GENERAL SHAKE-UP AMID WEIGHERS OF MAIL

As Result of Loss to Government of Large Sums, Heads of Employees are Already Falling Under Axe.

Morning Journal Bureau.
612 Muncy Building.
Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.

Striking at an evil which has cost the government thousands of dollars, the postoffice department has started a far-reaching investigation to uncover irregularities in the weighing of mail matter for the railroads, and as a result of discoveries already made has ordered a shake-up of the service in the south.

The investigation is being conducted in various parts of the country. As a result of reports made by postoffice inspectors, showing gross irregularities in the weighing of mail matter, the postmaster general has ordered the removal from the service of Edward P. Blodgett, superintendent of stations, and James E. Norton and S. E. Allen, clerks at the Atlanta, Ga. station. The irregularities detected cover several years, and have resulted in the loss of many thousands of dollars to the government.

L. M. Terrell, superintendent of the railway mail service at Atlanta, at the same time was transferred from his important post to a minor place, because of his failure to discharge his duties to the satisfaction of the department. Supt. C. W. Pepper, of the railway mail division, having headquarters at Cleveland, has been ordered to take Terrell's place at Atlanta. Clyde M. Reed, superintendent of the division of railway adjustments in the postoffice department, was to Cleveland to take Pepper's place. Mr. Reed's place in the department has been filled by promotion of C. H. McBridge.

Changes in some of the names of others that will alter the whole system of weighing mail on shipment on the railroads. The disclosures that have been made so far are the direct result of an investigation which was started. It was supposed merely that the system was wrong. Now, in connection with the efforts to find out how much it costs the railroads to handle the mail, a general investigation will be made regarding the methods of weighing second-class matter.

The general investigation to determine the cost of transportation was headed by some of the most difficult investigations of the postmaster general's administration. Into this work is being thrown all the inequality of postoffice facilities, the cost of mail delivery, and the cost of the interstate commerce commission. If there is any graft in the enormous sums paid by the government to the big railroads of the country, Mr. Hitchcock, however, the railroads are receiving more than their share of the money, and that several millions of dollars may be saved by an equitable and businesslike adjustment of the rates.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN ORGANIZATION OF SERVICE
Postmaster General Hitchcock recently announced an important change in the organization of the postal service. It is the order of the several corps of superintendents and special agents doing supervisory work and inspection in the field, and is designed to give more attention to other postal needs at that place, to make the duplication of work and lack of effective cooperation unworkable under the old plan of organization. It is generally believed that an agent for one bureau of the department who visited remote places to take up business affecting his branch of the service, would be without authority under the old system of organization to give any attention to other postal needs at that place, to make the duplication of work and lack of effective cooperation unworkable under the old plan of organization.

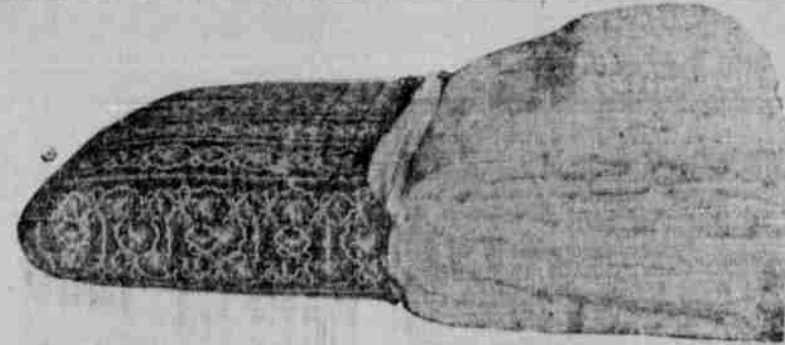

The field forces transferred to the general inspection service will be placed under the direction of the chief inspector by Mr. Hitchcock's order. It includes thirteen traveling superintendents from the bureau of the first assistant postmaster general, and four from the bureau of the second assistant postmaster general, and twelve special agents of the third assistant postmaster general.

Including the rural agents, who were formerly under the fourth assistant postmaster general, there are at present 255 inspectors, and with the addition of the city-inspectors and the rural agents, there will be organized under the chief inspector a total field force of 441.

The postmaster general has appointed Inspector Victor B. Weaver to the position of chief inspector of the Washington division, which comprises the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, and Puerto Rico.

Mr. Weaver, who has been serving as a postoffice inspector for about ten years, is regarded as one of the most capable members of the inspection force. During the last few months he has shown great efficiency in the handling of some of the important fraud cases investigated by the division of the postmaster general. He did exceptionally well in the case of the fraudulent telegraph company, the members of which were arrested in New York last week.

MOISSANT ASCENDS NEW COMMITTEE IS TO DIZZY HEIGHT IN MEMPHIS

Monoplane Lost to Vision of Spectators; Barograph Reads 9,364 Feet on Descent; Car Covered With Frost.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire) Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 17.—John H. Moissant went to a height of 9,364 feet today in his monoplane and true, in the United States Armstrong direction and Ralph Johnston alone eclipsed this distance and it is within 175 feet of the present world's record.

According to what looked from the ground to be an almost angle, the Chicagoan drove his monoplane skyward until it was only a speck. Then he was lost to vision. As the monoplane descended, Johnston was sent about but returned without tidings. In all there was seven unusually long minutes of waiting until a tiny dot appeared, gradually taking form as the monoplane came to earth.

As an attract of the publicity of the higher atmosphere, Moissant brought back with him a cone of ice. The metal parts of his car were covered with a frost and particles of ice had formed about the motor.

Exhibition and short cross-country flights completed the program. The scheduled three machine race was interrupted by Moissant's trip to the clouds.

The meeting will be concluded tomorrow.

SUGGESTED FOR CONGRESS

Representative Shirley Would Have Body Look After Estimates and Expenditures of the Government.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire) Washington, Dec. 17.—For the purpose of limiting appropriations by congress to the amount actually in sight in the way of government revenues, Representative Shirley of Kentucky introduced a resolution in the house today providing for a committee on estimates and expenditures. The committee is to be in substance a budget committee which will consider the available revenue opportunities and estimate the various branches and departments and systematically bring down estimates until they come within the available funds.

The Shirley resolution provides for the committee to include the chairman, four ranking majority members, and three ranking minority members, respectively of the ways and means committee and the appropriations committee, and the chairman and one ranking minority member each, from the other committees which pass upon appropriation bills. In this way all committees having to do with raising or expending revenues would have representation on the budget committee.

The resolution was sent to the house committee on rules. The formal call for a caucus of democratic members of the next house is to be held on Thursday night, January 19, was issued today by Representative Clayton, chairman of the caucus.

WOMEN MAY SMOKE IN FASHIONABLE HOTEL

New York, Dec. 17.—One of the new fashionable hotels in New York, under international management, has lifted the ban and now permits women to smoke in any part of the house. A hotelier, guest reported to the manager today that several women were smoking in the palm room.

"Why not?" asked the manager. "There is no law against women smoking," he said. "I have been amazed at the way in which hotel managers have regarded this habit, which is so common in all the hotels of England and the continent. I thought this was a free country, but such discrimination is an outrage against women. I certainly should much prefer to see a woman smoking than driving a cocktail."

HUNG JURY IN THE KRAUSS CASE

Mrs. Daisy Turney Krauss, Self Confessed Murderer of Realty Broker Is Not Convicted.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire) Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17.—The jury trying Mrs. Daisy Turney Krauss, the Memphis, Tenn. society woman, charged with assault with intent to kill Franklin M. Griffith, a realty broker, was discharged at a deadlock today after reporting its inability to agree upon a verdict. The jury was to have stood 9 to 3 for an acquittal.

Mrs. Krauss shot Griffith several months ago, following a short acquaintance which Griffith had with her when her former husband died at their home in Memphis. She entered on trial at her own request, after reporting its inability to agree upon a verdict. The jury was to have stood 9 to 3 for an acquittal.

Dr. William Krauss, dean of the medical college of the University of Mississippi, who divorced the woman on account of her association with Griffith, testified in her behalf, saying that she was mentally deficient and about as responsible as a child.

HITCHCOCK'S ASSISTANT A GOOD ROADS BOOSTER

Fourth assistant postmaster general has taken on the role of good roads booster. He has charge of the small free delivery service, and in a letter to postmasters he threatens to discontinue the service in localities where the roads are not kept in good condition.

The postmasters are directed to inform themselves of the road conditions and keep watch of the amount of attention paid to them by local authorities. If improvements are needed, the chief of the post department will be directed to bring the matter to the attention of the road, and also the local authorities. If, after a reasonable time, needed improvements have not been made, he is ordered to notify the postoffice department officials, and the service will be discontinued.

The department is not immediately concerned in elaborate road improvements, says Mr. DeBrahm's letter, but is the interest of the best service to the greatest number. It must not upon roads being kept in good repair.

Postmasters are also asked to agree upon residents on rural delivery routes the advisability of painting their mail boxes and porte whites, and of inscribing their names upon the boxes in large black letters.

The following bills have been introduced in the house by Delegate Andrews:

Bill appropriating the sum of $25,000 for the purpose of constructing a new house of commons will be introduced. If the results in six districts yet to be decided repeat the decision of last January, the old predominant parties, the liberals and unionists, will have four members and one member less respectively than they did in the last parliament, making them exactly equal if the speaker who is elected is a unionist, is excluded.

These seats have gone to the government allies, labor having added three to their numerical strength, while the Conservatives have lost two. The Conservatives were more than 100 in the last parliament, but the Conservatives were more than 100 in the last parliament.

The standing of the parties tonight is: Government coalition—Liberals, 25; Conservatives, 42; Nationalists, 72; Independent Unionists, 19. Total, 258.

Oppositionists—Unionists, 27. There were five by-elections today, but results of only two were declared tonight. The unionists secured a gain in St. Andrews Burgess, which the Liberals held by the narrow majority of 24. Lieutenant Colonel J. E. R. Seider, the former parliamentary secretary of the colonial office, who was elected for the Hibernian division of Derbyshire, is a by-election but March, but increased his majority.

With the elections over, some rumors are circulating and there is no longer talk of a possible home rule. The Liberal policy is now confined to self-government for Ireland, subject

HOUSE OF COMMONS IS UNCHANGED

Old Predominant Parties, Liberals and Unionists, Will Be Equal in Strength.

Windows were broken in several cars near the union hall where strikers had congregated, but a squad of police soon quelled the disturbance. The cars were well patronized, but no attempt was made to operate them after 7 o'clock this evening.

HALF MILLION WILL "ONE ROUND" HOGAN BE OFFERED IN PURSES GETS DECISION OVER FRAYNE

Seventeen Towns in Great Western Circuit - Complete Program for Season Opening July 4;

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Fort Wayne and Terre Haute were expelled today from the Great Western circuit at a meeting held in Chicago. Muskogee, Okla., was accepted and allotted the week of October 9th. It has the only half-mile track in the circuit. Neither Wheaton, Libertyville nor Indianapolis made their expected application for membership.

Nearly $500,000 was hung up as purses for the seventeen members for the season's opening, July 4th in Joliet, Ill., and ending November 11th in Phoenix, Ariz. This makes it the biggest harness circuit in the United States.

The schedule for 1911, with the amount of purses is as follows:

Joliet, Ill., July 4-8, $6,000.

Decatur, Ill., July 10-15, $12,000.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 17-22, $35,000.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 24-29, $40,000.

Detroit, Mich., July 31-August 5, $40,000.

Cleveland, O., August 7-12, $32,000.

Peoria, Ill., August 14-19, $15,000.

Galesburg, Ill., August 21-26, $15,000.

Joliet, Ill., August 28-September 2, $10,000.

Hamlin, Minn., September 4-9, $30,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., September 11-16, $25,000.

Columbus, O., September 18-20, $10,000.

Springfield, Ill., October 2-7, $25,000.

Muskogee, Okla., October 9-13, $10,000.

Dallas, Tex., October 16-28, $20,000.

El Paso, Tex., October 30-November 3, $10,000.

Phoenix, Ariz., November 6-11, $25,000.

Total, $475,000.

This is the largest sum ever offered by the circuit.

George Keller of Peoria, Ill., was re-elected president, and W. P. Smoller of Iron Mountain, Mo., was re-elected secretary at the annual meeting of stewards of the Great Western Trotting circuit, which closed here late today.

Terre Haute and Fort Wayne, Ind., were dropped from the circuit. Decatur, Ill., and Muskogee, Okla., will take their places. This is Muskogee's first appearance, while Decatur returns after being out two years. Fort Wayne was dropped because the association there failed to hold a meeting on dates assigned last year. Terre Haute was dropped because its mile track has been closed.

Representatives from tracks which are members of the circuit, said tonight the $475,000 offered in purses will be increased to more than $500,000 before the racing season opens.

Young Fighter is Aspirant After Lightweight Title Now Held by Wolgast and Has Good Chance to Get It.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire]

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—"One Round" Jack Hogan, the terror of local short distance fighters, graduated from that class today when he earned a 20-round decision over Johnny Frayne, a lightweight of pre-eminence at Hogan's open-air arena. The going along, Hogan, who has been fighting today, old-time fight followers unhesitatingly maintain that Hogan, who is barely 21 years old, with little additional experience, will prove a serious contender among the many challengers for the lightweight belt now worn by Ad Wolgast of Michigan.

Today's battle was a case of hard-hitting, sterling young fighter, against experience, cleverness and gameness. Hogan took the hit in his teeth at the very outset and before the battle was three rounds old it looked as if another scalp would be added to his belt.

In the fourth round Hogan beat his opponent into almost complete helplessness and Frayne wobbled to his corner apparently beaten. Again in the fifth round Hogan administered fearful punishment, but Frayne weathered the gale. Hogan struggled desperately to land a knockout blow, but round after round when it appeared certain that Frayne was doomed to defeat, he would come up refreshed and electrify the spectators with an exhibition of gameness and cleverness seldom seen in a prize ring.

In the eighteenth and nineteenth rounds it seemed a certainty that Hogan would score a knockout but again the clang of the song saved Frayne.

The last round found Hogan trying to make his victory complete by scoring with a finishing blow, but Frayne with his senses dulled and his eyes closed, made a last stand and succeeded in lasting the limit. The referee promptly declared Hogan the victor.

SANITARY SEWER SYSTEM PLANNED FOR SANTA FE

Citizens of Ancient City Get Together on Civic Improvement Matter and Committee Is to Confer With City Council.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal]

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 17.—Yesterday afternoon in the offices of the Santa Fe Water and Light company, a meeting of the board of trade committee to consider the construction of a complete sewer system for Santa Fe was held. The matter was discussed from many viewpoints and it was finally decided to fall back on the district improvement or Roberts law passed by the legislative assembly of 1909, and which is Chapter 31 of the Session Laws. A committee was appointed to confer with the city council for the purpose of inaugurating the formation of an improvement district. Frank A. Owen is the chairman of this committee and the other members are: Jose D. Sena, E. F. Gormley, E. C. Abbott, Fred Mueller, J. W. Norment, John H. Walker, A. B. Renahan and J. A. Rolla. Engineers Smythe, Walker, Neel and Cooper were constituted a committee to look further into the question of the cost of an adequate sewer system for Santa Fe. The committee came to the conclusion that Santa Fe could build a good sanitary sewer system at much less cost than the average town of the same size, on account of its favorable topography.

SOIL WILL RAISE ANYTHING SAYS PROF. TINSLEY

PRESCRIBES BEST CROPS
FOR FARMERS TO SOUTH

Farrow System of Irrigation for Higher Lands; Experiment Farm at Rio Grande Industrial School.

That the valley lands south of the city in the vicinity of the Rio Grande Industrial school will raise profitably all the crops of which the Rio Grande valley in general is capable sums up the findings of Prof. J. D. Tinsley, soil expert and agricultural demonstrator, as the result of his visit Friday afternoon and evening with the members of the Farmers' Experiment association south of the city at the Rio Grande school. Prof. Tinsley's inspection of the lands there was exhaustive and his advice to the farmers was thoroughly practical, advice of the kind which may be applied at once to the methods of tilling the soil and growing crops.

Prof. Tinsley was especially interested in his visit to the ranch of the industrial school, where 170 acres are being developed into a practical experiment farm which will do much to help agricultural progress in this section. Superintendent A. C. Heyman and his assistants have terraced off considerable ground, four or five acres which has been placed in good shape for experiment work. This tract will be planted in sections of about one-twentieth of an acre each and thirty or forty varieties of garden truck and general farm crops will be tried out. Prof. Tinsley thought the site and the conditions admirably adapted for the purpose. The well at the ranch is now being deepened and a model pumping-for-irrigation plant will be installed. This school has developed into a rather important institution and it is understood spends with Albuquerque business men and merchants over four thousand dollars a year. It has ambitious plans for the future.

Prof. Tinsley, accompanied by the farmers, went down on the river bottom opposite the school and inspected its possibilities. Sorghum, kafir corn and milo maize in his opinion, will prove the best feeding crops there with good prospects especially for the growing of the milo as a grain crop. The expert gave valuable suggestions as to leveling and preparing the ground for irrigation. The higher lands he believed to not need to be terraced but may be irrigated by the furrow method down a general slope, instead of by flooding.

"The soil," said Prof. Tinsley, "is excellent for truck gardening. It is rich soil, but it must be borne in mind that its very richness makes the use of stable manure highly important as the fertilizer brings out the good qualities of the soil. In poorer soil the earth clings to the manure and gets no benefit from it. This ground will give up its good qualities much more quickly if combined with manure."

The upper land was found splendidly adapted for fruit, especially peaches and cherries, while Prof. Tinsley thinks apples will also do well and yield good returns, and the chance for raising grapes is splendid. The pumping proposition which will reclaim the higher lands south of the city, he considered entirely feasible, and there is no doubt that negotiations now under way will finally result in the securing of cheap power from some source for raising the water, which is available at a moderate depth. The matter of building a good sized reservoir near the school was discussed with the expert who believes the plan is a good one.

Prof. Tinsley is a thoroughly practical man, said Superintendent Heyman yesterday, "and he goes right down to brass tacks on this proposition. The advice he gave our farmers was all right to the point and he confined himself entirely to business, always recommending the practical limitations which must be regarded. His visit has greatly encouraged the people down there, and awakened considerable enthusiasm. We are going right ahead with the development of this section and with an unusually intelligent and progressive farming community expect to get results."

SPECULATION AS TO EFFECT OF RATE RULING

After February 17, No Intermediate Rate Can Be Higher
Than That to Terminal Points;
Albuquerque Will Be Affected.

On the 17th of February next there will go into effect on the Santa Fe system the ruling of the interstate commerce commission, whereby, unless specifically permitted, no railroad may charge higher rates to intermediate points than to terminal points. That the effect of the ruling will be felt in New Mexico is at once evident, but what will be the exact nature of the result is hard to forecast. The railroad men say that it will be a knife that cuts both ways; will reopen the whole question of rates, and start the liveliest argument yet held between the government and the railroads. It will mean that Albuquerque will get the same rate from eastern points that El Paso does, which will be a considerable reduction. The railroad men, however, point out that it will give eastern jobbers the best of it, and with all intermediate points on the same basis, will give a black eye to local competitive business.

With every town, for instance, between Denver and El Paso enjoying the same rate, it is pointed out, the New Mexico jobbing house in a commercial center, paying a higher rate than its neighbor a few miles east, will have some difficulty doing business when the town up the line can get its stuff direct from the east more cheaply.

The main argument of the railroad men is that they have to fix the terminal rates lower in order to do business in any certain territory at all. The haul to the terminal point may be twice as long as that of a competing line, but the rate must go down to meet the competition if the railroad with the longer haul expects to enter the territory. It is presumed that therefore the long haul line must make expenses at the intermediate points, for without its low terminal rate it could not do business with the intermediate towns at all. There are a number of instances, such as between Deming and El Paso, the Southern Pacific having a bee line, where the Santa Fe has to go around two sides of a triangle and yet meet the rate of the competitive at the terminal point.

The Santa Fe business between Kinman City and El Paso is cited as another example where rival roads have a much shorter haul across one side of the triangle yet the Santa Fe must, with its longer haul, make the same rate to the competitive point. "It is the same old difficulty of the long and the short haul," said a Santa Fe official in this city yesterday. "This ruling of the commission will open up another endless argument. If the Santa Fe wants to charge a higher rate to the non-competitive point, it must show cause and get specific permission. If all the intermediate rates are brought down to the terminal rate, the whole theory of railroad competition is upset. You can see that it is bound to shake things up clear from the bottom. What the result will be or what the course of the railroads will be is hard to say at this time. Here in the west especially it is bound to make endless trouble. In many cases the small towns along the line would have no transportation facilities if he could not bid for the business of the section by meeting the terminal rate at a center further along. I tell you the people of this part of the country need to understand a lot of things about railroad rates. The mistake of the railroads in the past, in my opinion, has been the failure to take the public into their confidence, and now it is hard to make the public believe them."

"Nowadays a railroad company must actually spend more time making explanations to the public than it spends in doing business. When you go to delve into the thing you are quite likely to find that Albuquerque business men will be worse off with the same rate as El Paso than with a higher rate. The adjusting of railroad rates is one of the most complicated and delicate things in the industrial world today. Yet the ordinary man thinks he is solving the problem when he demands the rate to his town be made as low as to a town further along the line."

"The popular cry nowadays is to force the railroads to recognize public sentiment. Biggest mistake in the world. If there is anything which a railroad depends for its business and

CHRISTMAS RUSH ON IN EARNEST

Stores Crowded With Shoppers and the Postoffice and Ex-

Heavy Rush.

Christmas shoppers thronged the streets and stores yesterday, and a big business was done by the shops making a specialty of holiday goods. Yesterday was the eleventh hour day for people who wished to purchase gifts for relatives and friends in distant cities and have them reach their destination in time for delivery on Christmas Day. The postoffice did a thriving business yesterday and the mail wagons plying between the downtown postoffice and the mail room at the depot were heavily laden on every trip. In order to assist the public in every manner possible, Postmaster R. W. Hopkins has had a large table installed in the lobby of the postoffice, where string, mullage, pens and ink, and everything necessary for preparing a package for the mail are provided. The Wells-Fargo Express office is also doing a busy business these days, thousands of packages being received in and sent away from Albuquerque. East and west-bound express cars on the railroad are packed to the roof with Christmas shipments and for several days past extra cars have been run on all trains carrying express.

How Sheriff Ralph Cameron Made Hawshaw Amateur

Exploit of Present Arizona Delegate in Tracking Desperado All Over the Southwest, Capturing Him Without Requisition Papers at Las Vegas and Bluffing Outlaw Bunch With Shotgun Reads Like Dime Library of Lurid Hue; Topped Achievements by Kidnaping Postmaster General and Securing Statehood Act.

Morning Journal Bureau,
613 Munsey Building,
Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.

In the summer of 1893, Tom Grady, a sturdy young sheepman, was shot in the back and killed by a desperado Mexican sheepherder named Jose Garcia. The crime was committed fifty miles west of Flagstaff, Arizona. A party headed by the sheriff of Coconino county made a four-day search for the trail of the Mexican, failed to find it and gave up the hunt. The sheepmen induced young Ralph Cameron, now delegate to the house of representatives, in whom they had vast confidence, to take up the abandoned chase. Then started a six-weeks pursuit of almost unprecedented hardness that illustrates the qualities of a man who brought to a successful conclusion the twenty-five-year battle that the territory has waged for statehood.

Cameron took the trail six days after the crime had been committed. He has a theory that a murderer always goes back to his old home and his own people. He cited the Charlton case as a recent example of the truth of this theory. The crime was committed west of Flagstaff, but New Mexico, the original home of the murderer, was to the east. The Mexican had to pass through that wild which lay between Flagstaff and the Grand Canyon of the Colorado to the north.

Cameron set out to the north and east, thus gaining many days. On the great plain between waterholes he abandoned his horse and circled on foot in search of a trail. He picked up the track of a man who had been where there are only Navajo Indians, and knew that he was after his man. He followed the trail for days, eating occasionally at the camp of Indians, and sleeping by night without blankets on the ground. One night he had gone to sleep in the sand in a gully with his hat for a pillow. A storm broke in the mountains above him, and he awoke to find himself floating down the gully and his hat gone. For days the rain poured. All traces of a trail were obliterated. He decided to hurry on to Albuquerque, whither he felt his quarry had gone. He walked thirty miles to the road. Here he found that the freshets had washed out bridges and put a hundred miles of railroad out of commission and made the streams impassable for a horse. He pushed on, climbed over spans that had been railroad bridges, but were now but strings of rails that connected the banks.

At the end of five days he plunged into Hell's Half Acre, at that time a section of Albuquerque inhabited by outlaw natives. He found a sheepherder whom he had known in Arizona and who was an enemy of Garcia the murderer. This Mexican had seen the outlaw the night before. Cameron spent a week searching Albuquerque without success. He went to Las Vegas. The man he wanted had been there also, and he found that four years before he had been married to a woman who lived in a settlement thirty miles out of town. He failed to find him there, however.

But he set a Dutchman to watch the camp and continued his search, which led through portions of Texas, much of New Mexico, and particularly into Gallina Canyon, the lawless rendezvous of the worst gang of desperados the west has ever known. Here Cameron spent five days facing a fight to the death if his mission was discovered and a no less delicate situation if he found his man. Finally he received word from his Dutchman that the outlaw had fled into the camp of his former wife; had come back home, as murderers always do. Cameron picked up another man who was said to be willing to undertake anything from money down for $25. He surprised the camp at daybreak, captured his man and chained him to the hiring.

But in Las Vegas he encountered a very delicate situation. It was at the time when the state was determined to stand against the outlaws, but had not yet won its fight. That week ten Mexicans had been indicted and the community was near civil war. Cameron had had the commission and warrant and was entirely without requisition papers. But he was determined on kidnaping his prisoner into Arizona.

The train passed through at 5 o'clock. Cameron put his prisoner in a hack, the renegade still chained to the hiring, and planned to reach the depot as the train was just ready to pull out. This he did successfully, but unfortunately, the train had broken down, and a delay of two hours followed.

The Americans were drawn up on one side of the tracks and the natives on the other, and all seemed ready for the very worst. Cameron climbed on top of his back with a double-barreled shotgun and declared that he would shoot the legs off the first man who batted an eye. So he sat for two hours, made his bluff good and got away with his prisoner.

Probably the best of his stunts was that of kidnaping Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock. That was several months ago. The postmaster general had already formed a liking for Cameron in Arizona and Cameron gave him two months of the best camping of his life and showed him the whole country.

At the end of that two months the astute postmaster general was a cavalry enthusiast. The men of the east in congress were opposed to the territories coming in. Probably nobody but the postmaster general could have brought these eastern members around. But he did it. He went on the floor of the house and pleaded for statehood. He was closeted many an hour with the New England senators. He oiled the wheels. Cameron had kidnaped him without requisition papers, but it was a part of the job that was to be completed.

THE COLUMBIA PARK BOY'S CLUB MAKES HUGE HIT

Entertainment at Elks' Theater Last Night Under Auspices of Santa Fe Reading Room Unqualified Success.

Good singing and tuncful music combined with clever acting and wonderful drilling made the Columbia Park Boys' club performance at Elks' theater last night one of the best all-around attractions which has ever been shown in the local opera house. Every number was beautifully staged and with appropriate costumes and each and every one was a success and worth an admission charge. The theater was packed to the doors with an enthusiastic audience which was most generous in applause for the boys who showed such careful and systematic training in their exceedingly clever work. From the grand entrance which was a medley of military drill and music to the roaring farce which ended proceedings, it was good, clean, bright and somewhat remarkable when taking into consideration the youth of the participants. The club has only returned from a 20,000 mile tour through the South Seas and Australia, and the same program was given 132 times under the personal direction of Major Sidney S. Pelkott, who conducted last evening. Major Pelkott is president of the Pacific Athletic association, of the United States Athletic Union, the Public Schools Athletic League, of San Francisco and the American Boy Scouts, division of northern California, and has had full charge of the Columbia Park Boys' club since its start on the road. The boys are mainly looking specimens of young manhood, full of the vigor and health of youth and enjoy their traveling and show work hugely.

As for the show, last evening it's rather difficult to matter to say which numbers won the most favor with the audience, as all were so well received, but it is safe to say that Stanley Clifford and Edwin Conn in songs and dances from the opera were recalled more repeatedly than the principals of any other number. "The Highlanders" was a beautiful act and the Scottish costumes, dancing and singing made an instantaneous hit as did the "Boys' Club" song, which introduced E. Burke, W. Prang H. Hastings and S. Williams in vocal selections harmonica and guitar work.

Harry Hastings Emil Hastings and George Douglas sang and danced singing and dancing specialties which won much applause. The acrobatic and crack military stunts were a good part of the show.

All in all the performance was a credit to the opera house and those who missed it will need to regret a splendid entertainment. The Santa Fe Reading Room system has in the Boys' club a strong drawing card and an attraction which is first-class in every way and which comes up to the high standard maintained by the system.

The program in full for last night was as follows:—Introduction by Master George Mann.
1. Grand entrance by the Columbia Park Boys' band of thirty-five pieces, introducing "The Thunderer" by Sousa, and the "Columbia Park Boys' Club March" written for the band by Conrad Horst.
2. Harry Hastings, the boy "Don Shouter," singing the latest songs.
3. Acrobatic stunts by Harry Hastings and Edwin Conn, and the funny clown, Louis O'Brien, in a high-class exhibition of ground and lofty tumbling.
4. Emil Hastings. A clever singer and dancer, singing "When Highland Morn Danced the Highland Fling" and "The Little Shirl My Mother Made for Me."
5. Military stunts by a crack band of twelve boys, captained by Everett Call, introducing "Army Drill."

Manual of Arms, Baton Twirling, Drumming and Bugling.
6. Intermission (ten minutes).
Selection, "Operatic Mingle," by the orchestra (Berry).
7. The Highlanders. A clever singing and dancing act, led by George Douglas and Kenneth McRae, the former singing Harry Hastings' famous "Tobermory," the latter dancing the "Highland Fling," accompanied by a sextette of boy dancers in Scotch costume.
8. Stanley Clifford and Edwin Conn in songs and duets from the opera.
9. An entertaining musical act, introducing Edward Burke, William Prang, Harry Hastings, and Sheidan Williams in numbers on the harmonica guitar, and in vocal selections.

10. Quartette of Cornets. An attractive musical number, introducing a medley of American warlike melodies, played by Herbert Lohse, Geo. Hargrett, Harris Fraser and Edwin Toepke.
11. Pyramid team of twenty, in twelve beautiful athletic poses.
12. George Douglas, in his fine impersonation of a stranded minstrel, singing "All In, Down and Out," and "Transmagnificent Bandman."
13. The performance to conclude with the roaring farce, originated at the club.

BEAVERS TO-BE ARE IN TRAINING

Seventy-Five Candidates Preparing to Be Initiated Into the Big 'Dam,' Which Is Soon to Be Instituted.

Cutting and whetting their teeth, preparatory to the building of the local "Dam," about seventy-five beavers are at this time in training for the institution of the order in Albuquerque, which will occur within the next ten or twelve days. Organizer Hockaday has practically completed his work, and has been successful in securing a list of charter applicants, the personnel of which spells success for the order from the start.

Mr. Hockaday's report to the supreme dam goes forward today, and the dispensation along with the "instruments of torture" will reach the city during the week, when the definite night of institution will be named. The beavers have a heavy, warm initiation which the charter members will not have to take, other than three victims, who will be taught to "swim the muddy waters" and "climb slippery banks." The others will be provided with rubber and wooden tools to reach the banks of "good fellowship" beyond and so dominant in this order. Mr. Hockaday remains in the city until after the institution to perfect and give the local dam its proper impetus. Pending the arrival of the paraphernalia, etc., he will continue to take "a few more of those worthy of being a fellow to a prince."

DOZENS OF CHRISTMAS TREES BEING CUT ON THE MANZANO FOREST

According to W. R. Mattoon, supervisor of the Manzano National forest, the demand for Christmas trees this year has been large. Trees have been given under free use permit to various churches and schools, and to private individuals under the regulations that the applicants go personally to the forest for the trees. Several large sales have been made to local dealers. In all cases the trees are marked before cutting by the forest officer, since it is important that these little trees which are to form the future forest shall not be thinned out too much. The trees are taken from groups where thinning of the forest stand can be done without injury to the remaining trees and without danger from undue soil erosion.

It is unlawful to cut green trees on National forest land without first obtaining a permit. All applications for information or for permits to cut Christmas trees should be made to W. R. Mattoon, forest supervisor, with offices in the Luna-Strickler building.

NEW YORK COLONY TO SETTLE ALONG THE UPPER AGUA FRIA

Prescott, Ariz., Dec. 16.—Appreciating the wonderful possibilities of the land adjacent to Jerome Junction on the west, and along the Upper Agua Fria, contiguous to Yaeger Station, on the P. & E. railroad, Edward Hornell of Ulica, N. Y., who arrived Friday, after several days of an inspection of the country, states that it is probable that it will be colonized by people from his state. He made a hasty examination of the country, and being a practical farmer, expressed himself as impressed with its fertility and believed that an abundance of water can be developed at a nominal cost. His plan is to bore with a churn drill, and the land to be selected for that determination is in the lower reaches of the valley. He prefers the Yaeger section, stating it is more desirable for exploring for a water supply.

Mr. Hornell also states that in the eastern states there is a decidedly keen interest for investment in the western farming lands, one of the reasons being that milder winters are desired by many. He was a visitor to the territorial fair, and is attracted to this section from the agricultural and horticultural standpoint. He will leave for southern Arizona in a few days, and from there will return home. He intends to return early next year, and from his favorable impression of the Lonesome valley region, it is probable he will become identified with it.

Every family has need of a good, reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the muscles and rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's. Sold by all dealers.

NAVARRO DESCRIBES BATTLE AT PEDERNALES. Mexico City, Dec. 17.—Through Colonel Garcia Cullen, chief of staff of President Diaz, the Associated Press was tonight given a copy of a telegraphic report of the battle of Pedernales, Chihuahua, and a copy forwarded to the war department here.

The report reads: "In compliance with your telegram of yesterday, I sent 475 men under Colonel Trucey Aubert of the thirtieth cavalry to take possession of Mal Paso, and protect the arrival of reinforcements from Chihuahua. The revolutionary forces of the heights bordering the pass and began firing upon the troops from all sides. At the same time, other revolutionary forces began firing upon my own troops at Pedernales. I then sent orders to my men at the latter place, I marched alone to see what was happening in the distance. After two hours' fighting we dislodged the enemy from their entrenchments. After this I proceeded with Colonel Aubert's troops to Pedernales, where the fighting had become general and very intense. The revolutionists were about one thousand strong, and were doing their best to avoid allowing our reinforcements to join us.

"After six hours' fighting at this point, we routed the enemy. The revolutionists fled in all directions. They left forty-four dead men on the field, but undoubtedly many more were killed. Many of them were wounded, but were carried away by their comrades. We captured thirty-two rifles, six Mausers, one bugle and a quantity of ammunition.

"On our side two officers and two privates were killed. Among the dead are Lieutenant Beltrán of the thirtieth cavalry and Second Lieutenant Taya of the twentieth infantry. Among the wounded are Captain Florentino Gova of the thirtieth cavalry and twenty-six soldiers.

"Colonel Aubert's horse was killed. I am much satisfied with the conduct and gallantry of my command, and wish to especially mention Lieutenant Beltrán, who was gallantly killed on the field of battle."

600 TONS PER DAY DUMPED AT BRILLIANT COLLIERY NEAR RATON

Raton, N. M., Dec. 15.—Six hundred tons of coal was dumped at the brilliant colliery one day last week, the best record so far made by this mine. Before the opening of spring it is the expectation of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company that the output of the two mines at Brilliant will be averaging over 1,500 tons daily. The mine is fast eclipsing its oldtime importance, the most recent evidence of its growing activity being a moving picture show which will be held three times a week in the school house.

E. L. Fugate returned this morning from a business trip to Vanhook.

The funeral of George Partridge of Vanhook, will be held tomorrow morning at 10:45 from the Fugate Undertaking parlor, and will be in charge of the Knights Templar.

LONG AND SHORT HAUL CLAUSE MAKES TROUBLE

Washington, Dec. 17.—Applications for relief under the long and short haul provision of the interstate commerce act, being well known for several weeks, but more particularly during the last few days, these applications ask relief from liability for violation of the long and short haul provision, it being well known that the tariffs of every railroad contain instances of technical violation

MILLION DOLLAR MINING LAW SUIT ON TRIAL IN TOMBSTONE COURT

Tombstone, Ariz., Dec. 15.—In the district court this week the famous million dollar law suit was called for trial before Judge John C. Campbell. The case is entitled John Gleason vs. Martin Costello, and is perhaps one of the largest mining suits ever filed in the territory, and involves approximately over $1,000,000, embracing some of the most valuable mining claims in the county. The complaint in the case is a lengthy one, and covers over eleven typewritten pages, and alleges a partnership agreement between the plaintiff, Attorney James H. Kelly, now deceased, and Martin Costello, which dates back to 1893. Many allegations are made and important transactions recited, all of which are involved.

ONLY WOMAN MINE OPERATOR OF ARIZONA DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Prescott, Ariz., Dec. 16.—Los Angeles papers received in Prescott yesterday convey the sad news that Mrs. Sara B. Thacker, probably the only woman mining operator in the country, passed away in that city a few days ago. She will be remembered as operating for the past five years the Gold King and Aster mines, in northern Arizona, and a directing exploration of her interests in this section and at other points in the mining field.

for Shooting Niece at Lucy in Difficulties Back East.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)
Hillsboro, Ill., Dec. 17.—News has been received here of the fatal shooting of Miss Mary Williamson, near Lucy, N. M., by her uncle, W. A. Gray. Miss Williamson was a sister of Ed Williamson of this city and was a school teacher six years ago at Coffey, Ill. She lived at the home of Dr. Cook while she was attending school at Channah, and later became a teacher in the schools there. Gray at that time was janitor at the school house. After a difficulty with the principal of the school and the school board, both Gray and his niece left this section, and it is believed shortly after went to New Mexico.

ficers; Effective Work Done by Boosters.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Deming, N. M., Dec. 16.—The annual smoker and election of officers was held in the rooms of the chamber of commerce Wednesday evening. It was a very enthusiastic meeting. Reports from the officers and committees showed the chamber in excellent condition financially, and also set forth the immense amount of advertising and other work done by the chamber in the last eight months. A. W. Polard was chosen president for the ensuing year, and Leo O. Lester was re-elected treasurer, both by acclamation. The following were elected members of the board of directors: John Corbett, S. A. Bolich, John Hund, Dr. J. H. Moir, C. J. Laughren, W. E. Holt and H. C. Ely. A resolution was unanimously adopted thanking the secretary, H. Bedichek, for the faithful and efficient work during the last eight months.

The new board of directors met the following morning. At this meeting the resignation of N. A. Bolich was accepted and H. Bedichek was selected by the board to fill the vacancy. Plans for strengthening the organization and advancing the work already begun were formulated.

TWO ROSWELL BOYS BADLY INJURED IN DISASTROUS RUNAWAY

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Roswell, N. M., Dec. 14.—Pitched headlong from their buggy, Hipolito Chavez and Alfredo Chavez were seriously hurt here today. They were starting across the Rio Grande bridge when their horse ran away. The buggy was upset and broken to pieces. Hipolito struck on his face and was knocked unconscious for a half hour. His nose was broken and his face was mangled. Alfredo's injuries were internal and it is feared they are dangerous.

The Roswell light battery is drilling every Tuesday night, the attendance is splendid, sections have been created and rivalry is keen.

Unless some complication sets in, Wong Kim will likely recover.

RUMORED MERGER OF BIG PROJECTS IS CONTEMPLATED

Consolidation of French, Maxwell, Eagle Nest and Other Irrigation Propositions May Be Affected in Near Future.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)
Las Vegas, N. M., Dec. 17.—Indications are that a big merger of several of the large irrigation projects of northwestern New Mexico is about to be effected with Chicago capitalists turning the money for the rapid completion of the work now in progress and the exploitation and sale of the surrounding lands. The projects to be included in the rumored merger are the French Land and Irrigation company, the Maxwell Land and Irrigation company, the Eagle Nest dam and the First National bank of Chicago and George T. Nicholson, second vice-president of the Santa Fe railway, are financing the scheme. Nicholson and officials of the bank were expected to arrive in French today to look over the situation. The French project has been in partial operation for some time and is a success. The Maxwell company has also succeeded in accomplishing a considerable amount of work. The Eagle Nest dam was started several months ago, after a number of delays. The three projects comprise hundreds of thousands of acres of land. If they will create one of the biggest irrigation systems in the United States.

CHARLES D. MILLER IS SUCCESSOR TO SULLIVAN

New Mexico Boy Appointed by Governor Mills to Position of Territorial Engineer,
Effective January 1, 1911.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 17.—Governor William F. Mills today announced the appointment of Charles D. Miller to be territorial engineer to succeed Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan, who on New Year leaves the service of the territory. The appointment is a very happy one, because Mr. Miller, an assistant engineer, has been Mr. Sullivan's right hand and will pursue the policies inaugurated by the latter and which are proving so great a success. He made the territorial engineer's office of the greatest value for the development of New Mexico. Mr. Miller is still a very young man, a graduate of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts and calls the Mesilla valley his home. Mr. Miller received splendid endorsements for the place from every part of the territory and neighboring states.

Territorial Funds.
Territorial Treasurer M. A. Otero today received from J. S. Edwards of Curry county, $2,638.61; from Charles Romero, "completer" earnings, $459.60; Game Warden Thomas P. Gable, $2.

Inspects Schools.
Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction Acasio Gallegos is home from San Miguel county, where he inspected the schools of nineteen districts. He found conditions good in general, especially the attendance, as the boards of school directors are all endeavoring to enforce the compulsory school attendance law. However, in many districts the collection of poll tax is not what it should be. At Roswell and in a few other districts the democrats are working bitterly against the approval of the constitution, says Mr. Gallegos.

Mounted Police Go to Estancia.
Captain Fred Smith and Rafael Gomez of the mounted police went to Estancia this morning to represent the territory at a mass meeting which will discuss the destitution in the Estancia valley, caused by the crop failure and the drought.

Gable Returns Home.
Game Warden Thomas P. Gable is home from a trip to Cutter, Lake Valley and Las Pintas, where he made arrangements for the shipment of quail to northern New Mexico for purposes of propagation. He says that although Sierra county might be considered the "quail" country, the sentiment against the constitution is not near as formidable as might have been expected, and that the greatest enemy to the approval of the fundamental law is "general indifference."

On Inspection Tour.
Superintendent of Public Instruction James R. Clark writes that he has just completed an inspection tour of the schools of Luna county, and is going from Deming to Las Cruces, expecting to return home early next week.

Notaries Public Appointed.
Governor Mills today appointed the following notaries public: Ida A. Simmons of Grady, Curry county; Charles C. Reed, San Jon, Quay county; James E. Elder, Albuquerque, Bernalillo county; Lorenzo Gonzalez, Bernalillo county; and Miguel county.

Electric Canceling Machine.
Postmaster E. C. L. was notified today that upon recommendation of Postoffice Inspector Calvert, who was here last week, the Santa Fe post-office will be equipped with an electric canceling machine, which will greatly facilitate the dispatch of mail.

Insurance Matters.
The First National Life Insurance company of Pierre, S. D., is making inquiries of the New Mexico insurance department for admission to do business in New Mexico. One of the vice-presidents is the father of Dr. Charles A. Wheeler of this city. The Germania Life Insurance company has asked the insurance department to cancel the license of Joel

Jones of Las Cruces, alleging he left Las Cruces without settling up his account with the company.

STRENUOUS SESSION OF COURT AT ESTANCIA

Judge John P. McFie and District Clerk Edward L. Stafford returned last evening from Estancia. The court adjourned to permit Mr. Stafford to complete his bond, which is for $10,000, and which he filed today. It also gave the court and officials an opportunity to attend the funeral of the late District Clerk Frank W. Shearon. Attorneys George W. Prichard and E. P. Davies, however, remained in Estancia, as they are hearing cases as referees. Mr. Davies also acting as district attorney during the absence of District Attorney E. C. Abbott. The grand jury also remained in session, as its attention was drawn to the murder of an aged man at Mountainair, Torrance county, on Thursday evening, the alleged assassin being the son-in-law, who is now in custody at Estancia. The sessions of the court have been strenuous ones, but the docket was well cleared and will be disposed of next week, the court reconvening on Monday afternoon. There were no serious crimes outside of the two murders which occurred last week, and in which prompt arrests were made and justice dealt out in one case, while the other is in the hands of the grand jury. Judge McFie reports that while many people have left the valley temporarily on account of the drought, those who remain are very brave and hopeful about the situation, and eventually will succeed in making the valley a well cultivated and populous section. On Monday evening a mass meeting will be held at Estancia to endorse the constitution, and addresses will be made by O. A. Larrazole and George W. Prichard. Judge McFie is attending to find a home for the 10-year-old daughter of William A. Gray, the widower, who was brought up last evening to serve a life sentence for the murder of his niece. The girl is very bright, but needs a good home.

Shearon, were held at the Akers-Wagner undertaking establishment on San Francisco street, at 5 o'clock this evening, the services being conducted by Santa Fe lodge of Elks, of which deceased was a member. The services were largely attended, Judge McFie and a number of other court officials attending. FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Wall Street

New York, Dec. 17.—Today's brief session of the stock exchange may be dismissed with the bald statement that business during the greater part of the two hours was almost at a standstill. Price changes in few instances were important and the market apparently was left to its own devices. Some of the semi-active issues were not quoted at all and the net result was a mixture of losses and gains, the latter predominating. The monotony of the day was broken by the failure of an inconspicuous brokerage firm.

Overnight developments were not of a character to make for optimism. The large increase in the number of idle cars reported by the American Railway Association—19,800, between November 23, and December 8, offers additional proof that the business of the leading transportation companies leaves much to be desired at this time but conditions were much worse in the corresponding period last year.

London and the continent markets were almost as dull as our own. Another small lot of gold was withdrawn from the Bank of England for Egypt. The most noteworthy feature of the Imperial Bank of Germany's weekly statement was contained in the large increase of deposits, aggregating approximately $15,000,000. Gold in hand increased over $2,500,000, with an increase of $4,500,000 in loans.

Our own bank statement reported a large actual decrease in loans and a cash gain, instead of the expected loss, the whole making for a moderate increase in the surplus reserve. The trust companies and other institutions not reporting to the clearing house showed an increase of about $2,500,000 in the loan account, indicating that some of the burden has been shifted to their shoulders.

Weekly Bank Statement

New York, Dec. 17.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks held $6,800,000 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule. This is an increase of $3,241,000 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week.

The following is the New York clearing house summary of the weekly statement of banks for the week ending December 17:

Clearing house banks, daily averages:

Loans, $1,221,071,000; decrease, $13,063,000.

Deposits, $1,181,544,000; decrease, $13,196,000.

Circulation, $48,490,000; increase, $7,000.

Specie, $234,609,000; decrease, $931,000.

Legal tenders, $87,677,000; increase, $852,000.

Reserve, $302,286,000; decrease, $9,000.

Reserve required, $295,386,000; decrease, $2,297,000.

Surplus, $6,800,000; increase, $3,241,000.

U. S. United States deposits, $7,322,000; increase, $3,346,000.

Clearing house banks actual condition this day:

Loans, $1,217,934,000; decrease, $8,394,000.

Deposits, $1,179,893,000; decrease, $7,534,000.

Circulation, $48,494,000; increase, $4,000.

Specie, $235,679,000; increase, $1,096,000.

Legal tenders, $89,634,000; increase, $648,000.

Reserve, $304,312,000; increase, $1,745,000.

Reserve required, $294,472,000; decrease, $1,882,000.

Surplus, $6,839,000; increase, $3,628,000.

U. S. United States deposits, $10,245,000; increase, $3,660,000.

State banks and trust companies of Greater New York not reporting to the clearing house:

Loans, $1,106,980,000; decrease, $2,527,000.

Deposits, $1,117,509,000; decrease, $115,000.

Legal tenders, $21,620,000; increase, $283,000.

Total deposits, $1,152,356,000; decrease, $2,392,000.

The Financial will say:

The New York clearing house banks, according to their statement Saturday, quickly recovered from somewhat heavy loss in reserve disclosed by the previous week's statement, although this rehabilitation of reserve account was accomplished more by the reduction of loans and deposit liabilities rather than by any striking increase in cash holdings. The loans of the banks, taking the statement of actual conditions as a basis, decreased during the week to $1,217,934,000, while deposits showed a corresponding loss of $1,534,100. The cash gain was $1,744,100, which seems to indicate a cessation in part at least of the continued movement to the interior. As a result of the operations noted, the required reserve was lowered, the present surplus above the 25 per cent minimum standing at $6,839,000. The statement of average clearing Saturday did not reflect the gain in cash for the entire week. The decrease in deposits, according to methods of averaged compilation, amounted to over $13,000,000, and the decrease on loans to about the same amount. The average surplus stands at $6,839,000, an increase of about 2 1/4 millions compared with the previous week. The summary of state banks and trust companies outside the clearing house showed no important changes, loans having increased 2 1/2 millions and deposits little less than 2 1/2 millions, while the change in cash holdings was immaterial. The outlook indicates continued easy conditions.

MINER RIDDLED BY EXPLOSION

Flying Rocks Hurlled by Giant Powder Frightfully Mangle Victim at Arizona Camp.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Prescott, Ariz., Dec. 13.—Walter W. Cheney, a miner employed at the camp of Bender, Miller & Vogt, on Copper creek, near the mouth of the Verde river, was killed by a powerful explosion of dynamite on Friday morning, while engaged in doing assessment work. The telephone wires were meager, but the explosion was heard by several of his friends at short distance. His body was riddled with rocks, and presented a ghastly appearance. His throat was cut open, exposing the windpipe; one rock passed through the side of his face, coming out at the other; his temple was penetrated by an ugly wound, while his arms, shoulders and sides were lacerated in to shreds. With all these injuries he lived for several hours, but his effort to save his life. Dr. Looney was called to the camp, leaving yesterday morning. Before he arrived Mr. Cheney had succumbed to his wounds.

He was about 54 years of age and had resided on the Santa Maria for several years, following the vocation of miner. He was regarded as an excellent citizen and held a splendid reputation for industry and integrity. His body will be buried at Copper creek today.

SALT RIVER VALLEY HAS GREAT FUTURE AS A DATE PRODUCER

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 15.—H. E. Van Deman, of Washington, D. C., an expert fruit grower, formerly in the service of the interior department, speaks in the most glowing terms of the future of the Salt River valley as a date producing section. "The time will come," Mr. Van Deman said, "when dates will be shipped from this section in carloads; and what is more, they will not be of an inferior kind, either for this section is fitted to produce any other that I know of to produce the best quality of dates grown anywhere in the world."

CRUISE, N. M., San Diego, Cal., and some other places, with the object of selling date culture in the west. Those desiring to try his scheme, write to W. J. Murphy. They were planted and today are producing the famous New Dates, thus which none have grown anywhere in the world.

Mr. Van Deman says the trees can be started either from the rooted suckers or from seedlings. The former is the preferred method, though, he says, there will be some difficulty in obtaining them. The most desirable kinds are grown in Arabia and the date is so jealous and dishonest that the greatest care will be required to get the choicest varieties of fruit out of the country. But with a start from these rooted suckers it is said there is no place in the world that can produce better quality of dates or of better quality than this section.

"Dates have been grown in this valley for a long time," Mr. Van Deman said, "but the people have not yet awakened to their great value. The time will come, I predict, when date culture will be one of the principal sources of wealth of this section of Arizona."
