Southern War Claims Considered by House--For Relief of Maine Victims.

NEW MEXICO SCHOOL LANDS

Naval Marines Increased 473--Fleet Has Not Been Ordered to Philippine Islands--Unimportant Cabinet Meeting--Powderly Not Wanted.

Washington, March 11.—Under a special order in the house today was set aside for the consideration of the bill containing a provision for southern claims aggregating $1,200,000 as reported by the court of claims under the Bowman act.

Mr. Dalzell (Rep. Pa.) made the point of order that it was not competent for the war claims committee to report a bill containing $400 claims, each of which should be subject to a separate bill. The chairman (Mr. Payne, New York) ruled that the point came too late. The general debate proceeded under an agreement that it be limited to two hours.

Mr. Gibson (Rep. Tenn.) explained the nature of the claims, all of which were for stores and supplies furnished the army by loyal citizens.

Mr. Hall (Rep. Ia.) chairman of the military affairs committee, reported the agreement by the conferees on the army appropriation bill.

The bill for the relief of the victims of the Maine disaster was to have been called up today. Speaker Reed having agreed to recognize Mr. Boutelle, chairman of the naval affairs committee for that purpose. The latter left the hall to summon his committee, but before he could return, the regular order had been demanded and the house had gone into a committee of the whole to consider the Bowman claims bill. Mr. Lord (Calif.) demanded the reading of the bill which covers 80 pages.

Arid Lands for States.
By vote of seven to two the house committee on public lands today agreed to report favorably the Shafer bill for the cession of all arid lands to the states in which they are located. Under the Carey act, 1,000,000 acres have already been ceded to different states, but none but Wyoming has taken advantage of the act.

New Mexico School Lands.
The committee also agreed on allowing the territory of New Mexico to select at once about one-half of all the lands for schools, penitentiaries and like purposes that would accrue to it on admission as a state. This is a compromise on the part of the territory, which sought to secure all such land, the best part of which it claims, is being constantly culled while its claims to admission as a state are being ignored.

Fleet Not Ordered to Philippines.
Before leaving for a cabinet meeting Secretary Long said he had received no report thus far from the court of inquiry, nor had he ordered the fleet in China to the Philippines, as rumored today.

Cabinet Meeting Unimportant.
Nothing important was done at today's cabinet meeting and the discussion was of a most general character.

Increase of Naval Marines.

DEATH OF GENERAL ROSECRANS.

One of the Prominent Figures in Public Life Passed Away at His Home in Los Angeles--Biographical Sketch.

Los Angeles, March 11.—General W. S. Rosecrans died this morning. He was 79 years old. The old warrior's death was peaceful in the extreme. For several days he was at times unconscious and again in a comatose state. His splendid vitality kept him alive for days. At the bedside when the end came were his son and daughter, General Carl and Anna Rosecrans, and a number of immediate friends of the family besides the attending physician, Dr. Paines. When he was first stricken, more than two weeks ago, it was not supposed that the ailment was more than an attack of the grip, but although he rallied several times, the physician never held out much hope of ultimate recovery. The general had made his home on a large ranch, devoted to wheat and fruit raising. The third child, a daughter, Mrs. O'Toole, is at Helena, Mont., where her husband lives.

[General Rosecrans was born in Kingston, Ohio, September 6, 1819, and graduated from the United States military academy in 1842, entering the engineering corps as brevet second lieutenant. In 1847 he was employed on the repairs at Fort Adams, R. I. In 1848 he resigned from the army and became a civil engineer at Cincinnati. At the beginning of the civil war he was made colonel of the Twenty-third Ohio volunteers on June 10, 1861, and in the same year was promoted to brigadier general of the United States army. In April, 1862, he joined General Buell's army and at the siege of Corinth he was defeated. Price's army at luka; in October, 1862, he commanded the army of the Cumberland at Murfreesboro, Tenn. On October he was relieved of the command and transferred to Missouri to defend that state against General Price. After the close of the war he was brevetted major general, and on March 28, 1867, resigned from the army. In 1868 he was for some months United States minister to Mexico and in 1881 was chosen to congress from California, serving two terms. In 1885 he was made register of the United States treasury.]

MAKING GUNS AT WATERTOWN.
United States Will Save Money by Doing the Work Through War Department.

Watertown, Mass., March 11.—The United States arsenal here, which for many years has been an exclusive factory for the production of gun carriages and their equipments, gun implements and sea coast projectiles, has gone into the manufacture of guns. The work on the first forged gun ever ordered at Watertown was begun yesterday. The new undertaking results from the opinion of the ordnance department at Washington that the government has been paying too much for mortars manufactured by private establishments.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND'S POSITION.
Says That No True American Catholic Can Espouse the Cause of Spain As Against This Country.

Chicago, March 11.—"No true American Catholic will think of espousing the cause of Spain against that of this country, because the former is a Catholic nation," said Archbishop Ireland. "To do that, is to set one's self down as traitorously inclined to the teachings of this religion, as well as to the country, which it is his bounden duty to defend against all enemies, both internal as well as external. Whatever action the pope may take in this matter, will be with the single idea of averting, if possible, war between two Christian nations."

INSURRECTION ON PHILIPPINE ISLANDS
Prospective Trouble Between Spain and the United States Has Caused Rebellion to Break Out Again.

London, March 11.—Special dispatches from Shanghai say there is little doubt but the prospect of trouble between Spain and the United States has caused the rebellion on the Philippine islands to break out again and has increased the fierceness of the insurgents who, it is believed, have captured Atarra and Camarga, important towns connected by railroad with Manila.

FINANCIAL PANIC IN SPAIN

Likewise, all firms having contracts to supply the government with ordnance have been requested to work with their men night and day. As to small arms and extra ammunition orders have been already placed with the Union Metallic Cartridge company, of Bridgeport, Conn., and the Winchester Arms company, of New York.

Panic in Spain Over War Scare.
The anxiety as to the relations between Spain and the United States which has pervaded the financial and commercial circles here since the outbreak in a heavy fall in funds. Foreign exchanges have arisen in an unprecedented degree, prices on Paris being at 38 per cent premium and on London 39 per cent premium. The newspapers call on the government to stop the panic by a prompt and clear statement as to the real conditions existing regarding Cuba and defining all international relations.

Displeased With Uncle Sam.
The newspapers re-echo the profound sensation and displeasure caused by the United States sending the Montgomery to Havana and by appropriating $50,000,000 for national defense.

Investigation Completed.
Havana, March 11.—The naval board has substantially completed its investigation. Everything is now in the nature of cumulative testimony, strengthening the evidence that the Maine was blown up by an external explosion. The proof, from the condition of the hull, keel and magazines, makes what might be called a complete case of structural evidence of external cause. How far the board can determine the agency of explosion is very uncertain.

The digest and the analysis of the testimony, it is understood, is now on the way to Washington.

The autonomist government is in a state of collapse.

The Mormon colonies south of Deming, in Old Mexico, are in a flourishing condition, and have a total population of 2,375, an increase of 267 in the past year. Yesterday morning Judge Crumpacker granted the board of education a temporary injunction against the Water company, prohibiting that corporation from shutting off the water supply at the public school buildings. It was alleged by the school board that the Water company had given notice that unless the board obligated itself to pay for the water used the supply would be stopped; that under the contract with the city this service was to be furnished without extra charge. FRIDAY, MARCH 11.

Even the cemeteries in Chicago go in to the hands of receivers. First in everything is Chicago's motto.

The course of the New Mexican gives a valued contemporary or two a pain in the stomach. Too bad, truly, but duty is duty and this paper must perform its duty.

REPRESENTATIVE ROWLAND BLENNERHASSETT MAHANY in a recent speech in congress said, he despised all puritans. But as these latter are dead, they don't care much.

THE Democracy of this great and glorious country has fallen upon evil ways. It is reported that Mr. W. Jennings Bryan has taken to wearing a silk hat.

A LITTLE more activity among the leaders of the Republican party looking toward organization in the coming campaign would please the rank and file of the party in New Mexico.

THE territory expects every assessor to do his duty between now and the last of April. A fair, just and honest assessment of taxable property of every description should be had.

PIOUS JOHN VANAMAKER's intentions to beat Senator Quay are very good, but he should remember that the road to a certain supposedly hot place is said to be paved with good intentions.

THE Mormon church has 1,400 missionaries in the field and proposes to do a good deal of proselyting during the next few years. It must be admitted that the powers that be in Salt Lake City know what they are about and are generally successful.

THE trade of Europe with this country under the present Republican tariff is greater than it was under the Democratic Gorman-Wilson tariff, and this country under the present tariff benefits more greatly by European trade than it did under the Democratic Wilson tariff. The Dingley tariff is all right and this country is all right.

DURING the past six months the business of the land office in this city has increased very much and many homestead entries are being filed by actual settlers. This means that prosperity is abroad in this land district and that settlers are eager to secure titles to their lands. Very good all around.

SOUTH DAKOTA Democrats favor Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago, for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1900. Mr. W. Jennings Bryan would do well to look after his South Dakota fences. It seems that the young mayor of Chicago is feeling upon meat that may make him a formidable rival of Mr. Bryan.

OUR esteemed contemporary, the Raton Range, urges the citizens and taxpayers of Raton to put up first-class men as candidates for city officers at the coming city election. The New Mexican can do no better than iterate the same sort of advice to the taxpayers, property owners and citizens of the capital of New Mexico.

THE NEW MEXICAN will keep after the tax dodger and the dishonest and inefficient collector for good and as long as necessary. The interests of the honest taxpayers and the good citizens of the territory will be looked after constantly and courageously. They are the people and the salt of New Mexico.

THE intelligent compositor and the careless proof reader put the population of this country in a paragraph in yesterday's New Mexican at only 70,000,000 of people. However, it must be admitted, while the population of the country really is only something over 70,000,000, should war with Spain ensue, that unhappy monarchy will think that this country does contain 70,000,000,000 of people before the end of the war.

CERTAINLY, this paper takes great pleasure in informing its many friends and well wishers and also those on the other side, that with the aid of the WEEKLY NEW MEXICAN REVIEW and the Spanish EL NUEVO MEXICANO, it reaches a great many people in New Mexico and exercises a great deal of influence. The statesman and politician, who is level headed and desires success, sees to it that the New Mexican is with him. The other kind can only be pitted, that's all.

A VALUED contemporary makes itself believe that it is a great and unparagonable sin in Governor Otero to appoint Republicans to office, when vacancies occur or to make removals of Democratic officials when the law so demands and authorizes. However, if this be a sin, our valued contemporary will have lots of chance during the next few months to deplore the governor's course, but the latter need not care, as the good and public-spirited citizens of the territory are very well satisfied with his official actions.

THE relations between Spain and the United States have reached a point where the situation has become, in every day parlance, "critical." On yesterday the commander of a Spanish warship kicked a party of his countrymen, patriots in every sense of the word as viewed by the Spaniards, off his vessel because the aforesaid patriots indulged in insulting remarks concerning the Americans. Captain Eulate cannot be a Spanish jingo, or he would have welcomed that company of visitors with open arms and killed the fatted hen on board the ship.

THE country can draw a breath of relief and calmly await future developments. John J. Ingalls, the statesman out of a job, has returned from a tour of the south and says: "The pulse, temperature and respiration of the south are absolutely normal. There is no fever nor excitement; no delirium nor frenzy in any locality that I visited. The temper of the people is rational, temperate, patriotic and admirable in every way." Wonder if the gentleman expected to find volcanoes spouting on every quarter section and war in full swing in the pine forests of Georgia and Alabama? John J. can learn a whole lot about the American people yet, if he will only improve his opportunity in the way of travel. As a newspaper correspondent his railroad fare ought not to cost a great deal.

Is the Millenium at Hand?

The millenium is not here so far as mortal eyes can discover or human intellect discern, but recent developments in the political world are almost enough to make one believe that that ecstatic state of existence has nearly arrived.

For more than a century there has existed considerable friction between two of the most powerful nations on the globe, the United States and Great Britain; envy and rivalry have been the motives back of all acts concerning the relations between the two countries and the Americans have prided themselves upon the strength of their invectives when speaking of the mother country, while the people of the tight little isle have returned the compliment with interest, and yet what has been the result the past two days?

Sir George William Des Vaux, one of the foremost English politicians, formerly governor of the Bahama Islands and more recently governor of Hong Kong, in an interview on Tuesday said that Great Britain ought to seize upon the opportunity presented by the Cuban situation to express cordial sympathy with the United States in her efforts to end the war in Cuba. To quote the gentleman's words: "The time is opportune to express the disposition of Great Britain to aid the United States with her fleet against any attack on her coast. This would prevent war with Spain and make general the American sympathy with Great Britain, which is only partial now. This will be enormously to the advantage of both nations while also assisting in the solution of the Chinese question. Such an opportunity of annealing the two nations may never again occur."

Further proof of the coming of the jubilee is given in the intention of parliament to ask the British government "whether in view of recognizing the identity of all English people her majesty's government will consider the advisability of placing the services of the British fleet at the disposal of the United States in the event of any complications between the United States and any foreign power." When the English speaking people of the world get together so closely as that, other countries and nations might just as well get off the earth.

There may be no war, but if one should come our way the eagle and the lion will attend to matters while other birds and animals wait for orders concerning their future movements. The English speaking people are the people and no mistake. Get your ascension robes ready for the day of reckoning and redemption is not far off.

An Unjust Burden on Colfax County Tax-Payers.

The contract entered into by the Colfax county commissioners with a couple of Raton attorneys, to pay said attorneys 20 per cent for collecting delinquent taxes, is being severely criticized by the tax-payers. This county has an efficient collector and the law allows him a per cent for the collection of taxes. We also have a capable district attorney, now, and he is doubtless willing and able to furnish the legal advice and assistance that will save our county the 20 per cent that is now being paid to outsiders upon all back taxes that are collected. It was generally supposed that the 20 per cent was only to be paid where suit was brought, but we are informed that the contract provides that the special attorneys receive that fee on all back taxes collected with or without suit. This is an unjust burden upon property owners and ought to be stopped.—Raton Range.

THE DINGLEY TARIFF AND BUSINESS.

Its Benefits Extend from California to the Atlantic Coast.

(Los Angeles Express.)

On January 22 of this year there were 124,400 boxes of lemons and 1,150 boxes of oranges afloat from Mediterranean ports for New York. A year ago the supply of these fruits from the same sources in sight was 112,000 boxes of oranges and 194,000 of lemons. At even date in 1896 the figures stood: Oranges, 165,000; lemons, 234,000. For five complete years ended December 31, 1897, the imports of citrus fruit at New York from Europe ran at from 421,000 boxes of oranges to 777,000, the exact figures for the last year being 524,470, and lemons from 1,570,000 boxes to 2,076,000, the figures for last year being 1,764,955. For 1898 the imports of oranges will be inconsiderable, but those of lemons are likely to be nearly, if not quite, up to the average.

Why this difference? Simply the effect of the new tariff act, which gives proper protection to an interest so important in southern California. And what is true of this one industry is true of many others.

A year ago a large percentage of the woolen mills of the United States were closed, and thousands of idle people in America were puzzling their minds as to where they could get a week's employment and earn $9.50 to pay for a cheap shoddy suit made in England. This year nearly every woolen mill in this country is running night and day.

Before the Dingley act went into force the railroads of this country were paralyzed, because there were no goods to haul, the people being too poor to pay for food or clothing. The steel mills were shut down and their employees idle because the roads were unable to make any betterments. This year the steel mills are running night and day, and some of them on Sundays, to fill orders for the roads, which are renewing their tracks.

In 1896 and 1897 under the Wilson tariff act the glass factories of the United States were all shut up and the employees and their families were idle, hungry and cold. Today there is hardly a glass factory in the United States not in operation. Because of the Wilson act we bought our glass in Europe. By virtue of protection under the Dingley act we make our glass at home.

Under the Wilson act Germany and France made a great part of our silk and we supported these foreign industries. This year German silk workers are preparing to come to the United States and establish their plants on our soil. They may bring some of their men with them, but if they do these men will furnish a home market for the products of American farms, and the owners of the plants will pay taxes for the support of our government.

The Wilson act was all right for Europe; but the Dingley act is the one which sets American industries on their feet.

A Good Appointment.
Jerry Leahy, Esq., was last Saturday commissioned district attorney for the counties of Colfax and Union. This is an appointment that the Republicans of this district heartily endorse and Governor Otero is justly commended for his good judgment in making this selection. Mr. Leahy is honest and capable and a loyal Republican.—Raton Range.

A Nice Compliment From a Political Adversary.

Governor Otero last week announced the appointment of Jo. E. Sheridan, of the Silver City Enterprise, as regent of the Silver City Normal school, vice C. C. Shoemaker, term expired. The independent takes pleasure in saying that no better selection could have been made nor one which would have met with more universal approval.—Silver City Independent.

Every Citizen of New Mexico Should Help.

It is to the interest of the people of New Mexico that they should be assisting Delegate Ferguson to secure the passage of house bill No. 8226, being his school land bill. The city council, the board of county commissioners and every commercial body of Grant county should take separate and individual action in the way of a petition to congress to pass that measure. It is one of simple justice to New Mexico, and it is as little as the ones who will derive the benefit can do to assist Delegate Ferguson in his hard work by demonstration to the members of congress that he is advocating a bill in which every resident of this territory has a personal and individual interest.—Silver City Independent.

OBI JING'S TEA.

In the quaint Celestial kingdom, in the realm of far Cathay, Where the mighty Yellow river wriggles on its crooked way, Once there stood a fair pagoda, where, in truly regal style, Dwelt the wealthy merchant Chow Chow, who in tea had made his pile, And his only daughter, Soo Choo, who was lovely as a dream And whose suitors came to woo her in a never ending stream. But she gazed upon them coldly, and she told each one to quit And to all their ardent pleadings gave a chill Mongolian "Hi!"

For, of course, there was "another," which is quite the proper thing. "Another" in this instance bore the name of Obi Jing. And he ran a lowly laundry, where he labored day and night, And the cuffs he starched were spotless, and the shirts he washed were white. But the hot and fiery Chow Chow fumed when Obi came to woo, And he scolded the girl's suitors with his plump and satin shoe, And through teeth which stuck together—he'd been eating bird's nest soup—Sputtered bits of "broken China," varied by a muttered whoop.

Then he swore that blackest ruin was the vengeance he would wreak, And no more to Obi's laundry did he send a shirt a week, And young Obi, crushed and broken, as he saw starvation nigh, Wrote his love a parting letter and went off alone to die. By the river's bank he wandered, where the weeping willows wave, And he murmured, "Nixie you torrent will I find a quiet grave. When a dead leaf, dry and blackened, flutters with sudden inspiration Obi setted it, shrieking 'Tea!'"

That was years ago, my children, and the legend now is old, How the leaves were picked and roasted and as tea, were packed and sent, and to the white man at a figure that for cheapness "broke the slate," While young Obi prospered greatly and grew rich at vendue rate, And he wedded lovely Soo Choo, and her cruel pen assigned, So we see that virtue triumphs, aided by a brilliant mind. And, my dears, if any evening you will come and dine with me At our boarding house you'll doubtless have a cup of Obi's tea. —Nixon Waterman in L. A. W. Bulletin.

VARIOUS NOTES.

The Requirements of Household, Wardrobe and Society.

Table linen is of the utmost luxury, but is now white except at breakfast and tea. Fine damask or heavy linen enriched with lace is the most elegant. Lace decorated tablecloths and napkins are the newest, although some conservative housekeepers prefer satin damask of the finest weave and design, undecorated save by its own pattern and an initial, crest or cipher heavily embroidered in linen floss. A fashionable dinner table recently seen will serve as a model for indicating the general tendency of modern style in this line. The cloth consisted of squares of linen, hemstitched and embroidered, which were separated by bands of venetian insertion, an oblong piece of linen forming the middle of the cloth. The napkins were bordered with a band of venetian insertion and a drawn work, embroidered hem having a square pattern of blocks. The floral decorations consisted of four small, flat baskets of roses, one being placed at each corner of the table, a larger flat basket occupying the center.

A lady's visiting cards should never have the address engraved upon them. Besides the name only the reception day should appear, the latter being placed in the lower left hand corner. When it is necessary to give the address, it may be written on the card.

Palest pink, green, blue and violet stationery is used, but violet and pale gray, with cream and white also, of course, are considered the most elegant. A cipher or monogram in silver, gold, white or a deep shade of the same color is allowable. The sealing wax should match or at least harmonize with the stationery.

The cut shows a very elaborate opera wrap composed of velvet and ermine. The body of the mantle is of the velvet which is of a pearly violet shade, and is decorated by wide bands of shirring. The collar and stole, with the yoke, are of ermine, and the shirred pelorine is bordered first with a circular ruffle of velvet and then, below that, with a band of fur. A lace cravat and choux at the back complete the trimming. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION'S CHANGES.

Variations of Past Styles For Present and Future Wear.
The change of fashion is simply a perpetual renewal of old styles differently combined and adopted. If as long ago as Summer's day there was nothing new under the sun, certainly everything must be old indeed in this nineteenth century. The princess gown, which is now accepted enthusiastically as a novelty, was greatly favored not many years ago and has doubtless appeared periodically since prehistoric times. It was most effectively worn in the middle ages in company with the same superhumanly long sleeves also now seen, but with an accompaniment which has not yet been revived—a tall, peaked cap with a veil floating from the apex.

The present princess gown is not common. It is cut and fitted with great care and is of elegant appearance and moves in the best society. One of its variations is the redingote form, in which it opens over a skirt. The long, sweeping lines of these gowns require to be molded over a graceful and moderately full form in order to be effective.

The reign of blouse jackets and bodices is by no means over. New models are continually being created, and the fashion is likely to hold place for some time yet. A favorite method of blouse decoration is the arranging of narrow braid or galleon in horizontal bands, which are either straight, waved or form V's. The belts accompanying blouses are more and more rich. Velvets and satins embroidered in metals and jewels and dilgare in silver or gold, set in great variety. The picture shows a princess coat or redingote of mastic cloth. It has a stitched, wide collar, which is continued down the front and around the lower edge in the form of bands. The fronts are cut away toward the foot, and inside there is set a circular ruffle, cut in form. Large turquoise buttons are the decoration, and the velvet collar is lined with turquoise satin. Fair Patient—Doctor, my memory has become very bad of late.

And She Accepted Him.
He—Do you believe that there is a man in the moon?
She—Yes; in the honeymoon.

THE SEVENTH Beet Sugar factory in the United States was erected at Eddy, New Mexico, in 1896, and made its first "campaign," beginning November 15th, 1896, and closing February 15th, 1897.

THE CONTENT OF "SUGAR in the beet" of the crop grown in the Eddy and Roswell sections of the valley has proven to be more uniformly high than any other part of the United States.

FORTUNATELY the land is blessed with just the fertility to produce high grade beets, and

MORE FORTUNATELY the Pecos Irrigation and Improvement Co. and the Roswell Land and Water Co. have an irrigation system of great magnitude, covering a vast body of the BEST SUGAR BEET LAND on earth. The water is applied to the crop WHEN NEEDED.

THE SUGAR BOWL

194 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not assured until May, and a majority of the acreage was planted between JUNE 1st AND AUGUST 10th.

GOOD SOIL makes the seed germinate. WATER makes the plant grow.

SUNLIGHT puts the sugar in the BEET.

THE ONLY THING left to be desired that the Pecos Valley has not on hand in abundance is PEOPLE. We need thrifty farmers; 500 heads of families each on a 40-acre farm.

NO FINEER terms or conditions of sale of beet and fruit lands were ever made.

The Coast Defenses.
One-half the number of improved cannon, mortars and emplacements will be located and placed in suitable position on the expiration of 1898. The Artillery Board is constantly making practical surveys, so far as these relate to the army, and the establishment of adequate military protection of our sea board is receiving strong endorsement. Meanwhile there is a means of defense from greater physical calamity, and that is the use of Hosteler's Stomach Bitters, which, by restoring the tone of the nerves and stomach, invigorates the entire system. It also prevents malarial, kidney and rheumatic ailments, and cures biliousness and constipation. Those who have been cured by it speak in no uncertain terms as to its effectiveness.

The Other Fellow.

But though my metaphor seemed good,
As I faintly must confess,
My heart gives forth but discord when
She draws a bow across it.

THE DAY WE GATHERED GOLDENROD.

A day of glancing arrow points,
Yet swathed in shadows, olive deep,
When curling leaves were shaken down
And drifted in a pungent heap,
When scurried flowers fell asleep,
Each in a flimsy pillow pool,
And all the world was half a dream—
The day we gathered goldenrod.

So still the air, in passing by
A rick of gathered corn we heard
A harvest spider's startled flight
When a yellow blade was stirred.
Some late and lingering autumn bird
Sang low, his lazy head a nod.
No haste nor harshness seemed to mar
The day we gathered goldenrod.

Wild brambles trailed a thorny web.
The sun's last glimmer towered high,
And daisies plumed purple spots
In orchards that we wandered by.
A light was in the autumn sod,
A warmth was in the autumn sod,
Deep autumn turquoise tipped the heights,
The day we gathered goldenrod.

Our ways have somehow slipped apart
Since then, and you would think it strange
The trifles of one idle day
Arose through every bitter change
And follow me in life's wide range.
To me perhaps it seems as odd
That time will never let me lose
The day we gathered goldenrod.

—Hattie Whitney in Woman's Home Companion.

A MOUNTAIN GIRL.

'Tis morning. The rising sun just tops the crest of that portion of the Appalachian chain of mountains between the northern and southern boundaries of the state of Kentucky, tingling its peaks and crags with a grayish vapors. From every ravine and gorge huge clouds of smoke like mist arise, assuming wondrously odd and fantastic forms in the uncertain light. The stillness engendered by the natural environments and time of day is unbroken save now and then by the far off bay of a foxhound floating faintly from some mountaineer's cabin or the whistle of a dove's wing as it flies swiftly by to the edge of fields.

The sun climbs higher and, conscious of its might, drives back to earth the quenching mists. The rear guard shadows of the night are mysteriously disappearing. The smoke of the numerous cabin chimneys can now be distinguished rising in curling columns of blue. A dingy ruddy clay road, or rather mountain path, and hugging the worn crenelated fence for safety, a red fox slinks under cover of the alder bushes, his whiskers and brush bristling with pendant drops of morning dew. A mother quail and her brood that have been planning their feathers on a topmost rail, with an averted whir, fly to cover.

Presently a soldier in his uniform comes galloping furiously down the road. He passes at full speed. The sound of his steed's hoofs beats grow fainter, and silence for a few minutes again reigns, only to be broken by a more noise than any before. A horse galloping back to the farm, and almost come down the road like mad, their horses reeking with sweat and blood. The first man, farther down where the road forks, has turned to the right. These others take the left hand branch. In a few moments shots are heard, and presently a huge, the one ridden by the first man, comes galloping back to be met and caught by a slim, dark-eyed mountain girl, who comes suddenly out of the bushes from somewhere. She stands there holding the bridle reins in her right hand. Her left hand is against her heart, as if to ward off an unseen blow. Her eyes, stony in their intensity, look off far up the valley to a break in the mountains, where God's good morning displays its bright rays. Her gaze finally turns toward the pursuers, who at the sound of the shots have ridden back to the forks, and catching sight of the girl and the horse come excitedly up the road toward her.

"Bob Jordan's darter," says one of them.
"Joe as I thought," laconically replies he who appears to be in command. The peevish critter's eye warms from sunburn or he'd bin' gone fawnskin afore now. What air you a-doin' back at this time o' day?" he demands of her. For the first time the girl seems to take full notice of their presence.
"Did you hear what I said?" he demands more commandingly.
"I'd like to know what concern that is uv your'n?" she replies, turning to him defiantly.
"Ain't er body got a good right ter go whar they please 'thout ben' stoppin' in their road an' pestered ter death 'bout hit by or let uv his cowardly men? Ef you air brerlivered ter know, though, I'm er goin' down to Bob Blackmore's ter help his mother. She air sick in bed an' helpless."
"Did you mean ter ride Bob's horse down thar?" "I low of my eyesight ain't er failin' that, that air his critter. Whar's Bob now?" he continued coaxing.
"I don't know nothin' 'bout him. Ef you uns want ter find him, you'd better look fer him."
"Whar'd you git his critter then?" breaks in one impatiently.
"I stopped him in the road, right here, as I come down their path thar. The critter wuz comin' lopin' up, when I run out an' headed him off."
After parleying a few moments the spokesman again turns to her.
"We uns think ter more'n likely you wuz tellin' the truth 'bout 'er now," he ventures.
"Specially as you air a member uv ther church, an' your daddy wuz, too, an' er elder besides. Sissy," he instructs, "no body ever heard uv your tellin' no lie afore. Which way did you say ther critter wuz kummin' from?" She looks him steadily in the face.
"That way," she says, indicating with a wave of her hand the opposite direction.
"Ther Lord forgive me," she mentally pleaded, "fer tellin' er lie fer him."
"That won't do, Sissy. We uns jes' kum thar air way ourselves, right after him. We uns had better look fer him right around here, I reckon. I bear tell," she said for the girl's benefit, "that whar thar's enny petticoats around Bob Blackmore ain't fur away."
"You'd better look out fer yourself," she scornfully replies. "He is in a mighty handy with his weepin' an' with his fists too. I reckon you know that, too, don't you, Jim Wooten? I hev heard tell that you air him had er fight ter wance, an' Bob didn't kum out no little and uv ther horn, neither."
"We uns will fix all that thar of we ever git our hands on ther on'y, good fer nothin' an' sounder er gin. He uns sn't ter live noways."
"He's er right mo' fitten than you air," she breaks in hotly. "He's air bin er hardworkin' scter man, an' he taken keep uv his mammy's sumpkin you never done. Sissy, that's er gentleman, an' allus minded his own business. Do you uns call this wab?" she demands, with rising vehemence. "Too cowardly ter go away from home an' fight yourself, but lay round here an' take everything anybody's nine years before, I had no fear that any one would know me, and as a matter of fact, no one did. Within an hour of my arrival, however, some of the townspeople who were gathered in the taproom began discussing the Hiltons, and I was astonished and aggrieved that reports of me had been received from time to time and that it was known I had been sent to prison for felony. They did not know I had been pardoned nor that I had resolved to lead a better life, and that I was not much to my detriment that I was cut to the quick. I learned from their conversation that the old house had been empty for years, and they predicted that the last of the Hiltons would hardly care to ever show his face again in Wentworth to find a buyer.

Next day after my arrival I strolled about the town and finally entered my grounds and walked about, and then entered the old house. Windows were broken, doors gone and the roof leaking in a dozen places. The place was simply an old ruin. As I wandered through the ruins the thought of that strange clause in the will flashed across my mind. It had been dismissed from my mind when I left Wentworth, nor had it come up again in all the years I had roamed about. I could not recall the wording of it now. I only remembered that it was to stand the foot of the cellar stairs and count something, and that one, two and three were somehow mixed together. I started to descend to the cellar, but the stairs had rotted away. As I moved about I also heard some animals stirring down there, and a fangling I might get into trouble I left the house and the grounds. When I made inquiries in the town, I found that the old solicitor had been dead for years and that his papers and accounts had been transferred to a firm living in a town ten miles away. I decided to go and see the firm, but there was no hurry about it. All that afternoon and evening I kept trying to remember the cellar—whether it was one open space or divided. This thing preying on my mind naturally followed the dream which followed. I dreamed that the cellar was one large room and that the floor above was supported by three brick pillars. The words in the will also stood out clearly—"count one and three and take two." I woke while yet dreaming, and leaping out of bed wrote down the words. When morning came, I decided on an investigation of the cellar, and about mid-afternoon revisited the house. I gained entrance to the cellar by an outside passage and after driving out a dog who had taken up his quarters there I located the spot where the foot of the stairs had been. The cellar was one large room, and the floor was supported by three pillars, just as I had dreamed. It was a distance of about 40 feet across the cellar, and pillar No. 2 was exactly in the center opposite the stairs. "Count one and three and take two." Two was the center pillar, of course, but why take it? It looked exactly like the other pillars. It was there to support the center beam on the floor, as any one could see, and where was the mystery in that? I looked it over with great care, but could see nothing different from the others. The architect had planned it, and the same hand had built the three and used bricks from the same lot. I was provoked with myself for attaching any significance to them, and after awhile climbed out of the cellar and went walking in the town. I tried to dismiss the whole affair from my mind, but it clung to me, and an hour after dinner I was back in the cellar. If there was any mystery about the pillar, I could solve it only by attacking the bricks.

After hesitating for a long time I looked about and chanced upon a portion of an iron bar, and removing my coat, I began work. After a few bricks had been loosened the rest was easy enough. The pillar was 2 feet high and 2 feet square and was perfectly solid until I was within two feet of the bottom. Then I found a hollow, and this hollow was covered by a sheet of tin. When I reached this point, I was so excited that I had to stop work and sit down for awhile, and it was well that things happened thus. While I was resting I heard people moving about outside and caught enough of their conversation to know that I had been seen prowling around and had aroused suspicion. After the people had departed I went back to work, and there was the treasure which had been left to the last of the Hiltons. The receptacle was full of gold—every pound of it in yellow metal. My grandfather had resorted to usury and half starved himself to leave it to my father, and my father had pinched and saved for a lifetime to leave it to me. I took the money, piece by piece, and counted it into my hat, and when the hat was full I carried it out among the shrubbery and emptied its contents on the ground. There was $12,000 there—$12,000 and something over, and some of the pieces must have been saved up for over 100 years. That evening I hired a cart for a couple of days, and, having possessed myself of a strong leather bag, I transferred the gold from the garden to the cart and drove to Shropshire and put it in a safe place. Later on I hunted up the people who had helped me, and in due time and without returning to Wentworth I came into my own and disposed of the house and lands for a small sum. Some one who visited the house discovered the work I had done there, and the amount of money I took away has been variously estimated at from $1,000 to $20,000. It has been asserted that I also received many articles of jewelry, but I have given you 'he true particulars. At first they were mystified as to my identity. When they came to know that the stranger was the last of the Hiltons, they had it that I escaped from prison and was no desperate wretch then even. That you may do me justice I will say that for years I have lived an honest, upright life, mingling with the best of my fellow men on equal terms, and though the race will die with me the last of the Hiltons will die with many friends to mourn his loss.

Berlin's Numerous Divorces.
It is a fact relatively little known that Berlin, in the matter of divorces, beats all the other capitals of Europe and is surpassed only by some of the states of North America. The exact figures are: In Berlin, 82 divorces to each 10,000 marriages; in Utah, 96; Montana, 74; Wyoming, 70; Colorado, 67; Nevada, 63; Oregon, 46; Washington, 46; California, 46; Idaho, 40; Illinois, 33. In Europe, however, Berlin exceeds all other large cities, being being the next with 27. Paris shows 10,000. For the whole of France the figures are now 8.5 against 3.1 up to 1894 (adoption of the Noquet law of divorce). Switzerland shows 20.9; Denmark, 17.1; Saxony, 15.7 (or the same figure as Massachusetts). The lowest figures are in Prussia, where they are shown by Westphalia, with 3.7; Hanover, 3.2; Mecklenburg shows 3.7; Baden, 3.3; Hungary, 3.1.—Chicago Record.

Her Alimony.

"I think he was left pretty short."—Indianapolis Journal.

I have been afflicted with rheumatism for fourteen years and nothing seemed to give any relief. I was able to be around all the time but constantly suffering. I had tried everything I could hear of and at last was told to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I did, and was immediately relieved and in a short time cured. I am happy to say that it has not since returned.—JOSEF EDOAR, Germantown, Cal. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

Woman's power is largely dependent upon her ability to interest, entertain, attract and please. It is for this reason that women strive to become accomplished. They study in order that they may converse intelligently on all subjects. They strive to become good musicians, graceful dancers and amiable hostesses. All accomplishments are unavailing if a woman suffers from a weak and watery way. The special weakness peculiar to the womanly organism, will rapidly wreck the general health. The sufferer will lose her natural vivacity, her wit, her good looks, and the ambition and power to display the accomplishments at her command. Any woman affected in this way should resort to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a wonderful medicine for ailing women. It is the invention of an eminent and skillful physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. It aims to cure but one class of diseases, and claims to be good for nothing else. It imparts health, elastic strength, vigor and vitality to the delicate feminine organs. It prepares a woman for wifehood and motherhood.
Mrs. Ramon Sanchez, Pecos, Taos County, N. Mex., in a letter to Dr. Pierce says: "From a grateful heart my voice goes up to God both night and day for the cure of my illness. I am now healthy and happy, and I can truly recommend to women the 'Favorite Prescription' as a regulator of the monthly periods."

HE WAS A HUSTLER.

AND HE WANTED TO DO EUROPE IN THREE WEEKS.

He Had Met the Man Who Had Been There, and He Was Naturally on the Lookout For Points—No Use For Tombs or Ruins.

"Excuse me," said the man with side-whiskers as he turned to the passengers on the seat behind him, "but I heard you speaking of Europe awhile ago. You have been there, I take it."

"Yes, sir," was the reply.
"And I am on my way to New York to take a steamer to London. Were you in London?"

"Oh, yes."
"How much of London can I see in two days?"

"A mile or two, I should say."
"A mile or two—that will do first rate," said the side-whiskered man as he took out a pencil and notebook. "How long should you think I ought to stay in Paris?"

"From 11 in the morning to 6 in the evening at least. In that time you can see at least four blocks of Paris."

"Thanks—four blocks—ten hours—good enough. Is the tomb of the great Napoleon at Paris?"

"Of course not."
"Glad that. If it was, I should feel obliged to go and see it, and it always gives me the headache to look at tombs. I have been told that I ought to go to Rome. Anything special to be seen there?"

"A few ruins, believe," replied the man who had been there.
"Then I shall skip Rome. Half of my town burned up last year, and there's no end of ruins to be seen right at home. I've seen the track of a cyclone, too, and you can't beat that for slivers and splinters and ruins. I'll find Switzerland over there somewhere, I suppose?"

"Yes, if you make inquiries."
"I've been told to take it in. Most all mountains, I believe? How long had I ought to be doing Switzerland?"

"At least a couple of months."
"I can give it half a day if I find it interesting. I've got to go down here to go to Naples and to get from Naples to Vesuvius. Vesuvius is a volcano, isn't it?"

"Yes."
"I never saw one, and don't know as I care to. We had the biggest spring freshet in the Wash this year, known since 1848, and a man who has seen seven houses and barns floating down a river all at once can't feel knocked out at sight of a volcano. How's Venice?"

"It was all right when I was there, though most of the people had the grip. You ought to put in a full day in Venice."
"Half a day is all I can spare, and I shall spend most of that in a gondola. Europe taken altogether is quite a country, isn't it?"

"Yes, a pretty fair country."
"A man who hustles right along can see most of it in three weeks, can't he?"

"He ought to."
"Well, I'm going to give it three weeks, and perhaps an extra day or two, and then scout back here, and if my going ahead don't knock the other grocers in my town galley west I'll put the price of eggs down to 10 cents a dozen and hold 'em down till I have to go into bankruptcy. Thanks, sir. I've got it all down here. Europe, Rome, Naples, Venice; three weeks; no tombs. Git up and dust and git back home ag'in! Come into the smoker and have a quick cigar with me."

The Weather.

The weather yesterday was colder with snow beginning about noon and continuing at intervals till about 6:30 in the evening, a total of nearly four inches being recorded. The first thunder storm of the year occurred about noon, continuing about half an hour. The highest temperature reached was 42 and the lowest 27 degrees. The mean relative humidity was 86 per cent. Fair weather is indicated for tonight and Saturday.

After Fraudulent Land Entries.

Captain S. S. Mathers, special agent of the general land office, returned from a trip through Mora county, where he was looking after persons charged with perjury themselves in making homestead entries. He was successful in securing evidence enough to make a strong case against the accused. While in Mora county he also secured the relinquishment of a number of timber culture claims.

On Monday the captain will go to Roswell for the purpose of looking up fraudulent land entries reported from that district.

Building & Loan Meeting.

The directors of the Mutual Building & Loan association, Dr. W. S. Harron, Grant Rivenburg, J. G. Schumann, Jacob Weltmer, Miss A. A. Atkinson, Geo. W. Knaebel, W. J. Slaughter, C. W. Dudrow and N. Yanni, met at the office of the secretary last night and elected the following officers: President, Grant Rivenburg; secretary, Miss Atkinson; treasurer, Jacob Weltmer; solicitor, Geo. W. Knaebel.

The matter of issuing a new series of stock will be left to a vote of the shareholders, and will be determined at the next meeting.

MINOR CITY TOPICS.

United States weather bureau forecast for New Mexico: Fair tonight and Saturday.

In the fourth ward it is said that R. L. Bacia is a candidate for councilmanic honors.

One good thing to the score of the recent snowfall. It has settled the dust in the streets for a few days.

Cartwright has received a carload of oranges and lemons. That enterprising firm deserves success.

The voters of the different wards will do well to bear in mind that registration for the city election begins tomorrow.

Many citizens would like that the Republicans re-nominate the present efficient and honest city treasurer, Mr. Sam G. Cartwright.

The snow and rain of yesterday put expansive smiles on the countenances of orchardists and small fruit growers in and around Santa Fe.

Quite a number of good citizens would like to see Dr. Harron nominated for mayor on the Republican ticket. That would be a first-class selection.

It is said that Adolfo Hill will be the Democratic candidate for city clerk and C. F. Easley, Esq., is being talked as the probable candidate for mayor on the same ticket.

The coming of blue birds is not a sure prophecy of the coming of spring. Yesterday afternoon. The weather man is liable to make mistakes as well as common individuals.

The Santa Fe Telephone company is supplying all the poles in the city with climbing rods, preparatory to rewiring the city for the new automatic switch system soon to be put in.

Deputy Sheriff Huber arrested Cruz Romero de Alarid yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Simon Garcia, charging him with assault and battery. The trial took place this afternoon before Justice Gorman.

Good and progressive citizens should be nominated by both parties for members of the board of education. If the city would prosper and attract immigration it must have a good system of free public schools, to be kept open at least nine months in each year.

The bad weather of the past two days has hindered the shipment of supplies into the Cochiti mining district by the local merchants, but as the roads between the city and Bland are in good condition there will be no trouble in hauling large loads so soon as the rain and snow ceases.

Another Raymond & Whitcomb California excursion, run by the Santa Fe railway, will reach here March 19, spending Sunday here, leaving Sunday afternoon for California. The excursion party will contain 30 passengers in two Pullman sleepers and using one dining car.

LAS VEGAS NEWS.

Rumors That a Republican Paper Will Be Started—The Unionists Steadily at Work—Their Plans and Aims.

Special Correspondence New Mexican. Las Vegas, March 10, 1898.—Chief Justice Mills and the court officers will leave for Clayton on Saturday night. Court opens in Union county on next Monday and the chief justice proposes to be there bright and early on that day.

It is rumored that Judge Long, district attorney for San Miguel and Mora counties, will resign his position. This rumor, however, has been in circulation so often, that its genuineness is greatly doubted.

There is considerable talk that a Republican paper will be started here soon. It is said that Governor Otero's friends will take a good deal of stock in the new paper and that Mr. E. J. Murray, of Las Cruces, who is the editor of the Dona Ana County Republican, and who is representing some Pennsylvania capitalists, who have put money into the Llewellyn cyanide works at Faulkner, in Sierra county, is to be the managing editor. Everybody admits that a Republican paper is a necessity here, but many feel it will take too much money to start it and keep it going. But the effort is to be made and the thing is to be tried, and a large sum of money, in the neighborhood of $10,000, is said to have been subscribed already.

Governor Otero's prompt and decisive action in the Fall case and in filling vacancies, recently occasioned with good men, is giving great satisfaction here. That is, giving satisfaction to the decent members of the community. Of course, the bosses of the Union party, and their clique, call it extreme partisanship, persecution of good and honest officials and so forth, but this kind of talk and newspaper criticism seems to have no effect on the governor, who has evidently mapped out his course and is following it, regardless of the desires of a little clique, and the masses here, who thought they would have much influence and would run him, just because he happened to be from this city. In their disappointment they are angry, but outside of their own inner circle no one seems to care for their opinions.

Jorge Manuel C. Bacia has obtained a half interest in the Spanish paper, El Independiente, and the paper is now advocating Republican principles. Mr. Enrique Salazar, part owner of the paper and who was recently appointed postmaster of Las Vegas, will take the office on the 31st of March so it is reported.

The city campaign will be between the friends of the Water company and its opponents. Politics will cut a very small figure. Neither party has as yet made any move toward putting candidates for city offices in the field and people generally are in favor of a short city campaign. The anti-water works people will very probably insist on again putting Dr. Olney, the present mayor, up for the same office.

In the county Don Felix Martinez and his supporters are quietly, but steadily, at work on the organization of the Union party. The race issue and "San Miguel county for the Mexican people" is their slogan and they are using it daily and for all it will bear. They are already circulating lots of private circulars printed in the Spanish language and sent out under cover of the names of prominent citizens of the county and claim to have a cinch on the next election. Of course, they may have to play a game on Delegate Ferguson, if the Republicans nominate a native with a good old Mexican name as their candidate for delegate. This race issue business is like a double edged and very keen sword. It may help them in their county and legislative campaign but it will hurt the Democratic candidate for delegate, if his name be Ferguson. The Union party push up here think they are foxy and will not ride too fiery untamed steeds during the coming campaign at the same time, but here is fair warning to Delegate Ferguson and the Democratic territorial central committee, and if they allow themselves to be fooled, they have no one but themselves to blame.

The provisions of the Bateman law seem to be a dead letter in this county. The county commissioners are a law unto themselves and run county finances just as they want to the favored few are reaping a rich harvest and as far as the people and tax-payers are concerned Mr. Vandervell's celebrated remark "the people be damned" seems to be the guiding star of the men now in control in the county of San Miguel.

NORTHERN NEW MEXICO MINES.

Work, Development and Improvements in Mines of the Elizabethtown and Red River Districts.

The Colfax tunnel, near Elizabethtown, has been driven to a distance of over 800 feet and a stringer of very rich ore, 12 inches in width, has been cut. W. Armstrong, owner of the Columbine in the Red River district, has struck a vein of gold bearing quartz seven feet wide, which averages over $17 per ton.

It is reported in mining circles that a streak of ore assaying $1,000 to the ton has been opened in the Shoshone mine, owned by Alex. Gussdorf, of Taos.

J. R. Carter is doing the assessment work on some of his claims near Mid-nite.

In the vicinity of La Belle there is very little snow in the mountains for this time of the year and prospecting will begin much earlier this spring than usual.

In and around Elizabethtown mining operations will be prosecuted with more vigor the coming season than ever before. During the coming two months several new mills will be put in on good properties, lode claims will be extensively developed and the placer grounds worked on a more extensive scale than in the past. A large amount of placer machinery of improved make has been installed in the past winter and better results in saving values are expected.

Brigham & Terrett have struck a fine vein of ore in their property in Brigham gulch in the La Belle district and are pushing work on a shaft. The ore runs about $8 to the ton.

The Oro and Victor claims near La Belle, will be thoroughly developed under arrangements that have recently been made by G. W. Downey, of the Houston company.

It is understood that the machinery for the Edison mine has been purchased and will be put in working order as soon as the condition of the roads will permit. The mill consists of ten stamps, a concentrator, engine, boiler, and such cars and tracks as will be necessary to work the mine by means of a tunnel.

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach troubles get worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and causes an on record where it accumulates in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 30 grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, pepsines and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weakness and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.
