Chihuahua, Mexico, Dec. 10.—The federal troops and those of the insurgents, or "pronunciados," as they prefer to be designated, are some forty miles apart. The federal soldiers are at Carretas, a hamlet of the railroad in the vicinity of Santa Isabel, west of here. The location is known from several reliable sources. They are awaiting a considerable augmentation of their numbers to make a surrounding movement possible.

The revolutionists were last night within a few miles of Pederiales. The Associated Press correspondent left them there at noon Friday, after a three-day trip in their midst while they were in search of their enemy. At that hour they had just discovered that a report that the federals were some miles distant at Cuahuahua, which was erroneous. A movement in that direction was countermanded.

Last Wednesday at La Junta, the call went forth from the "defeat," or surrounding towns, for a concentration of forces to meet the federals, who were reported marching on La Junta, a junction point of the Mexico & Northwestern railroad. This movement had not been consummated when the advance guard, already concentrated, moved forward to Rosarito. Again there was no enemy, and the march to Rosarito, a hamlet near Pederiales, was begun. Thursday scouts reported sighting twelve federal soldiers and a strong position was taken awaiting an attack. During the daylight hours this did not materialize, nor did it during the night, although the horses were kept saddled and ready for a start.

At noon Friday came the groundless rumor of the presence of the government forces at Cuahuahua. The command, the half dozen "jefes" were working in perfect accord.

The correspondent counted 154 perfectly mounted and armed men in the main street of Rosarito today. About an equal number were reported coming from there as a central point. Detachments of them could be seen occasionally on the horizon of the city.

Three hundred there were encamped about fifteen miles to the southwest and an equal number north at about the same distance. All were working well, according to the correspondent. All are mounted, well armed and well supplied with ammunition.

The captains who gave the information as to troops other than those seen by the correspondent were interviewed separately, or in groups of two or three, and all told the same story in essentials. It may, therefore, be stated as a fact that the insurgents now numbering about 1,000 well equipped men.

If there were a directory of the she-bellied men along the railroad line, street of Rosarito, might be turned into an army roster without much editing, for at the towns along the road there were no non-combatants and very old men were scarce.

The insurgents, contrary to many statements, are fully aware that other parts of Mexico are not in revolt. In interview after interview the correspondent was informed that the Chihuahuas revolutionists regard themselves as the spark which may set the country in revolt. If they can win the impending battle, they are sure that this city will be occupied and that in their belief this signal of insurgent potency will bring about a general revolt.

"We must win this battle, or die," was the sentiment generally expressed. In a speech delivered to the troops Friday, when it was thought that the battle was only hours away, Jose Robles, a Yaqui Indian by birth, and one of the captains, speaking from the saddle, declared that the men must realize that they might be more martyrs, but that their deaths would be a step forward in the path of liberty.

They claim that they are not fighting to place Francisco L. Madero or any one else in the presidential chair. They assert that the death of Porfirio Diaz is bound to throw the country into confusion sooner or later unless a honest ballot can be secured. They say they have begun that fight to save the country from possible anarchy. Madero is highly regarded, and he is the first choice, but he personally is not essentially a principle of the revolution. It is significant of the regard in which he is held, however, that a "cava Madero" was given at the conclusion of Robles' address to the troops.

It is the consensus of opinion here, in the absence of official information, that General Navarro hated his adversary when he found that his enemy's strength was numerically equal to his own, although lacking his rapid fire arms and his three-pounders. Their profound knowledge of trails and their extreme mobility, every man being armed, also demanded that the attacking force, very largely infantry, should be two or three to one.

A resume of events in western Chihuahua since the outbreak three weeks ago, as told by the revolutionists, may be made as follows:

When the first outbreak occurred at San Andres, the revolutionists state, they had been ordered not to fire on the soldiers, because other passengers were aboard. The insurgents were ordered to have killed thirteen persons—ten soldiers, two women and one child—which is substantially as has been published.

The remaining soldiers were saved when the engineer of the train pulled out far enough to disembark the troops in safety. They were later ordered to proceed to Guerrero. On their way they stopped at Pederiales, numbering possibly 100. They camped in the open near the railroad station, with a corn warehouse between them and the cluster of adobe dwellings which form the village of Pederiales.

When the insurgents were seen rallying across the mesa in the distance, the federals gained entrance to the warehouse by digging two holes through the roof, began retreating. The insurgents spent part of the day digging loopholes through the dwelling houses in which they took cover. From these and from behind a stone wall they peppered the warehouse for hours. At last some of the federals fled. Five were killed and twenty-six joined their attackers. The latter lost two killed. They fled abandoned a number of rifles and a large amount of ammunition.

The insurgents' version of the fight four miles west of this city at Fresno on November 27, says that the federals lost 100 men in the number of their losses—seven dead. They allege that they wounded went to make up this list. They disagree with other reports by declaring that their force was merely a scouting party. It did not number 200, as stated, but thirty. They said they fired on the troops when they found the chance and immediately began retreating. They had hoped to draw General Navarro after them. That veteran campaigner, however, promptly returned to this city.

The insurgents gained control of Guerrero, which is quite an American town, without bloodshed last Saturday. The federal force, they say, numbered but sixty or so. Some of the federals were seen by the correspondent at La Junta with their new comrades. A small boy carried the national flag, which, erected while had proclaimed the authority of Diaz at Guerrero. Others were seen at Rosarito and Rancho. They carried government Mauser rifles, and generally about eighty pounds of cartridges.

HOUSE SPENDS $7,000,000 AN HOUR

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL PASSED IN QUICK TIME

Clean and Without Suspicion of Pork Barrel Methods Is Description of Measure
Which Was Approved.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Washington, Dec. 10.—In record time and spending money at the rate of $7,000,000 an hour, the house of representatives today in about three hours passed the river and harbor bill, making appropriations of $21,884,861 for river and harbor work in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912. No vote was taken.

The bill being passed by unanimous consent, and with the exception of a slight typographical error in the printed bill, not a word was changed from the form in which it was presented by the committee.

Representative Alexander of New York, chairman of the committee on river and harbor, described the measure.

"Clean as a whistle and without any suspicion of 'pork barrel' about it, was the way in which Mr. Alexander described the measure.

"This shows that public bills can be put through without any necessity for resorting to the methods heretofore considered positively essential to their passage.

In addition to the amount carried in this bill, sundry civil bill will include $7,268,077 for river and harbor improvement in 1912, bringing the total up to $29,262,938. The average annual expenditure in this direction for the ten years since 1899 is approximately $22,500,000. Of the 210 items in the bill 105 were for maintenance of complete works, and a like number for completing works.

WELL KNOWN CLUB WOMAN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Salt Lake City, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Eliza R. Boyle, one of the three honorary vice-presidents of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, died here this afternoon, aged 75 years. She was the widow of Jonathan C. Boyle, who passed away in June. They had been married more than fifty-three years at the time of Mr. Boyle's death, and the long and grief-stricken widow's life, although she was tenderly cared for by her children, Martha, Ruth, Edna, Milton, and Royce, the playwright, W. J. C. Boyle of the Denver Associated Press office, and Dr. Sinclair K. Boyle of New York. Two sisters, Mrs. Joseph A. Thacher and Mrs. Mary S. Turner, both of Denver, survive her.

Mrs. Boyle was instrumental in organizing the Ladies' Literary club of Salt Lake, the first women's club west of the Missouri river.

TEXANS HAVE BEST OF THE BOUNDARY DISPUTE

President Taft Will Urge Early Settlement of Fight in Special Message to Congress
This Week.

TEXAS WILL FIGHT ISSUE TO THE VERY LAST DITCH

Unless Controversy Ends at Once Fate of Statehood Will Be Seriously Menaced, Is General Belief.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—President Taft will send a special message to congress next week, urging the enactment of legislation that will close the boundary dispute which New Mexico has raised with Texas, even though it is understood that the president in his message will strongly hold that the equity in this dispute lies with Texas and that he will accordingly recommend that congress set the matter at rest by recognizing the Clark survey of 1859 as the boundary line between Texas and New Mexico.

Senator Culbertson, who was in the famous Greer county case, is thoroughly familiar with the boundary line dispute and has always taken the position that it is a closed incident. The supreme court decision in the Greer county case accepted the Clark-Searcy line as the true boundary, and the United States in 1859, even though it was not the true meridian, the whole survey is binding even as to New Mexico.

The president today expressed his desire to have the Clark survey recognized, the matter will not leave the matter open to dispute. A bill embodying the idea which President Taft has on this subject, and which he will recommend in his message, was today drawn by Representative Stephens of Texas.

The Texas delegation, both in the senate and house, will oppose any attempt on the part of New Mexico to re-open this case, even if the fight on this question jeopardizes New Mexico's chances for statehood. In fact it will be an issue with the democrats from Texas. It is understood that every effort will be made to cause delay of congressional action on the boundary dispute. It is figured by some of the Texas delegation that congress will not have sufficient time to consider the case at this session, and they hope that this matter, together with the foregoing dispatch of a survey to finally fix the line.

It is taken from this that Mr. Luna regards the 1912 meridian as the boundary which will be recognized and that it only remains to survey accordingly. The foregoing dispatch of a survey to finally fix the line, however, would indicate there is not entire unanimity as to whether the 1912 meridian is the correct boundary.

DELAGUA DISASTER INVESTIGATION UNDER WAY

Forty-Eight Witnesses Summoned in Effort to Fix Responsibility for Explosion
Which Cost 79 Lives.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Trinidad, Colo., Dec. 10.—Forty-eight witnesses have been summoned in the coroner's inquest into the causes of the explosion in the Delagua mine No. 3 of the Victor American Fuel company on November 8, in which seventy-nine men were killed, General Manager W. J. Murray and General Superintendent W. S. Gachell today testified every precaution was practiced to make the mine safe and prevented the state mining laws were strictly obeyed. Deputy State Mine Inspector Oberding testified that he examined the mine four days before the explosion and found it in good condition, which he believed "might have been a contributing cause and lent force to the initial gas explosion."

Rio Janeiro, Dec. 10.—After an artillery engagement which lasted throughout the day, the mutinous naval battalion on Cobra island surrendered tonight. The rebels were completely annihilated, more than 200 killed and wounded.

The sedition movement, it is believed, has now been throttled, but the senate voted to declare a state of siege for thirty days.

Rio Janeiro, Dec. 10.—A serious revolt occurred among the soldiers of the marine corps quartered in the Fort of Santa Isabel last night. They captured their officers and sent them to the mainland. The mutiny was quelled tonight, but not until the mutineers had lost over two hundred killed and wounded.

The scout ship Rio Grande do Sul joined in the uprising, but the mutinous sailors were finally subdued by their officers and a portion of the local militia that remained faithful. At half past 5 o'clock in the morning, the guns of the land batteries were trained on the island, which lies in the bay of Rio Janeiro only a short distance from the city and opposite the marine arsenal.

A heavy fire was directed against the rebels and this continued without cessation for five hours. Then a white flag appeared, and it was believed that the rebels were ready to surrender, but they asked only for an armistice, which was granted for the purpose of removing the dead and injured.

The bombardment of the island continued for one hour, being renewed at 11 o'clock. Two land batteries and two local warships took part in the bombardment, which continued with great violence until half past 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The island proved a good target for the batteries and repelled with a vigorous fire, employing considerable shrapnel.

Several persons were killed along the shore and in adjoining streets.

The fire against the scout ship Rio Grande do Sul lasted three hours and among the killed was one officer. Small bands of these rebels climbed into launches and grew near the front of the palace Gatteto, but they were forced to retire.

AMERICA SECOND SEA POWER

British Navy Alone Exceeds United States in Number of Battleships Afloat; Germany Close Third.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Washington, Dec. 10.—The United States closes another year in the second place among the world's naval powers. The great navy building race between Germany and Great Britain has not brought the former country up to the United States in the number of battleships afloat, but ships projected and in the total number of war vessels of all kinds, Germany will crowd the United States to third place.

These facts are shown in the new navy year book prepared by Pittman Puffer, clerk to the senate committee on naval affairs, and soon to be issued by the government printing office. In armed navies, although the technical division made in the United States, indicates Germany to have more than this country, the actual strength of the United States exceeds that of its European rival.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 10.—Customs officers searching the Great Northern steamship Minnesota today discovered 116,000 worth of smuggled opium. This is the largest seizure of opium that has been made in the United States in several years.

AGED MISSOURI WOMAN AND THREE MEN MURDERED

Robbery Behind Motive for Fiendish Crime on Lonely Farm Fifteen Miles From Kansas City.

BODIES OF VICTIMS FRIGHTFULLY MUTILATED

Sheriff Seeks Discharged Hired Man With Whom Unfortunate Family Recently Had Trouble
Over Money Matters.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Kansas City, Dec. 10.—The bodies of Mrs. Emiline Bernhard, 75 years old, her son George, 40 years old, a trapper, Tom Morgan and a hired man named Glenn Cotner, were found on the Bernhard farm near Martin City, fifteen miles south of here, late today. All had been beaten to death.

The four persons were last seen alive by neighbors last Wednesday. Suspicion was first excited when the rural mail carrier noticed the mail was not removed from the Bernhard box. He notified neighbors and this afternoon a number of them visited the farm and searched the premises.

In the barn the bodies of the three men were found in a manger covered with hay. Their heads were badly crushed. All had evidently been dead several days. In a closet on the second floor of the house the body of Mrs. Bernhard was found. Her skull was crushed.

From the condition in which Mrs. Bernhard's body was lying, it is believed by the officers that she was in the barn at the time of the assault, and after being beaten about the head, she was carried to the house and going upstairs, hid in a closet where she died.

The sheriff is working on the theory that the murder was committed by a former hired man with whom the owners are known to have had trouble over money. Mrs. Bernhard is said to have been wealthy and, according to her neighbors has often had trouble with men who worked for her because of quarrels over money.

Later investigation led to the belief that robbery was the motive of the murders, as the house had been ransacked and the pockets of the dead turned wrong side out. According to neighbors Mrs. Bernhard always kept a large amount of money in the house.

For two or three days people living in the vicinity say a stranger had been seen near the Bernhard farm, an old-fashioned weight was found in the barn tonight. It was covered with blood and evidently was used by the murderer.

Tom Morgan, the trapper, who was one of the victims, was only twenty years old. He lived at Rosedale, Kan., and had been on a trapping trip in this vicinity for a month.

The peculiar lives led by the Bernhards made it hard for the neighbors to do with their neighbors. When they wanted a hired hand they would send to an employment agency here for one. It was her custom a few years ago to hide her money in the ash pan of a kitchen range.

Officers late tonight discovered a clew that they hope will be of assistance in their quest. On the door leading to the closet in which Mrs. Bernhard's body was found were bloody finger prints. They were broad and distinct, appearing to have been made by a man's hand.

DEFICIT TASK TO SELECT SUPREME COURT JUDGES

President Now Hopes to Announce His Choice by Monday; Dark Horses May Land Both Places.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Washington, Dec. 10.—The nominations which President Taft will make for the vacancies in the supreme court, probably early next week, are still unsettled. Even the chief justiceship, which well informed gossip has hitherto accorded to Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes may go to somebody else.

In fact, in more than one usually well informed quarter it was said tonight that both of the pending appointments to the court would go to men not hitherto mentioned in the connection. It is likely the president will narrow his field of consultation within the next thirty-six hours, and that the result may be announced on Monday.

It was said to be practically settled that Chairman Martin A. Knapp of the interstate commerce commission will be the chief judge of the new commerce court, the position was offered to him by the commission.

It is fairly certain that whoever the nominee for the vacancies in the two courts are to be, their names will go to the senate on Monday or Tuesday. This seems especially true of the supreme court nominees. Those for the commerce court may be deferred, pending settlement as to the vacancies probably to be made by promotion from the personnel of the interstate commerce commission.

DIX DEFINES ATTITUDE TOWARD CORPORATIONS

New York, Dec. 10.—The beliefs of John A. Dix, as they will affect his attitude toward the corporations, were indicated tonight in a speech at a dinner given him by the Merchants' Democratic association. In dealing with corporations, he said the human elements had to be considered.

"That spells individual responsibility," he said, "and it should be after as such and should receive the same consideration as individuals. If its attitude transgresses the laws, or the policies of our institutions, it is not the same criticism as to an individual, but should bear the responsibility of the transgressor."

At the guests' table were former Justice Alton B. Parker, Charles F. Murphy and Winfield A. Huppuch, democratic state chairman.

MRS. EDDY'S RELATIVES ARE GUESTS OF LAWYER

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 10.—The immediate relatives of the late Mary Baker Eddy, head of the Christian Science church, who died at her Chestnut Hill home, near Boston, a week ago, are tonight the guests of Attorney John W. Kelle, who was associated with William E. Chandler as counsel for the "next friends" in their suit against the Eddy estate some years ago.

The party came from Boston today and included George W. Glover, his son George W. Glover, Jr., and his daughter, Miss Mary Baker Glover of Lead, S. D., and Dr. E. J. Foster-Eddy of Waterbury, Vt.

SUIT INVOLVES SIXTY MILLION DOLLARS

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TITLE TO CALIFORNIA OIL LAND

Government Complaint Charges Railroad With Fraud and Deceit in Securing Valuable Property.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Los Angeles, Dec. 10.—A legal wrangle to recover from the Southern Pacific Railroad company oil lands worth $10,000,000 was instituted on behalf of the United States government in the federal district court here today. The action relates to a subsidiary of 6,000 acres in the Midway district in Kern county, and if the government is successful in wresting title from the railroad company in this case, the Southern Pacific will lose other lands worth $50,000,000 in the same district.

Misrepresentation, fraud and deceit are charged to the railroad company in the complaint, which was filed by United States District Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who signed the documents. The complaint also declares that the government's own officials were negligent, as they secured patents covering the lands to the railroad without an investigation, relying simply upon the statements of the defendant corporation regarding the character of the lands.

The Kern Trading and oil company, a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific, is named in the suit as having been organized as a dummy solely for the purpose of furthering the railroad's alleged fraudulent, dishonest and unlawful purpose of withholding the land from its rightful owner, the United States.

GOVERNOR HARMON GUEST AT DEMOCRATIC BANQUET

Washington, Dec. 10.—Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio was the guest of honor today at a luncheon given by Representative Francis Burton Harrison of New York at the Metropolitan club here. Democratic members of congress from nearly every section of the country were present.

The list of guests included forty-five democratic members of congress, Governor Harmon and Theodore Ball, democratic candidate for governor of California in the recent election. There were some references to the possibility of 1912 in conversations between guests, subsequent to the luncheon, in which the names of Harmon and Harrison were linked.

GROWTH OF COUNTRY EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

Director Durand Attributes it Largely to Immigration; New Mexico Among Leaders in Per Cent of Increase.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Washington, Dec. 10.—In the United States and all its possessions, the stars and stripes protect 101,100,000 souls. This is the official estimate of the United States bureau of the census, announced today, in connection with the population statistics for the country as enumerated in the thirtieth decennial census. It includes the Philippines, Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Alaska and the Panama canal zone.

Within its borders on the North American continent, exclusive of Alaska, the United States has a population of 91,972,266 inhabitants. In the last ten years the states of the union had an increase in population of 15,977,691, which amounts to 21 per cent over the 1890 figures.

Since the first census was taken in 1790, the country has grown twenty-five times as large, the population then having been 3,525,214, slightly larger than the present population of Texas.

The growth of the country was greater than has been anticipated by the expert statisticians, who have closely watched the progress of the country's population.

In a statement, explaining the increase of the population of the continental United States to 91,972,266, Director Durand attributes the growth largely to greater net additions through immigration.

He finds a wider disparity in the growth of the different states in the past decade than for any other. The range is from a decrease of five per cent to an increase of 120 per cent in Washington.

"The states showing the lowest increase, falling below 10 per cent," he said, "are Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee; the three northern New England states, and Maryland and Delaware."

The states showing the next highest increase between 10 and 20 per cent, include Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

"States which show an increase from 20 to 30 per cent are, for the most part, the great manufacturing states, including Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the only other states increasing between 20 and 30 are Arkansas and Texas."

The states which show an increase exceeding 30 per cent are, with the exception of New Jersey and Florida, all in the west and make up a belt comprising one-third of the area of the United States. South Dakota, Colorado and Utah had increases between 30 and 50 per cent, while North Dakota, Wyoming, Oregon, Nevada, California, New Mexico and Arizona, increased between 50 and 100 per cent, and Idaho and Washington more than 100 per cent.

"The increase in the ten years, 1900 to 1910, was greater than in the previous decade in twenty-six of the forty-nine states, fifteen of these being west of the Mississippi river."

The increase in the last decade was less than in the previous one on the thirteen states, six of which are east of the Mississippi river.

"The greatest change in growth is found in the three Pacific coast states, and Nevada and New Mexico, all of which grew far faster in the last ten years than in the one preceding."

The population of the nine geographic divisions is:

"New England, 6,552,281; middle Atlantic, 19,315,892; east north central, 18,550,621; west north central, 11,637,921; south Atlantic, 12,194,855; east south central, 8,499,901; west south central, 8,784,334; mountain, 2,622,517; Pacific, 4,192,394. The population of the northern section is 25,747,115; southern section, 29,387,350; western section, 6,525,221.

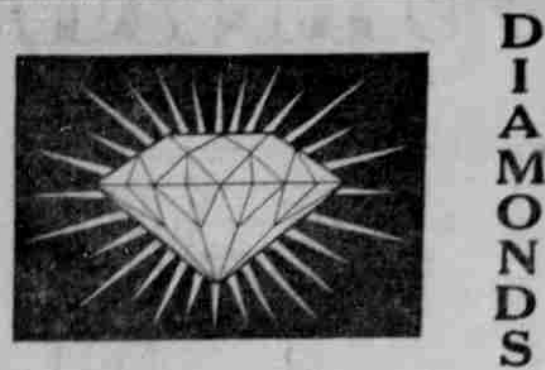

"The percents of increase from 1900 to 1910 in the geographic divisions are:

"New England, 12.7 per cent; middle Atlantic, 25.9; east north central, 14.2; west north central, 12.5; south Atlantic, 18.5; east south central, 11.4; west south central, 34.5; mountain, 25.3; Pacific, 75.5. The increase was 15.7 per cent in the northern section, 19.8 per cent in the southern section, and 66.8 per cent in the western section."

"The fact that the increase for the country as a whole was greater from 1900 to 1910 than in the preceding decade was due entirely to the added growth in the middle Atlantic, mountain and Pacific divisions. In all six of the other divisions the increase in the last decade was less than in the previous one."

HAIR RAISING EXPERIENCES OF PITTMAN

AMERICAN ADVENTURER BACK FROM NICARAGUA

Tells of Being Locked in Prison With Tons of Gun Powder Ready to Be Touched Off When Warden Gave Word.

(By Morning Journal Special Local Wire) New York, Dec. 10.—How it feels to live in a prison which also is used as a storehouse for several tons of powder, and to be told that the powder may be touched off almost any day, was told tonight by William B. Pittman, an American soldier of fortune, when he arrived here from Cristobal.

Pittman's prison adventure was only one of a good many which he has had in Nicaragua, whether he went to fight with the revolutionists. He was captured by the government forces at Bluefields, and there was debate whether he should be shot on the spot, but the warden said it, and he was marched off to General River's headquarters. Then he was sent to Managua, where he was thrown into prison. The commander of the prison, he said, decided that if the town was captured the powder would be blown up and the prisoners with it. On August 22 the revolutionists took the town, but the commander did not carry out his threat.

Pittman's home is in Cambridge, Mass. He left it when he was 16 years old, and served in the British army during the Boer war, and later served in the revolution in Venezuela. Then he went to Australia and thence to Panama, where he met several Nicaraguan liberals who were planning the revolution. He cast his lot with them and helped to organize the revolutionist forces and had a command when the war broke out.

LIBERALS RETAIN LEAD IN BRITISH ELECTIONS

London, Dec. 10.—The first week of the general elections ended with both political parties holding their own. Five hundred and two seats have been filled and each side gained twenty seats from the other. The completion of the new house of commons up to date is as follows:

Government coalition—Liberals, 182; Conservatives, 22; Nationalists, 58; Independent Liberals, 1. Total, 313.

Opposition—Conservative, 124; Unionists, 10; Labour, 10; Socialists, 10; Others, 10.

Disorderly scenes in election districts. Women engaged in electioneering have been hit with mud and stones, and the smashing of motor windows has become a favorite pastime.

TWO REVOLUTIONS THREATENED IN HONOURAS

Foreign Interests Fear Serious Trouble Unless They Are Afforded Protection by United States.

(By Morning Journal Special Local Wire) Puerto Cortes, Honduras, Dec. 10.—New Honduras, Dec. 10.—New Honduras has been threatened here, and Mexico guns pointed commanding the harbor. Foreign interests fear a double revolution is imminent, and that foreigners will suffer unless protection is afforded by the United States. Policarpo Bonilla is believed to be in Mexico, trying out an expedition to attack Puerto Cortes and Colaca, and an attack by force under former President Manuel Bonilla in a revolutionary movement distinct from that of Policarpo Bonilla also is feared.

An alarming feature of the situation is that many of the troops are disloyal. It is said that some of them will desert at a favorable opportunity.

GOODRON CLUB DINNER A SCREAM

VICTOR AND VANQUISHED TARGETS FOR CRITICISM

Miss Democracy Finds Trouble Selecting Presidential Candidate and Is Finally Relieved of Task by Wall Street.

(By Morning Journal Special Local Wire) Washington, Dec. 10.—Politics, past, present and future, was the dominant note at the annual dinner of the Goodron club tonight. President Taft was there with members of his cabinet; Vice President Sherman; senators and representatives in congress; latent presidential possibilities; newly-elected governors of states and many of mark some positions and all shades of political belief and ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiary of foreign countries who were numbered among the club's guests last night under the good glow of the brilliant chandeliers and the happy music of the orchestra. With tableaux and comedy sketch and topical song, in clever speech and moving picture, the incidents of the last campaign were recalled and grim forecasts made of the future.

And right wittily and with many a scintillating thrust of oratory did the objects of this attention retort upon their tormentors. Pardon for the moment were party differences; victor and vanquished joined hand and glove in repelling the attack of their critics. Clearing the way for the incoming democracy, "Uncle Joe" Cannon was swept aside and in a short embodying a parody upon the Mikado, he was sentenced to decapitation. It was left to him to select his executioner. Victor Murrack he declared, was "too busy" while he feared Senator La Follette would talk him to death. The man he selected as of strong arm and sure, an old friend, was "Ko Ko" Longworth. Just in the nick of time President Taft in the person of the Mikado, stayed the hand of the executioner and commuted "Uncle Joe's" sentence to staying in congress, as a helpless minority and to being chained to his seat during the debate on the house rules. The catchy chorus of "My smile is still serene," "As phony may be seen," "No matter how they may jump the track and better the old machine."

"For I am quite content," "To do the work that's meant," "For a big American president," "American president," "A furious cracking of whips and clanking of chains and ropes," "Geddy," and stamping of boots, vinted the approach of a tumultuous party from outside. It portrayed the redemption of Champ Clark, famous anti-slavery pledge to ride down Pennsylvania, and a telegram of votes if he were elected speaker. The actor who represented Mr. Clark was clothed in farmers' costumes with big whip, overalls, wide felt hat and hickory shirt. He was riding a two-wheeled cart, carrying his wife and shouting at his milks, christened "Boo" and "Fitz." Dragging behind in heavy chains were Cannon, Duffell and Payne. At every other step the actors yelled defiantly, "dictator," "Czar!"

Orlando Jones introduced Clark as the new speaker, and the latter promptly sentenced his prisoners to various punishments, such as the assignment of Cannon to the chairmanship of the committee on "Disposition of Excess Paper" (where the Aldrich-Payne-Smoot tariff was assigned), while Payne and Duffell were to be charged by the committee on "Disposal of Excess Paper," but had only gotten to the point where he declared for free trade when the party broke up in a row.

One of the guests at first could not believe the little old "Miss Democracy" in the brawny, big-nosed, large-waisted and bushy-haired female in evening dress, who occupied in solitary state the place of honor on the stage. Clark, an elderly man, dressed in a suit and with a white hair, was also firm in her attitude and presented a face of flint to her suitors. She announced that she was not a shimmering old maid, but was militant; that she was taking this job for the first time in sixteen years and had chartered it for a million dollars. When she died, she said, she would be buried in the "R. R. before election day."

At the critical moment, Governor Judson Harmon came to the rescue and climbed into the band-wagon. When his right was challenged he declared that he was the logical candidate, the friend of the masses, and the classes were friends of his. But Miss Democracy declared that he would have to wait for two years to see what he could do with a democratic legislature, so Harmon climbed down.

Dix was the next aspirant for favor claiming his best virtue of a ticket bearing an "O. K." by Charles F. Murphy, and because of his versatility, but Miss Democracy insisted that he trouble with the democratic party and that he should wait for two years to see what he could do with a democratic legislature, so Harmon climbed down.

Judge Baldwin made an effort to climb into a seat on the ground that he was a great legal light but Miss Democracy answered: "What has law got to do with the democratic party? The republicans made all the laws. We are going back to make new ones," and off went Baldwin. Fox had for better luck when he tried to "butt in" for the best that Miss Democracy would promise was to look him over after he had gone out to see Lodge.

Woodrow Wilson had his turn on the strength of being the "National Voice," but democracy said that what was wanted was a "National Silence," while as to his claim of Virginia birth, she said, "You showed your mother at an early age."

Her demand for some other qualifications than blunders, sent Kern to the right about and when Fox endeavored to board the vehicle with an endorsement from Bryan, he was cut off by the head with a stuffed club.

Bryan himself was not even allowed to set foot on the wagon step, and as the various candidates were quarrelling among themselves, Wall Street, paraded by a portly gentleman in a silk hat and wearing much jewelry settled the matter by dragging off Miss Democracy with the declaration that "I am the person who will decide which side on that wagon."

The republican elements among the guests, while enjoying the tribulations of the democratic candidates had their north temperance from time to time as the hall was darkened for a few moments while a projecting lantern threw upon the screen bulletin showing how the tidal wave of democracy was sweeping over the one-time republican strongholds.

TWO HUNDRED FAMILIES ARE MADE HOMELESS

Home, Dec. 10.—Heavy rain storms have caused serious floods, especially in North Italy. Landslides have occurred, obstructing railways and several bridges are down. The river Po is thirteen feet above normal and it is feared the dikes may be swept away.

In the province of Potenza a landslide partly buried a village. Many houses were wrecked and 200 families are homeless.

MOB REPULSED BY PLUCKY JAILER IN GEORGIA

Cheated of Their Victim, One of Enraged Rioters Shoots Man in Charge of Prisoner; Militia Restores Order.

(By Morning Journal Special Local Wire) Columbus, Ga., Dec. 11.—At 1 o'clock this morning a mob of about 200 men made an attack on the county jail in an effort to secure a negro prisoner charged with attempt to assault a young woman here several nights ago. The jailer warned the mob before the attack that he would fire on the first man who attempted to enter and when the attack was made he fired a number of shots wounding two men. The jailer was shot in the breast but it is not believed that he is fatally wounded. After about 100 shots had been fired members of the police force and militia arrived and dispersed the mob.

VENTURESOME YOUTHS TO SAIL THROUGH THE GRAND CANYON IN FRAIL CANOE

Delta, Colo., Dec. 10.—Three young men whose homes are in this city, today started on a trip to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river in Arizona, in a home-built canoe. Their names are C. P. Wheeler, E. P. Muir and H. M. Kirby.

Launching their craft on the Gunnison river at this point, the youths, with it successful, continue their journey down to the junction of the Grand river, at Grand Junction, Colo., and on through Utah where the Grand and Green rivers form the Colorado. Although approximately 400 miles as the crow flies, the distance to be covered by water before reaching the destination selected is perhaps five or six times that.

THREE SEAMEN HURT BY EXPLOSION ON SUBMARINE

One May Die as Result of Serious Accident Aboard Grampus in San Diego Bay.

(By Morning Journal Special Local Wire) San Diego, Cal., Dec. 10.—By the explosion of a defective intake valve of the engine of the submarine boat Grampus at noon today, three seamen were killed and three injured, one so badly that it is expected that he will die. The accident occurred just as the boat was pulling alongside the wharf at Coronado at a practice spin in the bay. The injured seamen are: Herman Lay, aged 22, chief electrician, skull fractured, jaw broken and bones in face broken. May die. J. H. Cooke, badly bruised. P. H. Moul, cut and bruised.

Previous to the accident the Grampus had spent more than an hour diving in the bay and running on the surface. In the afternoon Lay was removed to a local hospital, where Dr. Stearns, surgeon of the torpedo fleet, and Dr. Davidson of the United States steamship hospital performed upon him the operation of trepanning. A clot of blood was removed from the sailor's brain. At the end of the operation it was announced that the right eye, which had been "crossed," presented a normal appearance. The doctors decline to predict the outcome of Lay's injuries. A board, composed of Ensigns Stewart and Donovan and Chief Machinist Burkhardt, were named to investigate the accident and place the responsibility for the explosion. The inquiry will begin tomorrow.

ANOTHER FIGHT ON RULES BY G. O. P. INSURGENTS

Regard Election as Vindication of Insurgent Cause and Want to Put Democrats on Record at Once.

(Morning Journal Bureau.) 611 Munsey Building. Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—Insurgent leaders in the house of representatives are planning another fight against the rules, and in all probability it will take place during the short session of congress. This is the consensus of opinion among the republican progressives who have conferred on committee.

Two reasons prompt the resumption of hostilities, according to the insurgent leaders. The first is that the election of November 8 was a vindication for the insurgent cause and a command to continue the revision of the rules. The second reason they declare to be the necessity of putting the democrats on record at the earliest possible opportunity.

Informal conferences are already being held among the insurgents, and several drafts and resolutions have been submitted, all of them embodying the proposition of a committee on committee.

"Further reform in the rules of the house has got to come sooner or later," said Congressman George W. Norris to the Journal's correspondent. Mr. Norris was the author of the resolution which deprived the speaker of his membership on the committee on rules and which resulted in the members of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee being elected by the house.

"There is no reason why we should postpone this matter," continued Mr. Norris. "The congressional campaign was made largely on the question of the high cost of living as a result of tariff and Cannonism. Cannonism means the rules. Cannonism in the Sixty-first congress will merely mean Clarkson in the Sixty-second congress unless we take immediate action."

"I am heartily in favor of getting consideration on this question at once. If we are beaten then we can go to the country on that issue. Between March 4, 1911, and December 6 of the same year the citizens will have plenty of opportunity to tell their congressmen what they must do about better rules, and I am convinced that the house in the Sixty-second congress will not dare adopt the rules as they exist today."

Trouble was started for the house organization at the last session when it was less expected, and it is more than probable that the next rules fight will begin some day when Speaker Cannon and his followers are off their guard. Several insurgents will make it their business to be in the house at all times, with a committee on committee resolution ready for introduction at the proper moment.

These insurgents believe that they will have far more strength on the republican side at this session than they had at the last, but they are doubtful about the number of democrats who will be able to muster for the proposition.

Boy Scouts to Learn Effective Methods of Fighting the Flames

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Spokane, Wash., Dec. 9.—Training in the methods of preventing and fighting forest fires will probably be included in the work of Spokane boy scouts in the future. E. T. Allen, director of the Western Forestry and Conservation association, said recently that he hoped to secure the cooperation of the Spokane scout troops to help spread the knowledge of fire danger among the boys of the entire northwest. Carl Allen, Jr., and Roy David W. Ferry, the leaders of the scout movement in Spokane, stated that they believed the training of every scout should include some work in relation to forest fires. "The boy scouts should be able to help us greatly in our work," said Forester Allen. "The association is now preparing a series of leaflets intended for distribution through the schools to every boy and girl in the state of Washington teaching the need of protective legislation and care in respect to fires."

ROOT WINS SIX DAY BICYCLE RACE

Does 2,545 Miles and Three Laps, Nearly Two Hundred Miles Behind Record.

(By Morning Journal Special Lined Wire)

New York, Dec. 10.—Eddy Root, of the Root-Moran team, finished first tonight in the final mile dash that decided the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. His time for the mile was three minutes, 56 1/2 seconds, and his distance for the six days, 2,545 miles, 3 laps.

Jackie Clarke, of the Root-Clarke team finished second by half a wheel, Joe Fonger, of the Foster-Hill team, third, and Patrick Hehir, of the Goulet-Hehir team, fourth. Root and Moran divided $1,500, the prize for first place. The record is 2,737 miles, one lap, made by MacFarland and Moran in 1908.

Since in the race this year was shown in the average and totals, it was marked by bursts of furious sprinting. In the early hours while the weaker teams were being weeded out the riders were far ahead of all previous figures but when the competition narrowed down to the real contenders there was a slackening of interest until penalties began to occur.

Two veteran teams—Clarke and MacFarland, and Root and Stot—disbanded and formed the reconstructed team of the Root-Clarke, which accepted the penalty of two laps always imposed on new partners. MacFarland became their coaching leader and the new alignment provoked the bitterest jealousy.

In the decisive mile Root led at a slow pace in the first three laps, still led at an increased pace during the next two laps and then went at racing speed and beat Clarke home by half a wheel.

Notwithstanding there were so few serious accidents there was much foul riding and the judges imposed many penalties for unfair jockeying, pocketing and improper reliefs.

Final score: 142 hours: Root, 2,545 miles, 3 laps, $1,500; Clarke, 2,455 miles, 3 laps, $1,000; Fonger, 2,455 miles, 3 laps, $1,000; Hehir, 2,455 miles, 3 laps, $1,000.

Fourth: Patrick O'Sullivan Hehir, New Zealand, and Alfred Goulet, Australia, 2,455 miles, 3 laps, $600.

Fifth: W. L. Mitten, Davenport, Ia., and Floyd Thomas, San Francisco, 2,455 miles, one lap, $350.

Sixth: Fred West, San Francisco, and Walter Demara, San Francisco, 2,455 miles, one lap, $350.

Seventh: George Cameron, New York, and Alfred Hahndorf, San Francisco, 2,455 miles, $200.

RACING RESULTS

At Juarez, Mexico, Dec. 10.—Jack Atkin, the heavily backed favorite, scored a very easy victory in the Tampico handicap, 6 furlongs at Tampico park today. He was given a running start when he passed under the wire a winner and it was renewed when he returned to the scales. Jack Atkin was the medium of a terrific plunge at post time. From 8 to 5 he was played down to even money. Round the World set the pace for the first quarter when Jack Atkin went into the lead and won, galloping by three lengths. The mutual machines proved a success.

Summary: First race, selling, 2-year-olds, 6 furlongs: Commendation won; Cat, second; Bullela, third. Time, 1:13.5. Second race, selling, 3-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs: Excuse won; Toy Foot, second; Rio Peros, third. Time, 1:14. Third race, handicap, all ages, mile: Injury won; Dorante, second; Ocean Queen, third. Time, 1:22.5. Fourth race, Tampico handicap, all ages, 6 furlongs: Jack Atkin won; Helmet, second; Round the World, third. Time, 1:11.4.5. Fifth race, selling, 3-year-olds and up, 7 furlongs: Miss Calverton won; Egan Casey, second; Gladys Louder, third. Time, 1:27.5. Sixth race, selling, 2-year-olds and up, 5 1/2 furlongs: Hidden Hand won; Gane Wood, second; James Buckstock, third. Time, 1:08.

At Emeryville, Oakland, Dec. 10.—Black Mate, heavily weighted and finding sloppy going to his liking, won the Sacramento handicap at Emeryville today. Bubbling Water and Spellbound were most favored, but Black Mate took command in the last quarter and won easily. Spellbound was second, and the heavily weighted Bubbling Water third. Garner piloted the winner.

First race, futurity course: Box won; Burnell, second; Argonaut, third. Time, 1:12.5.

Second race, futurity course, selling: Gold Ball won; Ben Stone, second; Profit, third. Time, 1:12.5. Third race, 5 1/2 furlongs: Metropolitan won; John H. Sheehan, second; Thistle Bell, third. Time, 1:08.

Fourth race, mile and 1/4: Sacramento handicap: Black Mate won; Spellbound, second; Bubbling Water, third. Time, 1:43.5.

Fifth race, futurity course: Black Sheep won; Prosper, second; Swagstar, third. Time, 1:11.5.

Sixth race, 3 furlongs: Great Jubilee won; Big Stick, second; Novgorod, third. Time, 1:09.

At Pensacola, Fla., Dec. 10.—Heavy rain dampened enthusiasm in the sport and made the racing today featureless. The hurdle race, over four flights of obstacles was spectacular and resulted in a clever victory for Octopus, the second choice.

First race, 4 1/2 furlongs: 1:12.5. Third race, 5 1/2 furlongs: P. O. McCarthy won; Hatchcock, second; Proch, third. Time, 1:39.5.

Second race, 6 1/2 furlongs: Bright

Madden won; Cry Baby, second; Blanche Frances, third. Time, 1:27.4.5.

Third race, mile: Dander won; Alton H. second; Ben Goodwin, third. Time, 1:47.3.5.

Fourth race, one mile: Louis Katz won; Sam Bernard, second; T. H. McBride, third. Time, 1:49.

Fifth race, hurdles, about a mile: Octopus won; Alvin, second; Dr. Heard, third. Time, 2:00.1.5.

Sixth race, 6 furlongs: Autumn Rose won; Whiptoe, second; Fundamental, third. Time, 1:11.4.5.

At Jacksonville, Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 10.—Pleasant weather and a high class card were responsible for some excellent sport at Moncrief this afternoon.

In the St. Augustine handicap, today's feature, Tom Hayward, a 9 to 1 shot, after a grueling stretch drive got up in time to win by a head from Donald MacDonald, who found his weight of 128 pounds too great for the mile and sixteenth race.

First race, 5 1/2 furlongs: Oakley won; Carliff, second; Colotta, third. Time, 1:08.

Second race, 7 furlongs: Abrasion won; Shapide, second; E. T. Shipp, third. Time, 1:27.3.5.

Third race, mile: Afton won; Washy, second; Gold Oak, third. Time, 1:40.4.5.

Fourth race, St. Augustine handicap, mile and a sixteenth: Tom Hayward won; Donald MacDonald, second; Reshoun, third. Time, 1:49.

Fifth race, 6 furlongs: Alfred the Great won; Tolson D'O, second; King Ayvalide, third. Time, 1:11.3.5.

Sixth race, mile and an eighth: St. Joseph won; Canale, second; Aronduck, third. Time, 1:53.4.5.

O'KELLY TO TRY OUT BOMBARDIER WELLS

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Con O'Kelly, the Syracuse candidate for the world's heavyweight ring title, will fight Bombardier Wells, English champion, for the championship of England before the National Sporting club of London during Derby week. If negotiations now pending between the American and English managers, C. P. Mathison, and O'Kelly's manager, Tommy Ryan, are completed.

Aviators Keep Close to Ground. Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 10.—Except for two short cross-country flights by Moisant and Barrier, today's aviation program consisted of near-around flying. In alighting from a short flight, Fieble's biplane was partially wrecked but he was unharmed.

Paras aggregating $10,000 have been pledged and the meeting will be extended until December 14.

MANY ENTRIES IN BOWLING MEET

Tournament of American Congress in St. Louis Next Month Expected to Put Everything in the Shade.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal] St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 10.—In an interview with M. A. Phillips, vice president of the American Bowling Congress, with reference to the International tournament to be held in St. Louis, commencing January 21, 1917, that gentleman stated that beyond question the entries at St. Louis would be far greater than in previous years. Mr. Phillips said: "I well remember at the Milwaukee tournament in 1905, where they had 217 five-man teams, 455 two-man teams and 813 individuals, and a cash prize list of $11,610. It was predicted that never again would there be such a grand bowling tournament as that held in Milwaukee. In 1906 Louisville came back with a cash prize fund of $12,418, showing an increase in the number of entries in all three events, viz: five-men, two-men and individuals. Then at St. Louis in 1907, with the N. E. A. an eastern organization holding its first tournament in Atlantic City, there was a certain amount of sectional pride between the two cities and members of the N. E. A. and A. B. C. An enormous sum of money was spent in advertising both tournaments. St. Louis carried off honors with 244 five-man teams, 512 two-man teams and 1026 individuals, or a total cash prize fund of $13,897 against the N. B. A. entry of 121 five-man teams, 244 two-man teams and 493 individuals, or a total cash prize fund of $11,610. In 1908 Philadelphia came back with an increase of twelve five-man teams, 20 doubles and 82 individuals and an increase of over $900 in the total cash prize fund.

"At Detroit in 1910 there was a total entry of 401 five-man teams, 556 two-man teams and 2007 individuals, or a cash prize list of $25,432. The city of Detroit, while not considered a great bowling city had an entry of 65 local five-man teams, which was a very good showing, considering the size of the city. There is no question but what St. Louis will have an entry of 125 local five-man teams. With the best organized city association in the country and the most enthusiastic bowlers in the world, St. Louis bowling fans will make good on their local entry and will set a mark hard to beat by future tournament cities. The enlarged membership of the executive committee, which includes representatives from additional localities over previous years, is another factor that will tend to increase the total entry throughout the country."

"Another point that will create interest in the St. Louis tournament is that there will be numerous contests for honors among the officials and members of the executive committee of the A. B. C. It has always been considered an honor to serve as an officer of the parent body, and there will be an active campaign by prospective candidates along these lines. At least three cities are lining up to make a bid for the 1912 A. B. C. tournament, and all of these conditions insure an increased attendance at the St. Louis convention and tournament, which means an increased entry and a greater cash prize fund.

"The St. Louis promoters are working hand in hand with Secretary Langtry of the A. B. C. and their combined efforts will demonstrate that the 1911 tournament of the A. B. C. will far excel the Detroit meeting in point of entries in the different events, the total cash prizes and general enthusiasm and interest in the tournament and convention at St. Louis next January."

REMARKABLE BIPLANE FLIGHT AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Dec. 10.—Piloting his triplane through the fog and smoke laden atmosphere of a break, Charles F. Willard, the aviator, accomplished here today what he regarded as the most remarkable inter-city flight ever made west of Mississippi. At a height of 2,000 feet above the highest buildings of this city, he circled over Los Angeles, sped at thirty miles an hour to Pasadena, whirled and turned close to the rugged crests of the mountains that surround that city, and then returned—a total distance of forty-seven miles without a stop or mishap of any sort.

Short Flights at New Orleans. New Orleans, Dec. 10.—J. A. D. McCarty and James Ward made several short flights at the aviation field this afternoon. A gusty wind prevented any attempts at sensational performances. The meet was closed today.

Havana Defeat Philadelphia. Havana, Dec. 10.—The Havana baseball team defeated the Philadelphia club of the American league today by 5 to 3.

FIFTEEN STATES SEND BIRDS TO COCK FIGHT

Monroe, La., Dec. 10.—The first event of a ten day cocking main, said to be the largest since the civil war, took place here today. Today's main was between W. L. Crook of Valdun, Okla., and W. L. Allen of Morgan, Miss., the latter winner. There was a side bet of $1,000 and $100 bet on each of the seventeen battles. Nearly $10,000 changed hands. Several hundred persons are here including large delegations from San Francisco and Chicago.

Fifteen states are represented with a total of 2,000 chickens entered in the main.

BILLY LITTLE AX CLAIMS LANDS IN MEXICO

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 10.—Arrived with a letter of introduction from Governor Haskell of Oklahoma to Governor Sanchez of Chihuahua, Billy Little Ax, with two other big Shawnee Indians, from Oklahoma, is in Chihuahua, Mexico, to claim a tract of land sixty miles square, in what is now the state of Chihuahua. It is claimed by the Indians that a long time ago the Shawnees owned this tract and the three Indians are now searching the records for the title to the land. The letter from Governor Haskell is as follows:

"The bearers of this letter are three Shawnee Indians, one of these is a grandson of our most famous Chief Tecumseh. They are Shawnees, and their tribe, contrary to the disposition of our native Indians, has always been loyal to the state and general government, and they lived. The Spanish documents in the archives at Austin, Texas, relating to these people, under date of October 24, 1834, recite, in part, as follows: The Shawnees, and those accompanying them, are both enterprising and industrious, and if given an award of land, which they come soliciting, would be a protection to their capital against the raids of the Wacos, and all other fierce and marauding Indians who have heretofore so often harassed us. It appears to be the purpose of the Indians to look up the title to some lands within your state that they believe was granted to them through their forefathers, which lands for service rendered your city and state in reconciling and subduing the Apache and other Indians about the year 1810. In this state they have long been peaceful and law-abiding, and as such citizens I commend them to you."

The old chief speaks English better than most of the old time Indians. Billy says that there has been a great change, not only in the conditions, but in the manners and customs of the Indians of his part of the country during the past thirty years. Before that time, the average Indian, owing mainly to the uncivilized state in which he had been accustomed to live, and the abundance of game all over the west, was almost void of ambition, so far as wealth was concerned, but the white man came and overpowered the nomadic bands of his forefathers, established schools in which the little Indians were taught the ways of the world, of which they had always been living in blissful ignorance; the game including the buffalo, was about all killed off, and when the various tribes were finally compelled to go to work on the lands that had been given them by the government, they began to realize the value of money and to appreciate the earning capacity of their lands. At first the majority of Indians did not look upon the schools with much favor, but as civilization poured in upon them, and they were turned from their ways of transgression, the older heads became more enlightened and finally asked the children to go to school, so that, nearly all of the Indians are now prosperous and ambitious. They have learned, in a great measure, to emulate the white man in upholding the laws of the land and as seekers after knowledge.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR NEW MEXICO FOR 1912

AGGREGATE OVER ONE QUARTER OF A MILLION

Increase of $1,000 Allowed Secretary Jaffa; Twenty-five Thousand Postoffice and Court-house.

Morning Journal Bureau. 613 Munsey Building, Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.

In his book of estimates of appropriations required for the public service of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, sent to congress by the secretary of the treasury, is contained the following items of interest to both New Mexico and Arizona.

For the government of the territory of New Mexico—Salaries: Governor, $5,000; chief justice and six associate judges, at $2,000 each, $21,000; secretary, $1,800; interpreter and translator in the executive office, $500; contingent expenses of the territory, including not to exceed $500 for traveling expenses of the governor while absent from the capital on official business, $1,500.

For legislative expenses, namely: Rent, fuel, telephone, ice water, stationery, record files, record casing, printing, postage, express, messenger and typewriter, $1,500; rent, drayage, towels, books of reference for office use (one thousand dollars increase for above objects submitted), $24,250.

In a note attached to the estimates, signed by Nathan Jaffa, secretary of New Mexico, the following statement is made:

"It has been found necessary to increase the salary of the chief clerk in my office to $1,500 per annum, thus requiring the expenditure of the sum of $2,500 for salaries alone. It will be readily seen, therefore, that the appropriation of $1,500 heretofore made is entirely inadequate to meet the increased expense of this office, and I earnestly request that the appropriation be increased to $4,000, as submitted. The statement of June 20, 1910, having provided that no session of the territorial legislature shall be held in 1911, it has been ruled that only $2,000 of the appropriation of $4,250 for legislative expenses for the fiscal year June 30, 1911, may be used for the expenses of my office."

The increase of $1,000 in the secretary's office was recommended. Salaries of surveyor general of New Mexico and for clerk in his office, $13,000; for pay of messenger, stationery, printing, drafting instruments, plans, drawing paper, binding records, telephone, registration of letters, postoffice box, rent, drayage, towels, books of reference for office use, and other incidental expenses, $1,000.

No recommendation was made to provide an appropriation for the completion of the Albuquerque postoffice, however, an appropriation of $25,000 was made by the secretary of the treasury for continuation of the erection of the Albuquerque post office building at Roosevelt, N. M.

For the support and education of 200 Indians at the Albuquerque Indian school, and for pay of the superintendent, and general repairs and improvements, $56,500. The estimate this year is $4,000 less than appropriated last fiscal year.

For the support and education of 200 Indian pupils at the Santa Fe Indian school, pay for superintendent, general repairs and improvements, for water supply, in all $58,500 (same appropriation as last year).

For pay of a special attorney for the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico, $1,500; and $500 additional for necessary traveling expenses of the attorney.

Estimates for Arizona. For the government of the territory of Arizona: salary of governor, $5,000; chief justice and four associate judges, at $2,000 each, $15,000; secretary, $1,800; interpreter and translator in the executive office, $500; contingent expenses of Arizona, including not to exceed $500 for traveling expenses of the governor while absent from the capital on official business, $1,500.

Expenses of the legislature: For rent, messenger, postage, stationery, fuel, lights, printing, and incidental expenses for secretary's office; for pay of members and officers of the legislative assembly, mileage, rent of rooms, for the legislature and committee, furniture, stationery, printing, binding, fuel, lights and incidentals, in all $1,500.

No recommendation or estimate is submitted for the continuation of the construction of the Phoenix postoffice building.

For support and education of 200 Indian pupils at the Fort Mojave Indian school, pay of the superintendent, and general repairs and improvements, in all $38,160, which is $1,000 less than the last appropriation.

For the support and education of 200 Indian pupils at the Fort Mojave Indian school, pay of the superintendent, and general repairs and improvements, in all $38,160, which is $1,000 less than the last appropriation.

For the support and education of 200 Indian pupils at the Fort Mojave Indian school, pay of the superintendent, and general repairs and improvements, in all $38,160, which is $1,000 less than the last appropriation.

For the support and education of 200 Indian pupils at the Fort Mojave Indian school, pay of the superintendent, and general repairs and improvements, in all $38,160, which is $1,000 less than the last appropriation.

For the support and education of 200 Indian pupils at the Fort Mojave Indian school, pay of the superintendent, and general repairs and improvements, in all $38,160, which is $1,000 less than the last appropriation.

AT THE SIGN OF THE INDIAN HORSE

Surprising Series of Special Sales

For a long time we have wondered if Special Bargain Sales were a paying proposition. This year we are planning to test the idea carefully, and to that end have decided to hold special discount sales every day from now until Christmas. Read the offers below and note the different days; also watch the morning papers for further announcements.

EVERY DAY'S THE DAY!

MONDAY, DEC. 12th

20% off on Drawnwork

Our entire line of Gollies, Center Pieces, Scarfs, Handkerchiefs, Lace Collars and hundreds of odd and fancy pieces are offered at 20 per cent off regular prices all day Monday, December 12th.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 14th

25% off on Moccasins—5 Styles

We have by far the largest stock of Moccasins in the southwest, and for this day only offer the entire line at a reduction of 25 per cent from the regular prices. There are all sizes from Baby's No. 1 to men's No. 12.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16th

30% off on Navajo Rugs

Our complete stock of all grades and all sizes goes on sale for this day only at 30 per cent off the regular marked prices as shown on the tags. Navajo Pillow Tops are also included in this offer.

TUESDAY, DEC. 13th

33 1/3% off on Florentine Mosaic

This is a mighty attractive line, and but little known in the west. The Brooches, Collar pins, Crosses, Necklaces, Scarf Pins, etc., etc., are wonderfully wrought of tiny pieces of colored stone, in beautiful and intricate patterns.

THURSDAY, DEC. 15th

50% off on Pompeian Ware Japanese Vases

This line is overlooked by many people, but shouldn't be, as every piece is of remarkable grace and beauty. Our stock is larger and you can find much in it that will help to solve your Christmas worries.

SATURDAY, DEC. 17th

20% off on Leather Goods

This applies to all Leather Goods in the store, except Moccasins. The line comprises Arts and Crafts leathers, already marked at much lower figures than ever before. Burnt Pillows and 999 small articles.

Central Avenue and First Street

These diseases is the fact that the majority of beekeepers are unaware that any such diseases exist; they therefore often attribute their losses to other sources, and nothing is done to prevent the spread of the infection. It is therefore necessary, in most cases, to point out the existence and nature of the diseases, as well as to spread information concerning the best methods of treatment. Several states have passed laws providing for the inspection of apiaries for diseases, and the beekeepers in other states are asking for the same protection, so that careless or ignorant beekeepers can be prevented from endangering their neighbor's bees. This inspection is a benefit in the spread of information concerning disease, insofar as the inspectors can cover the territory. The department of agriculture is helping in this work by sending out publications to the beekeepers in infected regions, by examining samples of brood suspected of disease, and by sending out information concerning the presence of disease, so that beekeepers will be informed that their apiaries are in danger. The co-operation of agricultural colleges, state beekeepers' associations, and other similar agencies being urged.

In view of the fact that these diseases are so widespread, every person interested in bee-keeping should find out as soon as possible how to recognize and treat these maladies, and be on the lookout for them. A publication containing a discussion of the nature of these diseases and their treatment will be sent on request to the department of agriculture.

Adam Smith Redivivus.

Adam Smith—an ardent though by no means unqualified free trader—thought in 1776 that the adoption of a free trade policy by Great Britain was quite beyond the bounds of possibility. That Adam Smith lived to see what changes took place in the course of the century following, he would probably have said in 1876 that free trade would never be abandoned by any country which had once adopted it. Who would venture on a prediction now? It is among the possibilities that Great Britain herself will turn again to some sort of restrictive trade policy.—Professor F. W. Taussig in the Atlantic.

NORMAN MAYO IS INSTANTLY KILLED

WELL KNOWN YOUNG MAN
MEETS A TRAGIC DEATH

Pierced Through Heart as Result of Accidental Discharge of Shotgun While Going on Hunting Trip.

Norman Mayo, twenty-two years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mayo, of 1525 West Central avenue, was shot and killed shortly after 7 o'clock last night, as the result of the accidental discharge of a shotgun. The deplorable accident occurred near Los Candelarias, several miles north of Albuquerque. The dead boy, together with his brother, Glover, and a friend named Simon, left the Mayo residence at 5 o'clock last evening, intending to hunt ducks up the Rio Grande. Glover and Simon were sitting on the front seat, Glover doing the driving. Norman was on the rear seat, with a loaded shotgun leaning against his shoulder. A hunting dog was in the bed of the wagon. In some unexplainable manner the gun was discharged, the full charge of shot striking Norman directly in the region of the heart. Death resulted in less than two minutes. Horrified at the terrible accident, Glover, the dead boy's brother, hastened to Los Candelarias and telephoned the news to his father at Albuquerque. Mr. Mayo and his wife were prostrated at the sudden and tragic death of their son.

French and Lovber's ambulance was sent to Candelarias for the body, which was brought to Albuquerque at 9 o'clock last night. Funeral arrangements will be announced some time today.

Young Mr. Mayo had resided in Albuquerque practically his whole life. He was until a year ago a student at the University of New Mexico. For some time past he was connected with the A. Fletcher real estate agency. The death of Norman Mayo will come as a great shock to his numerous friends and acquaintances in Albuquerque and elsewhere throughout the territory. A bright boy, handsome, with a winning disposition, he made friends by the score. The deep sympathy of the entire community will go with the Mayo family in their great sorrow.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE SIX MILE HIKE DOWN RIVER

Spend Day Drilling and Playing Football at Hubbell Ranch; Night Meeting at Commercial Club.

The Albuquerque Boy Scouts pulled off an exploring expedition to the wilds of Hubbell's ranch at Pajarito yesterday, leaving at 9:30 in the morning and returning home, dust-covered, tired and happy at 4:30 in the evening, after spending the day drilling, playing football and seeing the sights down the river. It was six miles down and six miles back and a good long six miles at that, but the boys enjoyed it and had the time of their lives. After they had eaten everything in sight at supper they gathered again last night at the Commercial club where they were addressed by Amado Chavez and Judge

E. A. Mann, who complimented the boys on their organization, and gave them some useful advice about smoking, drinking, and other undesirable practices, pointing out the benefits, physical, mental and moral which they will receive in the movement which has been so successfully started here.

The boys then elected the following officers: Floyd Lee, chairman of expeditions; Amado Chavez, Jr., chairman of finance and press; Charles Mayo, treasurer. The other officers elected December 1 are James J. Trainor, president; Maurice Barth, vice-president; and Frank O'Reilly, secretary.

UNIVERSITY HOLDS ANNUAL PLAY THURSDAY

"The Toastmaster" Three Act Comedy Full of Furious Fun and College Stunts.

A rollicking college play full of the snap and zip of college life will be put on the boards Thursday night by the Dramatic club of the University.

"The Toastmaster" is a play of three acts with humor chasing fast movement and is sure to go off with a vim under the capable management of Miss May Rose who is staging the production.

There is quite a bit of plot, the cast has been rehearsing steadily and the individual work is of splendid promise. The cast is as follows: Tovel Fairfax, toastmaster; Billy Morgan (who loves and owns); Professor Reed, (who has something to say); Raymond Seder; Bob Kenmark, a sophomore; Karl Karsten; Henry Reed, freshman; Bob Sewell; George McIntosh, another freshman; Tom, also a freshman; J. Allen; Cynthia Reed, daughter of Prof. Reed; Julia Pickard; Mrs. Reed, (who has nothing to say); Marie Parrish; Buzzer, (who has too much to say); Miss Hazel Cox.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO TALK FAIR ON TUESDAY

Plans for Next Annual Event to Be Thrashed Out With Heart to Heart Talks From Officials

The annual New Mexico fair—shall it have more pumpkins and less merry-go-rounds; the relative merits of fast horses and prize catches; how best to get enough money out of the legislature to make it go; bigger prizes for farmers instead of for baseball teams; these are some of the phases of the question which will be thoroughly discussed at a meeting of the Commercial club to be held Tuesday night. The last discussion of plans for the fair at the club brought out a strong sentiment among business men for a state fair more in the line of a strictly resources exposition, with less of the amusement feature and greater inducements to farmers to display their products. The meeting Tuesday will receive added interest by reason of heart-to-heart talks by President J. H. O'Reilly, secretary John B. McManus and Treasurer Roy McDonald of the last fair who will tell from experience of some of the troubles incident to the fair management and the needs of the institution. It is also planned to start work for the next fair as soon as possible, and after a general plan of action has been decided upon.

PHONE OFFICIALS TO ARRIVE HERE THIS WEEK

President and General Manager of Colorado Company With Party on Inspection Tour in Southwest.

A party of officials of the Colorado Telephone company, engaged in making an inspection tour of the service in the southwest, will arrive in this city Wednesday or Thursday next to look over the Albuquerque properties of the company. In the party were E. B. Field, president of the Colorado company, president of the Tri-State Telephone company, and Philip Hamlin, vice-president of the Tri-State Telephone company. The party was in Roswell yesterday, and goes from there to El Paso and thence to Albuquerque.

SHOP EARLY STUDY BY GOLDEN RULE AIDS EMPLOYEES

Liberal Discount Offered by Big Store on Christmas Purchases Made in the Morning; Unique Proposition.

By a unique proposition to the shopping public, the big Golden Rule Dry Goods company has demonstrated its desire to lighten the burden of Christmas work for its employees, and extend first aid to the public in the "shop-early" crusade. As will be seen in its big advertisement in another part of this issue, the Golden Rule offers 10 per cent discount on all purchases for the next ten days, which are made at the store between the hours of 8:30 and 10:30 in the morning. Ten per cent off on regular Golden Rule prices presents an opportunity that will be appreciated by Christmas shoppers.

It is a generous and at the same time practical move on the part of the management of the big store which will be appreciated equally by employees and shoppers.

All those who take advantage of this proposition are asked to present at the time of making the purchase one of the coupons attached to the advertisement.

EQUITABLE AGENTS WILL MEET HERE TOMORROW

Henry L. Rosenfeld, Assistant to President Paul Morton, to Meet Western Representatives of Big Insurance Company.

Albuquerque will have the honor Monday of entertaining a number of western representatives of the Equitable Life Assurance company, who will gather here to meet and confer with Henry L. Rosenfeld, assistant to Paul Morton, president of the Equitable. General agents and field agents of the company, as well as other officers of the company, will be in attendance at the meeting, which will be held in the Commercial club, beginning at 3:30 Monday morning. Representatives of the company will be here from Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. Eugene M. Brewster, agency cashier, with headquarters in Denver, arrived in the city yesterday to attend the meeting. W. W. Booth, general agent, will arrive today. Mr. Rosenfeld is also expected to arrive at noon today. Banking next to President Morton in the executive management of the Equitable, Mr. Rosenfeld is recognized as one of the best life insurance men in the United States.

The fact that Albuquerque was selected as the meeting place for the southwestern agents is an indication that this city is recognized as the most central place in the southwest.

PACKED HOUSE WILL GREET PASSION PLAY TONIGHT

Sale of Seats Assures Capacity Audience and Brilliant Assemblage to Hear Lecture by Rev. Dr. Riley.

The sale of seats is conclusive evidence that the audience at the illustrated lecture on the Passion Play tonight at the Elks' theater will fill the house to its capacity. The interest in the event, the proceeds of which are to go to the Sisters' hospital, in society circles, insures, moreover, that the audience will be an exceptionally brilliant one.

The sacred concert, which accompanies the lecture and pictures, will be taken part in by the leading musical talent of the city, and will be a treat. Dr. Riley, who tells the story of the world's greatest tragedy as he shows the wonderful lantern slides depicting the Passion Play at Oberammergau, is a powerful and silver-tongued orator, who adds to his native eloquence and magnetism a remarkable polish and culture and who has the added advantage of having been twice an eye-witness of the spectacle in the Bavarian Alps.

PREPARATIONS FOR CHRISTMAS ARE IN EVIDENCE

Shopping Begins in Earnest and Requisitions for Christmas Trees and Turkeys Already Being Made.

That Christmas is only two weeks distant is beginning to be realized by the people of Albuquerque. The merchants have been ready for business for some time past, and the shopping rush started yesterday in earnest, the streets and stores being crowded all day and until late in the evening while the business men report buying brisk. The shop-early crusade is receiving many recruits and it is believed the public will co-operate more heartily than in previous years with the merchants in their attempt to give the army of employees and salespeople an enjoyable Christmas, and not wait them to death until midnight of Christmas eve.

Requisitions are already being made for Christmas turkeys and the sale of Christmas trees from the Mammoth national forest has already been brisk. Yesterday a single bunch of forty was disposed of, and they will move lovely from now on.

The Christmas stock displayed by the merchants is more varied, beautiful and expensive than ever before, and it would be a fastidious Christmas buyer who could not find the gift he wanted from the bewildering array offered for sale.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

ENID E. REED WINS FIRST PRIZE IN IDEAL CONTEST

Shoe Contest for the Best Ten Reasons Brings Many Responses; What Won the Prize

The Ideal Shoe Store's big contest closed yesterday. Enid E. Reed was awarded first prize, Elizabeth Strong second and Doris Matthew third. Quite a bit of rivalry existed among the little folks and a number of papers were presented.

The winner of the first prize gets a $2.50 pair of shoes. The winner of the second a $2.50 pair and the winner of the third a $1.50 pair. The ten reasons that won for Enid E. Reed are:

1. We protect you against bad fit, bad leather, bad style, bad wear.
2. We solicit your trade, but don't want it without honor.
3. We cater to no particular class, but welcome and provide for all.
4. We do what we promise and promise only what we can do.
5. We don't know everything and we ask your criticisms.
6. What we say is true: what we do is legitimate; what we promise is fulfilled.
7. We are here to think of your interests.
8. We carry the finest line of shoes to be obtained.
9. We wish to sell you what you wish to buy.
10. We do everything to sell our goods except to misrepresent them, and trust to your judgment.

The Methods of Man

The Queen of Hearts breathed a sigh of relief and surveyed the row of shining tarts with modern housewifely satisfaction. It was a lazy summer day—long before the days of domestic science, which tags along with the cuts and jags of this most highly progressive age—but good cooks thrived before cooking became a science, and then, as today, cooks could be hired and fired, but not made.

The queen's sleeves were rolled up in a business-like manner, displaying her pretty dimpled arms and a coquettish cap riotously rode the golden curls. Then a shadow fell across the splendid sunshine which fell through the open door in glimmering pools on the floor. The Knave stood silent in the doorway surveying the scene with a smile crinkling his face. He was an indolent looking fellow with merry eyes and a whimsical mouth and with a queer hat worn at a rakish angle on his clustered curls.

"Good afternoon," he said presently in a pleasant voice.

The Queen turned quickly and looked at the tall figure loitering against the doorpost. "O it's you, is it?" with a toss of the golden head. "And the sunshine," suggested the Knave.

The Queen wrinkled her pretty eyebrows.

"Well, what do you want?" she asked.

The Knave ventured into the room and sighed deeply as he said:

"I need your generous assistance, dear lady," and his voice was artistically filled with tenderness.

The Queen gave him a look of quick suspicion and gave a fleeting backward glance at the rows of tarts. "What is it?" said she with a note of suspicion lingering in her voice.

The Knave sighed again and his merry eyes grew dreamy and dim. "I'm in love," he said simply.

For a fraction of a moment the lady of hearts regarded him in doubtful silence—then laughed.

"Don't be ridiculous," she gurgled.

He looked at her reproachfully and his eyes grew deeper, and as if they had never a hope in life.

"Am I then merely a fool and to be permitted never a serious thought?" he sadly asked.

The Queen flushed just a tiny bit. "One never knows when you are serious," she defensively answered. "It's generally safest to assume you are not."

The Knave smiled a wry little smile which seemed a brave effort to infuse some brightness into his tones. "It happened so suddenly," he said in a far-away dreamy voice. "I who have always mocked at lovers and the moonlit devious way of love; I who deemed myself invulnerable to the aims of the fleeting arrows which aim direct at the heart of mankind, am now as weak as the weakest," and the Knave hung his head. And the Queen, tender woman fashion, was touched and—curious.

"What could have happened to the gay debonaire knight, who—"

"When did it happen?" she softly

It is requested that all items for the society department be in not later than noon on Saturday.

questioned, looking absently at the tarts.

The Knave looked at her gravely with his lack-lustre eyes.

"I lost my appetite for the first time last evening."

The Queen regarded the tarts with more interest and looked suspiciously at the Knave whose face was as unmovable as Fate.

"Well, what do you want me to do about it? Why tell me your troubles?" and her voice had hardened ever so little.

"I have litted from maid to maid litted as thistle-down, and been none the worse for the happy flitting. I don't understand these new symptoms and thought perhaps you, from your vast woman's experience, would prescribe for me."

The Queen colored a trifle. "I've had small experience in such matters," she somewhat haughtily replied.

"Impossible," said the Knave, gallantly.

The Queen coldly.

"An accident which has left the rest of mankind inconsolable," remarked the Knave more gallantly.

The Queen showed her pretty white teeth in a gay smile. "I guess you haven't it very bad."

"You don't understand me," sighed the Knave fervently.

"Who is she?" asked the Queen with the truly feminine turn of mind.

"If I only could tell you," he said wistfully.

"What is she like?"

"Like?" his face lightened with quick sunshine and he seemed about to embark in a wondrous description; then drew his breath sharply. "It's impossible."

"What is her hair like?"

"Golden," meaningly.

"Her complexion?"

"Peaches and Cream," enthusiastically.

"Her figure?"

"Divinely slim."

"Dear me," remarked the Queen. "I can't think of anyone about her answering to that description."

"Oh, that doesn't describe her," said the Knave disconsolately, "mere words cannot. She is more beautiful than the dawn, the rose-tinted twilight or the soft moonlight of the night. She is all the perfection added to the—"

"Oh—Oh, how beautifully you do it. She must be the most wonderful person in the world. Do I know her?"

The Knave looked at her with sad, heavy eyes.

"She is your best friend—and your worst enemy," he said, gravely.

The faint pink of the rose gathered slow on the charming face of the Queen. "Where can I see her?" she softly asked.

"Go down to the pond," replied

the Knave with lowered head and humble voice, "and look within."

The Queen of Hearts, as she passed out smiled playfully and graciously said "I am sorry," then went toward the pond. The Knave made a wry mouth, shrugged his shoulders—and at that precious moment stole the tarts.

Between the Elks and the Little Dears

Is there anywhere about some little girl or boy who isn't dear? Santa Claus will creep down the chimney Christmas night? Down in front of Matson's there is to be a mail box, and the Elks want every child in the city to write them a letter and say they are coming to the biggest, most beautiful Christmas tree celebration in the history of Albuquerque. The "big doings" is for every child, mind you, but a certain space in the theater will be reserved for the guests of honor, who will be those who won't get stockings well filled at home. Purple cards are to be distributed among the public school teachers, ministers and different societies, who will give them various chapters, and the holders of these bits of paste-board will be those entitled to gifts. But no one must stay away and the Elks will be disappointed if every tiny lad and lassie in the city doesn't accept the invitation to join in the joyous proceedings. The letters must be in by the 23rd, else they won't know how many kiddies are coming, nor how much candy to buy.

The doors of the theater will be open by 8:30 in the morning, Christmas Day and the curtain will rise at 7 o'clock, disclosing the most wonderful scene ever seen on the local stage. Mr. Ruppe and Mr. Sol Ben-Jamin are going to give the characters of the decorations and electrical effects and are to outshine all previous efforts. Mr. O'Reilly and Dr. Lukens are the other committee members, with Mr. Barth as chairman. Mrs. Roy McDonald has been appointed chairman of the ladies' decorating committee and will choose her assistants.

There will be songs and all sorts of Yuletide recitations. Miss Lorna Lester and Miss Grace Stortz, two well known juvenile musicians of the city and Miss Mamie Kelly will assist in the program, and others whose names will be given later. Of course there will be a real live, fat, jolly Santa Claus (Mr. Isaac Barth, so they say) to dispense the gifts and general good cheer. It's going to be a huge success, just as all the affairs under the direction of the Elks prove to be. This is for the youngsters and it is hoped every seat in the wide interior of the theater will be filled with one or more wee ones. So pass along a little Christmas cheer by telling the children about the Elks' entertainment and aid them to give each and every child a "Merry Christmas."

As Good, As Good Can Be

It's just before Christmas and we are as good as we can be. Even society is in the mood—there is not the slightest bit of doubt about it.

Sometimes—most times—she is gladly gay and frivolous; sometimes she isn't.

Now, last week 'twas a grinch or philanthropy perhaps—also she was busy making sashet bags or other dainty trifles for Christmas distribution.

Parties? Of course not. Dances? Why, no. For it's just before Christmas and we are as good as we can be.

Husbands, so they say, are not tremendously fond of these pink teas and bridges, and care less for the "chill" of preceding.

Wives, maybe, regard the wishes of the husbands more—just before Christmas.

The writer does not state this as a fact, but merely makes haphazard guesses at the reason for this sudden lull in social life.

If anyone can suggest a better—by all means—let us hear. It's certain that the swallows—cash—soon-to-choke-the-mail process is well under way and the chief topic of conversation is Yuletide gifts and celebrations. All humanity now stands before the shop windows looking at the glittering beauty within, wondering what to buy, and some less terribly existant.

But the merriest, cheeriest season of the year is but two short weeks away; the very atmosphere breathes good will—and it's free.

Will you accept?

That Money Question

Now what do you think of that highly interesting session of the Woman's club Friday, which was ever so little—or so suffragistic—or saving a bit of woman's rights?

Of course it was clever—how otherwise?

And they waxed frivolous in the spirited discussion. Debat extensively on the words of the marriage ceremony, "With all my wealth I thee endow." Thought those words transferred a man's salary forever and ever; that the money was all her own, dependable in the division on woman's generosity and justice, which are not, so they claimed, the negligible qualities of masculine persuasion. O, it was really brilliant, surcharged with wit and repartee, and everyone had a beautiful time disposing theoretically of the financial problems of the home. One little woman, discussing the meeting with sparkling eyes, suggested that perhaps those words, "With all my wealth I thee endow," might mean the wealth possessed by the man at the time of taking unto himself a wife. She told the story of the father, who present at the marriage ceremony of a son, hearing him repeat those words, whispered to the mother, "There goes his bicycle."

So, not presuming to take either side, it might still be suggested there are other clauses in the marriage ceremony and at the end of one, the word "obey."

Mrs. John Strumquist and Mrs. B. A. Baker each gave their version of the ideal financial relations of husband and wife and both papers were charmingly given and quite as charmingly received. The judges appointed, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Snitzer and Mrs. Sterling, decided unanimously that the salary belonged to the wife to be divided as she deemed best for the welfare of family and board.

There were some fine points delivered in "Cash versus Credit," by Mrs. R. R. Pollock and the club, led by Mrs. Margaret Medler, delved into an amusing discussion of "Women as Wage Earners." Mrs. Himee's music study class then rendered a truly delightful musical program as follows:

The Passion Play

Society has been interested in the Oberammergau Passion Play production and will be brilliantly represented tonight in the Elks' theater. The fame of Rev. Dr. Riley has been wafted about and those who have made his acquaintance are most enthusiastic over the young priest who blends such charming gentility with his priestly dignity. Some in the city have heard him speak, on one occasion in the immaculate Conception church and one evening last week Father Riley talked to the Knights of Columbus—those are somewhat prepared for the brilliant lecture of the evening which is to accompany the presentation of the wonderful slides of the stupendous spectacle which has thrilled thousands. Only a small per cent of the people in the city have listened to the eloquence of Father Riley and those who have not known that pleasure will not be able to gather any great idea of his oratorical ability until tonight. It's a treat in store for all those that go and few feel as though they can afford to miss the presentation. The seats have been in great demand and it is likely one of the largest crowds in the history of the opera house will convene tonight in the theater, which has been so often the scene of musical and dramatic revelry. Other tragedies have been enacted in that interior, but this is the greatest tragedy of the world, wondrously depicted, and the presentation once seen will likely never be forgotten.

The musical program this evening will be participated in by splendid local talent, the names of whom assure its perfect success.

- Grand Chorus..... Salute to the American Flag..... "America." The audience please rise.

Sacred Concert Tonight a Society Event

The sacred concert, which is the most pretentious affair of its character ever attempted in this city, and which is to be part of the presentation of the Passion play tonight in the Elks' theater, was rendered in full at St. Joseph's sanctuary Friday night for the benefit of the sisters.

The large dining-room was used for the impromptu concert, the physicians bringing the piano from the upper floor for the occasion.

It was a pretty scene, the nuns in their sombre attire listening with rapt attention to the music, which is wonderfully beautiful.

Mrs. Frank in singing "Inflammatus et Accensus" and "Ave Maria" with violin obligato, proved the marvelous range and power of her splendid soprano voice and those who hear her tonight will realize the possibilities of her voice as never before. "My Rosary" with sacred words by Father Riley, was sung by Mrs. Robert Smart, who possesses a mezzo soprano of great depth and sweetness. Mrs. Smart gives a beautiful interpretation of the famous song which accords perfectly with the sacred words written by Dr. Riley.

Mrs. Roy McDonald's voice was heard to rare advantage in the "Wacht Am Rhein," and Mrs. S. H. Miller's expressive contralto gave exquisite rendition of Mendelssohn's "Thou Knowest, Lord." The solo "Calvary" was rendered in deep full bass by C. W. Milholland, and Mr. Andrews, who possesses a sweet lyric tenor, sang "The Psalms."

Probably as beautiful a number as the fine program affords is the singing of "Adeste Fideles" by the double quartette. There is a solo part by Mrs. Frank; a duet, Dr. Smart and Mr. Milholland; trio, Dr. Smart, Mrs. Smart and Mr. Milholland; and solo quartette, Mrs. Frank, Mrs. Smart, Mr. Andrews and Mr. Milholland. In and out between the chorus of voices swells the fullness of voice, the oft-recurring motif with variations and casts, musical shades and lights as the sun casts shadows on a tree. The concert was much enjoyed by the inmates at St. Joseph's and will give pleasure to the hundreds who are going tonight. It is to be a full dress and society affair. That is not saying you must wear full dress, but many will; the singers are to be exquisitely gowned, and the concert is to be beautiful in every detail.

Grandmothers' Album

One of the prettiest entertainments ever "pulled off" in Albuquerque happened in the parlors of the Lead Avenue Methodist church Friday evening. "Grandmother's Album" was a quaint and refreshingly pretty bit of dialogue and pantomime. A real looking album had been built and as the grandmother, looking like an old picture herself, showed the pictures in the album the scene was charming in its simplicity and old-worldness. The pictures represented the different characters of a country village such as are known to the readers of fiction. The costuming was in keeping and made the pleasant deceit seem very real indeed.

Those acting the parts of the living pictures were Miss Clara Wilson, Mrs. Leola Long, Miss Frances Strome, Miss Lena Sterling, Miss Pearl Thompson, Miss Mary Mathewson and Pansy Hook; Messrs. Milan, Roy Henderson, Myron Douglas, J. T. Parks and R. D. Merritt.

Miss Maddox impersonated the grandmother and was clever in the dialogue work.

The music was no small part of the delightful program and was furnished by Mrs. S. B. Miller, Carl Davidson, Allen Bixler and Miss Frances Strome.

Card Club

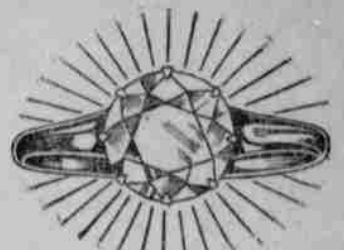

Christmas preparations had no seeming effect on the Monday afternoon club which met as usual. Mrs. Guy Rogers charmingly enacted the role of hostess. Her new home, a recent acquisition, along with matrimonial honors, is an ideal place to spend a cozy afternoon and the girls enjoyed it to the fullest extent. Miss Hazel Knight won the bi-weekly prize. Mrs. Rogers served a delightful luncheon at the conclusion of the game, whether the result of her newly acquired culinary abilities, it is not safe to say. Miss Irene Saint will entertain the club this week.

Tasmania Club

Another of the small informalities of the week, equally enjoyable, occurred also on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Elsie Bruhney, at 308 West Gold avenue. The Tasmania club, of which she is a member, getting next to the fact that December 1 is the birthday of Miss Bruhney, took undue advantage of the fact and tendered her a surprise in the noisy arrival of themselves and a "spread."

Miss Bruhney survived—so did the members of the Tasmania club—but not so the spread. The participants in the jolly little affair were Misses May Roseum, Anna Osterkamp, Ethel Duffy, Thora Larson, Gertrude Farnsworth and Mrs. Olive Van Kirk; Messrs. George McGee, Charles Roden, Ralph

DIAMONDS

Today We Open an Entire New Lot of Diamonds

From time immemorial life has twined itself around the jewels which nature concealed in the bosom of the earth.

The radiance of the Diamond, the blood red of the Ruby, the depth of blue in the Sapphire, the exquisite sheen of the Pearl. Wealth in all ages has treasured to itself these gems of nature. Jewels are the one thing in which fashion lives, today, tomorrow and ever.

Our collection of these gems is larger than ever before, and at the same time more varied. Hereafter we have carried only the very finest and most costly diamonds, to those we have now added a line of popular priced diamonds, just as brilliant and beautiful as the higher priced goods, and when bought right are of equally intrinsic value.

We reiterate to our customers of the past 28 years, and also to our newer friends of today our absolute policy of guaranty, and assure them that our prices on these jewels—as on all other merchandise—is fixed without a very modest profit to ourselves. We extend a cordial invitation to all and invite comparison of our goods and prices.

ALBUQUERQUE NEW MEXICO

PRODUCE THE FIGURES.

In line with its policy of giving every man a chance to express his views, within reasonable limits, in the only New Mexico newspaper which reaches all the people, the Morning Journal has given its space freely to contributions on the constitution and statehood. While strongly condemning the attitude of the forces now engaged in a fight on the constitution, and thus a fight on statehood, we have therefore given generously of our space to the advocates of constitutional prohibition, reserving always the right to draw the line.

In this issue appears a communication from the superintendent of the New Mexico Anti-Saloon League.

He says among other things:

"To have spent $95,000, if your figures are correct, for the one convention and elections is far from being
the strongest possible proof of administering finances economically and
for the best interests of the people.
And it is possible that congress may consider that as mal-administration
and that very reason hesitate to admit us into the Union. As the writer was present through the entire constitutional convention and knows what occurred, he is frank to say that there are a goodly number of men in New Mexico who could have held the two conventions and elections, paid all necessary expenses, written a good constitution in which the interests of the people are protected, and still had $5,000 left."

The writer ignores the detailed statement made in this paper yesterday, showing that the expenditure of the $95,000, as spent, was practically all provided for in the enabling act
and thus spent by order of congress.

Will our correspondent deny this?

We call upon him in the light of his remarkable statement that two conventions could have been held with the money and $5,000 left, to give the public the detailed figures.
If this astounding declaration is true,
the people have a right to the figures.

The territorial secretary is quoted as authority for the statement that an election under the provisions of the act calls for the expenditure of $25,000 and the registration $7,000.

Will the gentlemen tell us where
the secretary has made his mistake?

Congress was liberal, he says, because it also appropriated $100,000 for Arizona where the expense is exactly half as much as in New Mexico. If this "generous liberality" toward Arizona, what of the same appropriation for New Mexico, with twice the number of counties and delegates?

"We may dismiss any prejudice, rancor or vituperation," he says, and proceeds to refer to the constitution
as "trust made and liquor soaked."

Either congress was not capable of
was not honest," he says, "in writing the enabling act." If he wishes to assume that the $100,000 was intended to cover the expense of two conventions we shall cheerfully agree with him that congress was far from capable.

In closing we re-iterate that a fight on this constitution, whatever its opponents may profess to believe, is simply and solely and surely a fight on statehood, and that if this constitution is defeated, it means the indefinite delay, certainly for years, of the boon for which the people of New Mexico have been fighting for half a century.

Meanwhile we ask the gentleman to give us a detailed statement, itemizing election, registration and salary expenses, mileage, printing, employes and incidentals, showing how the two conventions and two elections could have been held for $100,000 with $5,000 left over. It is certainly a reasonable request and we shall be glad to publish the figures for the benefit of our readers.

HASTY REFORMERS.

Political quackery receives a very fair jolt by the New York Sun in the following:

"Exactly such choice considerations have determined referendums in the past and undoubtedly will continue to do so in the future. And were it not for the present unthinking hue and cry for 'more democracy,' no one would expect anything else. In truth

there is no need of complicated political theory to support the representative system of government founded by our ancestors. Plain, common sense would demand it. The voters of a state or a city cannot draft and properly consider complex legislation any more than the stockholders of a large corporation can pass upon the details of its business.

"If our hasty reformers of South Dakota and elsewhere would spend the time which they devote to undermining the representative system to laboring for a better quality of representation, something beneficial might be accomplished. At least they would not be turning the country back toward a primitive and long-discarded form of government."

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

First of all, buy early. The many advantages of taking time by the forelock in this important matter have been set forth with sufficient logic to make further comment on the subject superfluous. Buy early in the day, and early in the month.

But the road of the male Christmas shopper, unless he lives in the rosy glamour of love's first dream, and often even then, is paved with good intentions, and also beset with difficulties of time and choice. He puts off the bewildering moment until the last minute, and then rushes forth to seek inspiration from urgent necessity.
There is something to be said for him,
because he really simplifies the problem facing him. Not knowing what he wants, he is easily led to want what he sees. From that to persuading himself that it is also what the intended recipients of the evidence of his holiday spirit will want the moment they see it is an easy step. The habit of many busy men to do their Christmas shopping by proxy, all but the purchase of the one supreme gift, may lack sentiment, but is not to be despised on that count, since the efficient, executive head of a trusted stenographer of the other sex may be relied upon to supply the sentiment in woman's proverbial delight in shopping. The planning of such a campaign is to her a pleasure, not a duty.

What to give? A treatise on the psychology of giving is here in order.
Some have a veritable genius for it.
Others achieve success by close observation, inductive reasoning, and a careful system of elimination, the safest guide in an annually increasing embarras de richesse. A good memory, too, is useful here. A wish casually expressed months ago may flash out of some corner of the mind and solve a difficulty. The advertising columns of the press may contain the mention of a new and desirable article of their own, and render easy thorny paths. Above all else, let the teacher, young or old, take counsel of the women of his acquaintance. He will rise up from the consultation to call them blessed. Women need no advice from men in the matter.
They, far more than he, have the genius of giving appropriately, gracefully and wisely.

But, above all else, be it repeated here, buy early. Thus will you add to the holiday ease of those who are engaged in the selling of your gifts,
from the saleswoman and the cash girl to the delivery wagon driver and his assistant, not to forget the horses.

A STUPENDOUS ACHIEVEMENT.

Aside from purely political considerations, there are few things in the message of President Taft to the present congress of greater interest to the average man than that part of it relating to the progress of work on the Panama canal, including the interesting news that two or three years more will see the completion of the mammoth undertaking.

If the president's expectations are realized, and the canal is finished before 1915, the United States will have accomplished an achievement of peace hardly paralleled in the history of the world, greater than many a great campaign of war, a task which revolutionized conditions in the western hemisphere. While it is a peaceful accomplishment, its effect on the potential war power of the United States is hard to estimate. An army of 30,000 workmen will have made it possible for the American navy to coast and will have removed the insulation which has heretofore been a standing menace to the great Pacific shore line of the country.

The canal should exercise a tremendous influence in developing American commerce, and one of the most noteworthy suggestions of the president is that owners of great railroads be prohibited from owning stock in corporations operating steam lines through the canal. The canal will have been largely a failure if its commerce is under control of the railroad kings who now control the transcontinental transportation systems.

The Panama canal, in any event, if finished in the remarkable time that now seems probable, will stand as a monument for the ability and enterprise of the American people that will make the pyramids appear as small beauties of a dead past.

HEALTH FOR THE NATION.

It is good news that the management of the Southwestern Presbyterian sanatorium in this city has let the contract for a commodious new building to meet the rapidly increasing demand for treatment for tuberculosis at this institution. Another big local sanatorium is building an addition which will double its capacity and a similar demand for accommodations is noted in other cities of New Mexico. The growth of one of New Mexico's greatest industries—the health factor—is more rapid and substantial than ever before. It is becoming recognized that nowhere in the United States or in Europe are there better conditions for the cure of the white plague than in New Mexico. It is further recognized that the only way to cure the disease is by modern, scientific sanitary methods.

If the consumptive is to get well, he must have comfortable quarters, pleasant surroundings, nourishing food and expert care, and must be protected from himself.

The big Albuquerque institutions whose growth is now in evidence are proceeding on the most approved and successful lines. It is recognized that only the most rigid sanitary regime will assure the patient a chance to get well, and accordingly the big san-atoriums are much safer even when crowded with patients than the ordinary rooming house, private dwelling or public hotel frequented by sufferers from the disease.

The sanatorium movement is a great
one and there is reason to believe that New Mexico is rising to the occasion and making proper preparation for discharging her responsibility as the national health-giver. The hope of the vast army of sufferers from a national scourge is in the southwest. We are well on the way toward solving the problem of curing these people without endangering the health of our own people. A further satisfactory phase of the situation that the campaign of education is having its results and people throughout the country are gradually learning that the southwest is not prepared to take care of those who have reached the last stage of physical and financial helplessness as a result of the disease.

THE WORTH OF THEIR MONEY.

The second annual land and irrigation exposition in Chicago is now a thing of the past, and from all accounts it was everything that was hoped for it.

New Mexico was in many respects
the most important exhibitor at the exposition. The people of the territory gave freely of their time, their money and their enthusiasm to make the exhibit a success, and to tell the people of the country effectively of the opportunities that await them in the Land of Sunshine.

Did they get the worth of their money?

We believe they did. Advertising results are intangible, to a large extent. But the advertising plan is based on cold calculating reason, and it is hard to pick a flaw in the logic.

From 10,000 to 20,000 people every day for two weeks passed by the New Mexico booth, listened to the New Mexicans as they enthusiastically presented the advantages of their home
state, carried away barrels of literature, watched with intense interest the stereoscopic pictures, and viewed and handled the actual products. This is bound to mean results, dollars and cents results, results which will bring in homesteaders and investors, soil developers and cash, and new homes.
The results are as sure as death, and as sure as taxes in some parts of New Mexico.

We believe it was well worth while.
New Mexico, at considerable expense,
put her best foot forward and hundreds of thousands of people now have a realistic appreciation of what the latest "state in the making" has to offer them.

Those in charge of the exhibit and the boating, and those who worked so hard to get the exhibits together, are entitled to the thanks of the people of New Mexico. Theirs is the spirit which builds up empires, and it is bound to win.

OLD AND NEW MASTERS.

A French authority is highly amused
by the indignation expressed in America over the fake pictures and statues sold our rich men and the heaps of abuse launched at the heads of the dealers through whom the sales were negotiated. To begin at the beginning, says the Frenchman, it's all in the game; those who know are familiar with the fact that not an "Old Master's picture" has been in existence for 200 years. The critics who lecture about the tones and the rest of it that prove the authenticity of such paintings know, or should know, that those have been retouched and repaired time
and time again, so that not one of them, even in the most famous European galleries, offers an inch of space to the eye of the original workman's touch.

All have suffered changes and each is other than it originally was. We do not know if this be true or not, but it is reasonable to suppose that it is true in very large measure at least.

But this is not all. We are told that copies of these works of the old masters are being produced in twenty-nine factories and that the product is just as good as these originals. Perhaps it is wrong to sell the copies as originals, but if there be no original then nobody would be deceived when the truth is generally known. The factories are needed to train the artistic sense—few painters or sculptors can offer good original work while many have the trained hand and eye which can give excellent copies. Of course the worshipful attitude towards the hand of the old master is ridiculous, but his mind and inspiration guides the hand of the copyist and we have at least a part of the genius—the best part.

Why should we feign an appreciation of one of these paintings or statues which is only possible to the rightly trained and carefully developed taste? Perhaps we may hope that an end may be made to such hypocrisy if we accept this critic's view and there is consolation in that at least. Let us accept the copies and dispense with the hypocrites as much as we can.

sas City 175 cases of eggs which were

Editor Morning Journal.

Dear Sir:—I enclose you proceedings of our democratic convention held here yesterday. Of course, you have received this from your regular correspondent, but I desire to call your attention to the marked clause,
and that we are for the practicable referendum over here, and are not so crazy about the theoretical and other "ism" kind. And we are going to be for the "recall" also, on some of the "most covered" leaders
if they don't let up on trying to boss us with the minority. The vote here was 114 for statehood and the constitution to 7 against, and it will be about that proportion in the election.
Yours very truly,

J. P. HINKLE.

The clause in the resolution referred to is as follows: "To It Resolved, first, that we question the wisdom and right of the Democratic Territorial Organization to bind the members of the party, on a matter of referendum, after it has been submitted to the people."

The Other Side.

Editor Morning Journal:

I presume that in discussing the adoption of the proposed constitution, those that favor it, as well as those that oppose, are actuated by motives of the public good. If that be so, we may dismiss any prejudice, rancor, or vituperation. The truth and real merits of any case can be ascertained best by way of a calm and deliberate consideration of its merits or demerits.

You will permit me, therefore, to say a few words regarding your editorial in yesterday's Journal, under the head of "The Financial End of It." In the first place, I wish to call attention to the fact that congress expressly provided for re-convening the constitutional convention in the event that the first constitution was rejected. Evidently, congress must have considered the expediency of covering that expense, or that a subsequent appropriation is to be made to cover the deficiency. And I feel that congress was liberal in this appropriation.

To have spent $95,000, if your figures are correct, for the one convention and elections, is far from being
the strongest possible proof of administering finances economically and
for the best interests of the people.
And it is possible that congress may
consider that as mal-administration
and that very reason hesitate to admit us into the Union.

To say that it is a "foolish claim" that the $100,000 was meant to cover
two conventions, is hardly an argument in the light of the enabling act,
which provides for two conventions.
And I feel that the enabling act does not mean what it says, is to put congress at one or the other horn of this dilemma: Either they were not capable of not honest in writing the enabling act; Congress must be charged with one or the other, or the act must be taken to mean what it says. If it means what it says, then congress provided for re-convening the delegates and the appropriation was and is sufficient for the purposes of the enabling act.

Now, if putting the initiative, recall and prohibition into the constitution and thus bringing government back to the people, and joining a movement which is sweeping over America and reaching into the very heart of China and all parts of the world, is to defeat the constitution, it had better be defeated. Who was it that really wrote the constitution? Is it not the special interests, including the liquor interests? Is it not a fact that the constitution is trust-made and liquor-soaked? Were there not upwards of twenty liquor-sellers as delegates in the constitutional convention? Did they not try to strongly dominate the convention? Who was asleep, that he should not have seen and heard what was going on there?

Certainly congress provided that prohibition, as far as the Indians are concerned, must go into the constitution, or it certainly would not have gone in. That is a good point in the constitution, and so there are other good things in it. But were not some of the very best things left out? Is not a certain intelligent man's characterization of it as "trust-made and liquor-soaked" correct?

We record every man the right to his own opinion on the constitution or any other question. We claim the same right for ourselves. But we deny any man or set of men the right to buy votes with booze, or puff, or promise, or threat of any kind. And, moreover, if the liquor people have a right to go out and cause the defeat of the constitution because prohibition is put into it, we claim that much more have the temperance people a right to defeat the constitution, because prohibition, which is right in principle and, therefore, expedient in practice, is not put into it, even were that the only objection to the constitution from either side. But as individual citizens, we have a number of other weighty reasons for objecting to the proposed constitution, because

For Out of Town Guest

Mr. and Mrs. John Hennessy of 211 West Roma avenue entertained delightfully and informally Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. Edward Ames of Pittsburgh, Pa. The evening was pleasantly spent in music and games, with a late supper as an important part of the proceedings.

The guests were Misses May Beaven, Anna Hayes, Helen Thelin, Jessie Lewis, Julia Kleiser, Jennie Tierney, Lucy Bacon, Florence Thelin, Marion Watlington and Elsie Buehl; Messrs. E. R. Ames, Ed Rogers, D. J. Mulhiney, Ralph Kleiser, Leo Murphy, J. Chavez, Edward Hill, A. Letarte, J.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Council of Los Lunas are guests in the city of Mrs. Louis Huning, at Park View Terrace. Mrs. Council will likely winter in the city.

Mrs. Albert S. Riffe, formerly of this city, and whose husband died a year ago in Omaha, Neb., is in the city and will winter with her sister, Mrs. Robert E. Putney.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Kent returned the past week from an extended European trip. The Kents saw the sights of London, strolled on the magnificent boulevards of Paris, viewed the wonderful Alps, rode on the gondolas in Venice—and then some.

Interesting announcements reached this city yesterday of the marriage in Oakland, Cal., on December 8, of Miss Aurelia Arnold, daughter of Mrs. N. T. Arnold, of this city, to Mr. John Hancock. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McGrath at St. Mary's church. Mr. and Mrs. Hancock will reside in Oakland, Mrs. Hancock was born and raised in Albuquerque, and is a member of a Church Circles

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church held its annual meeting and election of officers Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. McCluskey, on Fifth street. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. H. F. Robinson; vice-president, Mrs. C. E. Boldt; secretary, Mrs. Gleason; treasurer, Mrs. W. O. Hopping; executive board, Messdames Hallet, Shupe, Dunbar, Martin, Skinner, McCluskey and Lithgow. The annual reports of officers showed the society to be in a flourishing condition. Refreshments were served after the business session.

Musical circles are much interested in the concert to be given in the Christian church the evening of December 17 under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of that church.

Mrs. Charles Frank and Mr. Charles Andrews, two of the best known vocalists of the city, are to assist and their work will assure the success of the musical event. There will be several readings by some splendid local talent and some instrumental selections.

There is another musical recital scheduled for the latter part of the month in the Highland Methodist church, to be given by the Home Mission society. Some fine local talent will participate in the musical program and the Elite Mandolin club will render several selections.

The Ladies of the German Lutheran church will give a "coffee" next Wednesday afternoon at the Zickler ranch. There will be a conveyance at the end of the car line in old town, at 2 o'clock, to take the guests to the ranch.

The Women's Circle of the First Baptist church gave a missionary tea Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gallier, 116 North Twelfth street. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. George Abel.

The Golden Rule Dry Goods Co. offers an innovation to encourage yearly shopping, which will no doubt be taken advantage of by people who sympathize with overworked salespeople at this season of the year by shopping between 2:30 and 10:30 a. m. Ten per cent discount will be allowed on all purchases, on presentation of coupons contained in their advertisement of this issue.

Better Than Medicine

Rheumatism, Nervousness, Neuralgia, Backache, Liver and Kidney complaints are caused by excess uric acid. Medicine can only temporarily counteract the effect, while Electropodes remove the excess uric acid, and all other poisons and impurities, from the system. The result is prompt relief and a permanent cure.

One man from Pasadena, Cal., writes: "Electropodes cured me, in two weeks' time, after all other remedies had failed." Another from Madison, Neb., says: "Electropodes have done me more good than all the medicine I have taken."

Danderine Grows Hair
and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance:
"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and would fall out as fast as I combed it. Now it is long and thick and grows so fast I have to cut it every two weeks."
Another from Newark, N. J.:
"I have been using Danderine regularly. When I first started to use it I had very little hair, now I have the most beautiful long and thick hair anyone would want to have."

BIG AUCTION SALE

Monday, Dec. 12th at 2 p. m., I will sell at auction the splendid furnishings of an 8 room house at 608 West Silver Avenue. Furniture all up-to-date. Let no one miss this sale.
J. M. SOLLIE, Auctioneer.

Miss Hannah Moore will leave today for Oswego, N. Y., where she is called by the serious illness of her mother.

Walter Clark entertained the Boy Scouts at his home on West Iron, Friday evening. Two additions to the ranks, Dye and McCoy, went through the strenuous initiation which makes a good scout, after which harrowing process a splendid "team" was enjoyed. Miss Nettie Clark and Mrs. Helen Wickham assisted the young host in the entertainment of his guests.

MRS. BALLEW TO SELL ALL TRIMMED HATS AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

Every woman in Albuquerque, especially those who have not yet purchased their winter headgear, will be greatly interested in the announcement that Mrs. Ballew, whose millinery establishment is located at 118 South Fourth street, will begin a record-breaking fifteen days' sale, Monday, Mrs. Ballew has an unusually large stock of millinery this year and has decided to turn it over regardless of cost. Trimmed hats and willow plumes at very low prices will be big features of the sale.

Something Just as Good Can only be the case when it is another bottle of Dr. Bell's Phlegm-Honey. Every bottle the same. Look for the bell on the bottle.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

George L. Roach.

Word was received in this city yesterday of the death on December 7 of George L. Roach of Denver. Mr. Roach has been for years connected with the Moray Mercantile company of Denver, and has made semi-annual trips to Albuquerque, remaining two or three weeks in the city at each visit for several years past. Mr. Roach was well known locally and much liked by the various business men of this city, with whom he had dealings. No particulars were learned of his death, which occurred at his mother's home in Columbus, Ohio, where he had gone to spend the Christmas holidays. Much sorrow will be felt among his many friends in this city, who will regret his untimely end.

John T. Parrish.
John T. Parrish, brother of Fred Parrish of this city, died in Hopkinton, Ill., a few days ago of Bright's disease. Mr. Parrish was a resident of this territory during '64 and '65, and belonged to the Fifth and Twelfth Infantry, U. S. A. He took part in many of the Indian engagements of that period. He made his home in New York City.

Resigning tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the stock of Madame Steward-Lamb goes on sale at one-half price, the only exception being on piece goods, which are offered at one-third off regular prices. Madame Lamb is to retire from the business. The character of this stock is so well known that comment on the merits of this sale is unnecessary.

AUCTION

Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock sharp, December 15, at the home of R. H. Hawkins, 1226 W. Central, I will sell at auction the furnishings of his six room home. Goods consists of kitchen utensils, gasoline stove, kitchen table, four chest, dining refrigerator, oak dining table, leather bottom dining chairs, three rugs, one handsome axminster, Morris chair, lady's writing desk, three brass and iron beds, sanitary couch, mattresses, springs, center tables, heater, parlor lamp, bath heater, dressers, picture, $300 mahogany piano. Inspect goods, which are absolutely sanitary. Wednesday before sale. Mr. Hawkins is leaving for Denver to make his future home, hence this sale.

TWO ALLEGED WHITE SLAVERS ARRESTED YESTERDAY

INVEIGLED YOUNG WOMAN FROM HOME IS CLAIMED

W. J. Macell Sent to Jail for 30 Days and Ida Fredman Fined for Vagrancy; Victim of Alleged Conspiracy Sent Home.

Quite a sensation was caused in police court yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Alta Darling, who claims Trinidad, Colo., as her home, made the charge before Justice of the Peace George R. Craig that she had been brought to Albuquerque by W. J. Macell and Ida Fredman for immoral purposes, having been induced to come to this city on the strength of promises of honorable and lucrative employment.

Macell, the Fredman woman and Mrs. Darling were arrested by a policeman yesterday on a charge of conspiracy. It is understood the trio arrived here Friday evening from Colorado. While the Darling woman was being questioned by the court as to her occupation and means of livelihood, it was developed, according to her story, that she was the victim of a conspiracy arranged by Macell and Mrs. Fredman, to cause her downfall.

In the absence of any positive verification of the charge made by Mrs. Darling, the court allowed the charge of vagrancy to remain and sentenced Macell to serve thirty days in the county jail and sentenced Mrs. Fredman to pay a fine of ten dollars and costs, which amounted altogether to fifteen dollars.

Before passing sentence Judge Craig ruled that Macell and Mrs. Fredman should pay Mrs. Darling's fare back to her home in Trinidad. Chief of Police McMillin called upon Miss Saxe, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. to care for Mrs. Darling until the train left last night for the north. Miss Saxe said that the young woman was properly cared for at the Y. W. C. A. home until the train was about to depart.

NAVARETTE CASE GOES TO JURY

Fate of Man Charged With Murdering Pablo Perea Will Probably Be Known Today.

The case of the Territory vs. Cornelio Navarette, charged with the murder of Pablo Perea, on November 15th, 1910, went to the jury at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. At about 7 o'clock last night the jury returned a verdict. The court will receive the verdict today. It was alleged on the part of the territory that Navarette hit Perea on the head with a plank during a quarrel at a dance at Las Palomas. Perea dying as the result of the injuries. Navarette claimed that he did not hit Perea and that he was twenty-five or thirty feet away from him at the time the blow was struck.

JOHN BAILEY AGAIN IN THE JUGGADO

Negro From Houston, Texas, "Vagued," It Being Alleged That He Panhandled Money From Passers-by.

Acquitted on a charge of larceny Friday, John Bailey, a negro, was arrested again yesterday on a charge of begging on the streets. Bailey was sentenced to serve ten days in jail. He spent sixty days in the county jail while waiting trial on the charge of robbing Roschwald's store. Bailey is from Houston, Texas, and has been here about three months, most of the time being spent behind the bars.

SOLD MEAT WITHOUT A PEDDLER'S LICENSE IS CHARGE AGAINST FOUR

Elisio Lobato, Eduardo Sanchez, Damasio Contreras and Ambrosio Contreras were arraigned before Judge Craig in police court yesterday on a charge of peddling meat without a license. Lobato admitted his guilt and was discharged when he promised to immediately take out a license. Sanchez and Damasio Contreras were fined the dollars each. Ambrosio Contreras asked for a continuance until Monday, which was granted.

BLANCHE WALSH IN THE OTHER WOMAN IS POWERFUL

Believed by Critics Strongest Role Ever Attempted by Great Actress Who Plays Here This Month.

Few graduates of a school of acting have ever achieved distinction in the very first rank of great emotional actresses, although such institutions produce many clever and well-trained players and the need for them is recognized by the big managers. In connection with the name of Blanche Walsh one would hardly think of a school of acting, but it is nevertheless a fact that she received her first training in one—the old Lyceum school in New York. She is, of course, the most famous of all who received their early instruction there, but no school could have taught her the emotional powers which she has exhibited since she went on the road in her first play, "Twelfth Night," the "actor role" in which she undertook successfully when she was but sixteen years old. In less than two years she was known throughout the country as a star, and in "La Tosca" swept all before her.

Since then she has appeared in a dozen or more powerful dramas, but doubtful if she has ever had a stronger role than that which she is now playing in "The Other Woman," in which she will soon be seen at the Elks' opera house. The very title of the play suggests dramatic possibilities of the most stirring quality. It is not a "problem" play, however, but a play in which a good compelling love story is told on the stage of the love of a man for a woman who is his wife, and especially of the love of that "other woman" for the man. It is his happiness she seeks, not hers, such is the fine quality of her affection.

A small cast of unusual quality plays these parts, needed for the working out of the story, and so absorbing is the action in which they appear that the audience is held entranced by the continued presence of the stars of the play. In view of the great success of former years, the new play in which Miss Walsh is to be seen will, as a matter of course, be one of the chief attractions that local playgoers can hope to have offered them this season.

TWO ATTRACTIONS BY THE SANTA FE THIS WEEK

Lorelei Ladies' Quartette and Columbia Park Boy's Club Booked for Monday and Saturday Nights.

Superintendent S. E. Brasser of the Santa Fe reading rooms, offers two splendid attractions to the people of Albuquerque on Monday and Saturday evening of this week. The first, at the reading room, is the Lorelei Ladies' Quartette of Oakland, Cal., consisting of Edith M. Cook, prima donna soprano; Alice M. Wood, contralto; Anne Obermuller, alto; Mrs. Grant D. Miller, reader; Mrs. William S. Carpenter, accompanist, and Nellie Hobart Carpenter, second soprano and manager. The announcement says:

The Lorelei Ladies' Quartette have been before the Pacific coast public for a number of years and have won the encomiums of lovers of music everywhere. From a musical standpoint the blend of their voices is said to be a phenomenon. Trained in the highest music, and with a breadth of appreciation of the master works, along with splendid gifts of nature, and a grace of person most charming, they at once capture their audiences, and hours seem like minutes. They come from the best homes of the Queen City of San Francisco Bay, and from a social, as well as musical standpoint they give an evening long to be remembered by our employees. I think they will demonstrate that everything in a musical line does not come from down east. The desert won't be a desert the evening they are at your reading room.

The Saturday night attraction is the Columbia Park Boy's club of San Francisco at the Elks' theater. They are forty-three boys, ranging from 12 years of age to 18, having one of the finest troupes in California, an orchestra trained in the latest music, a vaudeville company of artists, and carrying their own baseball teams and football line-ups, rendering a program of literary excellence of sublimating pathos and sparkling comedy.

Superintendent Brasser says of this: When Major Sidney S. Peixotto conceived the organization of the Columbia Boys' club, and by hard work and a big financial effort placed it on its feet, he came into a line of work for which he is eminently qualified by heart and brain, and set a-going influences which have made many homes happy and provided a most lofty stimulus for the highest in boyhood and nobility in mankind. It is a decided pleasure to introduce Major Peixotto and his Columbia Boys' club to our employees. You will often thank the Santa Fe company for the privilege of hearing them. I am very much interested in having these boys travel over the greatest railroad on earth. I wish them to see how a big corporation treats its employees. These boys are discerning students. They have been over the seas in foreign lands. They love Major Peixotto because he led them into a brighter life, into a position of influence, and called forth their hidden talents. They are a living demonstration of what a boy may make out of himself. This is the lesson I long to have these boys teach every employee on the railroad. As the Columbia Park Boys study the employee I would have the employee study them. Certainly it will be a pleasure to hear them and meet them. Inquire for tickets at Santa Fe reading rooms.

Useful Holiday Presents

All will agree that a useful thing will be much more appreciated as a gift than some of the worthless stuff that is often given, especially during the Holiday season. There is not an article shown in our entire line of Holiday goods which is not useful. Here are a few things worthy of your consideration:

Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs.
Mufflers and Neckwear.
Hosiery and Gloves.
Men's and Boys' Sweater Coats.
Smoking and House Coats.
Fancy Suspender Sets.
Leather Traveling Sets.
Clothing of all kinds.

Any of these things will be appreciated by the recipient, because of their usefulness as well as for the fact that our entire line is particularly attractive, well selected and reasonably priced. We are always willing to show goods whether you purchase or not.

SIMON STERN

THE CENTRAL AVENUE CLOTHIER

THE Christmas spirit is in the air. The world's unselfish time is upon us. We need not remind you that the greatest happiness comes to ourselves when we make others happy with our gifts.

Sensible Gift Things

By giving gifts of worth and character at Christmas time, one not only gives wisely but well. Our shop invites attention to its magnificent assortment of sensible, useful articles for Yuletide remembrances, each appropriate to give and a pleasure to receive.

Holiday Gloves

Our preparations in this section are in keeping with our efforts in merchandising, i. e., to carry nothing but the best. Our glove stock is most complete. Of course there is no charge for the dainty boxes, in which there is an added charm where presentation is intended, again our gloves are of quality and you are sure of all around satisfaction if your selection is made here. No trouble to exchange or fit. Priced from $1.00 to $3.50 a pair.

Gift Hosiery

A gift of hosiery is practical and attractive from every point of view. Dainty, useful, durable. Of great importance to gift-buyers, are the following items from our hosiery section:

WOMEN'S PURE THREAD SILK HOSE, with Hilo top and sole, in black, white and colors, priced at $1.50 pair. EMBROIDERED HOSE—We anticipated a big season in embroidered stockings, therefore we gave them special attention in buying our hosiery. We would ask you to come and inspect them while the line is complete. Designs are very pretty, copied from the French models; handsome in coloring and patterns. They sell at 65c a pair.

Worthy Gifts Are Umbrellas

The usefulness of an umbrella makes it a most sensible gift. Our assortment affords every advantage. The covers are of the best qualities at each price. The handles vary from the plain natural wood to the more elaborate novelties in pearl, gold, silver, ivory and horn. In every instance our umbrellas are properly and carefully made, affording the best values and assuring gifts that will be appreciated.

Dolls

THE SENSIBLE GIFT FOR CHILDREN. What brings more joy to the heart of a child than a doll? We have arranged our prices to suit every purse. Think of buying a fully dressed doll for 10c. This is very extraordinary and worth much more. Other values 25c and up.

New Mexico in the Limelight as Vanadium Producer

LARGE PLANT NEAR CUTTER SOON IN OPERATION

Concentrating Mill in Caballo Mountains Is Now Concentrating Hundreds of Tons of Ore for Treatment.

The discovery of large bodies of vanadium ore in the Caballo mountains, the subsequent development of the mines, the sinking of deep shafts, the erection of a large capacity concentrating mill, and finally the construction of a large oxide plant a short distance from the mine, has not only put New Mexico in the limelight, but has also put the state in the front ranks of the world's vanadium producers.

The Vanadium Mines company, which owns the vanadium mines in the Caballo mountains, realizing that the demand for vanadium is greater than the supply at the present time and that the demand will be even greater in the very near future, has undertaken the development of their properties on such an extensive scale as to surprise the natives and to indicate in a very substantial manner the great faith they have in the worth of their ore.

A. W. Bonitz, vice-president and general manager, and T. M. Bennett, secretary of the Vanadium Mines company, were in Albuquerque yesterday and left for Cutter last night, where they have spent several days looking over the construction of the oxide plant, which is now rapidly nearing completion. Mr. Bennett, who is a highly skilled mining engineer of many years experience, and is getting splendid results in getting the ore to the surface. This ore is then transported to the oxide plant near Cutter, where it will be reduced to the form of vanadium oxide as soon as the plant is completed.

CONCENTRATING MILL IS SHAKING UP THE ORE
The concentrating mill, located in the Caballo mountains, has been working for many weeks past, under direction of A. B. Bennett, president of the Vanadium Mines company. Mr. Bennett, who is a highly skilled mining engineer of many years experience, and is getting splendid results in getting the ore to the surface. This ore is then transported to the oxide plant near Cutter, where it will be reduced to the form of vanadium oxide as soon as the plant is completed.

FERRO VANADIUM RAPIDLY BECOMING A MAGIC WORD
Ferro vanadium, which is steel in its most highly developed form, is demanded in the construction of battleship armor plate, certain parts of automobiles, in superior cutlery, and, in fact, in every article in which a real high grade of steel is necessary. The discovery of vanadium in New Mexico has resulted in a great deal of favorable publicity for the territory. When it is realized that vanadium is not mined in commercial quantities in any other part of North America, and that heretofore the only supply obtainable was from the mines in Peru and other South American countries, the people of New Mexico will be awakened to the fact that the territory is assuming an important position in the mineral world.

Company Has Strong Financial Backing
The rumor in circulation some months ago, at the time the vanadium mine began the construction of the numerous improvements near Cutter, that the company is backed by Pittsburgh men who are largely interested in the United States Steel company, receives additional confirmation, because of the fact that the company has sold, or is for sale, and that approximately $200,000 will be expended before the necessary improvements are completed. The entire output of the mines and oxide plant is already contracted for. The general offices of the Vanadium company are in the Frick annex, Pittsburgh, and the offices are as follows: A. B. Bennett, president; W. A. Bonitz, vice-president and general manager; T. M. Bennett, secretary; and C. R. Miller, treasurer. Mr. Bonitz and Mr. Bennett left last night for Cutter, and after a brief stay there will return to Pittsburgh. Mr. Bonitz, expects to return to Cutter within the next three weeks, and remain on the ground until the oxide plant is in actual and successful operation.

Largest Plant in World.
When completed the oxide plant will be the largest of its kind in the world. It is to be equipped with the most modern machinery and will be in every detail an ideal plant. The capacity will be large and prospectors and owners of small vanadium mines who desire to do so may ship or haul their ore to the Cutter plant and either sell it to the vanadium people at the market price or have it treated at the charges generally made at custom smelters.

Prospectors Scour Hills.
Advised from Cutter and the surrounding mountain country are to the effect that many prospectors have abandoned their hunt of lead and other valuable metals found in the Caballo mountains, and are now spending their time in a rush for the discovery of vanadium deposits. Should any of the prospectors be fortunate enough to locate new bodies of the rare mineral, they will have cause for great joy, as it will make them independent for life, and if the find be quite extended, will mean great wealth.

ANNUAL MEETING OF Y. W. C. A. WILL OCCUR MONDAY

Election of Directors, Reports and Plans for Ensuing Year Included in Important Business.

The work of the Young Women's Christian association in Albuquerque for the ensuing year, a work which it is planned to make much more extensive and useful than in the past, will be outlined and discussed at the annual meeting of the association which will be held at the Presbyterian church Monday night. Full reports from all officers, including the report of the treasurer of the block day committee, will be heard and directors will be elected for the coming year.

The president's annual message will also be read. Business men and persons interested in civic betterment are invited to attend this meeting, which will be given to the public.

There will also be a fine musical program under the direction of Mrs. Roy McDonald. A chorus of young ladies, and a trio composed of Misses Pauline, Charlotte, and Viola Hinchey and Charlotte Pratt, will take part. The committee chairmen who will report are: Mrs. J. H. Heald, devotion committee; Mrs. Strangman, membership committee; Mrs. Roy McDonald, social committee; Mrs. Isaac Barth, house committee; and Mrs. W. H. Barney, library and rest room committee.

SENATOR CLARK'S GIFT TO Y. W. C. A. IS $150,000
The Los Angeles Times has the following regarding the Y. W. C. A. movement in the coast city:
"For a Y. W. C. A. debt free." This smiling legend flashes in cheerful red from the buttons to be worn today by one hundred women who will each endeavor to secure at least one subscription of $100 to be applied on the $140,000 indebtedness which has overshadowed the Young Women's Christian Association since its completion in June, 1908.

In reality, this debt has not been a show coward, for the managing board and the officers of the association have never permitted the obligation to rest as a burden upon the shoulders of the more than 6,000 members, nor have they permitted the fact of their indebtedness to intrude itself into the joy or the usefulness of the work. They understood that it would take something from the happiness of the membership and from the pleasure of the social gatherings if their debt was continually announced as something which kept the association from freedom and from its highest use.

Having waited until they thought an opportune time had come to place the association debt free, the officers are now approaching the public in confidence and they anticipate a generous response. It is their hope that between 120 and 150 of their officers, who are the one hundred workers who enter the Los Angeles field will not only report that they have each secured one $100 subscription, but that they will hear the good news that the business men of Los Angeles and the wealthy women of the city have lifted the last dollar of the debt.

Pickard China

The Pickard trade mark on a piece of china means that it is hand painted by one of the world's greatest ceramic artists. Connoisseurs and art critics admit its superiority to all other china. The new white and gold dishes with Greek border has proven the most popular of this season.

SOLE AGENTS,

Libby Cut Glass

High grade cut glass grows more popular each year. Discriminating persons always look for the trade marks, Libby or Hawkes, etched on each piece. If it is not there, disappointment is the result. Libby's and Hawkes's are the only genuine cut glass, all others are pressed glass polished to look like cut glass.

open market, sold it at a sharp advance and turned over every cent of the profit to be applied on the purchase of the 60 feet, which they retained as the present site of their excellent building.

Thus it happened that with only $1,000 in the treasury, The Young Women's Christian Association bought, at $700 per front foot, Hill street property which in three years' time has increased in value to almost three times the purchase price.

The ladies think they cannot too strongly emphasize the idea, that the giving of this sum by the public is but a grateful acknowledgment of former Senator Clark's recent gift of $150,000 to the association for a women's dormitory on Loma drive, to be known as the Mary Andrews Clark Memorial Home. If one man could give so much wealth to supply the single deficiency in this great work, the ladies feel that the public at large can very well afford to meet his generosity with a gift one-third as large.

This Day Allocated.
This is the last day which the ladies have allotted to themselves as the time in which they hope to raise the desired amount. Of course, it will not be possible for the women to interview anything like all of the business men of the city, nor will they have time to approach all of those business men, who are known to be friendly to the association and who would be willing to contribute something to its present need. For this reason Miss Tatham would greatly appreciate it, if those who are overlooked will either telephonically or in person, to the association or will bring them to the building in person.

"I'll tell you why that is my favorite philanthropy," said a beneficent lady whom I know, referring to Senator Clark's recent generous gift made to the Y. W. C. A. "I like to help an institution of that kind because its help is extended, not as a charity, but as an uplifting influence for those who are too independent to accept charity. I may be wrongly constituted, perhaps, but when I see people willing to beg, I find myself unwilling to help them. I like to help those who help themselves and who are especially interested in business girls. Now I am convinced that such a center as this where business girls may meet, have an inexpensive luncheon, rest a bit, look at good pictures and good books, and best of all, absorb the home-like atmosphere of the place, does an inestimable amount of good. It helps people, without robbing them of their self-respect." There is still another side to the work of this institution, which

WONDERED WHY Found the Answer Was "Coffee."

Many pale, sickly persons wonder for years why they have to suffer so, and eventually discover that the drug coffee—in coffee is the main cause of the trouble.

"I was always very fond of coffee and drank it every day. I never had much fresh and often wondered why I was always so pale, thin and weak. About five years ago my health completely broke down and I was confined to the bed. My stomach was in such condition that I could hardly take sufficient nourishment to sustain life. During this time I was drinking coffee, didn't think I could do without it. After awhile I came to the conclusion that coffee was hurting me, and decided to give it up and try Postum. I didn't like the taste of it at first, but when it was made right—boiled until dark and rich—I soon became very fond of it. I could eat more and sleep better. My sick headaches were less frequent, and within five months I looked and felt like a new being, headache spells entirely gone.

"My health continued to improve and today I am well and strong, weigh 145 pounds. I attribute my present health to the life-giving qualities of Postum. Read 'The Road to Wellville' in plain, 'There's a Reason.' Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest."

is as important and helpful, as that extended to business girls, that is the welcome and the assistance given to the stranger within our gates. Each day brings to the door of this home-like association a host of women who have just arrived in the city, and who wish to find safe and comfortable quarters, or advice as to the best way of establishing themselves in life here. To all, free information is given and a helpful hand is extended toward whatever they wish to do or be.

It should be a source of pride to every woman in Los Angeles that such an institution flourished here; for you know this is the largest institution of the kind in the world. It took courage to construct such a building as that, without endowment. Inspired by the recent gift, the association has started a campaign to clear the property of all incumbrances, and judging by the spirit with which its friends are induced, this feat will be accomplished. When you consider that membership for a year costs but $1, which amount admits to many privileges, such as lectures, concerts and other entertainments, as well as to the use of the library and reading room, it really seems as though every woman in Los Angeles county should seek membership.

WINSLOW SHEEPMAN LOSES $50 ON ANCIENT GAG IN PASS CITY

El Paso, Texas, Dec. 10.—N. B. Bankhead, a sheepman hailing from Winslow, Ariz., is out $50 and S. H. Morgan and Charles Weaver, a negro, are held at the police station on a charge of vagrancy.

Bankhead, shortly after arriving in El Paso, went over to Juarez to attend the fiesta, he says. While walking along calle Commercial, he says, he saw Morgan pick up a very small addie, and it attracted his attention. While Morgan was "experimenting" with the lock, it was found that by pressing a rivet in the center of the keyhole, the lock would open.

Weaver was given the lock, but was seemingly unable to open it. Morgan is then alleged to have offered to wager that Bankhead could open the lock without a key in ten seconds, but shortly the home-like atmosphere of the place, does an inestimable amount of good. It helps people, without robbing them of their self-respect." There is still another side to the work of this institution, which

LAS CRUCES POSTOFFICE BUSINESS HAS DOUBLED IN PAST THREE YEARS

Las Cruces, N. M., Dec. 10.—According to the rules of the general postoffice department, Las Cruces is entitled to have free city delivery, as the office passed the $10,000 mark in the four quarters just ended. The sales for the last quarter were over $2,500, and the average for the four quarters of the fiscal year just past was $2,510. Last week the local office put out 5,000 pieces of mail from one firm alone, and during the week more than 50,000 pieces of mail were handled. These figures apply only to the outgoing mail, the incoming mail averaging fully as many more pieces. During the past two weeks more than $1,200 were paid out in money orders, and during the fiscal year 11,000 pieces of registered mail were sent out.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Thomas Hughes left yesterday evening for Pueblo, Colo., where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. O. C. Watson.

Maynard Gonsul, vice-president and manager of the Federal bank, in Los Angeles, left last night for the coast after spending two days in Albuquerque looking after his business interests.

Remains of Robert Jordan Shipped.
The remains of Robert Jordan, who died in this city last Tuesday, were last night shipped to San Francisco by Undertaker Borders. From San Francisco the body will be sent to Honolulu, where Mr. Jordan was born 51 years ago, where interment will be made. Deceased came to Albuquerque as a member of the Angel trio to fill an engagement at the Grand theater, and shortly after his arrival here, suffered an attack of heart trouble from which he never rallied. Jordan was a talented musician, being the possessor of a beautiful tenor voice, and was a finished violin player. Several years ago he gained considerable note as a light-weight pugilist. A brother of the deceased is in the hardware business in San Francisco and another brother is a merchant in Honolulu, where two sisters also reside.

The territory covered in Europe was within a square of whose sides hundred miles by nine hundred miles, and is therefore about equal to that part of the United States north of the Ohio river and between the Atlantic coast and the Mississippi river.

To compare this expense with the cost of traveling in North America, a table has been made up of eleven different journeys varying in length from 40 miles to 441 miles, over well-known routes, the total distance being 4,911 miles. For this the total fares, including the cost of prior car seats, figure up to $50.15, with a pos-
