Coast party made sixty-eight miles in three days despite bad weather, and the necessity of going twice over big lead two miles wide and this, I adds, at a time when the sledge loads were heavier. Cook, he says, had traveled over a distance of 17 per cent greater at a speed 40 per cent faster than Perry with his years of experience and superior organization.

The record, he says, of any Arctic traveler, need no revelation for, if they are honestly inscribed, they cannot be subject to revision. Such records, he points out, are kept in "dirt, greasy, grimy note books," the inscriptions in which have been "penned with frost bitten fingers by a weary man lying in the half darkness of a reindeer skin bag, in a snow hut or tent."

"Let it be understood," says Mr. Wellman, "that such records are always ready. They are complete and perfect the moment they are written. They can be turned over to a scientific committee in two minutes as well as in two months—and much better."

The man who has done an honest piece of work and recorded it faithfully, hour by hour, needs no reconstruction that record. The bank cashier who took his daily ledgers covering a quarter year home with him, upon the pretext that they needed revision and preparation before submission and insisted on retaining them some months with no other eyes than his to see them, would probably find himself in trouble with his directors and the officers of the law."

Mr. Wellman scoffs at Cook's astronomical data, especially the observations which he claims to have taken within 1,418 feet of the pole.

"He is indeed a marvelous traveler," declares Wellman, "who can average 1.5 miles per day for more than a month over sea and ice with heavy sledges and a marvelous astronomical observer, who can locate his position within 1,400 feet—four minutes walk—and then 'advance' for the purpose of locating it more closely, like the story of the amateur mountaineer who ascended a peak and returned with a report that he measured its altitude by barometer and found it to be eight miles, 25 rods, seven feet and three three-eighths inches."

Mr. Wellman flatly declares that such observations could be manufactured anywhere, by anybody and to support this assertion he includes an "observation" such as might have been made at the North pole on April 21, 1908, "which I made today in Washington with a pencil and a nautical almanac."

"Anyone who knows nautical astronomy," he adds, "can sit down in Annatook of Brooklyn or anywhere with a nautical almanac by his side and construct latitude observations at will."

"Cook's is to the trained eye and ear, a story of a counterfeited presentment, precisely such a story as one might pen during a leisurely journey along the coasts of game lands, using the incidents thereof, to aid the imagination in a deliberate transfer of the scene of action some hundreds of miles further north."

Brother's Statement Declares Missing Explorer, on Verge of Nervous Prostration, Has Sought Needed Seclusion.

By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire. New York, Nov. 28.—The brother of Dr. Frederick A. Cook tonight, that is, an authoritative statement was issued by his brother W. L. Cook, saying the explorer, who mysteriously disappeared from public view yesterday was still near New York recuperating.

He was on the verge of a nervous breakdown and his retirement was absolutely necessary.

The statement as issued by Mr. Cook follows:

"Dr. Cook is in the vicinity of New York trying to get a much needed rest. If he decides to go to Europe there will be no secret concerning his departure. I think that his friends and critics alike should be charitable enough to allow him to rest until his health is fully restored. He has not been reading the newspapers in the last few days and is not responsible for the statements that have been issued by those who were acting as his spokesmen."

In sending this data to Copenhagen Dr. Cook has fulfilled his obligations to the public.

The foregoing was issued by the explorer's brother in view of the fact that the doctor's apparent seclusion caused great anxiety among his friends leaving even John R. Bradley, his financial backer, being puzzled and exasperated. Mrs. Cook is also in New York but her exact whereabouts has not been announced.

GERMAN REICHSTAG TO CONVENE TUESDAY

Berlin, Nov. 28.—The Reichstag will reconvene Tuesday, the emperor returning to Berlin to open the session personally. The speech from the throne is expected to contain interesting forecasts of the imperial policy. The session will be comparatively quiet, it is believed, although differences between the various parties is still intense.

much a mystery as those of her husband. She is supposed to be staying somewhere in the city, but just where could not be learned.

Dr. Cook's health is the matter of great concern among the friends whom he has left in the dark. Prior to his sudden retirement he was reported to be on the verge of nervous breakdown and it is assumed by some that the need for absolute rest may have prompted his wife to insist on his seclusion.

PIERCE READY TO FACE TEXAS COURT

Austin, Texas, Nov. 28.—Attorneys for the state in the case of Henry Clay Pierce on the charge of false swearing which will be called in the district court here tomorrow, held lengthy conference this afternoon.

Mr. Pierce's attorney reported late tonight the defense is ready for trial and that Mr. Pierce, Judge Perkins, one of his chief counsel and one or two special attorneys will be here in the morning. He said last night that the state was not ready for trial.

ALGERIAN ATTACKS FRENCH ARMY OFFICER

Paris, Nov. 28.—An individual believed to be insane and having an imaginary grievance against the war department, shot and seriously wounded General Verand today on the steps of Hotel Continental, as the general was entering the building to attend a banquet. The man was arrested. Later it was learned that he had mistaken General Verand for General Brun, minister of war.

The attempted assassination created a sensation. It occurred a few moments after President Fallieres left the Hotel Bristol, nearby where he was calling on King Manuel of Portugal. Hundreds ran in the direction of the shots and several officers sprang upon General Verand's assassin who proved to be an Algerian. He was overpowered with difficulty and found to be a walking battery of revolvers and daggers.

General Verand received bullets in the neck and forehead and his condition is considered dangerous.

HUNDRED AND FORTY HORSES ARE CREMATED

Valuable Animals Perish in Livery Stable Fire at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Nov. 28.—One hundred and forty horses were cremated tonight when the "Hill Front" livery stables caught fire in some unexplained manner. Two of the animals were high class driving horses that had taken blue ribbons at horse shows here and in Chicago and St. Louis. They were Lord Gallant for which $2,500 had been refused and Biscuitheart worth $1,200. The total loss was $50,000.

BOYS UNDER LEGAL AGE LOST LIVES IN CHERRY MINE

Coroner's Jury to Investigate Alleged Violation of Illinois Child Labor Regulations.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 28.—The coroner's inquest into the St. Paul mine horror will be resumed tomorrow. The state factory inspector will offer evidence of the employment of boys in the mine under age who were killed and will ask the coroner to bench subpoenas for witnesses to inquire fully into the violation of the child labor law.

WEST INDIAN LINER LONG OVERDUE

Steamer Herrera Nineteen Days Out of Santiago for Ponce; Vessels Sent to Search for Her.

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 28.—It is nineteen days since the Herrera line steamer Herrera left Santiago, Cuba, with a cargo of cattle, bound for Ponce, P. R., where she was expected to arrive November 11. The steamer, however, has not been heard from and it is believed she has foundered.

Herrera line officials have sent the steamer Havana to search for her and the Cuban government has instructed coast guards to explore the coast of Santo Domingo.

PECOS VALLEY OIL FIELD IS WINNER

ARTESIAN WELLS AT DAYTON GIVE UP GREASY

Former Governor Hagerman at Head of Company to Develop the Industry Which Means Much to Already Rich Country

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal] Carlsbad, N. M., Nov. 28.—The Pecos valley oil field has been demonstrated to a certainty. For many years oil indications in various parts of the valley have been studied by men familiar with oil matters. Eight years ago a test well was started about two miles west of Carlsbad, but for lack of funds the well was abandoned before reaching any great depth.

Indication of oil had been found in various wells, both shallow and deeper wells. In the artesian district around Dayton gas was encountered in an artesian well about a year ago. The water was caused of and preparations made to make use of the gas for domestic purposes. The pressure has increased steadily. The last test was made a week ago with a 400-pound gauge. When the gas was turned on the indicator showed a heavier pressure than 160 pounds. In June oil was encountered in an artesian well at 1,920 feet. An artesian flow of water had been struck at 800 feet, but the flow being not as strong as desired they continued on and found the oil at a greater depth. Attempts had been made to ease off the water but without success. A column of water 1,920 feet is rising on the well and 500 feet of water has continued to produce several barrels of oil a day every since. Pressure is evidently great enough to push the oil through 220 feet of dead water. A short time ago in the same locality another artesian well developed oil. So far they have not succeeded in casing off the water. The well is producing at the present time at a very conservative estimate twenty-five barrels of oil a day. This oil is of very high quality. These three wells near Dayton demonstrate absolutely the presence of oil in paying quantities, and it only needs capital to bring the field into a producing condition. West of Carlsbad is another field extending to the Guadalupe mountains. Experts have investigated this field and find very strong indications of oil over a wide area in this district. The wells scattered through this territory show more or less oil. Occasionally wells have to be abandoned on account of the oil in the water. The surface rock is very strongly impregnated with oil. Ex-Governor Hagerman has organized a company and leased several thousand acres of land in the Dayton district and one of the conditions of the lease is that a number of test wells should be sunk within a year. J. J. Hagerman agent considerable money in investigating the oil conditions further up in the valley.

PRIEST DECLINES TO OBEY EXCOMMUNICATION

Father Carrigan Reads Order Excommunicating Him From Church.

Denver, Nov. 28.—Despite the formal notice of his excommunication from the church, was read in most of the churches of the Catholic diocese of Colorado, Father J. P. Carrigan, pastor of St. Patrick's church, conducted services before a large congregation today.

Father Carrigan read the formal notice of his excommunication by Bishop Mote to his parishioners. He then discussed the notice in detail explaining the charges brought against him by Bishop Mote and characterizing the document as "the last stroke of a desperate man, consumed by the spirit of revenge against his brother."

Father Carrigan's stand in refusing to vacate the pastorate was upheld by local courts.

UNCLE SAM'S PAY ROLL GROWS

Increase of Nearly Sixty-Four Thousand Names in Past Two Years; Arizona Has Smallest Number Holding Office.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Washington, Nov. 28.—The personnel of Uncle Sam's establishment is increasing by leaps and bounds, the grand total of all federal employees being approximately 270,000 against 206,141 in 1907, an increase in two years of 63,824 of 29 per cent.

The District of Columbia leads all the states and territories in the number of persons working for the government in this country.

Arizona is credited with the smallest number—19—whose aggregate salaries amount to $25,226.

EIGHT THOUSAND NOBLES EXPECTED IN NEW YORK

Convention of Mystic Shrine Opens Tomorrow in Big Town.

New York, Nov. 28.—The order of the Mystic Shrine will begin its annual convention here next Tuesday. More than 8,000 shriners are expected to attend.

CHILEANS WILL ASK KING EDWARD TO ARBITRATE

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 28.—The request of the Chilean government to King Edward that he act as arbitrator in the Atacama claim will be well through the charge d'affaires of the Chilean legation in London. It has not been announced whether the request has reached his majesty.

BOTH GOVERNMENTS AGREE ON ENGLISH KING.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The state department today received a cablegram from the Chilean minister of foreign affairs stating that the Spanish version of the protocol between the United States and Chile, referring to the Atacama claim to arbitration had been sent to Washington for verification.

Both governments have agreed to the proposition that King Edward be arbitrator in the dispute which involves damages to an American syndicate of more than one million dollars and while no formal attempt has been made to discover whether the British monarch will act, it is believed he will accept the task.

ARGENTINE PLEASED WITH THE MODE OF SETTLEMENT.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 28.—The Journal de Commercio today publishes a four and half column statement of the Atacama claim cabled by the state department at Washington to the Argentine ambassador here and several of the other papers print large excerpts indicating the interest with the promise of arbitration has aroused.

All papers express satisfaction that an amicable arrangement has been made.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR GOVERNOR JOHNSON

President Taft, Former Senator Towne and Governor Hughes Among Those Who Pay Tribute to Dead Democratic Leader.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] New York, Nov. 28.—Tribute to the memory of John A. Johnson, late democratic governor of Minnesota, was paid by President Taft, Governor Hughes, of New York, Charles A. Towne, former United States Senator from Minnesota, and others at a memorial meeting held today at the Broadway Tabernacle here, under the auspices of the American Scandinavian society.

Mr. Taft's tribute came in the form of a letter regretting his inability to attend.

President Taft's letter in part read: "I knew Governor Johnson, valued him highly as a friend and regarded his promotion to the governorship of a great state and national prominence as a statesman and citizen, as one of the best evidences of the equality of opportunity that we have in this country and of the fact that high character, earnest endeavor and ability and intelligence will enable a man to raise himself from the humblest position in society to a leader among us."

GENBOAT PRINCETON SAILS FOR NICARAGUA

Seattle, Nov. 28.—The gunboat Princeton, Commander S. H. Hayes, sailed this morning for Nicaragua, where it will join the gunboat Vicksburg, now at Corinto. The Princeton which has been undergoing extensive repairs will stop at San Francisco to take on ammunition and stores.

NINE SAILORS LOST FROM WARSHIP

Gig and Whaleboat From Cruiser Marietta Carried Out to Sea at Colon; Heavy Weather Causes Fear for Safety.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Colon, Nov. 28.—Nine men are missing from the United States gunboat Marietta, which is lying off Port Limon, Costa Rica.

The gunboat today sent out a general alarm by wireless and a request that ships in that vicinity keep a look out for her gig and whaleboat. The gig was manned by a crew of four and the whaleboat with five men aboard, were carried out to sea in the heavy weather Friday night. Nothing has been seen or heard of either boat since. A reward is offered by the commander of the Marietta for anyone finding the boats or rescuing the men.

TAFT REACHES FOR BIG STICK TO TEACH NICARAGUA

Washington, Nov. 28.—The naval preparations which the United States began on learning of the execution of the two Americans at the order of President Zelaya will probably develop in the next few days into a "big stick," of the good old-fashioned kind which Uncle Sam may brandish over the head of the Nicaraguan dictator. Warships and army transports are being watched for indications of government's next move and any hour may bring news that Yankee bluejackets have landed on the soil of the war wracked republic.

It is understood here that Horace G. Knowles, the newly appointed United States minister to Nicaragua will probably have a commission to investigate political conditions in the Central American states.

Mr. Knowles has never departed for his post. Secretary of State Knox has summoned him to a conference at which it is understood the work and personnel of the commission is to be taken up.

INSURGENTS READY FOR THE FINAL STRUGGLE

Washington, Nov. 28.—Nicaraguan insurgents are now engaged in what is expected to be the final grapple with the Zelayan forces, according to unofficial advices tonight, reaching Salvador Castillejo, representative of the Nicaraguan insurrectionary forces here.

Advices indicate that fighting is in progress at Rama and Greytown and that a general assault on Managua, the capital will follow.

Arms and ammunition landed early this week from the Norwegian steamer Ustein are believed to be in the hands of the insurrectionists and prompt use of them by Estrada's forces is expected. Senator Castillejo pointed out tonight that it would require less than three days to transport the munitions from Bluefields where the Ustein landed them, to Rama, and that, as soon as his compatriots were supplied, immediate conflict with the government troops was inevitable.

The department of state tonight declared it had received no advices of any kind from Nicaragua. All inquiries as to the landing of marines on Nicaraguan territory were met with evasive replies but these were such as to give rise to the belief that some force has been put ashore to protect American interests and reconnoiter. Just how large this force is or how long it may be intended to be kept there could not even be guessed.

It was rumored here tonight that L. E. Corea, former Nicaraguan minister to the United States is slated to succeed Zelaya as president of Nicaragua and that his candidacy will meet with the favor of the United States government. White definite knowledge as to his plans are lacking. It is believed he left here tonight for Washington.

Twenty Dollars for Two

You would not trade twenty dollars' worth of butter for two dollars' worth of veal. Yet we can name bright farmers, right in this neighborhood, who feed young stock butter fat worth 25 to 35 cents a pound, when oil meal would be just as good for them. If you feed milk and skimmed milk, you are leaving one-quarter to one-half the butter fat in the milk. You are feeding valuable butter to produce cheap calf fat or pig fat. Gentlemen, that don't pay.

THE SHARPLES TUBULAR CREAM SEPARATOR

will save that cream—stop that loss—and put you that much ahead. Come and see the Tubular. Let us explain how and why it's the cleanest skimming, lightest running, most durable and easiest handled cream separator made. The Tubular is very simple. We will be pleased to take it all apart and explain exactly how it will pay for itself one to three times each year in increased dairy profits.

AGGIES WOULD LIKE TO WIN FROM VARSITY

Farmers Have Had Unsuccessful Season and Nothing Would Please Them Better Than to Win Game Friday.

Quite a bit of interest is being manifested locally in the game between the Varsity and the Farmers, scheduled to take place at Traction park, Friday afternoon, but a great deal more interest is being shown at the Agricultural college at Medina park. The Farmers have not been very fortunate in winning battles this season and would be delighted to make a favorable showing against the U. N. M. aggregation.

FISTIC IMPRESARIOS TO KNOW FATE WEDNESDAY

Bids to be Opened Then for Johnson-Jeffries Battle for Championship.

New York, Nov. 28.—On Wednesday the bids for the privilege of holding the fight between James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson for the world's heavyweight championship will be opened.

From out of the west, and even from Australia have come many sealed proposals but the contents of these are not yet known.

Joining from the many telegraphic bids received, an offer of six figures will be required to get the mill. The latest of the telegraphic variety was received in New York today, it said: "The Great Falls, Mont. A. C. offers $115,000 purse for the coming Jeffries-Johnson fight. We have insurance of protection from authorities. Can start on arena at once."

POSSIBILITY OF TRIPLE TIE IN BILLIARD CONTEST

New York, Nov. 28.—There is a possibility of a triple tie for first honors, cup and money in the international billiard championship tournament which will be concluded this week in the Madison Square Garden concert hall. The standing of the six competitors follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Cline	4	1
Demarest	3	2
Sutton	3	2
Slosson	1	2
Cassiano	1	3
Cutler	0	4

Sutton is to meet Cassiano tomorrow afternoon and Demarest will play Slosson tomorrow night. Should Sutton and Demarest win they will be tied with Cline who has won four of his five scheduled games and is sure of a substantial cash prize. Slosson and Cutler will meet Wednesday for their fifth game and if they have to be played off the tournament will not be completed until Friday.

New Shot Put Record.

New York, Nov. 28.—Marlin J. Sheridan, of the Irish-American Athletic club, made a world's record today with the 42-pound stone which he hurled 27 feet, 5 inches, four inches better than the mark set by James Mitchell many years ago.

SPENCER BEST AMERICAN ASSOCIATION BATTER

St. Paul Catcher Has Average Above .300 For Fifteen Games Played.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 28.—Only one player—Catcher Ed Spencer of St. Paul, has a batting average of more than .300 for fifteen games according to the official batting averages of the American association, issued today by President Joseph E. Sullivan.

Outfielder John O'Connell, of Minneapolis, formerly of the Chicago Americans, is the first regular in the list to be batted second with a mark of .284 for 144 games.

Harry Clark of Milwaukee has the distinction of having played in more games than any other member of the association. He participated in 173 games and batted 257.

Columbus leads in team batting with

.247 and Louisville the winner of the pennant was sixth with .233.

UNUSUAL INTEREST IN POWELL-WOLGAST BATTLE

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Sporting circles are taking an unusual interest in the fight between Lew Powell and Ad Wolgast which will take place tomorrow night here. The betting is livelier than any match of recent date. Powell was a 10 to 6 favorite tonight but there was plenty of Wolgast money in sight and it seemed that the odds might even up.

BALL PLAYER HURT BY EXPLOSION IN MINE

Thomas Cowell, Recently Engaged by St. Louis Nationals, and His Brother Crippled for Life.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Bloomington, Ills., Nov. 28.—Thomas Cowell, pitcher with the Decatur Three I league baseball team this year recently sold to the St. Louis Nationals, and his brother William, both miners in the Christian county coal mine, are in a critical condition here suffering from injuries sustained in an explosion of powder in the mine shaft. William will be blinded and Thomas's arm was so seriously burned that he may never again be able to play baseball.

MUCH MARRIED MAN IN TROUBLE

Bigamy Charge Against St. Louis Husband Results from Favorite Wife's Boasts to Discarded One.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) St. Louis, Nov. 28.—Samuel H. Buschmann is in jail here on a warrant issued in Milwaukee at the instance of Mrs. Bertha Liersch Buschmann of Milwaukee, charging bigamy. He was taken from his home last night where he was living with Mrs. Annie Durgen Buschmann, whom he married in 1892.

Buschmann does not deny the charge. Last June his St. Louis wife confronted him in Milwaukee where he had been living with his other wife. As neither would prosecute they decided to abide by his choice.

Buschmann chose his St. Louis wife and came here to live. The Milwaukee wife stipulated that she should be paid $12 a month and it is said these payments were made. Buschmann told Detective Louis Krueger of Milwaukee that his St. Louis wife's boasts to his Milwaukee wife were what caused his arrest.

KING OF ITALY TO ACT AS ARBITRATOR

Will Settle Dispute Between Mexico and France.

Mexico City, Nov. 28.—King Victor Emmanuel III of Italy will act as arbitrator for France and Mexico in the dispute between those countries over the possession of Clipperton Island. The Mexican government has been officially notified that the king had accepted the invitation to act in that capacity. That papers setting forth the details of Mexico's claims to the ownership of the island on which she now maintains a small garrison will be ready for submission in sixty days is stated at the foreign office.

EXPLOSION WRECKS HEATING PLANT IN HOSPITAL

Dynamite Left in Coal by Careless Miners Held Responsible for What Might Have Been Frightful Catastrophe.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Chicago, Nov. 28.—Dynamite in coal is believed to have been the cause of an explosion tonight in the furnace of the American hospital in which the lives of patients, nurses and doctors of the institution were imperiled. The explosion wrecked the heating plant. It occurred in the firebox of the furnace shortly after the janitor had filled it with a fresh supply of coal.

The hospital authorities believe dynamite from the coal mine was in the coal and they have ordered that all coal in the bins be taken back by the company from which it was purchased.

SUGGESTS HARM ON AS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE

Former Governor Glen of North Carolina Says Ohio Man Would Be Ideal Standard Bearer.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Richmond, Va., Nov. 28.—Former Governor R. B. Glenn, of North Carolina, in an interview here today said that Judson Harmon, governor of Ohio will be the next presidential nominee of the democratic party in his judgment. Everywhere I have found Harmon as the leading candidate in public and party opinion.

WORDS NOT MONEY NEEDED FROM JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

Preacher Demands That Scrooge King Define His Position on Evangelical Christianity.

New York, Nov. 28.—John D. Rockefeller's most needed contribution to religion according to Rev. Oscar Haywood of this city, is words not money. Such an expression Mr. Haywood contends would do more than anything else to equalize religious difficulties and establish a broad bond of brotherhood.

THANKSGIVING DAY CELEBRATED BY SURVEYORS

Excellent Dinner at Rio Puerco Followed by Clever Speeches Pleasant Feature of Life in Government Camp.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey precise level party celebrated Thanksgiving at Rio Puerco in memorable style, an excellent dinner being followed by clever speeches and toasts. They celebrated the end of a long hard season, and one of the most difficult times of levels ever run.

The party occupies two outfit cars, leased from the Santa Fe railroad. The mess car was decorated for the occasion, the walls were hung with Navajo blankets, and carols which have been picked up during the season. The windows were darkened, and Japanese lanterns shed a pleasant and mellow light on the table.

The centerpieces were the precise level itself, hung with ribbons, one for each of the four world's records which the party has established this season. At W. Barnard, who is a cartoonist out of office hours, had made a ridiculous caricature of each member of the party. These cartoons lay by the plates of the persons they represented. On a Navajo blanket behind the head of the table hung the service flag of the coast survey.

Dinner began at 2 o'clock. The menu was large and the "soups" excellent. The turkey was a fine one, and done to a turn. Much credit is due John Perry, the cook, for his skill in preparing the meal. When all the men were filled to repletion, chairs were pushed back, cigars lit, and the program commenced.

H. W. Maynard, chief of the party and toastmaster, made a short introductory speech, summarizing the work of the summer and telling appropriate funny stories. He spoke of the party's feeling of thankfulness for such a successful season, and of the manner in which distinctions of rank have been dropped in the development of a record-breaking party. The usual custom of calling on the speakers for a speech and a toast was not followed, the speeches and toasts being separate. A toast was drunk to "The President of the United States."

L. J. Van Orslove spoke on "How We Run the Line." He went over the story of the work in retrospect, calling to mind incidents of the work. The start near Needles and the beheading across the Mohave desert, windy days work in the early morning and late evening during the fierce heat of June and July, through Seligman and Ash Fork, the week's vacation at Williams, in July, when the men visited the Grand Canyon, the rapid leveling past Winslow and Gallup, and cold days at Laguna, were brought in succession before his hearers. Pleasures and difficulties of the seven months work were vividly recalled.

Then followed a toast to "The Coast Survey," with over a century of honorable achievement in many fields ships and land parties in the United States, Alaska, and the Philippines.

G. W. Barnard made a clever speech on "Cartoons and Cartoons," and showed himself as good making cartoons with words as with his brush. He told amusing stories of the members of the party, and humorous and embarrassing situations in which they had found themselves.

He told how Mr. Maynard, the chief, went to an Indian dance at Manito, wrapped in a Navajo blanket of such a pattern that it made him look like "the ass of diamonds" going out to meet the deck.

A toast was then given to Mr. O. H. Thimann, superintendent of the coast survey, "Inspector of polar records," and to Mr. William Boyle, inspector of geodetic work.

N. E. Lynch spoke cleverly on "Home and the Ladies." He spoke of home coming that will soon follow, and proposed a toast to "The Ladies."

H. O. Holloway spoke briefly on "Shepherding as a Means to Salvation," and told of "the wide places" and life on the open range.

A toast followed to "Precise Level Number Eight," the instrument which has been used throughout the season, and to the records which have established with it.

F. F. Culpepper made an excellent serious speech on "The Indians of the Southwest." He told of the tribes, Mohave, Hopi, Navajo, and Pueblo, through whose country the party has passed. He spoke of their success in native industries, and their advances in civilization.

The last toast was "To the End of the Line," which will take place about December 1th.

After the conclusion of the regular program, the men sang songs and "swapped yarns" of the summer, and unanimously declared the celebration one of the most pleasant they had ever attended.

Last week the line was advanced 20 1/2 miles in four days' work, no re-running being required. It is now completed to a point 19 1/2 miles from Albuquerque, and unless some unforeseen obstacle arises should be completed during the latter part of this week. About one-half day will be required to make connection with the astronomical station of the Geological Survey, established some years ago.

ARKANSAS GIRLS FIGHT DEADLY KNIFE DUEL

One Dead Other in Jail as Result of Attempt to Settle Old Grudge by Street Battle.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Bradford, Ark., Nov. 28.—In a street duel with knives at Albia near here today Miss Nora Owens was fatally injured by Miss Stella Belk, and died within a few minutes.

The duel was the result of an old quarrel. Miss Owens was out in four places, the fatal wound being in the left breast, where an artery leading to the heart was severed.

Miss Belk was arrested.

OF MARKED SIGNIFICANCE.

We have already called attention to the fact that the result of the recent congressional campaign in the Sixth Illinois district was of very much more than ordinary significance, in that it illustrates the weakness of the so-called "insurgent movement," which a few disgruntled politicians and newspapers have been trying to make the public regard as a veritable political ground-swell. And now comes the Chicago Inter Ocean, and remarks upon the same subject as follows:

"Republicans all over the United States would do well to ponder on the results of the campaign in the Sixth Congressional district. Every issue that has been at stake in the last six months between Regulars and Insurgents was discussed before the voters. Democrats and Republicans of national reputation were called in to address the meetings. Senators and congressmen from both sides of the tariff question submitted all the arguments that have been elicited by the final tariff vote at Washington and the tariff speech at Winona. Mr. Taft, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Cummings, Mr. Bryan, Mr. Cannon and Mr. Aldrich were in vivid factors in the campaign as Mr. McKinley, Mr. Ryan and Mr. Barnes. In addition, there was all the Chattanooga screaming that a chorus of six anti-Republican newspapers of very fair intelligence could supply. And yet the victory of the regular republican candidate was of record-breaking proportions. It was an overwhelming that it even now is difficult to view it without amazement. What is the lesson? The Republican party does not need to be frightened in life or to be popular. That's part of it. Another part is that, if the sober Republicans have as much courage as they have sense, the "insurrection" will not be even a small factor inside of the Republican party three years from date, whatever may be outside of the party.

And as an illustration of the light in which the disinterested public sentiment of the country regards the result, take the following from the Washington Star. Our contemporary at the national capital reviews the matter very carefully and conservatively, from a nonpartisan standpoint, and concludes as follows:

"But, although the Republicans have in the main to show only success in a district already controlled by them, there is to be considered the fact that the Payne law and what is called Cannonism were issues in the campaign. The candidate was both a straight party man and a business man, and votes were asked for him on both accounts. So that we see in the votes cast for him both party sentiment and still stronger in the district, and business sentiment sustaining the Payne law as an acceptable and a workable redemption of the republican promise of tariff revision.

Speaker Cannon, then, will have this to support him when the house assemblies and, gavel in hand, he looks down on the embattled insurgents with Mr. Murdoch in command. He has always repelled to criticism by pointing to the attitude of his own people. When Mr. Campbell assailed him he asked for a verdict at home on the charges, and it was rendered in his favor. His majesties have grown with the activity of his enemies. And now another Illinois district unknown the charge of Cannonism by endorsing it.

Nevertheless, we shall witness a lively session of congress, with the speaker well to the fore all through the right. The challenge has been issued and accepted. Mr. Murdoch and his friends want Mr. Cannon to resign the speakership. Mr. Cannon is not of the retiring stripe. He has kicked up for the war, and the Sunflower Magazine is invited to lay on the conclusion of the Shakespearean quotation in the Cannon style.

AS TO CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

The law of New York requires every party, at the close of every campaign, national, state, county or municipal, to file with the secretary of state an itemized statement, duly sworn to, of all expenses incurred in the conduct of such campaign. In examining the sworn reports of expenses in the late majority campaign in New York city the World finds that $214,000 was expended by the republican county committee and about $175,000 by Tammany hall. The business Men's Municipal association spent $38,250. Mr. Hearst had previously stated that he contributed $5,000 to his campaign and pledged an additional $5,000 to more difficult.

the Civic alliance. The total expense of the campaign were thus approximately $400,000.

That is to say, continues the World, an average of 65 cents was spent for every vote cast, the Gaylor vote representing an average outlay of 55 cents and the Bannard vote of $1.30. In respect of the money spent the Hearst vote was the cleanest of all, representing an average of less than 10 cents for each ballot.

It is not intimated that these expenditures for party oratory and fireworks are unlawful. The fact for remark is the mounting scale of campaign extravagance under which it now costs $150,000 more to elect a mayor of New York than it cost to elect Lincoln president for his first term. The lavish use of money in elections is not justified on any ground of national expansion. It is inherently vicious.

GASTRONOMIC GAMBLING.

Col. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is so confident that there is going to be a serious "crack" in the republican party, that he is willing to stake an indefinite quantity of vittles on his judgment, and flings this challenge at the New York World.

"Nor let us be too cocksure of anything; and yet, albeit opposed on principle to games of chance, we have a wager to offer The World, not of money but of vittles, with payable a drop or two unbeknownst to the W. O. T. U. to wash 'em down—to wit, a dinner for twenty-four, to be given in Washington City, District of Columbia, on or before the first Monday of December, 1911. The World to invite twelve, the Courier-Journal to invite twelve, the Chief Justice of the United States, the Vice-President and the speaker of the house of representatives to serve as judges and referees and to sit at table as additional, excepting guests—or words to that effect—the proposition to be that Taft and Roosevelt are at daggers' points, by the Courier-Journal in the affirmative, The World in the negative.

"What sayeth our esteemed New York contemporary? Has it a mind, to do business? Shall we count it in?"

The World promptly accepts, and says: "The Colonel can count us 'in,' and we have only two conditions to impose:

"First—Win or lose, the Colonel shall personally order the dinner and supervise its preparation.

"Second—He shall stand by and see it through, from the caviar to the coffee.

"Bring on your food or your food, Colonel!"

CENTER OF THE EARTH.

What's the use of making such a fuss over Cook and Peary, as to which of them or both found the North Pole, when we have the center of the earth, officially located, right here almost in our back yards. Our neighbors, the Zuni Indians, located the center of the earth, generations ago, and although they did not have any brass tabs in which to bury their letters patent to the discovery, they built a monument in the best style of Zuni architecture, and set up a stone inside of it to bear witness to the fact that they go there first.

In the Zuni cosmogony the earth is conceived of as flat and shaped like a pancake. Being a chosen people of the gods, they were commanded early in their tribal career to go to the exact center of the world and there build their homes; and one of the most interesting legends of the people relates the story of their wanderings in search of the middle place, and tells how they knew it when they reached it. It is about 200 yards south of their village in the western part of this territory, thirty-five miles south of Gallup, and about a hundred and twenty miles from Albuquerque, by airship. It is marked by a granite shrine, built like a bake oven out of flat stones. Two large removable flagstones close the entrance, which faces the rising sun.

On the top are a number of conical formations, known to the Indians as thunder stones. In the interior are large numbers of feathered prayer sticks and several earthenware vessels, filled with sacred meal. Numerous ceremonial dances, in the nature of rainmaking rites, are performed around this holy place.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION.

Senator Penrose, who stands close to Senator Aldrich in the effort for currency reform, predicts that there will be no action upon the currency matter at the coming session. As much as Senator Aldrich can hope to gain from his campaign of education is to bring the subject into public thought and persuade people to recognize the necessity for a more rational system than that with which we have been struggling through so many years of indifference. A really scientific monetary system, such as has been gradually developed in the experience of other countries, could not be created all at once out of our chaotic conditions. Concentration of opinion must be a slow process. We must come first among those who are competent to deal with so intricate a subject, and until expert opinion has united upon the essential ends to be aimed at, intelligent action by congress cannot be looked for. But Senator Aldrich's mission is not in vain. People are thinking and learning something of at least the outlines of banking and currency, and are getting some of the cobwebs of prejudice out of their minds. This congress will do enough if it refrains from making the work to be done by the next any more difficult.

TWO BUSINESS WOMEN.

Woman made another sharp attack on Manhattan the other night and captured one of the oldest of the masculine strongholds—the head of the table at a banquet. This the New York World tells us, was at the Hotel Astor, where Mrs. Matilda Francolini and Miss Rose Halley gave a dinner to celebrate their business successes in the field of real estate operations. Men were there, and glad to be there but they were mere guests.

Mrs. Francolini explained that her company had been operating for several years in Westchester, where it had built more than 450 dwelling houses without having once been bothered by a lien or foreclosure.

A vacation retreat on a large scale for mill and factory girls is the project of a steel millionaire's young daughter. An encouraging development of the era of swollen fortunes is the growing sense of a moral obligation among women of wealth to devote a part of their possessions to charity and philanthropy.—New York World.

Court decisions concerning trusts are usually discussed by attorneys for the combined interests as creating the necessity of accomplishing the same old results in a different way.

HOW THE PEN PUSHERS RECEIVE MILLS' APPOINTMENT

Good Lawyer.

The appointment of Judge Mills as governor of the territory meets with the hearty approval of practically all of the people of the territory. When the question of a successor to George Curry was brought before the president, the chief executive informed the members of the conference, that he would only appoint a lawyer to this position. It was not believed at that time, that Judge Mills could be prevailed upon to accept the position, but he was finally persuaded through the urgent requests of his many friends in highest circles, to accept the position as the last governor of the territory of New Mexico. Judge Mills' superior knowledge of law and his unimpeachable integrity will be depended upon by the administration to give the State of New Mexico the best constitution ever adopted by any state in the Union. For this reason among many others the president was glad to make the appointment of Judge Mills—Huron Range.

Good As Any.

Hon. William J. Mills of Las Vegas, chief justice of the territorial supreme court, has been appointed governor of New Mexico to succeed George Curry. The choice of Judge Mills for the place is as satisfactory as any that could have been made from the list of excellent candidates for that distinguished honor. It inspires the people of New Mexico and other successful business administration, and the reputation of the territory a continuance of public confidence in its policies.—Socorro Chieftain.

Gloomy Gus Satisfied.

William J. Mills will be governor of the Territory of New Mexico to succeed George Curry and without a doubt will be an improvement. How much an improvement time alone will tell. The record shows little of Judge Mills, but judging from the past he will not antagonize what is popularly known as the organization. We would have preferred that Judge Abbott should have received the appointment since it could not be Nathan Jaffe. Judge Mills has the ability to do full justice to the office and we will know in due time whether he possesses the other requisites of a governor for the people and not the "gang".—Roswell Record.

Broke His Pick.

When we were just ready to boast Will Robinson for governor when the last issue of the Register-Tribune reached our exchange table. Any man who celebrates Thanksgiving Day in a head of time has no business in the governor's chair.—Artesia News.

An El Paso View of Mills.

The selection of Chief Justice W. J. Mills to be governor of New Mexico is generally approved throughout the territory. Justice Mills is an old timer in New Mexico and married into a pioneer family. He has lived long enough in the territory to become thoroughly acquainted with her people, her needs and her aspirations.

Without reflecting in the slightest degree upon others who were mentioned for the appointment, it is nevertheless indisputable that the appointment of a very recent arrival or of an outside man would have been resented in some quarters. It is better that the choice has fallen upon one who is both an old resident and a man acceptable to the people of the territory regardless of politics.

Speaking broadly, the appointing power in the territories should not be used to appoint a man who could not or would not be elected by the people under ordinary conditions of free choice. It is fortunate that the present appointment is in a sense a non-political appointment. The present government is not of a sort to build up a powerful central political machine. It is expected that he will give the territory during his term a conservative, businesslike administration, fair and square, and progressive without recklessness.

From the very nature of his office he has been barred for years from extraordinary political activity. Consequently he will not go to the governorship bearing the ill-will or jealousy of any faction; nor will he be under obligations to any faction.

The principle of home rule is fully maintained, and the appointment will indirectly strengthen President Taft in the territory.

What's Doing all Over the Great Southwest

VIEWS IN THE MIMBRES VALLEY NEAR DEMING SHOWING WHAT IRRIGATION BY PUMPING CAN ACCOMPLISH.

Signing up Land to Irrigate by Pumping on the Mimbres

100,000 ACRES OF FARMING SOIL AVAILABLE

Deming to Vote December 7 on Bond Issue to Build Long Needed New Courthouse; All County Offices in One Room.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal] Deming, N. M., Nov. 27.—There is no doubt at this time that the necessary six hundred acres will be signed up by the farmers of the Mimbres valley to secure the big irrigation project by which a central power plant at Deming is to supply power to pumps all over the valley. The citizens can fairly see success as the result of their unremitting labors for several months past. The arrangements have already been made with an Ohio firm for the installation of the plant and the guarantee of the necessary acreage is all that remains of the proposition. When it is considered that this great valley has 100,000 acres of available farming land it may be easily seen what the beginning of pumping for irrigation will lead to in a few years. The entire success of this plan of bringing water to the soil in the Mimbres valley has been absolutely demonstrated. There is inexhaustible water. It lies at a shallow depth and can be raised very cheaply.

The land will be signed up at the rate of $42 per acre if the well is to be furnished and at $35 per acre if the well is not provided. Each well will be pumped by a small motor to which power will be supplied from the big central plant at Deming.

Courthouse Bond Election. The courthouse bond issue will be voted on December 7. This building will cost $25,000. Bonds will be issued for $25,000 and the remaining $15,000 has been raised by direct taxation. Luna county is sadly in need of a new courthouse. The present building is one large room and is being used by the probate clerk, the probate judge, the county school superintendent, county assessor and sheriff. The coming vote of December 7 will decide the bond issue.

Passengers Have Close Shave in Wreck

ROCKY MOUNTAIN TRAIN BADLY SMASHED UP

Three Cars Rolled Down An Embankment and Reduced to Matchwood; No One Injured in Slightest.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal] Las Vegas, N. M., Nov. 28.—The passengers on the east bound Santa Louis, Rocky Mountain and Pacific mixed passenger and freight train had a narrow escape early this morning as the train was coming into Colfax station according to advices received here. Traffic is completely stopped and will not be resumed until tomorrow.

As the train was coming into Colfax at reduced speed, part of a coal car caught on a switch in some manner and three cars were derailed and plunged over a steep embankment, being smashed into kindling wood. The track was torn up for many yards. Had the train been moving a trifle faster the result would have been great loss of life. As it was, not a passenger was hurt. They were derailed to Dawson to remain over night and will proceed on their way via the Rock Island train from that point in the morning.

Teachers of the Pecos Valley Break Camp

RESOLUTIONS PASSED AT PORTALES MEET

Artesia Selected for Next Meeting Place; Carlsbad Basketball Team Beats Portales Again.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal] Portales, N. M., Nov. 28.—The Pecos Valley Teachers' association broke camp in Portales at midnight Saturday night, after the most successful gathering of educators ever held in this section. The program closing with an enjoyable banquet in the Presbyterian church at which the Mothers' club and the citizens of Portales were the hostesses and hosts.

Artesia was unanimously elected as the site for the next annual meeting. Notable addresses and papers at the session were delivered by Superintendent Brasher of Roswell, Mrs. Felder of Clovis, Simpson of Roswell, Hicks of Artesia, Griffin of Carlsbad and Miss Griffin of Curry county. The violin solo by I. N. Cornington of Artesia was a splendid musical number.

A resolution of some importance was passed, endorsing several proposed changes in the law regulating the attendance of teachers at summer institutes and the attendance of children at school. A memorial to the legislature. More than a hundred teachers attended the sessions.

The second basketball game Saturday between Carlsbad and Portales resulted in another victory for the visitors.

Staple Oregon is changing hands in some quarters at 25 to 26 cents green, and Valley No. 2 moves on a grassy base of 28 cents. A line of 100,000 pounds of fine and fine medium Utah stock was sold this week at 22 to 23 cents, thereby cleaning up all the Utah wool on the market with one small exception. Crossbreds owned by dealers are in decidedly limited supply, and it is estimated that there may be three or four thousand bales of 60s and above available for purchase. However, the demand seems to run more towards crossbreds than merino although occasional sales of the latter are made at full price. In fact, no wool of any description, even poor clothing stock, can be bought at less than full quoted rates. One house disposed of about 150,000 pounds of new clip Montevideo three-eighths to arrive, on a basis of 12 to 14 pence in bond, the secured landed cost of which will be approximately 66 cents, or nearly eight cents more than the last sale of the old clip were made at.

ALL DAY STORM FIRST SNOW OF THE SEASON

BEAUTIFUL FALLS; GROUND IS SOAKED

Cold Weather Accompanied by Snow Fall All Over Territory; Santa Fe Gets Out the Rotaries.

Forecast.
Washington, Nov. 28.—New Mexico and Arizona: Fair Monday and Tuesday.

Oh, Slush!

Following the cold snap of Friday night, and cold raw weather of Saturday, it began snowing in Albuquerque yesterday forenoon and fell heavily until after sundown, the storm at times reaching the proportions of a blizzard although most of the beautiful melted as fast as it came down. It snowed heavily all through central and northern New Mexico as nearly as could be ascertained last night and in the mountains the fall was undoubtedly extremely heavy. The result locally was mud and slush which brought out all the last season's overshoes and if it hadn't been Sunday the shoe men would have done a thriving business in rubbers. The precipitation means plentiful moisture for the farmers and the sheep and cattlemen and it will undoubtedly do wonders for the winter range and fall crops. Whether or not the eclipse Friday night had an effect on the weather conditions, the change was simultaneous with the lunar phenomenon, a high wind accompanied by a heavy rain occurring early Saturday morning. The cold increased all day Saturday and Saturday night, a slight rise in temperature accompanying the snow yesterday. The rain and snow is a welcome relief from the long period of dry weather and dust and it was a pleasure to see things washed off. Yesterday was a typical eastern winter day and while extremely nice for a change and a good thing for agriculture and stock raising a week of such weather would probably cause a riot.

SANTA FE COMPANY GETS OUT THE PLOW

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal] Las Vegas, N. M., Nov. 28.—Commencing at three o'clock this morning a heavy snow has fallen all day today and is still falling. A high wind accompanied by a fall in temperature arose this afternoon and the officials of the Santa Fe railway got out the big rotary snow plows and prepared to do business with them on the hills tonight in case they are needed.

At a late hour the snow is coming down harder than ever and shows no sign of abatement. The men farmers are in high spirits and believe the moisture will mean much for the crops.

BLIZZARD RAGING IN DRY FARM COUNTRY

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal] Clovis, N. M., Nov. 28.—A snow storm and blizzard has been raging over all the great dry farming country of eastern New Mexico since midnight Saturday night. Stock will suffer slightly, but the storm will mean a fortune to the farmers as it was badly needed by five thousand acres of wheat in this district. Heavy snow is reported as far west as the Pecos.

GHASTLY DESERT FIND BELIEVED TO POINT TO A CRUEL MURDER

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 28.—An examination of the human bones found on the desert Wednesday morning and brought to the city by the Hageman Undertaking company, leads to the belief that the man was murdered and robbed a number of months ago. An examination found one of the skull bones split, this leading to the theory that the victim was struck on the head by an assassin, and the further fact that the pockets in the rotten clothing were found to have been turned out substantiates to a degree that the victim was relieved of money that he carried on his person after having been struck down.

Believing that it would be impossible to identify the dead man by the relics brought to this city, Wednesday night the coroner yesterday gave the undertaker permission to inter the remains. The bones were placed in a coffin and buried in Evergreen cemetery. The magnifying glass which was found in the pockets of the overalls leads to the belief that the victim was a prospector. A knife was found near the skeleton and it is possible that this was the weapon used in ending the life of the man at the isolated spot in the desert. Just on the knife indicated long exposure to the weather. The blades were all encased in the handle and if that was used in terminating the career of the prospector, the assassin closed the weapon before discarding it. A gunshot may have ended the man's life or he may have been stabbed to death. There are no marks on the remains to determine this owing to the fact that there is absolutely nothing left but bone. A small patch of gray hair clinging to the skull indicates that the man was advanced in years. The coroner's investigation will be held Tuesday morning and it is likely that interesting facts will be discovered at that time.

BUNCO SALESMAN DID THRIVING BUSINESS

CRIMP PUT IN GAME
BY THE POSTOFFICE

Postmaster General Hitchcock
Grinding Out Fraud Orders in Large Packages; Some of the Victims.

Morning Journal Bureau,
613 Munsey Building,
Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.

W. S. Buchanan at Trevilians, Virginia, has been placed under the ban of the postoffice department by the issuance of a fraud order by the postmaster general. The inspectors have discovered that for several years Buchanan has been engaged in obtaining advances of money and samples of goods from various concerns, whom he induced to employ him as a traveling salesman. When he succeeded in procuring advances of money and samples of goods from concerns he never performed the work as agreed, but appropriated such goods and money advanced without making any return whatever to the concerns. Buchanan was able to command fabulous advances from business concerns by misrepresentations. He was always careful enough to preserve a good reputation in his local vicinity and with that standing obtained excellent letters of recommendation from congressmen, senators and public men in Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee, which he used to his great advantage in obtaining numerous concerns that were looking for agents to handle their goods in this particular section of the country.

When a position was obtained by Buchanan, it was his practice to secure as much advance money and as large a line of samples as possible and usually gave his employer a promissory note or indemnity bond signed by himself and wife. He then sold the samples, spent the money and wrote letters to his employer claiming either that he had not received the goods, that he had been robbed, or that he would call personally in a short time and make reimbursement. Neither Buchanan nor his wife owned any property and in no known instance has an employer been able to recover on the promissory note or bond.

The inspector in his investigation found that 44 concerns located in various parts of the country had been defrauded by Buchanan in the above manner. Practically every concern which had secured Buchanan's services were of the opinion that they had secured the services of a most valuable man as their traveling salesman when, as a matter of fact, he traveled for none of them, but spent their money, disposed of all the samples that he could get by the sale of his wares with brokers in Richmond and Roanoke, Virginia.

It was developed in the investigation that Buchanan has been obtaining goods under false pretenses through the mails and otherwise for a period of about 15 years. He has been convicted only once; at that time he was sentenced at Norfolk, Virginia, May, 1906, to three months in jail and fined $100 for defrauding S. Wilson and company of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, out of clothing and expense money.

Because they have been using the mails to defraud William Watkins & Co., James Patton, James Patton & Co., William Angel and Dr. William Angel, company, William Angel & company, operating at Lambrie, Kentucky, have been deprived further use of the mails by the issuance of a fraud order by the postmaster general. On investigation the inspectors developed the fact that the above names had been assumed by one Adam D. Carpenter, his wife, L. Carpenter, William Watkins and James Patton. It was the practice of these parties to send orders subscribed with one of these names to business houses, ordering goods and giving as reference the other fictitious names. When inquiry was made of the references given a reply was sent to the business house by Carpenter or one of the others in which the credit or standing was always given as "A. No. 1." L. Carpenter & company was a mercantile house conducted by Adam Carpenter and his wife. It appears that Mr. Carpenter formerly did business at this location under his own name, but after being forced into bankruptcy, the name of his wife was substituted. When goods were received in response to an order from any of the business houses at a distance, the practice of these parties at Lambrie was to dispose of such goods through the store of L. Carpenter & company and in this manner to refuse to make payment to the firm from which they had been obtained.

Inquiry at the depot of the Lexington and Eastern railway developed the fact that the parties had received many consignments of goods within the past two years and it is estimated by parties in a position to know that they received came through the railroad at Jackson as they had another shipping point on the Big Sandy railroad about the same distance from Lambrie, through which they had received as many goods as they had through Jackson.

All promises to pay made by the different firms except L. Carpenter & company were disregarded and all recommendations made by all the above different firms were false, according to the inspector, and made with the intention of using the mails to defraud dealers out of the goods ordered. The United States grand jury found that Adam D. Carpenter, L. Carpenter, William Watkins, William Angel and James P. Patton for fraudulent use of the mails.

In securing goods from certain business houses.

The postmaster general has signed a fraud order against Francis A. Milano, Rose Milano, H. Rogers, J. Rogers and Rose Rogers of Passaic, New Jersey, further use of the mails. It was discovered by the inspector in charge of this case that Francis A. Milano and his wife, Rose Milano, doing business under the above names are now confined in the Jersey City jail. These individuals were engaged in obtaining goods through the mails from various business houses without the intention of paying for them, but intending to sell such goods and appropriate the proceeds to their own use. Their method of operation was to answer magazine advertisements representing themselves as residing in Passaic, New Jersey, for several years and ordering such goods as they could readily convert into cash. When goods were ordered under any one of the above names, the other fictitious names were given as references. The communications from the business houses asking for the standing of Milano were received by him and answered by a communication always giving the standing as "excellent."

A greater portion of the goods were obtained from installment houses in the west, principally in Chicago. In some cases they paid the first installment and in many others no payments were made at all. The firm in Boston selling an excellent grade of silk, was on the weekly installment plan shipped the Milanoes an assortment with the understanding that they would be allowed the privilege of a ten-day trial. When payment was not made promptly a representative of this Boston firm called at Passaic where he secured a warrant for the arrest of Milano and his wife and they were taken into custody on October 16, 1909. A search of the premises revealed 29 pawn tickets and an admission was obtained from Mrs. Milano that five of these tickets were received for silverware shipped by the Boston firm. A few days later the grand jury returned an indictment both parties and they were remanded to the Passaic county jail at Paterson, New Jersey, in the sum of $1,500 bail, which was later furnished and they are awaiting trial in the county courts.

In Oklahoma the sale of intoxicating liquors is prohibited by law and much of the liquor consumed in that state is supposed to come from cities in the adjoining states that do not have such laws. Most of the liquor received from these nearby cities is understood to be ordered and paid for through the mails.

Postmaster General Hitchcock is in receipt of a letter from the postmaster at Miami, Oklahoma, with which he enclosed an application for domestic money order received at that office. This application was filled out in such a manner as to give the impression that the remitter desired no other than a quantity of the "red liquor." The money order was made out payable to a concern in Kansas City, Missouri, and in the amount space was inserted "16 quarts" and in the dollar space "35.90." An expert on the quality of old Bourbon states that the applicants was certainly more particular about the quantity than the quality.

UNCLE SAM WARNS OF RAVAGES OF CHINCH BUG

Pestiferous and Odoriferous
Little Insect Has Title Read
Clear; How to Cure Lococoed Cattle.

Morning Journal Bureau,
613 Munsey Bldg.,
Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.

Few insects caused more enormous losses to farmers than the chinch bug. These little bad-smelling insects get their living and at the same time do their destructive work by sucking the juice out of growing wheat, barley, corn, and grasses. They thrive at both low and high altitudes, and their range extends from Panama on the south to Manitoba on the north. But their region of greatest importance is the central part of the United States.

There are two varieties of chinch bugs—the long winged and the short winged. The latter are found over the eastern part of the United States and the former which have been responsible for the greatest damage to crops, are found throughout the region lying between the Rocky Mountains and the Alleghenies. The long-winged chinch bugs have two generations a year, the first hatching during May and June, the second mainly in August. The short-winged variety probably has but a single generation.

The insects hibernates during winter in grass, leaves, rubbish, weeds of corn or fodder, etc. They take advantage of fence rows, hedges, meadows, and woodlots adjoining the fields. The chinch bug first made its destructive powers known to American farmers just after the close of the revolutionary war by doing great damage to wheat fields in North Carolina. In 1820 it was again destructive to wheat in North Carolina, and in 1828 and 1840 to wheat and corn in that state and Virginia. About the middle of the century its destructive ravages began in Indiana, Wisconsin, and Illinois. The loss it occasioned in Illinois in 1850 was estimated to be $4.70 per capita for the whole population of the state. It was again destructive in the same region during the early 80's. In some districts one-half the corn and three-fourths of the wheat were destroyed. Walsh and Riley estimated the losses in 1864 at $25,000,000. They estimated the loss in 1874 in Missouri alone at $19,000,000, and in seven western states at $60,000,000. Great damages were wrought in 1887, and again in the years 1892-3. According to careful estimates the losses due to chinch bugs during the past sixty years exceed $350,000,000.

The United States department of agriculture has recently issued a circular (No. 111) of the Bureau of Entomology giving a complete account of this insect and its ravages, also a description of the methods to be employed against it. The reason for issuing this circular at the present time is that various indications point to another destructive outbreak of chinch bugs in the near future. Such outbreaks are periodical, and each outbreak is followed by several years during which the insect does no serious damage. The author says the numerous complaints of serious injury during 1908 betoken the beginning of a series of years of abundance and destruction.

The agency most destructive to chinch bugs is one which man is unable to control—the rainfall. Drenching rains early in the growing season are very destructive to the young insects. Periods of wet weather also cause the growth of a fungus which destroys them. Dry seasons favor the multiplication of chinch bugs, and a succession of dry seasons usually leads to their great abundance.

In this circular (which is for free distribution) are described some unique and very effective methods for destroying the insects when they become numerous and destructive. One of the most costly and baffling conditions with which stock growers on the western ranges have had to contend is known as the lococoed disease, caused by the eating of some variety of varieties of weeds indigenous to that section. Several plants, separately and collectively, have been popularly believed to be responsible for the losses to stock, and even the exact nature of the disorder has not been fully understood. Varying symptoms in different animals, reversed conditions in different sections, and varying response to the courses of treatment added to the perplexity of the situation. With a view to solving the problem in the case, the Bureau of Agriculture instituted a study, of which Dr. C. Dwight Marsh, expert in poisonous plant investigations, was in charge. This study covered a period of three years and was confined to the southwest.

Doctor Marsh's studies have definitely determined that the purple lococoed weed, botanically known as Astragalus mollissimus, and white lococoed, Astragalus lamberti, cause the disease, although other plants are not beyond suspicion.

That the ailment can be cured or controlled has been determined, especially in those animals affected are of sufficient value to warrant an extended course of treatment. The poisonous substance of the lococoed plants produces an irritant effect upon the stomach and intestines which results in an anemic condition and final death, by starvation. The treatment found most successful has been careful selection and preparation of the food to relieve constipation. Should improvement not result from dietary treatment, Epsom salts should be administered. To improve the nervous condition of horses arsenic in the form of Fowler's solution was found the most effective agent while for cattle hypodermic injection of strychnine in doses of from three-twentieths to four-twentieths of a grain proved best. Sodium cacodylate also gave beneficial results. The destruction of the plants in pastures is inexpensive and beneficial.

In its campaign against insects which injure plants the U. S. Department of Agriculture is not only covering the entire country, but is reaching out after the lesser as well as the greater offenders. Recently it has directed a special line of attack against "insects injurious to truck crops." With the development of truck gardening in this country the warfare against insects which attack the various truck crops has become a matter of necessity as well as of profit to the growers. The latest publication along this line deals with the celery caterpillar, the parsley stalk weevil, and the parsley leaf miner, insects which are more or less familiar to growers of these crops. This bulletin describes the insects named, their habits and methods of attack, the extent of damage they inflict, and the best methods of dealing with them. Aside from their economic importance, which appears to be increasing there are very interesting insects, and it is worth the while of growers to learn more about them.

An Old Story Contradicted.

The story of Pope Callixtus III and Halley's comet of 1456 is an old-timed one. Few accounts, indeed, of this famous comet appear without it, and it is chronicled in the works of the greater number of modern astronomers. It is related that this pope he used a bull against the comet, and ordered the angels to be rung to frighten it away. One of the few astronomers to pronounce the bull a myth was the late Professor Simon Newcomb. And now a writer in the scientific American points out that careful historical investigation shows that there is no foundation for the story and that the pope did no such foolish thing. A careful search through the "Bullarium Romanorum," which contains all the papal bulls, shows that Callixtus III issued no such document against the comet.

The story has been traced to Plinius, an author of the fifth century, who wrote "Lives of the Popes." According to Plinius's account, Callixtus issued no bull against the comet. But the mathematicians—the men of science of the day—having declared that some great calamity would follow the appearance of the comet, the pope ordered that it evils were impending should be ordered the bells to be rung—not to frighten the comet, but to remind the faithful of the duty of prayer. Even this rests on the sole authority of Plinius—London Globe.

It Sounded Hopeful.
A young man who was not particularly entertaining was monopolizing the attention of a pretty debutante with a lot of uninteresting conversation. "Now, my brother," he remarked in the course of a dissertation on his family, "is just the opposite of me in every respect. Do you know my brother?" "No," the debutante replied demurely, "but I should like to."—Lippincott's.

A NEW KIND OF CORN FROM CHINA. A small lot of shelled corn, of a kind that is now to this country, was sent to the U. S. department of agriculture from Shanghai, China, in 1908, and tested the same season. It proved to have qualities that may make it valuable in breeding a corn adapted to the hot and dry conditions of the southwest. The plants raised in the test averaged less than a foot in height, with an average of 12 green leaves at the time of tasseling. The ears averaged 5 1/2 inches in length and 4-5 inches in greatest circumference, with 16 to 18 rows of small grains. On the upper part of the plant the leaves are all on one side of the stalk instead of being arranged in two rows on opposite sides. Besides this, the upper leaves stand erect, instead of drooping, and the time of the leaves are therefore above the top of the tassels. The silks of the ear are produced at the point where the leaf blade is joined to the leaf sheath, and they appear before there is any sign of an ear except a slight swelling. This corn is very different from any that is now produced in America. Its peculiar value is that the erect arrangement of the leaves on one side of the stalk and the appearance of the silks in the angle where the leaf blade joins the stalk offer a protected place in which pollen can settle and fertilize the silks before the latter are ever exposed to the air. This is an excellent arrangement for preventing the drying out of the silks before pollination. While this corn may be of little value itself, it is likely that, by cross-breeding, these desirable qualities can be imparted to a larger corn, which will thus be better adapted to the southwest.

The discovery of this peculiar corn in China suggests anew the idea that, although America is the original home of corn, yet it may by some means have been taken to the eastern hemisphere long before the discovery of America by Columbus. From descriptions in Chinese literature corn is known to have been established in China within less than a century after the voyage of Columbus. But this seems a short time for any plant to have adapted to this idea that, besides, this particular corn is so different from anything in the New World that it must have been developed in the Old World, and for that to happen in a natural way would take a very long time. These ideas are brought out in Bulletin 161 of the Bureau of Plant Industry, which gives also an account of some cross-breeding experiments with the new corn and the changes which crossing produces in the grains the same season.

COWS FRAME UP COLD DEAL FOR CONSUMER

PEDDLERS OF LIQUID
BREAK THE SAD NEWS
Lactical Fluid Is to Be Increased in Price Two Cents Per Quart
Say Local Dairymen; Expenses Are Increasing.

The gentle and guileless cow is preparing to give the poor consumer the worst of it again.

Or, if the cow's intentions are benevolent, the owners of the cows and the men who direct the stream dedicated to human kindness into the gleaming milk pail; or who entice it forth through the ingenious mechanism of the electric milkster have it in for the ultimate drinker.

Or, if it isn't the dairymen, it is the feed men, and if it isn't the feed men the dairymen intimate that it is the board of health and the city of Albuquerque county of Bernalillo, see. Anyhow, you can get ready to have it gently broken to you that milk is to go up in price from one to two cents a quart.

Consumers of milk in Albuquerque said one of the leading dairymen yesterday, "may expect in the near future to be up against a considerable advance in the price of the fluid. The milk vendors are agreed that the increasing burdens they are called upon to bear in furnishing a sanitary product, coupled with the high price of feed, render such an advance absolutely necessary."

"This will make milk figure up to about twelve cents a quart or thereabouts. Eggs are steadily forging up to a dollar apiece and will soon be for the sole abatement of the manufacturer of great wealth."

Similar gentle proceedings are being administered to the price of various other articles of food. Where this business will end dependent solely on whether milk will get paler is not stated by the milkmen.

If it does they will probably offer the time worn excuse that the cow fell down and strained her milk.

The Wisdom of Silence.
The late Judge Silas Bryan, the father of William J. Bryan, once had several hams stolen from his smokehouse. He missed them at once, but said nothing about it to any one. A few days later a neighbor came to him.

"Say, Judge," he said, "I heard yew had some hams stole 't other night."

"Yes," replied the Judge, very confidentially, "but don't tell any one. You and I are the only ones who know it."

PRESIDENT IS IN EARNEST ABOUT STATEHOOD

THINGS LOOK BRIGHT IN WASHINGTON, SAYS LUNA

National Committeeman Optimistic Over Prospects for Passage of Enabling Act at Coming Session.

That President Taft is interested heart and soul in the work of securing the admission of New Mexico to statehood at the coming session of congress, and that much of the lukewarmness prevalent in various quarters of the east concerning the territory's claims, is giving away to a desire to see justice done to New Mexico, were the reassuring statements made to a Morning Journal representative last evening by National Committeeman Solomon Luna, who returned yesterday noon from Washington, where he has been for the past two weeks on matters incident to the appointment of a successor to Governor Curry.

"I have been going to Washington in the interest of statehood and other territorial matters for the past sixteen years," said Mr. Luna, "and I can say that never before have I found such a favorable sentiment among the party leaders toward the passage of an enabling act for New Mexico."

"My trip to Washington was primarily on business connected with the selection of a man to succeed Governor Curry as chief executive of the territory," continued Mr. Luna, "and I had four conferences with the president. At each conference Mr. Taft broached the statehood question himself and assured me that he was heart and soul in sympathy with New Mexico in her fight for admission and would do all in his power to help us along."

"Mr. Taft seemed so confident that New Mexico will be made a state at the coming session that the statehood question entered largely into his plans in the selection of a governor. He stated to me during our first conference that he desired to appoint a lawyer to the office, as it would be necessary for the new governor to take the lead in the matter of constructing a constitution for the state of New Mexico during the next eight or nine months."

Mr. Luna said that the name of Nathan Jaffa, secretary of the territory, was carefully considered as a successor to Governor Curry both by the president and Mr. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, who was present at the several conferences at which the matter was discussed.

"The president was much impressed with the recommendations made in favor of Mr. Jaffa," said Mr. Luna, "but decided that it would be better at this time to have the new governor a man learned in the law, and that he should be a New Mexico man. The name of Chief Justice Mills was agreed upon and his appointment followed."

The vacancy caused on the bench as the result of the appointment of Judge Mills to be governor, and the subsequent appointment of Judge William H. Pope to be chief justice, has not yet been filled.

"Mr. Taft desired to make a personal appointment to fill the vacancy on the bench," said Mr. Luna, "and no candidates for the position were recommended by me."

Mr. Luna stated during a general discussion of statehood matters that Senator Borah of Idaho would be one of New Mexico's chief champions and that he would lead the fight on the floor for the passage of the bill. Mr. Borah contemplated visiting New Mexico during the fall to secure data regarding its population and resources.

Urgent business detained him in the east, however, and he will secure the information from Mr. Ballinger, secretary of the interior.

LAP DESKS

Have you ever considered what a convenient thing is a Lap Desk? When you have started to write a letter did you ever have to turn everything upside down in the house for the paper; then, if you can, find the ink; next, get out a search warrant for penholder and pens; and then, lo and behold, that lot of stamps you bought not long ago is stuck away in some hiding place, waiting for you. In a lap desk the whole business is kept right together in a compact, neat leather desk that you can chuck in your trunk or suit case and take with you if you have to migrate. Then there is another advantage, you can easily move it to any place you wish without inconvenience.

When you are racking your brains about what to select this year for that friend, just settle the matter and get a Lap Desk. What could be more appreciated? We have them from $1.25 to $5.00.

NOVA SCOTIA MEN TAKE OVER RICH COONEY MINE

COONEY CONSOLIDATED
SUCCEEDS MOGOLLON CO.

New Organization Has Capital Stock of Fifteen Millions; To Pay Indebtedness of Old Firm

W. A. Henry and D. A. Hayman of Halifax, and W. H. John, of Glasgow, Nova Scotia, who head the newly organized and incorporated Cooney Consolidated Mining company, successor to the Mogollon Gold and Copper company were in the city Saturday night en route east after a visit to the properties accompanied by Thomas Curran the well known promoter for years identified with the Mogollon Gold and Copper company.

The Nova Scotia men and associates have taken over the rich and famous Cooney mine, ninety miles from Silver City which has produced fortunes for its owners in the past and expect to develop it on an extensive scale. It will be remembered that Mr. Curran returned to this city and to Cooney some time ago after an extended visit in Nova Scotia during which time it is presumed he was interesting the northern men in the property. Several days ago the new company filed in the office of the territorial secretary in Santa Fe articles of incorporation which indicate a capital stock of fifteen million dollars, divided into fifteen million shares. Vellacott and Fowler of Silver City are attorneys for the company and Thomas J. Curran is named as New Mexico agent.

It is said the new company has funds enough on hand to pay off the indebtedness of the Mogollon Gold and Copper company, which will be done at once and leaves a substantial working capital besides to develop the mine. A force of men are already at work and it is understood this force will be greatly increased in the near future. The main shaft of the mine has been pumped dry and has been put in condition for immediate development.

The new company has strong financial backing, they will work the property in systematic and business-like manner.

Early Machine Tools.
Like all other accomplishments of modern civilization, machine tools in their present forms are the result of a process of slow development. A machine does not spring full-fledged into existence, but is gradually evolved from some original type, gaining here and there a useful member, and losing in here and there a superfluous one, thus illustrating the survival of the fittest.

The early machine tools were of the crudest workmanship, and many parts were made of wood. In fact, the transition from wood to iron in the construction of machinery was in progress during the early part of this last century, and the formation of much of the machinery built at that time involved the conversion of structural shapes required for wooden machines into similar shapes in metal. In the first change from wood, architectural shapes and ornamentation were considered desirable, to make machine tools and other machinery meet what seems to us now the rather barbaric taste of those who were to use them.

In some cases, beds and uprights were paneled, in others they were decorated with fancy curves and intricate moldings, and show a remarkable contrast with the plain, sturdy framework of today.—Thomas H. Shaw in Cassier's Magazine.
