ABANDON HOPE FOR MINERS ENTOMBED AT CHERRY

Manager Declares the Ill Fated
Three Hundred All Died Almost Instant and Painless
Deaths from White Damp.

ALL EFFORTS TO REACH BODIES PROVE FUTILE

Danger That Coal May Take
Fire and Consume Corpses
Causes Mine Entrance to Be Again Sealed.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
Cherry, Ill., Nov. 16.—Troops have been called for to prevent any untoward demonstrations at the St. Paul coal mine, when the bodies of the 300 men entombed by Saturday's disaster are brought to the surface.

Sheriff Skoglund of Bureau county, with authority from State's Attorney Eckhart, telegraphed to Springfield late today, asking Governor Deneen to send several companies of state militia. So far no violence has been displayed as a result of the disaster, and State's Attorney Eckhart hopes by the presence of a small guard to prevent any ill advised movement on the part of the miners, whose feelings have been wrought up by the loss of their comrades.

"We want the troops at once; that's all there is about it. We will take no chances," declared the state's attorney.

When the bodies will be brought to the surface is doubtful. None of the officials believe any of the 300 entombed men are alive.

The subterranean fires today were more intense than when the men were entombed three days ago, and no efforts could be made to enter the mine.

Fire Chief Horan of Chicago arrived with a supply of hose and chemical fire extinguishers. The seal over the mouth of the shaft was perforated and it was intended to force water and chemicals down through pipes.

Chief Horan shook his head. "It's no use," he said. "To lift the lid today would mean that the whole mine would blaze up and there would be no possibility of recovering even the bodies. The coal deposits would take fire, the timber supports would crumble and it is terrible to picture what would happen. Perhaps another shaft would have to be dug to recover the remains of the men."

In making the rounds of the miners' homes, Duncan McDonald, president of District No. 12, United Mine Workers, discovered that a new baby had arrived at a home which lost a father and a son. The mother was kept in ignorance of the disaster.

Only the most frantic of the women who lost their husbands ventured to visit the shaft, and these, crying for loved ones, had to be taken back almost forcibly.

Frequently a puff of smoke issued from a crevice in the cover over the shaft. This was taken as an evidence of the fire raging within.

Speculation was rife as to the location of the bodies in the mine. Upon this will be determined the immediate cause of the men's death—whether it was fire, suffocation by smoke, or the falling in of parts of the mine. It is the opinion of veteran mine workers that in time of danger a miner will remain near the hoisting shaft until driven to remote parts in search of air.

If the bodies are found near the shaft it will indicate the men perished by fire. If they are found in the more distant galleries, suffocation by smoke or gas was probably the cause of death. The repeated sealing up of the mouth of the mine, necessary to stop drafts and smother the fire, was sufficient to generate enough gas to kill the men in any part of the mine. The location of the bodies will indicate about when the men died, for the noxious gas in the mine did not become fatally intense until some time after the fire was subdued.

Two hundred and fifty pine boxes in which are to be buried such of the bodies as are recovered arrived in a special train today and were stored near the mine, although this fact was carefully kept from the afflicted families.

Funerals of eight of the miners who were killed Saturday were held today. Two of these died while carrying on rescue work. Part of the shift of miners on duty at the shaft left their work to follow the processions to the cemetery.

The belief was expressed by Mine Manager Taylor that the men in the mine died soon after the disaster on Saturday. Taylor has repeatedly risked his life to get into the mine and wandered 200 feet from the main shaft and returned just in time to see the rekindled flames eating their way toward the cage—his only means of escape.

"Every man in that mine died on the day of the fire," said Taylor. "There is no reason in the world why any one should try to arouse false hopes in the minds of these poor people."

"The men in the mine are dead. They cannot be alive. To make these poor people think that when the mine is opened their loved ones will be found is cruel."

"It is a mistaken idea that the entombed miners could have hastened far out in the galleries of the mine and there found oxygen enough to keep them alive for three days. The tests in this mine showed that on the day of the fire the air current in the mine had a velocity of 600 feet a minute. The longest gallery in the mine is three-quarters of a mile. The fire in the mine was intense and the smoke and poisonous gases known to miners as white damp were whirling to every corner. No living thing could survive it. To argue that pockets might be found into which the gases did not penetrate is folly."

"The entombed men all breathed this gas. They could not escape it. Caught like rats in a trap they went to sleep just about as a person would from taking ether. It is not a painful death. I have been twice overcome by the gas but was rescued in time and recovered."

"But we all have done all in human power to get into the mine to allay the anxiety of the people. We know that all are dead who were there, but in such an emergency we have risked our own lives to satisfy the agonized relatives of the dead. This work of exploration has been dangerous business. We don't want to lose any more lives. God knows we have already lost too many."

"It is a mistake to think that sealing the shaft cuts off the circulation of air. It does not. Our anemometers have shown all along a good circulation of air in the shaft, but the damage that was fatal had been done long before the mine was sealed the first time last Saturday afternoon. In my explorations in the mine I did not dis-

CROOK CHASED TO DEATH ON DESERT

VICTIM OF SWINDLER
PROVES VENGEFUL

Indiana Man Tricked Into Purchase of Worthless Mine Stock Hounds Seller to Lonely Grave in Mexico.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 16.—Knowing that the bones of the man that swindled him out of $3,500 lie bleaching in the sands of the southern California desert, Newton A. Grabbill, a mill owner, of Danville, Ill., returned home today, after a 10,000-mile chase, and found that his creditors, believing him dead, had petitioned the Delaware county court to wind up his estate. Grabbill is 72 years old.

One day last June, Grabbill was approached at his mill by a man who said he represented a brokerage firm in Chicago. The stranger had prospectuses of a gold mine in Colorado and persuaded Grabbill that it would be a profitable investment for his savings. Grabbill gave the man $2,500 in cash and made an appointment to meet him in Indianapolis and turn over the remainder of the amount he intended to invest.

At Indianapolis, Grabbill learned that he had been tricked. Angry, he took up the trail of the swindler. First he led to St. Louis and then to Denver. From that city to New Mexico and Arizona, Grabbill followed. The confidence man knew Grabbill was on the track and he darted through the southwestern states.

At length the swindler crossed the border into Mexico with which country he evidently was familiar. Grabbill engaged a Mexican detective and the two followed the swindler into the California desert. The pursuit was Grabbill out and he stopped, but the detective pressed on. Within a few weeks, the detective returned to Grabbill and gave him proof that he had caught up with the swindler at a lonely ranch house; that they fought and that he shot the swindler dead. His body was buried in the desert.

Satisfied that in this final deal he was getting his money's worth, Grabbill paid the detective and set out for Indiana.

PATHETIC SCENES AT MINE OFFICE PAY WINDOW

Weeping Widows With Fatherless Children Receive Last Wages of Breadwinners Sacrificed in Fiery Tomb.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
Cherry, Ill., Nov. 16.—"Shoes, underclothing and quantities of women's and children's garments are urgently needed," or the families of the victims of the mine disaster. Money is necessary to take care of these poor people during the coming winter," declared E. P. Bicknell, of Washington, D. C., director of the National Red Cross society, today, after a long conference with the charity workers gathered here.

The appeal was telegraphed to various cities in surrounding states and response came that supplies soon would be on the way.

Headquarters were established here from which charity will be distributed systematically. A corps of helpers were enlisted and they started on a house to house canvass of the miners' homes. Each widow was required to give data as to her wants.

One of the reports, typical of others, as filled out by a widow read: "Name—Marie Bohm. "Victims of disaster—Husband and one son."

"Nativity—Austria. "Number of children—Four; ages: 8 months, 3, 5, and 7 years, respectively."

"Economic condition—Without funds. "Needs—Clothing and household supplies."

"Plans for future—Would like to return to Austria. "Do not speak English."

Difficulty was experienced in many of the homes because of the hysterical condition of the women. By night the workers had not completed their task, and no list giving the exact number of men entombed in the mine was obtained.

Outside of the scenes at the mouth of the mine today the most pathetic incidents occurred at the place where the heirs of the dead miners were paid off.

Mayor Charles Connelly acted as bank cashier and paymaster of the St. Paul mines. Outside the bank were the survivors of the disaster. It was the regular semi-monthly payday, of the mine and in the envelopes were the wages of the 600 men employed there—amounting to about $19,000. At the mine office, half a mile away, the employees are given their "time checks," the 4th and 16th of the month. Today the information was given out that the wives and daughters of those who were "down" would be given their cash.

Among the line of people drawn up before the pay window, were women bearing in their arms their smallest babies while other wide-eyed children toddled with them. Once in a while a woman would appear at the window whose face betrayed no sadness, because her husband was "up."

She had just been sent to the bank because he was busy at the mine. Perhaps the saddest case was that of a young bride, a native of Brittany. The girl, not more than nineteen years old, carried an infant. A native of France was called from a position in the rear of the line to act as interpreter. The woman's husband, to marry whom she came to America a year ago, was not "up," she reported.

county jail until they turned certain certificates and securities of the defunct Market Street bank to the bank receiver.

The Market Street security company was formed to rehabilitate the Market Street bank, which failed during the recent financial crisis. Some of the stockholders have been suing for a final liquidation of the accounts of the bank and it was during this litigation that the contempt proceedings arose.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
Cleveland, O., Nov. 16.—The offices of the Rex Commission company, one of the largest brokerage and commission firms in Ohio, were raided at midnight tonight by Prosecuting Attorney Cline and Sheriff Alf Hirsut, and the accounts of the local branches as well as those operated by the company in Pittsburgh, Syracuse, N. Y., Mansfield, O., and other cities were seized.

The office had been deserted a few moments before.

Officers were dispatched to the boat land and railroad stations to intercept the men wanted.

The primary charge against the men is the operation of a bucketshop and it was on this charge that Prosecutor Cline swore out the warrants.

The deals of the commission company, according to the assistants whom Cline put to work on the books immediately after the raid, amounted to millions annually.

EXPOSED BIG SWINDLE AND WANTS HIS REWARD

Former Official of Havemeyer

NEW FIGURE IN SUGAR TRUST INVESTIGATION

Edwin J. Anderson Says Nation Was Defrauded of Fifty Million Yearly at One Refinery Alone.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
New York, Nov. 16.—A new figure was introduced tonight in the investigation of frauds charged to the American Sugar Refining company when Edwin J. Anderson, a former superintendent of docks for the company and a close personal friend of the late Theodore O. Havemeyer, announced through his attorneys that he is the man referred to by James B. Reynolds, former assistant secretary of the treasury, as the one who gave the department the first specific information concerning the frauds.

Anderson has filed claims with the customs authorities for compensation, which he estimates will reach $1,000,000. For the last two years, he says, he has been furnishing evidence to the government and it was through him, he asserts, that Richard Parr, who now figures so prominently in the case, gained his commission.

Anderson absolves Mr. Reynolds of any attempt to check the investigations, declaring that the former assistant secretary was enthusiastic in his desire for prosecution. In fact, the first activity came as the result of encouragement which Mr. Reynolds gave him, he says.

Anderson says that the American Sugar Refining company requested his resignation after Mr. Havemeyer's death in 1903 on the theory that "he knew too much." He had then been in the company's employ thirty-two years.

He says he came into possession of positive proof that the government was being defrauded of at least $50,000,000 yearly at the refinery where he had been employed.

Anderson says that while his investigations were in progress he was constantly shadowed by detectives and was so far convinced that he was in danger of attack and possibly assassination that a special secret service agent was assigned to act as his bodyguard.

CUSTOM HOUSE WEIGHERS IMPLICATED IN SCANDAL

Washington, Nov. 16.—Twenty-two assistant weighers in the New York customs house are known to have been implicated in, or are under suspicion in the so-called sugar trust frauds.

This set forth in a statement tonight by Chairman Black and Messrs. McCarthy and Washburn, of the civil service commission, in charges that appointments and removals in the New York customs house were at the dictum of the trust. Their information regarding the twenty-two assistant weighers came from the New York customs house. Two of the assistant weighers were appointed without certification by the commission, the remaining twenty having been appointed by certification from 1885 to 1907.

The examination by which these assistant weighers have been chosen during the last fifteen years, says the commission have all been prepared and rated at Washington. The examinations are conducted by the local boards at New York or elsewhere.

The statement of the committee concludes: "What the commission desires to emphasize to the press is that it has used not only all of the precautions possible in the selection of its eligibles but it has left in the department unimpaired power of lifting such appointments when once made, to the bottom and exercising the power of removal at any time that the interest of the public service requires."

REBELS RESPECT AMERICAN RIGHTS

Affairs Run Smooth in Nicaragua Under Provisional Government.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Nov. 16.—(By wireless, via Colon).—The provisional government is transacting affairs in an orderly manner and all American interests are fully protected. Zelaya's troops still hold Greytown, but General Chamorro with a large force of revolutionists has a well fortified position on the beach.

Prisoners in the hands of General Chamorro say that many of the government soldiers are sick and that others are losing courage on account of the exhausting march which they made through the swamps and jungles.

REVOLUTIONISTS HAVE AMBASSADOR IN MEXICO
Mexico City, Nov. 16.—Francisco

Vigil, who has been appointed as the representative of the Nicaraguan revolutionists for the Mexican republic, said tonight that his office is diplomatic. He explained that his position was temporary, and that his appointment came from the revolutionists, representative in Washington, instead of from his chiefs in Nicaragua. Mr. Vigil said the purpose of his appointment was "to expose in Mexico the methods of the government of President Zelaya and to do away with the impression that the revolution was patronized by the United States."

REBELS INTERFERED WITH ZELAYA'S AMBITIOUS PLANS

Washington, Nov. 16.—The story of a plan of President Zelaya that went wrong, is told in a report received tonight by the Nicaraguan legation. Sometime ago, according to this report, President Zelaya chartered the Norwegian steamship Dictator, a craft of 1,000 tons at New Orleans, whence she sailed for Greytown. It was the purpose of the president to have the vessel there to meet the forces of General Salvador Toledo, take them aboard fresh from an anticipated victory over the revolutionists and convey them to Bluefields, there to attack and seize the city. This scheme, however, failed, because of the interference of the revolutionists.

Under General Chamorro, according to the report, they defeated General Toledo, attacked and destroyed the Dictator and proceeded to blockade Greytown, which, according to the advice, the revolutionists are now besieging.

Australian Breeders Find Difficulty in

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 16.—Wool sales have been postponed indefinitely as a consequence of the miners' strike. ### STIFF FIGHT IN LAND FRAUD TRIAL ON

UNION COUNTY OFFICER
UNDER SERIOUS CHARGE

George Snell Puts Up Vigorous
Defense in Las Vegas
Subordination of Perjury
Indictment.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal]

East Las Vegas, N. M., Nov. 16.—The United States district court continues to be occupied with the case of the United States vs. George Snell, charged with subordination of perjury in connection with homestead entry. The government completed the introduction of evidence for the prosecution this morning and the defense began to present its side this afternoon.

Four witnesses appeared for the government in the case and probably the same number will take the stand for the defense, including the defendant himself. The case is attracting considerable attention by the prominence of Snell, who is chief deputy sheriff of Union county. He is fighting hard to clear himself, as the charge is serious under the federal statutes. The prosecution of Snell is the result of an investigation by T. N. Empe, special agent of the general land office and who is the principal witness against the accused.

The United States grand jury was discharged. Five indictments were returned, several against Dominick Casan, a prominent sheepman of Colfax county, residing east of Ilaton. Casan is charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States government. The accused was arrested, but the trial will not take place at the present term of court.

Other true bills were returned against Hon. Kun, alias Hon. Lee, a Chinaman, indicted for bribery. The charges allege he offered $200 to Frank M. Stanley, United States immigration inspector, to secure release from custody after being arrested charged with illegal residence in the United States.

The federal term of court is expected to continue until the 23rd.

BILLION DOLLAR COMPANY TO CONDUCT BUSINESS

By Utilizing Existing Lines for Both Telegraph and Telephone Saving of Millions Annually Is Assured.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
New York, Nov. 16.—Announced in Boston and confirmed in New York, another billion-dollar merger became a reality with the practical absorption of the Western Union Telegraph company by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. The Western Union, one of the pet properties of the late Jay Gould, has been in the Gould family for a generation, and it was by the sale of Gould stock today that the merger was accomplished.

While the report has been current that the Mackay companies controlling the Postal Telegraph company ultimately would be included in the plan of reorganization, no confirmation of this could be obtained in New York. Officials of the Postal are emphatic that the company would remain independent.

Boston, Nov. 16.—A long stride toward the complete control by one corporation of all wire communication in the United States was adopted today in the acquisition by the American Telephone and Telegraph company of the control of the Western Union Telegraph company. In order to make the absorbing complete, the incorporation of a new billion-dollar company, it is said, will be necessary to include the $592,475,000 of bonds and stocks of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, known as the Bell company, and the outstanding $165,000,000 of bonds and stocks of the Western Union company.

The acquisition of the Western Union stock by the Bell company has been in progress for about six months and only a sufficient amount to insure control, said to be about 51 per cent, was taken over.

The officers of the telephone company believe that the merger will save the Bell company $75,000,000 in new construction, while it will also enable the utilization of wires for both telegraphing and telephoning.

Some of the associated corporations engaged in the telephone business, the majority of whose stock rests in the treasury of the parent concern, are: New York Telephone company, $50,000,000; New England Telephone and Telegraph company, $31,000,000; Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania, $31,150,000; New York and New Jersey Telephone company, $25,150,000; Southern Bell Telephone company, $21,400,000; Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph company, $18,000,000; Chicago Telephone company, $17,500,000; Western Telephone and Telegraph company, $16,000,000; Bell Telephone company of Canada, $12,500,000.

The telephone system annually transmits 5,956,500,000 messages, while the Western Union handles 68,053,000. The telephone system has 8,809,879 miles of wire and the Western Union 1,382,509. The total property value of the telephone company is $545,045,800, that of the Western Union $124,956,926.

A Thousand Rooters Wanted at the Varsity-Miners Game Saturday Afternoon

THE CONTEST WILL BE EXCITING AND WORTH SEEING

U. N. M. Men Making Strenuous Efforts to Have a Large Crowd Out to Witness the Battle With Socorro Miners.

The campaign started Monday by the Varsity students to secure a thousand people to attend the football game between the U. N. M. and the Miners at Traction park next Saturday afternoon, will wage in a determined manner between today and the date of the game, and if the largest crowd that has ever attended a gridiron battle in Albuquerque is not on hand at the kick-off it will not be because the proper effort was not made.

Manager Lawrence Lee of the U. N. M. eleven is directing the campaign, and is confident that there will be a larger attendance at the game Saturday than there was at the New Mexico-Arizona game last Thanksgiving day.

It is expected that the game will be one of the best of the season and the football fans will get their money's worth and a little more thrown in.

Because of their eagerness to get a game with the Agricultural eleven the Varsity men will probably play an aggressive game against the Miners, while the Socorro men will doubtless play hard, being anxious to get another chance at the Aggies for the championship.

GIRLS BASKETBALL TEAMS TO OPEN SEASON IN ARMORY THIS EVENING

U. N. M. and Y. W. C. A. Scheduled to Play Interesting Game of Popular Indoor Sport.

One of the interesting athletic events of the week will be the basketball game at the armory Friday evening between the U. N. M. girls' team and the Young Woman's Christian association team. The contest will be the first of the season and it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand to witness the game.

The Y. W. C. A. team will make its debut in Albuquerque, this being the first time that organization has ever entered into athletic events here. Both teams are composed of first class basketball players and an exciting and scientific game is looked for. The Varsity team has been practicing for three months past, while the Y. W. C. A. girls have been practicing for more than six weeks.

ALUMNI URGED TO USE INFLUENCE TO MODIFY RULES FOR FOOTBALL

New York, Nov. 16.—An appeal by alumni to their several colleges for revision of football rules was urged by Henry McCracken, chancellor of New York university, in an address to the graduate's club tonight.

Dr. McCracken said: "The Intercollegiate Athletic association will meet in this city the third day after Christmas. It is in the power of this association to introduce changes in the game. I ask graduates to write his college, first to join the athletic association, if it be not already a member, and second to send a delegate who wants mass plays abolished in football and such other changes introduced as will make the game as safe as the English rugby."

COLORADO OFFERS LAND CONTAINING NO HAVEN FOR FIGHTERS POWER SITES IS WITHDRAWN

Governor Refuses to Countenance Efforts to Pull Off Jeffries-Johnson Bout in Centennial State.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Denver, Nov. 16.—Governor John P. Shafroth stated positively today that he would not allow under any circumstances the holding of the Jeffries-Johnson bout anywhere in Colorado. Reports that a syndicate was being formed by Denver and Pueblo sport fans to bid for the fight were called to the governor's attention, and when asked what action he would take if local bidders were successful, he made the following statement: "The laws of the state of Colorado emphatically prohibit prize fighting and make punishable any violation by incarceration in the penitentiary. I can not allow any violation of the law by permitting a fight that would give Colorado the same reputation Nevada obtained a few years ago by permitting the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight."

Fast Time at San Antonio.
San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 16.—Fast time was recorded, but no records were broken today by those contesting in San Antonio's three-day automobile meet. De Hymel, in his Stoddard-Dayton, finished first in two events. In the last race De Hymel was steered into the bank, but was not injured. He entered a protest.

Tennis Expert Killed by Car.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Kremp Collins, one of the best known tennis players in this country, was killed by a street car here tonight. He was run down while crossing a street and almost instantly killed.

Collins was possibly the greatest tennis player ever produced in the west, and held the western championship in 1887, 1888, 1890, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905 and 1906.

WARRINER PLEADS NOT GUILTY; NONE GO HIS BAIL

Defaulting Treasurer of Big Four Road in Jail at Cincinnati; Woman, Alleged Accomplice, Arrested.

Cincinnati, Nov. 16.—Charles L. Warriner, former local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, is in jail tonight and a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford on a charge of receiving $1,000 of the $44,000 which Warriner is accused of having embezzled.

The warrant against Mrs. Ford was issued at 7:30 o'clock tonight upon application of Prosecutor Hunt, who has been closed the greater part of the day with Warriner. The former railroad official informed the prosecutor that he had given part of the money alleged to have been abstracted to Mrs. Ford and her payment he made was on October 7. The prosecutor acted on this information.

The accused man appeared in the afternoon at the criminal court to plead to the indictments returned yesterday by the grand jury, charging him with embezzlement and grand larceny. He entered a formal plea of not guilty and his bond was fixed at $20,000, the same amount at which it stood prior to his indictment.

The four men, however, who had come to his assistance when he was first arrested, were not in evidence to renew their pledges.

At 5 o'clock none of his friends had appeared and Warriner was taken to the county jail.

A dramatic sequel to the sensational turn in the case was enacted last night, when a half score of constables and deputies went to the handsomely furnished apartments of Mrs. Stewart-Ford and placed her under arrest. She was indignant, but after protesting was removed to the court house and subsequently placed in jail in default of bail.

That a warrant charging a Chicago man formerly in the employ of the Big Four, with being an accomplice in the alleged blackmailing of Warriner, would also be taken out in connection with the arrest of Mrs. Stewart-Ford, was rumored early this evening. Prosecutor Hunt said that no further arrests would be made tonight, and that he had prepared no affidavit asking for further warrants. He would not make a definite statement regarding the probability of other arrests.

YOUNG BANK ROBBERS PLEAD GUILTY IN COURT

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 16.—Frank Seth and Leo Nevins, youths, who robbed the Valley bank of Santa Clara on August 3, and robbed it of $7,215, pleaded guilty today and will be sentenced on Thursday.

After holding up the bank officials, the criminals fled in an automobile, but were captured and their loot was recovered.

Secretary Ballinger Takes Action to Protect People Until Congress Can Legislate on Subject.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Washington, Nov. 16.—In line with his policy of waiting for legislation affecting the disposition of public lands containing power sites and petroleum deposits, Secretary Ballinger today announced the withdrawal from settlement of lands in different parts of the west.

These include 2,682 acres along the White river, 440 acres of which, however, are embraced in pending claims; approximately 20,820 acres along the Crooked river; 6,441 acres along the middle fork of the John Day river; 2,021 acres along the north fork of the same river; and 7,810 acres along the south fork. All these withdrawals are in Oregon and are believed to contain water site possibilities.

Secretary Ballinger announced the withdrawal of 2,682 acres in California containing petroleum deposits. There are now 3,821,002 acres in this class of withdrawals. Secretary Ballinger announced today that the lands withdrawn from settlement in 1903 and 1904 in connection with that project have been restored to the public domain, with the exception of those sites thought to contain water power possibilities.

Notice is given that probably forty per cent are embraced within pending segregations and that intending settlers should bear in mind that irrigation must depend on their individual efforts or be secured through private enterprise.

BANK ROBBER STARR PLEADS GUILTY IN COLORADO

Noted Bandit, After Protesting Innocence for Months Surprises Court by Admitting the Crime.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Lamar, Colo., Nov. 16.—Henry Starr, a noted bandit, surprised a court room full of spectators here this afternoon by pleading guilty to the charge of having participated in the robbery of the bank at Amity, Colo., last spring.

Since his capture, some months ago, Starr has insisted he was innocent, and that an attempt was being made to convict him on his past record. He said he had reformed previous to the Amity robbery. No evidence was heard today.

Starr's wife and baby were in court and Mrs. Starr was heartbroken when her husband pleaded guilty.

Starr's baby was named after former President Roosevelt.

The Amity bank was held up by Starr and an accomplice named Wilson, in July, 1908. Wilson and Starr compelled Cashier John Davis to hand over $1,000, and both escaped. Wilson has never been apprehended, but Starr was captured by Sheriff Simpson of Powers county, in Arizona, some months ago.

Charged With Stabbing.
Word was received here from Lavee today that during a drunken row over a woman, Joe Florence stabbed Miguel Manzanarez in the head, making several serious wounds.

Florence is not on bond of $500. He was detained at the jail at Mora for 24 hours, awaiting the further developments in Manzanarez' condition, which is critical. Both parties are prominent among their people.

Alleged Burglar Nabbed.
Sheriff Chas. Romero of this city, received word today that Cipriano Martinez, who robbed the barber shop of W. T. Reed, a west side barber while serving as porter, had been arrested in Denver, and will be brought back, probably to be bound over to the grand jury. If indicted the case will be brought up at the next term of court.

Reservoir Project Blocked.
The San Geronimo reservoir project is going to be delayed in construction at the hands of Mr. D. M. Camfield, who recently entered into a contract with the Las Vegas grant board to construct the same.

A. A. Jones of this city, it is claimed has made prior demands on the water rights of the waters of the Gallinas and this move on the part of Jones for a time will obstruct the completion of Camfield's contract. The waters of the Gallinas are the subject of litigation and several months may ensue before a final settlement.

CONSERVATION ONLY CAN PRESERVE OUR NATION

Former Secretary Garfield Pleads for Regulation in Use of Country's National Resources.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Cincinnati, O., Nov. 16.—In an address tonight before the joint convention of the National Municipal league James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, said:

"The permanent welfare of our nation cannot be assured unless we in this generation provide for the conservation of our natural resources. Hitherto we have been needlessly wasteful. We have been too much occupied with the present, too little with the future. The inventory of our resources shows the immediate danger of their depletion or exhaustion."

"Conservation is pre-eminently a movement for the public welfare. Exactly as the railroads are regulated because they are public utilities, so must the interests that develop national resources be regulated because they deal with public interests. Unfair use or monopolization of either is intolerable."

"In Alaska the coast area of about a million acres has been held from entry pending investigation. The present laws providing for the disposition of these coal lands are not what they should be. Some improvements have been made in recent years but the rights of the public are not safeguarded. None of these lands should be disposed of until legislation is enacted which will provide a method by which the coal can be developed and as it is needed, under such regulations as will prevent speculative or monopolistic holdings by a few great interests and will yield to the nation a fair monetary return. Under a leasing system all these conditions can be readily improved."

"Congress has widely provided for the great irrigation projects that have been started but there is a great need of legislation to control the use and development of water power to the end as with other resources, the public may under a system of franchise or lease, protect its own great interests and obtain just compensation."

"The great progress that has been made through the recent years will not be stopped. The people of our country will not tolerate any backward steps. Their demand, and will see to it that their demand is heeded, that the great policy of conservation shall be one in the interests of public welfare."

At the afternoon session, A. Leo Well, of Pittsburg, who has prosecuted municipal corruption in that city, said that the greatest deterring elements in reform, campaigns are public apathy and lack of financial support.

GERMS IN HER SYSTEM.
Every Woman Should Read This Advice and the Generous Offer That Goes With It.

The number of diseases peculiar to women is such that we believe this space would hardly contain a mere mention of their names, and it is a fact that most of these diseases are of a catarrhal nature. A woman cannot be well if there is a trace of catarrh in her system.

Some women think there is no help for them. We positively declare this to be a mistaken idea. We are so sure of this that we offer to supply medicine absolutely free of all cost in every instance where it fails to give satisfaction, or does not substantiate our claims. With this understanding, no woman should hesitate to believe our honesty of purpose, or hesitate to put our claims to a test.

There is only one way to overcome catarrh. That way is through the blood. You may use all the stiffs, douches or like remedies for years without getting more than temporary relief at best. Catarrh in general is a diseased condition of the system that shows locally most frequently in discharges from mucous membranes. Local treatment should be assisted by internal treatment for the general diseased condition if a complete cure is to be reached. That internal treatment should be scientifically devised and faithfully administered.

Reckall Mucro-Tone is scientifically prepared from the prescription of an eminent physician who for thirty years made catarrh his specialty. This remedy is admirably adapted to the treatment of the catarrhal ailments of women. It purifies and enriches the blood, tends to stop mucous discharges, aids in removing impurities from the system, soothes, heals and strengthens the mucous tissues and brings about a feeling of health and strength.

We want you to try Reckall Mucro-Tone on our guarantee. If you are not benefited, or for any reason not satisfied, simply tell us and we will hand back your money. Reckall Mucro-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Reckall Remedies in Albuquerque only at our store. The Reckall Store. The J. H. O'Reilly Co.

KEEP IT IN MIND.

Don't permit yourself to forget the movement for the surveying and platting of the lands of the county. This county can never become what it ought to be till this important measure of reform is carried through to completion. And it must be kept in mind that several other measures of the highest importance to the welfare and prosperity of the county rest upon this, and cannot be even attempted till this is accomplished. As a sample, there is the good roads movement. The value of good wagon roads throughout the county, to both city and country districts, can hardly be overestimated. The people in all sections of the United States are waking up to this fact, and the "good roads" campaign is being prosecuted with vigor in all sections. But nothing can be accomplished in that line here till we find out who owns the land, and are able to make the property holders of the county all bear their proper share of the burden of government.

LIVE STOCK EXPOSITION.

The Honorable James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, in speaking of the International Live Stock exposition, which is to be held at Chicago this year from Nov. 27 to Dec. 10, said: "The International Live Stock exposition as an educational factor has carved a niche for itself. "Producers are confronted with the problem of increased cost of every commodity that they use, greatly enhancing their expenditures. "Obviously this necessitates rigid economy, and the man who reduces cost of production to a minimum insures maximum profits and his own survival where others fail. "The International is teaching its valuable lesson to the country at an opportune moment. "During the period of cheap feed and feed lot extravagance such education was not valued, because its benefits were not realized at the time. "Under new conditions, the man who produces beef, pork and mutton cannot afford the use of inferior machinery in his business. "Economy requires that he handle the very best types of the most improved breeding; and these lessons can be obtained at the International Live Stock exposition, which is acknowledged to be an educational institution of the highest order in its line."

LOOKING FORWARD TO 1912.

We reproduced in the Morning Journal of yesterday a carefully prepared article from a representative republican paper, the Philadelphia Public Ledger, upon the shape which things political may possibly take in 1912, and below we present another on the same subject from the foremost and most independent democratic journal of the northern states. Of course the whirlwind of time is likely to bring round, long before the summer of nineteen twelve, political conditions throughout the country which will send all prognostications of this date to the prophetic junk heap, but as the means of affording a between-seasons entertainment such speculations are interesting for the time being. In an editorial entitled "The Return from Elba," the New York World says:

The Tribune prints a despatch from Washington giving details of a far-reaching and shrewdly organized movement which has for its purpose the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt in the national convention of 1912.

There is such a movement. Mr. Taft's friends have known about it for months. But it is not far-reaching and it is not shrewdly organized. For the most part it is kindergarten politics played by a small coterie of Mr. Roosevelt's intimate personal friends, abetted by a handful of republican insurgents in the Middle West.

For weeks various western newspapers have been discussing the political possibilities of a theatrical Roosevelt "return from Elba," as it is frequently called. They have explained in detail how, if he were to land in San Francisco and cross the continent to New York, he "would burn up the country like a prairie fire," and nothing could prevent his re-nomination.

All the fair-haired boys of the Roosevelt Administration whose vanity has been bumped since Mr. Taft became president are yearning for the political restoration of the great faunal naturalist. The insurgents are naturally in favor of his candidacy, because it gives them a weapon to use against Mr. Taft and the administration. Mr. Roosevelt is still very popular in the West, where his cowboy methods were regarded as the supreme achievement of American statesmanship, and there is no question about the fact that the Roosevelt third-term movement is causing some of Mr. Taft's friends a great deal of anxiety. But there are a few obstacles to Mr. Roosevelt's nomination in 1912, unless the Taft administration sees fit to abdicate.

For one thing, the administration can control the southern delegates to the Republican National convention. Thirteen southern states have 282 of the 992 delegates. The eastern states are not clamoring for four years more of Roosevelt. They have already had enough. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware will have 252 delegates in the next National convention. Combined with the southern delegates, there is a total of 534, or considerably more than a majority, and the forty-six delegates from Mr. Taft's own state can be thrown in for good measure. Once upon a time a far more popular man than Theodore Roosevelt returned from a journey around the world. The republican organization was more demoralized than it is now, and the administration had a weaker hold upon the country. But all of Grant's popularity plus Roscoe Conkling's genius could not break down the barrier against a third term.

Mr. Taft is stronger than he was at the time of his inauguration and is likely to grow in strength. To be sure, if Mr. Roosevelt decided to be an open candidate for the nomination in 1912 against Mr. Taft he could split the Republican party and add much to the gaiety of nations. But we doubt if Mr. Taft is greatly worried or if he is seriously disturbed by pictures of the "return from Elba."

Possibly the president remembers that it was only a hundred days from Elba to Waterloo.

THE IMPERIAL PARTNERSHIP.

Reports from Ottawa state that the Canadian parliament is face to face with the fact that the "imperial partnership" has brought the dominion to the parting of the ways, where it must choose between the policy of peace under which Canada has thus far lived and flourished, and the burdensome and oppressive naval expansion policy of the mother-country.

The second session of the eleventh parliament, which opened last week, promises to be epoch making. It will determine whether Canada shall take upon its vigorous young shoulders the military burdens of what literate peers call "the imperial partnership."

All signs point to the beginning of a Canadian navy, for the Laurier government has committed itself, after full agreement with the British admiralty, to the construction of cruisers and torpedo craft, always with the understanding that this force shall be under the absolute control of the dominion parliament.

Measured by dreadnaught standards, the government proposals are modest if minute, but nevertheless it is a beginning which the premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, with strict party discipline, in a declaration can put through. But first there must be a debate, a discussion which will disclose a many-sided Canada.

FOR GOOD ROADS.

A speedway for automobiles through the Arkansas valley from Hutchinson to the Colorado line, touching Hartford, Cimarron, Ingalls, Garden City, Lakin, Syracuse and all intermediate points, is one of the big projects in road building that is being planned in southwestern Kansas. It will be the nucleus around which the wholesale improvement of Southwestern Kansas roads will be undertaken, and will be valuable for all sorts of horse-drawn vehicles, as well as for autos.

THE LAND OF SUNSHINE.

We have just experienced one of our usual Albuquerque "storms"—a few clouds, a little wind, a gentle baptism of dust, and then the all-abounding blue sky, and the personal sunshine again, with an atmosphere that braces and invigorates as though freshly evolved from the laboratory of the gods.

SURRENDERED TO TIME.

Goldwin Smith, the writer of world-wide reputation, who has been the dean of Canadian journalism for more than a generation, has retired from active service at the age of seventy-three. The fact is thus announced by the Toronto Sun, which has for years been the official organ of his utterances.

"Mr. Goldwin Smith wishes us to state," says the Sun, "that old age requires him to retire from journalism. Anonymous articles therefore are no longer to be ascribed to his pen." Mr. Smith's last letter scores the British foreign office, on the ground that it is ambitious for the cause and justification of war, and asks if Canada can trust it.

A SEVERE ATTACK.

A lebanonist at Wichita, Kansas, has "got it bad." The state of Kansas has made itself notorious as a breeding ground for all sorts of follies, frenks and fads, but here is a sample that breaks the record. A special from Wichita tells the story as follows:

"Because he was convinced at a revival meeting that it was wrong to use tobacco, and decided that if it was wrong to use the weed it must be wrong to sell it, S. N. Brees, a Murlock avenue merchant, today made a bonfire of his cigars and tobacco."

"People who noticed a strong odor of burning tobacco early this morning traced the smell to the yard back of Mr. Brees' store, where they watched him heaping boxes of cigars on the flames. Occasionally he would cast in a cask of chewing tobacco or a carton of smoking tobacco. When nothing remained but ashes Mr. Brees remarked:

"Well, I've won that battle with the devil."

"Then he returned to his store. The crowd followed him and a prayer service was held."

TEN MILLIONS FOR SCHOOLS.

The New York board of education, at its meeting last Friday appropriated three and a-half million dollars for new school buildings. This, together with other appropriations made during the past month, will make ten million dollars to be used by the board for the erection of new school houses the coming year, for the accommodation of a hundred and fifty thousand pupils.

THE ART OF BOILING DOWN.

This is the day of the paragraph. History is turned out in tabloid form for popular assimilation. Sense and common sense are most enjoyed in paragraph, and the people clamor for public speeches built on vital, meaty paragraphs. The idea is such a favorite now that ministers, who want to please, instruct and, incidentally, to save are sermonizing in paragraphs of slight duration. Public speakers try to make a hit within the fifteen-minute limit, and heroes in plays make love epigrammatically. If life is an epigram, as some wise man would have us believe, the talk of life cannot be made short enough. In America, where we never have time, it is well to be amused, entertained, instructed, sermonized and saved within a ten-minute space. Otherwise we would miss these essentials, and what would become of us?—Jacksonville Times-Union.

THAT REMINDS US.

There is a good reminder for some of our own folks in the following which we find in the New York Herald under the head of "Time to Plant Trees."

Few things add more to the beauty of a city than fine trees. New Haven owes much of her fame to her beautiful elm. Baltimore's trees are famous. Much of the glory of Boston's suburbs is due to tree shaded highways.

Nearer home thoughtful real estate men appreciate the "pulling power" of trees in selling or renting realty, and show their appreciation in a practical way by planting trees on new promotions.

Just as soon as Maryland women want the ballot they will get it. It is merely a question of "ask and ye shall receive," says the Baltimore American, and the same can be said of the women in every other state in the Union—but they are not likely to want it as long as their sex is put to shame by the conduct of howling derelicts in petticoats over the sea.

A piece of business property on the corner of Main and Twelfth streets, Kansas City, was leased, a few days ago, according to the Journal, for the term of one hundred and nine years, for a consideration of three million dollars.

The Wisconsin Teachers' association frowns upon the singing of "What's the use of Moonlight if There's No One Round to Love" as a school song. "Honey Boy" and "The Good Old Summer Time" fared no better. Probably "Harrison" was favored as a substitute.

According to an English critic not the common people but the "high-brows" will support the new theatre of New York. Possibly he is not aware that the highbrows in this country are so numerous that the other sort constitute the minority.

Little Side Talks With the Editors

Good String.

The report is now that we will be offered statehood, with a string to it—we must adopt a suitable constitution.—Carrizozo News.

Oh, Murder!

The president seems to fear that New Mexico, if given statehood, will adopt a constitution like Oklahoma, and he can't stand for that. Our fear, if we are ever given the opportunity of framing a constitution, is that it will not be half as good as Oklahoma's.—Carrizozo News.

Oh, Much Better.

A prominent clergyman says that the world is getting better, then comes the news that McCarthy has been elected at San Francisco and that Hickey Dink and Bath House John are still on the job and that Gam Shoe Booby has been appointed chief of police in one of our large cities. Truly, the world is getting better.—Winslow Mail.

Believes Him Honest.

The resignation of Gov. George Curry has been received at Washington, same to take effect on Feb. 1st. Thus he will soon be relieved of one of the most difficult tasks that ever burdened an honest man, for we believe Curry is honest. A man like Hagerman should be his successor. He should have full and complete authority and no attention should be paid to the host of a gang of political grafters whom he would soon dispossess. A complete clean-out must be made of these grafters, of both parties, and it will take a man of iron will and much courage, and in whom the powers that be at Washington repose their utmost confidence, to do the work. New Mexico wishes to be released from these grafters. We hope to again see the day when a man like Hagerman occupies the gubernatorial chair.—Axtell Index.

Another View.

(Springer Stockman).

The Stockman is very sorry to hear of the resignation of Governor George Curry, and we have a number of reasons why we feel so. His resignation leaves the territory in a dangerous position, making it possible for the old gang of grafters to dictate his successor, who would be a man of their stripe and ready to do their bidding. Our present executive has exhibited both honesty and ability in the discharge of his duties, and during the time he has held the position he has been governor in every sense. The position has not hurt him a bit, he is the same George Curry that was when he punched cows on the range in Colfax county in the early eighties, and he is the sort of a man we would like to see as his successor, plain, outspoken, fearless, kind and one and the same among his fellow-men. George Curry has enemies, who of us that have lived in New Mexico any number of years, and exhibited any activity in public affairs, has not? To say that a person has no enemies is saying that they have never accomplished anything. Many people in this territory will regret the retirement of George Curry, and they hope that a man possessed of the backbone he has exhibited will be appointed.

A SUCCESSOR TO JUDGE MILLS

(Colfax County Stockman).

The present term of Chief Justice Wm. J. Mills of New Mexico will expire next January. The position is appointive by the president. Already petitions have been circulated over the Fourth Judicial district in which Judge Mills presides as associate justice, the counties of San Miguel, Mora, Colfax and Union, asking the president to appoint him for another term. These petitions have been pretty generally signed by members of the bar and the business men, and will be forwarded to President Taft in time for his consideration before the expiration of Judge Mills' term. The judge, however, has some opposition, which is naturally supposed, when we consider the length of time he has served on the bench in this district, but it is not believed that opposition is bitter or radical to any serious degree.

If there is a determined opposition to Judge Mills, it grew out of the action of the supreme court in appointing the new judicial district last summer when Raton was a contestant against Socorro, the latter being successful. There is said to be a soreness at Raton over the affair, so much so that many people do not take kindly to the reappointment of Judge Mills.

It is said there are a number of candidates who are working quietly to secure the appointment, aided by eastern influences that are close to the president, and there is a probability that one of them may succeed Judge Mills on the bench.

The matter from this on will be watched with interest.

What's Doing all Over the Great Southwest

ROSSELL PEOPLE WATER CASES ARE COMPLAIN OF HIGH RATES OF INTEREST IN DISTRICT COURT

Commercial Club Committee Appointed to Curb Alleged Extortion by Wells-Fargo in Pecos Valley.

(By Morning Journal Special Lensed Wire) Roswell, N. M., Nov. 16.—At a meeting of the Roswell commercial club last night a committee was appointed to get evidence as to alleged excessive express rates charged in the Pecos Valley of New Mexico by the Wells-Fargo Express company. It is alleged express rates were based originally on railroad rates, and that the latter have been modified but that the express rates have remained unchanged. The committee appealed to the interstate commerce commission.

GENEROUS RAIN IS REAL BLESSING TO ST. VRAIN FARMERS

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) St. Vrain, N. M., Nov. 14.—The rain which began falling Friday night about 9 o'clock, and which continued practically throughout the night as a moderate shower, throughout this section of the country, comes as a great blessing to the wheat growers in this vicinity. J. L. Hines, postmaster here, and also a prominent farmer and a strict adherent to the scientific methods of dry farming, has an acreage of something near three quarter-sections, and the rains will mean much to at least a great portion of his crop, which has suffered somewhat during the unusually dry fall. Mr. Hines bought the seed which was sown on this ground from a near neighbor last year, who raised nearly twenty bushels to the acre on first year land, and he also bought a great deal of seed wheat from others near at threshing time last year before the rain in the price of this staple. "I felt that the best investment I could make," said Mr. Hines, "was this one in seed wheat. It has cost me a great deal to get in this large acreage, considering that I have had to hire all labor, but I believe will be well rewarded for my undertaking, which was considered at the time a little risky. "This rain will revive my fields and I hope for a good crop now. If we can only have a snow or two this winter, to keep the crop in a living condition until the spring rains."

IRRIGATION PROJECTS WAITING ON DECISION

Long Civil Docket in San Juan County; Electric Light Plant Being Rushed; Railroad Surveyors Busy.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Aztec, N. M., Nov. 15.—District court is grinding away on a long civil docket this week. The criminal cases are few and of minor importance. Chief in point of interest are the cases coming up on appeal from the territorial board of water commissioners and territorial engineer affecting appropriations of water from the several streams of San Juan county. It is upon the decisions of these cases that one or more irrigation projects are waiting.

The death of one of the pioneers of this county occurred this week at Cedar Hill, when George A. Tinker answered the last summons. He had been prominent in the county's development for more than twenty years and held the respect and esteem of all. Funeral services were held under the auspices of the Aztec Odd Fellows, of which the deceased was an honored member.

Work is now being rushed by the Eden Canal, Land and Power company on the new electric light plant, and it is the intention to have lights ready for service by January 1 next. The big generator, wire and other machinery has arrived here. The plant will be run by water power.

Surveyors for the Arizona and Colorado railroad are now running a line through the Meadows country to the coal fields on upper La Plata. The survey crosses the San Juan river between Kirtland and Fruitland, and arrangements are now said to be under way to establish a good town at this river crossing. Important irrigation and manufacturing developments are waiting this new southern railroad outlet.

Zero Weather in Utah. Salt Lake, Nov. 16.—A temperature of six degrees below zero, the coldest yet reported from any point in the country, was registered last night at Modena, Utah, in the southwestern end of the state.

Big Undertakings by Forest Service in the Southwest

PASTURE SYSTEM OF RAISING SHEEP IS A SUCCESS MAY FLOAT TIMBER DOWN BLUE RIVER IN ARIZONA

Forest Service Expert Investigating Conditions in New Mexico With View of Establishing Experimental Year-Round Forage Station.

Mr. J. T. Jardine, who is in charge of the field investigations now being made by the United States forest service in connection with the experiments inaugurated in co-operation with the bureau of plant industry in 1907, to investigate the economic possibility of handling sheep in pastures enclosed by coyote proof fencing, arrived in the city yesterday and will remain in the Third district for some time looking over areas on the various national forests with a view to the possible selection for a year round pasture to make further study of the pasture system.

Extensive experiments have been conducted under Mr. Jardine's direction in different parts of the west and the results obtained have been surprising to the most experienced sheep growers.

The aim of the work is to aid in bringing about a method, or methods, of handling sheep on grazing lands that will result in the most economic utilization of the forage crop and at the same time result in better returns for the sheepmen by producing better sheep with less loss and less expense for handling.

The experimental work has been carried on very successfully in north-eastern Oregon, on an area of 2,500 acres enclosed by a woven wire fence designed to be coyote-proof. In 1908 a band of ewes and lambs were turned loose within the summer grazing season and their actions carefully studied. In 1909 a similar test was made and in addition supplementary data was collected on lambing ewes in pasture as compared with lambing on the open range. The results obtained in each case have been very satisfactory.

Not one coyote has gone through the fence during the three seasons of test. In 1908 the loss from the pastured sheep was one-half of one per cent; in 1909 the loss was less than one-fifth of one per cent—four head out of a band of 2,150 head. The loss from outside bands near the pasture for the same period each season was from two per cent to three per cent. The lambs from the pastured bunch each season were eight pounds heavier than the best lambs of the same class from bands herded on range near the enclosure. Each season these results have been obtained on two-thirds the acreage of range per sheep that was used by the bands that were herded. A conservative estimate for the increase in carrying capacity due to the pasture system over general methods of herding in large bands is from thirty per cent to fifty per cent, the variation being due to the difference in herding. It is also known that by good care and careful handling the wool clip can be increased from one to three pounds.

In 1909 a band of 600 ewes were lambing on approximately 325 acres of open yellow pine range, at a total cost of $25 for labor—the work of one man one-half of each day for one month. The ewes were grade ewes in ages varying from two years to ten years. The lambs marked at three weeks of age was 95 per cent of the total number of ewes.

Aside from the experimental data, careful study is being made of the prevalent systems of handling sheep on the open range. It is hoped that the results secured in pasture will encourage the sheepmen to work toward more careful handling, allowing the sheep all the freedom possible by herding coyotes away rather than "massing" the sheep together for protection; and, further, by camping with the sheep where possible rather than expending their flesh and energy by trailing them to and from camp each day.

MOUNTAIN STREAM MAY BE USED FOR GOOD PURPOSE

Two Billion Feet of Timber to Be Made Accessible as Result of Work Contemplated by United States Forest Service.

The Blue river, in northern Arizona, may be prepared for the driving of logs from the Gila, Datil and Apache forests in New Mexico and Arizona, providing the plan is thought to be sufficiently feasible and not too expensive by the Third district United States forest service officials, who have been investigating for some time past various schemes to make accessible some 2,000,000,000 feet of fine timber on the above named forests. This large amount of timber, together with great quantities of cordwood, is at present entirely inaccessible. In order to get the timber to a market the government will either be compelled to construct a road, which it is estimated will cost in the neighborhood of $250,000, or prepare the Blue river for the driving of logs. The road would necessitate a fifteen per cent grade in places, and the great cost of construction, the short season during which it could be operated and the high cost of maintenance will probably result in a decision not to build the highway. The cost of preparing the Blue river for log driving would be approximately $15,000.

It seems rather strange to speak of river driving as a means of logging in the southwest, but although the surrounding country is arid, the mountain regions in the southwest are often well watered and the Blue river has an exceptionally large and steady flow.

It is planned by either method to bring the timber down to the mining town of Clifton, which annually needs about 15,000,000 feet in the development of the important mines located near there. There would also be a large surplus of timber for the open market.

Government officials are investigating this matter very fully, since there are many points to be decided before deciding in favor of the road or of driving the streams. River driving is at best uncertain, but it has the advantage of securing a fuller utilization of material than would be possible with the expense of hauling on a road.

An interesting sidelight on this undertaking is the possibility of developing the pulp industry from the immense quantities of aspen and spruce which are available and which otherwise would find practically no market.

Lumbermen throughout this region and users of timber generally are greatly interested in the outcome.

HOLINESS COLLEGE PLANS TEN BIG BUILDINGS

FIRST UNDER WAY NOW AT LA LANDE

Eastern New Mexico Town to Be Made Important Educational Center in the Southwest.

(Staff Correspondence.)

La Lande, N. M., Nov. 15.—The Southwestern Holiness college upon whose buildings construction work has begun here is to be one of the important institutions of its kind in the southwest and is to make La Lande one of the leading educational centers of this section. The public at large does not realize the magnitude of this enterprise here nor the organization which is behind it. The location of this college here means a great deal for the territory and La Lande citizens are deserving of the greatest credit for the enterprising manner in which they secured the institution.

The headquarters of this institution are at Louisville, Ky., with seats of publication at Chicago and Boston. The concern publishes twenty-five weekly periodicals and a number of monthlies and quarterlies with a circulation of something like 50,000. The largest college maintained by the organization is at Meridian, Miss., a $200,000 institution with more than 1,000 pupils. Three large colleges are maintained in Texas and there are a number of others scattered over the country the institutions being non-denominational or inter-denominational.

When the organization was casting about for a site for the New Mexico college, La Lande donated 450 acres adjoining the town, twenty acres of which has been sold to bona fide residents and prospective builders. Ten large college buildings are planned so it may easily be seen that the securing of the college is a great thing for La Lande and for the territory. The first building, a dormitory and administration building, is now well under construction, and will be a handsome structure, four stories high, 40 by 70 feet in dimensions, built of stone and cement. The other buildings which will be erected one after the other will be of the same style of architecture, modern and substantial with all improvements, including a hall of music and girls' dormitory. The whole great university—for that is what it will be—will cost at least $150,000. The money is ready for the construction of all the buildings now planned and they will go up as the institution grows and more room and equipment is necessary.

La Lande Growing Town of Plains Country.

La Lande is one of the most promising and promising towns of the eastern New Mexico plains country. It now has a population of over 300. It will more than double in the next year. The great Union Lake project which will reclaim 71,000 acres of land is a mile from La Lande.

La Lande has five general stores, two hardware stores, one drug store, a barber shop, two real estate offices, a commission merchant's office, a lumber yard, meat market, two hotels, feed store, and a beautiful modern railway station for the Santa Fe. La Lande, it is needless to state, is situated on the Helen cutoff of the Santa Fe and occupies a prominent position in the list of the growing, hustling cutoff towns. La Lande is 70 miles west of Clovis and just 200 miles from Albuquerque.

There are homesteads in plenty hereabouts waiting for the homeseekers who are coming in daily, and there are 15,000 acres of territorial school lands north of La Lande and a large body of territorial lands set apart for reclamation under the Carey act.

La Lande is surrounded by fine farming land, has good railroad facilities, plenty of business opportunities and in short, offers every inducement owned by a flourishing new town is a fast settling new country.

Corn, oats, wheat, alfalfa, milo maize, beans, peas, alfalfa, most grains and small fruit crops, apple, pear and grapes grow well.

Soil ranges in depth from 2 to 10 and 15 feet, and in consistency from firm clay through loam to sand. Kaffir corn, milo maize and millet produce from 1 to 2 tons per acre and Indian corn from 25 to 40 bushels. The climate is specially suited to apples, grapes, truck, poultry and stock raising. Government reports for five years give rain fall to be from 20 to 25 inches, most of it falling during crop season, from June to September. This is the driest year for 15 to 20 years and yet where properly cultivated crops have succeeded. Less work is required here on crops and therefore time is left for mental and moral improvement. Good, soft water is to be had in abundance at from 20 to 15 feet. In La Lande it is near the greater depth named, which insures freedom from fevers, and on nearby farms where fewer people live, it approaches the lesser depth, thus giving an ideal situation.

The altitude is 4,200 feet above sea level, is free from malaria, is a cure in early stages for lung, bronchial, throat, nasal, liver troubles. It is claimed never to have failed to relieve asthma.

Both the above gentlemen in starting were inclined to treat the matter of hardships lightly, but both are now convinced that the party who reaches the Pinnacle mountains will have an extremely hard task.

BOLD EXPLORERS ARE BACK FROM UNKNOWN

Hardy Arizona Men Seek in Vain for Fabulous Treasure in Midst of Desert Waste of Mexico.

Charlie Meadows and Line Rider Miles Archibald returned yesterday from northern Mexico, or rather what is known as the "Land of the Unknown," says the Yuma Sun. For years there has been a story handed down from one old-timer to another of a lost mission and untold thousands in gold bars in the Pinnacle mountains about 150 miles, or perhaps 100 miles south of Yuma, and also of a lake which was said to exist in the middle of a barren desert waste, and fed by springs which spring from the desert itself.

With a wagon and three good horses, and plenty of water and provisions, the two mentioned above left Yuma with a full determination to penetrate that part of the desert lying between the Colorado river and the Pinnacle mountains.

This is known on the map as the Great American Desert, and lies partly in Mexico and partly in the United States.

By the Indians of Old Mexico it is spoken of as the "Great Unknown."

Many an explorer or intrepid prospector has seen it from afar, but no one, so far as known, has so much as penetrated the vast waste and returned alive. It is a land of moving sand hills, mirages and reptiles. The object of the two Yuma explorers was to locate, it possible, La-guna Pietra, or Black Lake (mentioned above and to make that a headquarters from which to reach the Pinnacle mountains, and, if possible, locate the lost mission and its buried treasure.

Many thousand dollars have been spent by Yuma parties in searching for this lost mission, and one party in Yuma is said to possess a map of the mission, showing where the treasure is buried. This party has at various times sent out searching parties but the vast expanse of desert between the lake and the mountains has so far proved impassable.

After much privation and hardship, Messrs. Archibald and Meadows found the lake, fed from numerous springs, from a half mile wide to a mile long.

Around the edge is a fertile border of luxuriant grasses and mesquite trees, and hundreds of ducks are at present making the lake their home.

Both the above gentlemen in starting were inclined to treat the matter of hardships lightly, but both are now convinced that the party who reaches the Pinnacle mountains will have an extremely hard task.

NICE LITTLE FUSS IN RANKS OF UNTERRIFIED OVER IN CURRY COUNTY

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Clovis, N. M., Nov. 14.—When the Clovis precinct convention is called to meet next Friday afternoon, for the purpose of electing democratic precinct committeemen, it is likely that something lively is going to develop. The first work of the various committees throughout Curry county will be to elect a county chairman for the democrats, and Temporary Chairman C. R. Worrall, who was named by Territorial Chairman Fitch, soon after the formation of the new county, is going to make a strenuous effort, he says, to land the job again, while his opponents here seem equally determined that this plum shall go to some one older in the service of New Mexico democracy.

It has already leaked out here that the two divisions of the party—those who are for and those who are against the methods of Judge Worrall—are at work very hard in an effort to control the convention, which is called to meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms next Friday afternoon, in hopes that enough strength can be gathered to win their respective caucuses. Dozens of letters have been pouring in upon Chairman Fitch from prominent democrats of the county, compelling upon him to select another man to continue the organization of the party in the new county, and on the other hand a number of the staunch friends of the judge have taken an active part to see that no change is made. It is no longer any secret that the party is becoming somewhat divided here. Which division is the stronger will likely not be known until after the meeting here next Friday.

Answer This Question

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge the world to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the famous woman's remedy for woman's ills. Unless it is a very good medicine and the claims made for it are honest, such a record would have been impossible—fraud or misrepresentations would long ago have been detected and the business gone into oblivion. Read this unsolicited letter:—

Melbourne, Iowa:—"I suffered for many years with female troubles, inflammation, and bearing-down pains, so that I was unable to do my work."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and I am so thankful for the great good it has done me. I feel that I am a living advertisement for this medicine as I have influenced so many of my friends to use it, so thankful am I that it restored me to health."—Mrs. Clara Watermann, R. D. 1, Melbourne, Iowa.

When a woman like Mrs. Watermann is generous enough to write such a letter as the above for publication, she should at least be given credit for a sincere desire to help other suffering women. For we assure you there is no other reason why she should court such publicity.

We say it in all sincerity and friendship—try this medicine.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

BANKER BILKED BY FAKE HORSE RACE

Victim of Maybray Gang Describes How He Was Separated from $30,000 by Clever Swindlers.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Council Bluffs, Ia., Nov. 16.—The first story of a Maybray victim on the witness stand was told today in the district court, when T. W. Ballew, of Princeton, Mo., told how he was swindled out of $30,000 on October 14, 1908, in this city on a fake horse race. Ballew was the first witness called for the state in the trial of John R. Dobbs, who is alleged to have led Ballew into the Maybray game. Ballew is a banker, merchant and lumberman. He testified that thirteen years ago he owned fifteen lumber yards in northern Missouri and southern Iowa. Ballew's testimony occupied the entire day. On direct examination he told of his meeting with W. H. Martin in Princeton, and a subsequent meeting with Martin and Dobbs in Kansas City, when they laid before him the scheme to beat a supposed gang of Pittsburg millionaires on a horse race. He told how he came to Council Bluffs and secured $30,000 in drafts from two Omaha banks and bet first the money of Martin and George Wilson, the supposed secretary of the millionaires, and then his own money on a race which ended in a fiasco and in the collapse of one of the riders.

AFRICAN MINES MAY SUPPLY WORLD WITH COPPER

French Writer in Mexico City Warns Public Against Proposed Monopoly of Red Metal.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Mexico City, Nov. 16.—Le Courrier du Mexique, a French paper, referring to the proposed copper combine says:

"The public should keep on guard. If the present owners of the big copper mines which are now being operated feel the necessity of transferring their rights just on the eve of an expected rise in the price of the first industrial metal, they certainly must have excellent reasons for so doing."

An expert financier, well acquainted in high financial circles in France and who later came to Mexico on a special mission, received the following notice before his departure from Paris:

"The copper region of the Congo will before long be connected with the Cape-to-Cairo railroad by a line 1,200 kilometers long."

The fact that it was decided to spend a great sum of money to build the line indicates the importance of that copper region in which the material is abundant. When the proposed road is built the facilities for exploitation and shipment will be so great that no mines operated at present can compete with that region.

A meeting of the Democratic Territorial Central committee will be held in the Commercial club today, beginning at 10 a. m., which will be attended by a considerable number of the committee's personnel from various parts of the territory. "We are going to take up chiefly detail matters of organization," said Secretary Summers Burkhardt last night. "The meeting was hastily called when it was found that Mr. Bryan was to be in the city, as it was expected he could arrange to stay over and attend the meeting. His engagement at Winslow, however, being imperative this has been found impossible. There are various matters of committee business which have to be attended to, however. ## LABOR FEDERATION MAY WAGE WAR ON STEEL TRUST

Assessment Levied to Provide Funds for Fighting Strikes in Plants of Great Corporation.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Toronto, Ont., Nov. 16.—Congressional investigation of the steel industry, as it relates to labor, was endorsed today by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

It was decided to petition congress to appoint a special committee to investigate the methods employed by all great corporations engaged in the steel business and if it found that the tariff is being used to maintain corporation profits rather than to improve general industrial conditions, the federation will recommend that the tariff on steel be suspended.

The council was also authorized to levy assessments when necessary to provide for assisting in strikes against the United States steel corporation. It was decided to designate the Sunday preceding labor day as labor Sunday and to request the churches of America to consider labor questions on that day.

STATE COMMISSIONERS JEALOUS OF POWERS

Washington Convention Endorses Increase of Power for Interstate Commerce Commission After Warm Fight.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Because of the contention of many members that an attempt was being made to limit the power of state railway commissions, an acrimonious discussion marked the opening of the annual convention of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners here today. The discussion arose over the recommendation of a committee that the convention endorse the proposed federal law giving the interstate commerce commission authority to prescribe uniformly in classification for interstate traffic and urging state commissioners to make exceptions sparingly. Commissioner Gotthoff, of Ohio, contended that those who voted for the report bound themselves to nearly 600,000 square miles, there are but 452 miles of wagon road, 397 of steel road and 253 of improved trail. A few railroads have been built, but the total present mileage is little more than 300 miles, and parts of this are out of repair and not in use. About fifty miles of track were laid in 1908. The steamboat service is being gradually improved, military telegraphs, wireless stations and long-distance telephones are helping the industry, but these facilities must be regarded as adjuncts to a good system of railways.

Mr. Brooks' paper gives a general discussion of mining conditions, costs and methods, and the mineral land laws, and outlines the operations in the different fields, some of which are treated in detail by other writers in this volume.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) New York, Nov. 16.—Captain Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the Northwest passage, who arrived here today from Copenhagen, explained that his visit to America was to fit out an oceanographic expedition for the Norwegian government.

"The expedition would start," he said, "from Christiansand, in Nansen's old ship, the Fram, next July, and would probably cruise for five years. The first year would be spent in the southern portion of the north Atlantic, studying the currents, temperatures, the ocean bottom and sea life. Then the Fram will be navigated around the horn to the Pacific, fitting out in San Francisco, probably for an Arctic trip.

"We plan to leave San Francisco," said Captain Amundsen, "in July, 1911, with fourteen men, to push through the Behring strait as far north as we can; then to freeze in the ice and drift with it. Its general direction is north and we may pass close to the pole."

The Territorial Democratic Central committee will meet in Albuquerque today to consider matters of importance to the party organization in New Mexico. The call for the meeting was telegraphed broadcast through the territory Monday, when it was learned that William J. Bryan would lecture in Albuquerque.

It was hoped that Mr. Bryan would find it possible to remain here today and attend the meeting of the central committee. Owing to the fact that Mr. Bryan is scheduled to lecture in Winslow tonight, it was impossible for him to stay over. Many members of the committee arrived from various parts of the territory yesterday morning and evening and heard Mr. Bryan lecture at the armory last night.

Quite a delegation of Pecos valley Democrats arrived at midnight last night and an informal reception was held in the Alvarado hotel, at which Mr. Bryan was the center of interest.

Among the Democrats of the eastern tier of counties who reached here last night and will be much in evidence at today's meeting were: E. R. Hart, mayor of Clovis; Dr. J. P. Scott, Judge H. D. Terrill, C. A. Scheuch, county commissioner, and C. R. Werrall, all of Clovis; Judge W. R. McGill of La Jara; a Democratic wheel horse of Roosevelt county, and Prof. J. E. THOUGHT HIS WIFE A SUICIDE; TRIED TO HIDE CRIME

Ingenious Defense of Doctor Clemenson on Trial in Chicago for Uxoricide.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Chicago, Nov. 16.—"I thought my wife had committed suicide and wondered how I could hide the shame."

Dr. Haldane Clemenson, on trial as the murderer of his wife, thus testified in his case today.

"About 5 o'clock that morning I awoke," he said, "I had a feeling of nausea and looked at my wife. I touched her. She was cold and did not answer. I arose, rushed to the bathroom and quickly returned. I saw a 6-ounce bottle on the chair beside the bed. Also a cloth."

The witness said he tried to make it look like a burglar's deed, in order to escape the disgrace of suicide in the family.

"To this end," he continued, "I scattered everything in the house in disorder, and hid some things I wished to make believe were stolen."

The men were working on the foundation of the trestle abutment, when the earth thirty feet above them suddenly caved in, burying the men. Rescue work was immediately begun, but a second cave-in caught a number of the rescuing party. These latter, however, were soon brought to the surface.

A Religious Author's Statement.
 Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy. J. H. O'Reilly & Co."
