposed to secure the money which he claims is due him and other members of the Mount McKinley party before he gives his affidavit regarding the climbing of the peak at the will of the government.

He showed his diary containing records of the trip and drawings of the mountain glacier and their camp, to an Associated Press representative, but would not permit the correspondent to read all the records.

"You may say," said Barrill, "that Mount McKinley can be climbed. I know it. But further than this he refused to be quoted relative to the scaling of the mountain. His diary showed a perspective view of Mount McKinley and the glacier upon which he asserts he and Dr. Cook spent the thirteen days and nights, while on the mountain. A sketch of their camp on the ice is shown."

In regard to the Cook-Peary controversy and Peary's attack upon Dr. Cook, Barrill made the significant statement:

"Peary has got Cook right." Barrill said there is personal feeling on the part of Peary toward Cook because the latter failed to save some of his men when they were frozen on the trip when Cook was out of the party.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Edgar N. Baylis, a merchant of Robinsonville, Ill., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time and I did not have consumption, it was near to it. I commenced taking Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained twenty-eight pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar." J. BANK BANDITS DRIVEN AWAY EMPTY HANDED.

Sate, Dismantled, Citizens Rally in Time to Save Town.

Des Moines, Sept. 26.—The farmers' savings bank at Russell, was dynamited early today, but the bank escaped. The three bandits who were there, obtained no money. A great hole was torn in the side of the bank building. From inside the men went to Adelphi where they dynamited the postoffice, getting some stamps, and cash. A posse pursued them, and they rode to Clarissa on a hand car, later reaching a Wabash train for Peoria, where they were thought to be arrested late tonight.

TESTIMONY AFTER FOUR YEARS.

Carle Center, N. Y., G. H. Burbank, wrote: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of those symptoms, and I am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you. J. H. O'Reilly & Co.

DISASTER CANNOT HALT CONQUEST OF AIR

French Nation Undismayed by Shocking Accident to Dirigible Republique, Determined to Perfect Aerial War Craft.

The Morning Journal Special Leased Wire. Paris, Sept. 26.—The disaster to the military dirigible balloon Republique yesterday, in which four French officers lost their lives, coming on the heels of the deaths of Lefevre and Captain Pecheur, and the loss of the Patrie, has plunged France in mourning, but public opinion as reflected by comments at the press bureau supports the opinion of aviators that no human sacrifice can now discount the conquest of the air.

The Temps announces a national subscription to aid military aerostatics in memory of the dead officers. Subsequent investigation fully confirms the fact that the accident was due to the snapping of the rapidly revolving propeller blades, which tore through the gas bag. General Rogues reports that there was no trace of the about the silk, thus disposing of the hypothesis of an explosion.

Experts agree that such a mishap can be prevented by the introduction of a series of cellular balloons, as in the Zeppelin airship which would keep the craft afloat if one of the compartments were pierced. General Baud, minister of war, expressed the belief that dirigible balloons for war purposes would soon be supplanted by perfect aeroplanes.

As soon as the dirigibles are too cumbersome," he said, "on the contrary aeroplanes, when perfected, can live in the wind and rise to a high altitude. In time of war officers on scouting duty can make several flights in the day and go up at night as well. An aeroplane offers a small target, and if pierced can still fly. If the pilot is killed it is only another soldier dead in the field of battle. General From predicted immense strides in the aeroplane within a year.

WARNING.

Do not be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for chronic coughs, bronchitis, hay fever, asthma, and lung trouble, as it stops the cough and heals the lungs. J. H. O'Reilly & Co.

ALBUQUERQUE - NEW MEXICO

A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

There is a general desire expressed by the people along the line of the Santa Fe road, especially of the towns north of Albuquerque, for a rate to this place that will enable the people to come here to greet the president. A two-dollar round-trip excursion rate is asked for from El Paso, Las Vegas and Santa Fe, and all intermediate points. This, of course, is simply a matter of business, from the railroad standpoint, but we are convinced that the granting of such a rate would pay. It would draw such a large number of persons who could not otherwise afford to come, that the net returns to the road would be materially increased, and it would, at the same time, show a very commendable disposition on the part of the company to accommodate the public—and the public good-will is frequently worth as much as the money.

A LAKE 800 FEET DEEP.

It is still just as necessary as ever to "go away from home to learn the news," as will be seen by the following rather astonishing statement which we find in the Cleveland (Ohio) Leader:

"Ruswell, N. M., affords a point of departure for visitors, who need travel only a dozen miles to see and sound its wonderful water holes, some covering sixty acres in extent, others so small that a man can hurl a stone across them.

"Deep green the waters look, although they are so pure that sinking objects can be followed by the eye for yards and yards.

"One of the lakes was found to be 800 feet deep, but that single experience is not absolutely reliable, because the plummet may have stopped on one of the innumerable ledges of gypsum that project from the walls under water.

"It is supposed that the lakes tap the subterranean waters of the Pecos valley, the plain waters having in course of time dissolved the gypsum until deepest bedrock was reached."

"NOT TOO LATE YET."

Under the above caption, the Santa Fe New Mexican again calls attention to the importance, on the part of the second big towns of the territory, of "getting together" before the census is taken, in order to let the world see that we do have a new citizen in New Mexico of considerable size.

"It is not too late," says our contemporary at the Capital City, "for Santa Fe to retrieve its mistake of letting the Greater Santa Fe election be lost by default. An ordinance taking in only the populated parts of the grant, outside of the city limits and excluding the property of the Santa Fe Water company, could be passed legally and its provisions submitted to the people. Possibly, the municipal election next April would be a good time for this, for then a full vote could be gotten out and it would still be in time for the census which will be taken the last half of April and would take cognizance of any change in municipal boundaries made effective in the beginning of the month."

All of that applies to Albuquerque with no less force than to Santa Fe, and a proper regard for the interests of the town demands that we give it attention.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

The policy of the United States land office at Las Cruces makes public the following statement in relation to a matter which is of vital importance to hundreds of citizens of New Mexico. It ought to be copied by all the papers of the territory, and especially those papers that are printed in Spanish, because as a rule, the people most interested, do not read English:

"All persons who are claiming land because they have lived on the same for twenty years or more, these claims being commonly known as 'small holding claims,' and who have not filed notice of their claims with the surveyor general, should bear in mind the fact that the limit of time during which this can be done, will be March 4, 1910."

"The court of private land claims, which was established by the act of Congress in 1891, limits the claimants to lands under this act to persons who acquired citizenship by reason of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo or the Gadsden purchase. Of course the children or the family of a qualified claimant come under this heading. "All Spanish-speaking Americans who have these small holding claims, and who have not yet received patent for the same, or who have not filed their claims with the surveyor general, should at once write to the nearest land office or go to a United States commissioner and find out what they should do in the case, as no claims will be considered that are not filed before March 4, 1910."

HONORING HIS MEMORY.

One of the most gratifying incidents in the history of the day, is to be found in the manner in which the entire republican press of the nation has put aside all personal and partisan bias, in paying tribute to the memory of the late Governor Johnson, of Minnesota. The following, from the Chicago Inter-Ocean—radical republican—while avoiding empty laudation, gives a most generous measure of the character and worth of the man, and at the same time calls attention to a few solid truths, the recognition of which won for Mr. Johnson the respect and confidence of the whole country:

"The immense volume of real regrets from so many, so diverse, and so noteworthy sources, represents largely a general tribute to the splendid idea for which Governor Johnson stood more than any of the other leaders of his party—historic democratic common sense and conservatism."

"It is, in a way, a sincere and spontaneous, though indirect, praise of the democracy of Tilden and of Cleveland, the only democracy which has yet been able to win victories and exhibit real constructive efficiency on the modern stage of public action."

"In rendering honor to this idea by honoring the memory of the man who represented it to an extent which made him seem one of the fixed and dependable figures amid the prevailing confusion of standards and purposes in the democratic party, republicans showed both patriotism and consistency."

"There is no republican worthy of the name who does not wish the country to have a strong opposition party. This feeling leads naturally to a respect for the principles which alone seem capable of creating one and for the man who seems most strongly to stand for them."

"Governor Johnson was not a great personality, a great man, as the term is generally understood. His actual services in his native state—and they did not extend beyond it—would not have made him really a national figure or inspired such regrets for his loss."

"But it was his merit and his fortune that he came to represent to the general public the moderate, simple, sober, constructive democracy to a greater extent than any of his party's present leaders; that he appeared as a reformer and not as a revolutionist. And the admiration still held by great masses of voters for historic democratic principles quite naturally embraced the man and lifted him to fame."

"Governor Johnson, not remarkably strong himself, became strong in public esteem through a few historic ideas. In the same way and by means of the same ideas or principles must the democratic party, now confused and routed, make itself strong within the nation."

MUNICIPAL SUICIDE.

The taxable assessment of the city of Bernalillo, Arizona, is more than four times that of the city of Santa Fe, more than four times that of the county of Santa Fe and more than twice that of the richest county of New Mexico. The valuation of the county of Cochise in which Bernalillo is situated is one-third that of the entire territory of New Mexico. Four times as much as that of the county of Cochise, or of Bernalillo, or of Colfax, or of San Miguel and one times the assessment of Santa Fe county. That is not saying that Cochise county is so much richer than the New Mexico counties named but that assessments are on a reasonable basis in Arizona and that therefore the tax rate of the adjoining territory is much lower, although the actual tax paid by the individual on each dollar's worth of property is much higher. Santa Fe New Mexican.

The foregoing facts prove that we are committing municipal suicide. If New Mexico by returning our property for taxation at a false valuation. To support the government, we pay into the public treasury, on each dollar's worth of property, just as much as is paid by the people of Bernalillo, and no more, but by reason of our wrong valuation we have to figure in the tax rolls as paying a tax of seven per cent, while the Bernalillo people pay only one and a half per cent. That is, we are constantly tightening away settlers and investors, by making them believe that we are forced to pay, in Albuquerque, a tax of seven per cent a year on the value of our property, whereas we are really paying only one and a half. There might be some excuse, from a "business" standpoint, for publishing a lie if we could gain anything by it, but to actually publish to the world a falsehood which constantly and seriously damages our own interests and can do us no possible good, is but little short of suicidal suicide.

Pearl's Handicap.
Cook seems to be making good and Brady continues making a fuss. A writer has suggested that the fault is not a national one, but that it is due to the explorer's environment—Pearl's little dish for the pole in the Roosevelt—Caribbean News.

"Somebody Lied."
Our morning contemporary in an editorial states that "the Republican party has lied to the people of Arizona for twenty years." Isn't the major slightly mistaken? Mark Smith, Eugene Smith and Henry Ashcraft, well, the honorable Mark has again come to life. Judging by Mark's willingness to run for the senate, he has undoubtedly become resigned to the state of becoming a fact.—Bisbee Miner.

The paper will belong to no clique. The editor will edit and the public who subscribe will have to read what we say, whether it is good gospel or otherwise. AW-Check Up.
Suppose the world really were coming to an end by six o'clock this evening? Suppose the event were as definitely known and fixed as the setting of the sun. Would there be any conference today distributing U. S. Senators or county officers? Would there be any of the other things which men scramble for and fight for and war for? Would some of the millions and some of the billions that now seem all important, appear to be very trivial and some of the things that now seem trivial appear of transcendent importance? What a change of views of relation of things to each other, of proportion, would occur in a twinkling of an eye—ever here in ancient Santa Fe, if this were really the last day of this old world were to be dissolved at its old stand—Santa Fe New Mexican.

In the Pecos Days.

John B. Hendrix, the man who figured in Frederick Cook's adventurous trip to the North pole, is well known to all old timers in this section. Away back in the early '80s when Lake Valley was on the boom Mr. Hendrix and his brother Ed conducted an extensive gambling establishment there and did a thriving business until the fickle goddess of fortune commenced to leave the Hendrix's transferred their attentions to Kingston, then the Leadville of the southwest. This was in the days of the reign of the "Ten Thousand Dollar Bonanza" who held sway and who merely eluded the law, and the Hendrix's followed the trend of the sporting world. Then, when Kingston's palm days commenced to wane the Hendrix's pulled up stakes and went to New York City—Hillsboro Advocate.

TUMOR OF FOUR YEARS GROWTH

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindley, Ind. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound removed a cyst tumor of four years' growth, which three of the best physicians declared I had. They said that only an operation could help me. I am very glad that I followed a friend's advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it has made me a strong and well woman, and I shall recommend it as long as I live." — Mrs. MAY FRY, Lindley, Ind.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy—tumor. If you have mysterious pains, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and such unquestionable testimony as the above proves the value of this famous remedy, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman. If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

brotherhoods to be held at the Congregational church tomorrow night at which it is expected that definite steps will be taken towards the formation of a federation of brotherhoods, which will include the brotherhoods of the Baptist, Congregational, Christian and South Methodist churches. The federation plan, it is thought, will be quite successful, as it will draw all the members of brotherhoods in the Highland section together.

COLLIER RETIRES FROM STATE NATIONAL

J. B. Herndon who formerly Held Position and Who Organized the Bank Elected Successor.

R. H. Collier, for several years past cashier of the State National bank of Albuquerque, has resigned the position and J. B. Herndon, one of the organizers of the bank and its first cashier, has been elected to the position. The change was made at a meeting of the directors of the bank Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Collier's resignation was presented and accepted and Mr. Herndon elected to succeed him. Mr. Herndon, who organized the State National, retired from its active management some three years ago, desiring to escape from the steady confinement of the position. He has since been engaged in an extensive lumber business here. In 1907, he was elected to the position of mayor of Albuquerque, where he has made his home for the past year.

To a reporter for the Morning Journal last night Mr. Collier stated that he had resigned in order to accept an attractive position now open to him. He did not care to make any further statement as to what the position is or as to where he expects to go.

"It is true that a change has been made in the cashier's position of the bank," said Mr. Collier, "and that I have resigned my holdings in the corporation. The relations between the stockholders and directors of the State bank and myself have always been most pleasant and cordial and the only reason that I sold my stock is that I decided to accept a most flattering offer made to me several months ago and to devote my energies to another field."

Mr. Collier came here in 1907 from Amarillo, Texas, to succeed Mr. Herndon. Mr. Herndon will bring his family to Albuquerque within a month.

SWITCHMEN IN THE LOWER YARDS QUIT WORK

Pending Adjustment of Alleged Grievances Half Dozen Santa Fe Employees Decide to Enjoy Respite from Labor.

Freight traffic in the Santa Fe yards between Albuquerque and Abajo, three miles south, was somewhat congested last night and early this morning as the result of a small-sized switchmen's strike, which developed about 9 o'clock last night as the result of differences between switchmen and their superiors. Half a dozen or more switchmen refused to continue work and went home. It is said that the difficulty arose because a switchman had been placed in charge of a switch engine when, by right of seniority, the job should have gone to another man. What action will be taken in the matter by the Trainmen's union was not learned last night. It was reported, however, that the day crew of switchmen would go to work as usual this morning and that the alleged grievance of the night crew would probably be adjusted today.

DELAYED TWENTY FOUR MINUTES BY TRAIN

Santa Fe Employees Haled to Court to Show Cause Why Central Avenue Crossing was Blocked.

Warrants were served last night upon Conductor J. Purcell and Engineer A. Lowe, Santa Fe trainmen, citing them to appear in police court at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening and explain an alleged violation of the city ordinance by permitting Santa Fe train No. 1 of Saturday night to block the Central avenue crossing for twenty-four minutes. Messrs. Purcell and Lowe were in charge of the train which is alleged to have stopped all traffic over the Central avenue crossing for nearly half an hour Saturday night. The city of Albuquerque, it is understood, will be the plaintiff in the case. The serving of the warrants followed, it is said, a complaint from an ambulance driver, who claimed that he had been seriously delayed by the blocked crossing while on his way to the hospital with a patient.

INSANE MAN TRIED TO ESCAPE

Italian from Gallup Being Taken to Asylum at Las Vegas Gets Away and Almost Kills Attendant.

The Santa Fe depot platform and vicinity was the scene of much excitement shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning when Antonio Roland, an insane Italian, being taken to the Las Vegas asylum by Deputy Sheriff Dan-naso Mink, broke away from the officer and ran amuck about the railroad yards, painfully injuring the deputy before he was finally recaptured. Roland was committed to the asylum on Sept. 1 last. He remained there only 11 days, however, making his escape and walking back to Gallup. The man made the trip overland, walking all the way, for four days. He was taken into custody at Gallup and Mink, who is an employee of the Las Vegas institution, was sent to bring him back. Mink and his prisoner went into the Harvey lunch counter here yesterday morning for breakfast. After he had finished his meal, Roland announced to the officer that he was going to get away. Before Mink could handcuff him, he was gone. The deputy gave chase and overtook the Italian, who turned on him and gave him a vicious beating. Roland was worked up into a frenzy and would undoubtedly have killed the deputy but for the interference of people about the platform. It was only after Roland had been smashed in the face several times and hand-cuffed, that he consented to be good. He was taken to the city jail here and will be taken on to Las Vegas this morning.
