GRLS LOSE LIVES IN FLAMING FACTORY

Terror Stricken Women Perish Miserably in Blazing Smoke Filled Structure or Leap to Death on Pavement Below.

DEATH LIST PLACED AT TWENTY-FIVE; FIFTY HURT

Narrow Red Hot Ladders Offer Only Avenue of Escape for Unfortunates Penned in the Flaming Fire Trap.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Newark, N. J., Nov. 26.—In ten minutes twenty-five girls were burned alive this morning, or crushed to death on the pavement in leaping from the windows and fire escapes of the four-story building at Orange and High streets, occupied on the top floor by an underwear manufacturing concern. Here the death list was placed at twenty-five; fifty hurt.

The latest count tonight shows that twenty of the twenty-five bodies recovered have been identified and that six girls were missing. They may be the unidentified dead or yet in the ruins. The collapse of a wall interrupted further search. Fifty were taken to a hospital, of whom two may die. Among the injured is Joseph J. Simon, deputy fire chief, who was overcome by the falling wall and buried in brick and rubble. He is badly hurt, but may recover.

The rush of the flames was swift and there was such terror into the girls in the top story that the body of one was found still seated on a charred stool beside the machine at which she had been busy when the first cry of "fire" startled her. She had been what went on in the smoke of the crowded upper room, what befell outside in the bright sunlight was more horrible.

The building was exceedingly inflammable and the first gust of flames had cut off all escape by the stairways.

The elevators made one trip, but took down no passengers and were jammed. The only exit was by two narrow fire escapes, the lower platforms of which were twenty-five feet from the street.

Then these overcrowded and steep ladders scorched standing hot by the flames from the lower windows, pressed forward a mob of women, blind with panic driven by the fire and the others behind them.

A net had been spread beneath the windows and the girls were to jump. Many were out on the pavement sixty feet below.

Some of them stood in the windows, called against the flames and jumped; others from the lower steps where they stood. The air was full of them and they fell everywhere—into the net, on the neck of firemen, and fifteen of them on the hard stone steps.

When the awful rain ceased, there were eight dead in the street, and the gutters ran red. Seven more were so badly crushed they died in hospitals.

Fifty are still under surgical care. The dead:
SARAH HATSO.
SARAH CREBERAN.
GERTRUDE DENTON.
MILDRED WALKER.
SOPHIA MALUSKY.
IDA WOOLSEY.
MARY KAVANAGH.
ROSE CLEARY.
ROY DAVIDSON.
THERESA TOROHELIA.
MISS MARY KEARNS.
SOPHIA NICLIWAK.
NATILDA OTTO.
KATHERINE DEHN.
CARIE ROHECUT.
MISS FRANCES KATHIA.
ABRIE WASHINGTON.
MISS ALICE HENSON.
MISS HESSIE ROSEING.
MISS MARY LA PIERRE.

were hurrying in opposite streams to the hospitals and back again.

Before any semblance of order could be restored, every police reserve in the city had been called out and it was not until tonight that an estimate of the property loss could even be ventured. The fire department now estimates it at $185,000, but no statement from the owners and tenants is yet available.

The building was a four-story brick structure, occupied on the two lower floors by the Newark Paper Box company and the A. A. Drake Paper Box company; on the third floor where the fire started by the Anchor Lamp company and the Aetna Electric company; and on the top floor, where the death list ran heavy, by the Wolf Manufacturing company, makers of underwear.

Sadie Benson, an employee of the Aetna Electric company, was cleaning an electric light fixture in a gasoline bath. The gasoline took fire—she did not know how—and trickled in a little rivulet of flame onto the floor, where it stood a full can of gasoline. The can exploded and the burning liquid flew far and wide.

Gertrude Malbour, who kept her head and was saved by jumping from the fire escape into a life net, told of what she saw.

"I think there were about eighty-five of us in Wolf's factory, most of us operating sewing machines," she said. "We did not hear the explosion. When I saw smoke coming from between the plants of the floor above, I ran to the elevator. A man came up, stuck his head through the door and called, 'Don't be afraid, girls. There is no danger.' Then he shut the door and that was the last we saw of him. When the alarm was at work directly opposite the building cleaning the windows of the engine house where he is stationed. He saw a girl rush out of the factory into the street, screaming and crying her hands. Brown did not wait to ask questions; he turned in an alarm and then dashed up the fire escape. Already he found forty girls at the fourth story windows.

He saw the girls and began pushing them through the fire escape. He counted forty that fled past him. The floor was far from cleared, but the heat had grown so intense that the girls were beginning to smoke the skin was beginning to pop. He pulled himself up to the window for a last look in, but at that moment a gust of red streaked smoke blinded him and almost smothered him and he was forced to drop into the lee of the wall.

Fire Chief Astley held the responsibility for loss of life on delay in turning in an alarm.

David Levy, president of the Wolfe Manufacturing company, and A. M. Wolf, secretary-treasurer, broke into tears when they were asked for an estimate of the loss.

"What is lost in the face of this disaster?" said Mr. Wolf. "What is an investment against the life of one of those poor girls? When we can talk of investments we will give out a statement."

Frederick Weinher, chief inspector of the public health department, is making an investigation to determine the responsibility of the tenants and owners.

Woman Accused of Murder Charge, Sheriff Says. Nov. 26.—Mrs. C. D. Smith, of Hulet, who was charged with killing her husband by shooting him through the heart with a rifle while he lay asleep, was committed in the district court of Cook county, Ill., to the penitentiary for the term of one year.

Final Letters From Condemned Dentist on Eve of Execution Contain No Mention of Confession.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) London, Nov. 27.—The last statement of Dr. Crippen is published in a Sunday paper in the form of two final letters to Miss Leneve. The letters are not reproduced in their entirety, it being explained that they contained certain personal confidences, but nothing in the nature of a confession.

"Crippen throughout declared his innocence to Miss Leneve. The letters begin with protestations of passionate love for the girl and profess constant love for her and her constantly. 'God bless us to be near,' Crippen writes. 'I can now so near.'"

FINAL STAGE OF CONSTITUTION BUILDING AT PHOENIX

State Conservation Knocked Out by Overwhelming Vote and Arizona May Dispose of Lands Under Enabling Act.

RADICAL PROGRESSIVES NO LONGER IN CONTROL

Amendments to Fundamental Law May be Submitted to People on Petition of Fifteen Per Cent of Legal Voters.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 26.—State conservation of public lands, advocated by the so-called "radical" progressives, was knocked out today by an overwhelming vote, when the amendment proposed by Delegate Webb of Graham county, was adopted by a vote of 31 to 12. The amendment enables the state to dispose of the lands as it may see fit under the restrictions of the enabling act.

The convention, adopted today a proposition permitting an election for amending the constitution to be called on an initiative petition of 15 per cent of the voters.

On Monday will probably begin the final passage of measures reported on by the revision committee.

HALF STARVED PEONS RAID RANCH

ONLY INDICATION OF INSURRECTION IN MEXICO

Believed Uprising in Southern Republic is Over for Present; No Word From General Madero's Headquarters.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Mexico City, Nov. 26.—The only news to reach this city today indicating activity on the part of the revolutionists was that of the raiding by a band of twenty-five to thirty half starved men early today of Beland's ranch near Sacramento, thirty miles north of Torreon.

The ranch story is said to have been a case of provisions, those apparently being the sole quest of the marauders. Nothing else was molested.

A dispatch from Pinal says that yesterday the dispatch continues, workmen were sent to repair a portion of a railroad near Santa Barbara, a few miles to the southwest which had been torn up, but the trains were running as usual and had not been molested.

Delayed reports of the fighting which occurred in Pinal several days ago contained news of the killing of a man named Juan, formerly a resident of Hartford, Conn. Juan was shot through the neck as he walked through the street on the day of the assault.

Nothing obtainable in this city gives any indication of the whereabouts of Madero. The only apprehension felt by the authorities is over raids by small companies of bandits upon isolated haciendas.

General Zulueta, jefe politico of the Lerdo district, was quoted as saying that Madero was the only man connected with the revolt who was at all widely known, and that the movement throughout had lacked organization.

CELEBRATE DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH

JOYFUL LOVE FEAST AT BALTIMORE PLANNED

Untrifled Will Meet and Rejoice But Refrain From Resolute or Booming Any Candidates For Presidency.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Baltimore, Nov. 26.—The movement to bring to Baltimore the representative democrats of the country in and out of congress, in a gathering that will present an opportunity of rejoicing over the recent democratic victory in the congressional elections, adopted the form of an invitation to be sent to the leading democrats in all the states.

Acting upon the advice of Mr. Mack and Mr. Clark, the conference idea originally considered, was dropped and it was determined to make the occasion a national Jackson Day celebration, to be held in Baltimore.

The plan, however, was to have a mass meeting at the Lyric in the afternoon of January 17, 1911, at which speeches will be made to be followed by a banquet.

It is thoroughly understood that the Baltimore celebration will not be in the nature of a conference. It will be no resolutions adopted, no order of the day, no resolutions passed, no platform indicated, no platform of the party is to be indicated, but that the gathering will be open, free and devoted solely to the promotion of the party unity and harmony.

It is proposed to send invitations to every democratic member of the present congress and of the next congress, to both the house and the senate, to invite every conspicuous leader of the party in the country, regardless of their difference in the past, and to extend an invitation to democratic leaders to keep alive and vibrant the present triumphant spirit of the national democracy.

Full press service is going into the republic. The fact that the government finds it convenient to do away with one of its few direct circuits is taken into consideration. The situation is now well in hand and that there is no further fear of an outbreak, especially in the interior.

EVERYTHING QUIET ALONG RAILROAD. Nov. 26.—Barring sensational rumors, there have been no developments in today's news regarding the revolution.

General Villar has received advice from the entire district, and from the entire district, and the reports show quiet at all points along the border and in the immediate interior.

According to American officers, the same conditions exist at all points along the American side of the river. Incoming passengers on tonight's local train from Saltillo, Mexico, report everything quiet along the line of the National Highway of Mexico.

SUICIDE SHOT ALARMS CITIZEN SOLDIERS ON BORDER. Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 26.—The crack of a pistol within a few feet of the police station at Agua Prieta, today threw the entire town into a fever of excitement and caused the turning out of the citizen soldiers, recently called to service by the Mexican government and the fire riders on both sides of the border.

The excitement subsided when it was learned that the shot had been fired by a young man named Juan, who suddenly was seized with suicide mania after having succeeded in killing a man named Lopez.

The suicide occurred in the building owned by Señora Lopez, and the soldier immediately formed about it a circle through which none was permitted to pass for several hours.

The citizen soldiers came in Agua Prieta from Fronteras, last night. They are armed with weapons purchased in this city.

Given men, suspected of having revolutionary sympathies, are reported to have been arrested at Fronteras last night.

Recount Reduces Population of Two Cities 11,188 and 15,745 Respectively; Passengers on Vessels Counted.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) Washington, Nov. 26.—In announcing tonight the correct population of Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., as 237,194 and 297,214, respectively, Census Director Durand issued statements giving the results of the re-enumeration made necessary in certain districts of the two cities, but evidence of padding of the original figures.

The original returns from Seattle contained 248,382 names, or 11,188 more than the final figures, said Mr. Durand. "This difference represents names eliminated from various districts as not entitled to enumeration, and in the case of one district, number 42, the difference between the original enumeration and reenumeration which was found necessary."

The original returns for Portland contained 313,000 names, or 15,745 more than the final count, the latter number being obtained on a careful re-counting of certain districts and the entire re-enumeration of two others.

In both Portland and Seattle several similar cases were found in the census bureau for the padding of which led to the recount.

A private organization in each city, by Portland perhaps more than one, had been organized to pad the census figures. The census bureau had been notified of the existence of these organizations in each city and had been instructed to eliminate the names of many persons who "claimed not to have been enumerated but had been counted by the enumerators."

These slips, the census bureau discovered, contained names of many transients in the city and others declared not entitled to be counted.

Several enumerators in Portland counted large numbers of names from these slips to vacant lots or buildings containing no residents. One enumerator on checking up such slips handed in him "found his own name appearing on five different slips."

The census bureau stated that the census of 1910 was the most accurate ever taken in this country. It is impossible, said the director, "to state with certainty that no more were guilty of intentional fraud."

But in the case of districts 62 and 107, it is, "in which the greatest number of names were eliminated, there can be little doubt that intentional fraud was perpetrated."

In the latter district the methods pursued are reported as "particularly flagrant." The correct enumeration was 1,745, whereas the enumerator presented 2,863 names. In the other district the original enumeration showed 5,527 names, the recount 4,491.

The former enumerator has been indicted for violation of the census laws. The other enumerator, it is said, interpreted his instructions so liberally that he invented out of his own head information where it was lacking. In the place the enumerator in district 62 reported 121 Mexicans living in a building, which a recent census contained only nineteen regular lodgers. In another district the recount reduced the enumeration from 4,129 to 3,317.

Quiet Lying-in in Florida. Mayo, Fla., Nov. 26.—Richard Lowe, a negro, was quietly lynched several miles outside the city before being taken to the jail. The body of the deceased was found in the heart of Mayo late last night. The crime and the subsequent lynching was a secret until this afternoon.

NO HOPE OF RESCUING MEN ENTOMBED IN MINE. Providence, Ky., Nov. 26.—Hopes of rescuing alive any of the eleven miners entombed in mine No. 2 of the Providence Mining company here last Wednesday, was abandoned today when the rescue party reached that portion of the mine where the explosion occurred.

LABOR CHIEFS WIN VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

AMERICAN FEDERATION OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Convention Closes Work After Endorsing Woman Suffrage and Going on Record for Organization of All Workers.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire) St. Louis, Nov. 26.—The American Federation of Labor closed its thirty-third annual convention here tonight by choosing Atlanta, Ga., as its meeting place for next year. The entire list of officers, including President Gompers, Secretary Frank Morrison and Treasurer John B. Lennon, was re-elected.

The Western Federation of Miners' application for a charter was referred to the executive council with authority to act, and the first meeting of that body on the controversy will be held tomorrow.

The contest between Atlanta, Washington and Rochester, N. Y., for next year's meeting was the feature of the final afternoon's proceedings. Delegations representing the three cities made vigorous fights on the floor of the convention, but the southern city won with a vote of 3,128 against 2,567 for Rochester and 265 for Washington.

Federal delegates to the British Trades union were chosen in William R. McFarland of Buffalo and Daniel J. Tobin of Boston. William J. Tracey of Philadelphia was elected fraternal delegate.

The administration ticket was elected throughout with the exception of one instance when Owen Miller of St. Louis was defeated as a candidate for fraternal delegate to the British congress.

The convention by unanimous vote endorsed woman's suffrage, and later placed itself on record as favoring the organization of all labor. Some of the Pacific coast delegates objected to the proposition and it was suggested that the remedy was the exclusion of the orientals.

The Western Federation matter, which had been carried over from yesterday on a point of law by President Gompers, was taken up shortly before noon, when President Gompers decided that O'Connell's point was not well taken.

This point was that in the case of the Western Federation application for a charter, the written consent of the official of the other organizations whose jurisdiction might be affected had not first been obtained.

The executive council of the federation, which begins its session tomorrow, will remain here for nearly a week, closing on business referred to it by the convention. President Gompers and the other officials form the council.

MADMAN GONE WITH GUN AND DIAMONDS

CHAVES COUNTY OFFICER LOOKING FOR LUNATIC

Solon M. Owens Disappears in Automobile, Armed and With Gems Bought With Alleged Bad Checks.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Russell, N. M., Nov. 26.—Charged with buying four thousand dollars worth of diamonds from a man known as "Solon M. Owens," believed to be mentally unbalanced, has disappeared from Russell in an automobile and the sheriff issued a warrant, in search of the man.

The warrant charging Owens with issuing worthless checks was just issued tonight, and Owens, getting wind of the fact, immediately cranked up his black wagon and left for parts unknown. In addition to the diamonds, which, it is alleged, were bought at all the jewelry stores in the city, Owens is said to have bought various other articles, including bad checks in payment, and receiving considerable cash in exchange. Owens is the son of S. H. Owens, the rich cattleman who was shot and killed by S. G. Torbett at Alamosa, Texas, a few years ago.

Solon Owens, the son, immediately killed his father's slayer and was exonerated after trial. The young man is believed to be seriously off mentally and has been carrying a Winchester for several weeks past. Late tonight he was in his whereabouts had been found, but he will undoubtedly be captured.

Washing Oil Men to Meet. Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 26.—Governor Brooke issued a call today for a state convention of oil men to be held in Cheyenne, December 14, 15 and 16. He asks all those interested in all industry to attend and make an organized effort to develop what he pronounces "the enormous oil fields of Wyoming, which are second to none in the world in abundance and quality."

Report of October Operations of Atchison System Shows Big Jump in Net Income.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Boston, Mass., Nov. 26.—Secretary Ballinger today announced the withdrawal from entry of $44,000,000 worth of coal land in Montana. The land lies between Miles City and Glendive. The secretary also withdrew about 1,000 acres of oil lands in Kern county, California.

Pathfinders Utterly Spent by Exhausting Trip From Albuquerque to Phoenix

Mrs. Westgard Under Care of Physician After Nine Day Battle With Snow Drifts Through White Mountain Fastnesses and Wind Swept Plains of Mogollons; Driver McNamara Is Swept Away by Turbulent Black River and Is Rescued After Nearly Freezing to Death.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 26.—The Pathfinder car of A. L. Westgard, laying out a coast to coast automobile route, has arrived here with his crew, the latter nearly dead from cold and exposure, and Mrs. Westgard so exhausted and spent that she has been placed under the care of a physician. McNamara, the driver, was rescued from a turbulent mountain stream and narrowly escaped drowning, and the whole trip was a succession of such hardships as are rare undergone by motorists, even as dare-devils. It took nine days to make the trip from Albuquerque to this city, and during that time the members of the party endured almost every kind of discomfort known to man. They traveled through little-known and little-traveled roads through the White Mountains and the rugged Mogollons. It was a trip that they will never forget.

The tale of these venturesome pioneers in the work of picking out an ocean to ocean route of travel for automobile tourists, sounds like that of the pages of some great story of adventure and many a book has been written with less upon which to found a narrative which would hold the attention of the reader to the end. That the tale of the four men and their car, however, is not now lying beneath the snows of the hills of northeastern Arizona or in the waters of some turbulent mountain stream, is a fact which they would not care to have divulged. The tale of their adventures is a story of the most extraordinary kind, and it is a story which will be read with interest and admiration by all who read it.

From the day that the party left on its long trip, Mr. Westgard has been collecting data relative to road conditions, elevations, hotels and maps of various sections through which it would be advisable for tourists to pass. Mr. Westgard, who is a former president of the Touring club and is now the chairman of the touring committee, believes he has selected the one city best admirably suited in Arizona and predicts that in the near future this city will be frequently entertaining New York and other eastern city automobilists who are en route from coast to coast.

After having passed over some of the best roads in the country and encountering little that was really hazardous, the party left Albuquerque on the day after yesterday for the White Mountains. Before they were well outside Albuquerque the trouble began. Roads that were almost impassable were encountered and for some time it was necessary for the party to get out and construct a road over which their machine would pass. Up in the Mogollon mountains sixteen inches of snow on the level, and on the mountain sides the snow was piled up to the tops of the trees and the drifts often rose higher than the machine. From Springville to Cooley's ranch, a distance of forty miles, the trip occupied the entire day and well into the night. It was so cold that often members of the party were obliged to get out of the machine and walk to keep from freezing. At times it was necessary to tramp down the snow before the machine could be forced through the drifts.

Arriving at the Black River it was found that the stream was swollen and the current was dangerously swift. McNamara ventured into the stream, attempting to wade across in the hope of finding bottom for his machine, and was swept off his feet by the swift water. Unable to catch hold upon anything, he was swept down stream and out of sight of the party. Armed with a long rope, Westgard and Brown hurried out to the machine and as they could not and an hour later discovered McNamara clinging to a projecting log in midstream. Although nearly exhausted, he managed to tie the rope which was thrown him, and was finally pulled ashore. The party camped that night in an old stage station at the ford, where McNamara was placed beside a big open fire and finally brought about so that he was able to proceed the next day. Another time, McNamara, who had stuck to his wheel all day while the machine was plunging through mountains of snow, was taken from his seat so benumbed with cold that he could not walk, and his clothing was found to be frozen stiff.

When the party was once more on its way, the road was lost and they wandered about a day and a night without finding their way. Without food and water, they began to look rather desperate and had been given up when they were rescued by the party. Finally the road leading into Globe was encountered and the party proceeded to that city.

tered and the party proceeded from that time on into this city without further remarkable incident. From Roosevelt to this city, Mr. Westgard states, he encountered the best road he has found west of Chicago. He will recommend to the United States public roads bureau of the department of agriculture, of which he is a commissioned officer, that attention be given to about 200 miles of the road over which he had to pass in coming from Albuquerque to Fort Apache. He believes that with the cooperation of the Arizona territorial government that a road which would be of the best could easily be constructed, and that this section could then be made one of the best of the kind of road of as good roads as are to be found in the country.

The party will remain in Phoenix at least over today, and if the condition of Mrs. Westgard will permit will proceed tomorrow via the way of Parker to Los Angeles and San Francisco. President G. Purdy Bullard of the Maricopa Automobile club visited Mr. Westgard last evening and assured him of the welcome of the organization he represents and of the public of Phoenix. Owing to the condition of Mrs. Westgard, it is not likely that the entertainment afforded the party by local enthusiasts will take on any semblance of a reception or banquet, although this was at first considered.

RACING RESULTS

At Juncos, Mex., Nov. 26.—George M. Odom's Polite Levy, running kindly, easily won the Hidalgo selling stakes, 5 furlongs, at Terrazas park today. She stepped the distance in 1:09.3-5 which is within a second of the record. She was favorite and, taking the lead in the stretch, won by two lengths. Favorites won the majority of the races.

Sixth race, selling, 4400, 3-year-olds and up, mile and one-eighth; Aronack won; Jymmer, second; St. Joseph, third. Time, 1:54.3-5.

At Emoryville, Nov. 26.—Meltondale proved a surprise by winning the Altamex handicap at Emoryville today. He won the muddy going just as he was taking the lead, and was in a drive from Coppertown. Jack Paine was third, Seuffert, the favorite, suffered early interference. Boney was an easy winner of the two-year-old event.

First race, future course; Belle Kingston won; Camara, second; Philistina, third. Time, 1:12.2-5.

Second race, 5 furlongs; Jim Boney won; Pechuka, second; Pikaniny, third. Time, 1:02.

Third race, 3-1-2 furlongs; On Parade won; No Quarter, second; Chepucum, third. Time, 1:09.1-5.

Fourth race, Altamex handicap, mile; Meltondale won; Coppertown, second; Jack Paine, third. Time, 1:42.1-5.

Fifth race, future course; Swagler won; Burleigh, second; Zig Abraxa, third. Time, 1:13.2-5.

Sixth race, 7 furlongs; Prosper won; Jim Cafeteria, second; Lescar, third. Time, 1:41.

NAVY TRIUMPHS OVER DANES IN HARD AND CLEAN GAME DURABLE NO LONGER

WEST POINTERS SUFFER
DEFEAT TO TUNE OF 3 TO 0

Biggest Crowd Ever Gathered on Franklin Field See Dalton Make Pretty Kick That Did the Business.

(By Morning Journal Special Licensed Wire)

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 26.—The navy, in a hard and clean game of football on Franklin field here this afternoon, before a large and enthusiastic crowd, defeated their old rivals, the West Pointers, by a score of 3 to 0. After six attempts to boot the ball from place over the West Point goal line, Walton, the sturdy right halfback of the midshipmen, succeeded on his second effort, and the three points which he had been striving for looked good to the navy, and proved to be sufficient to win the game.

It was a pretty kick, squarely between the goal posts, and was made toward the end of the last period of play. The kick almost broke the army's heart, but true to the traditions of the team, that have fought for West Point before them, the army stuck to it, and did not show the white feather.

The navy deserved the victory, for the midshipmen put up a stiffening game and outplayed the army from the initial kick-off down to the instant when Field Judge Fultz threw up his hand and declared the contest at an end.

On Dalton's seven attempts at goals from the field, three were made from the 20-yard line, the last of which succeeded, one from the 15-yard line, and one from the 10-yard line. The other two were missed. Dalton's effort 51 yards from the goal line, all but three carried to the goal line, but the stiff wind from the north carried the ball to one side of the goal posts.

The frequency with which resort was made to this method of attempting to score was because of the difficulty of each team in advancing the ball consistently.

The midshipmen played a fine offensive game and there were few times throughout the six minutes of action that the midshipmen did not have the cadets on the defensive.

The game will go down in the football annals of West Point and Annapolis as one of the most evenly fought over played between the institutions.

It was fought before one of the largest crowds that ever gathered on Franklin field. Every stand was taxed to its capacity, and the rushing mass of people choked up the promenade that surrounded the four sides of the gridiron.

In the boxes were many figures familiar in society circles of Washington, New York and Philadelphia. So far as could be observed, Secretary of the Navy Meyer was the only member of the cabinet present.

He roared hard and successfully for the navy surrounded by a host of friends in the north stand where the midshipmen showed themselves thrice for the team.

Assistant Secretary Winthrop and a long line of rear admirals, captains and other officers, active and retired, were also present to root for the navy. On the south stand, there were equally a large number of army officers. In the absence of Secretary of War Dickinson, because of the death of his son, General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, upheld the honor of the army.

The box reserved for Mr. Dickinson had been turned over to friends of the navy, and the secretary of the navy, who had been invited to the game, did not appear on the grounds.

The weather was almost perfect, for the black, gold and gray of the navy, or the blue and gold of the army, with a generous sprinkling of large yellow chrysanthemums, the six companies of cadets in their long gray coats and caps and the twelve companies of midshipmen in their navy blue uniforms, made a beautiful picture. The game was played on the field prior to the beginning of the game.

The hands preceding the soldierly looking boys played lively games and at the sight of the future officers of the army and navy, cheer after cheer swept the big field.

The navy goal was on hand, but for some reason the old army rule was not to be seen.

The nearest that either side came to scoring a touchdown was in the second period, when Field Judge Fultz threw up his hand and declared the contest at an end.

After Dalton's kick that won the game, the navy mates hugged him and danced about with delight, while the midshipmen in the stands sent up an awful din with their megaphones.

The record between the two institutions stands seven victories each and one tie.

Following the close of the game there was the same kaleidoscope picture that has followed previous navy army games. The six hundred midshipmen assembled in mid-field, formed a great wide circle and rushed to the colors as the navy band added to the din by blowing out the patriotic airs. After the celebration was over the victorious midshipmen marched off to the field singing, "The Army and Navy Forever, Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue."

GIRL FAILS TO APPEAR AGAINST JACK JOHNSON

Newark, N. J., Nov. 26.—Jack Johnson, the heavy-weight champion, who was arrested yesterday charged with an assault on Miss Annette Cooper, a show girl, and with disorderly conduct, was discharged from custody today.

Miss Cooper did not appear to prosecute the charge, but she sent a letter enclosing a physician's certificate that she had been ill in bed for ten days and requested that Johnson be kept in custody until she should be able to appear. The magistrate, however, refused to put the case over.

BATTLING NELSON GOES DOWN BEFORE MORAN

Once Invincible Lightweight Champion for First Time
Meets Master and Is Knocked Out in Eleventh Round.

(By Morning Journal Special Licensed Wire)

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—"Batling" Nelson will no longer menace the lightweight belt. For the first time in his fighting career, the "Durable Dane," a shell of the once great pugilist, was knocked out today, beyond all dispute by Owen Moran, the sturdy lad from Birmingham, Eng., in the presence of one of the largest crowds of spectators ever assembled in the city. Moran, who had knocked Nelson out in the eleventh round of a scheduled twenty round event, his victory being clean and leaving no room for argument to his opponents, was the master of the one-time champion. But he was compelled to drop Nelson five times in this round, for despite the force of the Briton's right hand punches on the point of the chin, Moran's powerful left hand kept coming in and the Dane was ever present. One second after the final count had been tolled off and Referee Ben Sigg, above the din, shouted, "You're out, Moran!" Nelson was on his feet with blood streaming from the mouth and nostrils, loudly importuning the referee to permit him to continue.

Moran throughout from the first to the last of the round, proved himself complete master of the situation, and there was not one round of the eleven fought which could be accredited to Nelson. The Dane was always the aggressor, his evident intention being to knock Moran out with a single blow. In this he was accomplished, but the battle was merely two rounds old before Moran showed that he too, could fight at the battle's own game.

It was the same kind of a punch which several months ago caught Tommy McCarthy off his guard and who subsequently died as a result of the fight. Nelson followed to his knees, and when he rose, Moran stood back waiting for him. Again the Briton's powerful right shot out and once again Nelson dropped to the floor. The performance was thrice more repeated, Moran's right hand reaching Nelson's unprotected jaw with his right and at last the referee and timekeeper counted the fateful ten.

When Referee Sigg declared him the victor, Moran turned a hand spring into the arms of his seconds and dashed from the ring without a mark to indicate that he had been in a fight.

"I always knew I could turn the trick," he later declared, "and you bet I feel proud to have been the first man to put Nelson out. Now I want Moran to be better."

Nelson declared that he had been counted out prematurely. He said: "It lacked but three seconds for the round to end, and I believe I would have been back on my feet in the next round. However, Moran deserved all the credit. He is a great little fighter and will be able to hold his own against any of them."

Today's contest was the first twenty round bout to be held in this city since last June, when Governor Gillett stepped in and put a temporary stop to fights of over ten rounds duration, and fight fans are hopeful of the future.

It is estimated that 8,000 persons witnessed the fight and Promoter Coffroth stated that the receipts will approximate $15,000. Moran and Nelson received $15,000 each.

The Fight by Rounds.

Round 1.—They rushed and fought shoulder to shoulder. Nelson secured first with a clean left hook to the jaw. The men buffeted each other about. Moran shooting rights and lefts to the face. It was give and take at close range until the round terminated with a draw.

Round 2.—Moran drove his right to the ribs and followed it with several stiff right and left short arm jabs to the face and head.

Round 3.—Moran continued to outbox Nelson with straight lefts and right punches to the head, but Moran evened up, raining short arm lefts and rights to the face. Honors even.

Round 4.—Moran scored immediately with a stiff right to the jaw, Nelson countering with two swinge to the face. Moran then planted two solid rights flush to the jaw. Nelson rattled and forced his man from the end of the ring to the other, landing with hard right and left punches to the head, but Moran evened up, raining short arm lefts and rights to the face. Honors even.

Round 5.—Moran scored immediately with a stiff right to the jaw, Nelson countering with two swinge to the face. Moran then planted two solid rights flush to the jaw. Nelson rattled and forced his man from the end of the ring to the other, landing with hard right and left punches to the head, but Moran evened up, raining short arm lefts and rights to the face. Honors even.

Round 6.—Moran scored immediately with a stiff right to the jaw, Nelson countering with two swinge to the face. Moran then planted two solid rights flush to the jaw. Nelson rattled and forced his man from the end of the ring to the other, landing with hard right and left punches to the head, but Moran evened up, raining short arm lefts and rights to the face. Honors even.

Round 7.—Moran scored immediately with a stiff right to the jaw, Nelson countering with two swinge to the face. Moran then planted two solid rights flush to the jaw. Nelson rattled and forced his man from the end of the ring to the other, landing with hard right and left punches to the head, but Moran evened up, raining short arm lefts and rights to the face. Honors even.

Round 8.—Moran scored immediately with a stiff right to the jaw, Nelson countering with two swinge to the face. Moran then planted two solid rights flush to the jaw. Nelson rattled and forced his man from the end of the ring to the other, landing with hard right and left punches to the head, but Moran evened up, raining short arm lefts and rights to the face. Honors even.

Round 9.—Moran scored immediately with a stiff right to the jaw, Nelson countering with two swinge to the face. Moran then planted two solid rights flush to the jaw. Nelson rattled and forced his man from the end of the ring to the other, landing with hard right and left punches to the head, but Moran evened up, raining short arm lefts and rights to the face. Honors even.

Round 10.—The usual close range rally ended, during which both landed some telling punches. The round was rather tame, neither man having an advantage.

Round 11.—Neither man appeared to be in distress at this stage of the contest. Then Moran suddenly shot a vicious right flash to the jaw and Nelson went down for the count, with the crowd screaming from the roof of the arena. Three times more did Moran humiliate the ex-champion by flooring him with clean straight right smashes to the jaw. Nelson taking the count on each occasion. Moran for the fifth time, topped the now defeated fighter with a powerful right. This blow settled it and Nelson was counted out before he could arise from his benches.

apparent with his left to the jaw and a moment later sent the same glove to the face. Moran was scoring cleanly and had the better of the round.

Round 7.—Nelson forced Moran's right, landing right and left on the face. They battled, head to head, Moran if anything, having the better of the exchanges. Moran made Nelson wince, sending several rights in quick succession to the face. Moran's round.

Round 8.—After half a minute of desultory exchanges, Nelson forced his man to break ground by shooting in several rights and lefts to the body and face. He went right after his man, but Moran scored constantly with well timed right and left blows to the face, one of which all but closed Nelson's left eye. Moran's round.

Round 9.—Nelson opened the round with a right to the head, but Moran reached the Briton's jaw and soon afterward a straight left found the mark. The men continued to fight close, Moran sending straight right and left punches to the face that carried plenty of power behind them. Again Moran had the better of the round.

Round 10.—The usual close range rally ended, during which both landed some telling punches. The round was rather tame, neither man having an advantage.

Round 11.—Neither man appeared to be in distress at this stage of the contest. Then Moran suddenly shot a vicious right flash to the jaw and Nelson went down for the count, with the crowd screaming from the roof of the arena. Three times more did Moran humiliate the ex-champion by flooring him with clean straight right smashes to the jaw. Nelson taking the count on each occasion. Moran for the fifth time, topped the now defeated fighter with a powerful right. This blow settled it and Nelson was counted out before he could arise from his benches.

WOLGAST WILLING TO TACKLE OWEN MORAN

Cadillac, Mich., Nov. 26.—Ad. Wolgast, champion lightweight, tonight announced that he would be willing to meet Owen Moran, who defeated Battling Nelson at San Francisco next May, if he were insured $12,500 and were permitted to name the referee.

THREE CARS FINISH LESS THAN ONE SECOND APART

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26.—A thrilling finish marked the automobile race at the Los Angeles motor-drome today.

In the five-mile free-for-all, the cars entered finished less than one-tenth of a second apart. The Buick won in 4 minutes, 31.4-5 seconds, 1.000 of a second ahead of the cutting, and the time of the Duro car, which finished third, was 4 minutes, 32 seconds.

A new record was made in the competition for distance in one hour. Four out of six entries finished. The Knox Giff covered 74 miles half a mile better than the record set by Harrold last year at the Pomona mile in the Marmon. The Franklin was second with 68 miles, the Cutting third with 65 miles, and the Parry fourth with 63 miles.

Accophone Sails Over Prison.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 26.—Twelve hundred convicts of the Virginia state penitentiary had their first view of an aeroplane today, when J. H. Maitland sailed twice over the prison in a Harriet machine. The flight was arranged by a local newspaper for the benefit of the prisoners.

TO MAKE MATCHES
BIENNIAL EVENTS

Yearly National Rifle Competition Tremendous Factor in Arousing Interest in Marksmanship.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—There is considerable quiet talk as to the advisability of making the national rifle matches a biennial affair, instead of holding them yearly. That they have been a tremendous factor in arousing interest in shooting throughout all branches of the military service, and the national guard is not denied. Since they were instituted by an act of congress appropriating money for the national trophy, medals and prizes, congress has increased its appropriation for the national trophy annually, with the understanding that $500,000 of this appropriation was to be expended in rifle practice out of this money the expense of the teams at the national match are paid. In many cases these expenses constitute a very formidable drain on the state's allotment. Especially is this the case with the smaller states and territories. They usually have long drives involving heavy transportation charges and considerable pay for the members of the team while on duty coming and going. An officer in the Arizona National Guard receives the same as an officer of similar rank in the New York National Guard while on duty, so that the team expenses for the smaller states are as high as those for the larger states. Although the amount received from the national government is very much less.

The result has been that where a small state sends a team to the national match each year it finds itself with little left for rifle practice at home. These states and territories are anxious to apply a certain amount of the federal appropriation to the construction and equipment of state ranges and for rifle practice among the members of the guard at home. It is also felt that if the matches were held every two years there would be greater novelty and more interest taken in them. The army has adopted a two-year system in place of annual matches, purely on account of the fact that the army maneuvers and individual camps of instruction are held in alternate years. Preparations for the national matches and attendance thereon consume considerable time on the part of the members of the teams and practically eliminates them from participation in the maneuvers. For the last two years the army has supplied the officers and men for the Camp Perry range during the National rifle association matches as well as during the national matches. As this involves the services of more than one thousand experienced enlisted men it seriously handicaps the training of the troops and interferes with the regular officers during the maneuvers.

ever years. It also demonstrates the serious shortage of regular army officers. It is, however, the nation's matches required the services of twice as many officers and enlisted men from the regular army, to conduct them, their value as a military feature to the country would be well worth the expenditure.

By next year the government of the United States will possess a rifle range of sufficient size and equipment to take care of the national matches. It is considering a new range near Santa, Wisconsin, in connection with the artillery range there and on this range the national matches can be accommodated. It is doubtful, however, whether the National Rifle association matches could be shot there as there will probably be only one bank of targets, fifty in number, so that only one stage of one match could be shot at a time. At Camp Perry with its equipment of more than two hundred targets it is possible to shoot several matches simultaneously. The national guard is not partial to the idea of going to Springfield, which is not conducive to civilization. New York expects to have its range completed by 1912 and if it invites the tournament it will be a formidable bidder.

Peace and Prosperity in Land Where Shells Shrieked

Rev. Thomas Harwood, Chaplain-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, Tells of Revisiting, After Lapse of Half Century, Scenes in South Where He Ministered to Dead and Dying in the Civil War, Even Ascending Historic Heights of Lookout Mountain; Finds South Greatly Changed.

There is a great deal of human interest in the story told by Rev. Thomas Harwood, of this city, chaplain of the Grand Army of the Republic, of his visit recently after nearly half a century to the scenes in the far southland where he ministered to the Union Army in the war of the rebellion. Dr. Harwood went all through the South, revisiting almost every battlefield where he wore the blue in his younger days, finding much to surprise him in the vast changes which have taken place and much to sadden him in the awakening of half-forgotten memories of the bloody warfare. In his recent forty-first anniversary sermon here Dr. Harwood reviewed his southern trip and the following excerpts from his address are worthy of a wider publicity.

As much has been said in the public prints of Albuquerque and other places, in reference to my election as chaplain-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, I want to state that I must pass that by with a simple statement that it was a wonderful encouragement. As usual, I marched with the boys, from eight to ten thousand of them, I stood the march well and enjoyed it hugely. Then the election of all the officers passed off harmoniously and my own election as chaplain-in-chief by acclamation was exceedingly pleasant to me. For this unanimous election to an high position I owe more to Comrade James Tanner, perhaps, than to any other one person. However, as soon as it was known that all the encampments of the west and southwest, twenty or more, which, with me, were gathered at Salt Lake City, and that these with others, such as Indiana, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and others would likely favor my election, I saw men at a glance that no others dare dispute in the field as candidates. I was, therefore, declared unanimously elected by acclamation. Thanking my comrades in the West, Mexico department for their persistence in pressing my claim and other departments for taking up my candidacy, and for the congratulations I have received from them all, I pass on.

Eastern Shore of Maryland.
At Dover, Maryland, Chestertown and other places I had the visits of my life, meeting relatives and friends and students of my schools of long ago. I spent five years in early life as a teacher, and my wife and I were in the family of the late G. A. R. and their families had pleasant visits, also at Dover, Chestertown, Millington and Federalburg. At Millington I called on Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jaggard who used to be in the family of the late G. A. R. and their families had pleasant visits, also at Dover, Chestertown, Millington and Federalburg. At Millington I called on Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jaggard who used to be in the family of the late G. A. R. and their families had pleasant visits, also at Dover, Chestertown, Millington and Federalburg.

Atlanta is a wonderful place, having about 100,000 people. While there I called on several of our Grand Army boys. With the number was Comrade M. W. Scott, senior vice commander-in-chief, from whom I learned many things about the great city. The next day I visited the Confederate soldiers' home, where there are several hundred of our comrades nicely cared for, and I also looked for the place where, a few days after that I was wounded by a piece of exploded shell, and was taken to Marietta, and saw the regiment no more for a few weeks. I also looked for the place where, a few days after that I was wounded by a piece of exploded shell, and was taken to Marietta, and saw the regiment no more for a few weeks.

Columbia.
The next day passed on by Richmond, down through Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina to Columbia where I spent two nights and a day. I called on several of the Grand Army of the Republic, and passed a pleasant time with them. While there I visited many places of interest, with which was the soldiers' home for the Confederates.

Atlanta and Decatur, Georgia.
The next day I passed on by several places of interest where we had had pleasant visits, also at Dover, Chestertown, Millington and Federalburg. At Millington I called on Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jaggard who used to be in the family of the late G. A. R. and their families had pleasant visits, also at Dover, Chestertown, Millington and Federalburg.

We were camped south of the railroad of the town of Decatur, and our regiment and others had been called out to meet the advancing force. The doctor and I were left with the ambulance corps of fifteen or twenty or more, as I now remember, of ambulances with sick and wounded men. At about ten o'clock the shells of the enemy's guns began to fly over our heads rapidly. The doctor said, "Chaplain, we must get out of this." The doctor ordered the ambulances hitched up and to follow him as rapidly as they could for the field hospital. I remained until the last ambulance was filled with the sick and wounded and crossed over the railroad, the only place in which we could cross. Just as the last ambulance crossed and I with it heard for the first time in the army, the command, "Retreat." It came from General Sherman of the brigade. He gave the command, "Retreat," and his staff whirled and went as rapidly as their horses could carry them. The ambulances also in a great trot and sometimes in a gallop, hurrying away from the shells of the enemy, I could not keep up with the general and his staff, and ended to the right under cover of the trees

CURIOUS LOGIC IS USED BY FOES OF STATEHOOD
DONA ANA AGITATION WILL AMOUNT TO LITTLE
To be Freed from "Federal Office Holders" Plan Is to Reject Statehood and Keep the Office Holders.
(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)
Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 26.—Considerable amusement has been created here by the peculiar platform adopted by "The Progressives," a little paper started here for weekly publication, as the organ of the small coterie opposed to statehood. In opening its campaign to defeat the constitution, which is regarded here as to say the least, an ambitious program, this paper, which is published by E. C. Wade, Jr., says:
"For a good many years, New Mexico has been under the domination of a political machine composed largely of federal office holders nominally chosen by the president of the United States, but actually selected by the machine politicians here and elsewhere. This machine has been the instrument of the corporations for effecting their selfish purposes. The result has been that the people have had little to say in the government of the territory of New Mexico. Here in America for nearly a century every political platform denounced England, yet all Americans have nothing but praise for Scotland, though it was a Scotchman, Wm. Pitt, who was Solicitor-General in a British Cabinet, more than any other man, was responsible for the Revolution of '76. But for him the quarrel between the colonies and the mother country might have been composed, harmony restored, and loyalty maintained. Scotland is less than 30,000 square miles in area, her soil is barren, her climate surly, and most of her territory bleak, but there is no community of our own more favored land that can show the per capita wealth of Scotland, nor is our wealth half as equitably distributed.—Washington Post.

Sailors Proud of Their Ship.
One of the crew of the U. S. S. Delaware writes to the Blue Jacket to call the editor's attention to his ship. "I have not noticed," he says, "much in your valuable paper concerning our home so far. I don't want you to gain the impression that we have any bragging among us, but when we call this ship a home it is not stretching the truth a little bit. "What ship in the navy, may I ask, has ever before this settled down before she left her home yard?" "What ship, when only six months in commission, had her piano for the crew, with over 100 rolls, and a graphophone with a cabinet full of records, a racing crew, a baseball and football team and a thoroughly organized athletic committee?" And which, at her third coaling, had coal put on board from two lighters faster than our world-famous flag ship the Connecticut styles herself off from four.

Thrift of the Scottish People.
The population of Scotland is not more than 5,000,000 men, women and children, and 570,375 Scots have bank accounts. It is doubtful if France or Holland can make a better exhibit of frugality than the canny folk, who dwell "from Maiden Kirk to John o' Groat's." This showing, recall Sir Walter Scott's Ballad "Noddy Jarvie, who learned well the lesson taught by his father, the deacon, never to put his hand out so far that he could not draw it back again," which is to say, never make a debt when you do not clearly see the means of its prompt payment when due.

A Handsome Hair Dressing But Easy to Do

STYLE B. SEE NOTE

Model and Instructions by MADAM LULU BUTLER, Principal, The Madam Butler School of Beautifying Arts, Detroit, Michigan.

STYLE B—The hair is waved on each side of the parting and over the crown of the head. The ends of the waved hair are then brought half way up between the nape of the neck and the crown of the head and arranged in puffs or ringlets. The main body of the hair brought below the nape of the neck and braided into two braids. These braids are crossed and brought around the head. The curls or puffs are allowed to drop across the back. This arrangement is without the use of rats, frames or false hair.

To Have Beautiful Hair Use Newbro's Herpicide

No woman can afford to be indifferent to the appearance of her hair. A mass of nice snappy hair, becomingly dressed will add more in genuine good looks than a pretty face, or an expensive gown. Don't allow the scalp to become clogged with dirt and dandruff. Don't let the Dandruff germ destroy your hair. If your hair is uneven, dead, dull and brittle and comes out by the handful every time you run a comb through it, the germ is there. To kill that germ and check the loss of hair should be your first anxiety. Newbro's Herpicide will do this and at the same time put the hair and scalp in a sanitary condition. Herpicide applied to those of greatest refinement on account of its exquisite odor, its purity and cleanliness. It contains no grease and does not stain or discolor. There is nothing more dependable than this remarkable scalp prophylactic. The hair responds readily to a regular and intelligent use of Newbro's Herpicide. Try it and see.

Send ten cents today to the Herpicide Company, Dept. 1, Detroit, Michigan, for a sample and a booklet telling all about the hair.

For sale at all Drug Stores. One Dollar size Bottles are Guaranteed.

NOTE The Herpicide Co. have arranged with the leading hair dressers of the Country to furnish models with description of the latest and most approved modes in hair dressing. Ladies who adopt these styles, will enjoy the satisfaction of being in perfect vogue.

low-faced, sturdy little man, with dark, restless eyes and a perpetual sinister smile. He constantly fidgets in his seat, but succeeds poorly. His intelligence is above the average. He reads much, especially the works of Montesquieu, Rousseau and Dickens. He has a large cell, a comfortable bed, a writing tablet, a well-filled book-case and electric light. The walls of his cell are covered with picture post-cards, including portraits of European sovereigns, notably the Emperor of Austria, King of Italy, King of England, Spain and Italy. De Windt called his attention to them and they were destroyed. De Windt raised the question whether the brutal, senseless slayer of the universally beloved emperor is being adequately punished.—Cable Dispatch to New York Sun.

The Easy Life of a Regicide.
It has often been stated that Luigi Luccheni, the man who murdered the Empress Elizabeth of Austria in 1895, had either died in prison from the effects of the severities to which he was subjected, or was hopelessly insane, and languished in a dungeon. Harry De Windt of the Daily Express contributes to that paper the result of a visit he made to the assassin recently, showing that the prisoner is leading a life of ease, almost luxurious life in the old prison of Green, known as L'Eveche. He is in excellent health. It was as a delegate to the Paris Penal Congress that De Windt, who was allowed to talk with Luccheni, who has been no longer in prison for some years. De Windt found him in a light, airy ward overlooking the lake. He is employed at bookbinding, but this is voluntary, as he need not work unless he is so disposed. He was cheerfully and amiably chatting with other convicts.

Politics in Ancient Pompeii.
A study of the walls and billboards that took the place of newspapers in Pompeii over 1800 years ago shows that not only was the ward politics of the day, but the manner of the modern elections, with ward meetings, primaries and appeals for candidates, but that the Pompeians were actually in the midst of a hot political campaign when the eruption of Vesuvius on the morning of August 24, 79, A. D. buried the city under a layer of ash and lava.

It is requested that all items for the society department be in not later than noon on Saturday.

"Well," reminiscently considered a Christmas present just removed from a high shelf, vigorously dusted and prominently displayed, "with the passing of Thanksgiving, the Stew brothers, Hot Tom and Spiced Jerry, make their first bow to the populace, and they lose their path apologetic air, but when they begin to fit into the scheme of things human, and we make formal entry into the general muddle."

"Yes," assented a Gentleman's Smoking Set, in a tired tone of voice, "it is one thing after another. I omit the adjective that properly belongs to the axiom out of respect to you, Ladies' Toilet Set, and his smile as of the would-be-impressively of his masculinity."

"Don't mind me," blippantly returned the Ladies' Toilet Set, with true coquetry, "O, its lots of fun to be a Christmas Present, isn't it?" "Hully gee," chimed a rowdy toy, "listen to the fairy spiel."

"Hush," chidingly spoke the Xmas Present, who has passed over several seasons and knew the game well. "Little things should be seen, not heard. Now, Ladies' Toilet Set, this is your first season. Your enjoyment of it will altogether depend on how you take it. You are pretty and your fate will, no doubt, be a beautiful one. It's likely some fond lover will buy you for his Girl. You will rest among lace and ribbons with perfume, and mayhap, a trifle of powder and perfume, your intimate comrades. Night, before the lights are out and The Girl has gone to Dreamland, and she will likely moon over you for love of the girl."

"Yes," reflectively regarding the toilet set, "chances are your debutante season will be a success."

The Gentleman's Smoking Set looked dismal. "Three seasons I've rested here beside others much like you," with an all embracing glance for the sparkling silver. "Of course, not quite as pretty," he hastily added, "and each year they pass to loving owners and I am left alone and desolate until the next Christmas. I suppose it will be the same this year," he wearily finished.

"Wouldn't it be nice," softly enquired the dainty toilet set, "if the man who buys me for her would get you from her as a gift?"

"Nice? Why, beautiful. Then we could always stay together. But," doubtfully, "suppose after all, The Man and The Girl don't marry? Why, maybe, in hot anger I will be sent back to her and you shipped back to him. Just imagine, she would hate me and he would hate you—and—had we made a separation."

"Don't make such gloomy suggestions," almost pettishly cried the toilet set. "That isn't the way things happen. Why, don't you know that The Girl will—"

Just then a loud argument among the toys interrupted them.

"I will be the best seller," noisily claimed one.

"No, me," yelled a tin, horse and buggy.

"Ridiculous," screamed an automobile, "nobody cares for you now."

"You are about as much as a back number as the horse and buggy," loftily suggested an airship to the automobile.

"O, be still," said a train of cars, who was strangely silent all the while.

"You don't any of you know your end or destination. Why, last year I was spick and span and when wound up would run clean across the floor. Then an enterprising youngster wound me too tight, broke my automatic interior and I'm doomed to sit here forever."

"Away with surmising, blustering and quarreling," cried a human for Christmas Presents, "spoke up the old timer. 'All you have to do is to keep still, but on your prettiest smile and wait. Remember this, we are now the chief interest, consideration and worry of humanity. If a man's broke, he will borrow or plunge into debt for the possession of us because it's expected of him. Some will buy us an expression of friendship and love, others merely from a sense of duty. The world doesn't get too old or too blue to make a big fuss over Christmas Presents, and the next few weeks the country will be in a wild furor—simply because we are here again. Crowds will throng the streets for desire and possession of you. Everyone passing by will be package laden and the mails and express will be choked with our presence," then the Christmas Present paused for breath and the rows of Presents, having dozed, remained silent and still.

The Inside Inn: Between the Acts.

Some went to church Thanksgiving, some to the football game; perhaps, a trifle of powder and perfume, and some to the "Inside Inn."

Two women were talking between the acts. I mean one, the other had no earthly show. Here are a few of the things she said during the brief intermission.

"No, she couldn't come, her new dress wasn't finished and she said she simply would not wear one of her old gowns."

"You care particularly for the way they are wearing the hair now? I think it is most too fussy for middle-aged ladies," and she gave a reassuring pat to her mound of wobbling curls.

"Oh dear, isn't it terrible to keep help. They come one day and leave you the next. I am frantic half the time looking for a girl."

"Wasn't Louis Chamberlain the best thing in his part? Ain't he handsome? You know I heard he was called 'the ladies' favorite.' And Mr. Landolfi was awfully cute; he's so funny and has a perfectly splendid voice. I don't know he was awfully in love with (to my regret the woman whispered the name)."

"Say, ain't that the sweetest but in that box? My husband came last night, but couldn't come tonight. He's a Mason and of course had to go to the banquet. He is so bored by lodge affairs, and poor dear, has to give me so much of his time to it. He never gets to spend any time with me. Just so sure as he takes up a book intending to stay home, someone calls up, and it's either a meeting of the Commercial club or business transactions down here at the Elks, and John always sits about it, he gets so mad but he has to go. He's that way, so uncomplaining and cheerful in the performance of his duty."

"Don't you just love that pink dress two rows down in front? She fixes her hair so cute."

"Wasn't Constance Sellers good looking in that act. She's the prettiest thing and her singing was simply grand. Wonder why in the world they call her Connie Mack. Yes, indeed, all her friends do and no one seems to know just how it started. And Mrs. Colbert. Why she was just like a professional. I heard she was on the stage before she married and she does so well that I just bet she was."

"Violette De Tulio? Yes I should say she was good. She was dandy as old maid gossip. Ain't it funny that some old maid incline to gossip? Well married women don't have time for it. Wonder why Mrs. Winchester didn't sing? O I guess she sings in the second act. She looked mighty pretty, she in that gray tailored suit and big hat? You know her voice is beautiful, so well cultivated. Say, how do you like the suits this winter?"

"O, did you ever see anything funnier in your life than that Mr. Rankin. Positively I screamed the way he walked and talked—wonder why they call him Scotch? I guess that is his nationality. Yes, yes, Rankin is a Scotch name. Didn't Joe Smith sing was sure rich; he was one of the best of all; and say, I heard that when they were building the sewer up here by the Commercial club one night he was riding on a bicycle and nearly fell in the ditch. Of course, I am not saying anything, but it sounds sort of suspicious, don't you think? O, I have the best new cook book you must have some of my recipes. There is one for sauce Bernaise which is named in honor of Henry VIII., who was born in Bern, in Switzerland. Wasn't Dave Combs the most villainous looking thing? My husband says he is a scoundrel in the part of a waiter. Herb Asselin looked awfully distinguished with that gray hair. He is just crazy about—O, I can't remember her name; let's see—Maybe I will think of it later."

"Do you know I've thought of keeping the children out of school, there is so much sickness about. Well the Elks certainly give splendid shows but, of course, it's Mr. and Mrs. Breen. Ain't she awfully cute?"

"I just love to hear her sing. She looks awfully young. Wonder how long they have been married. My husband says it is just wonderful how Mr. Breen can talk a chorus in the midst of a short space of time. O, there goes the curtain; I guess we will have to quit talking and watch the second act."

The man behind: "Thank the Lord!"

Mrs. Mabel Stevens-Himoe Tea

Society was a trifle quieter the past week and occupied with Thanksgiving dinners and the Elks show.

Mrs. Mabel Stevens-Himoe's tea Friday afternoon for Mrs. William Hennesheers of Cuba and daughter, Mrs. Lieutenant William Parker, was the largest social affair of the week, and one of the prettiest of the season's teas, which form of entertainment seems just now the favorite with the local smart set. It was a "pink tea," not especially from the accepted point of view, but from the abundance of beautiful Killarney roses used in the decoration of the N. E. Stevens' home, where the pretty event happened. The artistic interior lent itself admirably to decorative effects, and was charming in its gala attire of roses and emilux, which twined here and there over doors, mantels, and tables in its adorably clinging fashion. The Fuhrenberg-Cavalieri orchestra lent sweetest music to the occasion.

Mrs. Ross Merritt and Mrs. Felix Lester received with Mrs. Himoe, Mrs. Eddie Edgar and Mrs. Al Frost poured coffee. Mrs. Ralph Dunn, Mrs. Edith Huling, Miss Anita Thomas, and Miss Baker assisted by Dorothy McMillen and Ruth Hild, served.

About one hundred ladies enjoyed the delightful afternoon and the orchestra lent sweetest music to the occasion.

Mrs. Himoe entertains frequently and her affairs are always beautifully planned and perfect in the small details which go to make up a successful social event.

On a Monday Afternoon

Several smaller affairs, though not the least enjoyable, took place on Monday. The social stage last week. Most people prefer a congenial few to a merely pleasant many, anyhow.

There is a new card club evolved from just a few of "the set," but they are to play each Monday at the homes of the members and have a prize every two weeks, and just kill a few winter afternoons in happy talk and merriment. This girls are all single, except one, but she is only recently in the matrimonial ranks and not as yet overwhelmed with her dignity.

Anyhow this state of single blessedness, so called, is not exactly like the "set" and the present state of affairs may be remedied. Now, don't jump at conclusions, and decide instantly that one or more of the girls are matrimonially threatened. I didn't say so neither will I go on record as making assertions to the contrary, so there we are. But we wander from the card club, which is of more interest to the girls.

Last Monday afternoon they held forth at the home of Gertrude Walker, 201 N. High street. After preliminary playing, the delightful luncheon held the attention of the crowd for the rest of the afternoon. Miss Hazel Knight, who by the way, is a mighty charming little girl from Kewanee, Illinois, who is wintering in Albuquerque, and living at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell, will be hostess to the Monday afternoon card club tomorrow.

The members are Joe Campbell, Gertrude Walker, Irene and Ethel Saint, Frances and Irene Rogers, Hazel Knight and Mrs. Guy Rogers.

Dancing Party for Younger Set

One of the more notable events of the week and loads of fun for the younger set was the Strickler's dancing party at the Woman's club Thanksgiving evening. The rooms were prettily done in flowers, vines and pumpkins with other decorations, emblematic of Thanksgiving predominating in the scheme. Miss Lillian Hesseldehn provided the music and the coming debutantes and future statestmen made merry until a late hour. The affair was profusely chaperoned, those officiating in that capacity being Mrs. W. S. Strickler, Mrs. Rose Merritt, Mrs. Amadeo Chavez, Mrs. A. A. Keen, Mrs. Bernard Hild and Mrs. W. B. Childers.

The guests were Misses Helen and Myrl Hope, Aline Stern, Salome Stetson, Kathryn Chavez, Agnes Childers, Laura Cartwright, Dorothy McMillen, Jean Arnold, Lena Furgeson, Rebecca

Boydall, Florence Grausfeld, Alma Haldridge, Elsie Kempenich and Ruth Hild; Messrs. Arthur Yanow, Robert Koch, Wilbur Rhea, Leslie Briggs, J. Allen, Harold Hill, Gordon Gass, Will Arnold, Leslie Schmitt, Jack McLoughlin, Alfred Kempenich, Lester Hild, Frank Spitz, Joe Walton, George Walker, Fred Lathy and Clyde Ross.

Post Nuptial Party

Quite joyous in tone was the high five party given Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moore, who are honeymooning in Albuquerque, by her sister, Mrs. George Pink, at her suburban home in Old Albuquerque. The decorations were on an elaborate scale and the support, following a dream of culinary art and showing an arrangement of flowers and grocery material added to the pretty general scheme, not to mention so material an appendage as a common, ordinary appetite, which word is seldom used on the polite society page.

Lillian Hesseldehn and Walter Allen, either from prowess or luck, proved the star players of the evening and carried off the prizes.

The guests at the jolly affair were Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Misses Lola Neher, Clara Blueher, Viola Blueher, Charlotte Pratt, Pauline Cartwright, Lillian Hesseldehn, Messrs. Joe Jolly, Charlie Kung, Charles Barnard, Oscar Blueher, Frank Friedhoff, Ralph Rose and Walter Allen.

"Rice" Dinner Party

The newly weds and a couple of rank outsiders were royally entertained at dinner Tuesday by Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Rice. Anniversarily speaking, it was the "uniqueness" of events. It was the fourth wedding anniversary of the Rices, the doctor's mother's anniversary and his birthday. Imagine! A wedding anniversary and a birthday all the same glad day every year. Talk about your lucky men, but rather let us talk about the dinner party, which was the "richest" affair of the season. Everyone had pictures of brides as place cards, except Miss Edith Matthews and Mr. Tom Naylor. Decorations were all appropriately suggestive of the wiles of Cupid and pretty in the extreme. The appointments were perfect and the cuisine better. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Monte Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Rice, Miss Matthews and Mr. Naylor.

Juvenile Party

Things were gay in juvenile circles since Mrs. Meliton Otero, 816 North Eight, had a bunch of them in Saturday afternoon to celebrate the birthday of her two sons, Anthony J. and Meliton, Jr. The decorations were of a nature calculated to impress the childish mind, as were the refreshments abundantly provided. The games were lively, or at least made so by the merry youngsters, and the afternoon passed merrily. The two boys had many gifts showered upon them and were no doubt as much in favor of birthdays as the guests. Such is youth. The prize winners Saturday, in the game offering remuneration were Elsie Bramstedt, Alfonso Armijo, Howard Heyn and Leon Bact. The participants in the general good time were Mary McDonald, Marcella Reidy, Pauline Meyer, Marguerite Powers, Valta Moore, Alice Levia, Rosa Devilla, Elsie Bramstedt, Termita Otero, Grace Kelly, Robert Collier, Cleo Salazar, Alfonso Armijo, Lester Salazar, Howard Heyn, Ernest Otero, Leon Bact, Arthur Peterson, Edwin Sanchez, Joe Benjamin, Louis Maner, Ernest Rutledge and Joe Rosenbach.

Thanksgiving Card Party

One of the prettiest functions of the week was given by Miss May L. Pagel of 721 South Fourth street, Thanksgiving day. Progressive high five was the feature game and Mrs. Joseph Shoup and Coral P. Roberts most creditably acquitted themselves, being first prize winners, while Mrs. Coral Roberts and Frank Pagel gave the worst account of themselves and thereby captured the consolation.

The game lasted until lunch which extended into the early evening, after which other games and music whirled away the later hours.

The guests of the delightful afternoon and evening were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shoup, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Shuffelbarger, Mr. and Mrs. Julia E. Jacobson, Mr. and Mrs. Coral P. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Emory M. Garber, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Pagel, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pagel, Mrs. Frederica Jacobson, Miss May L. Pagel, Mr. Harry Hobbs and Mr. Francis Shuffelbarger.

Guild Tea

Mrs. W. J. Johnson's spacious home was the scene Wednesday of the "banquet" of St. John's Guild. Everything went beautifully, including everything on sale, and there was not a piece of fancy work not a piece of cake left to tell the story. Socially speaking, it was a huge success, and financially considered, it was wonderfully successful, netting a cool hundred dollars. The Johnson home, so well adapted to large gatherings, was thronged with ladies during the entire afternoon and between six and seven in the evening "the husbands" dropped in for the fine lunch, which the ladies readily served and for which the gentlemen gladly paid. Mrs. Will Springer, Mrs. E. J. Alger, Mrs. Stephen Andros and Mrs. John Leo Clarke presided in the tea room and served the delicious refreshments. Mrs. Amadeo Chavez, Mrs. Katherine Farrell and Mrs. Newhall had charge.

of the home cooking table and Mrs. Nash and Miss Irene Saint did the honors at the fancy work table.

Y. W. C. A. Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving was fittingly and handsomely observed at the Y. W. C. A. The entire downstairs interior was extravagantly decorated in smilax which entwined the chandeliers and gracefully covered the tables with clusters of chrysanthemums plentifully evident.

A large number enjoyed the delicious dinner and the musical program of the afternoon. The rest room was used for a dining room as several families engaged it for the dinner, and there was a great demand for the turkey and trimmings during the dinner hour. Refreshments of apples and popcorn were served during the afternoon. The spirit of the day was

There in the observance and it was a really "homey" Thanksgiving and meant to make the girls who read their forget to be homesick. From the general merriment the observer could not but conclude that the thought and work preceding the day were well worth while. Everyone is much interested in the outcome of "Block Day" and the nearly one thousand dollars raised will help greatly in the noble work which the association is conducting in the city.

Thanksgiving Tea

The annual tea and sale given by the Woman's club Tuesday of the past week was remarkably successful and incidentally much enjoyed by the large number who attended. It was a pre-Thanksgiving event and a specialty was made of home cooking

TIDY THREE D'S.

At its meeting on last Tuesday evening, the Commercial club started a crusade against the three D's—Dirt, Disease and Death.

The club is to be congratulated on having been the originator of many schemes for the benefit of the business community of this city, but never before has its existence been so beneficially influenced by EVERY human being within the limits of the city.

As pointed out by some of the leading doctors of the city, the change in form of the city health administration advocated, may be looked at from three sides—the humanitarian, the economic and the vital. It was shown that thirty-five out of every hundred persons that die, are killed by absolutely preventable diseases. From a humanitarian standpoint, therefore, it is capable of saving a large number of lives to the community yearly. It was shown, that by a relatively small increase in cost to the city above what it is paying at present, there will accrue a saving of between one thousand and two thousand dollars a month to the citizens, if the past five months may be taken as a criterion. It was shown, that the methods to be introduced, to accomplish this prevention of death and disease, would of necessity give rise to a new city. These three arguments are incontrovertible.

The change advocated in no way reflects upon the administration of the present officials, or the present city council. It is merely a requirement brought about by the city's natural development. It is the beginning of the change in dress of the city, to that of the young man of adult life; a change that sooner or later must affect all departments of the city's government.

It is not a new or untried plan, but one which hundreds of cities in the United States are using today with benefit to health and life and with economy to their citizens.

It is a change which should recommend itself and should have the hearty support of every citizen who has the welfare of a GREATER ALBUQUERQUE at heart.

THE LADIES SCORE AGAIN.

The constitutional convention demonstrated not only its gallantry but its good sense in providing that women in the new state may vote for all school officers.

Waiting the general discussion of the desirability of giving women the ballot, here is one instance where they distinctly should have it. Woman, it is claimed by the anti-suffragists, should stick to the duties of her home and the rearing of her children. Taking them at their word, there is no better way for a woman to look after the proper rearing of her children than to see that they are given a good public school training. There is no person better qualified to judge what is best for education than a mother. If there is one sphere where woman is needed and efficient it is in that of education and no one can object to giving our womanhood all the influence they desire in the conduct of our public schools and the choosing of their children.

Moreover, the example of the well known woman who is representative of the schools of a great city like Chicago and head of the national organization of educators, shows that there is no limit to woman's ambition and ability to make good in this particular realm.

THE ANTI-PASS PROVISION.

It is interesting to note while we are discussing this "conservation" measure, that it makes no reference to the penalty when any member of the legislature uses a railroad pass or receives transportation over a railroad on any terms not open to the general public. Furthermore, any member of the legislature who shall vote or use his influence for or against any matter pending in either house in consideration of any money thing of value, or promise thereof shall be deemed guilty of bribery; and any member of the legislature or other person who shall directly or indirectly offer, give or promise any money, thing of value, privilege or personal advantage, to any member of the legislature to influence him to vote or work for or against any matter pending in either house; or any member of the legislature who shall solicit from any person or corporation any money, thing of value or personal advantage for his vote or influence as such member shall be deemed guilty of solicitation of bribery.

Section 10, in this article, No. IV, on legislative department further says: "Any person convicted of any of the offenses mentioned in sections 57 and 58 hereof shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished by fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or for imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than five years."

Undoubtedly this is one of those shrewdly and cunningly devised provisions of the "poor employers" to secure an invidious and sinister influence in the law making body. We shall probably find by examining the constitution with a powerful microscope that there is a concealed "joker" providing that the fine shall have a maximum of only $333.33. These corporation delegates are profits en masse.

ETIQUETTE FOR DIFFICULTIES.

To follow the demonstration furnished by the colonel that when enough money can be spent the killing of big game is quite decent and comfortable, it is to be expected that a trip to Africa will soon be considered an evidence of financial standing fully equal to the appearance of the women of the family appropriately bedecked at the horse show—a few asking taken at first hand will prove in the library such a certificate of social standing as a mansion on Fifth avenue or the exhibition of a fable once used by an actress or some woman of worse character now decayed and gone to dust. Therefore, it is well to study the etiquette of hunting, and this is furnished by Sir Frederick Treves in his book, "Tigra for a Holiday."

Let us quote a bit as to the proper manner of meeting a lion:

The tourist coming to British East Africa is sure to inquire as to the line of conduct that should be observed when a lion is encountered by the way. In answer to such inquiry I was told that the etiquette suitable for the occasion was the following: If the lion when met with is walking in the opposite direction to the tourist, the animal should be allowed to continue his walk without comment. If, however, the lion stops and stares at the tourist it is proper that the tourist should "stare" the animal away, as he would an obnoxious person on a village green. Should the lion be unmoved by this expression of annoyance the tourist is advised to throw clumps of earth at the obnoxious creature. If, after this, the lion still fails to realize that he is to drop, the tourist is recommended to walk away from the spot with such dignity as the strained position demands.

Doubtless the eminent English surgeon hopes to correct the impression that would be left by a careless reading of the colonel's book—we are warned that the dependencies of the hunt were not observed. Another Englishman has assured us that the truth was not observed, but Sir Frederick Treves thinks it much worse than the consequences were neglected. When Americans go to Europe with money enough to warrant presentation at court they spend some months training for the momentous occasion—we are to observe that a like training is needed before we can meet the king of beasts properly. There are rules that apply to the chase of the rhinoceros, the giraffe, etc., all of which were utterly neglected by the colonel. In the old south the hunter who broke the rules in chasing the fox lost his right to the position of a gentleman in polite society; it is evident that the Englishman is equally conservative in demanding consideration for the laws of the chase when other animals are in question.

Nobody seems to be able to keep the title of "Meanest Man" for very long. The man who sat in the last seat of the last car in order to save interest on his money until the conductor got around to him was displaced by the man who induced a brood of chicks to get under a feather duster and set the old hen on another brood of eggs. Now a surrogate on Long Island has ruled that a 15-cent-old girl who wanted $17,000 a year from her father's estate for her education can have but $5,000, which he declares is all that is necessary for any girl of her age. Just think of it!

The Vermont legislature proposes to make all hunters dress in red. Now we see to what depths a republican legislature can descend when it starts in on summary laws of course it may be pleaded that the object is to save life, but it might be pleaded with just as much reason that it was desired to warn the game.

There are still thirty-two members of the Light Brigade which charged at Balaclava in the hands of the living of these twenty-two are charged as "Indians" while some are in workhouses. Who shall say that republicans are unscrupulous when it comes to pensions?

A lady of socialistic tendency spoke unadvisedly when she said woman had to fight for social equality. Was she referring to pink tea, or inducing her babies to don his own clothes?

The Denver Post has done some fine calculating on the toll that caused the death of Aviator Johnson. It says that theoretically calculated according to the law of falling bodies, the speed with which Johnson was falling the instant he fell he struck the earth was 228 feet per second, or one mile in ten seconds, or 264 miles per hour; this calculation being based upon the assumption that he fell from a height of 800 feet. The same calculation shows that a fall of 800 feet would require less than five and one-half seconds. The theoretical figures would be changed by resistance of the air, but there also must be considered, as offsetting the resistance to some extent, the weight of the falling object. Now all this is extremely interesting. How comforting it must be to the relatives of the dead man to know that he was falling 528 feet per second.

"Croker on hoodoo" is the latest. The New York World says: "Richard Croker is back again, and though he refuses to be interviewed about the election in general, he has some views about it—especially about the Hon. Bourke Cockran. 'It was Bourke Cockran,' said the ex-Tomb many chief. 'He queerer the Republicans. He was the fellow who did it. He is the biggest hoodoo I ever knew. He can queer anything. This is a unique and feeling tribute to Mr. Cockran's great powers as a hoodoo by a man who knows whereof he speaks. The testimonial, it may be added, was entirely unsolicited.'"

A few years since someone undertook to decide the relative rank of great men according to the number of books, pamphlets and catalogued magazine and newspaper articles written about them. It was found that Napoleon was first, Shakespeare second and Washington third. If that list were revised and brought up-to-date, Tolstoy would be found among the first ten.

A writer in Bird Lore wants to get rid of cats to save the birds. Always the faunal naturalists go to extremes while nature seeks to strike a balance—after the birds have been saved by the extermination of the cats we must bring on the cats again to save us from the mice. These fadists insist on keeping us at work.

Are Your Lungs Weak or Painful

DO YOUR LUNGS EVER BLEED?
DO YOU HAVE NIGHT SWEATS?
DO YOU HAVE PAINS IN CHEST AND SIDES?
DO YOU SPIT YELLOW AND BLACK MATTER?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY COUGHING AND HAWKING?
DO YOU HAVE PAINS UNDER THE SHOULDER BLADES?

THESE ARE REGARDED SYMPTOMS OF LUNG TROUBLE AND CONSUMPTION

You should take immediate steps to check the progress of these symptoms. The longer you allow them to advance and develop, the more deep seated and serious your condition becomes.

WE STAND READY TO PROVE TO YOU

Absolutely, that Lung-Germine, the German Treatment, has cured completely and permanently case after case of advanced Consumption (Tuberculosis), Chronic Bronchitis, Catarrh of the Lungs, Catarrh of the Bronchial Tubes and other Lung Diseases.

Many sufferers who had lost all hope and who had been given up by physicians have been permanently cured by Lung-Germine. It is not only a cure for Consumption, but a preventative. If your lungs are merely weak and the disease has not yet manifested itself, you can prevent its development, you can build up your lungs and system to their normal strength and capacity.

Lung-Germine has cured advanced Consumption, in many cases over four years ago, and the patients remain strong and in splendid health today.

We Will Send You Proof Positive—Proof That Will Convince Any Judge or Jury on Earth

We will gladly send you proof of many remarkable cures, also a FREE TRIAL of Lung-Germine, together with our new book on the treatment and cure of Consumption and Lung Trouble.

Fires, Dead Horses and Soap.

To the Editor Morning Journal:

While you are engaged in the most praiseworthy task of advocating a general conservation of the city's health, perhaps a little contribution from a zoologist will be timely.

A visitor or newcomer to our city can not but notice a general distribution and relative abundance of the great blue-bottle of Flesh-Fly. Where do they come from? While the common house fly for as it is coming to be called the typhoid fly breeds almost exclusively in house manure, these must have their own diet during the larval stage. Now the answer to our question is to be found in our habit of dragging carcasses of dead horses, cows, dogs, and cats out among the "sand hills," a mile or less from town to short journey for a blue-bottle and leaving them there exposed. The blue-bottle, unlike our housefly, is active during the middle of almost any or every one of our winter days and quickly finds the carcass. In two weeks each simple fly has become several thousand, and in a month or two—ask some mathematician. It is an old saying that "two flies can consume a horse as quickly as a lion."

If one may be pardoned for judging on purely circumstantial evidence, the piles of dog skeletons in heaps about the hills would indicate that a former strenuous city official has been guilty of this offense against the public.

As these hills are mostly outside of the city limits and a large proportion of the carcasses come from the suburbs, it would seem to be up to the county officials to act. The remedy is, of course, to bury such material so that the flies can not get at them, and in most communities this is compulsory. However, in a city where there is a soap factory, a dead horse is worth about five dollars. Herein lies a hint. Cannot the Commercial club induce some patriotic citizen, who has a few hundred dollars and a desire for more (who ever heard of a poor soap manufacturer?) to start a soap factory, away out on the mesa somewhere, and thus kill at least three birds with one stone. Conserve one of our natural resources now going to waste, stop this plague of blue-bottles, and lower the price of soap to the much prized upon "ultimate consumers."

Advanced Case of Consumption Cured in Four Months.

Jackson, Mich.
Dear Sirs: I feel it my duty to write you that I have been saved from the grave by Lung-Germine. Every one that saw me thought I would die in a short time, and my doctor told me he could not help me. Analysis of my sputum by the State Board of Health showed that thousands of tuberculous germs were present. I was having hemorrhages, very bad, and fever 103 every day.
I heard of Lung-Germine and began its use. At the end of two months my cough was all gone, and I was gaining very fast. I sent another sample of my sputum to be analyzed and the reply came back that there were no germs whatever. When I began Lung-Germine I weighed 125 pounds. I used it for four months in all and lost 25 lbs. I am 100 lbs. and strong. I weigh 215 pounds and can truthfully say that I am completely cured of consumption by Lung-Germine.

Yours very truly,
MR. LUCY HINDY,
1402 E. 2nd Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Cured of Chronic Consumption.

Dr. C. R. Wenden, Jackson, Mich.
Dear Doctor: It is with pleasure that I write to you to let you know that after taking two months' treatment of Lung-Germine I am completely cured of Chronic Consumption. My case was diagnosed before taking my medicine by several local physicians, and they pronounced my case chronic Consumption. They also told me that my right lung was so nearly closed up that but a particle of air entered it, and as to speak of no good to me whatever.

I called on my regular physician the 15th of this month again, and he tested my lungs. After doing so, he told me my lungs were sound, as those of any healthy person. He was greatly surprised to find them in this condition. I must, of course, have Lung-Germine absolute credit for the condition my lungs are in today. I have increased weight from 125 to 150 lbs. and so far as I can see, my case is complete. I assure you that I will recommend your Lung-Germine to every one whom I may run across with weak lungs. With best wishes, I remain,
Sincerely yours,
MRS. EMMA HAYWOOD,
Ogden, Utah.

P. S.—Please address all correspondence to me in my husband's name. Mr. John A. Wenden, Ogden, Utah. His Dr. Cured of Consumption Five Years Ago. Not a single symptom has appeared since.

Lung-Germine Co., Jackson, Mich.

Gentlemen: In response to your inquiry I can say that Lung-Germine cured me completely and permanently. I was pronounced by my attending physician, GENUINE TUBERCULOSIS. I used only two bottles of your Lung-Germine, and this I took in March, 1907, so you see I have been well and strong ever since. I have not a cough, cold, or any other symptom that has returned. I am cured, and there is not the slightest indication of a relapse, and not a single symptom that has returned.

Before using Lung-Germine I was losing flesh very rapidly, had night sweats, and had two or three hemorrhages. I am sure that I appreciate beyond expression what your medicine has done for me, and I hereby give you permission to publish my letter if you wish.

Very truly yours,

lard, H. J. Stone, N. E. Stevens, J. C.
Haldridge, and H. S. Litherow. Fred Hopping, a son of the deceased, now living in California, is expected to arrive this morning on train No. 19 to attend the services. Owing to the prominence of the deceased, for so many years in this city, the funeral will be large. The burial will occur in Fairview cemetery.

There will be an important meeting of the Republican club of Albuquerque tomorrow, Monday night, at 8 o'clock in the offices of Attorney John W. White in the Cromwell building.
The chief event of importance is the election of officers for the club for the ensuing year, and the plans of the organization for the year will be outlined. The club plans to take an active part in things political during the next few months, while the campaign for the adoption of the constitution is under way and the construction of fences is started in connection with the candidacy for the various offices in the next state.

Six Pounder.

There are now on exhibition in the Morning Journal office some of the very largest sweet potatoes you ever heard of. They were brought in yesterday by Menaul brothers, the well known market gardeners. There are three of them and they weigh an aggregate of fifteen pounds, the largest tipping the scales at six pounds. This mammoth variety is known as the "Cuban" and tastes very much like the Jersey species. These enormous potatoes, which it is claimed are sweet and solid all the way through, were raised on raw ground, half an acre of this particular variety being planted by the Menauls. The total crop will amount to several tons, as the potatoes average nearly as big as the ones in this office.

The Menaul brothers also raise a lot of Jersey, many of which they say will weigh two pounds each.

MORE THAN EVER
Increased Capacity for Mental Labor
Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum instead of ordinary coffee.
An Illinois woman writes:
"I had drunk coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called 'coffee heart.' I was nervous and extremely dependent;
had little mental or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation."
"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady."
"Then I became less dependent,
and the desire to be active again, showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength."
"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor, with less fatigue than ever before."

Read the little book "The Road to Wellville," in pinks. "There's a Reason."
Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

With the recurring holidays each year is heard the plea,
"Do your Christmas shopping early," but like the seed of the proverbial sower, sometimes it bears fruit, sometimes it incites good intentions, and very often is not heard at all. We are optimistic. We believe that constant suggestion will bring results, therefore we reiterate, "Do your Christmas shopping early." We will not go at length into the advantages of shopping NOW. Everyone knows the saying about the early bird. We only wish to say that our shop is ready with the things that the Chris-mas shoppers want.

Incidentally, we might remind you that we have added many new lines to those we carried last season.

HANDKERCHIEFS

We show an unusually large and choice selection of hand and embroidered linen handkerchiefs. These deserve special attention, on account of their exquisite workmanship and diversity of design. The same care, however, which has characterized the selection of the higher priced qualities has been displayed in the less expensive grades, making an assortment from which holiday gifts may be chosen with advantage.

We wish to direct your attention to our hemstitched plain situated handkerchiefs for men and women, in 1-8, 1-4 and 1-2 inch hem in both sheer and the heavier qualities.

LEATHER GOODS

We are showing beautiful effects of the latest ideas in HAND BAGS.

Our collection comprises bags priced from 75c to $25 each. They are made in a variety of leathers and colors, beautifully lined throughout, the cheaper numbers with silk; the higher priced ones in leather. One number we wish especially to call to your attention is a plumbeut, leather lined throughout, beautifully fitted with coin purse, card case, powder box, salts bottle and mirror, very specially priced at $5.00.

GLOVES

The recognized superiority of the make of gloves we carry is assurance enough that we heard lead in this line. We have endeavored to make our selections to meet every possible demand for men, women and children. We can supply your wants for evening dress, street wear, motor or school gloves.

In long, white kid gloves we have a splendid assortment. These items should appeal to women, because the present demand for long white kid gloves is greater than usual, and the social season is just beginning.

The opinion has already been volunteered that the nuggets have come from the hills in the direction of Cheney, Wash.

For the reason that separate nuggets were located in the diggings at the McFeron ranch, it is thought that the find will prove to be an important one.

McFeron has been a resident of Spokane county for twenty years and is a wealthy and prominent rancher.

bridge at Wenatchee, Wash., south west of Spokane, into the Columbia river, and returning to its master apparently unharmed, was the experience of a shepherd dog, owned by the manager of a garage. The dog's master had received a call that an automobile was out of gasoline on the following behind. When the helper machine had been filled the two automobiles started for the city over the bridge. In the center of the bridge one machine endeavored to circle around the other and get ahead. The dog, seeing that it was to be caught in a trap, jumped from the bridge. It being dark the master considered that to be the end of the dog. About two hours afterward a scratch was heard at the door and upon its being opened

The average head of a family who is forced to pay the price demanded for firewood thinks of the joys of his boyhood days. Little more than a generation ago people would not buy anything but oak for their kitchen fires and untold quantities of the soft woods were simply piled in heaps and burned by the poor-cotters.

Today a wood fire in a grate is more expensive than a coal fire. There was a time—not so long ago—when wood was the only fuel the poor man could afford, but the day is coming when only the rich can enjoy the luxury of a wood fire in an open fireplace.

The government shows that in 1903 there were consumed in the United States $6,000,000 cords of firewood, costing on an average $7.91 per cord, making the total value of the firewood used that year $250,000,000. These figures do not include the wood used for fuel by railroads, steamboats or in miscellaneous factories burning their waste. About one-third of all the wood used in 1908 was consumed as fuel in houses.

towns and cities of less than 30,000 population, 12,612,000, or an average price of $4.91 per cord. In the cities of more than 30,000 population, 1,615,000, the average price of the same grade of wood was $4.38, making the total cost of firewood in them $11,110,000. The remaining 1,776,000 cords, worth $5,690,000, were used for the brick-making and mineral operations.

In 1905 Tennessee used 4,426,976 cords of firewood. Pennsylvania ranked second in consumption and Illinois third. As a rule, states having large areas of land use least wood, and those farthest from coal-producing centers use most wood. Relatively little coal is used in the southern states, and the open large quantities of wood for the amount of heat produced.

The much higher price of wood in the large cities and their suburbs is due in part, of course, to freight charges. The more the distance from middlemen and retailers for profit, so there is no way for others to surmount that profit and the supply of wood is steadily decreasing annually. The prohibitive prices in the not distant future—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT WILL BE GIVEN DECEMBER 11

Reproduction of Passion Play, Lecture by Rev. Riley and Sacred Concert Compose Program; Benefit of St. Joseph's

An entertainment, consisting of a reproduction in pictures of the celebrated Passion Play of Oberammergau, a lecture by Rev. Dr. Riley, and a sacred concert will be given at the Elks' theater, Sunday evening, December 11, for the benefit of St. Joseph's hospital.

Rev. Dr. Riley, who is to deliver the lecture, is well known as an orator and writer, and having witnessed the Passion Play as depicted by the Bavarian peasants, gives a graphic description of the entire play. He has given this lecture in many cities of the country with great success.

The musical program will consist of appropriate sacred solos, Rosen's "Sweet Mater," and Mozart's "Gloria from the Twelfth Mass." The personnel will be announced later.

The Oberammergau Passion Play is a survival rather than a revival; it is a history almost continuous from the period of the early religious dramas of medieval times and it retains, however faintly, some of the characteristic features of its prototype. It is true that modern conditions have modified the form, have forced the episodes and incidents from the text, have softened the character conception of Jesus, for example, in previous times a manner that played the part of a historical drama, but the main theme and some of the effects are still left, however, far from the medieval ingenuities, it is being forced in contact with the audience, and modern stage technique. The vital essence of the Oberammergau Passion is the spirit which is the most important factor in the drama, the spirit of the people.

Rev. Dr. Riley gave his lecture in 1907, and the El Paso Times has the following to say of it:

"A crowded house witnessed last evening a massive reproduction of Oberammergau in the form of a spectacular lecture given by the Rev. Father Riley of Houston, Mass. Not a seat was vacant, and the manner in which this young priest held the audience was a triumph to his oratorical powers. For over two hours he expounded the significance of the play and the manner in which this young priest held the audience was a triumph to his oratorical powers. ### PROGRESS MADE ON BEAVER ORGANIZATION

Well Known Albuquerque People Will Compose Charter List and Will Soon Be Initiated

The organization of a Beaver dam in Albuquerque is making good progress and a number of well known people will compose the charter roll. Mr. Zimmer has been called away, to be absent a week, and the work will be in charge of H. E. Hockaday until he returns. A number of people from El Paso will come to Albuquerque to see that the local Beavers are properly taught to swim the "muddy waters" and to unfold the mystique of this rapidly growing social organization. The initiation is said to be an exciting one, but only a few of the charter members will have to take the "swim" as the others will be given a high and dry deal. The supreme aim is to build the lodge supplies and paraphernalia.

The Oberammergau Passion Play is a survival rather than a revival; it is a history almost continuous from the period of the early religious dramas of medieval times and it retains, however faintly, some of the characteristic features of its prototype. It is true that modern conditions have modified the form, have forced the episodes and incidents from the text, have softened the character conception of Jesus, for example, in previous times a manner that played the part of a historical drama, but the main theme and some of the effects are still left, however, far from the medieval ingenuities, it is being forced in contact with the audience, and modern stage technique. The vital essence of the Oberammergau Passion is the spirit which is the most important factor in the drama, the spirit of the people.

Rev. Dr. Riley, who is to deliver the lecture, is well known as an orator and writer, and having witnessed the Passion Play as depicted by the Bavarian peasants, gives a graphic description of the entire play. He has given this lecture in many cities of the country with great success.

The musical program will consist of appropriate sacred solos, Rosen's "Sweet Mater," and Mozart's "Gloria from the Twelfth Mass." The personnel will be announced later.

Rev. Dr. Riley gave his lecture in 1907, and the El Paso Times has the following to say of it:

"A crowded house witnessed last evening a massive reproduction of Oberammergau in the form of a spectacular lecture given by the Rev. Father Riley of Houston, Mass. Not a seat was vacant, and the manner in which this young priest held the audience was a triumph to his oratorical powers. ### INQUEST HELD TO ESTABLISH BLAME FOR DEATH

Pablo Perea Died, It Is Claimed, from Effects of Blow on Head and Navereta Is Held for Murder

An inquest to establish the responsibility for the death of Pablo Perea, a young man of Old Albuquerque, who was struck on the head during a fight on the night of November 12, and died in St. Joseph's hospital last Thursday, was begun before Justice of the Peace W. W. McClellan yesterday afternoon. Only the doctors who attended Perea testified and a number of other witnesses are to be examined when the inquest is resumed at 2:30 Monday afternoon.

Meanwhile, Cornelia Navereta is held in the county jail on a charge of murder, accused of striking Perea on the head with a club and inflicting injuries from which he died. Andres Madrid, Guillermo Abasco and Pablo Diaz, three other young men who are believed to know something of the affair, are held under bond. Navereta still has a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Perea in Old Albuquerque Monday.

The fight in which Perea was injured is said to have occurred in a house known as Los Palomas, just north of Fifteenth street, in Central avenue on the night of November 12. It is said a row started after a dance and that Navereta struck Perea with a club during the progress of the fight. The street's office has possession of a club said to have been the one used. Perea was taken to the hospital where he died, but all were released except Navereta.

The National Foundry company which recently was given the contract for furnishing the cast-iron fixtures of the smelter to be built by the Vanadium Mines company at Custer, N. M., yesterday shipped the first carload of castings to Custer. The first carload was sent several days ago and a third will be dispatched to the end of this week.

CENSUS OF MAGDALENA SHOWS AN INCREASE OF OVER 300 PER CENT

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—The population of precinct 12, Magdalena, Socorro county, is 1,324, according to the census of 1910, against 209 in 1900, an increase of more than 300 per cent in ten years. The population of Wise county, Texas, is 26,450, against 27,115 in 1900, a slight loss. In 1890 the population was 24,134.

NEWS NOTES FROM VAUGHN

New Town Officers Take Charge; Survey of Denver & Gulf Line Completed Into Vaughn.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Vaughn, N. M., Nov. 26.—The newly elected town officers of East Vaughn received their certificates Friday night and met in Justice Vaughn's office the first of the week to take the oath of office and decide upon a regular meeting night. The new town council roster reads: Mayor, C. E. Haskin; clerk, J. P. Orr; trustees, two years, P. L. Harrington and Lewis Fennville; trustees, one year, W. P. Taylor and E. P. Chapman.

Chief Civil Engineer I. W. Stewart, E. C. Torrence, D. B. Miller and J. A. Noble, assistants, completed the Denver and Gulf survey into Vaughn, Wednesday. Today orders were received to proceed to Chicago before continuing the survey to the Gulf City, Texas, and Arizona. Through Vaughn, the prominent citizen, it was in correspondence with Fred A. Beall, who is one of the heads of the survey, at Midland. The "feeder" through and by the promoters has awakened considerable interest here and, if a reasonable cash bonus is demanded, it is thought it will be subscribed.

George Perea of El Paso, has succeeded C. H. Day at general foreman at the round-house.

The Ladies' Ladies' Quartette of Oklahoma, touring the Santa Fe reading rooms, are billed to appear in Vaughn, December 12th.

CHINKS MAKING GOOD IN VALLEY OF MIMBRES

Celestials Successfully Raise Irish Potatoes; Five Farmers to Buy Carload of Engines for Pumping.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Deming, N. M., Nov. 25.—Lem Pack has rented twenty-five acres from Shull Bros., three miles east of town, for raising Irish potatoes next season. Louis Sing, a former partner of Lem Pack, has rented twenty-five acres of the old Burdick place at a cash rental of ten dollars per acre for raising Irish potatoes, and seventy acres for beans on the shares. Each of these Chinamen expect to get others of their countrymen to help them in their farming operations next year. They were both very successful this year on the Shull ranch.

The following farmers have gone in together for the purpose of purchasing a carload of engines: S. J. Smith, D. B. Westmonters, W. F. MacRobert, B. L. MacRobert, H. Tobias. Each of these gentlemen are installing a pumping plant for irrigation next season.

W. H. Parsons of St. Joseph, Mo., who bought the Williams place nine miles west of town, last summer, is here with his family. Mr. Parsons expects to begin the development of this land at once.

Doctors Haled to Court. Attachments were issued and played in the hands of Undersecretary Fred Hynes in the district court yesterday for Dr. John P. Pearce, Dr. P. G. Cornish and Dr. J. H. Wroth, who had failed to appear when summoned as witnesses in the case of Cera against the estate of W. P. Johnson, a suit for $1,900 fee. The absence of the doctors caused a continuance of the case from the morning until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

At 2 o'clock Dr. Pearce and Dr. Cornish came into court. Dr. Cornish said the reason he failed to appear when summoned was that he had an operation to perform and thought he would be able to finish it in time to get to court. He was on his way when he learned the case had been continued and the undersheriff was looking for him. Dr. Pearce said he did not know he was wanted in court in the morning. Dr. Wroth was out of town. The explanations of the two physicians was evidently satisfactory and no further action was taken by the court.

Suit for Divorce Filed. William H. Shout has filed suit for divorce from Clementina Montes de Shout. They were married in December, 1908, and have no children. Statutory grounds are given. Miss Nellie Brewer is attorney for the plaintiff.

Two suits to obtain a division of property belonging to the estate of John A. Henry, deceased, have been filed by Martha A. Hart, administratrix, against Thomas Warren Hovey et al, and others. The administrators seek to establish the rights of a number of relatives and have the court equitably divide property in the Brownwell and Lail addition to Albuquerque.

Judgment by Default. Judgment by default was given the Hunt Powder company against Stephen Canavan and the Rocky Cliff Coal company in the district court yesterday. The judgment was for $1,564.

Testimony was taken in the divorce suit of Roland against Roland yesterday, but no decision was given.
