ATTORNEY WRECKED RESIDENCE OF OTIS WITH BOMB-FOLLOWS DISASTER IN TIMES OFFICE

POLICE FIND INFERNAL MACHINE IN SUIT CASE UNDER WINDOW; BOMB IN ZEEHANDELAAR HOME

Four Bodies Recovered From Wrecked Times Building. While Sixteen Are Missing and Their Bodies Are Believed To Be Buried in Ruins of Building; Otis Declares Union is Responsible But Union Leaders Maintain Leaky Gas the Cause.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
Los Angeles, Oct. 1.—An attempt to destroy the residence of General Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, by means of an infernal machine, was made this afternoon.

Following as it does the explosion which early today with great loss of life destroyed the buildings and plant of the Times, a suspected effort to blow up the auxiliary plant of that paper and the finding of a powerful infernal machine in the residence of Secretary Zeehandelaar of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, the attempted outrage has wrought this city to an intense state of suspense and excitement.

General Otis and the other responsible heads of the paper unequivocally charge the Times typographical union and the narrowly averted attempts at further destruction of life and property to labor union sources. With equal emphasis the leader of union labor here and throughout the state repudiates the accusation and has offered all aid in their power in the effort to detect the culprits.

For twenty years, following a quarrel with the Times typographical union which resulted in making the Times a non-union paper, General Otis has fought unionism with every resource at his command. He has been aided in this fight by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, whose secretary was the chief of frustrated dynamiting today.

The feeling which ran high through the city yesterday was augmented when the startling discovery was made that a dynamite bomb had been found under the residence of Secretary Zeehandelaar and on the premises of the Times building when the attempt on General Otis' residence is known.

The Otis home is known as the "Broom," and stands on Williams avenue, in the most fashionable section of the city. After the flagging of the infernal machine at the Zeehandelaar residence, Detective Jones was sent to "The Broom" to make a search of the premises. When Charles Flockner, the gardener, he found a suit case hidden under a bunch of vines under a bay window on the side of the building. A search of the suit case revealed a dynamite bomb, which was found to be a time bomb, and was finally sent to the police.

Convinced that the suit case contained a bomb, Chief Galloway held it as far from him as he could. It landed against the wall of the building, and a great explosion followed. A hole was torn in the ground and the curtains were blown up to a considerable distance.

A large crowd collected and here was much excitement in the vicinity of the house at the time. Mr. Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Times, another woman (possibly his wife) and the Otis servants.

The infernal machine, found in the suit case, was a time bomb, and was attached to a fuse and set by clock work to explode at 1 o'clock this morning—the same hour at which the explosion occurred in the Times office. The bomb was first discovered at the Zeehandelaar home by a servant in the employ of the family who called the attention of the street officer, who reported it to the police. The bomb was then taken to the police station and was found to be a time bomb, and was finally sent to the police.

Reports of finding of other bombs were made to police headquarters during the day, but investigation disclosed them to be unfounded.

Assistant General Manager, handling of the Times is authority on the statement that a similar attempt was made to blow up the Times building at College and San Fernando streets a few minutes before the explosion occurred which destroyed the main building.

The succession of tragic events and the rumors of attempted outrages set the populace of Los Angeles in a state of mind bordering on panic. Hundreds of policemen and detectives were busy in every direction running down clues and endeavoring to locate the alleged perpetrators of the crimes. Two arrests have been made and these were only in suspicion.

This afternoon the Times made but the following telegram from General Otis, who is enroute home from Mexico City:

My wife with its terrible news reached me this morning. I am amazed at the destruction of the Times building and slaying its loyal workers whom I deeply deplore. I am defending the vital and essential principle of industrial freedom under law which must yet triumph in the union nation. (Signed) "Harrison Gray Otis." The president of the local Typographical union issued orders today that the union printers may work in conjunction with the non-union printers of the Times in any of the local newspaper offices in getting out the edition of the Times. This was announced after a consultation of the union men and the managers of the other newspapers.

The city council met in special session during the day and appropriated $5,000 for the purpose of determining the cause of the Times explosion, and provided a reward of $2,500 for the capture of those responsible for the outrage.

Mayor Alexander and the city council, meeting with other city officers and labor union leaders during the day, mutually agreed to call off the big union labor parade planned for next Monday night as a demonstration against local conditions alleged to be hostile to the interests of union labor.

The death list of this morning's disaster will probably total at least twenty. There are four known dead and fifteen missing whose bodies almost to a certainty lie in the still smoking ruins of the Times building.

HARVEY C. ELDER, assistant city editor, burned and fatally injured jumping from burning building; died in hospital.

J. WESLEY REAVES, secretary to Assistant General Manager Chandler, body in ruins.

R. L. SAWYER, telegraph operator; body in ruins.

HARRY C. CRANE, assistant telegraph operator; body in ruins.

Missing:

J. C. GALLIHER, linotype operator; married and five children.

W. C. WINSTALL, linotype operator; married.

FRED LLEWELLYN, linotype operator; married.

JOHN HOWARD, printer; married; one child.

JOHN MOORE, machinist; married; three children.

ED. WASSON, printer; married.

ELMER FRANK, operator; married.

EDWEN CARESS, married; one child.

DON E. JOHNSON, operator; married; one child.

ERNEST JORDAN, operator; married; one child.

FRANK UNDERWOOD, married; one child.

CHARLES GULLIVER, compositor; married.

CARL SAALDA, linotype operator; married.

HOWARD COURDAWAY, linotype operator.

CHARLES HACKETT, pressman.

HENRY LEGG, compositor.

In addition, there are about twenty injured, some of whom may die.

The original suspicion of the police that the disaster was due to a heavy charge of high explosive was strengthened by the finding of the other bombs and the statements of those persons in the building or nearby at the time of the explosion. It is also practically certain that the seat of the explosion was in the narrow alleyway that separated the two buildings occupied by the Times.

Foreman Crabbell of the composing room, in which the all force of the greatest direct damage was done, is firmly of the opinion that it was due to dynamite and that its seat was in the alleyway. His statement is the most trustworthy. He said:

"I was standing near the center of the composing room when all at once a terrific force from below seemed to raise a column of the floor clear to the roof. The explosion came between the two buildings. Flames and broken timbers flew in all directions. The force of the thing was incredible. Grant Moore, a machinist, was directly above the spot where the impact came through the floor. His body was hurled against the ceiling. F. A. Jordan, a head-writer, and E. W. Wasson, a galley man, were nearest to him and they, too, were hurled against the ceiling. "There were one of the typesetting machines was thrown down and many were hurled in all directions."

One hundred men were put at work today digging for the dozen or more bodies believed to be buried in the ruins of the Times building. Later in the afternoon the first body was recovered. It was that of J. W. Reaves, the secretary to Assistant General Manager Harry Chandler, and General Manager Mr. Chandler had been found a few minutes before the explosion when Mr. Chandler called for her husband's body.

As soon as the body was called the city reached the extraordinary session, council took an extraordinary session, and $25,000 was appropriated to be used for the purpose.

The first step was taken in the direction of the investigation of the cause of the disaster. The appointment of a committee of five, an investigating committee, was William C. Winstall, secretary of the Los Angeles Times, and the big municipal Angles Aqueduct.

water project. Mr. Mulholland has identified one of the sticks of dynamite found in the Zeehandelaar bomb, by its wrapping, as part of a shipment for the aqueduct, made from Giant, California, September 20. This is the only clue thus far found.

General Otis reached the city from Mexico at 3:30 p. m. yesterday, and was met at the depot by some 200 members of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association who greeted him with cheers.

Fred P. Baker, president of the Baker Iron works, said that a number of employers, including himself, involved in the iron workers' strike now on in this city, have received since the inception of the strike many letters threatening them with dynamite.

Only one among those first reported missing has been found. This is V. B. Glaser, a watchman.

The building of the Baumgart Publishing company, adjoining the Times building, was also completely destroyed, together with the plant of the Weekly Graphic.

LYNCH RESENTS CHARGE AGAINST EX-OTIS

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 1.—President James M. Lynch of the International Typographical union, when seen today by a representative of the Associated Press, made the following statement relative to the explosion that wrecked the plant of the Los Angeles Times:

"The Los Angeles Times has for many years been a bitter, unrelenting foe of the trade unionism, and it is characteristic of the Times management that, immediately after the explosion which wrecked its plant and without waiting any investigation as to the cause of the catastrophe, it should charge the disaster to the trade unions, as was done by the Times assistant general manager. The Typographical union resents and repudiates this charge. We have defended ourselves against the attacks made by the Times as best we could, but we have always fought fair."

The International Typographical union is not a law-breaking, dynamite-infused institution; its record of more than sixty years' existence is unblemished and entirely free from resort to violence of any kind. It has won its cause and reached its present position of strength and influence solely through the justice of its action and the loyalty and orderly manner in which its aims have been prosecuted and made effective.

"No one regrets the Times' catastrophe more than I do, and especially the loss of life following the explosion. On the other hand, we are determined to protect ourselves against the opportunity that will be embraced by General Otis to attempt to fasten the explosion on the trades union. Today I cannot be held to any representative in Los Angeles the following telegram:

"In conjunction with president and board of trustees number one seventy-four, take such measures as may be necessary to protect International Typographical union and local union from any charge of complicity with alleged dynamiting of Times office. Press reports convince me that the explosion was caused by gas mains and one entirely to unscrupulous condition of Times plant."

"Our position is best illustrated by the fact that after the Times plant was wrecked the paper was published from the office of the Los Angeles Herald, a union office, and our members employed in the Herald office undoubtedly assisted the Times in its emergency."

"I have never failed to assist a non-union paper in the time of its calamity and its previous attitude toward our union is never taken into consideration when its continued publication is aided by assistance from our members. Our members will be a unit in the regret that I as their representative, express at the Times calamity."

MORRISON DEFENDS UNION FROM ATTACK BY OTIS

Washington, Oct. 1.—Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor issued a statement tonight in which he expressed regret over the loss of life in the Los Angeles Times building disaster and his belief that an investigation will disprove the charge that the catastrophe was caused by labor unions as a retaliation for the bitter warfare the paper had waged against them.

"It is indeed to be regretted," he said, "that the management should immediately and without investigation give to the press a statement placing the responsibility for the catastrophe upon a great body of laboring citizens, when every decent impulse would demand that an investigation should be made before placing the blame on the workers. The Times has been working assiduously for many years."

UNION MEN NOT TO BLAME, SAYS GOMPERS

St. Louis, Oct. 1.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today he did not believe union labor members were in any way responsible for the deadly explosion and fire in the building of the Los Angeles Times.

300 ENTOMBED MINERS MAY BE DEAD

EXPLOSIONS WRECK MINE IN MEXICO

Entire Night Shift Believed to Have Perished; Rescue Party of Americans Caught in Mine in Coahuila.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
El Paso, Tex., Oct. 1.—One hundred and fifty miners, possibly more, are entombed and believed to be dead in mine No. 2 at Palau, Mex., in the Los Esperanzas mining district, operated by the National Railway lines of Mexico, as a result of two explosions, presumably because of an accumulation of gas last night and early today.

The men entombed are mostly native and Japanese miners, although the number includes several Americans. However, information received here so far has been meager. Officially no statement has been made other than that the disaster "was very serious" and a special train with physicians and nurses left C. D. Diaz early today for the scene.

The second explosion occurred shortly after a rescue party, composed of Americans had descended. That they were killed is thought certain. However, information received here so far has been meager. Officially no statement has been made other than that the disaster "was very serious" and a special train with physicians and nurses left C. D. Diaz early today for the scene.

William P. Hollis, material agent for the government railway, under whose supervision the mines are conducted has also proceeded to the mine.

Palau is located near the town of Marquez in the state of Coahuila. An explosion occurred in the same mine a year ago, several hundred Mexicans and Japanese miners losing their lives at the time.

BLUE JACKETS DOWN RIVER

THIRTY SAILORS SINK WHEN TENDER UPSETS

Men From Battleship New Hampshire, Returning From Shore Leave, Meet Death; Sixty-one Are Rescued.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]
New York, Oct. 1.—An estimated number of thirty sailors from the battleship New Hampshire were drowned by the upsetting of a tender in the North river off One Hundred and Fifty-second street tonight.

The sailors were returning to the ship after shore leave and more than 100 of them, it is estimated, had crowded aboard the tender, which was being towed to the battleship. About 200 yards off shore the craft either swamped or was upset and the entire load of jacks was precipitated into the water.

Boats were immediately put out from the New Hampshire and when, over a boiling hour, showed a man was rescued.

On board the New Hampshire sixty-one with wet clothes were counted, indicating that sixty-one had been saved and leaving blank the more serious gap of possible dead. As 250 men from the ship had shore leave tonight there was no way of ascertaining just how many were aboard the tender. Of the sailors who were in the upset boat, those inclined to take a more serious view of the affair placed the lost as high as thirty.

The men who were rescued were hurried below and the officer on deck said that an estimate of the dead was out of the question tonight.

who had charge of the tender, was taken from the water unconscious and died in the ship's hospital. It is reported that he saved fifteen sailors, before exhaustion overcame him.

TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION SEEKS BETTER COAL RATE

Washington, Oct. 1.—To compel the Colorado Midland Railway company and other western interstate carriers to grant through routes and joint rates on coal shipped from the south canon mine in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico, a complaint was filed against the roads with the interstate commerce commission today by the Colorado Coal Traffic Association of Denver.

Shippers from the south canon mine say they are willing to pay 75 cents a ton more for transportation of their coal to the east than is paid by miners in the Walsenburg district of Colorado, because of the better class of the coal but the carriers decline to give the south canon coal any advantage over to points of destination.

Grant, who distinguished himself last year by finishing first in the fifth Vanderbilt, won today's event from Joe Dawson, driver of a Marmon, in the narrow margin of twenty-five seconds. John Alken, in the National, was only a minute and six seconds behind Dawson.

The race was the most closely contested of any of the Vanderbilt cup races, and with the two small car events run as a unit with the Westley Hills sweepstakes and the Manassas trophy, brought out a record number of starters.

The time of the first three cars to finish in the main event exceeded the best time ever made in an American road race. Grant, by covering the

CROWDS BEGIN TO ARRIVE IN CITY FOR BIG STAGEHOOD CELEBRATION THIS WEEK

CITY IN GALA ATTIRE FOR 30TH ANNUAL FAIR WHICH STARTS WITH BIG NOISE MONDAY AFTERNOON

Fair Grounds Bustle of Preparation; Traction Park Track in First Class Condition For Big Racing Tournament; Exhibits Rapidly Being Pushed Into Place. Citizens Put on Holiday Smile and Everything Points to Biggest Week in History of the Annual Carnival.

The vanguard of the influx of the people of New Mexico into Albuquerque to attend the thirtieth annual fair and first state exposition began to arrive in the city yesterday and every train will discharge its units of visitors, boaters, pleasure seekers, convention delegates, and just plain everyday citizens out for their annual road trip. Albuquerque has put on her gayest attire for the occasion and by evening yesterday, flags and bunting were flying everywhere, store fronts, residences and business blocks were brilliantly decorated and every street was aglow with the colors of the state. The fair is to be opened formally at the fair grounds, the city officials to be present on the occasion and the big noise will begin.

Governor Mills, who is unavoidably kept in Santa Fe because of the opening of the constitutional convention Monday, will not be present, but he will be here in spirit and there is every indication that the fair will formally start with more enthusiasm and larger crowds than of any previous years. The people of New Mexico have been preparing to let loose their starved spirits during this week and will be glad to assume the premier place as a great celebration in honor of the approaching admission of the new state into the union.

The fair this year will be a fair in every sense of the word, with the best of everything that the state has to offer. The complete list of exhibits, resources and livestock exhibitions were known. The managers this year have worked more or less quietly without any hoopla, with the sole idea of making this a fair for the people and for the complete enjoyment of the people of the state.

Those who have visited the fair grounds know that the management has succeeded and that there will be something to amuse and interest and for the complete enjoyment of the people at every day. The celebration will reach its height on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

238.08 miles of the course in four hours, 12 minutes, 53 seconds—equivalent to an average of 55.1 miles an hour—established a new American record.

But brilliant as was the performance of the three winners and their teams, the race itself, for the most part, was a disappointment. The cause was the wholesale mauling and killing which attended it and such a deep shadow over spectators, participants and management that the crowd which gathered to witness the race was not the merry-makers at every turn and on every day.

Yet, notwithstanding the list of casualties, it was announced tonight that the grand prize race over the same course would be held on October 13. Fifteen cars have already been entered for the event.

W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., donor of the Vanderbilt cup, could not be seen to night, but A. R. Fordington, vice-president and general manager of the motor park, spoke of the race only as a success.

He regretted, of course, the deaths and accidents, but was inclined to attribute them mainly to the carelessness of spectators.

The accidents that caused two of the four deaths recorded were sensational in the extreme. The first occurred when the Columbia car, driven by Harold Stone, suddenly burst into fire at the approach of the cement bridge crossing the Westbury road, and becoming unmanageable plunged over the parapet. The great machine burst into flames and burned for some time, crashing on the life of Matthew R. Bacon, Stone's mechanic, who was caught under it. Stone himself sustained fractures of both legs and internal injuries from which it is doubted if he will recover.

The killing of Louis Chevrolet's mechanic, Charles Miller, came as the climax of a mad attempt of Chevrolet to beat a lead lost through frequent magnets and tire trouble. The daring French driver, who earlier in the race had receded off round about found at seven-thirty miles an hour, struck a fence, cut wheels, and lost all power and landed on three wheels only. He then found the car again, swinging from side to side unresponsive to his steering gear.

And a shock of horror the car plunged into the fence and went it away like a mad paper, then plunged deep into a passenger laden touring car. The occupants of the touring car were tossed high in the air, but all of them, escaped death.

Miller was caught in the wreckage and was instantly killed.

Chevrolet owed his life to the staunchness of his steering wheel. It was pulled out of the debris with nothing more serious than a broken arm.

The third death of the day did not occur on the course, but in an accident en route to the race. Ferdinand D'Elia, an automobile man, was the victim. His wife was seriously hurt, but has been broken in the ambulance.

RACING RESULTS

At Louisville.
Louisville, Ky., Oct. 1.—Louisville's nineteenth-day fall race meeting at Churchill Downs began today with a fast track, fine weather and a card in which horses of high class were numerous.

The St. Leger handicap, patterned after the great English classic and which was discontinued at the local course in 1892, was revived, and resulted in a victory for Tom McDowell's King's Daughter. The mare made every post a winning one while the favorite, Ocean Bound, had to rest content with the place in front of the second choice, Countess. Results:

First race, 5 1/2 furlongs: The Hague won; Lima, second; Montefox, third. Time, 1:02 2/5.
Second race, 6 furlongs: Melissande won; Barthesforpe, second; Lawrence P. Daily, third. Time, 1:12 2/5.

Third race, mile and twenty yards: Greenridge won; Camel, second; Han Thurey, third. Time, 1:43 1/5.
Fourth race, the St. Leger handicap, mile and sixth: King's Daughter won; Ocean Bound, second; Coatsworth, third. Time, 1:45 3/5.

Fifth race, 6 furlongs: Governor Cary won; Bettie Sue, second; Bad News II, third. Time, 1:12 4/5.

ALBUQUERQUE AND SANTA FE TO BATTLE

Two Teams Will Go Into Contest With Reinforced Lineups; Broncho Busting and Other Sports to Be Exciting.

There will be quite a varied and interesting program of sports at Traction park this afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock and it is expected that the seats behind the wire netting will be pretty well occupied. For the baseball fans there will be a pitched battle between Santa Fe and Albuquerque, both teams entering the game with unusually strong aggregations of players. Santa Fe will have several imported men from the leagues and expect to win from the Albuquerque bunch without any difficulty. It is certain, however, that the locals will fight back all the time. Man for man, the Grays will have as good a team as Santa Fe, and in two days' play, the Albuquerque material is much better than that secured by the visitors. It is understood that Santa Fe has one

Battle For First Place at Baseball Tournament is To Be Interesting Monday

FIGHT BETWEEN THE FIVE TEAMS WILL BE EXCITING

Trinidad, Santa Fe, Roswell, Los Lunas and Albuquerque All Out for the $1,000 Prize.

The fight for first place in the baseball tournament, to be participated in by five teams, promises to be one of the principal attractions during the territorial fair, which starts Monday. The $1,000 prize, offered as the first prize, looks good to the teams as organizations, and also to the players as individuals, and the indications are that there will be some highly exciting exhibitions of the national sport before the tourney comes to an end. The Roswell team leaves Roswell early this morning, traveling in automobiles to Vaughn, where they will board the train for Albuquerque. The team, together with the managers, fans and others who will stay in Albuquerque during fair week, are expected to arrive at midnight tonight. The Roswell club is a strong aggregation and will doubtless make a hard try for first place. The Santa Fe team arrives at noon today and the Trinidad City and the Cheyenne Indians, who will represent Los Lunas, will arrive Monday. Trinidad and Cheyenne both have strong teams and a factor to be taken into consideration with both of these teams is that the players on both aggregations have been playing together all season and have team work developed to a state of perfection. Jimmie Whelan, the crack shortstop for the Los Lunas team, has been signed by Minneapolis providing he can secure things with Junction City, in the Kansas League, to which team he belonged early in the spring. J. P. Cantillon, a brother of Joe Cantillon, who signed up Whelan for Minneapolis, is enthusiastic over him, and thinks he will turn out to be a second Tinker. Whelan is captain of the Indians and a year ago played shortstop for Johnnie Kling, when he went down to Chicago with an independent Kansas City team and beat everything the Windy City could put up with. The Los Lunas team will be composed of the following players: Gibson, Langley, Rustenhaven, Hendrix, Hester, Hartness, Whelan, Thrashkill, Galena, McCarthy, Gould, Agnew, Olmstead and Gard. Ira Bidwell, manager, and George S. Walker, secretary of the team, will also be here with the aggregation.

Many Albuquerque people will remember Caldwell, who played with Albuquerque three years ago. Powell, the heavy hitter, Briery, Toner, Ambros, and Owens have also played with and been in Albuquerque during former tournaments, and will not be strangers to the fans.

Santa Fe and Albuquerque are also for the championship of Manhattan. The dates will be arranged by the national committee in Cincinnati on Monday.

INJURED ANKLE KEEPS EVERS OUT OF GAME

Chicago National League Player Can't Help Team in Championship Series.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 1.—Sliding to the plate in the fifth inning of today's game between the Chicago and Cincinnati National League teams, John Evers, of the Chicago club, injured his ankle so severely that he will probably not be able to take part in the world's championship series. After a hasty examination surgeons said one of the small bones of Evers' right ankle was fractured. They said it would be impossible for Evers to use the foot again for two months.

Henson Newell and committee. It was announced by Mr. Jamison and Referee Ringland last night that every player who drew place last night will be expected to complete the first round by Monday evening. The games will begin promptly at 2:45 Monday afternoon and will all be played on the courts of the Albuquerque club at Tenth and Central.

The courts, four in number, have been put in splendid condition for the tournament and some very fast play is expected. The tournament promises to be a uniformly interesting because of the fact that the United States Forest Service, the United States Army, and the University of New Mexico will all be well represented. Most of the army men will come from Fort Wingate, while Albuquerque will furnish most of the players from the Forest Service and from the University. Outside towns, however, will be well represented. Clovis, Vaughn and other towns in eastern New Mexico sending several players each.

For the information of those who expect to participate in the opening games, the following rule is quoted as a reminder:

"If a competitor be absent when called upon to play, or shall refuse to play when called upon unless he has been excused for a definite period by the referee or shall have given previous notice to the referee or to a member of the committee that he cannot play in his next round," his adversary shall win in that round."

It is announced that the general public is cordially invited to the games and will be shown every possible courtesy. The time and date of playing will be announced daily in the Morning Journal, as will also the results of the games each day.

SYRACUSE MAKES YALE FIGHT FOR GAME

Harvard Eleven is Speedy and Easily Wins From Bowdoin; Other Games Cause Surprise to Football Fans.

[By Morning Journal Special Licensed Wire]
New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—Yale had to exert herself today to beat Syracuse, 13 to 6. The visitors made their score on two kicks from place. Chief among the stunts will be some fancy broncho busting, expert roping, steer riding and goat roping. For two days the cowboys would rope any steer that could be dragged into the park. The law against steer roping for amusement in New Mexico, however, is still stringently in effect and the cowboys will be compelled to rope mountain goats.

Admission to the park will be twenty-five cents and to the grandstand twenty-five cents additional.

At the conclusion of the ball game, the spectators are respectfully requested to keep their seats and not to rush off. They will be entertained by a bunch of wild west cowboys, who promise to do some new and novel stunts in the wild and woolly line.

At the opening Syracuse muffed Yale's kick-off and Yale made twice by Syracuse.

Harvard, 32; Bowdoin, 9.
Cambridge, Oct. 1.—Harvard, by speedy play rolled up 32 points on Bowdoin today and did not allow the Maine team to come within twenty-eight yards of scoring. Open play prevailed and both teams used the forward pass frequently. Slight bruises were the only injuries. Harvard showed much improvement since the game with Bates.

Cornell, 21; Rensselaer, 9.
Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Cornell defeated Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute here today by 24 to 9 in a game marked by rough play. Holt, Cornell, and Marot, of Rensselaer, were put out of the game for fighting. Every attempt at the forward pass failed and nearly all gains were made on line plunges and punts.

Minnesota, 17; South Dakota, 9.
Minneapolis, Oct. 1.—Although Minnesota won today's game from South Dakota by a score of 17 to 9, South Dakota's driving strength for the first half bewildered the Minnesotans, who expected a small easy victory.

The forward pass was attempted several times by both teams, Minnesota using it for two big gains.

Dartmouth, 6; Massachusetts, 0.
Hanover, Oct. 1.—Dartmouth defeated Massachusetts Agricultural College today. In the last quarter a blocked punt and an end run brought the solitary touchdown and the goal was kicked. Score, 6 to 0.

Nebbraska, 66; Peru, 0.
Lincoln, Oct. 1.—The University of Nebraska defeated the Peru Normal school, 66 to 0, in the opening game of the football season today. Forward passes proved very effective.

MURPHY AND FRAYNE FIGHT TEN ROUND DRAW
New Orleans, Oct. 1.—"Harlem" Tommy Murphy of New York and Johnny Frayne of San Francisco fought a ten-round draw before the New Orleans Athletic club here tonight. The fighting was fast throughout. The men fought at 132 pounds.

You will hear a babbler say, I am only going to the Elks' theater Monday night to please my wife. Oh you kid!

The accident occurred when the cars, with Barney Oldfield leading, were on the eighth lap. As they swept around the west turn Vredenburg's car skidded and plunged through the fence, turning over. Vredenburg's body hit the top of the car, which was thrown several feet into the air.

The fair officials called off the rest of the races.
Walter Brookins announced that out of respect to the dead boy he would not make his scheduled aeroplane flight today. Brookins and Vredenburg were close friends.

Larue Vredenburg was one of the best known young men in central Illinois and was very prominent in society. Last June he married Miss Mildred Holmes of Postdam, N. Y.

Everybody plays "fair" now. Here's to the have-beens, the is-nows and the will-bees; with consideration, this day, only for the fair that is now.

So—Don't worry about the future. The present is all that counts. The future will soon be present.

Time is almost human in its preference for the gay hours and—strange, isn't it?—How quickly old man Time grows tired and how the daffies before he plunges the dark hours into oblivion.

And "Let us be gay while we may and seize the week with laughter" for the glad tomorrow will soon be the fair of yesterday.

The eternal smile is upon us in the form of sparkling sunshine and the famed carnival at Nice, across the seas, has not staid skies above or more beautiful still starry nights.

We can't go paddling about in canoes, but wandering the glad way of colored lights and with responsible laughter, songs and music, we can join in the spirit of revelry, and find it quite as nice as Nice. Pardon the pun.

Albuquerque in gala attire cannot but make us proud and the swaying lanterns across the streets and the gaily decorated buildings present a scene of unusual beauty that should usher into the minds and hearts of the children and their visitors moods of daring gladness that will dispel gloom as the sun chases the rain clouds.

It's only patriotic to be glad this year, for, as the foreword quoted Roosevelt said, when elected president, "I am no longer an accident," and the same spirit we may say, "New Mexico is no longer a territory." Every mother's son and daughter of us have been glad since the tidings were flashed over the wires, but there is not always in this busy work-a-day world, time to celebrate. But the opportunity is now our own and it's up to the people to choose that and make the first statehood fair the greatest event in the history of New Mexico.

The management have done their share and brought the attractions you now all we have to do is put on "glad rags and spirits" and show how well we appreciate the efforts made in behalf of the state and people.

It's just a simple case of putting dull care high on the mental shelves and looking old man Grumpy close in the vast interior of inner life and taking down of the state and people's pleasure as a chaser.

The tonic will do you good; and if it makes you pleasure-mad, there's at least no harm in that. It's a tonic that disease and it's only a temporary ailment cured by satisfaction.

Society the past week didn't play bridge or go to luncheon, but it was in all her glory at the Charity Ball Tuesday and the Montezuma Friday. She pointed just as the Commercial club tabernacle social features and, so doing, did away with one of the brilliant balls of the week. Of course, it was the thing to do, as society reluctantly agreed, but with feminine incoherence she wanted the ball first and the law a bit delayed. But I think she is somewhat consoled by the unparalleled brilliancy of the two balls. It would seem someone wanted to make up the loss of one to the capricious lady by having the two more splendid than ever before.

Let us extend a thousand welcomes to the strangers in the city, ask them to come to the balls, and wish them a jolly good time. And, "Hush," when they go, but here's hoping they stay.

It's fitting, too, we say something to the fair management. Altogether, now, three cheers for Messrs. J. H. O'Reilly, Miss Margaret Stover, Mr. McGuffey and Roy McDonald.

The Charity Ball

The apothecary, as it were, of the saint set as all the stately lights of exultation will be there. Society, the wide world over, is always found in prettiest mood and radiant at a charity ball, and the philanthropic smile is all-embracing and hints gently of democracy for every citizen's sake. Philanthropy is not merely fashionable; it is human, sweet and womanly as espoused by the fair of the land; and why should society, just because jolly and happy, be above, or below, these qualities of the eternal feminine?

Speaking of democracy reminds me of one writer who declares the point of view of smart society of today is very much that of Abbe Sieges, whose comment to Talleyrand as to the settings of the "assemblee constituante" was: "Yes, we get on very well when we discuss 'Liberty.' It is when we get on the subject of 'Equality' that we quarrel." Perhaps the comment applies, but, anyhow, no one on this side of the water has gone so far as that delightful old aristocrat, the French Duchess, who, dying, viewed her coming dissolution with equanimity, because, she said, she felt sure that God must deal courteously with a person of her quality.

But I have wandered far away from the charity ball which annually comes and goes, leaving on memory's calendar a red letter mark. It will be this year, as in years previous, a scene of pretty gowns, irresistible dance, music and irresponsible laughter. There are no regulations and rules of dress to apply and you may wear what you will, and need have no fear of treading on the toes of Etiquette or Formality. Fact of the matter is that the latter commodity of polite society won't reign supreme as at the Montezuma. It is a good time for everybody who cares to come, and it's rather nice to think that you are dancing happiness into lives of sordid poverty. Don't you think? Maybe, that is the reason the spirit of good fellowship is so much in evidence at the charity ball, and everyone so glad with the joy of living and dancing. It's so comfortable to feel good; and since it doesn't require self-sacrifice or much money, no one should lose the chance at a play in the game of philanthropy with a rare good measure of fun.

Here and There

should live on the street named for the family?—and will be at home to their scores of friends after the passing of October.

Since Society took a week "off," the heretic writer doesn't know just what to say. What did you think of the "Elks" smoker? Of course you did not go. Society, however, did go. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Morley's two weeks from the last, and at that time a name will be decided upon for the society.

The whole dinner people as in previous years will have an ice water booth at the fair grounds which will be easily fitted up as a rest room, whence all that come may enjoy the comfort and the habit of the local W. C. T. U. for years and is very successful and much appreciated by the fairgoers. It's early to suggest the stage of swastika building an expected part of the proceedings and as sure to come as the fair is to go. The Temperance Union will also have a float and their plans for this fair are on quite an elaborate scale and are suggested more urgently the ladies of that organization want the temperance clause inserted in the constitution.

The float and booth were planned at the meeting last Tuesday afternoon held at the home of Mrs. Pitt Rose on West Central avenue. Following the business session, readings of the constitution and a report on the last year's work were given. A large number of new members came into the organization at that date.

Another pleasant affair in church circles occurred Thursday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church at a reception in honor of the new pastor, Rev. C. O. Beckman, and wife. It was double in nature as it was also a farewell to Dr. Samuel Blair and wife who will leave in the near future for Manhattan, Kansas, where Dr. Blair has accepted the pastorate of the Methodist church.

Mr. Sterling was master of ceremonies and in well chosen words expressed the pleasure of the congregation in the coming of the one and their regret at the departure of the other. Impromptu talks suitable to the occasion were given by Mr. John Wilson, Rev. C. O. Beckman, Dr. John H. Cooper, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Dr. D. A. Porterfield, Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, pastor of the Baptist church, and Charles T. French, Mr. Beckman and wife and Dr. Blair and wife gave appropriate responses. The excellent musical program was contributed by Miss Baker, Miss Charlotte Pratt, Mr. Seder, Mr. McNeill and Mrs. A. D. Baker. The evening was concluded with delicious refreshments.

Don't go home for dinner and supper Thursday of fair week. You can get home cooked meals which will be served in the state room formerly occupied by Rosenwald Bros. They will be served under the direction of a committee of Catholic ladies appointed by Father Mandakari, who is in charge of the fair grounds. There will be space and good things to eat for all that come and good and efficient service near enough to the festive which will be at their height by that time of the week.

The charges will be nominal—15 cents for dinner and 25 cents for supper. The ladies in charge are: Mrs. P. A. Murphy, Ernest L. J. W. Whitte, Thomas Lawler, James Tierney, Joseph Richards, Coleman and Lehman.

The get-together social of the Highland Methodist church of Wednesday evening was all the name implies in cordiality and good will which ran apace with the enthusiasm of the good as were the dishes served at its conclusion. Responses to the following toasts were much enjoyed:

"The Place of the Sunday School in the Church," Mrs. Gueling.

"The Young People of the Church and Their Opportunity Through the Epworth League," J. P. Steel.

"Church Music: What and Why," Mrs. Howell.

"The Women's Home Mission Society," Mrs. Howell.

The Montezuma Ball

Twelve rooms have been leased over the world's fair and the silver eye has watched the months away. Once again the Montezuma ballroom on Plaza Street has been selected for the statehood fair and the society stands proudly on tiptoe awaiting the event.

Glorious anticipation has been a trifle flurried by hurrying preparation for speediness of masculinity have restricted the dress suits after a summertime of oblivion and morals of femininity have been every twice-in-a-while in the throes of a "fit."

That reminds me—the shows this year are according to local modistes, wonderful creations of skill, labor and great beauty.

Since these made at home are such dreams of beauty, what can be said in description of the marvels which are to be forthcoming from eastern worlds of fashion, for a number of the gowns are being made in New York.

Flowers, ribbons and loveliness are a setting for the gowns, and, moreover, anyone who would fail to appreciate such a scene would deserve to be placed with Dante's chiliards "who are subjected to the pains of hell and placed therefore by him low in his Inferno. The decorations are on a magnificent scale, but that I need not add as the grandeur has been named by previous editions and you all know about the hand-painted programs. Maybe, it would be well to remind the men that their programs will be illustrated copies—the twenty-five piece orchestra and the decorative plans of Mr. Schweizer which have been partially revealed and are to be carried out in every detail.

Mr. McGuffey, chairman of the Montezuma ball, has asked that it be announced that regulation evening dress is to be worn and for the benefit of strangers and those not familiar with the ball, that no invitations are issued, but a ticket for gentlemen and gentlemen and lady costs $5.00, and $2.50 for each additional lady.

The first street entrance will be used for guests at the ball and the reception will begin at 8:30 and last until 9:30. The opening promenade at 10 o'clock will be led by Governor Mills and his choice of lady.

Keleher-Gertig Nuptials

Another affair d'amour—sounds more "frencher" than a common everyday love affair, does it not?—and its happy matrimonial culmination engaged the attention of society the past week. Society never grows too tired, nor prone to rejoice in a wedding and was especially interested in the Keleher-Gertig nuptials, owing to the prominence and popularity of the contracting couple. That the date was set, then changed, because the young old world found out, only added the flavor of romance and said world thinks it was a good excuse for hastening the wedding and smiled indulgently over the morning news of Wednesday which told of the quiet ceremony on a late September morning and the vanished pair who did not stay for congratulations or rice and old shoes. The aftermath tells of wild pranks, customary at weddings, and at which this particular group had been ring-leader when scores of his friends had previously gone the way of all bachelors (be they not too young or old), and the aforementioned Benedicts and many Benedicts-to-be had planned a dire and double dose for Mr. Thomas Keleher, Jr., who was jolly well to follow Cupid in a silent steal-away march for his bride.

The ceremony was performed Tuesday morning, in good time to make the westbound limited, by Father Mandakari at the pastoral residence Mrs. Jesse Keleher, mother of the groom, and the attendants, Miss Kathryn Gertig, and Mr. W. A. Keleher were, with the principals, the only ones present at the time of the marriage and needless to add were bound to secrecy.

So Miss Nettie Gertig is no more, and another of our charming girls has entered the ranks of matrimony. Society and will doubtless prove as this an addition to the ranks of the young married set.

To return to the Keleher, who are, of course, tipping the scale of life on the side of happiness: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Keleher, mother of the groom, will reside in a pretty new home out on Keleher avenue—eminently fit don't you think they should live on the street named for the family?—and will be at home to their scores of friends after the passing of October.

Since Society took a week "off," the heretic writer doesn't know just what to say. What did you think of the "Elks" smoker? Of course you did not go. Society, however, did go. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Morley's two weeks from the last, and at that time a name will be decided upon for the society.

The whole dinner people as in previous years will have an ice water booth at the fair grounds which will be easily fitted up as a rest room, whence all that come may enjoy the comfort and the habit of the local W. C. T. U. for years and is very successful and much appreciated by the fairgoers. It's early to suggest the stage of swastika building an expected part of the proceedings and as sure to come as the fair is to go. The Temperance Union will also have a float and their plans for this fair are on quite an elaborate scale and are suggested more urgently the ladies of that organization want the temperance clause inserted in the constitution.

The float and booth were planned at the meeting last Tuesday afternoon held at the home of Mrs. Pitt Rose on West Central avenue. Following the business session, readings of the constitution and a report on the last year's work were given. A large number of new members came into the organization at that date.

Another pleasant affair in church circles occurred Thursday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church at a reception in honor of the new pastor, Rev. C. O. Beckman, and wife. It was double in nature as it was also a farewell to Dr. Samuel Blair and wife who will leave in the near future for Manhattan, Kansas, where Dr. Blair has accepted the pastorate of the Methodist church.

Mr. Sterling was master of ceremonies and in well chosen words expressed the pleasure of the congregation in the coming of the one and their regret at the departure of the other. Impromptu talks suitable to the occasion were given by Mr. John Wilson, Rev. C. O. Beckman, Dr. John H. Cooper, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Dr. D. A. Porterfield, Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, pastor of the Baptist church, and Charles T. French, Mr. Beckman and wife and Dr. Blair and wife gave appropriate responses. The excellent musical program was contributed by Miss Baker, Miss Charlotte Pratt, Mr. Seder, Mr. McNeill and Mrs. A. D. Baker. The evening was concluded with delicious refreshments.

Don't go home for dinner and supper Thursday of fair week. You can get home cooked meals which will be served in the state room formerly occupied by Rosenwald Bros. They will be served under the direction of a committee of Catholic ladies appointed by Father Mandakari, who is in charge of the fair grounds. There will be space and good things to eat for all that come and good and efficient service near enough to the festive which will be at their height by that time of the week.

The charges will be nominal—15 cents for dinner and 25 cents for supper. The ladies in charge are: Mrs. P. A. Murphy, Ernest L. J. W. Whitte, Thomas Lawler, James Tierney, Joseph Richards, Coleman and Lehman.

The get-together social of the Highland Methodist church of Wednesday evening was all the name implies in cordiality and good will which ran apace with the enthusiasm of the good as were the dishes served at its conclusion. Responses to the following toasts were much enjoyed:

"The Place of the Sunday School in the Church," Mrs. Gueling.

"The Young People of the Church and Their Opportunity Through the Epworth League," J. P. Steel.

"Church Music: What and Why," Mrs. Howell.

"The Women's Home Mission Society," Mrs. Howell.

ALBUQUERQUE NEW MEXICO

THE CASE OF COL. TWITCHELL.

The action of the New Mexico delegation to the irrigation congress, in this city yesterday, in unqualifiedly endorsing the work of Col. R. E. Twitchell will express the sentiments of the people of New Mexico. All his fellow citizens will stand back of that vote of the delegation. No one disputes for a moment, in this part of the country, the disinterestedness of the work of Colonel Twitchell for New Mexico. He has always been found in a vanguard of every praiseworthy public movement. His energy is inexhaustible, his ideals are high, he is a tireless worker and one of New Mexico's ablest and most efficient boosters.

The "lemon" which he handed at the psychological moment at Pueblo has a bitter taste to all of us and the irrigation congress has not reflected credit upon itself by its final action. If there were ever circumstances under which the taunt of "corporation attorney" was utterly unfair and unjustifiable, it was at Pueblo. The Morning Journal takes pleasure in adding its vote to the unanimous expression of sincere regard and entire confidence given Colonel Twitchell yesterday. We believe that Colonel Twitchell is a valuable citizen and a broad-minded man, qualities which he certainly demonstrated in his little speech yesterday in which he declared that, though defeated, he would work all the harder for the cause.

A TEN-STROKE.

As final and convincing proof that it has come alive, waked up, and got in the game, the Commercial club has inaugurated one of the most important movements in the history of New Mexico in calling for a general meeting in this city Friday of a week of representatives of all the commercial organizations and municipalities in New Mexico to discuss the most important problem before the people—taxation reform.

The action of the club directors in arranging this meeting is a master stroke. The gathering will be entirely unique in the history of the southwest. It will be a commercial congress of New Mexico. Whatever action is taken by the meeting in regard to the administration of the taxation system will be the authoritative voice of the business men of New Mexico.

The demand for a change in the tax proposition is widespread and must be heeded. This meeting will bring out exactly what the majority of the plain business men of New Mexico want in the way of tax reform. It is to be hoped that the constitutional convention will see its way clear to adjourn early in the week and send its delegates down to attend this meeting.

Besides starting a vigorous movement for a better taxation system, this meeting will have more far-reaching results. It should be the preliminary step toward federating the business organizations of the state into a state union or commercial congress with annual meetings and a thorough working organization. The opportunities lying open to such an organization are endless and it could exercise a potent influence, an influence for the people, a non-partisan, strictly business influence which could accomplish great things under the state government.

BRAYO, NEW MEXICANS.

The people of New Mexico are entitled to be proud of the work of their delegation at the irrigation congress. The crowd from the central and southern valleys of the Rio Grande gave the new state more effective splendid cheering at Pueblo than she has had for years. They set an example of enthusiasm, harmonious, united, fervent enthusiasm which made the delegates from other western states sit up and stare. Nothing could do so more good than to be represented ed at a national gathering by such an aggregation of intelligent, vigorous, wide-awake business men, lined up so solidly for the interests of their home country, and carrying the fight so successfully into the enemy's country as did the boosters from Albuquerque, Las Cruces and El Paso.

When a man sees enthusiasm like that he knows that there must be some cause for it, and he can't help wondering if it isn't a pretty good country that sends out men like that. The New Mexico delegation was on the job every minute. It fairly dominated the convention and came within an ace of making a complete job of it by capturing the presidency. It was no fault of theirs that they didn't. If we had had a less united and aggressive delegation, the development of New Mexico might have suffered a very serious setback, a heavy blow, through the action by the congress favoring state control of the waters of interstate streams. The people of the southwest owe these men a considerable debt.

A BIG PROPOSITION.

The rumor that the new Vanadium Mining company, about to expend over $150,000 at Custer and in the Caballo mountains, is backed by some of the leading steel magnates of Pittsburgh, is interesting to the people of New Mexico. It is declared that this deposit of vanadium is the only one in this country where the valuable mineral exists in commercial quantities. These men have been at work very quietly and we hear nothing about them until the contracts are let. There is reason to believe that New Mexico will soon have one of the largest and most important mining propositions in the country in her borders.

The methods of the backers of this project indicate that they mean business. A $100,000 concentrating and leaching plant, employing hundreds of men, will give a big boost to the mining industry in general, and will help vastly to advertise our resources in the east.

RIGHT UP TO DATE.

In inaugurating a permanent promotion fund for the Commercial club of this city, the directors have placed themselves right abreast of progress. The city of Topeka, Kas., has followed suit. Some of the most valuable features of the plan are indicated in the following from the Topeka "Capital": "An industrial fund for assisting new industries to get started, or established industries to branch out, is proposed by the Commercial club as a factor for promoting industrial Topeka. The board of directors of the club yesterday authorized the manufacturers' committee of the club, of which J. Will Kelley is chairman, to outline a plan for raising and controlling such a fund. One of the features which is contemplated is the purchase of factory sites with railroad facilities, the use of which will be offered to new industries which may decide to locate in Topeka.

"Such a fund is expected to attract a number of new enterprises to Topeka and to render material assistance to those which may be established here, which have merit and conducted upon sound principles, but which need additional capital for branching out or making improvements that will enable them to meet outside competition. There have been instances in Topeka where established industries and plants have gone to other towns which offered them such advantages when they found it hard to raise sufficient money in Topeka.

"As near as we have outlined the plan, the business interests will probably be asked to contribute a comparatively small sum annually for five years, which would produce a good sized industrial fund," said Mr. Kelley. "The wage that there is no big concern in Topeka which does not spend $500 to $1,000 for this purpose every year. The same money would produce a great deal more material benefit for the city, industrially, if it were handled more systematically.

"Some plan must be worked out to benefit Topeka industrially. I think we can work out some safe, sane plan for meeting the situation intelligently.

"There are several institutions here that are needing money badly. If they can't get it here they may go where they can.

"I am not in favor of giving any concern a cent, outright, without getting value received for it. Most concerns needing money are willing to give reasonable returns.

"Any fund that is raised should be placed in the hands of a trustee or committee, whose duty it would be to see that the money was wisely invested. The money could be used to buy stock in some young concern, and then the stock could be held until the company got on a paying basis and the stock became valuable. Then a market could easily be found for the stock and the money realized from it could be used in assisting some other company. In this way the industrial fund could be made to last for years. The committee of trustees could invest part of the fund in sites for manufacturing plants. These sites could be given to such concerns for a number of years on the basis of the company paying taxes on the land for the use of it. When the concern could secure a site of its own the land and improvements would revert to the fund."

All the privileges of the club building are equally open to old and new members. Thorough democracy is the idea of the reorganized club, without social or other distinctions of any kind. We are all in the club for business and every man should feel that he has exactly the same privileges and the same responsibilities as a member, that any other has. Whenever you get a chance drop into the comfortable clubrooms and chat with the other business men. Good fellowship means teamwork.

So many strange things come out of Pittsburgh that the latest marvel, the preacher who proposed to sell his children at public auction to the highest bidder, need cause no especial surprise. But hardly less surprising than the performance of the preacher was the total absence of a sense of honor of the crowd in taking it seriously or in believing that there was any actual purpose on the part of the father to give up possession of his youngsters. His method of pointing a moral was doubtless a clumsy one, but the Pittsburgh public was none the less dense.

Side Talks With Ananias

There appears to be no doubt at this time that Charles A. Spiess will be president of the constitutional convention. It is with great pleasure that I announce that T. Roosevelt, the distinguished founder of our noble order, has just been elected to the position of president of the organization through the enterprise of one of our members in Milwaukee. Mr. Roosevelt has been so busy for years as our organizer that he has had little time to devote to the work inside the organization. We have it on authority of My Dear Maria that he will receive the fifth and sixth degrees during the coming month.

The service on the Highland street car line compares favorably with that of any modern trolley system in the country. Owing to a slight accident to the steering gear of special private car No. 88,965, belonging to Mr. Isaac Fourth, there was a blockade on the South Highland end of the line yesterday which stalled fifteen cars before traffic could be re-opened.

I think that the initiative, referendum and recall will be incorporated into the New Mexico constitution by an overwhelming majority. In this connection I mention that the city of New York is not on a vacation. A MEDICAL authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. The Jewish New Year

(By Dr. Mendel Silber.) Unlike other Jewish festivals of the year, the three so-called Pilgrim Feasts, in Rosh Hashonah, the New Year's day, which will be observed by Jews the world over next Monday evening and Tuesday, in the first place it is not like the other feasts, merely a joyous day, but a solemn one. While a true festival, in the strictest sense, yet solemnity is its most predominant feature. But there is also a deeper difference between the New Year's day and the other holidays. The latter are national feasts, of agricultural origin, having been endowed by tradition also with a significance commemorative of some great event in Israel's past. Thus Passover is the feast of freedom, Pentecost the feast of the giving of the law, and the feast of Tabernacles the feast of the wandering in the desert. As such, these holidays command themselves strongly to the historic consciousness of the Jew. But from their very nature they are not calculated to appeal to a race that is an individual. Their agricultural aspect no longer applies. Their historic significance has a meaning only when Israel is considered as a whole, in its present condition being the direct continuance of an uninterrupted past.

Not so is it with the New Year's day. Like the day of atonement it claims the observance of Jews as individuals, rather than as members of a race. It is neither agricultural in origin nor commemorative of any historic event, save for one tradition which places the origin of the holiday in the desert. As such, these holidays command themselves strongly to the historic consciousness of the Jew. But from their very nature they are not calculated to appeal to a race that is an individual. Their agricultural aspect no longer applies. Their historic significance has a meaning only when Israel is considered as a whole, in its present condition being the direct continuance of an uninterrupted past.

There is a third method of irrigating, which is done by furrows, which are drawn from the laterals and so arranged through the field and at such distances apart that the water which is carried down through these furrows soaks through and is called by some people, sub-irrigation, and is more universally used where clear water is found.

Under the head of sub-irrigation may also be mentioned the method used by irrigating by submerged pipes, or by the use of the sub-surface plow. With this system, however, I am not familiar.

In some of the southern states, I believe mainly in Georgia where celery is extensively grown, a system of overhead irrigation is used, by means of perforated piping which are laid about five or six feet apart.

These perforated pipes laid overhead across the field emit from a large or small pipe, which takes the place of a lateral ditch, and when irrigation is required the water is turned into the main pipe with sufficient force or flow to evenly distribute it through the smaller and perforated pipes, giving a sort of rainfall effect, or a sprinkling of the water over the field.

As stated before, the method of system with which we of Southern New Mexico are most familiar is the method of flooding by the use of borders and checks.

Irrigated Farm No Place for Lazy Man Says Gen. Viljoen

"Practical Irrigation in New Mexico" Subject of Interesting Address Before National Congress at Pueblo by Well Known Boer Ranchman in Mesilla Valley; More Intelligent, Industrious Farmers Needed to Develop Agricultural Resources of New State of New Mexico.

That New Mexico's irrigated valleys are in need of more practical, intelligent, industrious farmers and that the irrigated farm is no place for the "Weary Willie" were the keynotes of a most interesting address delivered before the Eighteenth National Irrigation Congress at Pueblo by Gen. B. J. Viljoen of the Mesilla valley. His address which was on the subject, "Practical Irrigation in New Mexico," was one of the most heard at the gathering. It was as follows:

Mr. President, Ladies, and Gentlemen: It is not without embarrassment that I address this large and intelligent audience. After listening to the splendid oratory yesterday and this morning by such able gentlemen as Governor Shafter, Governor Adams, Hon. W. J. Hynes, and others, I, as a humble tiller of the soil, feel about the size of a carrot.

There are many methods of irrigation in vogue in this western country. In New Mexico, however, we follow more universally the method of complete flooding by borders and checks, especially where we find the non-porous kind of soil, such as we have in the Rio Grande valley.

There is also a method of irrigating by flooding where a lighter and more porous soil is found. This method, however, is carried out by a system of borders, and ditches without borders being used. This latter is of a more susceptible character, absorbing the water more readily, and therefore, the water is lost more rapidly and without the need of checks or borders.

Under the head of sub-irrigation may also be mentioned the method used by irrigating by submerged pipes, or by the use of the sub-surface plow. With this system, however, I am not familiar.

In some of the southern states, I believe mainly in Georgia where celery is extensively grown, a system of overhead irrigation is used, by means of perforated piping which are laid about five or six feet apart.

time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference—unless he waits for results? There is cheese so thoroughly disguised in the costume and aroma of decay that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a conjurer. For instance, there is the brand known as Limburger. But why pursue the subject?

IN QUITE a numerous number of spasms, the little newspaper which acts as Mr. Spiess' organ in Las Vegas has never got around to that matter of his representing the holders of the Santa Fe county bonds.

WALTER WEILMAN is almost ready for his trip by balloon across the Atlantic. Still it isn't worth while to say good-bye, until further notice. Walter has been almost ready to do great things before.

"DRINK TO the press, but do not press to drink. The gentleman whose task is 'singing in the rain'.

They're usually men of sober views. And never should be full of aught save news."

MR. SPIESS' organ sees the sinister shadow of the Bull in the Morning Journal's fight on a special interest man as president of a people's constitutional convention. There is nothing like injecting a little humor into the campaign.

A SPOONFUL of sand taken three times a day will cure indigestion, according to a Boston man, who claims to have been cured by that method. The Phoenix Republican observes that, while sand is a new remedy for indigestion, it has long been known that a little of it was a valuable thing to brace up the system.

IN THAT justly famous category, "Men of the Hour in New Mexico," the esteemed ablest venerable Santa Fe New Mexican informs us that Judge A. B. Felt, whose photo appears in the 32-5-shot column, is "of the stuff that popular idols are made of." This is fine. But it irresistibly reminds one of the rest of that property to the effect that their need, extremes are of composed of a material resembling adobe, or something like that.

THE FOLLOWING from the Alamogordo News indicates an unusually mean and rasping disposition: "The New Mexican has been running the photographs, together with short biographies, of quite a number of prominent delegates to the constitutional convention. It is said that in years gone by, the New Mexican received twenty-five per cent for service of that kind. One hundred delegates at twenty-five cents each! That's not half bad."

KIDNEYS ACT FINE AND BACKACHE VANISHES

Just a Few Doses Regulate the Kidneys Ending the Most Chronic Bladder and Urinary Trouble.

The real treachery and danger in kidney trouble is because the first symptoms are always seen in other parts of the body before anything wrong is noticed with the kidneys themselves.

The moment you suspect any kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, or feel a dull, constant backache or the urine is thick, cloudy or offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a stinging sensation, begin taking Pappe's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Put an end to kidney trouble while it is only trouble—before it develops into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Pappe's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system; cleanses, heals and regulates these organs, ducts and glands, and cures the cure within a few days. Pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, debilitating headache, nervousness, dizziness, biliousness, stomach, prostatic trouble, sleeplessness, inflamed or puffy eyelids, weakness, worn-out feeling and many other symptoms caused by clogged, inactive kidneys promptly vanish. Frequent, painful and uncontrollable urination, slow or weak or irritable bladder is overcome.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pappe, Thompson & Co. of Cincinnati, who prepare Pappe's Diuretic—every drug treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

being done with remarkable success. The soil is of a more productive character and surpasses in richness, even those wonderful valleys of the famous western province of South Africa known as the Breederiver and the Koffmans-Kloof valleys, where the speaker was born and reared. In those valleys, irrigated lands are considered cheap at a $1,000 an acre. With our National Government, extending a helping hand to this arid West, building extensive reservoirs under the able direction of our Reclamation Service with its grand and magnificent scope, hundreds of thousands of acres of waste land are being reclaimed, which without irrigation is absolutely worthless. Homes are being created for our American farmers who with an assured water supply on a ten or twenty-acre farm, conducted intelligently, and farmed intensively will not only be enabled to make a good living, but will become independent in a few years.

I believe that a ten or twenty-acre farm under irrigation will take all the time of a single farmer, and that if a larger tract of land is attempted to be farmed, it is only possible to raise such crops as alfalfa and grain, and the more profitable crops, such as cantaloupes, onions, celery, and garden truck are neglected.

With the completion of the Great Elephant Butte Dam, New Mexico and Texas is going to prove homes for the thousands of business or agriculturists who are seeking out a miserable existence in the overcrowded cities.

In conclusion, I wish to emphasize that an irrigated farm is no place for the good-for-nothing, idle, or the weary-willie. Back to the farm, sentiment is all right, but back to the irrigated farm, there should be added that energy and intelligence must be taken along, otherwise a failure is as sure as the sun rises in the east.

This is no discouragement to those who propose to attempt the irrigation farm, but a warning that just as in all other kinds of business or activities, systematic, economical and intelligent men are needed in order to make a success of farming.

The Mesilla valley is inhabited only sparsely yet, but those who have come and are farming in that valley are the most hospitable of all western people, and a hearty welcome awaits intelligent American farmers to the great and rich Rio Grande valley of New Mexico and Texas.

NOT AFTER ROCKY MOUNTAIN ROAD SAYS RIPLEY

Santa Fe President Denies Story of Extension to Taos; Vacation Trip Through Woods Highly Enjoyed.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal]
Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 1.—The Santa Fe has not purchased nor is it endeavoring to purchase the St. Louis, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Railway. This was the earnest denial of President E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe, today, in response to a report that the Santa Fe was planning to extend its line to Taos, N. M., and thence to the Rocky Mountain road, for the purpose of extending it to Texas.

Mr. Ripley was interviewed just as he was leaving his private car on route to Taos, and thence to Chicago. He was in the heat of humor, and spoke enthusiastically of the trip he had made by auto, by team, in railroad, and on horseback. He was emphatic in denying the report of the Santa Fe's contemplated extension to Taos, and thence to the Rocky Mountain road, for the purpose of extending it to Texas.

President E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe Railway.

Looking Rocky Mountain and Pacific road is trying to do, or they intend to do, is something with which I am not familiar.

The trip which gave Mr. Ripley so much pleasure was an "five parts" as follows:

From Trinidad to Raton, over the Santa Fe, by motor car.

From Raton to the Park over the St. Louis, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Railway, by motor car.

From the Park over the Santa Fe, by motor car.

From the Park over the Santa Fe, by motor car.

From the Park over the Santa Fe, by motor car.

Takes the Country.

This is certainly a delightful country and a very enjoyable every minute of my trip through Colorado and New Mexico, said President Ripley. He looked it up. His well known face and his general appearance have him out that he had had a fine outing—his first in the West—his first in the West—his first in the West.

Mr. Ripley expressed disappointment at not being able to spend more time in the city yesterday afternoon in order to visit a number of friends, and ending Hon. George Cabot Ward of New York City who arrived here yesterday from New York, and who is a warm admirer of the president of the Santa Fe road.

The local arrangements in general will not be severely crowded as the City Orchestra featuring Flynn and Johnson-Johnson light production will give the evening Monday night. The prices were put at 25, 50 and 50 cents. The morning manager of the "Elks" theater would not permit the dollar and dollar and a half prices, as the manager of the City Orchestra show wanted to charge. You can all go, then, prices.

Many ladies have already secured tickets to the evening parties for the Elks theater Monday night opening.

Ripley, I'd like to steal you Elks theater Monday night opening.

VANDIUM MAN TO GO EAST MONDAY

Vice-President and General Manager Bonitz Says Construction Work on Plant Will Start in 30 Days.

W. A. Bonitz, vice-president and general manager of the Vanadium Mines company is in the city and leaves tomorrow for Pittsburgh to return in two weeks, upon which work will begin at the construction of the big plant of the company at Cortez which is located nearly 1100 feet.

"Everything is moving along," said Mr. Bonitz. "We are taking out fifty tons of ore daily now and we expect to start work on the plant not later than the first of November. We hope to have everything in operation by the first of the year."

He will have things on his fingers and bells on his toes—Ripley.

HANG OUT FLAGS SAYS PRESIDENT O'RIELLY

City is Already Assuming Festive Appearance in Down Town District With Electric Light and Fair Colors.

With strings of variegated electric lights throughout the business district and with the business houses decorated in fair colors, the city is beginning to assume a real festive appearance. By tomorrow morning it is expected that every business house in the downtown section will be decorated in the official colors and the red, white and blue of the American flag.

Japanese lanterns hang one of the prettiest features of the decorations being put in by the fair association and Central avenue tonight will look for all the world like a street in Japan.

President J. H. O'Reilly of the fair association yesterday asked that all residents of Albuquerque decorate their homes with American flags and fair colors, indicating in fair visitors the spirit of enthusiasm of Albuquerque during the festival week.

10,000 BLACK BASS TO BE PUT INTO GUN CLUB LAKE

Government Furnishes Young Fish Which Are Expected to Furnish Sport For Anglers in Two Years.

A recently five gallon tank, containing ten thousand or more black bass, was taken out of a government tank here last night and turned over to the Southwestern Gun Club. The fish were taken from the big lake owned by the club at Piedra and turned loose.

Last year two thousand black bass were put into the lake and are now from four to five inches long. Next year they will be large enough to catch, but it has been decided to let them grow for two years before they are put into the lake and are now from four to five inches long. Next year they will be large enough to catch, but it has been decided to let them grow for two years before they are put into the lake and are now from four to five inches long.

The fish received last night are from a government hatchery at Billings and were shipped this morning. They are from six to eight inches and a half in length. The members of the Gun Club are looking forward to some good sport in two years, and good game will be taken at the fish until that time. Stringent rules will be enforced by the club and no fishing will be permitted in the lake until 1912. At that time each member will be limited to the number of fish he can catch.

After Slaving.

Use Dr. Bell's Antiseptic Salve. It will prevent the skin getting sore. It cures sores and prevents contracting any disease. The salve everywhere.
