SCHWAB TELLS OF A CONVERSATION WITH MORGAN

NOTED STEEL MAGNATE SAYS HE TOLD FINANCIER THE ADVANTAGE OF A COMBINATION OF STEEL COMPANIES.

MANY ADVANTAGES TO EXPORT TRADE

New York, May 19.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and first president of the United States Steel corporation, took the stand today as a witness for the defense in the government's suit to dissolve the latter corporation.

Mr. Schwab described the famous dinner given him in 1899 by prominent financiers, at which Schwab made a plea for consolidation of the steel industry on the ground of economy. Schwab sat next to J. P. Morgan at the dinner and today he described the conversation he had with him. Schwab said he explained to Morgan that a combination of steel companies would "bring about a completely integrated organization," which would have the advantages of the possession of raw materials, transportation and plants, which would enable it to "conduct the business from the mining of ore and coal right through to the manufacture and sale of every finished product."

"I also pointed out to him," he said, "that only by combination could export business be made profitable. Probably more than anything else I impressed upon him the advantage of combining for the sake of establishing export trade."

Throws Bouquets at Himself.

Mr. Schwab who is now chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, one of the United States Steel corporation's largest competitors, declared that "no other factor or influence has done more to foster trade, to establish fair and open dealing and to stimulate healthy and effective competition than the United States Steel corporation."

Mr. Schwab said he "had never heard" of the existence of a foreign rail pool or any agreement with foreign manufacturers to divide neutral territory or to keep out of each other's territories.

"Do you think the Steel corporation has the power to put its competitors out of business?"

"It couldn't put me out of business," declared the witness emphatically. He added that the corporation had even less power to put small competitors out of business than some of the other steel companies.

"From the moment I started my conversation with Mr. Morgan," Mr. Schwab continued, "the question of obtaining a monopoly or restraining competition was never mentioned. Neither he nor his associates ever mentioned any object in forming the corporation other than that of economy—none whatever."

AMENDMENT MAY OVERTURN ALL TARIFF SCHEDULES

Washington, D. C., May 19.—An amendment to the tariff bill introduced today by Senator Kenyon proposed that when any corporation or concern was adjudged a monopoly its products should automatically go on the free list. Mr. Kenyon has hope that the finance committee may favorably consider the amendment, but if not he will press it on the floor. The proposal has almost unlimited possibilities for overturning schedules.

The question of whether products of concerns re-organized under the supreme court held that the tariff schedules, might still be subject to the tariff control also would enter into the application of the law should the amendment be approved.

The sub-committee of the finance committee plan to meet every day this week to consider the amendment, sugar and other tariff schedules of

DR. JORDAN QUILTS PRESIDENCY TO WORK FOR PEACE

Stanford University, Cal., May 19.—Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford University, resigned his position today to accept the office of chancellor, which will be created by the board of trustees next Friday for his special benefit. The announcement was made by Dr. Jordan to the student body in the course of an address he delivered today during the commencement exercises on "The Contest of Europe by America."

John Caspar Branner, Dr. Jordan's successor, has been professor of geology, and since 1899, vice president of the university.

President Jordan's retirement as the executive head will leave him free to devote his time to work in behalf of world peace. He will receive the same salary as he is drawing now.

His brief announcement was followed by an explanatory statement by Professor John M. Stillman of the department of chemistry. "For twenty two years," he said, "Dr. Jordan has been the inspiration of Stanford University. What it is, is due largely to his high ideals, his breadth of view and his warmth of sympathy."

Dr. Jordan has been president since 1891. He began his connection with the University as a specialist in biology. Born in Gainesville, N. Y., he is now 62 years old.

Professor Branner, the new president, has been at Stanford since 1892 and is a life-long friend of Dr. Jordan. Before that he was at various times, since graduating from Cornell, professor of geology in the Indiana State University, state geologist of Indiana, and in the service of the Brazilian government as a geologist.

BAPTISTS DECIDE TO ENTER SOCIAL SERVICE WORK

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—The Southern Baptist convention decided in the closing session today to enter actively into social service work, and appointed a commission of seven for that purpose, which will co-operate with the committee from the Northern Baptist convention already engaged in this work.

A. J. Dickinson of Birmingham, said that the Baptists could not afford longer to keep out of social service work which was now taking so large a place in Christian activities. He said liquor was the mother of evils but that now the Baptists must work to do away with the white slave traffic and the horrible problem of child labor.

Rev. A. J. Barton of Dallas, Texas, reported for the temperance committee that the passage of the Webb bill by the national congress was the greatest victory for temperance within the last half century.

WOULD BAR SOLONS FROM COMMITTEES

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Senator Clegg introduced a bill today to make it unlawful for a senator or representative to serve on any political committee, club or organization and to prohibit congressmen, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, from soliciting campaign funds.

For years both the Republican and Democratic congressional committees have been headed by members of congress. Within the last few days, political advisers of President Wilson, at his request, urged the naming of more senators on the Democratic congressional committee.

Senator Clapp is a member of the senate elections committee and was chairman of the special committee which conducted exhaustive investigation last year into political campaign affairs.

BATTLE BY LAND, BY SEA AND IN THE AIR

SONORA STATE TROOPS' MARCH ON GUAYMAS MAY PROVE SPECTACULAR EVENT WORTHY OF TWENTIETH CENTURY PROGRESS.

DIDIER MASSON IS TO MAN AIR CRAFT

Nogales, Ariz., May 19.—Projected attack by Sonora state troops on Guaymas may take the form of a land marine and air battle, made possible by the crossing into Mexico during last night of an army aeroplane.

A special train bearing the machine arrived at Nogales, Sonora, and today is hastening south to the front above the gulf port. The Mexican gunboat Guerrero lies in the harbor ready to assist the federal garrison.

After the confiscation of his aeroplane below Tucson, Didier Masson, a French aviator, escaped into Mexico, and since has been awaiting the arrival of the second machine. It is said that the machine crossed last night is the second of a series of five contracted for by the insurgent state government. The flying apparatus arrived at the Mexican border town of Nogales from the direction of Naco, near where it is believed to have been smuggled through the United States border patrol.

A shipment of 225,000 rounds of cartridges also is reported successfully crossed.

Mr. Robinson has returned from San Diego, where he procured new evidence of the alleged conspiracy. He said he expected indictments to be returned against Didier Masson, the French aviator, and his assistant, Thomas Dean Colonel Manuel B. Alcázar, former publisher of the Nuevo Era, a Maderista newspaper of Mexico City, his brother Joaquin B. ## MURDERER DIES SMILING EVEN IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Ossining, N. Y., May 19.—John Mulroney, who was to have been put to death as a murderer on March 17, but won a sixty days' reprieve by declaring in an appeal to the governor that he was going to his death as the martyr of the "criminal code," was electrocuted at Sing Sing prison early today.

"Happy Jack," as he was known to his comrades, wore to the last the smile that had won him his nickname and called back to the other inmates of the death cells a cheerful "good-bye." Charles Becker, the former New York police lieutenant and the gun men involved with him in the Rosenthal murder, were among the four who answered.

The murder of which "Happy Jack" was convicted was that of Patrick McBrean, known as "Paddy the Priest," a New York saloonkeeper, who was shot while standing behind his bar on the night of October 3, 1911.

NEW YORK PAPER THROWS ASSEMBLY INTO EXCITEMENT

Atlanta, Ga., May 19.—Reproduction in Atlanta today of a story in a New York newspaper charging that the election of John T. Stone, of Chicago, as moderator of the Northern Presbyterian general assembly, was the result of "deep laid political scheme," threw that assembly into a turmoil of excitement.

Dr. Stone himself took the floor. He said he had not seen the publication and begged that the article be overlooked as an error in judgment.

William T. Ellis, of Pennsylvania, who was defeated by Stone's nomination, denounced the story.

Commissioners to all the assemblies of the branches of the Presbyterian church resumed their work today with indications that the present week's labors would develop some of the important actions yet taken in the matter of committee reports and the settlement of many questions brought up by novices from a country-wide constituency.

DID HE DYNAMITE HIS OWN HOUSE?

Cripple Creek, Colo., May 19.—James L. Bacon, member of the eighteen general assembly from Teller county, was arrested here at 3:10 o'clock this afternoon on a warrant charging him with the murder of his wife, Ida Bacon, and stepdaughter, Josephine Davidson. Bacon has been in the hospital most of the time since the explosion, suffering from injuries received at the time. He recently attended the funeral of his wife in Denver and was accompanied on the trip by two deputy sheriffs.

The warrant on which Bacon was arrested was sworn out ten days ago by the sheriff who has been conducting an investigation of the explosion.

At the time of the explosion Bacon was taken to the hospital supposedly in an unconscious condition from the effects of his injuries. Upon regaining consciousness he told a story having received black hand letters and attributed the explosion to the alleged senders of these letters.

MRS. LONGSTREET FIRES HOT SHOT AT OPPONENTS

SAYS COMMANDER WHOSE NAME SHE BEARS DID NOT SUFFER MORE THAN SHE HAS AT HANDS OF GEORGIA DEMOCRACY.

CALLS BURLESON THE "60-DAY POSTMASTER"

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of the noted Confederate general, had a hearing before the senate postoffice committee today to give her version of the circumstances leading to her displacement as postmaster at Gainesville, Ga.

Mrs. Longstreet did not ask reinstatement but sought to reply to Postmaster General Burleson's statement that her office was poorly managed. She referred to Mr. Burleson as "President Wilson's sixty day postmaster general."

Mrs. Longstreet declared that she was the victim of the Georgia Railroad and Power company, which she said, had pursued her because she had threatened to curtail its favors.

She presented a long list of signers of her indorsement and stated that the patrons of her community were more competent to judge her than the postmaster general.

"The immortal commander whose name I bear, who resigned a commission in the American army to follow the banners of the south until the last staleness one was furlied at Appomattox and thenceforth found an outlet in the land whose battlefields had run with his heroic blood," declared Mrs. Longstreet, "was not made to suffer more than I have been made to suffer at the hands of that branch of Democracy which is in the saddle down in the good old Democratic state of Georgia in a year that has placed a Virginia gentleman in the White House."

WILSON DISCUSSES SUNDAY CIVIL BILL WITH CHAIRMAN.

President Seems Inclined To Desire Withdrawal of Item Which Caused Taft To Veto the Measure.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—President Wilson at a conference today with Chairman Fitzgerald and Martin, of the house and senate appropriations committee, respectively, is said to have indicated that he might prefer to section which forbids that a certain item be used in prosecuting farmers and working men's organization or violations of the Sherman law.

President Taft vetoed the bill because of it and President Wilson at first indicated that inasmuch as he thought it did not establish a general principle he would not object to it.

Chairman Martin and Fitzgerald are said to have outlined to the president the difficulties of eliminating the provision now that both houses have repassed the bill and that in fact it might be passed over his veto. They left the White House with the impression that Mr. Wilson probably would decide to sign it with a memorandum regarding the disputed provision.

The president talked over a budget plan with the chairman and told them he intended to take up the subject in a message later.

MONEY EXCHANGED: ARREST FOLLOWS

Chicago, Ill., May 19.—Almost $100,000 of the $271,000 in Canadian money stolen from the branch of the bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B. C., has been exchanged for United States currency by Chicago saloonkeepers, according to the assertion of the superintendent of a detective agency, made last night. Michael J. Flanagan, proprietor of a saloon, was arrested early yesterday morning, when two men accused him of giving Canadian money to exchange. Three other saloonkeepers are under surveillance and arrests may result.

William J. Lawler, and Charles O'Leary, arrested on Saturday night, charge Flanagan with being the receiver of part of the stolen money. Lawler asserted he received $544 in bills from Flanagan each Wednesday afternoon. The money finally reached the local branch of the Bank of Montreal and was tracked back.

The three robbers who tunneled into the vault of the Westminster bank are in prison awaiting trial. The fourth member of the gang is in hiding in Chicago, detectives say, and it is from him that Flanagan is said to have obtained the money which was given to Lawler.

STRIKE BREAKERS AT WORK.

Patterson, N. J., May 19.—Through a lane of police two blocks long, twenty hands, formerly employed by the silk mill of the Arthur Price company, went back to work today after a strike of more than two months. Hundreds of pickets of the Industrial Workers of the World sought to prevent their return, but the police guard was too effective. There was a lively scrimmage for a time and sixty pickets were arrested.

Both sides today united in asking Judge Geoghegan, of the common pleas court, to postpone action on the petition filed by the city of Cincinnati, on Saturday for a receiver for the company. They gave as their reason that important conferences were going on that might lead to a settlement accordingly the court postponed the hearing of arguments until tomorrow morning.

Representatives of the traction company and the street car men's union then resumed their conference that started Sunday.

"We are endeavoring to reach an agreement," was the only word from them.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE DENOUNCED BY POLICE MAGISTRATE.

London, May 19.—Confirmation of the complaint that the militant suffragettes are hiring women of the lower class as members of their "arsenal squad" was received this morning when Nellie Robinson was arrested outside the famous new college chapel at Hemptstead. The woman described herself as a servant and said she was awaiting the arrival of two suffragettes under whose direction she was going to fire the church.

The police magistrate before whom the woman was charged remarked that she "seemed to be in course of training as professional petroleum incendiary under miscreants worse than herself."

MILLIONAIRE WOOD ON TRIAL TODAY IN BOSTON

NOTED WOOLEN MANUFACTURER FACES CHARGE OF "PLANTING DYNAMITE" TO PREJUDICE PUBLIC OPINION.

VISITED SANTA FE TWO YEARS AGO

Boston, Conn., May 19.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company and a textile manufacturer of international reputation, Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, were placed on trial today charged with conspiring to "plant dynamite at Lawrence during the textile strike in that city in January, 1912. The trial has been awaited with a special interest because of the prominence of Mr. Wood and also because it is the first time in Massachusetts that a serious criminal charge arising from labor difficulties has been preferred against a manufacturer. The indictment and arrest of the mill man last August caused a sensation.

Atteaux is a dealer in chemicals and a friend of Mr. Wood. Collins is a dog fancier of Cambridge. It is charged that the three defendants conspired with John J. Breen, an undertaker of Lawrence, and Ernest R. Pittman, a builder of Andover, to place dynamite in a house occupied by striking textile operatives for the purpose of prejudicing public opinion by making it appear that the strikers had possession of an explosive which they intended to use in damaging mill property.

Mr. Wood accompanied by his daughter and several friends, visited Santa Fe about two years ago, traveling across the continent in the private car "Superb." Mr. Wood was much interested in the ancient city and declared afterwards that no stop on his journey had afforded him or his party such pleasure as the few hours spent here.

Addresses of welcome were given by Governor Hiram W. Johnson and Mayor James Rolph, Jr.

The sessions today are being devoted to welcoming delegates and preparing for the real work which begins tomorrow. It is stated that a number of changes in the constitution and by-laws of the order are contemplated. The women's auxiliary has 300 in attendance. Mrs. Ray N. Watterson, the president, is presiding.

AGAIN BEFORE THE SENATE.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Senator Kern's resolution to investigate conditions in the West Virginia strike region was again the unfinished business when the senate met today.

Senator Goff, resuming his speech in opposition to the proposed inquiry, reiterated his contention that congress had not jurisdiction, that the supreme court had held that congress was without power to punish for contempt in such cases.

"Suppose," he said, "this committee goes to West Virginia and the witnesses refuse to answer. Then you are powerless."

Relating to the claim that the military illegally closed the courts in West Virginia, Senator Goff declared that the very announcement of martial law carried with it the notice that the military is in power.

"There can be no martial law unless the civil courts are unable to cope with the difficulty," said he.

THEY HOPE BY DELAY TO RAISE
WHAT EVIDENCE IS YET GIVEN TO PROVE

THE DUTIES IN THE UNDERWOOD BILL BY SENATE ACTION—THE CHICAGO CONFERENCE HAS NOT MADE MUCH STIR.

(By Gilson Gardner.)

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Delay with the hope of eventually raising some duties in the tariff bill is the plan of the tariff lobby now manipulating the Republican minority of the senate. It is easy to delay under the senate rules. President Wilson can control the Democrats, but he cannot persuade the Republicans. The latter propose to demonstrate the power of a senate minority. Weeks ago the lobby abandoned the house of representatives and they have been throwing up entrenchments in the senate. The opposition gathers zest from the fact that the Democrats held up and defeated by similar tactics hundreds of Republican nominations at the close of the Taft administration. The chance to even up these scores has been awaited with impatience. So at present the prospect is for a tariff session which will merge into the regular session next winter.

After investigating the facts which caused Secretary McVeh to announce that the treasury department had accepted $100,000 from John W. Wamaker in settlement of undervaluations of imports at Philadelphia covering several years, the department of justice announces an intention to refer the facts to a grand jury. Secretary McVeh does not agree with President Taft that there was an entire absence of criminal intent when the government was cheated out of its customs dues.

For many weeks the railroads of the country have been planning to present a formal appeal to the interstate commerce commission for permission to make a general raise in freight rates. The plan will probably still be carried out, though the railroads are experiencing embarrassment owing to the fact that the official returns have continued to show each month an increase in the earnings of the railroads over the previous month. It has been impossible to hide or juggle these earnings.

The portraits of Presidents Taft and Roosevelt which have hung in the main reception hall of the White House have not been disturbed. Sometimes a new president relegates his predecessors to less conspicuous positions, but the Wilsons have not yet done so.

Shelby M. Cullom, veteran ex-senator from Illinois, and one of the few survivors of the Lincoln regime, is ill. His term in the senate closed on the 4th of March. He was then in his 81st year. He was absent only three days from his duties during the last year of his service in the senate, but shortly after retirement his throat began troubling him and of late he has not felt strong enough to leave his house and spends considerable time in bed. Mr. Cullom was author of the bill to create the five million dollar memorial to President Lincoln and when this became a law at the recent session, the veteran friend of the martyred president was made chairman of the Lincoln memorial commission, with an office in the senate building.

Official records in the weather bureau show that the removal of Willis L. Moore has left the weather in erratic or incompetent hands. Never has there been such uneven weather. Between April 27 and May 13 in the vicinity of Washington there has been a dry spell unprecedented. The month of May has been the coldest and also the hottest weather in sixty years, for that month. There have been tornadoes, cyclones and floods such as never happened under the calm and business-like administration of Willis Moore.

Former President Roosevelt does not consider it necessary to comment on the efforts of Senators Cummins, Kenyon, Borah and Gronna to reorganize the Republican party. Until these gentlemen can show that their plans are endorsed by Senators Smoot, Crane, Penrose, et al., the reorganization proposition consists of nothing more than a personal inclination. Even Senator La Follette has failed to co-operate. He has cast his fortunes with the Penrose-Roosevelt regulars and hopes in 1916 to be their nominee.

Dr. Charles P. Neill, lately commissioner of the federal bureau of labor statistics was too good for the government service. He has been gathered in by the increased remuneration offered by private employment. Neill's fault was that he did his work too well. His investigation into women and child labor conditions made him some powerful enemies in the persons of southern senators like Overman, Thornton and Tillman. As a member of the Erdman law commission he was trusted by labor. Under the Roosevelt administration he investigated the Chicago packing houses and his investigation was followed by the pure food law. But a good man gets tired of political nagging, small pay and lack of appreciation which attend really honest service, and Neill got tired.

IN MOTHER'S MEDICINE CHEST are standard remedies which have stood the test of time—remedies which their mothers and grandmothers had used before them, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for nearly forty years has been curing the women of this country from the worst form of female ills; merit alone could have stood such a test of time and won such an enviable record.

It will not pay you to waste your time writing out your legal form when you can get them already printed at the New Mexican Printing company.

THAT A UNION OF THE PROGRESSIVE AND REPUBLICAN PARTIES AT THIS TIME IS DESIRABLE—THERE MUST BE A CHANGE FIRST.

THE CHICAGO MEETING
IN NO WAY OFFICIAL

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Considerable newspaper attention has been given during the last few days to a meeting of so-called "Republican leaders" in Chicago, the advertised purpose of which was to bring about, if possible, a union of the Progressive party with the Republican party.

Who are these new "Republican leaders"? They are Senators Albert J. Cummins and W. S. Kenyon, of Iowa; William E. Borah, of Idaho, and A. J. Gronna, of North Dakota, and former Governor Hadley, of Missouri. This is the first appearance of all these men in the role of "national leaders" of the Republican party. Each of them has attained prominence in Republican leadership in his own state, but none has heretofore professed to play an important part in "national Republican leadership."

What evidence is there that the Republican party is ready in any respect to give heed to the leadership of any of these men? On the old rule of judging the future by the past, the evidence is that the Republican party has no interest in the doings of these new "leaders" and will pay no attention to their "leadership."

All five of them were either personally in attendance in Chicago last June or were represented there. Mr. Hadley was the floor leader of the Roosevelt forces in that convention and Mr. Borah was an advocate of the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Kenyon was there in the interests of the nomination of Mr. Cummins and Mr. Gronna was there as a supporter of Senator La Follette. All of them were then opposed to the "national leadership" of the Republican party represented in Chicago by Bill Barnes and Elihu Root, of New York; Penrose, of Pennsylvania; Crane, of Massachusetts; Dave Mulvane, of Kansas; Tom Devine and Archie Stevenson, of Colorado; Ralph Williams, of Oregon, and the rest of that unsavory group.

The national leadership of the Republican party has not changed in personnel or in character since that convention. Nothing has occurred to enhance the standing, the influence or the authority of these new "leaders in the Republican party." For reasons of their own, they have chosen to remain in a party whose leadership and whose actions they have opposed and denounced. One of them, Mr. Hadley, has explained that he chose to remain regular "for reasons of expediency which might not apply outside of Missouri."

Why are these men suddenly called "Republican leaders"? It was only a year before last that the real leaders of the Republican party were going up and down through the line breathing fire and slaughter and reading them everlasting out of the party. And it was only last year that the Republican party officially and publicly rebuffed and discredited them. Nothing save their own claim now gives title to these gentlemen to assert Republican leadership. There is no pretense of either authority in their proposition. It has and it plans to be a justification of their own dire necessity. Their personal situation, because of their refusal to take the open, honest course, has become desperate and they urgently need relief. They could have got relief last year and they can still get it, but there is only one way to get it and that is by joining the Progressive party, and not, as they propose, by having the Progressives join the Republican party and surrender the incalculable advance that has been won by a year's effort.

The reforms these gentlemen now propose for adoption by the Republican party are not new. They themselves have proposed the same reforms before the Republican leaders to whom the proposition was submitted scornfully rejected them. What evidence or hope is there now that the Republican leaders of today, who are the identical individuals who before rebuffed these gentlemen, will now admit their error and reform?

When these gentlemen were rebuffed previously, men who believed with them turned to the leadership that has since crystallized into the Progressive party. Under that leadership, every one of the reforms that they then proposed has been adopted and is now part of the Progressive party law. But these men who had the opportunity to strike a telling, effective blow in behalf of the reforms in which they professed to believe, hung back, hindering rather than helping the work, and now they have the iron front to ask the Progressive party to abandon the reforms actually accomplished and turn backward and help them in a renewed effort to enforce these same reforms upon the unwilling Republican leaders who have already refused them. They ask the Progressives to give up achieved success in order to undertake a movement which experience has already proved to be hopeless. What nonsense can exceed that?

These gentlemen met in Chicago on their own invitation, by their own authority, and they represent themselves and nobody else. Their invitation to the Progressives to come backward into the party which they denounced

The Remarkable Action of a Famous Remedy and Some Facts About It.

Get Your Blood Purified With S. S. S. and You Won't be Tortured Like This.

The skin is but a net work of fine blood vessels. And it is a perfectly natural consequence that any influence in the blood makes its first appearance in the skin. There are certain medicinal properties that follow the course of these properties is that of an antidote. This is why S. S. S., the best known blood purifier, has such a positive action on the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from the blood stream and the influence of these elements which it requires for regeneration.

These pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S. This is why skin troubles vanish so readily and why they do not return. Under the influence of S. S. S. this fine net work of blood vessels in the skin is constantly taking from the blood the nutrition required for healthy tissue and the cause of disease is just as constantly being removed, scattered and rendered harmless. These facts are more fully explained in a booklet on skin troubles sent by The S. S. S. Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. Get a bottle to-day and banish all skin afflictions.

Last year and which in turn denounced them is not supported by the public word or act of any recognized Republican leader. So far as the real Republican leaders have commented upon the proposition, they have derided and disavowed it. It is obvious that the Republican party is not in sympathy with and does not endorse the conference of these self-appointed "leaders" or its action.

So far as the Progressives are concerned, there has never for a moment been any possibility or a favorable response to such an invitation. The Progressive party was formed last year upon a definite declaration of concrete principles to which the Republican party is unalterably opposed. The Progressives have never had and have not now the slightest intention of abandoning those principles. The Republican leadership, permanently reactionary, has not the slightest intention of subscribing to them. The union of the two parties is an idle dream. It is a waste of time and energy to give it consideration.

COP KILLS CAT 8 TIMES TO END IT

New York, May 19.—A truck ran over a cat in East Sixty-ninth street. It was a pretty flat cat after the truck had passed.

Patrolman Tighe arrived, counted his cartridges and found he had many more than enough to kill the cat the necessary eight times more. He fired. The cat kicked. The shot had lodged where cats think.

"Two lives," counted the policeman. Picking vital parts, Tighe emptied his revolver. That was five shots. Theoretically the truck had killed the cat one. It ought, therefore, to die for the last time after three more bullets had found a feline resting place.

Tighe loaded his revolver and began firing again. At the eighth shot the cat rose and looked at him malevolently.

"Well, I'll be hornsawgled!" exclaimed Tighe. "You're dead! Why don't you lay down?"

The cat remained indifferent to the laws of nature. Tighe took a new grip on his revolver and fired again. The cat wiggled its tail. He fired twice more. Then the cat died.

ONE MILLION VOTE MARK PASSED IN NEW MEXICAN'S BIG $5,000 PRIZE CONTEST

MISS IRENE PENDER AND MISS FLORA AKERS HAVE SWELLED THEIR VOTE TOTAL OVER THE ONE MILLION MARK—STANDING OF CANDIDATES WILL BE PUBLISHED EVERY DAY THIS WEEK—GET TO THE TOP OF THE LIST.

ONLY FIVE MORE DAYS THEN BIG CONTEST WILL BE THING OF PAST

ROLL OF HONOR.

Following are the ten highest candidates in the New Mexican's great $5,000 prize contest, and who, so far in the race, apparently are the real competitors for first honors and the attendant award—$1,000 in gold. Who will be the leaders tomorrow? Watch this list.

1. MISS IRENE PENDER, MAGDALENA 1,205,958
2. MISS FLORA AKERS, SANTA FE 1,123,300
3. MISS ESTER LUCERO, BERNALILLO 915,095
4. MISS LENA KRICK, SANTA FE 777,250
5. MISS FRANCES LEESON, SANTA FE 715,574
6. MRS. J. A. CARRUTH, SANTA FE 637,400
7. MISS ADELAIDE CANDELAIRA ALBUQUERQUE 592,820
8. MISS LUCY ELENA ORTIZ, ADELINO 459,419
9. MISS MYRTLE G. RENDON, TRUCHAS 443,722
10. MISS ARGELICA VALDEZ, SPRINGER 404,087

The final week of the New Mexican's big $5,000 prize contest is now. The fight is even more exciting to the contest department than appears in the published list of votes, for the department is in a position to know of hundreds of thousands of votes for which subscriptions were turned in last week, but which votes are being held back by the contestants in order not to disclose their real strength until the finish.

Of course, information about these votes is held confidential until the votes are finally turned in, but it is not telling much of a secret to say that some big surprises are in store, and that the published votes of many of the contestants are very small in comparison with what the final figures will show. In fact, there are some candidates who have never been considered contenders for first honors who will have to be reckoned with at the finish next Saturday night at 9 o'clock.

Stand High in the List.

"Nothing succeeds like success," is an old maxim, and a truer one was never said, and right here is a hint to contestants who are holding back votes. It is all right to conceal your full strength if you must, but it would be a mighty good idea to turn in a large number of votes and get to the head of list so as to encourage your friends to help you out. From present indications the race for the big prizes will be a very close one, and a few subscriptions from unexpected quarters will decide more than one winner.

A little mathematics will show you just how you stand and how much you need to win the prize you want. Perhaps a few long-term subscriptions will win you the first honors and the attendant award—$1,000 in gold; it could hardly fail to win one of the district prizes.

Big Opportunity in District 4.

Mr. Charles Goldenberg, of Tucuman, continues to lead in district 4 with 189,294 votes to his credit, which represents less than one new five year subscription to the Daily New Mexican. This district affords an excellent opportunity for some "live" candidates to get busy and win a prize worth hundreds of dollars in a few days time, in fact, a new candidate could enter the race and, with just one new yearly subscription to the Daily New Mexican, at once get up among the first six, which is in the prize winning class.

Names Will Appear Daily.

Following this article is the list of candidates and the number of votes received for each up to Saturday night. From now on this list will appear each day and will include all votes cast up to 6 o'clock of the evening previous to publication. Candidates should strive to make daily increases, for the public eye is focused on the endeavors of each and every candidate, and if you appear to have a good chance to win, all the assistance you want can be had for the asking.

Details of Final Counting.

Saturday night, May 24th, at 9 o'clock sharp the New Mexican's big contest will come to an official close. All votes and subscriptions must be either in the contest department or in the mails at this hour. Out-of-town candidates, as heretofore, will have the privilege of mailing their letters containing subscriptions as late as the closing hour and letters bearing the postmark of May 24th, will be accepted, providing the same reaches the New Mexican office before 3 o'clock the following Tuesday afternoon. Candidates residing in remote sections of the state should take the precaution to find out about the mail service and mail their letter early enough to allow for mis-connection of train and other delays that might occur. This is final and fair warning.

Candidates are urgently advised to send in all their subscriptions and reserve ballots at once, leaving only the business collected on the last day for the final remittance. Also it is advisable to mail final remittance under special delivery stamp to insure prompt delivery.

Judges Will Count Votes.

The final counting of the votes will take place in the business office of the New Mexican at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, May 27th, and will be in the hands of a committee of prominent business and professional men, whose names will appear in an early issue. All candidates are invited to attend the final counting, or in the event it is impossible to be on hand personally, to deputize a friend to look after their interests. This is merely an invitation to attend and is not at all compulsory.

The final counting will be the simplest thing in the world—merely a matter of adding the votes secured on subscriptions the last night and the reserves to the number credited each candidate in Saturday's paper. It will be each candidate's privilege, however, to check over their own or competitors' votes from the very beginning, if they so desire. It is hoped that the final results will be published in Wednesday's issue of the New Mexican.

HUSBAND'S ASHES STREWN IN OCEAN

New York, May 19.—When the Berlin of the North German Lloyd Line, which sailed for Genoa, has steamed 1000 miles out from Sandy Hook, Harriet M. Howland, widow of Dr. George Titus M. Howland, of Norwich, Conn., will step to the rail with a golden urn and strew upon the waves the ashes of her husband, who died September 24, 1911, leaving an estate valued more than $1,000,000.

She will thus comply with a clause in Doctor Howland's will. It was not read until the day on which the urn, with his ashes, was to have been buried at Tivoli, N. Y. Even then its provisions were not made public and friends were permitted to understand that the interment of the urn had taken place.

Mrs. Howland arrived in New York with her only daughter, Elizabeth, strikingly handsome and only 18.

It was learned that Mrs. Howland would have carried out the wishes of her husband long ago had it not been for two accidents. Once she was badly hurt in a runaway and another time in an automobile collision. It was only recently that she recovered. The friends of the doctor have no reason to offer for his wish to have his ashes strewn on the ocean. So far as they are aware, he was not exceptionally fond of the sea.

STRIKE MAY BE SETTLED.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 19.—Announcement of the settlement of the street car was expected today as the result of a conference between officials of the Cincinnati Traction company and representatives of the union organization.

COMMERCIALIZED VICE REPORT IS MADE

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR KNEELAND GIVES STARTLING FIGURES ON "SCARLET ARMY" AND SAYS POVERTY IS NOT TO BLAME.

PUBLIC DANCE HALLS LEAD MANY TO RUIN

New York, May 19.—Fifteen thousand women of the under world—a scarlet army no census has heretofore enumerated—ply their trade in one borough of Greater New York alone. This is the estimate of the Bureau of Social Hygiene, an organization of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is chairman, as made public to-night in an abstract of a forthcoming report by George J. Kneeland, a special investigator, after a painstaking inquiry into commercialized vice conditions in Manhattan, extending over a period of nearly ten months.

The report suggests no remedies, fixes no responsibility. That phase is to be dealt with later on. It purports merely to "describe accurately vice conditions in New York City with the sole purpose of bringing out the facts." The hope is expressed that subsequently a satisfactory policy to check the evil may be worked out.

Mr. Rockefeller himself contributed the foreword to the volume. Future reports will deal with conditions in other large cities in America and with methods and their results of combating the problem in Europe. Existing preventive, reformatory and corrective agencies in New York are described as wholly inadequate to their task.

Aside from a series of chapters dealing in minute frankness with the operation of notorious resorts throughout the city, the report treats of the dance hall evil and of the alarming spread of the so-called massage parlors. "Over three hundred of these exist in the city," says the report, "and in many of them not the slightest effort was made to cloak the immoral nature of the business. Operators for these establishments are often procured by advertising in the newspapers. Of the dance halls the report says:

"The public dance hall was found to justify the worst that has been said of it. Of 75 dances reported on only five were characterized by the investigators as 'decent.' Nor are these dances attended only by hardened prostitutes. Young girls—some innocent—others, if not entirely innocent, at any rate not wholly depraved, and young men not yet altogether vicious, attend the gatherings in search of amusement and change. Many are innocent working girls, who seek legitimate recreation. The sinister element in attendance is the hired cadets, who attend with the cold-blooded purpose of finding new subjects of debauchery and of subsequent exploitation for gain. These agents of commercialized vice are usually well-dressed, well-mannered, and introduce themselves politely and easily to strangers. They often pretend to love at first sight and exhibit marked devotion, by which the girls are deceived and to which they too often yield. When the seduction of the girls is accomplished, they are put on the street, and their ruin is complete."

Mr. Kneeland argues, contrary to the expressed views of so many investigating bodies, that girls do not as a general thing take up a life of shame because of the pinch of poverty. He holds that oftener they are victims in their ignorance of the agents of commercialized vice.

"It is idle," he says, "to explain away the phenomena on the ground that they are the results of the inevitable weakness of human nature; human weakness would demand far fewer and less horrible sacrifices. Most of the wreckage, and the worst of it, is due to persistent, cunning and unprincipled exploitation; to the banding together in infamous enterprises of madame, procurer, brothel-keeper and liquor vendor to carry on deliberately a cold-blooded traffic for their joint profit, a traffic, be it added, from which the girl involved procures at the most, with few exceptions, her bare subsistence, and that only so long as she has a trade value."

"The Exploiters" and the ramifications of their traffic is treated at length. By means of money and shrewdness, says the report, the traffickers usually evade the law. Traffic houses in the Tenderloin were long operated as a combine, it is cited, under the direct control of fifteen or more men. Most of them have been engaged all their lives in the seduction and exploitation of women. New York is their Mecca. The report, however, follows their tracks through "Argentine, Brazil, Cuba, Canada, Alaska and the large cities of our own country—San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, Butte, Denver, Omaha, St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia. Finally they realize their hopes in New York City. Here they have made a center, and from this center they go back over the old trail from time to time."

"King Has" Homes.

One of them, the report continues, is known as the "King." He is interested in eleven houses. He is supposed to have great influence with the authorities, and it largely depends upon his judgment whether houses are openly and flagrantly, or quietly and cautiously conducted. When external conditions are unfavorable, these men ship their women to points where conditions are more propitious. Variations in public opinion and in the attitude of the municipal authorities are quickly reflected in the market. Just before the Rosenthal murder prices were prohibitively high; since that date they have steadily declined.

Owners of realty, ostensibly respectable, come in for severe condemnation at the hands of the investigators. A woman investigator, the report sets forth, visited 122 real estate agents, of whom only 17 declined to let premises for immoral purposes. A group of thirty-eight "well-known" men, it is said, own and operate twenty-eight houses in Manhattan. "The value of shares moves up and down," says the report, "according as conditions are more or less favorable to the conduct of the business."

Receipts Are Vast.

An attempt is made to estimate the vast receipts of the resorts of all fame, yet the investigators are frank in stating that the sums are so large as to make it impossible to arrive at any accurate total. Thirty of the most tawdry resorts, it is pointed out, earn in the aggregate at least two million dollars annually, exclusive of the enormous profit derived from the illicit sale of liquor and tobacco at exorbitant prices. To arrive at any estimate of the earnings of the itinerant women of the streets is, of course, out of the question.

Cost to Society.

The total cost to society, the report emphasizes, is staggeringly enormous.

complete."

Mr. Kneeland argues, contrary to the expressed views of so many investigating bodies, that girls do not as a general thing take up a life of shame because of the pinch of poverty. He holds that oftener they are victims in their ignorance of the agents of commercialized vice.

"It is idle," he says, "to explain away the phenomena on the ground that they are the results of the inevitable weakness of human nature; human weakness would demand far fewer and less horrible sacrifices. Most of the wreckage, and the worst of it, is due to persistent, cunning and unprincipled exploitation; to the banding together in infamous enterprises of madame, procurer, brothel-keeper and liquor vendor to carry on deliberately a cold-blooded traffic for their joint profit, a traffic, be it added, from which the girl involved procures at the most, with few exceptions, her bare subsistence, and that only so long as she has a trade value."

A COUPLE OF HUSKY YOUNG GIANTS PREPARING TO BATTLE MAY 20 FOR A CHANCE AT THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Both Six-footers, Hard Hitters and Giants in Weight, But the Lean Gunboat Smith Appears to Have the Edge on Jess Willard, Cowboy Pugilist—Winner Will Get Chance to Grab Heavyweight Title.

Jess Willard (left) the human skyscraper, and Gunboat Smith, who will fight 20-round heavyweight elimination battle in San Francisco.

CLOSE VIEW OF WILLARD'S FACE

Jess Willard's face. Nothing special about it except that it's a face, that's all and gives the New Mexican readers some idea of what the huge fighter looks like at close range. Jess is going to match his six foot five inches of muscle against Gunboat Smith's five foot eleven inches in a 20-round battle at San Francisco and the winner stands an excellent chance of getting a crack at Luther McCarty and his heavyweight championship crown.

THE GRAYS WIN AT THE MEADOW CITY

The Santa Fe Grays went to Las Vegas yesterday and crossed bats with the Meadow City team, winning the game handily and declaring that it was a very pleasant day. The score was 7 to 5 with the Grays on the big end, Jim Lopez handing up the pill with Gregory on the receiving end.

Three automobiles made the trip which was covered without accident or delay and the result of the contest only added to the gaiety of the occasion.

The Grays say they are the champions of the city and as this may be disputed by other baseball artists here, the way is open to settle the question in the one practical way which is a meeting on the diamond.

At all events, the Las Vegas trip seems to have put the Grays on their mettle and they are ready to defend the title they claim.

JOHNSON IS BROKE; WANTS ANOTHER MATCH

Calgary, Alberta, May 19.—Tommy Burns last night received a telegram from Edward W. Smith, of Chicago, asking if he could arrange a match between Luther McCarty and Jack Johnson in Calgary.

Johnson has asked the United States court for a stay of sixty days, giving as his reason that he is "dead broke" and wants a match to get money to pay his fine, the telegram stated. Burns is considering the matter. Luther McCarty is training hard for his match with Pelky on May 24.

Johnson Hearing Postponed.

Chicago, May 19.—Federal Judge Carpenter today postponed hearing of a motion for a new trial for Jack Johnson the negro pugilist, recently convicted of violation of the Mann white slave act. Postponement was due to the absence of Assistant United States District Attorney Parkin who prosecuted the case.

THEY'RE GETTING READY.

Los Angeles, Calif., May 19.—Light gymnasium work was the schedule today in the rival training camps of Bud Anderson, the northwestern lightweight, and Joe Mandot, of New Orleans, who will meet tomorrow night at Vernon arena in a twenty round bout.

Much interest also attaches to the ten round bout between Monte Attell former bantamweight champion and now a feather, and Cal. De Laney, of Cleveland, Johnny Kilbane's sparring partner.

MATTY AS BIG AS DUKE WELLINGTON

At the Lambs' Club in New York the game at the Polo Grounds is played over again every evening in all its details. Many of the leading actors are ardent fans. De Wolf Hopper, Digby Bell and many others never miss a game when they are in New York and do not have to attend a matinee. After the contest they gather at the club to decide just what should have been done on the field that wasn't done. One evening a bunch of well-known actors were discussing the afternoon's contest. Matty had relieved Ames early in the game and won out by some of his superb pitching. Of course, his name was frequently mentioned during the discussion. An English actor, noted for his clever work on the stage, but not yet familiar with American conditions, was among the party around the big table. He listened in silence for several minutes and then burst into the conversation with this question:

"Might I ask, gentlemen, who this Matty is?" Digby Bell, the dean of all the actors fans and a great admirer of the New York pitcher, looked up in astonishment at the dense ignorance of the bearded Britisher. "Sir," said Digby in a solemn manner, "did you ever happen to hear of the Duke of Wellington?" "Certainly, sir," replied the denizen of the island. "The Duke of Wellington was the greatest military genius that England ever produced." "Well, then," said Bell, "Matty makes the Duke of Wellington look like a private soldier in the rear ranks."

FALKENBERG COMES BACK

There is another "comeback" in the American league. He is Fred ("Cy") Falkenberg, the lanky hurler of the Naps.

When Manager Harry Davis took hold of the Cleveland club in 1912 he decided that Falky's days as a big league hurler were over, so sent him to Toledo, in the American Association.

When Birmingham took over the reins as manager of the club he decided there was still a good deal of big league pitching in the long boy, and Falky has proved this by his work this season.

Falky, who rivals Carl Wollman in height, has made five starts this season and each one has resulted in a victory. He beat the Tigers his first out, allowing them no runs and six hits. Then he trimmed the White Sox. After that he opposed the Browns twice and dealt them two reverses. He beat Boston for his fifth straight.

Last season in the American Association Falkenberg was second among the hurlers. He won twenty-five games and lost only eight games for a percentage of 75.8. The hits off him totaled 257, while 94 runs were scored by the opposition. He whiffed 113 and walked only 89.

It looks as if Falky would pull a Tom Hughes last season the National hurler "came back" after being sent to Minneapolis for one year. Hughes is still at it, and it will be some time before he is relegated to the minors. The same may be the case with Falkenberg.

JOE TINKER SO BAD IN MANAGER'S ROLE

"Maybe I'm a bad manager, after all," said Joe Tinker after the Reds had tossed off a game of ball at the Polo Grounds last week. "I thought I knew something about this game, but I don't seem to be able to get the club going. Perhaps it's all my fault, though I don't see what I can do to correct it. I am trying to play the game right, but the results don't come." Joe's mind may be relied on this subject. One of the best characteristics of Manager Tinker is that he is modest about his own ability, and is inclined to blame himself for things which are not in the least his fault. He has never applied for membership in the Alibi Club. He is willing to assume all responsibility for the work of the team, and to retire from the management if he is convinced that the club would do better with some other leader. But the trouble with the team has not been with the leadership. Manager Tinker has played a consistent and brilliant game himself in his position, day after day, in the midst of utter discouragement. He has kept and is keeping his nerve, and the contagion of his winning spirit is bound to show good results in time. The bad early start of the team has been a blow to him, especially when a comparison with the fast get-away of the Reds last spring is made. Last year on this date the Reds were right at the top of the heap, far in advance of any other club except the Giants, while today they are lowly occupants of the dark and gloomy cellar. Yet it is only necessary to observe what happened to the Reds of 1912 after the middle of May in order to reap some hope of better things for the Reds of 1913. Off to a break-away that was full of luck the team last season led the league for six weeks. It got a start that a good club, well handled, could not possibly have tossed off. But the team two months later was in fifth place, and finally landed in the first division by a narrow margin, owing not to its own good playing, but to the horrible fall-down of the Quakers.

A club that gets away perfectly and then falls early to the bottom in a few short weeks is not a pleasing standard to go by. The Reds this year secured a wretched start, but Manager Tinker is handling the club in such a way that there is bound to be improvement. There has been some hard luck, but the majority of the team's defeats have been the result of poor playing. Manager Tinker is finding the weak spots and will soon be ready to make some strutting changes. He has given a club which had run itself for a number of years, full of good individual players who did not work together, and had never been trained in team baseball, a winning brand. The Red leader is discovering that an entirely new policy will have to be followed to get a winner for Cincinnati, and he is developing such policy, regardless of what results to himself may be. He can be trusted to bring home a winner in time.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Representatives of the Union and Southern Pacific railroads are striving to formulate a plan of dissolution of their merger which will be mutually satisfactory to the two interests involved, according to advices received today by Attorney General McKelvey from New York. The attorney general is in touch with the situation over the long distance phone. Officials here were unable to state whether there was prospect of an agreement between the two roads. The attorney general has advised them that as he views the situation, the Central Pacific railroad should be divorced from the Southern Pacific in the plan of dissolution. His decision in that connection, however, is tentative.

EIGHT MAY HAVE DROWNED.

Kiel, Germany, May 19.—Five "one year" volunteer soldiers of the German army and three German marines who accompanied them are believed to have been drowned in a storm here last night. They had gone out for a short pleasure cruise in a sail boat. The storm came up suddenly and their boat has not since been seen. A cruiser and several torpedo boats were sent out today to search for the missing boat and men.

AGED STEAMBOAT CAPTAIN DEAD

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—John A. Scudder, a retired capitalist, died suddenly at his home here today of apoplexy. He was 83 years old. In the olden days of river traffic on the Mississippi, Mr. Scudder was a steamboat captain. He was one of the organizers of the Memphis and St. Louis line, known as the Anchor line, and at various times had been a director in St. Louis financial institutions.

BACCALAUREATE BY REV. MR. M'COLLOUGH

The baccalaureate sermon preached last night at the Presbyterian church by Rev. B. Z. McCullough was an unusually good one, pointed with timely and thoughtful advice. Mr. McCullough took his sermon from the old testament, Samuel 23:12, as follows: "And Shammah stood in the plot of ground and defended it and slew the Philistines, and the Lord wrought a great victory."

His sermon was on strength. Strength, he said is the call to the heroic. It is a God-given faculty to be used to the best ends in life. He enumerated and dwelt upon the different kinds of strength, physical, mental, sentimental, determinative, moral and spiritual. There are lots of Philistines in life that we are called on to slay.

First, there was sloth. Mr. McCullough dwelt upon the dignity of labor and admonished his hearers not to despise dirt-grimed hands and soiled garments, as long as they kept their souls clean.

Second, there was the Philistine of graft. The covetousness of the human heart was the cause of much of the graft today. Graft was to be seen everywhere, political, commercial, ecclesiastical.

The third Philistine of which he spoke was the overwhelming giant of despondency. He brought out clearly the encouraging thought worth remembering, that if a man falls once there is no use to be discouraged, and he quoted those lines: "One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward; never doubted clouds would break; never dreamed though right were worsted wrong would triumph. Hold, we will rise again, are baffled to fight."

The fourth Philistine was that of impurity. He urged that character was the essential in all our dealings in life.

In dealing with and conquering these Philistines, Mr. McCullough said that one needed the heroism of sincerity, fearlessness and a love for an ideal.

EXERCISES AT THE INDIAN SCHOOL

The public is cordially invited to attend the entertainment on Wednesday night, which consists of a prize speaking contest. The selections and the music have been well chosen and the prizes render their parts creditably. A treat is in store for all who attend.

They will embark on board the royal yacht, "Victoria and Albert" at Port Victoria and cross to Flushing, Holland, tomorrow morning, escorted by British warships.

When the British sovereigns arrive midway across the sea, a flotilla of German torpedo boat destroyers will meet them and convey their yacht to the Dutch coast.

Today I am stronger in my praise of this remedy than ever. I suffered greatly from disordered kidneys, the pains in my back being so acute that I had to stop work and sit down. The trouble steadily grew worse and I rarely knew what it was to be free from an ache or pain. Soon after I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, my pains and aches disappeared and my back became strong."

OFFICIAL BEAUTY DOCTOR

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Helme, of Michigan, is setting out to make Lillian Russell, Billie Burke, Laura Jean Libbey and other syndicate writers on how to be beautiful look like cheap imitations of facial and health artists.

Mr. Helme, as a first offering—and entirely in his official capacity—has explained to Michigan young ladies that a $2 beauty prescription may be put up at home for 15 cents, and the supply ought to last some months. It is, too, a very important beauty secret, no less than the balm that gives the pearly white look to the neck, face and shoulders.

Just what is Mr. Helme's object in this butting into the preserves of these recognized authorities on beauty, and the methods inducing it to take possession of the cheeks of fair womanhood has not yet been made clear.

One thing is certain, however, and that is that he cannot make much headway under his present name of just Jim Helme. If he is going into the business of delivering beauty talks, he will have to adopt some other non de plus, such as "Beauty Quizzes by Blemishless Boudah," or "Daisies in Complexions by Daisy Dainty," or "Heart Talks to Girls by Gentle Gwendolyn," but James can never hope to win any prominence as a beauty doctor under the name by which he is christened. It has about it too much of the flavor of milkweed and dandelion or doctored, which do not appeal to the seekers after beauty in any sense or form. Jim Helme is likely to get the syndicate and patent medicine man and magazine advertiser after him if he goes to pushing his 15-cent beautifier too far.

James has long been a member of the anti-corporation and trust busters brigade, but he is taking a good many chances in dipping into the complexion business trying to introduce a beauty lotion at such a startling cheap price.

AS MARGARET SEES IT

Margaret, the Wilson daughter who is afire for social centers, has some ideas about teaching, too.

"At present," she said recently, "school children are taught subjects which are not of the slightest use to them, and they are taught in a manner that does not develop them. They are not taught to produce anything."

"Taught to produce!" All life rests on production. The social pyramid pivots on the back of the toiler. Yet how little we train our young to do this fundamental work.

Mostly our school system is a scheme to fit them to live without working, to "work" the workers. That is true, is it not, of all the wit-sharpening studies which are pursued without connection with real work? At 14 most producers have to quit school and produce. What preparation has school given them.

The boy or girl going into a mill to work long hours turning out a mere fraction of something; doomed to deadening, denaturing monotony, needs more greatly than any other the fullest culture of imagination and soul from school if this big later handicap is to be borne; but do they get it?

They certainly do not!

If every school were a workshop, if every school were a garden, and if the kids were taught to do by doing and helped to express themselves, do you think there would be this ghastly annual spectacle of great hordes of graduates turned loose to become lawyers, traders, parasites, while all over the land industry cries to heaven for competent, humanized labor?

Isn't the trouble that our schools, like our courts, have got away from life? They need to be revitalized.

A NEW LEAD

It seems to us that Edwin Nordman, member of the Wisconsin legislature, has suggested a valuable new "lead" to the current investigation of the causes of vice.

Proceeding upon the belief that every man ought to have a home and a mate and that to interrogate simply the women who have fallen is not enough, he has proposed that Wisconsin's inquiry into this important subject shall include questions along these lines:

Whether wages, instability of employment and the fact that the "big unit" system of business tends to make a few very secure and many very insecure in their opportunities of a steady income are in any way responsible for the decline in marriage and home life. Also to what extent the average man deprived by precarious income of the opportunity for marriage, is thereby impelled to create the market in which womanhood is sacrificed for gain.

He would have a commission of inquiry instructed to compile figures showing what percentage of men are unmarried and at what age men marry, as contrasted with, say, 50 years ago, when free land maintained an open door of opportunity for all.

"The real cause of vice cannot," he contends, "be learned by a commission bringing a lot of unlucky women and girls in and writing their answers down. They don't know anything about the cause. Their relation to vice is generally that of a wrecked building to a cyclone. They are merely a result."

A good deal in this, don't you think? At all events, it's a "lead" which needs to be followed up in the thorough Wisconsin way. If we can find out how to make a fairer division of prosperity it's quite likely that among the results will be more wholesome mating and many more happy homes.

NOT HIS DUTY

The suggestion has been made in Arizona, and has found some favor, that the power of pardon be taken entirely from the governor, and that any man convicted on trial be compelled to pay the penalty prescribed by law.

There is a good deal that is worthy of commendation in this suggestion and, up to a certain point, would be salutary.

There is no reason why the determination of cases by a court should be put up to the governor of a state except in very rare instances or where an evident injustice or wrong has been done.

The discovery of new evidence or proof of innocence are the only reasons for demanding that a governor reprieve or commute a sentence given by a judge after a verdict by a jury. There is a court of last resort regularly established and the governor of a state ought not to be placed in the position of that court in a final determination of cases.

The sympathy of the citizens of the state will be with Governor McDonald in the stand which he has taken in the last few weeks in the three cases where a great pressure for pardon or reprieve had been brought to bear.

These questions of forfeiture of liberty and property for wrong, are for the determination of the courts.

The governor should not be forced to be the final arbiter.

President Wilson seems not only to be keeping an eye on congress and its work, but his hand, as well. It is rather novel for the members of congress to be so closely superintended and directed, and it will be interesting to see if the august body submits much longer, without protest to the schoolmaster tactics of the new president.

Yet, it must be acknowledged, that so far President Wilson has held his own well, not only retaining the respect of the people at large, but the members of congress as well. By the time congress adjourns he will know pretty thoroughly what has been and what has not been done.

The news notes say that Chicago policemen are to be taught politeness. That is all well enough, but there are some other qualifications that policemen should be taught, too.

The London Family Doctor credits Americans with having the smallest feet. Of course, that has reference to those who live outside of Chicago.

AS THE BYSTANDER SEES IT

JO-JO IS DEAD.

Jo-Jo was only a dog and yet those who knew him had grown to regard him as almost human and he possessed those traits of character,—yes he really seemed to have character, and not just disposition—which would make him a welcome member of the human family.

I did not wonder much that C. S. Rawles, whose owner he was, seemed to be affected yesterday as if a human relationship had been severed. The two had been the closest of companions. They had shared the blankets out in the open in the Santa Clara canyon, when the chill nights of the approaching winter began to close in and together they had taken up the change to life in the Ancient City. They were companions, that's all, and when one has said that, it means a very great deal, for real companionship covers a wide field in life and means much.

It was accidental, the passing of Jo-Jo. He was the victim of poisoned meat, put out probably to catch the wary coyote, by those living in the neighborhood of the national cemetery, and when the accident was discovered, all the efforts of Mr. Van Nuyvenheim and Mr. Rawles proved fruitless and the faithful dog was buried on government land just outside the cemetery grounds.

Somehow, this seems just and right. Jo-Jo was not a soldier, but if he had been, he would have been a brave and faithful one, for one of his strong and lovable traits was his devotion to his friends. In some respects, he was a strange combination. He was a "scraper" when it seemed necessary to maintain his dignity and self-respect among his own kind, but his gentleness with children and his apparent affection for his friends among the grown-ups were his most striking characteristics.

All who knew Jo-Jo well, will recall his demonstrative greeting when he met those for whom he cared and the regret of his passing can be but general.

It is a pleasure to pay a word of tribute to Jo-Jo, for he possessed the qualities that really are an example worth following. He was intensely loyal, he had marked courage and he loved his friends.

Legal Dirt.

A New York youth of four years has been in court by proxy for dumping a load of dirt in Riverside Drive from a cart measuring two by three inches. The learned court in honorably discharging the accused minor declared it to be according to law and virtue for children to play with dirt.

There was a judge who combined wisdom with the human instinct.

The youngster who cannot have his wagon to clean up the road is in a mighty bad way. It is one of the delights of childhood to have a cart and what is a cart for if not to use like a big cart and convey dirt and rubbish from one place to another.

To be sure, in later life those fancies of childhood fade away before the bigger and more practical things and we regard avocations and possibilities from a very different point of view.

There is always a time in a boy's life when he wants to be an engineer or a railroad, a soldier or a policeman but later on, the glamour of these things fades and he takes up the real profession that he ever dreamed that he would, goes to the city and becomes a clerk in an office, or goes back to the farm.

But at the time when he is dreaming of the locomotive, the battlefield or the policeman's beat, is the play age, and you can't play in the house. You want the out-of-doors and the wagon and the dirt. Even Riverside Drive should not be exempt from the boy and his play, and I am glad his mother happened to be taken as his proxy before a judge who had some sense and some humanity in his make up.

WHERE IS THE LIMIT.

"Hey there, Bill! Come on down here."

The big black horse that draws the delivery wagon for the Wells-Fargo Express, stood in front of the post-office, headed up Palace avenue.

Roy Easley came out of the express office and hailed him in the words given above. Bill started with careful deliberation, turned around with studied care, and came to the door, as he was bidden, halting properly when he arrived at the desired spot.

It interested me as I saw it, and somehow my heart went out to the big, black horse, and I fell to wondering, as we so often do, just how far that intelligence in what we call the brute, really goes, anyhow.

Bill evidently understood what was said to him in this instance. He knew the meaning of the words. How much more could be taught him?

AMONG THE EDITORS

Just where is the limit of intelligence in a horse's brain?

I recall back a few weeks ago, the pony that was on exhibition at the Elks. The intelligence she showed was fairly startling. Every word said seemed to be understood. What she had been taught to do was amazing and she did it without any errors in action or in understanding. Each time when we see these things we wonder about it, and try and figure out the dividing line between what we call human intelligence and brute instinct. No one seems to have been able as yet, to determine just what it is.

I can never look at Bill again, as he plods along, drawing the express wagon, without recalling the instant answer to Roy's call, and wondering just how much the brain in the big head of Bill would comprehend, if pushed to the limit.

It is difficult to tell, isn't it?

That Pat

When a man puts you on the back he may be reaching for your pocket book with the other hand.—Springer Stockman.

Big Investment.

There are more than a thousand automobiles in New Mexico and they represent an investment of approximately two million dollars.—Gallup Independent.

Sad But True.

Strawberries in one's back yard in May is a very nice thing remarks the Houston Post, but it is just a little nearer to have the money to buy them any time.—Roswell Record.

On The Buttered Side.

There seems to be an overwhelming good crop of Democratic newspapers in Union county this year, guess they flipped when the butter side looked possible. They are all careful to state in the first issue, "We are a Democrat and always have been."—Des Moines Swastika.

It Will Be Dead.

There was an increase of twelve per cent in the exports to South American countries for the past nine months. Should this continue during the period of Mr. Wilson's conduct of affairs, free trade and protection, as an argument for the ousting of the one to the installation of the other, become a dead letter.—Rock Island Tribune.

Would Enjoy.

If we had it in our power to do it we should enjoin the Springer Stockman from using the terms "innates," "incarceration," "young criminals," and some other epithets it always applies in speaking of the boys who are pupils at the Reformatory in Springer. Words break no bones, it is true, but there is no need for harsh and ugly words in speaking of the boys who the state is striving to assist to better things.—Roy Spanish American.

A Vitriol Brick.

When a man drops a piece of meat on the floor, no difference how clean the floor may be, he will either give it a kick or pick it up and lay it to one side. He will never eat it. But let him drop his plug of tobacco on the street, and no difference how dirty the street may be, he will pick it up, give it a careless swipe on his coat sleeve or on the bosom of his pants, and then take a big chew from it with a keener relish than ever. This is the kind of vitriol brick man is.—Socorro Chieftain.

It is Proposal interest. It doesn't matter to the senators and congressmen from Louisiana—by fiction Democrats—that only a small percent of our population is engaged in the production of sugar, while every body consumes it, they insist on a high tariff rate for their product. No higher principle is controlling them than that governing the Pennsylvania Republicans who insist on a high rate of duty for the steel and iron products of the Keystone state. In fact, it appears that the Pennsylvanians are entitled to a greater degree of charity, and they are certainly more consistent.—Carrizozo News.

A Civilizer.

It is wonderful what a civilizing effect the purchase of an automobile has on a man. Some months ago there was an effort made to have Lordsburg incorporated, which was fiercely opposed by various citizens. Since then one of the strongest opponents of incorporation has bought a motor car, and this week he said that because the streets were covered with tin cans, broken bottles and other trash he had become converted to incorporation and would help in an effort to have the town incorporated and the streets cleaned up. After a few more motor cars come to town it is probable there will be enough conversions to incorporation to insure its being carried. Speed the day.—Lordsburg Liberal.

A GIRL'S GHOST DUG A FLOWER FROM THE YARD

Atlantic City, May 19.—"She dug up a flower," "She dug up a flower," cried one of the little Adams girls as she ran in the house this afternoon. In a moment the small yard back of the house was filled with timid yet curious persons.

In a small corner of the yard there is a plot used for flowers in summer, but there are none there now. However, the earth in one spot was disturbed as though it had been turned over with a shovel. For a third time the strange appearance of Jane Adams' ghost disturbed the entire neighborhood, and now the mysterious affair is talked of in whispers by the people of the west side.

So serious is the affair growing that one of the members of the Society of Psychic Research is expected to investigate, if the strange manifestations continue.

Since the tragic death of Jane Adams, it is said the family has always been troubled with strange occurrences and appearance, but it is only lately, since they moved into the house between Caspian and Hammock avenues, that the ghostly happenings have become so frequent.

Little Lena, who, the neighbors say, declared she saw the uncanny apparition appear this afternoon in the yard and bend over the flower bed, is positive that it is the ghost of her dead sister. Two others reached the yard there was a sense of an supernatural being, except the strange disorder in the ground.

Chilly and brushing by the members of the family are frequent occurrences. On the second appearance of the supposed spirit of the dead girl, she seemed to pass right through the wood doors, in two closets of a room on the second floor.

The reason given for the girl appearing only coming back to earth is that she wants justice done and her murders punished. The mystery of how the girl met death has never been solved. It is a tragedy happened more than 100 years ago on one of the piers here. William Seyler, who was acquitted of murdering the girl, declared the girl accidently fell over the guard railing.

TAPE WORM TALE SHOWS QUACKERY

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 19.—A tale that has the entire medical department of the university "going" is the following which Dr. A. S. Warthin says details the most scientific piece of quackery he has ever run across, and which Dr. V. C. Vaughn, dean of the department says is the worst he ever heard.

The tale is the story. A wealthy woman in the east kept taking on flesh despite all efforts to avoid it. She dieted, and she exercised, and she walked, and instead of reducing in flesh she gained right along. One day a friend told of a specialist on flesh reduction who was having wonderful success, and the lady decided to go to him and put herself under his treatment. She did not consult her husband, because he had never had much patience with her in her worries over her weight.

She found the specialist in an elegantly furnished office. The doctor himself was most gentlemanly, and looked the part of a scientist and a scholar. He explained to her that she might expect certain disagreeable symptoms after taking his medicine, and that these symptoms might continue for some time, but that there would be no permanent effects from these treatments, except that of a loss of flesh. He told her he gave but a little medicine; in fact, but two rather small capsules, one of which she was to take at night, the second one in the morning. She paid him $500, and was to pay a like amount when she had reduced a certain amount in weight. When she was about to take the capsule, she decided to tell her husband about it.

The husband said at one: "This medicine he has given you must be powerful to reduce your flesh to the amount promised with only two doses. I am willing that you should take treatment and will pay the price—provided there is nothing in these capsules that would work any permanent injury to you. I'll take them to a chemist tomorrow and have them analyzed. If they are harmless you can pay the fee over again and get some more."

The chemist next day analyzed the capsules and found the live head of a tapeworm in each.

The "specialist," it is comforting to add, is now serving a term in the prison of an eastern state.

NEWS OF THE STATE

Into Barbed Wire.

Mannuel Archuleta met with a serious injury while riding horseback Sunday. He was riding beside a barbed wire fence and his horse shied against the wire cutting his leg below the knee to the bone on the barbs, and causing a wound requiring several stitches to close. He is at home under Dr. Self's care and we hope he will soon but out again.—Roy Spanish-American.

Big Shipment.

One of the finest shipments of cattle made from this section passed through Artesia Monday en route for Kansas City. They were sold by Colonel Williams of this city to M. P. Moody, and brought thirty-two fifty per head, this being the highest price yet paid for yearlings in the Pecos valley. Mr. Moody expects to return about the twenty-fifth of May with a car load of bulls.—Artesia Advocate.

Girl Poisoned.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCallister, of this city, have been in Las Vegas this week, called there on account of the poisoning of their daughter, Miss Ada, who is a student of the Normal University.

It is a case of ptomaine poisoning caused by eating fudge candy. From last reports the young lady was out of danger and on the way to recovery, while she had a narrow escape from death.—Springer Stockman.

They Got Him.

On Monday night a horse belonging to Will Good, living at Wildorado, was stolen by a young man by the name of Jim McAllister, who passed through Hondo about a week ago with a bunch of mules and horses with a man going to Amarillo.

Tuesday afternoon McAllister rode the stolen horse to this place and put it in the feed yard, intending, he says, to go to Tucuman by rail. In a few hours a deputy sheriff from Oldham county, Texas, and the owner of the horse came in on the train, and yesterday morning the deputy sheriff returned to Texas with his prisoner and Mr. Good rode his horse back home.—Hondo Enterprise.

Under Suspicion.

E. C. Daniels and Martin John Fox were arrested by Chief of Police Ben Cole on the charge of drunkenness and disorder. This morning, when brought before Judge D. R. Murray, the men were assessed $10 each, which included the fine and costs of the case. Jose Martinez, who was arrested last Tuesday on suspicion of being a man wanted for murder, is still being held by the officers until word is received from Raton, where the crime was committed. Martinez fits the description that was sent from Raton and not until something definite is done by the officers of that city will he be released. An officer from Raton is expected to arrive here soon to identify the man.—Las Vegas Optic.

Gone Out Of Business.

The cattle buyers of the country seem to have gone out of business. At the time of the cattle men's convention in El Paso there was plenty of buyers, who were offering $29. The cattle men in this vicinity concluded that $30 was the proper price, and would not sell. Then came congress and the tariff bill, putting cattle and meat on the free list, and the buyers do not know where they stand and do not want to buy. It is coming the time of the year when the cattle men want to get the stock off the range, and get the money in their pockets, but there is no one to buy. Occasionally you will hear a good Democratic cattle man make remarks about the tariff bill that would not be considered orthodox either in a political convention or a prayer meeting.—Lordsburg Liberal.

Better Look Out.

Word has just been received from the district attorney demanding from the school officials a list of all parents who are failing to comply with the school law in sending their children to school. The law says children from 7 to 14 years of age, living within three miles of town, must be sent to school every day till the close of the term. No excuse is made for parents who keep their children out of school for work or send them off to work on somebody's ranch, or keep them at home, or let them stay at home, just because they want to do so. A complete list will be sent in and all violations will be taken before the grand jury. This means a fine of $5 to $25 and costs. If your children are out of school they should be sent at once if you do not wish your name on the list. This means you.—Wagon Mound Pantagraph.

Big New Project.

The rapid reclamation of 100,000 acres of fertile land in the Estancia valley east of this city and of 20,000 acres above the gravity irrigation level along the Rio Grande north of here is in sight as the result of the issuing by the state engineer yesterday of a water permit to the State Light and Power company to generate hydro electric power at White Rock canyon in the Rio Grande, forty-five miles north of here.

This company is the one promoting the long planned White Rock canyon dam, at one of the most favorable waterpower sites in the state. It will cost, when complete, $350,000 and furnish some 5,000 electric horsepower for transmission for a radius of over a hundred miles. Cheap power means the installation of pumping plants in the Estancia valley and along the bench lands of the Rio Grande for irrigation.

The project when carried through will solve the problem of making the Estancia valley in particular, one of the finest agricultural sections of the state, as it is underlain with an inexhaustible water supply at shallow depths. What can be done on the bench lands of the Rio Grande with irrigation pumping has been amply demonstrated right around this city. The chief men interested in the project are Colonel John Borradaile, of this city; Charles M. Lang, electrical engineer of Salt Lake City; and J. H. Vaughn, of Santa Fe.—Estancia News-Herald.

New Mexico Interested.

Ex-Governor Otero of this state is said to be one of the promoters in the new oil field near Denver, Colo. Aurora, a suburb of that city, is thought to be right over an oil basin and leases of land adjacent are being extensively sought by parties who have faith in the outcome. Indications are not wanting in a section covering many miles around Denver, Morrison and Boulder in the foot hills and as far out on the plains as Vankin, where a number of years ago coal was sought by boring and two veins were cut, but the quality was such as not to warrant its development. About six months ago parties tried to revive interest in sinking for oil and gas, but nothing came of it at that time. Recently other parties took up the matter till now the agitation has become such something is likely to result of a beneficial nature.—Rock Island Tribune.

HUERTA WILL GO FOR BETTER MAN SAYS A COLONEL

Artesia, N. M., May 19.—Colonel Rafael Yturralde of the Mexican federal army, has returned to his home in Artesia after campaigning in Mexico for nearly a year; returned to remain, disgusted and disheartened over the status of affairs in his native land. He is a very intelligent, educated man. Yturralde and some associates left here during Orozco's revolution in Chihuahua, joining that leader, and the Artesia man was at once given command of considerable number of troops. The New Mexicans went to Old Mexico through intense patriotism, believing that Orozco was fighting for home and country—but after a few months campaigning with him it became patent to all that it was another "graffiti" enterprise in which innocent patriots were the pawns. Then Yturralde and his friends stole away in a body and joined Huerta against Orozco, the Colonel and following believing that it were better to be true to the government. He was given as good command with Huerta as with Orozco, and remained in the federal army until just a week or so ago; when, in complete disgust, he and his followers got through the lines at Juarez and ran to their homes. Yturralde says:

"There will soon be a change in Mexico—Huerta will be some man having the good sense to lead the people at the head of a revolution. He will be a man who will do no more than to state the facts and let the people decide. He will be a man who will encourage their growth. Soon La Salle's schools are to be found in every important diocese of France.

"Not being able to satisfy the demands for Brothers, he conceived the design of establishing training schools for lay teachers. The clergy sent him virtuous and intelligent young men, whom La Salle received and trained in his new methods of teaching. This school was opened in 1681.

LA SALLE, GREAT EDUCATOR, IS REMEMBERED HERE TODAY

Today at Old San Miguel church the feast of St. John Baptist de La Salle is being celebrated, the church being open also to the public during the entire day. This morning solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Richard Estroff, chaplain, at which 16 scholars of St. Michael's college received their first holy communion. The church was packed to the doors, a large percentage of those in attendance being visitors. The old chapel presented an animated appearance.

This evening at 6 o'clock the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be given.

Who He Was.

The following history of La Salle's life work was written for the New Mexican by a Santa Fean who has studied his career:

"John Baptist de La Salle, founder of the Brothers of the Christian Schools, was born at Rheims, France, April 30, 1651. His father, a fervent Christian, was chancellor of state to the king of France and president of the high court of Rheims. His mother was equally noble and pious. From his childhood, grace reigned in young La Salle, and inspired him with the most affectionate piety; his sweetest joys were found at the foot of the altar. While still very young he was sent to the university school of his native city, where his progress in study was very rapid. At the age of eleven he received the clerical tonsure, at sixteen he was named Canon of the cathedral of Rheims, and at nineteen he completed his course in philosophy and was graduated from the University of Rheims.

"In order to pursue his theological studies he was sent to the Seminary of St. Pulchre, where he received his licentiate in theology, and was ordained to the priesthood on Easter eve, 1678. Still he did not discontinue his studies, but consecrated more time to prayer and study by prolonging his labors into the night. When but thirty years of age he brilliantly and eloquently defended his thesis before the faculty of Rheims and received the Doctor's cap. All biographers of St. La Salle have noted his deep intellectual culture, which is his conspicuous trait among educational reformers and founders of religious institutes. Speaking of St. La Salle as a student at the University of Rheims, Abel Gaveau said: 'His purity of body gave untold brilliancy to his mind, enabling him to seize upon and appreciate the nicest distinctions in controverted questions, the choicest thoughts in literature, and the pivotal points in historical studies.'

"He Opens Schools. In 1681, La Salle opened his first schools. Their success was beyond his fondest hopes. The uniformity of method and discipline strikes the people with admiration. The fame of the schools spreads far and wide. Enlightened men favor them and zealous men encourage their growth. Soon La Salle's schools are to be found in every important diocese of France.

"Not being able to satisfy the demands for Brothers, he conceived the design of establishing training schools for lay teachers. The clergy sent him virtuous and intelligent young men, whom La Salle received and trained in his new methods of teaching. This school was opened in 1681.

FIRST CONVICT THEN ACQUIT

Columbus, O., May 19.—As a result of a mistake on the part of the jury, Oscar H. Orman, a west side undertaker, was found both guilty and not guilty today of larceny. When the jury first reported it handed the clerk a verdict of guilty. The verdict, however, did not contain the amount of money Orman was alleged to have stolen from the body of a west side flood victim.

The court ordered the jury to the jury room for the purpose of writing this into the verdict. When it reported the second time a verdict of not guilty was announced.

"The process of the canonization of Saint La Salle was begun by Pope Gregory XIV, continued by Pius IX, and completed by Leo XIII, on May 24th of the Roman Jubilee year, 1900. Never in the history of the church was the ceremony of a saint's canonization attended with such world wide interest and fervor as was that of Saint La Salle.

"From the remotest corners of the earth flocked innumerable friends and patrons of the order to pay their tribute of affectionate homage to the great teacher-saint, by assisting at this, the rarest and most solemn of the ceremonies of the holy church. Christian oratory in many tongues proclaimed his sublime virtues, and Christian art spared not her best gifts, but laid them with reverence at the feet of the newly crowned saint."

Harms Studnets

More Than Most Anyone Else.

The Chief of the Presbyterian Hospital in New York, Dr. Fisher, tells one very easy way to avoid some physical ills.

His comments on

are most interesting (see letter in southeast corner).

If the subject appeals to you, try leaving off coffee and tea entirely, use Instant Postum and carefully note, day by day, the return to health and strength.

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more, and some people who like strong things, put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level, teaspoonful in a cup of hot water.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

SPEAKS OUT.

Dr. C. Irving Fisher, for a quarter century at the head of New York's great Presbyterian Hospital, says in the New York Times of March 23, 1913:

"Coffee poisoning is becoming constantly more common in this country, especially among students, whom it harms more than it would harm almost anybody else.

"Coffee intoxication does not lead to wife beating, but its physiological effects upon some of its victims are almost as bad as those of alcoholic poisoning.

"We continually find at the various clinics signs of the harm done by the excessive use of tea and coffee among children.

"Surely this is quite preventable. Children not infrequently appear whose nervous and digestive systems have been wrecked by these two beverages."

OFFICIAL NEWS.

Governor's Proclamation.
From the dawn of history until to-day men have rendered grateful admiration to the memory of those who had risked or nobly laid down their lives for what they believed to be the honor and safety of their fellowmen.

Pericles once said: "The whole earth is the sepulcher of illustrious men;" and Edward Everett continued, "All time, he might have added, is the millennium of their glory."

The day which has been set apart for honoring the memory of the dead and paying tribute to those who still survive from the struggles where they risked all for their country, will soon be here.

Now, therefore, I, William C. McDonald, governor of the state of New Mexico, do hereby designate and appoint, Friday, May 30th, 1913, as Memorial Day, in the state of New Mexico.

I recommend that all of our people cease from labor on that day except such as may be absolutely necessary, and that they join in such demonstration as may be practicable in the various localities with the usual exercises and ceremonies suitable for the occasion.

By these annually recurring memorial exercises we typify the beautiful ideas of a memory kept ever green in the minds and the blossoms of gratitude and hope blooming in the hearts of a great free people.

Done at the executive office this 17th day of May, 1913.

Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the state of New Mexico.

WILLIAM C. McDONALD.

ANTONIO LUCERO,

Rock Island Hasn't Filed Articles.
The corporation commission has asked the attorney general to give his opinion on the matter of compelling the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company to comply with the provisions and statutes of New Mexico, and to file articles of incorporation, in a like manner that other foreign corporations have done and are required to do. It is claimed by the corporation commission that the road in question has not complied with the provisions of the law. An examination of the files in the office of the corporation commission, that body claim, reveals no articles of incorporation or other papers concerning that company. It was found that the "Chicago, Rock Island and El Paso" road filed its original articles of incorporation as a domestic corporation in the year 1900, to maintain a line from a point of connection with a railroad known as the "Chicago, Rock Island & New Mexico Railroad company" on the boundary line between Texas and this (then) territory, through Union, San Miguel, and Guadalupe counties to a point of connection with the Chicago, Rock Island and El Paso road in the last named county, near the Pecos river. Among other things in these articles of incorporation the capital stock was named at $2,000,000. These articles were amended in 1902, increasing the capital stock to $4,000,000 and amended in 1903 still further, increasing the stock to $7,500,000. The records also show that this company was sued and the case dismissed in 1907, for delinquency in filing annual reports. The costs were not paid until 1910 and annual reports filed at that time for the delinquency years running back to 1905 and up to and including 1909. In 1911 this company filed a statement of suspension of business. The fees this company paid for filing articles of incorporation were $215, evidently based on the laws of 1890.

The state corporation commission also finds that in 1903 articles of incorporation were also filed for the "Chicago, Rock Island & Choctaw Railroad company," a domestic corporation, providing for a road beginning at Tucumcari, on the main line of the Chicago, Rock Island & El Paso, extending easterly through Guadalupe county to the boundary of Texas, and so on to connect with the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Texas Railroad. The capital stock was $1,500,000, and only $40,000 actually subscribed. Articles were filed in 1903, and a fee of $140 based on the 1899 laws was paid to the state. The state corporation commission fails to find that this road, which is still doing business, has ever made any reports of its business since, as provided by law.

In the recently filed report of the Chicago, Rock Island & El Paso road it appears that the railroad was incorporated in 1900, "together with a branch line of railway extending from Tucumcari, N. M., easterly to New Mexico-Texas boundary line." This report also states that:

"The road property and franchises of this corporation (the C. R. I. & El Paso Railroad) were sold to the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company on January 1, 1911."

The annual statement referred to reflects that the last named company, the big through line and foreign corporation, is the controlling corporation of the two lines of railroad above referred to, constructed by a domestic corporation and also reflects that this same foreign railroad owns 100 per cent of the capital stock of these domestic roads.

There is no record on file to show that the Choctaw road ever passed to the control, by sale or otherwise, to either the big main line or to the one with the word El Paso attached to it. There has been no suspension of business filed with the state corporation commission. The commission in its letter to the attorney general concludes:

"We are convinced that the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company should be required to file with this department a certified copy of its articles of incorporation and to be subjected thereby to the same requirements and liabilities as other foreign corporations. It is evident from the statement above quoted, from their annual report recently filed with this commission, and from the certificate of the suspension of business of the Chicago, Rock Island & El Paso Railroad company that all these corporations have been consolidated under the name of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company, although there is no certificate filed with this department indicating that this has been done."

The corporation commission further says that it is of the opinion that the law of 1903 is still in force and is the law that will govern the entry of the big concern for the purpose of doing a railroad business, and it asks the attorney general to take the matter up, with a view to compelling the said railroad to comply with the provisions of the statutes in a like manner to that of other foreign corporations, and advise the commission what action he would recommend.

Fallacy of Insurance Co.'s Arguments.
The conclusion of Attorney General Clancy's opinion, given in the matter of the payment of the tax of two per cent of the gross amount of premiums of insurance companies and which brought up the controversy as to whether or not "returned premiums" mentioned in the statute can be construed to cover what are called "dividends" is fully as important and interesting as the first part which was printed in Saturday's New Mexican.

It will be remembered that Mr. Clancy reviewed the contentions made by two of the companies, and it is somewhat amusing to the layman to note that every company that has written on the subjects has a different reason for trying to dodge their taxes.

In addition to what Mr. Clancy said, that part of his opinion as published Saturday it is worth noticing how he further answered Mr. Jones, of the Northwestern Mutual. He says:

"The language used in one place in Mr. Jones' letter is quite significant: 'The word dividend' used in connection with a mutual life insurance company does not in any sense indicate a profit, but has reference strictly to savings from the company's mortality experience, expense of management and interest earnings.'

"It is difficult to see how anyone can contend that savings from the mortality experience, savings from expense of management and from interest earnings, are no indication of a profit on the business of the company. If a person, in any kind of business, can reduce his expenses $1000 a year while continuing to do the same amount of business, he clearly adds that $1000 to his annual profit; and if he loans money and collects interest upon such loans, they are part of the earnings of his business and should, in part at least, figure in the profits. The policy holder is getting merely his share of the profits in the form of these dividends."

"The letter from the vice-president of the Aetna Life Insurance company takes up an entirely different point. He insists that the tax should be paid only on premiums received by his company within the state. In other words, if the premiums are received by his company at its office in Hartford, Conn., although the premiums come from policy holders in New Mexico, no tax can be collected. The language of our statute upon which this argument is based is that which requires 'each company, annually, to pay to the superintendent of insurance two per centum of the gross amount of premiums received, less returned premiums within the territory, during the year ending the previous 31st day of December.' If the position taken by Mr. English can be sustained, it would be possible for every foreign insurance company doing business in New Mexico, so to arrange its business that it would pay no tax whatever upon premiums received. The legislative intent is plain that a tax shall be paid and no construction of the statute can be permissible by means of which that intent could be wholly defeated. The construction contended for on behalf of this company is of a very narrow and petty character, and one of the same kind could be made in answer thereto by asserting that the words 'within this territory' have no reference back to the verb 'received,' but can refer only to the returned premiums. This is quite as good an argument as the one suggested by Mr. English in his letter. The reasonable construction, however, is that premiums received in New Mexico mean the premiums which are paid upon policies of insurance, whether on lives or property, which are carried within the state."

"I return to you herewith the several letters from Messrs. McIntosh, Jones and English."

Educational News.
Alvin N. White, superintendent of public instruction has returned from Albuquerque, where he has been on school matters. The superintendent has made arrangements to have the board of teachers' examiners meet in this city, to be here several weeks, between July 1 and August 15, for the purpose of passing upon the several applications for teaching throughout the state for positions as teachers in the public schools. The board that will make their summer home for that purpose consists of: Prof. J. H. Dowden, Raton; Superintendent J. H. Wagner, already here, of the Santa Fe schools, and Miss Nancy Hewett, principal of the Albuquerque high school. All applications to teach will be graded by this board.

Superintendent White will attend the commencement exercises in Santa Fe this week.

To Hear Boundary Case.
Attorney General Frank W. Clancy is in El Paso where he will confer with Texas attorneys on the boundary question, and see if they can come to some agreement in the selection of some person to be appointed by the supreme court of the United States to serve as master in chancery or examiner, to take testimony and consider the claims of the states of New Mexico and Texas in the boundary dispute, so that the question can be settled at an early date.

In the Supreme Court of the State of New Mexico, January Term, A. D. 1913.

Farmers Development Company, Appellant, vs. Rayado Land & Irrigation Company, Appellee. No. 1528. Appeal from District Court, Colfax county.

Syllabus.
1. Assignments of error that "the court below erred in affirming the decision of the board of water commissioners" and that "the court below erred in rendering judgment herein in favor of said appellee, affirming the said decision of the board of water commissioners," are not sufficiently specific to present any question for review.

2. Under Chap. 49, S. L. 1907, from any act or refusal to act of the state engineer, the aggrieved party may appeal to the board of water commissioners, and may likewise appeal from the decision of said board to the district court. The statute contemplates a hearing or trial de novo before each of the order or decision of the inferior tribunal. An assignment of error, in such a proceeding, upon appeal from a judgment of the district court, that "the court below erred in finding and adjudging that the said board of water commissioners had and was possessed of the right, warrant and authority to review the discretion of the said state engineer in the matter of the approval of permits to appropriate," is therefore, not well taken, because the record in this case fails to show that the district court so held, or that any such issue was presented, or could have been involved in the case.

THE AVERY CIRCLE OPEN FOR TRAVEL

The completion of a new drive has now been consummated by Jay Turley, civil engineer, who has the work in charge, and will afford another of the many attractive roads for the people of Santa Fe and for visitors to this city. It is called the "Avery Circle."

By the Avery Circle is meant the drive starting from the plaza in Santa Fe, going out College street and following along the old Santa Fe trail, passing the residence of Bronson M. Cutting, and going about five miles to the point where the monument of the trail marks the road, placed there by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The circle then turns to the right and follows westerly along an old road that has been repaired on the border, north of the Arroyo Hondo for about a quarter of a mile, when a turn is made to the left along a new road, just constructed, that drops gently into and crosses the Arroyo Hondo on the south side, immediately above the new dam, just constructed by Mr. Turley, reference to which was made in the New Mexican some days ago. The road then follows along the south side of the Arroyo Hondo about two miles to the Santa Fe railroad tracks and the main wagon road that crosses the Arroyo Hondo near the railroad bridge, and then returns to Santa Fe.

This will make about one hour's run for automobiles and will add greatly to the pleasure of driving in and about Santa Fe. The scenery through the canyon along the Arroyo Hondo cannot be excelled, if it can be equalled, anywhere within the same distance of the capital. Some of the attractions are the two dams and lakes on this Hondo irrigation project; the old Santa Fe trail; rugged canyon scenery, with a road and canal built along the sides of it; pleasant sports for picnicking and outing parties; the Hondo Indian pueblo ruins with a spring just below the canyon; with an excellent vista from that point; a new road through the canyon that is built on easy curves and light gradients, which as soon as it is packed will be one of the finest roads in the county. Rich lands lay along this route, upon which have been and will be placed some of the finest improvements as there are to be found anywhere in this vicinity. Eames' barn can be seen as soon as one gets a mile out of Santa Fe.

It became necessary to build this road to maintain the works on the Hondo irrigation project and the present works are due to the untiring efforts of Anson A. Avery, the receiver of the old Santa Fe Improvement company, which spent $200,000 on this project.

The public is invited to avail itself of this opportunity for a fine drive near the state capital, which invitation Mr. Turley desires extended through the Santa Fe chamber of commerce and the New Mexican.

ANOTHER INVESTIGATION: THIS TIME OF A FIRE!

Washington, D. C., May 19.--A rigid investigation into the fire which imperiled the geological survey was begun today. While the loss was confined to maps and records of like character, the archives of the survey were threatened. Most of these records cannot be replaced.

The fact that the fire was the fifth in the building in less than six years also spurred the officials to make the inquiry.

All of the firemen who were overcome by smoke and gas were reported to be out of danger this morning.

PLANNING BOARD HEARS FROM HARVARD

As proof of the enormous value that there is in a little advertising which any town may do if it will, and of the further possibilities that await Santa Fe if it carries into a reality the plans that it has already made through its city planning board, it is worth noting that the chamber of commerce has received letters from some prime movers in the same field. The library of the school of landscape architecture of Harvard University at Cambridge, Massachusetts, through its librarian, Theodore Kimball writes the following letter to Santa Fe's city planning board:

"I am writing to ask you if you will be so kind as to send our library a copy of the broadside 'Plan for Proposed Improvements in Santa Fe,' and accompanying map. We are making a collection of reports on the plans of cities in the United States and desire to add your unique and interesting plan."

From the same institution James S. Pray, chairman of the school of landscape architecture writes a similar letter. George B. Ford, of the firm of George B. Post & Sons, architects, of New York city, who are also interested in city planning, have also written a letter along the same line. These letters show that even the plans for improvement have gone abroad and have been noted by outsiders, and it is worth emphasis that if Santa Fe will get busy and carry out these plans and build the improvements along the plans outlined, that it will not be long before the advertising that will come from such an undertaking will bring thousands of tourists within our borders.
