IF NOT TAFT, THEN WHO FOR PRESIDENT

REPUBLICAN LEADERS ARE LOOKING OVER GROUND

Regulars, If Taft Steps Out,
Will Not "Lie Down;" Some Interesting Statistics on the Sixty-first Congress.

Morning Journal Bureau,
412 Munsey Building,
Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.

Leading politicians in the republican party since the election have been waiting the ground over with great care to discover where they can find a presidential candidate in case President Taft should not decide to run. This is all because of the fact that the president has on several occasions indicated that he has had enough of the White House.

The result is that among prominent republicans who are gathering in Washington for the winter session, there is a surprising amount of talk just now on the question of who is available for the presidential nomination in 1912. And the qualifications as presidential nominees of various men are being gone over. Former Vice President Fairbanks of Indiana is one of the men talked of. Secretary of State Knox is another. Both of these men it will be recalled, were candidates in 1908.

Such consideration of other men as to whether they are available is not unfriendly to President Taft. It proceeds on the theory that President Taft can have the nomination if he wants it. It is recognized that Judge Taft may conclude he prefers not to run, and in that event it will be a big question as to where to find a man on whom the party can unite. A good many of the leaders who are reaching Washington are impatient to have steps taken toward republican organization. They think the republican party is going to have to fight its way in 1912, and they want to begin now. They want to see an aggressive policy pursued, politically, and think no time should be lost. They hope President Taft will take hold of the situation, pass the word along the line as to what he wants done, and will himself take off his coat and get into the game of big politics to the extent of doing everything possible to rehabilitate the republican forces.

Pretty soon there will be important conferences held on the question of reorganization and rehabilitation, and then no doubt it will be clear what President Taft's views are about 1912. If the president lets it be known he wants another term and that he wants everybody to get behind him, the G. O. P. ship in trim for the struggle of 1912, there is not much doubt what will follow. The work of getting Taft delegates will be undertaken vigorously, and no doubt enough support will be rounded up in eastern and southern states and in the Rocky Mountain country for the president to make the situation difficult for his competitors.

This is on the supposition that Colonel Roosevelt is not going to be a candidate.

But if Mr. Taft should get out of it for any reason, the regulars are not going to lie down quietly and let the nomination go to whoever of the numerous aspirants of the presidency may be talking that way now. They will try to groom some of their own number. They do not see anybody in sight just now whom they regard as really available. Mr. Taft, they say, is not the man to nominate to succeed himself and they hope he will not let the field, not merely in a passive way, but in the most vigorous fashion and take the lead in the movement to put the republican party in good shape.

One of the suggestions which is being made is that a meeting of the republican national committee be called for the purpose of talking over plans to rehabilitate the party. This has been an open move in that direction. But there is likely to be a good deal of discussion of it in the next few weeks.

UNCLE JOE HOUSE VETERANS WITH HIS EIGHTEEN TERMS.

The following statistics of the members of the SIXTY-FIRST CONGRESS were compiled from the Congressional Directory. These biographies are written by the members themselves, and are usually interesting. It is a noteworthy fact that the biography of the member who has served the shortest time in either branch of congress is usually the longer.

It may be of interest to know what states have been the birthplace of the greatest number of representatives or senators in the present congress. New York leads with thirty-nine members now in congress. Pennsylvania is second with thirty-three. Ohio third with twenty-three, and Illinois fourth with twenty-two.

Although Illinois has produced twenty members, only ten of the present delegation to the house were born in that state. Mississippi leads in the number of senators, seven having been born in that state. Kentucky is second with six, and Massachusetts, Maine and Virginia each produced five. New York which produced the largest number of representatives, has contributed only four senators. Nine of the states have been the birthplace of no members of the house, and nine have no senators.

The District of Columbia has contributed one member of the house. Not all the members of the present session were born in this country. Fifteen representatives and six senators having been born in foreign countries. Canada has been the birthplace of three representatives and two senators. England two senators, Germany four representatives, Ireland three members and a senator, Scotland two members, Norway one senator, and Bohemia, Sweden and Wales each produced one member of the house.

Senator Wetmore and Senator Oliver were both born in the British Isles. The latter is of the British lineage. The majority of the Sixty-first congress practiced law at some time before coming to Washington to represent their respective states. Three hundred and seven out of 481 are lawyers at present, or have at one time practiced law. The other 274 members give nearly every occupation imaginable; a large number are farmers in private life, while a comparatively small number are bankers and newspaper men.

Forty-eight out of the 481 members of the house and senate have served either in the civil war or the Spanish-American war. Fifty senators and one hundred and thirty representatives served in the Union army during the civil war, while ten senators and four members fought for the south. Two senators and ten members fought in the war with Spain.

Another item of interest is the length of service of the different legislators. In the house "Eugene Joe" Cannon leads in number of terms served, with eighteen. Although of Pennsylvania, he served sixteen terms in the Union army during the civil war, while ten senators and four members fought for the south. Two senators and ten members fought in the war with Spain.

Eighty-three members of the house are serving their first term in congress. In point of age, N. D. Sperry is the leader, having reached his eighty-third year. Charles G. Folger, senator of Georgia, is perhaps the youngest member of congress, as he is but thirty-two. In the senate Eugene Hale leads in terms of service, but is closely followed by Frye and Aldrich.

Senator Hale took his seat March 4, 1881, while Frye took his March 15, and Aldrich October 5 of the same year. Senator Leroy Percy has served the shortest time in the senate, as he only took his seat in February of this year. Senator Stenhouse has the distinction of being the oldest senator, as he reached his eighty-first birthday in July of the present year. Senator Callahan is but four months his junior.

The distinction of being the youngest senator in the Sixty-first congress goes to Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, who will be forty years old the 10th day of December, 1910.

BOY AVIATOR FALLS SEVEN HUNDRED FEET TO DEATH

Unfortunate Crushed to Shapeless Mass on Pile of Rocks at Salida, Colorado.

Salida, Colo., Dec. 4.—Walter Archer, a 17-year-old aviator, fell 700 feet from an aeroplane of his own invention yesterday and was instantly killed. Nearly every bone in his body was broken. Archer's machine was driven by electricity secured from the Salida Electric company's power plant. A coil of wire 700 feet long connected the power plant with the aeroplane and Archer. When he made his ascent, intended to maneuver within the radius of the wire. He ventured a little too high and the wires snapped leaving him without power. With the exception of an aviator he lost control of the machine, which turned over, dumping him to death on a pile of rocks below. Archer had constructed his machine on original lines and had built it of odd and ends material from the ruins of a mine in which his father worked as a miner.

NEW MAGDALENA OPERA HOUSE OPENED

Enterprising Socorro County
Town Has Five Thousand
Dollar Amusement House
Erected By Citizens.

Magdalena, N. M., Dec. 3.—The new Magdalena opera house was formally opened to the public last night with an excellent vaudeville and moving picture program. The first night audience packed the house to its capacity and the success of the new venture seems assured from the start.

Magdalena has long needed an opera house and a short time ago some of the enterprising citizens decided that they would have one and at once. Mr. W. W. Berrydale donated the lot and fifteen other gentlemen put up the necessary cash for the material and labor and the structure was rushed to completion. The new house has a seating capacity of 300. It is equipped with beautiful and complete line of scenery and is capable of taking care of almost any traveling theatrical company. The dressing rooms are large and fitted with every convenience for the comfort of the actors, and the house is lighted and heated with gas manufactured at a private plant. A feature of the opening night was a speech by J. Sam Houston, the well-known Alabamian, who, in his address, was deeply impressed with the possibilities of Magdalena as a show town and lavished his praise of the enterprise of the citizens who were ready to risk $5,000 on the chance of having a suitable place of entertainment. It is proposed to keep the new house open every night during the winter season and the management is already conducting negotiations with several traveling companies with a view to having them make the trip to Magdalena under a guarantee.

BRITISH ELECTION RESULT REMAINS IN DOUBT

Profess Satisfaction With Returns so Far Received.

London, Dec. 4.—Although the returns from the general election Saturday indicate that the next parliament will be similar in complexion to that of the dissolved house, and both sides late tonight profess to be pleased with the result of the day's contest, an analysis of the figures appeared to give greatest satisfaction to the liberals.

They point out that every unionist majority in Birmingham was reduced to a minority by the introduction of the London boroughs and other manufacturing districts under Chamberlain influence.

The London boroughs, like Birmingham, also show increased majorities for the liberals, who indicate that their successes in Manchester and London will greatly influence the coming contests.

DENIES MISUSE OF FRIAR LAND FUNDS

Secretary of Interior of Philippines Promises to Show That Representative Martin's Charges Are Ridiculous.

San Francisco, Dec. 4.—Six officials of the Philippine islands, who are on their way to Washington to testify before the congressional investigation committee concerning charges made by Representative John A. Martin of Colorado, in connection with the administration of friar lands, in the islands, arrived here today on the liner Manchuria.

Death C. Worcester, secretary of the interior, is at the head of the party. The other members are Frank W. Carpenter, executive secretary; Charles H. Stepler, director of lands; James V. Yimones, attorney general; Raphael Dolpin, member of the code commission, and Carl H. Roberg, director of friar lands. Benito L. Gardo and Manuel Quizon, commissioners of the Philippine islands in Washington, and four clerks in the land office, accompanied the officials.

The charges made by Congressman Martin were placed before the house in June 13 of this year. Specific allegations were made covering a long list of supposed irregularities in the handling of the friar lands. Secretary Worcester makes a general and specific denial of the accusations.

Supplementing an exhaustive statement of the nature of the charges, which in which reports of acts connected with the matter are set forth, Secretary Worcester made the following statement:

"Mr. Martin by his misrepresentation of passages in official reports which suited his purposes and by the suppression of passages which, if quoted, would have had made his statements ridiculous, has succeeded in presenting an utterly misleading picture. His charge that my relative of mine has bought or leased any friar lands is false.

"With the exception of short periods spent in the United States on leave, I have been in the government service in the Philippines continuously since March 1, 1899. Five weeks before I saw a copy of it. Circumstances compelled to delay my reply, which, under any circumstances, will attract less public notice than did the charges presented. It is unfortunately true that the public is often more interested in the charges than in the reputation. Then the privileged character of Representative Martin's committee is my seeking in the courts compensation from the injury done by reputation by his false and libelous charge.

"This opportunity to face an investigation committee is welcomed by every Philippine official concerned."
