MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 5.

Call for Republican Territorial Central Committee.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE of New Mexico, Sept. 5, 1898. The Republican Central Committee is hereby called to meet at the office of the chairman, Santa Fe, N. M., at 10 o'clock a. m. on Thursday, the 8th day of September, 1898, for the purpose of fixing the time and place of holding the territorial convention to nominate a candidate for delegate in congress; fixing the number of delegates thereto and their apportionment among the several counties; and such other business as may come before the committee.

The Union party in San Miguel county loves the corrupt officials of that county for law breaking, for dishonesty and corruption in office. Birds of a feather flock together.

The political conditions in Colfax county at present are none too favorable for the Republicans. But with good work and loyal support of the ticket nominated by the Republicans, a fair vote may be polled there, and a change for the better may be had between this and election day. Veremos.

It does appear as if District Attorney Fort is none too anxious to enforce the law in San Miguel county when it comes to offending county commissioners. The New Mexican may be mistaken in this case and it hopes it is, but the future will show. The district attorney would better heed: "He who runs may read."

The removal from office of a few law breaking county officials would bring about a purer and better administration of county affairs and a more honest and just collection of taxes and accounting for such in New Mexico and it is well known that an improved state of affairs in that direction is greatly desired and needed in the territory, specially in the counties of San Miguel and Union.

Of the 1040 hearty members of the New York 71st who went into the Santiago campaign, only 350 were able to parade in New York City the other day, on the occasion of their return home. The rest were sick, wounded or dead. Companies L and M had only six men each in the parade, while Company H had 28 men and Company K 26. The boys presented a kaleidoscopic appearance as they wore old uniforms secured from other commands instead of the new ones issued to them in place of the old ones burned by the quarantine officers. The boys wanted to appear as they did in the trenches.

A Word to District Attorney Fort. District Attorney L. C. Fort, of the counties of San Miguel, Mora and Guadalupe, should do his duty and prosecute the offending and corrupt county officials of San Miguel county. He knows very well that the law has been violated by these officials many times during the past 18 months and steps should be taken by him to enter prosecutions before the statute of limitations runs. There is too much lawlessness and disregard of the statutes of the territory by county commissioners and by collectors and assessors in this territory. If interested district attorneys were to do their full duty in such cases it would be better for the good name of the territory, for the enforcement of law and order and for the financial condition of the several of the counties and of the territory. Talking softly punishes no infractions of the law. In the San Miguel county cases, exposed by the New Mexican, the record, the official record is all the evidence necessary to indict, prosecute and convict. The opinions of Mr. Ex-Chief Justice Thomas Smith count for nothing in these matters. District Attorney Fort should proceed to enforce the law.

The Czar's Peace Idea. The czar's peace proposition seems to be destined to be a success in one respect, there will be delegates present when the international conference meets in Paris the coming year. King Oscar, of Sweden and Norway, has notified the Russian ruler that his kingdom will be represented, and Italy has signified her intention of sending diplomats to the conference.

Whether or not the conference will result in anything more than a gathering of grave and dignified statesmen remains to be seen. The interests of the European countries are not necessarily conflicting, but the jealousies existing among them are such as to raise a reasonable doubt as to the ultimate success of the scheme. However, if the czar's representatives can persuade those of the other countries that land grabbing is not after all what it is cracked up to be, that trade with foreign countries can be established without first sending invading forces, and that in order to be happy it is not necessary for the people to spend all the money made in maintaining large standing armies, perhaps an understanding may be arrived at which will result in bringing about a permanent peace in Europe—until some kinglet or queenlet gets real mad at a neighbor, and then, look out.

The czar's idea is all right, but unfortunately conditions are not.

The Optic's Fight for Corruption and Dishonesty.

The Albuquerque Citizen in its issue of last Saturday views the fight of the New Mexican against official corruption, dishonesty and law breaking in San Miguel county specially and the stand of the Las Vegas Optic for official corruption, dishonesty and law breaking in that county, as follows:

"The editorial howl in the Optic against the New Mexican's write up of San Miguel county rottenness is a poor excuse at best. The commissioners of that county have violated their plain duty and swindled all the other tax payers of New Mexico by allowing corporations and rich tax payers to pay their taxes in approved accounts and judgments, not 20 per cent of which were legal evidences of indebtedness. If all the other counties pursued the same policy there would be a default in the payment of territorial bonded interest and a consequent blacklisting of our securities in all financial centers.

"The Optic will have to do considerable more explaining before it can make the balance of New Mexico uphold the illegal and selfish conduct of its board of commissioners. Abuse of Max. Frost, the 8th day of September, 1898, for the purpose of fixing the time and place of holding the territorial convention to nominate a candidate for delegate in congress; fixing the number of delegates thereto and their apportionment among the several counties; and such other business as may come before the committee."

Colonel Frost has got you on the defensive. Keep up your explanations. The people outside of interested capitalists in Las Vegas are joyful at the manner in which the galled jade wince."

Work of Yellow Journals. From recent developments in the so-called scandal in the War department it is safe to say that yellow journalism did not go out of business when the war ended.

For a number of weeks past the country has been treated to series of criticisms on the management of the War department, in which charges have been made sufficient to hang every man connected with that branch of the government. So persistently have the charges of corruption and inefficiency been reiterated that a large majority of the people of the country have come to believe them, and a righteous indignation was taking possession of the whole country. But a change is coming over the situation and it is being realized that there is another side to the story.

Much has been heard of the sufferings of the men in front of Santiago for the want of food and clothing, and from sickness. It was claimed that indifference and criminally careless department officials were to blame for all the troubles experienced in that campaign and Secretary Alger was hauled over the coals in a fierce manner by "the great journals" for his inefficient management of a matter of such importance. Since the men in the ranks have returned from Cuba and have had an opportunity to do a little talking for themselves, it is learned that there was no lack of supplies of all kinds for the expedition sent with the ships, but the roads were so nearly impassable that provisions, medicines and clothing could not be transported to the front until roads could be constructed, bridges built and the forest cleared away. By that time the men in the trenches were weakened by exposure and hard fighting, and when disease came were physically unable to combat it. In regard to the condition of the transport ships which brought the troops back to the United States from Santiago, tropical heat and moisture are responsible. No matter how carefully the ships were fitted out with food and supplies for the sick, decay caused by humidity soon rendered them unfit for use, and the men were compelled, through no fault of the government, to put up with the coarser and unpalatable rations not so easily affected by climatic conditions.

The country has been regaled with long accounts of the unhealthy locations selected for camps, and much has been said condemnatory of Camp Wikoff and Camp Thomas, in particular. Of the former perhaps it will be as well to say that Surgeon Massie, who is well known in Santa Fe, says that a better place for a camp could not have been selected. From a sanitary standpoint it is nearly perfect, but that it is impossible to keep any place healthy into which hundreds of men suffering from fevers contracted in the tropics are brought daily. Camp Thomas at Chickamauga has been carefully examined by persons of known reputation as authorities on such matters, and declared to be free from the objections which have been urged against the camp.

These instances have been given merely to show that in all the hair-raising articles which have appeared recently concerning the camps and the neglect of the soldiers, the able correspondents have been actuated more by a desire to write readable matter than to tell the truth. That some mistakes have been made in the management of the troops was to have been expected, for the simple reason that men who never err in judgment are entirely too scarce in this life to ever be heard of, but those mistakes have been few and far between and have in no wise affected the health or endangered the lives of the soldiers. Of the reported controversies between different officers in the army, they may or may not be true. In fact the public cares very little about them.

The inside facts of the "scandal," as matters now stand, can be stated in the following words: With the coming of peace the yellow journals lost the supreme opportunity for sensational matter, and in casting about for new material to dish up to the yellow portion of the population, hit upon a "war scandal." The papers opposed to the administration were not slow to see a political advantage in stirring up a row, and from that beginning has grown the trouble. The New Mexican firmly believes that whatever investigation is made will fully substantiate the fact that the sensational papers in the country, and not the War department, are responsible for the "scandal."

THE OTHER SIDE

Some Inside Facts Concerning the Dissatisfaction Among Soldiers at Whipple Barracks.

OFFICERS OPENLY MALIGNED

None But Flagrant Breaches of Army Discipline Punished—Many Demands Made by Men Unreasonable—Santa Fe Boys Behaving Themselves.

Whipple Barracks, Aug. 31.—The territorial regiment is now occupying a reserved anxious seat, awaiting some action by the War department relative to its final disposition.

Yesterday the regiment was recruited to its maximum strength, in accordance with a telegram from Washington. This is taken as an indication that the volunteers will not be mustered out, but will be ordered to active duty.

A representative of Leslie's Weekly today made photographs of the officers at Whipple and furnished the information that the regiment was slated for a prominent part in subsequent developments, being destined to fulfill the foreign duties formerly intended for the "Rough Riders."

The fact that each company contains a great many Spanish speaking volunteers, eminently fits it for such distinctive service. The supposition is now entertained that Havana is the future point of operations.

A number of the boys in the Arizona and Albuquerque companies, whose attack of "cold feet" was delayed somewhat, have utilized considerable precious time (which could have been spent to better advantage in the guard house) in preparing and signing petitions for their discharge. These petitions consist mainly of charges against officers and a fearful plea for public pity.

A majority of the men who indulge in this sort of thing are of the class who, prior to enlistment, could not raise a dollar with a crow bar, and for whom square meals were as scarce as hen's teeth. Others are entitled to consideration, from the fact that a lack of knowledge in army affairs induced them to permit the "walking delegates" to inveigle them into a strike.

If there is any place where a strike meets with such an overwhelming success, it is in the United States army, and the whole population of the country will doubtless hear the War department tremble when the mighty appeals of the disgruntled volunteers reach the nation's capital.

The petitioners made a grand mistake in attempting to place their officers in a false light. Naturally, after reading one of these petitions, the public would believe them soulless martinet with no ambition than the subjugation of enlisted men in their commands.

Such stories are about as convincing as the story of a man who had run a bill behind a Prescott bar. The choicest sample of these "petitions" found its way into an Albuquerque paper recently. It is incriminated as such containing the following charges against one of the Albuquerque company, named Wilcox, intended to desert, and one of the more intelligent recruits induced him to sign a previously written appeal and send it to the War department. In it, the "soft jobs" held by the officers were enlarged on and the grievances of the brave soldier boy set forth in terms warranted to wring sympathy from a door bell.

If there is an officer in the regiment who has made a dollar from his "soft job" no one here is acquainted with him. Were they to be handed six months' pay today, many would be far in arrears tomorrow. They spent their ready money and borrowed profusely to meet the expenses of recruiting, and later mortgaged their pay to provide comforts for the members of their commands.

As for the "martinet" feature, none but the most flagrant breaches of army discipline have met with punishment and the surferage of the officers is attested by their penchant for allowing the perpetrators of petitions to go unpunished.

The officers of the Santa Fe company are considerate, and even indulgent, and doubtless the other officers are the same. No one can form an idea of the things they contended with in bringing order out of chaos and arranging old dismantled barracks to accommodate the greater portion of a regiment. Under such conditions, no wonder exists that the luxuries and some of the comforts of life must be dispensed with temporarily. Yet, there lives a class of people who earn bacon and clamor for ice cream.

Those who imagine the army a Keely cure institute and enter the service because weak and avert them from remaining sober long enough to attend to business, should not complain of restrictions or attempt to blame their officers for not providing feather beds and hotel fare. The loyalty of such people is on a par with the man who remains at home and sings patriotic songs, while others go to the front and make material for the composer.

To be sure, lack of comfort, sickness, rigid discipline and general hardships are features of army life; but the volunteers expected it and fairly scrambled for opportunities to suffer for their country. Now that they are in, they should take their medicine like men and cease sighing for a fresh grip on their mothers' apron strings.

No doubt, some honorable method of procuring discharges will be given those who desire them when the regiment is finally disposed of by the War department.

Some of the Santa Fe boys feel that their usefulness expired with the declaration of peace and would be glad to return to more remunerative positions. Others realize that the public has little consideration for a soldier in time of peace and they voice the sentiment of the distinguished editor of the "Billville Banner." "The government has the uniforms. All it wants now is soldiers to die in them." And they object most strenuously to dying of old age in them at Whipple Barracks.

However, it must be credited to the Santa Fe boys that, no matter what their feelings, they have not signed any petitions for their discharges, and they do not propose to run up a white flag for the people of New Mexico to gaze on, nor do anything which will tend to reflect discredit on their officers.

None but a deserting soldier and Democratic politician could raise such a "tempest in a tea pot."

A SPANISH RUSE.

It Might Have Worked at One Time, but Came Too Late.

The battle of Santiago was raging high. The rough riders were in the van. The air was thick with bullets. The screaming of shells overhead was deafening. The dynamite guns were coughing with a ctery hack that was more deadly than a thousand consumptives. Everywhere were death and destruction. The fleet of Uncle Sam, led skinned by the Merrimack and gained the open channel into Santiago bay, while all around them was the white upheaval of exploded mines.

The great gunboats were trimming their ten tonners upon Cervara's fleet. Over on the hills all was ready for the last rally. The city was doomed. Long lines of Cubans under the one star flag were seen advancing under great leadership to the south and west. It was a supreme moment of suspense.

Suddenly upon the highest ramparts there appeared a white flag. Beneath it there stood two Spanish officers in full uniform. One was General Linares, commander of the Spanish land forces. The other was Admiral Cervara, chief of the fleet. Drawing back on the enemy with megaphones, in one voice they addressed the advancing foe. "Stay, O sons of Yankee-land!" they cried. "We are now ready to make an exchange."

"Name it!" came the answer from a score of thousand throats.

"We will give you Hobson for Santiago," came the wild cry.

"Yes, you will—nit!" rolled back the answer like a voice of eternal thunders. "We will have both or nothing now!"

And with the onslaught of flenda and the roar of earthquakes the doomed city fell. The exchange racket was clever, but it didn't go. It was too late.—New York Journal.

Would Never Do.

Reference room in the Public Library building.

Time, about 3 p. m. Attendants are languidly fanning themselves, and the few visitors seated at the tables are gasping for breath.

The air of the room is heavy with erudition and things and very close about it. A stranger enters.

"Pshaw!"

This is the remark made by the stranger. Attendants glance at stranger and continue languidly fanning themselves.

"The air is oppressive here."

This is a further remark made by the stranger. Attendants volunteer no reply. The observation is clearly an impertinence.

"Wouldn't it be a good idea to raise one of these windows?"

An exclamation of horror greets this question and one of the attendants replies with strong feeling: "To raise these windows, madam, would interfere with our system of ventilation!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Hard Position.

"I must strenuously object," said Senator Sorghum, "to being put on record as objecting to annexation on the theory that it will enlarge and complicate our political machinery."

"But you are opposed to annexation?"

"Of course. But I don't intend to be proposition that we don't want to provide for more officeholders and give me a chance at more patronage. I have my reasons, but those are not them."—Washington Star.

From Different Points of View.

Bess—Oh, dear, I suppose I'm in for another month of bad luck!

Nell—Why, Bess, what makes you think so?

Bess—I saw the new moon over my left shoulder last night.

Nell—That's too bad. Now, I had the good luck to see over Jack's right shoulder, and, say, isn't my engagement ring a beauty?—Chicago News.

Tree of Knowledge.

Little Elsie—Here in this book it tells about the tree of knowledge. I wonder what kind of a tree that can be!

Little Horace—I guess it must be a cherry tree. Whenever you climb up into one of them you always know better than to do it again if you get caught.—Cleveland Leader.

Inducement.

First Drummer—I hear you've given up trade to go to the front!

Second Drummer—Yes.

"I don't suppose the salary was the chief inducement."

"No, commission."—Philadelphia Record.

Romance Ended.

Papa (to daughter, who has just returned from the parlor)—Why, Ethel, has that new name of yours left?

Ethel (with a perceptible hardness in her voice)—Yes, papa. He's—he's gone out!—Chicago Tribune.

Ahead of the Game.

"Widdles must have paid up. Have you noticed how he has been assing the land-lady lately?"

"No, Widdles has not paid up, but he owes more than his trunk is worth."—Indianapolis Journal.

Very Warm.

"That's a warm tie that Sprockett is wearing."

"Warm? Why, a policeman saw it the other day and arrested him for wearing it."—Philadelphia North American.

The National Air.

"What a horrible piano duet those two graduates are playing!"

"That's all right; one is playing 'Dixie' and the other 'Yankee Doodle.'—Detroit Free Press.

Impatient.

"Isn't it half past 8 yet?"

"Yes; it's 80 minutes of 4."

"Confound it! What makes those 8 o'clock papers so late?"—Chicago Tribune.

A Heavy Handicap.

It is but a Spanish custom. It was not the youngster's fault that he married and the bridegroom which would help him earn his salt.

And he couldn't raise a protest when to christen him they came. And they solemnly affirmed.

The poor infant with the name "Alfonso XIII. Leon Ferdinand Maria James Isidore Pascal Antonio."

And it's not at all surprising that in business of state and in military matters.

All his people come too late. For it's likely to occasion an embarrassing delay.

We went to rally up our cohorts and they stop to shout, "Hooray for Alfonso XIII. Leon Ferdinand Maria James Isidore Pascal Antonio!"

—Washington Star.

To Dig the Nicaraguan Canal.
The war with Spain has demonstrated the importance of a short route between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. By digging a canal a few miles long at the Isthmus of Panama, thousands of miles of travel can be saved. At the present time ships must go around South America. A short route is always an advantage. It saves time and money. The journey from sickness to health can be quickly made at moderate cost by taking Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. While its action in disorders like constipation, biliousness, indigestion, fever and ague and general weakness is quick, still it does not force a cure. It gives that assistance in carrying off the waste matter that nature occasionally needs. It makes the sick well.

SICK OR WELL, A RUSH NIGHT AND DAY.

The Packers at the Battle of Santiago de Cuba were all Heroes.
Their Heroic Efforts in Getting Ammunitions and Rations to the Front Saved the Day.
P. E. Butler, of pack-train No. 3, writing from Santiago de Cuba, on July 23, says: "We all had diarrhoea in more or less violent form, and when we landed we had no time to see a doctor, for it was a case of rush and rush night and day to keep the troops supplied with ammunition and rations, but thanks to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, we were able to keep at work and keep our health; in fact, I sincerely believe that at one critical time this medicine was the indirect saviour of our army, for if the pack-train had been unable to work there would have been no way of getting supplies to the front. There were no roads that a wagon train could use. My comrade and myself had the good fortune to lay in a supply of this medicine for our pack-train before we left Tampa, and I know in four cases it absolutely saved life."
The above letter was written to the manufacturers of this medicine, the Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

There was a man who went to fight—A warrior brave and bold.
Who proved himself to be a knight

He won the people's high regard.
The deeds he did were great;
And may he reap a rich reward
From people and from State.
Yet still, alas! 'twere well if he Had never sallied out.
To spread our power on the sea
And put the foe to rout.
For now that his great name has been Placed on our history's page,
His cousins and his aunts begin
To go upon the stage.

WINTER.
Merry, though the moon shines pale
And the wind tossed branches fall.
Purest crystals float and fall.
There they sparkle,
Here they dash,
On the pine and lonely wall.

Merry, though the stream is still South the cold and trackless hill.
There the realms of deeper glow,
Twilight fingers
Shining fingers
Gild the sleeping fields of snow.
—Glenes Richardson in Woman's Home Companion.

THE ABBE'S DOG.

Abbe Sauten was the cure of a sleepy little village at the extreme end of Provence—the Provence of the olden time, when doubts had not yet crept in to corrupt the simple faith of the peasants. The old priest lived happily among his parishioners, kindly souls all of them, and so obedient to the commandments of God and our holy mother church that their lives were a real benediction to their spiritual father. The good man had no need to touch them up every now and then with a rousing sermon, nor did he ask the aid of others more eloquent than himself to convert his flock. They were born, lived and died in the fold, and their pastor discharged his simple priestly duties and led in anticipation the life of the blessed.

The abbe adored nature, and every day you could have seen him strolling among the fields, reading his breviary, while from time to time he glanced at the gambols of Oremus, his little dog. They were as inseparable as St. Roch and his famous booby. Oremus enjoyed these strolls as much as his master, but in a different fashion. The priest's pleasure was purely contemplative, that of the doggie active.

Oremus firmly believed that God gave four legs to little dogs so that they could be twice as alert as their masters, who, poor creatures, had but two. So he roamed over the fields, sometimes behind, sometimes ahead of the cure, jumping, making a corkscrew of his tail, snapping at the birds and giving himself up to all the pranks befitting the well bred dog of a priest.

Superstitious to add that Oremus understood absolutely all that his master said to him and that he could do everything but speak. As for tricks, our Oremus could have given points to the whole canine world. He danced on his hind legs and shook hands like a Christian, and his great feat was to refuse the most delicious chop, the juiciest morsel, if offered with the left hand.

You may well believe that this victory over the canine flesh was not gained without effort. The abbe and his dog could be twice as alert as their masters, who, poor creatures, had but two. So he roamed over the fields, sometimes behind, sometimes ahead of the cure, jumping, making a corkscrew of his tail, snapping at the birds and giving himself up to all the pranks befitting the well bred dog of a priest.

going to have your miracle, and I'm going to have your soul!"
It was Friday. Le Faillard had just killed his pig, and would probably have a sausage for dinner.
The priest soon reached his destination.
"Good day, Le Faillard," said he, in a fatherly tone.
"Good day, father," replied the disciple of Voltaire.
With that they fell into a chat, interrupted from time to time by the yelps of Oremus, and punctuated, so to speak, by the handfuls of seed that the young farmer scattered right and left as he walked along.

Dinner hour. The two men seated themselves on a little hillock, and Le Faillard pulled a sausage from his pocket, a superb sausage, red as a tomato, and with an odor to have made a saint's mouth water.
"Holy Virgin, Le Faillard, what a sin! On a Friday, in Lent too. Don't eat it, my son."
"Not eat it! That's good. The ideal! I would eat it on Good Friday if I had it. Besides, haven't I seen with my own eyes bishops and archbishops, too, for that matter, in India, who always ate meat whether it was good or bad Friday?"

"Your joking is ill timed. God is good, but he will not always have patience with you. Some day he will open your eyes by a miracle, but who can say if then the gate of mercy may not be closed for you."
"Father, miracles are always in season, but unfortunately the time for them has gone by. As for me, death of my life, I wouldn't ask better than to see what you threaten me with. Meanwhile the sausage claims my attention—and"—And the rascal took a great mouthful of his dinner.

Oremus had not lifted his eyes from the sausage since its appearance on the scene. Every time Le Faillard took a bite the poor bow-wow licked his chops and wagged his tail, which distinctly said in dog language:
"Oh, what an elegant sausage! How I should like some!"
"Watch my dog, you mocker," said the abbe. "See how he is devouring the sausage with his eyes. Well, when I say, 'It is Friday, Oremus,' he will not touch the piece that I am going to offer him. And he is only a dog."
Le Faillard was convulsed with laughter.

"Oh, father, that's too much! All the same, though, I would like to see your miracle—it would take me to mass—yes, and vespers too."
Taking a delicious morsel of the sausage, the abbe called, "Oremus!"
Oremus came like a streak.
"It is Friday, Oremus," went on the abbe. "But just see what I have for you," and he offered the tempting bit, which he held, but it understood, in his left hand.

Imagine, if you can, the astonishment of Le Faillard when he saw Oremus halt suddenly in front of his master, head lowered, tail between his legs and with the air of an actor who had forgotten his lines.
"Good doggie, Oremus, eat it!"
Sure of his success, the priest put the sausage under the dog's nose. Not a movement! Oremus' eyes were good. He saw that the sausage staid in the left hand, and after a few minutes he turned tail and retreated to the shade of a bush close by, where he sadly flung himself down and tried to forget his disappointment in a little nap.

During this scene Le Faillard had been petrified. With open mouth he watched the priest and his dog as a criminal watches his judge. When Oremus finally beat a retreat, Le Faillard roused himself and ejected the mouthful already half masticated.
"Father," he cried, "I have seen enough and too much. I am the most miserable sinner on earth, and it has taken a dog to convince me of it."
The following Sunday Le Faillard went to mass and vespers, and ever since that memorable day it is he who lights the candles and rings the bells in Abbe, where the holy peace of God reigns now as formerly.—L'Echo de la Semaine.

"See a Pin and Pick It Up."
It may be before long that our pins will have to be dipped in carbolic acid before being put on our bureaus. For pins have been proved to be a prolific source of danger in spreading contagious diseases. All kinds of germs, it is said, can be collected under the heads, and nurses who indulge the feminine habit of holding pins in their mouths lay themselves open to serious attack. The doctors who have warned the public say that many of the so called new pins are not new at all, but have been picked up in the streets and laid side by side with the others. The idea is not an altogether pleasant one, and is, moreover, one likely to increase the uneasiness of the overfastidious.

There are some women now who are so afraid of germs that they wash all their gold and silver pieces before handing them and who never allow a bank bill to go into their purses until it has been wrapped in some kind of disinfecting paper. They even require the shopgirls who hand them their change to wrap in paper first. What is to be done, if all this is so, with the popular superstitions about picking up all the pins that one sees and never passing a penny in the street?—Harper's Bazar.

There is too little preaching of the gospel of health. It is the best thing that anyone thinks of teaching, either to a man—child or woman. It is one of the most important branches of an education.
Without health, a man will be a business, and a woman a social failure. When the body of either a man or a woman is properly nourished, the result is the enjoyment of good health. Almost all ill-health is due to improper or insufficient nourishment. If the stomach is right and the liver is right, the blood will receive its normal supply of the life-giving elements of the food and the body will be properly nourished. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts directly upon the stomach and liver. It purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, nerve tonic and restorative. It promotes the natural activity of the entire nutritive organism. It puts an end to the slow starvation that is at the base of many diseases. It does not make flabby fat like cod liver oil, but firm, muscular tissue. It does not make corpulent people more corpulent but builds up the system to the normal standard.

"I was run down with nervous prostration and feeble weakness and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Maranda Ramsey, of Smartt, Warren Co., Tenn. "My bowels were constipated. My whole system was wrecked. My friends thought I would die. I had read of Dr. Pierce's medicine and sent for the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets.' In one week's time I began to sit up. In two weeks I could get up all day and night so that I had to be helped in and out of bed. I have taken four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of 'Favorite Prescription' and am in better health than I have been for years."

Constipation is the father of all manner of maladies. If it did not exist, or was in all cases promptly relieved, the majority of medical books could be safely destroyed. It is the easiest sickness to neglect and the simplest to cure. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation every time. They cure it promptly, completely and permanently. They never gripe. They don't get you out 'o nights. One Pellet is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists keep nothing else "just as good."

ADDITIONAL ATTRACTIONS.

Art Exhibition and Baby Show Added to the Features of the Horticultural Fair.

The decoration committee has secured assent from the directors of the fair to the idea of establishing an art exhibition to extend through the fair; also for a baby show to be given on the last afternoon.

Premiums will be given for three classes in the proposed art department,
one for embroidery on linen, the second premium for lace work, and the third for painting in china, water colors and in oil. There will be one first premium and a diploma as second premium in each class. The baby show will be divided into two classes, viz: Three months to 18 months, and 18 months to 3 years. The first premium for the babies will be a fine silver souvenir spoon, with a ribbon for second. The decoration committee respectfully but positively decline to pass judgment on the babies and prudently leave the reception committee to provide the judges of award for the babies and all premiums. It is hinted in some quarters that the baby show judges will have to be guaranteed an exit from town immediately on the awarding of the prize, and it may be necessary to call out the militia to insure its successful accomplishment. The art exhibition and baby show are open to all residents of the territory.

The decoration committee will have a piano prominently placed in the fair, while the reception committee are to provide performers.

There is a call for an exhibition of canned fruits and jellies especially, and the ladies learn with pleasure that Peeco valley people are proposing to be suitably represented at the horticultural fair.

Western Union to pay the revenue stamp tax on telegrams filed by the Railroad Company.

The Sena and Spiegelberg sidewalks should be allowed to remain as they are until the Paris exposition, when they can be exhibited as the first flooring put in the old San Miguel church.

The household goods of the new Indian school superintendent, Professor A.
H. Veltz, arrived yesterday over the D.
& R. G. and were removed this morning to the school by a detail of boys.

At 8 o'clock this morning, at the cathedral, Father Joseph Clautier conducted the funeral services of Maria Torres, aged 55, widow of Juan Tapia, who was buried in St. Michael's cemetery.

Yesterday the thermometer at the local weather bureau registered as follows: Maximum temperature, 80 degrees at 3:30; minimum, 56 degrees at 5 a. m. The mean temperature for the 24 hours was 68 degrees.

Saturday the thermometer at the
local weather bureau registered as follows: Maximum temperature, 80 degrees at 4:10 p. m.; minimum, 56 degrees
at 3:30 a. m. The mean temperature for
the 24 hours was 65 degrees.

The evaporator company has a trial run tomorrow with apples, pears and other fruits, so as to have an exhibit at the Horticultural fair. This run will be of much interest, and carefully noted
by many citizens. So far, the evaporator promises well.

This is Labor day, which is being partially observed in this city, and work on the capital building is suspended.
In the larger cities of the country extended demonstrations are being made,
and the general public given an idea of the magnitude of the labor element in this country.

Burglars were out last night, and if they got what was wanted, made a good haul. The blacksmith and wagon shop of Geo. Ditzel was broken into and tools of all descriptions taken, and a number of tools were also stolen. A burro was stolen from Charles Harris' corral, and the supposition is that the animal was used to pack away the plunder.

"The need of the livery business in Santa Fe said a prominent livery man
today," is more new horses and surreys.
This is a great driving country, the town
is growing with new eastern people coming in here, and there is more and more of a call for driving facilities. However, the liverymen are enlarging their plants and are long there will be all that the public call for. Competition is making margins of profit rather closer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Cartwright, of this city, received the sad news yesterday of the death at Mt. Pleasant, Ia., of Edward Straub, father of Mrs.
Cartwright, at the advanced age of 70 years. Mr. Straub was a veteran hotel man, but of late years has not been in active business through declining health.
He always stood high in the estimation of his fellow citizens, and was respected wherever he went. Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright have the sympathy of many friends in their loss.

There will be the regular communication of Montezuma lodge, A. F. & A. M.,

excellent institution, St. Michael's college.

will arrange for repairs. He preaches
there tonight and returns tomorrow.

returned yesterday from Janos, where

for her health, will leave for her home in Toronto, Canada, tonight, over the Santa Fe. Her many friends in the city regret her departure, but trust she may return in the near future.

Mrs. W. J. Connors is at the Claire from Yucca, A. T., with her two children, intending to put the little girl in the Loretto academy school and the boy with the St. Michael's college. Charles Hull, of the D. & R. G. express in this city, is an old friend of the Connors,
having studied telegraphy under Mr.
Connors, who is now agent of the Santa Fe-Pacific at Yucca.

Rev. Dr. W. A. Waterman, pastor of the Millard avenue Congregational church, Chicago, and wife, were in town yesterday on route home from attendance on the annual session of the church at Portland, Ore. Dr. Waterman expressed himself to a New Mexican reporter as delighted beyond measure
with Santa Fe's climate which he found wonderfully invigorating.

Captain Max Luna, of the "Rough Riders," with his estimable wife, reached the city yesterday afternoon on the S. P. They were driven out to Fort Bliss where they were entertained by Captain Geo. T. West, commandant of that post. This morning Captain Luna and wife took the Santa Fe train for Los Lunas, N. M., where they will be greeted by relatives and a host of friends.—El Paso Times.

W. T. Radcliffe, of Detroit, Mich., left for home over the D. & R. G. this morning after a business trip through the southwest. He is selling seeds for D. M. Ferry & Co. and finds business very good. Territorial people seem to be getting more and more into the line of market gardening and consequently patronize the big seed establishments.

Wm. Larus of Marshall, Mo., is in town for a week and will then go fishing in the Peeco.

sanitarium for some time past, and who has been quite sick for several days, is around again, and will be able to get down town in a few days.

M. E. Arner, the Wells-Fargo messenger, has resigned, to accept a position with the Rock Island at Pacific, Kas.
His place is taken by Hugh Vaughn, of Albuquerque.

E. G. Taylor returned last night from a "bang up" fishing trip through the Peeco valley, laden with many piscicultural merces. He brought back some

this time without any spoiling; and Mr.
Taylor's friends are now smiling and patting their stomachs over the gustatorial prospect.

Captain and Mrs. Max Luna arrived in the city last night, and are the guests of his grandmother, Mrs. Luna. A reception committee went to the first train
from the south last night to meet Captain Luna, but as he did not come until the second train the committee missed
him. In order to show that the people

a grand reception will be given him,
probably on Wednesday or Thursday.

legs and fish ever laid eyes on, and

Ton.

HORTICULTURAL FAIR NOTES.

Work Progressing Rapidly—Some New Appointments—Fair Personnel and Items.

A meeting will be held tonight of the fair directors, with the superintendents and as many of the committees as can attend, to perfect final arrangements.
All thus interested are requested to be present.

Mrs. Prince, who was appointed chairman of the section of the reception committee in charge on the second day, is unfortunately not well enough to assume that position, and that section will therefore be in charge of Mrs. Wallace, and its meeting on Tuesday evening will take place at the Palace instead of the residence of Mrs. Prince.

The ladies of the decorating committee have been vigorously at work for several days and are transforming the exhibition hall into a thing of beauty.
They will be glad of the assistance of their friends in the final arrangements tomorrow.

Owing to business engagements out of town, Mr. Dudrow cannot act as superintendent of the building, and Hon. J.
D. Sena has kindly consented to act in that important position.

The ladies of the city have projected two additional features at the fair, the first being an art exhibition which will continue during the three days, and the other a baby show to take place on Friday afternoon. The directors of the fair have gladly agreed to these additions, which will, however, be entirely in charge of the ladies of the two committees who offer the prizes.

The following members of the reception committee of the horticultural fair are requested to meet at the residence of Mrs. Wallace, Tuesday evening, 7 o'clock. Mesdames Whitman, Laughlin, Fischer, Knabel, Madden, Ireland,
Coleman, McElie, Reed, Jones, Spies,
the Misses Morrison, Johnson, Call, Mc-Kenzie, Manderfield, Boyle.

If you want a cheap camera, call at Fischer & Co's.

Committed to the Penitentiary

Sheriff Hubbell, of Albuquerque, arrived in the city last night, having in charge Thomas Archibque and Alberto Cevado, convicted of arson in the Bernalillo county District court and sentenced to serve five years in the territorial prison, and this morning turned them over to the penitentiary authorities to serve that time.

Archibque and Cevado were jointly indicted, tried and convicted in the Bernalillo county court and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on April 7, 1898. An appeal was taken to the Territorial Supreme court which was granted to act as a supersedeas, and they were admitted to bond in the sum of $5,000 each. On Friday the court handed down an opinion affirming the judgment of the lower court, and this morning a commitment was issued from the supreme clerk's office.

Fresh vacuino paints and tubes just received at Fischer's.

Lost.

handkerchief between house and postoffice. Suitable reward will be paid for return to Mrs. W. L. Jones.

Cano's Escape.

Sheriff T. S. Hubbell, of Bernalillo county, is at the Palace from Albuquerque. He brought up two convicts for special entertainment at the government hotel under Mine Host Bergmann.
The sheriff stated this morning that a brother of the escaped desperado, Esequiel Cano, was working at his ranch in Bernalillo county. The man came to him the other day and said one of the sheriff's horses entrusted to his care had got away, but he would pay for the animal, and did so. It is thought now that Esequiel Cano used the horse to get away on, and is in Arizona by this time.

Will Be no Changes.

Another case of going away from home to get the news has turned up.
The papers in the southern part of the territory are stating that there is likely to be a change in the locations of the members of the Territorial Supreme court. According to the report Judge McFie will go to Las Cruces, Judge
Parker to Las Vegas, and Chief Justice
Mills will make his home in Santa Fe.
As Judge McFie had never heard of the arrangement, Judge Parker knew nothing of it, and Chief Justice Mills is building a home in the Meadow City, it appears that the southern papers are not a complete success as guessers.

For Rent.

Six rooms unfurnished. A. Seligman.

The Santa Fe R. R. Suicide.

The passenger who stabbed himself to the heart with a pocket knife on a Santa Fe train near Springer on Friday, proves to be Gus Bergman, a mining man, so it is thought. The body was left at Springer, where the jury returned a verdict of intentional suicide.

Court Notes.

In the District court for Santa Fe county, a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Nasario Alarid and his appearance before Judge McFie, sitting as committing magistrate, today, for a hearing on the charge of the murder of Ramon Garcia.

In the case of Seligman Bros. vs. E.
A. Dow, judgment has been rendered against the defendant for $245.53, money
due on promissory notes.

In case of Sophia Franz, executrix of the estate of E. D. Franz, deceased, vs.
E. A. Dow, judgment has been rendered against the plaintiff in the sum of $218.
70, money due on an account and prom-issory note.

Clerk Bergere has prepared the grand
and petit jury lists for San Juan county and sent out the required venues. District court for San Juan county will open on Monday, October 3.

On account of Labor day, Judge McFie postponed until tomorrow the preliminary hearing in the case against Nasario Alarid, charged with the murder of Ramon Garcia, and the hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings of R. L. Baca, charged with carrying deadly weapons.

This morning Judge McFie held J. M.
Prior in bonds in the sum of $500 to appear before the 4th judicial District court the first Monday in November, in the case against John Chambers, charged with robbing the United States mails.
Prior has just completed a term in the penitentiary for the same crime and is an important witness in the case against Chambers. Prior stated that he could not give the required bond until he could communicate with relatives in Texas,
and was placed in custody of the United States marshal.
