A wedding of much interest to many Albuquerque people occurred at Los Pinos Rancho, Ariz., near Holbrook, last Wednesday evening, when Miss May Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott, prominent in northern Arizona, became the bride of Mr. William Woodworth Chadwick, a well known young Albuquerque business man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Ault of Winslow. The bride was elegantly gowned in chiffon over ivory satin and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Scott was attended by her sister, Miss Maud, who wore a delicate rose pompadour mesaline. The groom was attended by his brother, Charles Chadwick. An elaborate banquet followed the wedding ceremony. The Scott home was artistically decorated in honor of the occasion. California roses and orange blossoms being picturesquely entwined with mountain ferns and autumn berries.

CAREFUL DOCTOR.
Prescribed Change of Food Instead of Drugs.
It takes considerable courage for a doctor to deliberately prescribe only food for a despairing patient, instead of resorting to the usual list of medicines.

There are some truly scientific physicians among the present generation who recognize and treat conditions as they are, and should be treated regardless of the stigma to their pockets. Here's an instance:
"Four years ago I was taken with severe gastritis and nothing would stay on my stomach, so that I was on the verge of starvation."
"I heard of a doctor who had a summer cottage near me—a specialist from New York, and as a last hope sent for him."
"After he examined me carefully he advised me to try a small quantity of Grape-Nuts at first, then as my stomach became stronger to eat more. I kept at it and gradually got so I could eat and digest three teaspoonfuls. Then I began to have color in my face, memory became clear, where before everything seemed a blank. My limbs got stronger and I could walk. So I steadily recovered."
"Now after a year on Grape-Nuts I weigh 123 pounds. My people were surprised at the way I grew fleshy and strong on this food."

THINGS GOING IN GOOD SHAPE FOR MINSTREL SHOW

Another Snappy Rehearsal for the Big Elks' Doings Which Held the Boards at the Playhouse Wednesday Evening.

There have been shows and shows given by Albuquerque lodge No. 461, B. P. O. E., including everything from a burlesque to a comic opera production, but if a rehearsal for a minstrel show can be taken as any indication the minstrel performance scheduled to be staged under the auspices of the Elks' next Wednesday evening will be the most successful thing in that line ever attempted by the anted ones.

With a snap and dash that is characteristic of him, Joe Bren last night put his big cast of seventy-five black-face artists through the maneuvers and details which will be one of the big features of the show. The songs and music, which of course will be the main part of the program, were some over until the singers knew the words and the music by rote, and he it down in a way that was surprising even to the most optimistic member of the arrangement committee which witnessed the drill.

Every man who will take part in the play was on the stage last evening, from the interloper to the left and man. Lamont will play fullback on one side of the stage, but will not be permitted to sing. "And I remember the music and the flavor it gave to her beer."

Announcement as to the advance seat sale will be made probably Monday and it is safe to say that standing room will be selling fast before Wednesday morning.

Group is most prevalent during the cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them. Sold by all druggists.

WOMAN STABBED BY JEALOUS CRAZED HUSBAND

Florencia Rodriguez in County Jail on Serious Charge; Wife Lies Near Death From Knife Wound.

Florencia Rodriguez, returning to her home in San Jose, south of town, about midnight last night, found her wife with a male companion. Indignant, Florencia chased the partner of his life's love and sorrow out into the street. The cries of the woman attracted the attention of Deputy Sheriff Trujillo, who lives in the neighborhood, and the officer made a hurried run to the scene of hostilities. After placing Rodriguez under arrest, the deputy discovered that the woman had been stabbed and was suffering from what appeared to be a serious knife wound in the abdomen. The couple were immediately brought to the city. Rodriguez was placed in the county jail and his wife placed under care of a physician, who this morning was not willing to venture an opinion as to the seriousness of the woman's injuries. The identity of the gay Lothario whose late visit was responsible for the affair could not be learned.

A sneak thief, armed with a rat-tail file, sawed off a padlock which fastened a glass cabinet in front of Joe Noh's general merchandise store, at 121 South First street, shortly after 10 o'clock last night, and stole a watchbox valued at $24, a ring valued at $10 and other cheaper articles of jewelry. The matter was reported to the police, who made a search for the thief, but as a description of the man was lacking the watch was unable to obtain any clues last night.

RARE OPPORTUNITY FOR CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS

Extension of Kempenich Retiring Sale Brings Beautiful Gift Goods Within Reach of Everyone.

The good old Christmas time is now only a few weeks distant and Christmas shoppers are beginning to bestir themselves vigorously. Buyers of yule tide gifts have rarely had a more favorable opportunity in this city than is offered by L. Kempenich this week. Mr. Kempenich, whose retiring sale has proven such a popular event for the past few weeks, intended to finish the sale yesterday but finds he has so much stock left on hand that he has extended the sale until Monday, when he will be able to dispose of the goods. Now this stock includes a splendid assortment of choice Christmas goods, received since the beginning of the sale and which have just been unpacked. In spite of the fact that they are brand new these goods will have to be sacrificed along with the rest to close out the stock. They will be placed on sale Monday morning and the sale promises to develop into a genuine rush for the "gift goods" are beautiful and varied. And they will really go for absolute cents on the dollar of the original selling price. It is a magnificent chance to purchase some beautiful little token for father or mother or sister or brother or best girl at the merry Christmas season and you will be doing yourself a real injustice if you don't run around to Kempenich's today and get your pick before the stock is thinned out. WHITE HOUSE IS MADE BIGGER TO FIT MR. TAFT

NEW QUARTERS HAVE UNUSUAL APPEARANCE

Postmaster General Appoints Commission to Look Into
Cincinnati Vacuum Tube
Proposition.

Morning Journal Bureau,
613 Munsey Building,
Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.

The executive offices of the White house have been enlarged, renovated and greatly improved, and made ready for President Taft upon his return from his "swing around the circle" of states and territories. To public men and others accustomed to frequent the White house offices the new quarters have a strange look. Only the main entrance and the room set apart for the press have been renovated. The former entrance into Secretary Carpenter's room has given way for a corridor leading toward the new addition. The old and new portion of the office building is marked by a wide corridor extending east and west, from which entrance is had into the offices of the president and of Secretary Carpenter, the cabinet room and the congressional and public waiting rooms. The floor of this corridor, as are those of the entire building, is of hard wood, highly polished, upon which rugs have been thrown, while potted plants and palms have been used for decorative purposes.

Off the end of the corridor and facing the state, war and navy building, is the office of Secretary Carpenter. This is connected with the president's room by a short passage way. Both are finished in light green and white, the coverings of the walls throughout being burlap. This white and green, together with the brilliant gilt of the electric fixtures and the polished mahogany furniture of the president's private office produce a very pleasing effect upon the eye. The desk is the same the president had in his former office, and is that used by Mr. Roosevelt. The large sofas and easy chairs are upholstered in Caribou leather from the Philippines, and the hard wood of the parquet floor is likewise a product of the islands over which, as governor, Mr. Taft served. There is much more space in this office than in the president's former room, and in addition he has been provided with an anteroom, small but comfortable, and neatly finished in dark red. The main office of the president is furnished much after the famous blue room of the White house proper. From this anteroom entrance is had into the new cabinet room.

In both the president's office and the cabinet room there is an entrance from the main corridor. Across the way at the end of this corridor, where the former cabinet room was located, a congressional waiting room has been provided. This, like the public waiting room adjoining, is decorated in dark green.

The furnishings of the congressional room are mahogany and those of the general waiting room green mission cabinet woodwork. There also is an entrance into each of these apartments from the general assembly room, through which all visitors must pass. The end of the old cabinet room facing the White house grounds on the north is now occupied by Mr. Latta, the executive clerk, who bears the president's message to congress. The main working force of the White house staff will remain in the large room at the west end of the building, which has been but slightly enlarged by the addition of a special room for the accommodation of the telegraph and telephone office.

Postmaster General Hitchcock today appointed a commission to consider the proposal of the Universal Pneumatic Transit company to construct vacuum tubes between the general postoffice and the Union station at Cincinnati, Ohio. The committee will begin the investigation at once and report to the postmaster general what action would be feasible and desirable.

The commission is composed as follows: Mr. E. N. Morgan, postmaster at New York; Mr. D. A. Campbell, postmaster at Chicago, Ill.; Mr. E. C. Mansfield, postmaster at Boston, Mass.; Mr. R. L. Ashurst, postmaster at Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. George H. Roberts, postmaster at Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. T. A. Atkins, postmaster at St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. C. M. Reed, superintendent division of railway adjustments; Mr. V. L. Bradley, superintendent of railway mail service, New York, N. Y.; Mr. J. M. Masten, assistant superintendent of railway mail service, and Mr. E. M. Norris, assistant superintendent of salaries and allowances.

The members of the special committee appointed by Postmaster General Hitchcock to investigate the registry system have gone to Baltimore and New York, where they will examine experiments which are being carried on similar to those being made in the Washington city postoffice. The experiments are being made with a view of reducing the cost of operation without, in any way, impairing the efficiency of the registry system.

It is believed from the experiments that have been made to date that the registered package envelop can be eliminated entirely, as well as many other intermediary recordings, and improve the method of delivery of registered letters and packages by carriers to the addressee. With but slight changes, to meet local conditions, it is believed that the methods being experimented with can be made applicable to all offices.

The members of this committee are: Charles H. McBride, assistant superintendent railway mail service, New York; George L. Wood, assistant superintendent division of salaries and allowances, and Henry D. Temple, assistant superintendent division of registered mail.

IMMENSE AREA OF STANDING TIMBER IN SOUTHWEST

Few People Realize the Magnitude of Conservation Work Being Carried on West of Mississippi by Forest Service.

That comparatively few people are aware of the fact that there are approximately fifty billion feet of standing timber in the southwest, conservatively estimated to be worth one hundred million dollars, was the interesting statement made yesterday by Mr. A. C. Ringland, district forester, in charge of the conservation work being carried on by the United States forest service in the southwest. "The average person does not realize how vast the area and how large the amount of timber which is entrusted to the administration of the forest service," said Mr. Ringland. "Statistics are dry things," continued Mr. Ringland, "but occasionally they are interesting, especially when they show the large amount of timber there is in the southwest, a region which in the popular mind is a total desert. True, this timber is far removed from the railroad and consequently the casual traveler sees little or nothing of it.

"Almost all the higher mountain ranges are well timbered, and besides being of incalculable value as a source of wood and lumber to the local communities throughout the southwest, and even for shipment to distant points, the wooded mountain regions serve the important purpose of acting like a gigantic sponge which conserves the moisture and furnishes a constant supply of water for the various irrigation projects, large and small, dependent upon it.

"The best estimates show that in the southwest there is a stand of approximately 50,000,000,000 feet of timber, having a value of not less than $100,000,000 at a conservative appraisal. With the growing scarcity of forests and the increasing need for all classes of timber, this natural resource is becoming more valuable every day."

The official year closed June 30, and the figures show that during the year (ending June 30, 1909) nearly 22,000,000 feet of timber were sold from the various national forests in the southwest, representing a value of $1,500. This represents the timber which was used by commercial enterprises. Besides this, a very large amount was given away to settlers and others under free use permits. The total amount of timber so disposed of amounts to over 15,000,000 feet, board measure, with a value close to $20,000, showing how greatly forest conservation helps the home builder in assuring him a perpetual supply of timber for his own needs.

There are twenty-three national forests in the south and southwest, of these nine are in Arizona, nine in New Mexico, one in Oklahoma, two in Arkansas and two in Florida. The latter have just been placed under administration.

considered perhaps the most important phase of forest conservation. To lengthen the life of wood will lessen the drain on the forests and consequently postpone the exhaustion of the country's timber supply. In speaking of the progress and the value of the work, W. F. Sherfesse in a new bulletin published by the United States forest service says: "Not only does the preservative treatment of timber bring about a direct saving to the individual timber user, but the general adoption of such measures means a very great saving to the timber resources of the nation as a whole. At the present rate of consumption the exhaustion of the supply of the better class of structural timbers in the United States is a thing of the very near future. Even the cost of fence posts is becoming an ever-increasing burden upon the farmer and stockman.

"The principal agents which destroy structural timber are decay, fire, insects, marine borers and mechanical abrasion. Of these, the first is far more important than all the others put together. It is well known that the quality of timber in general use is deteriorating each year, so much so in many respects as to cause a complete revision in the specifications for grading it. This is due chiefly to the partial exhaustion of the better grades, which has forced the utilization of the poorer qualities. This deterioration in quality naturally results in a decreased length of life, which in turn compels a larger annual cut of timber.

ten billion board feet of structural timber is destroyed each year in the United States, and of this amount nearly eight billion, or eighty-one per cent, is due to decay. That much of this timber can be saved by proper methods can readily be shown. If all the timber were treated which it is practicable to treat, and which could be treated at a profit, nearly six billion feet, board measure, or over sixty per cent, could be saved. This saving would represent the annual growth on twenty million acres of well stocked timber land.

"Wood preservation, while important in its broad national aspect, is of direct personal importance to every user of timber which is exposed to decay or insect attack, for by lessening the cost of maintaining his fences, his telephone line or his track, it means a direct saving in dollars and cents."

SHORTEST LINE HAS FIVE MILES

One Station Agent and One Engine Crew for Washington Line; Total Revenue for Year $360.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal]
Spokane, Wash., Nov. 18.—Offered like a revolutionary army in central America to the Southeastern Railway company, operating the shortest railroad in the state of Washington. In its statement for the year ended June 30, 1909, just filed with the state railway commission, it reports six general officers, one general clerk, one station agent, one engineer, one fireman, one conductor, three trackmen and a section foreman. The line is four and three-tenths miles in length and runs from Kangley to Camp Five Junction. The report shows that the clerk drew a salary of $8 cents a day, as against $2.25 a day for the trackman and $2.91 for the conductor. The engineer worked 41 days during the year and the fireman put in 19 days.

while the general officers report they worked 360 days. One general officer drew salary at the rate of $1.66 a day.

Under the heading calling for a report of "important changes during the year," the report says: "Mileage decreased nine-tenths of a mile by abandonment of line from Camp Five switch to end of track." The total cost of the railway and equipment to June 30 last is reported at $125,121, which includes $4.82 for right of way and station grounds, and $2.50 for stationery and printing. The road carried 325 tons of freight and no passengers. Its total revenue from operations was $364, while the operating expense was $2,385, and $448 for taxes, making a loss of $5,579 for the year, but this was cut down by the receipt of $795 for rent of the company's locomotive to a logging company.

The company was organized September 15, 1906, and the directors are W. M. Ladd and Edward Cookingham of Portland, John Hagley, J. G. Dickson and E. M. Hayden of Tacoma. The North Yakima and Valley Railroad company, operating 14 miles of line between North Yakima and Naches, Wash., west of Spokane, carried 29,440 passengers and 19,482 tons of freight during the year ended June 30. The revenues amounted to $25,139, while the operating expense was $20,373 and taxes of $1,012. The company expended $287,000 on construction and equipment on the line. Its net profit was $19,360, or $13,669 less than enough to pay the interest charges on the capital borrowed to build the line. Its equipment consists of one locomotive, two coaches and two freight cars.

The company was organized by farmers in the Yakima valley in 1906, with a capitalization of $1,000,000, upon which not a penny has been paid into the treasury, nor has it a funded debt. The stated amount expended on construction does not include expenditures on the Noxa, Purker, Zillah, Coville and Antennum branches, under construction. The main line and branches tap the commercial apple and fruit districts in the Yakima country, where the United States government has three extensive irrigation plants.

IN THE LIME LIGHT.

Secretary Ballinger, of the Interior department, is more conspicuously in the lime light than any other member of President Taft's cabinet, and we presume that by this time there are but very few people in the United States who are ignorant of the reason for this fact. A little coterie of political enemies, headed by a muck raking magazine are industriously engaged in an effort to falsify the record, and make it appear that the publicity now given to his acts is to be accounted for by wrong-doing on his part, but as we have said above, the real reason is now very generally known. He held a subordinate position under the administration of Mr. Taft's immediate predecessor, when it was the rule to enforce the policy of the administration without regard to the terms of the law. Mr. Ballinger believed in the enforcement of the law, and when he found that he was expected to disregard the law, and enforce the policies of his superiors in office, he resigned. This exhibition of a high respect for the law caused Mr. Taft to look upon him as a proper man for a seat in the cabinet, and he was promptly slated for Secretary of the Interior. It is said, indeed, that his selection was the first one made by Mr. Taft, whose strict regard for the law is well known to the whole country. Being thus placed at the head of the department he promptly caused the undoing of some of the acts which had been tolerated by his predecessor, and thereupon all those who had been permitted to carry out their own notions without regard to the law in the case, at once set up a general bawling at his heels, and by the assistance of a yellow magazine have been able to make a great deal of noise. All the charges which they brought against Mr. Ballinger have been thoroughly investigated by Mr. Taft, and pronounced groundless, while the ring leader in the matter was unceremoniously dismissed from office.

Every unprejudiced person will admit that Mr. Taft, with all the facts on both sides before him, is a much more competent judge of the matter than any of those who see only one side, and are actuated by personal malice, hence the reputation of these groundless charges, by discredited witnesses, after Mr. Taft has exploded them, becomes an attack upon the president rather than upon the secretary, and the impression is becoming very general among the people of the country that this is the real, under-the-surface object of the whole dirty assault upon Ballinger.

COMING INVESTIGATIONS.

The coming session of congress bids fair to become known as the session of investigations. Accusations are flying in every direction. The sugar trust is again under fire. Has it corrupted the customs service of the treasury department and snared officials high and low, as now alleged? And then we hear about the pro-trust and the anti-trust; the loss to the government by this and by that; tyranny in office, and attempted tampering with officials for private gain. So much talk has created curiosity, and in a government like this curiosity must be reckoned with. Next year a new house and a third of the senate will be in the scale, and such investigations as may be ordered will enter into the campaign.

AMONG THE UNEMPLOYED.

The Rev. H. N. Cunningham, rector of Christ church, in Watertown, Connecticut, calls attention to Copd's liability by the following paragraph printed in the parish paper of his church:

"The bulletin has had a distressingly small number of marriages to record lately, so much so that our compositor was so unacquainted with the heading 'Married' that he read the fate of a couple last month as 'murdered.' We hope not. We have the reputation of doing a better job than that."

A FEW PLAIN FACTS.

It is a fact not questioned by any well informed person, that the Rio Grande valley in New Mexico is one of the most fertile stretches of land to be found anywhere upon the earth's surface. It is also a well known fact that one of the richest sections of that rich valley lies in Bernalillo county, and yet it is equally well known that ninety per cent, at least of the land in that valley within the limits of this county is still practically in a state of nature.

While, as a nation, we are spending hundreds of millions for the conservation of our natural resources, here is a local resource that is being utterly neglected, and allowed to go to waste. We have the climate, the soil, and the water which, if utilized in combination, could be made to supply all the vegetable food required by all the people of the county, and leave hundreds of car loads annually to be shipped abroad to people in other sections of the country, thus bringing back to us more money than we now draw from the outside world by any other one resource, and yet instead of husbanding this valuable resource for our own good, and for the enrichment of our own locality, we continue to import from other sections a very large part of the products we consume, and send away hundreds of thousands of our money for the enrichment of more enterprising people. Is that a wise policy? Certainly it is not. Then why do we continue it? Simply because the land is held by those who will not utilize it themselves nor permit others to utilize it.

All of these facts we all know to be facts. We know that the lands of the Rio Grande valley immediately tributary to Albuquerque, with their ever abundant water supply, and in this unsurpassed climate, if divided into small farms and put under intensive cultivation, would alone, put into our own hands all the resources necessary to make and keep this place a prosperous and growing city. Other people see and know these facts as well as we do, and our real estate men will tell you that they have calls nearly every day from men who would like to buy small tracts and make a business of cultivating them in a business way, but the owners or claimants of the lands, do not know their lines, and a buyer would have no certainty of getting what he might pay for. And again the same uncertainty enables the claimant to practically escape taxation, and thus be able to hold the land in an unimproved state indefinitely. But the surveying and platting of the lands of the county would serve to solve at once the whole problem. The land could then be assessed, and be made to bear its proper share of the public burden, when the claimant would be obliged to improve it himself, or sell it to some one who would. At present he simply acts the part of "the dog in the manger," and we enable him to act that part by permitting him to dodge the duties of citizenship.

THE "PASCHAL FEAST."

Those who take an interest in Christian Science affairs, are of course aware of the fact that Mrs. Stetson, the leader of the New York Insurgents, has surrendered unconditionally. She was summoned to Boston, to appear before the "Mother church," and show reason, if any she had, why she should not be set upon for infractions of the faith, and instead of putting up a fight and making things interesting, she came down with as much docility as Mr. Crockett's coon, owing up to all her short comings and crossing her heart that she would never do it again. But during the progress of the insurrection some features were brought to light, which were not without interest, even to those who do not take Christian Science very seriously. For example the following:

As part of the effort to show that Mrs. Stetson's teachings and practices had been opposed to the principles of Christian Science, there was made public a statement, signed by Margaret Beecher White, a granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher. This statement follows:

"We practitioners of Mrs. Stetson were taught that the directors of the mother church were the enemies of Mrs. Stetson, therefore our enemies, and I frankly admit that I was prejudiced against a body of men whom I had never met. However, when we were told to treat them, and in no gentle way, I mentally refused to do it. I have never treated anyone without his knowledge or consent. To refuse openly at that time would have meant a scene, ostracism and probably my leaving the church. Other practitioners had been forced out for the refusal to do this. I preferred to keep quiet and keep my place as a member of the church."

"We practitioners were taught by Mrs. Stetson that she was Christ, Truth, and we were her disciples. Last June, before our communion, we were invited to what was called the paschal feast in Mrs. Stetson's house. We stood in a circle while she passed fish, bread and lemonade colored with raspberry syrup."

"We were told never to speak of what went on in our secret meetings or what was said in them because the other students had not risen to our height of spiritual discernment and they could not understand such high science."

SCORE ONE FOR THE ANTIS.

The woman suffrage contest has reached the stage at which more men become a mere onlooker, and will probably have to act as umpire. Mrs. Annie Meyer, in an address delivered before the Brooklyn Philosophical society a few evenings since, denounced the suffrage for women as a measure that would simply "double the ignorant vote of the country." She characterized Mrs. Pankhurst and her associates as "international carpet-baggers" and their followers as "lady-like hoodlums."

Mrs. Meyer talked for two hours on

"The Menace of Women Suffrage" and her witty sallies in decrying votes for women brought forth much laughter from the audience, the greater part of which was composed of women.

"I am not fighting my own sex," said Mrs. Meyer, as reported by the New York papers, "but on the contrary I am fighting for them. I believe in women, of course, and I believe, too, that women's work in the world is of far greater importance than man's."

"Not content with remaining in their own country, along come a number of women from England to create an uprising of 'ladylike hoodlums.' They are nothing more or less than a band of international carpet baggers. Are the suffragettes receiving more attention than we are? I don't believe they are, except, perhaps, for the reason that there are more divorcees among them than there are among us. They, too, are receiving much attention on account of their handsome gowns. Their gowns are continually being described. We are not dolls of fashion."

"They say:—'If we could vote we would get out and vote for clean streets; we would go out and vote for more schools; we would go out and vote for better transit facilities.' Always going out, and never staying home. If, as it is contended, the extension of suffrage to women would help poor women, I would be the first to advance the cause."

PRAYER FOR BUSINESS MEN.

Ray Stannard Baker, writing in the December American magazine on "A Vision of the New Christianity,"—a chapter in his religious serious of "The Spiritual Unrest," describes the work and ideas of Professor Walter Rauschenbush, of Rochester, whose recent book on "Christianity and the Social Crisis" has made such a widespread impression. In the course of his article, Mr. Baker, takes occasion to quote the following prayer for business men by Professor Rauschenbush:

"We plead with thee, O God, for our brothers who are pressed by the cares and beset by the temptations of business life. We acknowledge before thee our common guilt for the hardness and selfishness of our commercial life, which leads so many into temptation and causes even the righteous to slip and fall. So long as it must be that man is set against man in a struggle for wealth, help them to make their contest in some measure a test of excellence, by which even the defeated may be spurred to better work. If any man is pitted against those who have forgotten fairness and honesty, help him to put his trust resolutely in the profitability of sincerity and uprightness, and, if need be, to accept loss rather than follow the others on crooked paths. Establish in unshaken fidelity all who hold in trust the wealth of others. The property and welfare of our nation are controlled by our business men. Help them to realize that they might have high public functions and let them not betray the interests of all for their own enrichment. Grant them far-sighted patriotism to subordinate their work to the public weal, and a steadfast determination to transform the disorder of the present into the nobler and freer harmony of the future. Let the spirit of Christ, which goes out from thee and which is ceaselessly leading within us, prevail to bring our business life under Christ's law of service, that all who guide the processes of factory and trade may feel that high consciousness of divine calling which blesses only those who are the free servants of God and the people, and who are consciously devoting their strength to the common good."

A Florida editor claims that his state was the original garden of Eden. To support this view he must also contend that what Eve gave Adam to eat was not an apple, but a pineapple—Washington Star. No, it was a banana, and he slipped up on the peel.

Brotherly Love.
"Yes, they bring in a lot of eggs," related Stockkeeper Jason as he dusted out the prunes. "Why, we even receive eggs in exchange for the latest songs."

"Shake!" said the big man in the checkered suit, as he lit a stogie, "so do I!"
"Hm! Storekeeping, too?"
"No, I'm a minstrel man,"—Chicago News.

THE TULAROSA TRIBUNE isn't afraid that George Curry is going to run for delegate. It says: "Just between us, we don't believe when the governor lands in Tularosa and engages in business that a team of elephants could get him into public office again. This freshly thought up tale is the result of fear that he might and the allusion to the politics of Mr. Curry is intended for a knock."

"IS THERE anything less worth eating than cranberry pie?" asks the New York Sun. This remarkable query indicates that some one has been trying to force the festive cranberry out of its proper place in the scheme of things. Any such movement should be promptly repudiated. The Taos Valley News takes up the cudgel in behalf of the time honored pumpkin as follows: "Everything to its place, we suppose, and in season. No one for generation after generation, has considered a Thanksgiving banquet complete without the brilliant and delectable sauce which accompanies the turkey, and the expression 'turkey and cranberry sauce,' is absolutely established in the English language. So the cranberry can continue to be admired, honored and enjoyed in its proper place and proper season, but it should keep out of pie."

THE MORNING JOURNAL, seems unable to keep out of hot water over in the Estancia valley. It's just no use—a case of dam if you do and dam if you don't. Hereafter all persons interviewed from that section must make an affidavit specifying exact location of quarter section; where mail is received; county seat preference and whether party has Willard or Estancia affiliations. Just let us to the Estancia News: "The Albuquerque Morning Journal of Wednesday gave R. E. Chapman a nice little ad in regard to his potato crop, and then switched Mr. Chapman off as being near Montezuma. When in fact his postoffice is Marziano, and his farm north of the Marziano grant. But this is in line with the policy of the Journal recently adopted to place everything worth having along the line of the Cutoff, as tributary to Albuquerque. Our people, however, know the truth and soon come to know the truthful newspapers, and those which really advertise the valley."

SINCERITY

Means Confidence and Assurance

IN every phase of life sincerity of word and deed commands the instant respect and confidence of men and women. Just as it is in the life blood of all religions and social life, so it is the keynote of all commercial success. Newspaper announcements which play upon a patron's credulity, the effort to attract by flimsy subterfuge, the quoting of fictitious values—in a word take advertising with which too many men strive in vain to bolster up their trade and patch up their reputation is not only futile, but a positive insult to the intelligence of the reading public.

MERCHANDISE NEVER LIES.

If a garment is stylish a woman can see it. If the material is good one has prima facie evidence of the fact. If the tailoring is perfect it shows in every line. If her last year's suit was absolutely satisfactory she comes here again this year. This illustrates the point exactly. Sincerity in advertising together with sincerity in merchandising brings its own inevitable reward—the confidence of the public.

A WOMAN WITHOUT HANDS is the only woman that would not be interested in those gloves any woman who has hands will be proud of them when she dons one of the new street gloves shown by the Economist. Only the most reliable makes are represented, insuring the perfect fitting qualities of any pair she may select.

Trefousse Gloves in all the new shades at a pair $2.00.
La Rome Gloves, a perfect fitting glove at a pair $1.50.
La Blanche Gloves, usually $1.25 in all the wanted shades, Special $1.00 a pair.

And the men as well as the women can have their gloves fitted at our glove counter. Mocha and Cape Gloves in all colors, priced at a pair, $2.00.

It is time the children should have warm gloves. A full line of Golf Gloves in all sizes priced from 35c up.

RELIABLE HOSIERY.
It will be hardly possible that you could duplicate these Hosiery for the same price elsewhere considering quality.

Women's Lisle Thread Hose in black or tan with dainty patterns embroidered in colors, the usual 75c kind this week, 50c.

Women's Black Hose that will wear, are dyed with absolutely stainless dye and will stand the effects of repeated washings as well as perspiration, put up 3 pair in a box, priced at $1.00 a box.

Children's Hose, the kind that will give unusually good wear, come in light, medium and heavy weight and sizes from 1/2 to 10; a hose that is hard to beat for ordinary wear; priced at a pair 15c.

I am going to buy one some waists this very afternoon. I don't need waists! Why the very idea!

SPLENDID WORK

ACHIEVED BY
THE Y. W. C. A.

Three Months Old Organization
A Success in Every Way;
Athletic Department Strong Attraction.

A prophet need not be consulted as to the future of the Young Women's Christian association, for already after so short an existence, great progress is evident.

The association has been organized but three months. It has a comfortable home, where girls are always welcome and where they come. A reading room is open and magazines and newspapers are supplied by different ones interested. Pleasant rooms are rented to those who want to room in the home. There is a well-equipped dining room, where twenty-five can be served at one time with the very best home-cooked food, at a reasonable price on the cafeteria plan, or otherwise. The dining room is made to pay expenses.

The vesper service Sunday afternoon is both interesting and helpful. Those who can not attend a morning church service are especially invited to this afternoon meeting. Good music is provided and a different leader each Sunday. The special aim of this meeting is to give a new impetus to right living. Bible classes will soon be formed. The physical department has been opened. A basketball team of which there is no doubt, is being organized. The physical culture classes which are now being formed give promise of great interest and general good. There will be morning, afternoon and evening classes. These classes will be taught by trained teachers of experience. There will be classes for married ladies, young ladies and girls. The prices are reasonable. This will mean much to Albuquerque in providing wholesome recreation and the needed physical training.

The educational and science departments will be the next to be worked up, probably after the holidays.

There is now a lack of funds which can doubtless be raised by soliciting and a campaign is being planned to secure membership and donations for which to get apparatus and material to carry on the work, and to cancel the present indebtedness. Sacrifice, if necessary, should be willingly made to help on this cause and get it established so it can be nearly self-supporting.

GETTING IN TOUCH WITH NEW MEXICO HIGH SCHOOLS

VARSITY PRESIDENT
VISITS INSTITUTIONS

Cast Complete for Rollicking Play to be Given by Varsity Dramatic Club; Notes of School on the Hill.

President Edward McQueen Gray of the University of New Mexico has been for several days past visiting the high schools at Raton, Santa Fe, Gallup and Deming, with the purpose of bringing these schools into closer relations with the University. The University classes are largely recruited from the high school students over the territory and President Gray is endeavoring to disseminate a better knowledge of the territorial school and its work among the prospective students.

"Mr. Bob," the rollicking farce to be given by the University dramatic club on December 21, is now well underway. This will be the first performance of the club under the able direction of Miss Ross of the department of oratory and elocution, and it promises to be entertaining from beginning to end. The following is the cast as recently determined upon:

Philip Royson, Hugh M. Bryan, Robert Brown, clerk of Benson & Benson, C. S. Shepard, Rebecca Lake, maiden lady, Karl Karsten, Miss Violeta de Tullio, Katherine Rogers, Rebecca's niece, Marion Underwood, Katherine's friend, Genevieve Harrison, Patty, Rebecca's maid, Miss Hazel Cox. The play is written by Miss Rachel Baker and will be new to an Albuquerque audience. There are seven characters only in the cast, but each affords opportunity for full swing of interpretation and individuality in representation. The night of the 21st of December should be reserved for this occasion. The two acts in the breakfast room will develop much amusement from the humorous situations.

Thursday and Friday will be observed as holidays to join in the observance of Thanksgiving time.

Professor John D. Clark of the department of chemistry is securing a smile that will not come off. His "daughter," Nellie Lucile Clark, has just arrived.

Professor Espinosa is no longer trudging up the hill foot, for he purchased Dr. Tigh's horse and buggy and now rides, while "Billy" furnishes the motive power.

Dr. Gray has designed a coat of arms for the University which is not only very appropriate but is a beautiful piece of work. It will soon appear on University stationery.

Mr. W. J. Johnson, the newly elected secretary and treasurer of the University, was at a recent meeting unanimously elected a member of the senior organization known as the "Ten Dons," to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. W. P. Johnson.

Dr. W. W. Baden, head of the Latin and Greek department, made his first assembly talk last Monday. He started out by saying that two of the humblest but greatest of historians are the pick and the spade, and gave an interesting account of the wonderful work done by Dr. Henry Schliemann in unearthing the treasures of ancient Troy, and verifying the truth of the Homeric poems which were long thought but figures of imagination. Dr. Baden is a ready and pleasing speaker and was able to give additional interest to his subject on this occasion by the fact of his visit to Troy and his thorough study of the unearthed city.

At the Round Table club of the normal department on Friday, Thanksgiving day was the main topic of consideration and how the occasion may be observed in the public schools. Professor Hodgins gave an account of the history of the day. Among the items of educational news presented was that Columbia university of New York city has now reached an enrollment of 6,000 students. The death of Dr. William F. Harris on November 1 was also reported. Dr. Harris was for twenty years commissioner of education of the United States and has been for nearly a half century a leader of educational thought. His last work was the revising of the new edition of the great International dictionary, which was finished but a short time before his death.

Beginning Saturday morning, November 20, Mrs. D. D. Coverdale will place on sale her entire stock of new pattern hats at one-half price. All other trimmings at 25 percent discount. This sale to continue for one week only. Corner Fourth and Gold avenue.

BIDS OPENED FOR CONSTRUCTION OF STEEL BRIDGES

SPECIFICATIONS AND PLANS GO TO ENGINEERS

Commissioners Receive Proposals from Half Dozen Concerns; Petition for Change in Alameda Site Denied.

Bids for the construction of the steel bridges across the Rio Grande at Bernal and Alameda, the structures to cost a little less than $100,000, were opened and considered at a lengthy session of the board of county commissioners held in the court house yesterday. A half dozen bridge building companies submitted proposals, plans and specifications, all of which were referred to county Surveyor A. D. Ogile and Consulting Engineer C. E. Farwell, retained by the county to assist Mr. Ogile in examining the bids.

The bids submitted by the various companies were quite complicated, several of them containing more than a dozen separate bids on each bridge, according to the material and style of the structure. Among the bidders were the El Paso Bridge and Iron company of El Paso, represented by W. D. Webb; the Penn-Bridge company, by C. H. Vaughn; the Pueblo Bridge company, by Fred H. Bullen; the Midland Bridge company, by George E. Cobb; the Wichita Construction company by George H. Bradford, and the Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron company by W. H. Jenkins. The representatives of the various concerns explained in turn the bids submitted by their company.

An adjournment was taken until Monday morning, at which time it is likely that the engineers will have examined the bids carefully enough to make recommendations to the commissioners.

Before adjourning the board denied the petition of Francisco Lugo, Y. Montoya, Maximo Chavez and others, which asked that the new bridge to be constructed north of Albuquerque be built at the site of the present wooden bridge, between Corrales and Alameda. The petitioners were represented by Attorney O. N. Marron, who addressed the commissioners in their behalf.

The board decided to deny the request and it is likely that the new structure will be built a mile and a half south of the present Alameda bridge.

Those present at yesterday's meeting were: Chairman Albert Grimsdell, M. R. Springer, Policarpo Armijo, A. E. Walker, District Attorney G. S. Klock.

Gold Accumulations of Recent Years.

In the last generation there has been as much gold mined as in the preceding 400 years. More of the yellow metal will be brought from the earth in 1909 than in any other one-twelfth month since the world began.

Add all the gold which lured adventurous Spaniards to Peru and Mexico and that they wrang from helpless savages or fought for against British rivals and it wouldn't equal the amount that South Africa alone will produce this year.

This is beyond comparison the age of gold. One-third of all the gold that has been mined since Columbus found the Americas has been dug from mother earth this year.

Since gold is the measure of value for all things, the effect which must be produced upon the price of every known commodity by this stupendous outpouring of the metal is very great and also world-wide.

The United States will produce this year approximately $55,000,000 of gold and a third that much silver, which will be enough to supply the country's need for both metals. Europe now depends mainly upon the Rand mines and Australia for its gold.—Philadelphia Press.

STANDARD OIL ORDERED TO DISSOLVE

COURT HOLDS COMPANY IS ILLEGAL COMBINATION

Decision Sweeping Victory for Government; Will at Once be Appealed Direct to Supreme Court of United States.

(By Morning Journal Special Staff Writer) St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 20.—In an opinion written by Judge Walter H. Sanborn of St. Paul, and concurred in by Judges Vandeventer, Hook and Adams, with a special concurring opinion by Judge Hook, the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Missouri today handed down an opinion declaring that the Standard Oil company of New Jersey was an illegal combination operating in restraint of trade, and ordered its dissolution.

In this decision the government of the United States wins its sweeping victory, and according to Frank R. Kellogg, of this city, who was the special prosecutor, the government has won every point for which it contended.

The decree filed by Judge Sanborn is comprehensive and enjoins the Standard company, its directors, officers, agents, servants and employees from voting any of the stock in any of the subsidiary companies and from exercising or attempting to exercise any control, direction, supervision or influence over the accounts of these subsidiary companies by virtue of its holding of the stock of the subsidiary companies.

The subsidiary companies, their officers, directors, agents, servants and employees are enjoined from declaring or paying any dividends to the Standard company on account of any of the stock of the subsidiary companies held by the Standard company, and from permitting the latter company to vote any stock in or to direct the policy of the subsidiary companies, or to exercise any control whatsoever over the corporate accounts of any of the subsidiary companies by virtue of such stock, or by virtue of the power over the subsidiary corporations acquired by means of the illegal combination by the use of liquidation certificates.

The case will be appealed direct to the United States supreme court, as the judges who signed today's decree are, in effect, the judges of the United States circuit court of appeals, although they were sitting for the purpose of trying this case as the circuit court for the eastern district of Missouri.

The decree of the court dissolving the Standard Oil trust becomes effective in thirty days, when no doubt a stay will be granted for the purpose of an appeal.

When the decree takes effect, unless a stay is granted, an injunction will be issued restraining the Standard Oil company from a further continuance of its business under its present formation.

It appears from the concurring opinion written by Judge Hook that the company cannot do business under any other form with the object of stifling competition, for he says on this subject that it is thought that with the end of the combination the monopoly will naturally disappear, but should it not do so, and the members of the combination retire from it, except one who might perpetuate the monopoly by the aggregation of the physical properties and instrumentalities, it would constitute a violation of the decree of the court.

In the trial of the case the point was made that the Standard Oil company was a beneficial corporation in that it, by reason of economy in operation, reduced the price of its product. This, Judge Hook says, can have no weight.

The suit was begun by direction of the federal attorney general in St. Louis, November 15, 1906. Frank R. Kellogg of St. Paul was appointed special prosecutor, assisted by Charles H. Morrison of Chicago, Frank H. Poole and J. H. Graves of New York, and W. H. Higgins of Minneapolis and C. A. Severance of St. Paul.

The Standard Oil company presented a formidable array of legal talent led by John G. Milburn of New York. Their defense was that the present organization of the Standard Oil corporation was the result of the natural growth of a great industry and that no state law had been violated.

The acts of the defendants prior to July 2, 1890, did not violate the anti-trust act because it was not then in existence. Whether or not their transactions constituted a violation of the common law is a question much discussed and which it is unnecessary to determine in this case. However, that may be the acts of the defendants and the effect if their transactions in the common law is a question much discussed and which it is unnecessary to determine in this case. However, that may be the acts of the defendants and the effect if their transactions in the common law is a question much discussed and which it is unnecessary to determine in this case.

Leaving out of view the acts of the defendants prior to July 2, 1890, except as evidence of their purpose, of their continuing conduct and its effect, do the stockholders of the Standard Oil company, in their continuing operation, constitute an illegal restraint of interstate or international commerce in violation of the anti-trust act of 1890?

The purpose of the Standard Oil company was to keep the rates of transportation and the prices of articles in interstate and international commerce open to free competition. Any combination of two or more parties whereby the control of such rates or prices is taken from separate competitors in that trade and vested in a person, or association of persons necessarily restrains competition and restrains that commerce.

The court here cites a long list of decisions bearing on the formation or maintenance by competing corporations of an association to determine the rates of transportation. It continues:

"In the construction and enforcement of this statute corporations are persons. By the trust of 1890 more than thirty corporations were combined with the principal company and that corporation was given the power to fix the rates of transportation and the purchase and selling prices which all these companies should pay and receive for petroleum and products throughout the republic and in traffic with foreign nations.

"The principal company and many subsidiary corporations were then and still are engaged in interstate and international commerce; many of them were capable of competing with each other in that trade and would have been actively competitive if they had been owned by different individuals or groups of individuals.

"Thus the principal company in 1890 owned and operated several refineries in New Jersey, West Virginia and Maryland, which in the year 1900 had a capacity of 19,854,000 barrels of crude oil yearly. The Standard Oil company of New York, one of the subsidiary companies, owned and operated several refineries in the state of New York which in the year 1900 had a capacity of 6,732,000 barrels annually.

"In the Northern Securities case, Hill and Morgan and their associates acquired control of a majority of the voting stock of two competitive railroad companies, and by means of that ownership the power to prevent them from actually competing. This tendency of stockholders to transfer their controlling interest in the stock of each of these companies to the Northern Securities company in exchange for its stock and the supreme court decided that this transaction constituted a combination in restraint of commerce among the states and affirmed a decree of this court which enjoined the continuance of its operation.

"The defendants and their associates acquired the control of a majority of the stock of more than thirty corporations, many of which were potentially and naturally competitive, prevented the competition by means of this ownership and then, by the transfer of the stock of nineteen of them to the principal company, the control and management of all of them, if it was a violation of the anti-trust act to combine the control of two competitive corporations in a third, as in the case of the Northern Securities company, why was it not as much a violation of it to combine the control of ten or twenty or thirty of the corporation in one of the number as in the case in hand?

"The defendants answer (1), because the two companies were not competitors and had not been since 1879; (2), because the stockholders of the principal company were the joint owners of the stock of the subsidiary companies and had the right to convey their stock in the latter to the former in trust for themselves and congress was without power to restrict their acquisition, their method of holding or their disposition of their title to their property or their use of it; (3), because the corporations whose stock was vested in a holding company in the Northern Securities company's case were railway companies which were charged with the discharge of public duties, the performance of which was peculiarly subject to regulation by the nation and state, while the corporations whose stock was vested in the Standard Oil company were private corporations, and, (4), because if any restraint of trade resulted from the trust of 1890 it was neither direct, immediate nor substantial."

The court here finds against the defendants on all these propositions, continuing the opinion says:

"The contention that congress has no power to restrict acquisition of methods of holding title, disposition and use of property was forcibly urged upon the attention of the courts many times in the case of the Northern Securities company, but the answer given was that it was not less in issue, that the question was whether a certain method of holding stocks which controlled several corporations may be used to prevent competition between them in interstate and international trade. And congress has plenary and indisputable power under the commercial clause of the constitution to restrict and regulate the use of every instrumentality employed in interstate or international commerce so far as it may be necessary to do so in order to prevent the restraint thereof denounced by the anti-trust act of 1890.

"The power of congress to regulate interstate and foreign commerce and the exertion of that power manifested in the anti-trust act embrace all persons and corporations engaged in commerce. The mischief against which that law was leveled is not less threatening from a vast combination of private corporations owning and using in interstate and foreign commerce property worth hundreds of millions of dollars, than from a combination of railway companies. The act makes no distinction between them. It excepts neither class and where congress has made no exception it is not the province of the courts to do so.

"The purpose of the act of July 2, 1890, was to prevent the stifling and the substantial restriction of competition in the interstate and international commerce. The test under that act is the legality of the combination or conspiracy in its direct and necessary effect on such competition. If its necessary effect is to incidentally or indirectly to restrict competition while its chief result is to foster, aid and increase the business of trade and increase the business of commerce, the mischief against which that law was leveled is not less threatening from a vast combination of private corporations owning and using in interstate and foreign commerce property worth hundreds of millions of dollars, than from a combination of railway companies. CHINAMAN FOUND GUILTY OF EFFORT AT BRIBERY

DAWSON CELESTIAL CONVICTED IN LAS VEGAS

Takes Jury Six Hours to Find Verdict; Judge Mills Adjourns United States Court Till After Christmas.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Las Vegas, N. M., Nov. 20.—After being out six hours during which the numerous ballot were taken, the jury in the case of the United States versus Hon Kin alias Hom Lee, the Chinese charged with attempting to bribe United States immigration inspectors in connection with two recent Chinese smuggling cases unearthed at this coal camp, returned a verdict today in the federal district court finding the Chinaman guilty as charged in the indictment. Attorney N. B. Bunker, counsel for defendant, filed a motion for a new trial. Arguments on this motion will be heard December 28. In the meantime Hon Kin may enjoy liberty on a bond of $1,000, which the local Chinamen are endeavoring to arrange to secure the prisoner's release from the county jail, where he has been confined since arrested and brought to this city for trial. The case has attracted considerable interest and has been hard fought by the Chinaman and his attorney. United States Attorney D. J. Leahy, and his assistant, Herbert W. Clark, made convincing arguments to the jury showing the guilt of Hon Kin without doubt. Frank M. Stanley, immigration inspector, was the chief witness for the prosecution.

Following the announcement of the verdict in this case, Chief Justice W. J. Mills adjourned the United States court here until December 28, at which time arguments on the motion for a new trial in the Hon Kin case as well as the case of George Snell, convicted of subornation of perjury, will be heard.

those who make and operate it, it is not violative of this law. "But if its necessary effect is to stifle or directly and substantially to restrict free competition in commerce among the states or with foreign nations, it is a combination in restraint of interstate and international trade and falls under the ban of the act."

"And the power to restrict competition in interstate and international commerce vested in a person or association of persons by a contract, combination in restraint of trade and for its interests of the parties that such a power should be exercised and the presumption is that it will be. In the case under consideration it has been exercised, and thereby the principal company has prevented competition between the corporations it controls since 1890."

"In the case under consideration the combination and conspiracy if restriction of trade and the continued execution, which has been found to exist, constitute illegal means by which the conspiring defendants combined and still combine and conspire to monopolize a part of interstate and international commerce and by which they have secured an unlawful monopoly of a substantial part and this conspiracy constitutes a clear and complete violation of the second as of the first section of the act."

"Upon the ground that the defendants have thus violated and are violating the second section of the act as fully as upon the ground that they have violated the first section, the decree in favor of the government must be and is based."

LAWYER RECKONS TRUST WILL STILL SELL OIL

Philadelphia, Nov. 20.—"I never knew what I am going to do until my clients consult me," said John G. Milburn, of this city, when told of the decision of the Standard Oil case and asked what steps would be taken to stay the order of liquidation. When asked the importance of the decision Mr. Johnson replied:

"I guess the government thinks it important."

"How about the Standard Oil company?" he was asked.

"Well, I reckon the Standard Oil company will continue to sell oil."

WILL FIGHT CASE TO THE ULTIMATE LIMIT DECLARES R. G. MULLEN

Alamogordo Man Convicted of Getting Money Under False Pretenses Says He Is Victim of Persecution.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) El Paso, Texas, Nov. 20.—R. G. Mullen, formerly of Alamogordo, and who was recently convicted by a jury in Corydon, Iowa, for obtaining money under false pretenses, in connection with New Mexico land operations, has arrived in El Paso to make his home here. Mullen declares he is the victim of persecution and will fight his conviction to the last resort. Sentenced to serve three years in jail at Corydon, he has appealed his case to the supreme court.

In discussing the case Mullen said: "About a year ago Dr. W. L. Bullis and A. G. Widmer instituted a suit against me and my associates to force us to surrender our interest in the Sacramento Irrigation company which controls nearly all the waters of the Sacramento river in Otero county, New Mexico."

"They used the criminal, state and federal courts to try to persecute us and force a compromise. I being one of the largest stockholders in the company, they used their political influence to have me indicted in Iowa on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with the sale of stock in the irrigation company, asserting that the indebtedness of the company was greater than the value of the stock which I endeavored to sell."

Indictments in Missouri. "Then they went to Missouri and there had the federal grand jury indict O. M. Lee, H. W. Majors, C. A. Thompson, R. R. Wade, M. A. Gleason and myself on a charge of attempting to defraud the government in alleged land frauds."

"If there was any crime of this nature committed it must have been committed by them because they testified before the governor of New Mexico that they were not residents of New Mexico and swore to the same thing a second time, but in taking up land they swore, as required by the land office, that they were residents of the territory."

"The fight is between Dr. Bullis and Messrs. Jackie and Wagner against Messrs. Lee, Wade, myself and Wolcott, the latter being interested in the power company at Alamogordo but not in the irrigation company."

"I know nothing of any counter suits that it is alleged will be instituted by me and my associates at Alamogordo, for I know of no counter suits we could file."

"My associates and myself intend to fight this matter to the end and to secure our rights and we do not propose that they shall by any assistance that they may secure from the government or the state force us to surrender."

WIFE OF PROMOTER SAYS HE'S ALIVE

Mrs. Ross Wants to Get Pecuniary Assistance from Brazil Man's Housekeeper Now in This City.

Alleging that her husband, W. A. Ross, promoter of the Brazito townsite swindle, did not commit suicide in New York as reported, but is alive and has deserted her, Mrs. Ross, who is now living in Chicago with her two children, has written a letter to the local police department asking assistance in securing from a woman in this city money with which to feed and clothe her children. The woman was located by the police on the Highlands. She is, or was housekeeper for Ross when he was at Brazito near Las Cruces, where, as exclusively published in the Morning Journal at the time of the crash, Ross sold town lots to many victims when he had no title to the property. Mrs. Ross in her letter alleges Ross spent money lavishly on this woman and deserted the wife for her.

There is no other evidence to support this assertion and the woman's name is consequently not made public. Mrs. Ross in her letter alleges that the man who succeeded in New York was Francis A. Ross and not her husband. The report from New York stated that the dead man was "Ross, the Brazito man" and there is yet some doubt in the minds of the authorities whether or not W. A. Ross is really alive.

SOUTHWEST NEWS NOTES

A. F. Kerr has been succeeded as president of the Sierra county bank at Hillsboro by G. P. McCorkle of Center Point, Texas. This change is made because the increasing business of the bank makes it imperative that the president devote all his time to his affairs and Mr. Kerr has about all the business he can attend to as cashier of the American National bank of Silver City. W. T. Cason succeeds R. M. Turner of Silver City as cashier of the Sierra bank.

W. A. Tenney, the Silver City "freighter king" had the misfortune to dump an immense freight wagon full of flour over an embankment into a lot of slimes from a Leopold concentrator. Tenney is qualified to confirm the rumor that flour has taken a drop.

The pretty little white bungalow cottage occupied by Dr. Charles Turner Sands, first assistant physician and pathologist of the New Mexico cottage sanatorium, at Silver City, was burned to the ground early Friday evening.

An insane man was found wandering over the hills near Pecos, Arizona, last week, and was in a horrible condition, both mentally and physically. County Physician Sampson was up from Winslow to attend the man and with the assistance of Dr. Brown pronounced the man insane and he was therefore committed to the asylum at Phoenix. by Judge Smith.

Sciatic Rheumatism and Loss of Sleep THE DR. M. Q. McLAUGHLIN CO. Gentlemen—in accordance with your request I am sending you my report, and am pleased to be able to send a very good one. The improvement has been remarkably rapid, considering the disadvantages I have been applying the treatment under, being compelled to work hard and limit my time. I was suffering from a severe pain in my left side and leg, and was unable to sleep. I had been given it a fair chance to demonstrate the great benefit it has been to me that it is all you represent it to be. I think every workman should have the belt, if only to assist him in recuperating his strength. For I awoke in the morning feeling better and strong, even after a hard day's work. My sleep was perfect and the pain had disappeared. I do not plan to leave the belt until I pay for it. The belt would be of little avail, if it were not absolutely a fraud, but I have given it a fair chance to demonstrate the great benefit it has been to me that it is all you represent it to be. I think every workman should have the belt, if only to assist him in recuperating his strength. For I awoke in the morning feeling better and strong, even after a hard day's work. My sleep was perfect and the pain had disappeared. I do not plan to leave the belt until I pay for it. FINANCE AND COMMERCE

New York, Nov. 20.—The decision of the United States district court at St. Paul against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, declaring that corporation illegal and ordering its dissolution was the one great feature of today's stock market. The news was evidently unexpected and had the effect of turning a very active and strong market into one of extreme weakness. The importance of the decision and its far-reaching possibilities were freely acknowledged by officials of the corporation concerned, who hastened to add, however, that the case would be promptly taken to the court of last resort, in accordance with an agreement entered into some time ago between the government and the defense.

Before the decision there had been a resumption of the recent activity in various specialties including the copper shares, one of which, Utah Copper, almost repeated its performance of a week ago with an advance of over five points. There were spectacular moves in other stock of the same group, but the usual speculative issues were inclined to irregularity. With the first word of the decision there ensued a general selling movement which at times bordered on demoralization. Not only were all the early gains wiped out but net losses for the day ranged from one to more points. The bank statement showed some extraordinary differences in actual and average conditions. In the latter loans decreased by over $1,000,000. There were increases and decreases correspondingly in the reserves, but on the whole the bank position for the week may be said to have strengthened.

Gossip included rumors of serious friction among the leading interests in the Rock Island-Prisco systems, but these were emphatically denied in authoritative quarters. Closing stocks:

CLOVIS, NEW MEXICO.

Offers the best and surest returns for money invested in any city in the west or southwest today. Clovis is only 2 1/2 years old and has grown from a bald prairie to a city of the first-class, with 4,000 inhabitants, with substantial brick business houses and hundreds of beautiful homes substantially and beautifully built; wide streets, city water works, electric lights and sanitary sewer; beautiful $15,000 brick school building; numerous churches and the best people on earth from all sections of the United States; has twelve miles of grand old walks and beautiful streets; a hundred thousand dollar Harvey eating house, and other fine hotels with reasonable rates. Clovis is the county seat of Curry county and is now the center of the great Pecos valley country. Clovis is 100 miles west of Amarillo, Texas, and ten miles west of the Texas line. New Mexico, 108 miles north of Roswell, N. M., and 275 miles east of Albuquerque, and is surrounded by thousands of acres of the most fertile land in the great southwest.

The Santa Fe has already built a large roundhouse, large machine shops, coal chutes, cinder plant, electric light plant, blacksmith shop, repair shop and a battery of six wells which furnish abundance of water, an ice refrigerating plant from which they ice all their fruit cars in transit from California to the coast. The town has a large transfer table and concrete depot, and a fire department at a total cost of over $1,000,000, and will expend another million or more in enlarging their already large round house and machine shops and building a large transfer table and hospital. This great system has a reservation of 400 acres of land for future use in Clovis for railroad purposes.

Clovis will be the biggest railroad center west of Topeka, Kan., on the Santa Fe system in a few years, and will soon be the largest city in New Mexico, and one of the principal distributing points and largest cities in the southwest.

Clovis is about 4,000 feet above sea level; has abundance of pure water, plenty of sunshine and fair weather, and is an ideal place for the health seeker. Plenty of opportunities for investment yet at reasonable prices, guaranteeing a sure and safe return for money invested. Capital invested in improved business property in Clovis will bring from 15 to 20 per cent on investment after insurance and taxes. Property will in all probability double in value in a short time.

I have a fine lot of bargains in fine grand city property. For particulars write to E. J. Howard, lock box 842, Clovis, New Mexico.

SUPERINTENDENT IS INSPECTING SCHOOLS

PROF. CLARK RETURNS FROM ESPANOLA VALLEY

Prosperous Conditions Revealed; Spanish War Veterans Now Organized in Santa Fe.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 20.—Superintendent of Public Instruction J. E. Clark returned last evening from an inspection of schools in the Espanola valley, which was in the nature of a surprise visit to the teachers in order to inform himself first hand of prevailing conditions. Mounting a horse at Espanola, Superintendent Clark visited the schools in the Chimayo canon in Rio Arriba and Santa Fe counties, and at Velarde in Rio Arriba county. He visited the schools taught by Bonifacio Martinez, Sarita Pacheco, Victor Cruz, Bellarmino Toujillo, Cirila Martinez and Ursula Orfilla. He found the attendance good and that the Spanish speaking people are very anxious to have their children learn English. The teachers are doing successful work and began the term by teaching their children the English equivalent of common Spanish words, developing an English vocabulary and thus laying the foundation for more advanced English study later in the term. Mr. Clark was also impressed with the evident prosperity of the La Joya, the Chimayo and Espanola valleys, and the large volume of trade transacted. At the mouth of the Chimayo canon, for instance, he found one farm with eight huge stacks of wheat which was being threshed with a threshing machine. In the canon, he found many orchards of large size and men at work leveling and breaking the ground for cultivation next year. Superintendent Clark expects to visit the schools in other parts of the territory without announcing his coming.

Spanish Veterans Organize.

On Thursday night, last, in the office of Internal Revenue Collector H. P. Burdick, a meeting was held of all local men who engaged in the Spanish war. Permanent organization was effected and a local camp established. The camp will be known as the Clay Green camp No. 1, and will have a membership of about 30. Officers were elected as follows: Commander, Captain Fred Muller, senior vice commander, W. E. Griffin; junior vice commander, E. Van Horn; chaplain, George Armijo; adjutant, C. J. Nix; surgeon, Dr. J. A. Massey; quartermaster, H. P. Burdick; officer of the day, J. H. Bell; officer of the guard, G. T. Sandoval; trustees, Ed. Tafolla, one year; A. J. Griffin, two years; J. R. Read, three years. The next meeting of the camp will take place on December 8th, when Commander Frank J. Smith of Maxwell Key camp No. 2 of Albuquerque will be here to muster in the members of the local camp.

The Spanish war veterans are organized along purely fraternal lines, patterned after the Grand Army of the Republic. In the national body there are over 300,000 members.

Appointed Deputy Game Warden. Game and Fish Warden Thomas P. Gable today appointed Esteban Easton of Abiquia, Rio Arriba county, a deputy game and fish warden. There has been considerable complaint to Santa Fe of the disregard of the game laws by those who have not taken out a license in that part of the territory and Deputy Easton expects to put a stop to the practice.

Mounted Police Recover Horses. The mounted police, reports from Espanola that he has recovered two horses belonging to R. C. Yeager, and has restored them to their owner.

PROSPECTING FOR ALFALFA MILL FOR ARTESIA

Prominent Kansan Looking Over the Ground; Big Prices for Artesia Land; Oil Situation Looks Good.

(Special Correspondence to the Morning Journal)

Artesia, N. M., Nov. 19.—Jerry Bodkin, former congressman at large from Kansas, and democratic candidate for governor of Kansas last year, was in Artesia last week, looking over the country for a Kansas firm manufacturing alfalfa machinery. In an interview he expresses himself as being very much impressed with the Artesia country—its present and its future—both as to climate and resources, and possibilities of further development. He will return soon, and make further investigation.

P. L. Hiesinger, a large land owner and capitalist of Fairfield, Nebraska, visited Artesia this week and incidentally invested in another quarter section of land, he having already invested here $100,000 or more. He offered H. L. Muncey $20,000 for a quarter section of his land, which was refused by Mr. Muncey, who knows when he has a good thing.

The oil situation looks more and more favorable as the oil is now flowing over the top of the casing in a considerable stream. Other wells are being put down.

The Farmers' Land league was reorganized this week. H. L. Muncey retired and A. C. Keimath and R. D. Person buying his interests. R. D. Person becomes president, William Dineley, secretary. A. C. Keimath, treasurer. All are of Artesia. This firm owns business at both Artesia and Garfield and is one of the strongest in the valley, and the new members insure for it continued success.

The Methodist congregation at this place has increased in strength, both as to number and finances, to the extent that they feel able to pay the pastor, Rev. J. Allen Ray, $2,500 a year. This is the largest salary paid in this conference, with the exception of El Paso, Albuquerque and Roswell, no other going above the $2,000 mark. This is Mr. Ray's second year here, and this is some evidence of the work he has done.

The main building of the Western college is about completed and is being used now. School work since the opening of the school has been carried on entirely in the dormitory. A hospital room, with all modern appliances is being fitted up at considerable expense, the gift of Mr. E. R. Kemp of Artesia.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE LOVE A HUMBUG

Canny old P. T. Barnum is authority for the truism that the American people live to be humbugged, and it was undoubtedly largely to his aptness at coaxing to his want that he owed a great measure of his success. Ever since the world began there have been bargain hunters; those who were always on the outlook for a chance to get something of value for less than its true value. There are multitudes in every generation who seem to be obsessed with the idea that they can "buck the other fellow's game" to their profit, and no amount of bitter experience seems to affect the stability of that idea. They will stake their last dollar on the elusive ball under a shell, the turn of a wheel, the roll of the dice, or the flip of a card, forgetting that "the man behind" was running that particular game for his own profit, and that the "sports" who are willing to "take a chance" (?) are considered his legitimate prey.

Not far removed from the shell game and its kindred is the so-called jewelry auction house of today. It is just about as much of a sure thing for the operator as any of the "avocations" enumerated above, and about the same relation exists between operator and the ones "operated upon," and one of the worst evils connected with it is that even jewelry merchants who haven't much to lose by the forgeries of public confidence and esteem often lend their name and such business standing as they may have to the oily tongued auctioneer who coins it into dollars and cents.

The Farmers' Land league was reorganized this week. H. L. Muncey retired and A. C. Keimath and R. D. Person buying his interests. R. D. Person becomes president, William Dineley, secretary. A. C. Keimath, treasurer. All are of Artesia. This firm owns business at both Artesia and Garfield and is one of the strongest in the valley, and the new members insure for it continued success.

The main building of the Western college is about completed and is being used now. School work since the opening of the school has been carried on entirely in the dormitory. A hospital room, with all modern appliances is being fitted up at considerable expense, the gift of Mr. E. R. Kemp of Artesia.

"god of the auction bench" to get it.

Jewelry is the line usually chosen for their operations, mainly because it is a line about which the public knows little, and they buy on the word of the gentle auctioneer, who, as a rule, none of them ever saw before, and few will ever see again in this world.

The riter has seen these auctions operated from "the inside" and it is usually something like this: The dealer advertises that there will be positively no by-bidders, and that you will have the privilege of examining at your leisure any article in his stock, and will put up and auction off any article on which you wish to bid, and that the highest bid takes it. Sounds good, doesn't it? Well, here is the process: Supposing you are bidding on a watch which cost the dealer $25 and after the bidding reaches $20 it stops. It will never do to let it go at this figure, so, amid a running fire of talk the auctioneer takes a fictitious bid, something like this: "Twenty, who'll go twenty-five? twenty, who'll go twenty-five? Twenty $60 if it's worth a cent. Twenty—who'll make it—thank you; I'm bid twenty-five by that gentleman over there; now who'll make it thirty?" etc., etc. Now, as a matter of fact, nobody bid the twenty-five at all, but the gaping crowd takes it for granted that someone did, and a bidder may thus be kept bidding against himself until the article can be profitably sold to him "at his own price," and he never be the wiser.

If, however, no real bidder reaches a point where the article can be "knocked down" to him at a profit, it is "knocked down" to the show case in front of the auctioneer, and if the article, after being "knocked down," is placed on one of these mats those on the inside know that it has been actually sold, and accordingly proceed to wrap it up, deliver it to the successful bidder and collect for it. If it is laid on the other mat it is likewise understood that it was only apparently sold, and it is taken back to the wrapping counter and apparently get it ready for delivery, but in fact shuffle it away, and it will appear later again for sale. In the meantime the crowd has been interested in some other article offered for sale and has forgotten all about it. Simple, isn't it? And yet, to his advertisement, there have been no "by-bidders" and to all outside appearances everything has been conducted openly and above board, yet the bidder has either paid a profit or been (apparently) outbid, and the result is the same. The goods when finally sold net the dealer a profit, and the bargain hunters "hold the sack." As a matter of policy an article is occasionally knocked down for less than it is worth to keep up the interest, and it says: But when an item is "sold" on a fictitious bid (which fictitious may be very low) the crowd marvels at the wonderful bargains being picked up, which stimulates the next bidder, and so the game goes on.

On watching this class of auctioneer "getting in his work" by one who knows, the thought recurs very forcibly that "a fool is born every minute."

Of course there are legitimate auctions, but unless you know the auctioneer as you know other men to whom you are willing to entrust your money, and that his word is good, the only safe plan is to forget any bargain propensity you may have and buy your goods of your own legitimate dealer. In buying anything the best plan is to buy of a business man who can supply your wants, and whose guarantee, once given, is undoubtedly good.—Exchange.

CLEVER FILMS AT THE PASTIME AND CRYSTAL TODAY

Twin Theaters to Have Excellent Programs for Matinee This Afternoon and All Shows This Evening.

Splendid programs have been arranged for this afternoon and evening at the Pastime and Crystal theaters and patrons may expect unusually good shows at both houses. Excellent biograph films will be shown at both theaters and there will be the usual orchestra program, interspersed with the hand catchy illustrated songs.

At the Pastime, the feature film will be a biograph entitled, "Two Women and a Man," a picture perfect in staging, acting and photography. The story told in the picture is full of sentiment and has a great moral and must be seen to be appreciated.

At the Crystal, the big event on the program will be a biograph, "The Light That Came," being a touching story of the romance of a blind musician. This film is nearly a thousand feet in length and there is a heart throb in every foot of the way. The story is full of pathetic and touching incidents. It is a picture that will make a beautiful and lasting impression on those who have the good fortune to witness it. Like many moving pictures, the story is one of love and devotion, depicting the enkindling of love between two pure souls and tender hearts and telling with much vividness their trials and troubles.

Those who fail to take in at least one of the two good shows today will be missing a treat.
