DEMOCRATS CAN'T ESCAPE RULES PROBLEM

Progressives Have Begun Canvass of New Congress and Every Member Must Place Himself on Record.

Morning Journal Bureau.
613 Muncy Building,
Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.

Democratic members of congress will not have an opportunity to escape placing themselves on record in regard to a further revision of the rules of the house. It was learned today that the progressive democrats who are determined to carry on revision of the rules at the point where the combined forces of democrats and insurgents stopped a year ago, have begun a canvass of the members elected to the next house.

Letters are being mailed to every democrat who will have a seat in the house in the sixty-second congress. These letters declare that the democratic congressional campaign committee went before the people on two great issues—the high cost of living made possible by the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, and the amendment of the rules of the house of representatives. The letters point out that the democrats are quite as much pledged to revise the rules of the house by depriving the majority of the great power now enjoyed by Speaker Cannon as they are morally bound to make a downward revision of the tariff.

The progressive democrats assert that they have already had a number of recruits to their ranks, and that this number will be increased shortly after congress convenes.

Members of the house who are close to Champ Clark believe the minority leader is weakening in his position to refrain from all discussion of tariffs and rules and to content himself with the assertion that he is willing to abide by the decision of the party caucus.

Notwithstanding the fact that, barring an unlikely extra session of congress, the democrats will not take possession of the house for nearly a year, many of those already in Washington have been getting letters from their constituents demanding that they stand with the progressive members who want to begin the new congress with a committee on committees.

Some of Mr. Clark's most loyal supporters for the speakership have announced themselves in favor of the committee on committees; prominent among these being Congressman Olin James of Kentucky and Congressman William Jennings Bryan, and is believed to be closer to Clark than any man in the house, but James has announced that the democrats cannot count on his support.

On December 15, the star mail route between San Miguel and Ribera, N. M., will be discontinued. Another star route to be abolished will be that one between Vaughn and Roswell.

HARRIMAN LINES OWN THE NORTH COAST LINE

Financial Backers of Great Northwest Enterprise Hither-to Successfully Concealed But Cat Is Out of Bag.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 7.—Articles of incorporation of the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company were filed a few days ago at Salem, Ore., and show the Harriman system to be the owner of the new North coast line. The company is a large one, with a capital of $10,000,000, controlled by the Union Pacific system, and make provisions to absorb all the property of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company, the Oregon and Washington Railway company and the North Coast Railroad company.

Throughout the history of the North Coast Railroad company, which was organized in 1906 with Robert H. Strahorn, of Spokane, as president, the financial backers have been successfully concealed until the articles of incorporation were filed a few days ago. Mr. Strahorn, owing to the absolute secrecy maintained as to the financial backers of the road, gained for himself the title of "The Sphinx."

The Union Pacific system, by acquiring the North Coast Railroad company, will shorten its line between Spokane and Portland, Ore., by about sixty-five miles, up the Walla Walla valley, the Big Bend section, the Columbia river valley, acquire terminals on Puget sound and cut down its mileage to the east by several hundred miles.

It is estimated that the total mileage of the consolidation, when the line is completed will reach 4,000 miles, not including electric lines. Among the latter are the lines of the Yakima Valley Transportation company, radiating from the city of North Yakima west to Spokane and to other points in the Yakima and tributary valleys. These will continue under separate ownership, but will be extended and operated under the supervision of Mr. Strahorn, as heretofore.

W. D. Chapman, a farmer in the Walla Walla valley, southeast of Spokane, had a small tract of broom corn, raised without special care, from the time of planting until he harvested it, which he sold for $140 a ton. Other farmers have tried the experiment of growing broom corn and find that it will make good returns. "Broom corn will do well in this section," said A. M. Butler, superintendent of the College Place broom factory, located in the Walla Walla valley. "There is no reason why it cannot be grown as well here as anywhere, and with irrigation, would be the best produced anywhere. That grown here this summer was a trifle too brittle, but with more moisture it would be as good as any."

"Peaches may be a very profitable crop in the inland empire," is the statement of R. A. Jones, a nurseryman of Spokane. Mr. Jones has studied horticulture and raised peaches for the last fifteen years in the Spokane valley. This year's crop from 1,000 four to eight-year-old trees yielded from $5 to $10 a tree, and some of the trees bore as much as 20 boxes. "Four of the best varieties," he said, "are the best, 'Elberta,' 'Eldorado,' 'Elberta,' and 'Elberta.' According to experience in this region, they are the Alexander, Triumph, Early Crawford and Elberta. The last two are the best for canning known, but not so good as the other three for table purposes or immediate consumption. The Alexander, Triumph and Early Crawford do not ship so well nor make as good a crop of ground readily accommodated twice as many peaches as apple trees. A favorite custom is to plant apple trees thirty feet apart and peach trees between, resulting in an early total crop. Eight or ten years after the trees have commenced bearing, Mr. Jones advocates grubbing out the peach trees, leaving a thrifty apple orchard in normal condition."

James Vassie, a native of Roxburghshire, Scotland, who came to the northwest in October, 1909, to enter the horticultural college at Pullman, southeast of Spokane, is now studying practical methods in a canning factory at Sprague, Wash. Vassie was a student in a medical school at Edinburgh for three years before coming to this country. He expressed himself as delighted with the "states" and expects to establish himself here. "I liked the study of medicine well enough," he said, "but I prefer a life in the open. Conditions are vastly different in this country, but I have found people of the western world as intelligent, cultured and companionable as one would wish to find any place. I like the informality and freedom from class distinctions that prevail here. A man is considered for his personal worth and not for his social or financial position alone. I find that I have a lot to learn from my friends by working in a cannery, and that is something I could not do at home."

The Blue Mountain Bachelors' club of Dayton, Wash., southwest of Spokane, is planning to resume activities in the near future. With the completion of fall work on the ranches and the approach of winter the members of the unique organization of mate-seeking farmers are arranging a meeting for the election of a president at the recent marriage of Ralph Hunt, former president, has left the club without a head. Several candidates for the position are mentioned. Robert Rainwater will be the incumbent one. The enrollment of the club has increased during the summer and members are looking forward to material results this winter. It is said the number of being married is increasing. New arrivals daily have increased the number of letters on land from marriageable women from 2,500 to more than 3,000 since the last report of the secretary.

GOOD WORK CARRIED ON BY EXPERIMENT STATION IN ARIZONA

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 5.—Of more than ordinary interest is the annual report of the office of experiment stations of the United States department of agriculture, which has just been issued from the government printing office at Washington. This report contains an account of the work being carried on by the Arizona agricultural experiment station, which is a department of the University of Arizona, together with similar reports from other stations.

The Arizona station is supported largely by appropriations from the national government, $25,000 being the amount provided by congress last year for the experiment station in each state and territory. Combined with funds from the territory and other sources the entire income of the Arizona station for the last fiscal year amounted to $47,053.32.

Each state and territorial experiment station is visited once a year by the director or vice-director of the office of experiment stations of the United States department of agriculture and the report above mentioned is that made by the visiting officer. The following paragraphs are quoted from this report:

Several changes in the staff of the Arizona station took place during the year ending June 30, 1910. F. C. Kelton was appointed assistant engineer in underground water supply investigations. A. W. Torrell of this department was appointed ethnologist, providing a new active department, and C. F. Freeman of the Kansas college and station, as agronomist. J. E. Coll signed to accept the position in pomology in the California university and station, connected with the studies of citrus fruits. The principal investigations carried on during the year were generally along the lines of those reported along several important lines of work.

The Arizona station is making the most of its opportunities and is showing good progress in both practical and scientific lines. Its work and earnest efforts for the agriculture of the territory find much appreciation and deserve commendation."

CAPTAIN RYNNING HERO OF MOST SPECTACULAR HOBBLE-SKIRT EPISODE

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 3.—It would never have happened if Captain Thomas Ryning had not passed at this particular moment. Then, of course, that hobble skirt had something to do with it.

Miss Lois Kelly, director of the Ladies' orchestra at the Wigwam, is the heroine of this little play. Perhaps she will object to being called the heroine. Doubtless she regards herself as the unfortunate victim of a cruel fate and a fashion that decrees a shoddy and technically known as a "hobble."

Her dainty little shoes were soiled. One was dusty and the other was muddy as the result of riding her foot too near the business end of a sprinkling cart. And there was just time enough before the afternoon rehearsal to have them shined. She stepped into one of the chairs in the booth at the corner of First avenue and Washington street and told the boy to hurry.

About the time the purveyor of pedal light was making his first pass over the show with a dusting cloth, Captain Ryning, an old friend of Miss Kelly, passed by on Washington street, going west toward the Ford hotel.

Miss Kelly started from the chair, and jumped to the step. Her skirt dropped down over the footrests. She kept right on going, but her head went first. Miss Kelly isn't a heavy-weight, but the sidewalk thudded with the impact of her protruding body. There was a ripping, tearing sound. That hobble was no longer a hobble, for it was broken in three or four places. And as for the skirt—the less said the better.

The footrests were torn from their sockets and clattered after Miss Kelly. She didn't stop until she had reached the gutter and lay on the edge, gazing over into the muddy waters below.

It must be said for Miss Kelly that she bore her catastrophe like a man. She didn't even reprimand the boot-black, who awkwardly helped her to her feet and then leaned up against the stand to have his laugh out. He was not a gentleman, or he wouldn't have laughed at a lady. He has been explaining ever since that he just couldn't help it, even if he is a southern cavalier.

Captain Ryning was out of sight by the time Miss Kelly had taken stock, and found herself all present. She bravely climbed back into the chair and the bootblack finished his contract.

"I sat down in a bucket of paint after the show last night," she explained. "If I ruin three or four more dresses I'll have to strike the manager for a ransom."

HALF MILLION FOR NEW LINE TO BROWNSVILLE

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 6.—A construction company with a capital of half a million dollars is being organized by San Antonians to construct a railroad to Brownsville. It is believed that the company, with bonuses aggregating approximately $500,000, will have no trouble in bonding the line and can easily raise finances to build it.

It is planned to build a road to the border, almost in an air line, and going either by way of San Antonio, Alice, in a line as straight as a bird would fly the proposed road would pass through sections of Bexar, Atascosa, Live Oak, Nueces, Hidalgo and Cameron counties. Owners of large tracts of land along the contemplated route, realizing the increased value to their land, have signified their intention of liberal donations to see the project become a reality.

Not alone the motive of the promotion to San Antonio of the Brownsville trade and shipping territory is urging the building of the road, but it will bring San Antonio into direct communication with the northwestern part of Mexico, opening up a new field for commercial pursuits and putting into close touch with markets a rich but hitherto undeveloped section of southwest Texas.

Big Well on Pecos. An Arizona paper says: This week Sperry & Lukins brought in a big custer on the ranch of the Kinsinger brothers, east of town. The well flows four feet above an eight-inch casing, which is the same as eight feet above a six-inch casing. The measurements taken of the wells in the artesian belt by the well supervisor, George Frisk, during the last two months show no diminution with last year, and the year before. This has been the driest year in the history of New Mexico, which shows that the supply of water is permanent.

MEXICAN ARRESTED FOR SWINDLING JEWELER

Prisoner, Who Claims California as Home, Charged With Getting Away With $34,000 in Gems.

(By Morning Journal Special Landed Wire)

New York, Dec. 7.—At the request of the German government detectives today arrested John Don Chirulo Jose de Elindry, a Mexican, on the charge of swindling Otto Koch, jeweler on Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, of jewels worth nearly $34,000.

The prisoner admitted his identity. He said he and another man, whose identity he refused to disclose, went to France and Germany last summer, determined to make all the money they could. According to statements which the German police sent to this country, the man spent money lavishly and won the confidence of an artist, who introduced them to Koch with a high recommendation. They told him they wished to buy some precious stones.

The German police charge that on September 19 Koch gave them the jewels in a Munich hotel and that in return they gave him a worthless check signed by de Elindry. Two New York detectives who speak German, worked on the case for nearly three months before they found the suspect in a drug store here.

The police say he admitted that he had obtained some jewelry from Koch. On returning from Germany, he said, he went to Mexico where he told the police, he owned valuable real estate. From Mexico, he said, he went to Cuba, and thence to New York. He said that he had a wife and child there.

TWO BIG ACTS ARE ON AT CRYSTAL

"Revolving" Collins and Senor de la Barra Appear at Gold Avenue Theater Today.

Two big vaudeville acts go on today at the Crystal, and patrons of the popular Gold avenue theater will certainly get the value of their money for the act alone. The new attraction is "Revolving" Collins, a skater famous the country over for his skill on the rollers, is one of the big attractions. His work is so marvellous and so much cleverer than that of the average roller skate exhibitor that it is worth while seeing him perform. Senor de la Barra presents a comedy act that is a source of merriment and is guaranteed to keep any audience laughing all the time de la Barra is on the stage, with a few giggles left over when the curtain falls. These two acts in combination with an excellent program of pictures is one of the best offerings the Crystal has yet put forth.

SENTIMENT FAVORS AGRICULTURE FOR CONSTITUTION IN THE SOUTH PUBLIC SCHOOLS ADVOCATED

Opposition Vote in Luna and Dona Ana Counties Will Be Small Says Assistant Territorial Engineer.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 7.—Assistant Engineer Charles D. Miller has returned from Deming and Las Cruces. He went over the Deming-Mimbres road, as representative of Engineer Sullivan and found that the road is completed although it needs considerable retouching in places. The people are highly pleased with the elimination of the long stretches of sand which made traffic expensive and were surprised at the low figure of cost at which an adobe-clay-gravel road was laid across the sands. Mr. Miller also attended an exhibition of the work done by the pumping plants near Deming and pronounced it wonderful. Land Commissioner R. P. Ervin and Engineer Sullivan after a banquet at Las Cruces left for Alamogordo to inspect the La Loma-Tularosa road project. Mr. Miller reports that sentiment in favor of the constitution is rapidly gaining ground in Luna and Dona Ana counties and that the enemies of the constitution will be greatly disappointed in the vote that will be cast in those sections.

Governor Mills is expected home this evening from his trip to the lower Pecos valley.

Notary Public Appointed.
Governor Mills today appointed Mark B. Thompson of Las Cruces a notary public.

Incorporation.
Incorporation papers were filed today by the Biggs Irrigation company of Willard, Torrance county. The capitalization is $50,000 divided into 500 shares. The incorporators and directors are: S. V. Biggs, 498 shares; Frederick Biggs, 1 share; W. W. Hubbard, 1 share; of Willard.

Vaughn-Roswell Mail Route.
Today, in accordance with orders of the postoffice department, the automobile mail route between Vaughn, Chisago county, and Roswell, is to be abandoned. These orders were issued with no preliminary intimation that the department intended this step. It will work considerable hardship on the mail carriers and also cause considerable delay in the mails between central New Mexico and lower Pecos valley. Remonstrations have been filed with the postoffice department against the abandonment of the route.

Most of these wheats have been grown at the station for a number of years and have proven thrifty each time.

Rod No. 1027, is now used as the standard wheat on the station farm. It grows vigorously on every soil on which it has been tried. The station is making an effort to get it distributed throughout the territory, but on account of the limited supply on hand it is necessary to limit the amount furnished, any one to 100 pounds, for which a charge of 2-1/2 cents the pound is made. Wheat will be furnished only with the understanding that the purchaser report back to the station the character of growth and the yield per acre at the time of harvest. J. H. ALL CHURCHES ARE REPRESENTED IN PROTEST

Securian Discrimination Is Ground Upon Which Memorial Against Grant of Land Is Based.

"The protest by the local evangelist churches against the proposed grant of land to the archbishop of Santa Fe for the support of an industrial school is not based on any antagonism to the Catholic church," said a local church member yesterday, "but upon the improper sectarian discrimination of this kind so strongly in favor of any particular denomination."

It was impossible to get a copy of the memorial which was telegraphed to the chairman of the home committee on Tuesday. The memorial, however, is understood to be a brief, simply stating that the evangelist churches of this city are opposed to the bill introduced by DeLoe. Andrew, the proposed grant, signed by H. L. Litchow, Chester T. French and Pitt Rivers, the action taken being by unanimous vote of representatives of all the Protestant churches in this city.

POTASH INDUSTRY IN NEW MEXICO MAY HAVE EXTENSIVE POSSIBILITIES

The controversy in which this country is now engaged with Germany over the export duty it has placed on potash causes local miners to look for extensive possibilities in the potash industry in New Mexico. It is also said that the same formations are found in portions of old Mexico.

Has Become Great Industry.
Germany, according to a report made by consul Robert Thomson at Hannover, is mining more than 6,000,000 tons of potash salts yearly. Her exports of this mineral fertilizer already amount in value to $25,000,000, and the industry is growing more and more important. The output may attain an increase of 100 per cent within the next decade.

The most remarkable feature of the potash industry in Germany is that Germany holds a world monopoly of this precious salt-replenishing product, and it is shown that her mines will continue to yield their wealth for hundreds of years to come, probably long after the exhaustion of her coal mines. This hor potash mines are coming to be regarded as the unparalleled national treasure of the German economic world.

Said to Be in Florida.
It is claimed that the potash deposits are known to exist in Florida, also in China, but if these claims are true, the locations have been held secret and are known only to certain individuals.

In mining, potash is not loosened from above, but from below with blasting work and tunnels running diagonally upward in other words "upside down." The ore is thrown into 300 to 1,000 meter deep shafts, and from the bottom of the mine hoisted up the main shaft. On being elevated to the mouth of the mine the potash is dispatched directly to the mill, where it is crushed and acid is added to produce a chemical plant for further reduction. The majority of the potash mines are therefore combined with a chemical factory (chemicals of potassium plant) and nearly all have railway connections.

With the necessary exploitation, the same results can be obtained. It is claimed, in New Mexico, Utah and on the Mohave desert in Germany and now that the controversy with Germany promises to become rather acute over the export of potash, it is considered timely to call the attention of the chemists of the United States to the fact.

GOOD ROADS MEET IS SUCCESSFUL AT LAS CRUCES

Territorial Engineer Sullivan Chief Speaker at Enthusiastic Gathering for Better Highways.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Las Cruces, N. M., Dec. 6.—The good roads meeting held at the Elks' hall last night was attended by one of the largest crowds ever assembled in this city on a public call. Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan and Territorial Land Commissioner J. P. Ervin of Santa Fe came down on the morning train to Anthony and were met there with carriages and brought over the road, the trip improving them with the need of a good road from Dona Ana to connect with the El Paso county road at Anthony on the state line. Mr. D. Miller, assistant to Sullivan and his probable successor, also accompanied the crowd.

At 8 o'clock last night the crowd gathered at the Elks' hall and after a Dutch lunch, Mr. Sullivan addressed the people. He stated that he fully realized the need of Dona Ana county and would do all that he could to see that the territory helped out in the matter of good roads. He stated that the convicts could not be used here to advantage and that instead he would recommend a direct appropriation of as much money as the county had available, and would have the engineers from his office assume the personal supervision of the work. His opinion was that the necessary material for a good road is lying all along the proposed road, in the form of clay and gravel, and from his experience, a road put down with gravel and a clay binder, the surface sprinkled with oil, makes a hard and durable roadway. Besides it furnishes an excellent foundation for any other kind of road which might be desired later.

W. A. Sutherland acted as toastmaster and called on representatives from every town that will be reached by the new road and also from a number of the prominent farmers along the way. The responses were all identical insofar as the willingness to help along was concerned. With $4,000 from the county commissioners as a start, added to a like sum, which was promised by Mr. Sullivan later in the evening, after his first speech, it was thought that if each farmer in the valley would contribute the sum of 25 cents for each acre of land he owned, there would be available money sufficient to build the entire road at once and build it right. Some who were present had volunteered to offer $100 to pay that amount. A permanent good roads organization will be effected at once and it will be only a short time until the work on the highway will be in full swing.

The other speakers of the evening were: Mayor Young, J. C. McNary, Berino; Elh Newson, Earlham; Harry Hoffmann, Anthony; A. E. Baum, Dona Ana; William J. Miller, El Paso; P. E. Lester, Mesilla Park; R. E. McKride, president of the board of regents of the Agricultural college; Nicholas Galles, president of the Mesilla Valley chamber of commerce; J. B. Thompson, Mesilla Park; M. C. O'Hara, El Neitzschman, chairman of the board of county commissioners, and H. R. Holt.

The Las Cruces Business Men's alliance has been formed. The object of the alliance, it is said, is to prevent the Civic League from too strenuously influencing the enforcement of the Sunday law.

The city fathers met last Monday afternoon, and after transacting some routine business, made an ordinance that all children under 15 years should be kept off the street after 9 o'clock in the evening.

At the expense of the property owners, asphalt is being put down in two of the blocks on Main street.

Testimony is being taken at the land office in the case of Nathan Boyd against E. Van Patten. The territory in dispute is part of the famous Dripping Springs resort.

The Elks' lodge increased its membership list to over 100, by initiating five new members last Thursday evening.

The Agricultural college is building a new ditch along the public road and will irrigate its orchards and other lands, upon which new experiments will be made.

PENN COMPANY FINDS GOOD ORE IN MINES OF LORDSBURG DISTRICT

Lordsburg, N. M., Dec. 5.—The cross cut the Penn company has been running to the south is now in highly mineralized rock, and it looks as though they would soon be to the ledge they are working for. The cut is at the 500 foot level and is in some 400 feet. Some weeks ago the workmen were driven out of the cut by water. This has now been cared for, and it does not interfere with the work, although it is necessary to keep the pumps going all the time to handle the water. The shaft is on the malachite claim, and was started on ore, but the ore pitched away from the shaft, which was continued perpendicular, the south end of the north cross cut is in 500 feet and is being pushed. It is expected that it will have to be pushed a couple of hundred feet more before it will reach the ore body the company is after. It passed through the malachite vein, which the shaft had left, and there was some fine ore of good ore. It has passed several stringers and small veins, from one to six inches wide. The company has taken out a good deal of ore in this development work, which is lying on the dump. As the probabilities are that the price of copper will advance it looks to be a better business proposition to let this ore lie on the dump and increase in value instead of sending it to the smelter, realizing what it is worth at present, and getting the money in the bank. As the company is not happy over it is not interested in the outcome of the complications between the ore haulers and the shipper.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Its superiority is unquestioned
Its fame world-wide
Its use a protection and a guarantee against alum food

The low-grade powders are made from "phosphate alum," or "sodium aluminum sulphate," which is also alum, a mineral acid, and that makes the food unhealthful.

One pound of the imitation (25c.) powders contains five ounces of alum, a mineral poison.

Food baked with alum baking powders is found to contain a portion of the alum unchanged.

The continued use of alum made food impairs digestion, causing dyspepsia. The careful housewife when buying baking powder, will examine the label and take only a brand whose label shows the powder to be made from cream of tartar.

LIGHT BATTERY IS INSPECTED BY GOVERNOR

Executive and Adjutant General Welcomed to Roswell With Salute of Eleven Guns; Battery in Good Shape.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Roswell, N. M., Dec. 6.—Governor William J. Mills and Adjutant General A. E. Brookes, who are on a trip of informal inspection of the military forces of the territory, arrived in Roswell last night at 6 o'clock, coming from the south. Upon their arrival they were given a governor's salute of eleven guns. The evening was spent in the inspection of battery A, the only light battery between Texas and California, and in an informal reception at the home of Col. James W. Wilson, superintendent of the New Mexico Military Institute. The officials found the battery in magnificent condition, housed in its new gun sheds, and the membership in a fine spirit and interest in their work.

The jury that tried the case of Charles Montgomery for selling liquor without a license, reported in eight minutes that he was guilty. Next is the trial of Ed Bernard and Commie E. Prather, who are charged jointly with the murder of David P. Windsor, out on the plains near the Texas line, on July 25 last. The jury was sequestered at 6 o'clock last night. Court adjourned from two until four o'clock, to give the jury time to deliberate.

UNCLE JIMMY IS FIGHTING IT

Senator Upton Making All the Trouble He Can for Constitution; Ranchman's House Burned.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Deming, N. M., Dec. 6.—L. R. Gasser's house, six miles east of Deming, caught fire yesterday and burned to the ground. Nothing was saved, and the loss was about $10,000. He had no insurance on the same. The family was away when the accident occurred.

J. D. Weems, a cattleman of Separ, was in Deming last week attending court. Mr. Weems cut this year over three hundred tons of native hay off of 160 acres, which was irrigated once by an overflow coming down one of the draws of the lower Burro mountains.

At a regular meeting of Deming lodge No. 12, A. F. & A. M., held in their hall Thursday evening, December 2, the following officers were elected: Otto Leopold, worshipful master; James C. Taber, senior warden; Julius R. Borch, junior warden; Thomas Hudson, Tyler; S. A. Bolch, treasurer; H. D. Green, secretary.

Senator J. N. Upton has been in town for a few days. The senator is busy engaged in fighting the adoption of the constitution, recently drafted by the constitutional convention of which he was a member.

WALKER DISTRICT IN ARIZONA BUSY PLACE

Oxide Plant Progressing.
The frame work of the oxide plant which is being erected for the Vanadium Mines company by Contractor Stevens at Cutter, is about completed.

A force of bricklayers have arrived from Pittsburgh prepared to put the work on the walls, and the indications are that the plant will be in operation early in the spring. Mr. Gray, who is to act as foreman of the plant, has arrived in Cutter with his wife, and Vice-President Bonita, who has been in Pittsburgh and other eastern cities, is expected back in a short time.

Remington 22 REPEATING RIFLE

We are just as proud of the REMINGTON 22 Repeaters as we are of the Remington Big Game high power rifles—just as good reasons. No other make of the .22 class is built to as high a standard.

The features that place the REMINGTON 22 in a class by itself are the real big REMINGTON features—Hemmerlin and Solid Broach. You clean the barrel from the breech—not forcing the dirt back into the working parts as in other .22's, insuring life-time usefulness and maintaining consistent shooting condition.

There is perhaps a greater difference between the REMINGTON and other .22 Repeaters than is to be found between rifles of any other class. A REAL RIFLE—the REMINGTON 22 Repeater. Shoots without adjustment. .22 short, .22 long or .22 long rifle cartridges.

WASHINGTON SETS PAGE FOR MANUAL TRAINING

Boys and Girls Who Have to Begin Work in Life to Receive Practical Instruction in Useful Trades.

Albuquerque people who have for some time past agitated the establishment of manual training in the city schools, will be interested in the announcement that the national capital intends in the near future to set the pace for every city and town in the country in this important innovation. Places will soon be established in Washington where boys and girls of 14 and 15 years of age will be taught some legitimate trade, and thus be prepared to enter business life as first-class apprentices. There are to be no frills about this enterprise; everything is to be on a strictly business plan, with nothing visionary about the scheme. Youngsters, according to plans that are almost ready for being put in actual practice, whose parents can not afford them a college or high school education, will be taught such trades as will fit them for entrance into the workaday life of the nation.

As outlined, two-year courses have been provided in seven trades for boys, and in three for girls. The courses for the former are to include machinist work, blacksmithing, wagon and automobile construction, electrical work, plumbing, heating and tinning, house painting, plastering and painting, paperhanging, plastering and concrete construction. For the girls, there are to be courses in practical cooking and household management, sewing, dressmaking, tailoring and hat making. By the time the student enters the line of the work they wish to follow when they leave the school, it is arranged that each one shall select a trade when he or she enters the school, and stick to that trade one year, and take up another one the next year. This arrangement is designed primarily for boys and girls of the sixth, seventh and eighth grade years, who would not go to high school because they have to work for a living.

Local manual training school enthusiasts, although they have not recently a great deal of encouragement recently, are still hopeful that the time is not far distant when at least a start in this commendable direction will be made in Albuquerque. It is pointed out that the manual training could be begun on a small basis with one or two rooms in one of the city schools, and the teaching of two or three trades or crafts. The training could be started as an experiment and if found successful on a small scale, could be increased and enlarged as the demands and finances of the schools grew greater.

LAWSHAW NOW LEADS A VERY SIMPLE EXISTENCE

Former Third Assistant Postmaster General Is Indian Agent at Keam's Canyon and Looks After the Redmen.

With the departure last night of the band of Hopi Indians, who recently returned from the Chicago land show, for Oraibi and other Hopi mesas in Arizona, is recalled a rather interesting incident in connection with the administration of these wards of the government. The man who now looks after the Hopis, as well as a large number of Navajos, is A. L. Lawshaw, formerly third assistant postmaster general, and prior to that in charge of the expenditure of government monies in the Philippines and Alaska. While in the Indian Mr. Lawshaw labored so diligently to carry out the policy of the treasury department that his health broke down. He was returned to the United States and, being a personal friend of Postmaster General Hitchcock, was given a berth in his department. Mr. Lawshaw held this post for some time, but was finally compelled to seek a more open life in the west. He came to New Mexico and was for a time a possibility as governor of this territory, following the resignation of Captain George Curry. The governorship failed to materialize, however, and it is said that Mr. Lawshaw did not particularly fancy what might prove to be quite as strenuous a job as third assistant postmaster general. Mr. Lawshaw then quietly retired into private life in New Mexico for a year, making his home in Las Cruces. His health almost entirely recovered, Mr. Lawshaw decided to remain in the west. He was tendered the position of Indian agent at Keam's Canyon, with jurisdiction over Hopis and Navajos, as well as remnants of over-struggling tribes of red men. Keam's Canyon is 120 miles from the railroad and Mr. Lawshaw only receives his mail about once a week. He likes the work, however, and according to all reports will be well satisfied to lead the simple life for some time to come. Mrs. Lawshaw and a son and daughter reside with Mr. Lawshaw at the agency.

Rumor has it that Mr. Lawshaw stands very highly with the powers that be, and that a request by him for any position always meets with distinguished consideration at Washington, where he has influential friends in the seats of the mighty.

After spending a day in Albuquerque, the Hopis left last night for their mess homes in Arizona. The Indians traveled in a special car, which was loaded with various articles purchased here yesterday. Manager Herman Schwicker, of the Harvey curio department, paid the Indians yesterday for the work they did at the land show in Chicago. The Indians spent almost all their pay in Albuquerque stores, together with considerable money they received in Chicago from admirers who visited the exhibit. The Hopis will leave the railroad at Winslow and begin the last leg of their journey, which will take them over more than a hundred miles. Mr. Snelley, of the local Harvey curio, accompanied the Hopis to Winslow and will see that they are started homeward in good shape.

TWO AND SEVEN TENTHS PERSONS TO THE MILE

Plenty of Standing Room For Newcomers in New Mexico According to Local Statistics Expert.

That there are at present on the average only two men and seven-tenths of a man on each square mile of land in New Mexico, or a trifle fewer than one man to each 120 acres, has been figured out by Assistant Secretary of the Bureau of Immigration John B. Dugger, at present in charge of the issuance of the weekly bulletin of the New Mexican Publicity association. The contrast, for instance, with Rhode Island the most thickly settled state, where there are, it is said, between 400 and 500 to the square mile, confuses one that there is plenty of room for newcomers to grow up and spread out in the great southwest.

This week's bulletin says: When the census of 1890 was taken the population of New Mexico was 153,593. The census of 1900 showed only an increase of 41,717, or a total population of 195,310. The official population for 1910 as announced by the bureau of the census on November 23rd is 227,596, an increase of 122,086 over 1900, or 67.5 per cent in the past ten years. This is a population of only 2.7 persons to every square mile, or less than one person to every 120 acres. With a total area of 122,469 square miles or 78,330,180 acres New Mexico still has room for a few more people.

The number of people to the square mile in some of the other large states is:

Michigan, 48.9; Missouri, 47.9; Indiana, 75.2; Iowa, 40.1; Kansas, 30.7; and New York, 191.4.

Mexico is just fairly getting under way and with its assured continuance the population will undoubtedly almost double during the next ten years. With the co-operation of practically every business interest of the territory the bureau of immigration has been able to carry on, during the past year, an advertising campaign equally as large, if not larger, than that of any other state in the Union. This campaign is awakening an interest even stronger than that taken in Washington, Oregon or Oklahoma when admitted to the Union, and with equal opportunities, the success of a new state is assured.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy

I met a tough kid yolling with all his might, apparently without any rhyme or reason, so I stopped and asked him what he was bawling at. "I'm bawling at the top of my head," said the wise kid, leaning at me like a foxy grandpa. Well, that's nothing to what I heard about an old kid who was courting a young girl. He asked her if she liked to see an old head on young shoulders and she thought it was too fresh and fired him. But, say, I've got another parrot story for you and this is a good one. A fellow was keeping company with a swell girl, but he suddenly stalled and quit. One of her friends said to him:

"Why did you break off your engagement with Miss Bertha?" "Because her parrot was always saying, 'Stop that George!'" "But what difference did that make?"

"A whole lot of difference. My name is not George."

Golly, I'm chewing up too much white paper on the gash talk when the boss wants me to talk underwear. What I don't know about underwear would fill a book like the Cyclopaedia Britannica. Back in New England they call Jamaica Rum "underwear" down in Kentucky they call it an "overcoat," but right here in Albuquerque we claim to sell the best heavy ribbed suit of underwear for $1.00 that ever hit the steel rails. I know this to be true, because we always did it and the boss stands under our unqualified guarantee. Coming in soon?
