OHIO CAR SPEEDS ON SOUTHERN TOUR TO THE COAST

Another Transcontinental Pathfinder Is Tearing Through Texas En Route to Los Angeles.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal] Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 19.—Hurrying toward Phoenix on a great transcontinental automobile tour with New York as the starting point and San Francisco as the finish, a party of four in an Ohio car is somewhere in Texas just now and expected to arrive here within a few days. Unlike Westward, who took the northern route and proceeded leisurely, this car is being pushed forward at best speed.

There is a growing desire to make extended road tours throughout the country, but automobilists are discouraged because of the lack of available information concerning road conditions. It is a notorious fact that a great majority of the roads are of the kind that not only rob automobilists of their pleasure, but make travel a positively dangerous. Then, too, the supposedly high cost of up-keep on a transcontinental tour is a factor, but it is not the main reason why so few men who are not puffed with the necessary information. The result of this tour will be not only to give data regarding the best roads over the southern route from New York to San Francisco, but it will also give valuable data as to the actual cost of up-keep.

The Ohio car with its party composed of E. L. Ferguson representing the American Automobile association, Guy W. Finney representing the Ohio Automobile club, and a party of four, including Fred D. Clark, drivers, left City Hall square, New York, Tuesday, November 22nd and is traveling over a new route through the southern and southwestern states.

It is a noteworthy fact that adds more than local interest to these trips that Phoenix has twice been selected as one of the cities to be included in the itinerary of these long path-finding tours, and it will result in much favorable advertising to the city and its environs.

The party is engaged in compiling data which will be distributed free to good roads associations, automobile clubs and others interested in that movement and in addition is collecting statistics as to the cost and up-keep of a touring car on this trip.

Mr. Ferguson, as the representative of the American Automobile association, will not only secure data regarding good roads, but he will also keep a log of the entire tour from day to day making an accurate account of all expenses for gasoline, oil, grease and necessary repairs, so that when the tour is completed there will be no question as the expense of a tour of this kind in the messenger touring car from New York to San Francisco.

The troubles of the path-finding automobilists began thirty-eight miles from Culman, Ala. They started out on Tuesday morning, December 13th, and they never reached that place. Five miles from Culman they became confused in the darkness and after driving for hours over the mountain roads without coming to even a house, they were lost. At daybreak Sunday morning, December 14th, they drove into Bartonsville, fifteen miles from Culman. There more than sixty miles had been traversed, mostly in circles.

Stopping in Bartonsville only long enough for breakfast, they started for Tusculum, the plan of going to Decatur having been abandoned. Hardly five miles had been covered when the car was stuck in a mud hole and stuck there for hours. With the aid of their block and tackle they finally released the car. But a few miles later on, and while the rain was falling in torrents, just as the car was descending a mountain three miles from Courtland, it skidded from the road into a deep gully and became embedded into the mud.

After laboring vainly for hours in the rain, the automobilists abandoned the car and sought shelter at the home of W. E. Hotchkiss, a wealthy planter, near Courtland, about twenty-six miles from Tusculum. The plan of going to Decatur was abandoned. The car was released late Monday afternoon and the party started for Tusculum.

During the entire journey rain fell heavily and the roads resembled running rivers. The car was driven through water which at times came up to the windows and the party in the automobiles reached the pike connecting with Tusculum, their journey was extremely hazardous.

It is expected that the party will reach San Francisco on Christmas. The car which has been christened the "Mud Hen," is equipped with a complete wrecker's outfit, consisting of block and tackle, steel cable, hawser, hoist, etc., in the anticipation of road troubles through the marshes of Mississippi and Arkansas and later through the desert country.

NEW HOPE OF WHITE RACE WORSTS MARVIN HART

Former Heavyweight Champion Knocked Out in Third Round By Carl Morris, Oklahoma's Phenomenon.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Sapulpa, Okla., Dec. 20.—Carl Morris of Sapulpa, Okla., heralded as the "white man's hope," knocked out Marvin Hart of Kentucky, former heavyweight champion of the world, in the third round here tonight.

It was Morris' first all the way through. Early in the first round, he floored the former world's heavyweight champion with a terrific left to the head. In the second round, Morris' hard drives to the mouth had Hart groggy and he continually clinched to save himself. They were clinched when the gong sounded at the end of the second round, and Hart was clearly in great distress.

Cries and groans from the terrify blows that Morris had shot to Hart's jaw and his continuous hammering on the kidneys, the old champion could scarcely rise from the chair when the third round was called.

His seconds then threw up the sponge and the referee awarded the fight to Morris.

Hart weighed in at 212 pounds and Morris at 225.

WELSH DECLARED WINNER ON FOUL

Scheduled 20-Round Bout With Jim Driscoll Ends in Tenth; Seconds Continue the Fight Until Police Come.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Cardiff, Wales, Dec. 20.—Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion of England, won his fight with Jim Driscoll, the featherweight champion, in the tenth round, tonight on a foul.

The fight was a 20-round match for a purse of $12,500, the largest ever put up in Great Britain for featherweights. Several thousand persons witnessed the go, and notwithstanding that the betting favored Welsh, the spectators were greatly disappointed when the contest came to an unexpected end, due to Driscoll's butting his opponent under the chin with his hand.

Welsh, besides being five years younger than Driscoll, had the advantage of weight and reach. His blows were heavier than those of the featherweight and showed he was able to take more punishment.

In the first round Driscoll had the advantage in points, but in the second Welsh landed several hard blows and his extra weight, ten pounds, began to tell. In the fourth he sent Driscoll to his knees, and the betting went from 2 to 1 to 5 to 1 in his favor.

The lightweight champion inflicted several damaging kidney punches in the seventh, but in the next round Driscoll got home a couple of hard straight leads. He followed this up with a game exhibition throughout the ninth, hours being even. It was seen in the tenth, however, that Driscoll was fast tiring. In one of the clinches he persistently butted his opponent and the referee finally disqualified him.

The second jumped into the ring and promptly came to clinches. Some blows were struck and it was with difficulty the police dragged the warring pair apart.

WOLGAST OFFERS TO MEET MORAN IN LONG FIGHT

Cadillac, Mich., Dec. 20.—When shown the challenge issued to him last night by Owen Moran of England, Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, said today:

"I will fight Moran for the championship and $2,000 side bet, within ninety days after the date of his challenge to me. The fight must be not less than forty-five rounds, or to a finish. The weight must be 125 pounds ringside, and my end of the purse must be not less than $12,500 regardless of the result.

"These are my conditions and nothing will change them. I won't risk the championship against a lightweight of class in less than forty-five rounds. It makes no difference to me where the fight takes place."

Soon after Moran defeated Battling Nelson, Wolgast said he would meet the British fighter in May, but later changed the date to February with a $12,500 guarantee.

AMERICAN AERO CLUB DEFENDS AWARD

Representatives at Paris Will Endeavor to Show That Moisant Is Entitled to Liberty Statue Prize.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] New York, Dec. 20.—The American representatives at a special meeting of the International Aeronautical Federation to be held in Paris on January 10, will endeavor to convince the gathering that the award of the Statue of Liberty prize to John B. Moisant, which has been protested by the Aero club of England in behalf of Claude Grahame-White, was in full accord with the dictates of sportsmanship.

The matter was brought up this afternoon by the board of governors of the Aero club of America, and it was announced the English protest already endorsed by the Aero club of France had now been seconded by the Aero club of Holland and the Royal Aero club of Spain.

The governors intimated that American sportsmanship was attacked not merely the specific matter of the prize award. With that in mind they requested a special committee, consisting of Robert J. Collier, Cortlandt Field Bishop, Lytton Fox and Major Samuel Reber, to go over the records and prepare a strong representation of the American position.

The action of the board, to try for the Michelin trophy at New Orleans has been communicated to the directors. The terms provide that the aviator making the longest flight without stop over a closed course before Sunday, December 31, shall be awarded the $4,000 prize and trophy.

J. C. McCoy resigned as vice-president and governor of the club. Mr. Bishop was named vice-president and Mr. Collier governor, to succeed him. Mr. Collier announced that he would offer a $5,000 cup to be contested for, probably at the international cup celebration trials.

Announcement was made that while the governors had heard unofficially of proposed aviation meets at Los Angeles and San Francisco, both of international character, no application for sanction had been received in either case.

JACK JOHNSON'S PROTEGE PROVES FALSE ALARM

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 20.—Walter Monaghan, of Chicago, protege of Champion Jack Johnson, in a six round bout with "Kid" Egan, here tonight, proved a disappointment to the fans and showed little class.

King George has taken a marked interest in the several elections which have just ended, and it is certain he has no wish to see another dissolution of parliament for a long time. As the new parliament now stands, the liberal government, in coalition with the nationalists, regular and independent, and the labor members, holds 32 seats against 22 held by the unionists, a majority of 10.

The ministerial majority, in many cases, however, has been much smaller than this figure, and the independent nationalists are hostile to the measure, proposed in the government's program.

DETECTIVES EXCHANGE SHOTS WITH OFFICERS

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 20.—Mistaking each other for shantytown thieves, United States revenue officers in one hand, and city detectives in another, fired several shots at each other late last night on the Mississippi river. WANT WARSHIP TO SERVE AS LANDING PLACE FOR CURTISS AEROPLANE

Washington, Dec. 20.—The executive board of the national aviation committee of San Francisco has requested the navy department to designate a warship to serve as a landing place for an aeroplane.

The board is to conduct experiments with aeroplanes in exhibition of the flight from January 1st to 14th, and they recite the fact that Eugene Ely having successfully risen in an aeroplane from the deck of the USS Birmingham, opportunity should be afforded for demonstration of the converse proposition.

Acting Secretary Winthrop has instructed Rear Admiral Berry, commanding the Pacific fleet, to assist the executive board and Glenn H. Curtiss in every proper way.

"GRACIAS, SENOR" IS LIFE CONVICT'S COMMENT

ARCHULETA TAKES HIS SENTENCE STOICALLY

Admonished By Court to Repent for Murder of Uncle; Sentence Day in Las Vegas Yesterday.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Las Vegas, N. M., Dec. 20.—Sentences ranging from six months to seventy-five years in the penitentiary were today imposed upon a batch of twenty-four prisoners convicted of crimes at the session of district court now nearing its close. Interest was attached to sentencing the prisoners inasmuch as it was the first time Juan, C. J. Roberts had performed this task since assuming his work on the bench. Archuleta, who received the longest sentence, of fifty to seventy-five years in prison for the crime of murder in the second degree. Archuleta was convicted of murdering his uncle, Damascio Archuleta on a ranch near Roldado last August. Judge Roberts admonished Archuleta to repent for the terrible sin he had committed, during his term in prison. When he had finished, the man seemed to spend the rest of his life behind the walls of the penitentiary, with a smile on his lips and an unfaltering voice said: "Gracias, Senor."

ENGINEERS BUSY ON FT. SUMNER LAS VEGAS LINE

New Survey for Santa Fe Line Will Follow Pecos River Practically Entire Distance, With Very Easy Grades.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Las Vegas, N. M., Dec. 20.—A Santa Fe engineering corps is now engaged in making a survey for the proposed north and south lines from Las Vegas to Fort Sumner on the Belen cut-off. Recently this same corps completed a survey from Salsburch just south of here to Vaughn. It is said this route proved not feasible on account of the stiff grades, hence the new survey via Ft. Sumner is being made. The latter will follow the valley of the Pecos river practically the whole distance, and will be free from heavy grades.

BEET SUGAR MEN MAKE PROPOSAL TO PORTALES

Much Interest Aroused in Plan to Raise Beets and Establish Sugar Factory in Fertile Valley.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Portales, N. M., Dec. 18.—Messrs. D. A. Mound Day, D. F. Thomas and J. G. Briner, promoters of the beet sugar industry in the southwest, the two former being interested in the matter up with the farmers next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The proposition which these gentlemen make on behalf of the sugar refineries is in its essential features as follows, according to the Portales Herald.

The Sugar company takes a mortgage on the farmer's land for $50 per acre payable in twenty years and drawing interest at 4 per cent, and issues to him a like amount of preferred stock in the sugar factory guaranteed to pay 6 per cent dividend counter balances the interest on the mortgage so the farmer has in reality no interest to pay on the mortgage. The Sugar company binds itself to pay off this $50 per acre mortgage at the end of twenty years and have the mortgage released without the expense whatever to the farmer. This preferred stock is held permanently by the farmer and continues to pay him 6 per cent dividends.

Upon the execution of the above mortgage in favor of the Sugar company the company will put down a surface well and install a pumping plant for the farmer, paying for the same; or where a farmer has good land with water on it, the company will make him a loan to the approximate amount of what would be expended for a well and pumping plant in case he had no water. The money thus expended upon the farmer's land or loaned him is to be repaid to the company in twenty equal annual installments without interest. The farmer agrees to grow sugar beets under the supervision of an experienced superintendent furnished and paid by the Sugar company to the extent of 20 acres out of 160, or 15 out of 80 acres, for the period of this contract of twenty years, for which the company contracts to pay the regular market price. Now the signing up of 32,000 acres, the amount required under our proposition, means—putting approximately this whole amount of dry land under water and cultivation—6,000 acres of sugar beets. The company will, in addition, sign up 4,000 acres more for the growing of beets with the farmer who is already on his feet and in operation, paying the regular market price for the same as the company must have 10,000 acres in beets to justify a factory. It means the building of a sugar factory at a cost of $1,500,000, using 1,000 tons of beets per day and employing 400 laborers; it means the introduction into this locality of the most profitable agricultural crop that the farmer can grow, doubling the net returns of alfalfa with one-half the water. It means making unproductive and almost worthless land productive and valuable. It means the sugar company and the farmer working hand in hand, the company putting up the money and the farmer helping the sugar company by furnishing beets to be worked up into sugar.

CORPSE OF LOST BOY DISCOVERED IN MOUNTAINS

Sister of Lad Who Perished of Exposure Recovers Sufficiently to Lead Searchers to Body of Brother.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal) Wagon Mound, N. M., Dec. 20.—Led by the little sister of the dead boy, a body of searchers this morning went to the spot where lay the body of Juan, C. J. Roberts, the boy who was lost in the Turkey mountains near Wagon Mound eight days ago. The stiff and stark corpse of the boy, in a good state of preservation because of the cold and unobscured by wild animals, was found after a search lasting for a week during which time more than twenty farmers, aided by the penitentiary bloodhounds scoured the hills for the missing lad. The eight-year-old sister, Julia, who accompanied the boy on his perilous wanderings, has been in a critical condition since being rescued on Saturday, but took a decided turn for the better today and was able to lead a posse right to the spot where her brother's body lay. The boy had evidently been dead several days when found. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

YOUNGEST BOY ARRIVES TO SERVE 9 MONTHS IN THE REFORMATORY

Springer, N. M., Dec. 19.—John Ryan, aged 9, from Alamogordo, Otero county, was delivered to Superintendent Kirkpatrick at the reform school in this city last Friday. On account of his idle, vicious and vagrant habits Judge Wright sentenced the boy to a term of nine months in the juvenile institution. John Ryan, who is the youngest boy ever received at the institution, was delivered by his mother to the authorities at Alamogordo on account of his bad habits and her inability to keep him in school, where she would send him. Now he will be a regular attendant at school. The boy's mother is poor and does washing for a living. John says his father is in China.

Hoboes Migrating South. So many hoboes are making their way through Las Vegas on their annual winter journey to the country, the officers are kept busy making them move on. Many of the men make all kinds of pretexts to get arrested in order to get a ten days' sentence in a warm jail, with good food. Night Policeman Murphy says he could fill the jail with these wanderers every night. Instead, however, they are told to move on. The police keep a careful eye on wandering strangers and see that they do not damage property or frighten women by begging from door to door. The policy of making the hoboes get out of town as quick as they get in is proving a good one.

NO DISCRIMINATION ON CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS

An Explanation of a Constitutional Provision Which Has Caused Inquiry in Various Quarters.

From several quarters the Morning Journal has received inquiries as to that part of the constitution of New Mexico regarding the maintenance of charitable institutions. The query is well expressed in the following letter received from a well known citizen of Mountainair: Editor Morning Journal, Albuquerque, N. M. Dear Sir: I have been reading with interest the criticisms to the constitution published in the Morning Journal and answers to the same. I beg a portion of your space for the enlightenment of a portion of the constitution which is receiving adverse criticism in this section and several parts of the territory. In article 2, section 2, you will find no person shall be required to attend any place of worship or support any religious sect or denomination; nor shall any preference be given by law to any religious denomination or mode of worship.

Section 21, article 6, reads: "No appropriation shall be made for charitable, educational or other benevolent purposes to any person, corporation, association, institution of community, not under the absolute control of the state, but the legislature may, in its discretion, make appropriations for the charitable institutions and hospitals, for the maintenance of which annual appropriations were made by the legislative assembly of nineteen hundred and nine."

Now, it appears that the majority of the institutions favored by the legislature of nineteen hundred and nine, are Catholic institutions, and it seems to me this is in direct contradiction to that portion of the bill of rights, section 2, as stated above. I do not believe any denomination, whatever, should be favored above another, and if the constitution does so favor any denomination, it is wrong in principle and contrary to the basic ideas upon which our government is founded.

The constitution as a whole is a good one, and deserves the support of all citizens, regardless of party and race. The portion I have called attention to is not one of the vicious "jokers" to which the Hon. H. B. Ferguson alludes so many times. Kindly print this and also give space for an answer from one of the eminent authorities on the constitution, of which there are several in Albuquerque. Yours very truly, W. M. McCoy.

No Discrimination. The exceptions made by the constitution allowing state support for institutions, entirely under state control, consist of those charitable institutions which do now and have in the past received partial support from the territory in the splendid work which they have been doing. A fair sample of this work is in the humanitarian usefulness of the splendid St. Joseph's hospital in this city which, like most of the other institutions, is practically of a public nature. These institutions are organized and maintained on this basis. It would be manifestly unfair to deprive them of any further assistance, and consequently the way is left open for the legislature, "in its discretion," to continue to help in their support.

No one who is conversant with the work of the charitable institutions in question will go so far as to say that they are conducted on a sectarian basis. The heathen in his blindness receives the same care at the local Sisters' hospital as the most devout believer, and pays the same rate, or is treated free if he has not the wherewithal to pay. But assuming for the sake of argument that religion enters into their administration, an examination of the institutions receiving appropriations from the legislature of 1909 shows that it is a stand off between Catholic and non-Catholic.

In the former class are the hospitals conducted by the Sisters of Charity; St. Joseph's in this city, St. Vincent's in Santa Fe, the Sisters of Mercy hospital at Silver City, and St. Mary's hospital at Roswell; the Sisters of Loretto at Mora and at Las Cruces, and the Orphan's school in Santa Fe. In the second class are the Children's Home, the Grant County hospital at Silver City, the Ladies' hospital at Deming, the Eddy County hospital at Carlsbad, the Relief society at Las Vegas, and the Gallup hospital at Gallup.

As a matter of fact, the sectarian, non-sectarian, Catholic or non-Catholic amplexes under which these institutions are conducted, do not enter into the matter of their public usefulness. There will be no serious objection to giving the legislature a chance to further assist in the good work of the existing institutions if it so desires.

TELL THE KIDS TO DROP A LETTER IN THE BOX

Elks' Christmas Tree Celebration for the Youngsters, to Be Jolliest Ever Visited By Old Man Santa Claus.

Now is the time you remind your children, or the other fellow's, to drop a letter in front of Matson's, the committee of Elks who are working to make the Elks' Christmas tree celebration a huge success need the co-operation of the mothers in the city. The kiddies will be wild with delight at mere mention of the affair, but don't forget to tell them about it. Their interest and attendance are essential factors of success in the laudable enterprise. It is the desire of the hard working committee that every child in the city come and all the juveniles of this city in one building will make a never-to-be-forgotten scene. Don't think because you are able to give your child a Christmas tree that he is best off at home. The day is a celebration that is intended primarily for the less fortunate children. Each child will help to make the Christmas tree affair the more enjoyable for someone else. The day is so universal in spirit, and means so much to every child, that it is most appropriate to blend all the joyousness of the day in one big children's entertainment. Everything is being done to make the affair wonderful in the eyes of the youngsters. Mrs. Roy McDonald has charge of the program, and with an efficient corps of Y. W. C. A. girls, is working hard on the decorations. Sol Benjamin and B. Ruppe are planning surprises in the electrical effects.

The following program will be rendered: Recitation, "St. Nicholas"; Violin solo, "Flowers and Ferns"; Violin solo, "Cavalleria Rusticana"; Violin solo, "Lorna"; Violin solo, "March"; Grace Storti and Lorna Lester (Pupils of Miss Lucka); Trio, "Bobby Shafto"; Marion Frank; Violin solo, "The Swan"; Grace Storti and Lorna Lester (Pupils of Mrs. Lather Steward); Christmas Carol; Ten Boys. There will also be selections by the Puymyer Chavannah orchestra. This party, which has been strictly free from inflation, since then I always keep a bottle of Foley's Money and Tar in the house. # INTERESTING RPP ON TRAIL OF THE SOILED SHIRT

Albuquerque Has Laundry Equipped With Most Ingenious and Modern Contrivances Known to Great Industry.

It has been truthfully said that one-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives. The successful merchant gives little thought to the factory work which developed his goods, nor, for that matter, to the clerks who sell them, and the man in the mansion knows little of the man in the hovel. It's a point of contact, which doesn't probe deep. Take laundries, called against for every tear or stain—how many ever thought of the complicated processes in the preparation and labor which brings those same clothes in a neat bundle on the promised day? True, if the bundle should fall to arrive on the appointed day, the laundry suddenly assumes unlimited proportions of general eussness. A tear in a favorite piece of linen is greatly deplored, and the laundry is remembered, sometimes with words which wouldn't look well in print. Did you ever stop to consider the fault might be in the linen? Why, there are people who won't stand the wear and tear of life—and which bring to light the weak points. Perhaps the laundry is the circumstance which proves your faulty linen. All this philosophical meandering, because of a visit to a steam laundry. In this city there is a laundry, equipped with every modern improvement, employing something like seventy-five people and sending their work throughout New Mexico, Arizona and as far west as Needles, Cal.

The Imperial Laundry represents thousands of dollars in improved machinery, and the payroll shows salaries paid to the employees which might astonish workers in other lines of business. The interior of the concern is a whir of industry, and it is intensely interesting to inspect the many processes of bleaching, drying, ironing and ironing. How many men ever thought that each collar which goes in his weekly wash passes through forty-two stages before it arrives for the wear? Forty-two different people handle the collar, and over a dozen machines are used in the cleaning process. Quite a bit of work for three cents. The machinery used in the laundry is of the latest and best, and is as much as possible.

Just the ironing of a shirt in the Imperial Laundry is interesting and proves conclusively that the machinery employed is of the latest and best, for the protection of the material. The shirt, sprinkled by a process which will not allow the starch to stick, goes first to the sleeve machine which irons the sleeves and cuffs, and then the cuffers smooth the cuff by mere pressure and not by any rubbing back and forth on the material. The next operation is the yoker machine; and the yoke is ironed by the yoker, which is a piece of machinery which passes to the neckband ironer; then the bosom press, which is an iron press called the steam heated shoe. The shirt is placed on the board with the smooth side of the cuff to the ironer, which hot air is blown from the pump, keeping the felt dry. The hydraulic forces the board up against the steam heated shoe, where it rests until the cuff is ironed, which requires only a few moments. After the bosom press, the body ironer; then the finished shirt goes to the hand finisher, who, with the electric iron, gives the shirt the finishing touch, which the average man wears. The work, while done with dispatch, has not undergone one stage that would injure a good shirt, and the result is a shirt, like humans and the most of things, mundane, are not everlasting.

There has been much talk about the danger to laundry workers from the steam, but the Imperial Laundry has been in the last few years have practically eliminated that feature of the work. The big flat work ironers, weighing 15,000 pounds, are equipped with safety devices, and the automatic guard which will stop the machinery at a touch. The washing machines, ten in number, brass trimmed within to prevent rust, and are fitted with safety devices so that the clothes will not stand a chance of tear, carry the clothes in a revolving motion through seven different waters, before they are placed in the wringer. The drying contrivances are of the latest mechanical development, and include the automatic conveyor, dry room and the tumbler dry room.

One feature of the large "upstairs" in the laundry is devoted to the hand ironers, who handle all the ladies' and children's wearing apparel and some of the men's. One of the most interesting features of the laundry is the shirt-making department, which is a small place of what speedy and perfect work the employees turn out.

In substance, the visit to the Imperial Laundry revealed wonderful growth and development in laundry work, and that Albuquerque has one of the largest laundry plants in the southwest. A careful inspection of the machinery cannot but convince the most skeptical that the later improvements afford every protection to the clothes. There are several girls who do nothing else but inspect the clothes, darning and mending when the occasion requires. All in all, it is a great industry, evolved to meet the demands of modern civilization. We could no more live without laundries than without cooks, and the demand has given rise to a finished and perfect system which grows more perfect with the years. The Imperial Laundry of this city, controlled and operated by W. L. Edgar and brother, of E. Edgar, has grown from a small concern to a mammoth industry, and is not only the largest laundry in New Mexico, but as modern as any in the country.

A Simple Safeguard for Mothers Mrs. D. Gilkeson, 326 Ingles Ave., Youngstown, Ohio, gained wisdom by experience. "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continuously. My sister recommended Foley's Money and Tar. The first dose I gave her relieved the inflammation in her throat and after using only one bottle her throat and lungs were entirely free from inflammation. # 305 MONEY ORDERS SOLD IN 2 DAYS

Postoffice Records Rushing Business Yesterday and the Day Before; Many Sending Money as Christmas Gifts.

Daniel Phillips, the money order clerk at the local postoffice, was one of the busiest men in town yesterday, issuing one hundred and sixty-five money orders during the day. On Monday one hundred and forty orders were sold in the afternoon, making a total for the two days of three hundred and five. According to Postmaster R. W. Hopkins the good money order business is an indication of the prosperity of the people of Albuquerque. "The money orders for the most part were Christmas remembrances," said Mr. Hopkins yesterday "and were for substantial amounts." The other departments in the Albuquerque postoffice are doing a heavy business these days, which promises to become heavier until after the first of the year. Worse than an alarm of fire at night in the middle of a crowd of croup, bringing dread to the household. Careful mothers keep Foley's Money and Tar in the house and give it at the first sign of danger. It contains no opiates. J. H. O'Reilly Co.

A FALSE ALARM.

Among the oracular objections to the proposed constitution enunciated by the assembled wisdom of a small part of the democratic party at Santa Fe last Saturday night, is one which sets out that the manner of selecting lands granted by the United States does not comply with the terms of the enabling act, and therefore the new state will not be able to acquire such lands. No one who has examined the constitution and the enabling act would pay any attention to this, but a great number of newspaper readers have never looked at the constitution or the act of congress and may be misled. No such consequences as those stated by the democratic resolutions can possibly follow from anything in the constitution and it is incredible that any member of the committee which prepared such stuff was ignorant of the fact, but this is a fair sample of all the objections made. Ex pede Herculem, in the present case substituting "asinum" for "Herculem."

The act of congress in section 11 provides that all lands granted by the act shall be selected, under the direction of the secretary of the interior, "by a commission composed of the governor, surveyor general, or other officer exercising the functions of a surveyor general, and the attorney general of the said state."

Section 9 of article 21 of the constitution declares that the state and its people consent to all the provisions of the act of congress concerning the lands by said act granted or confirmed to this state.

Section 2 of article 13 provides that the commissioner of public lands shall select, locate, classify, and have control of all public lands "under the provisions of the act of congress relating thereto."

In both of the constitutional provisions just referred to, the constitution is made subject to the provisions of the act of congress, and there is no real attempt to do anything, or authorize the doing of anything, not in harmony with what congress has provided as to the lands. The constitution provides no state officer "exercising the functions of a surveyor general," except the commissioner of public lands, and he will be the proper officer under the provisions of the act of congress to make such selections with the governor and attorney general. Thus acting, effect will be given to section 2 of article 13, and to the requirements of the act of congress under the direction and approval of the secretary of the interior.

And yet, our democratic friends, Crist, Jones and Ferguson, with ostensible seriousness, declare that, with these provisions in this condition, the new state will not be able to get the lands granted by congress.

THESE RESOLUTIONS.

We have carefully and reverently perused the set of remarkable resolutions addressed by the democratic convention in Santa Fe why all patriotic citizens should vote against the constitution and against statehood.

We find here the same wondrous consistency that has characterized the party all through the convention and since. They are kicking on many of the provisions which they must strongly advocate in the convention.

The board of equalization, it is said, because it is elective, will have "campaign debts to pay." Thus the democrats attack the very foundation of the elective system which they demanded.

"The terms of judges are too long," say they, when they are not as long as at first proposed by the democrats, and "restrict the power of central over the cities." The judges must be controlled!

"The compensation of state officials is higher than the duties of their office require," and the salary list desired by the democrats was $250 less.

"The expense of government will increase the burden of taxation," and they have never acquired more enough to deny that the abolition of the fee system will decrease the expense of running the state by thousands of dollars.

"The districting of the state is inequitable, imposing a hardship on the people," and the leaders of the democracy thanked the majority for making it so fair.

"That said constitution is difficult of amendment"—and democrats everywhere have been expressing their gratification because it is so easily amended as that of almost any state in the union; that it may be amended as easily as that of Texas, which state has amended its constitution whenever it felt so disposed.

"The judiciary provision is needlessly extravagant and the salaries are too large"—when only one additional district, the need for which is generally recognized, is created; the illegal and improper system of having the district judges compose the supreme court is of necessity changed; and the salaries are barely large enough to attract men of judicial talent and ability to the bench; salaries much smaller than advocated by such distinguished jurists and authorities as President Taft.

Thus we go down the list with the growing conviction that the Santa Fe convention has placed itself on record as puerile, illogical, inconsistent, foolish and microcephalous. If these resolutions are fairly representative of the ammunition of the opposition, the constitution will carry by a much larger majority than the advocates of statehood have hoped for. If this is the best the democracy can do, it is the best the democracy can do. It would have been in a much stronger position if it had refrained from holding that ill-advised, superfluous and thoroughly pusillanimous performance at the capital.

After all this, we are informed that it will be for the "highest and best interests of New Mexico" to reject the proposed constitution; and that the "way is made easy" under the enabling act to draw up a constitution which will suit the framers of these resolutions because, behold, the governor is commanded in case of rejection, to reconvene a convention!

The law is a clincher, the apothecary of wisdom.

"It is mandatory on the governor to call another convention." No mention is made of the fact that a second convention would delay matters until all hope of statehood any time soon would be lost, it is not told how the second convention would know what changes to make; there is no information to convince us that these much defamed public servants, the delegates, after being abused for their arduous and self-sacrificing labors, would go meekly back to Santa Fe; no hint is given as to the best method of raising some $50,000 to pay the expenses of the second convention.

The thorough childishness of these resolutions will not surprise anyone when it is learned, moreover, that they are the handiwork of one J. H. Crist, delegate from Rio Arriba county, who, on account of his injured feelings, refused to play, quit the convention without resigning, and early in the session retired in a huff to the wilds of his home county and left his constituents unrepresented in the convention.

Now comes the miffed Mr. Crist, who got mad and quit, and draws up resolutions condemning the work of the convention in which he refused to take part because his tender sensibilities were wounded by the unkind language of another delegate. How highly proper that a delegate who left his constituents in the lurch and refused to do the service for which he was elected should frame the resolutions which condemn the labors of the men who did their duty!

The whole proposition was an unparliamentary farce. The result of the Santa Fe convention will be more votes for the constitution and statehood.

ARIZONA'S FATAL ERROR.

It is interesting to note with what fervor the democratic El Paso Times, which has been all along boosting the radicals at Phoenix, has turned around and jumped on the proposed "debate of the courts." In a recent issue it says:

It would be regrettable should Arizona, and New Mexico fall again of statehood, but it were better for them, and for the other states for them, to remain territories than to be admitted as states with dangerous and unwelcome some organic laws.

Especially dangerous is the proposed constitution of Arizona. In more than one particular it is faulty and full of possibilities for harm, but that provision which should and will prevent the admission of Arizona to statehood, is the application of the recall to the judiciary. Nothing so repugnant to law and order and justice was ever proposed as a part of the organic law of any state.

The immediate effect of its adoption would be to make the judiciary the plaything and the stock in trade of politicians, to make the administration of the law a mockery, and to establish disorder and anarchy.

The opposition to the proposed constitution is based upon sound reason and common prudence and the whole instrument should be defeated unless it can have this dangerous provision cut out from it and be pruned of several minor features related to this provision.

It was a wise foresight that required that the constitution of the proposed new states should be subjected to the scrutiny and amendment of the people of the states, the president and of congress. Before passing any one man, but contains the wisest view of the one hundred men who gave their best ability and thought to its construction. It does not, as a matter of course, please every individual voter and did not conform to the individual ideas of any one of the delegates, but a careful reading of the document ought to convince all thinking voters that it is well balanced, thoroughly practical, and provides a safe, wise scheme of government. It will greatly improve many things in our territorial form of government, because it adheres to the great fundamental principles of our republican form of government. Broad-minded democracy should not view the document simply because it was largely the work of their political opponents, but should carefully consider its provisions, which it is believed, will be found advantageous to the future welfare of the people who have come into the territory to make it their home and the home of their children.—Silver City Independent.

New Mexico, while vast resources remain to be developed, does not come into the union empty handed. The Silver City Independent says:

"The sisterhood of states will have cause to welcome New Mexico, for it comes with rich treasures to add to the national storehouse. It has vast resources discovered and in use, others more vast, undeveloped and untold in extent. In the last decade New Mexico has made a population growth of 47 per cent, which is very near record growth. Yet it should even surpass that, and doubtless will in the next ten years. And particularly should statehood be inviting to labor and capital when initiated under the favorable auspices of a sound organic law."

An Illinois man raffled himself off, 25 cents a chance, then died when a handsome young woman won the prize. Later he advertised for a wife and died again when the value of advertising was demonstrated. But he has been captured at last by a female that weighs 200 pounds and who has no illusions as to the identity of the head of the family.

Lafayette Young, editor of the Daily Capital at Des Moines, Iowa, is the new United States senator from Iowa. He says he finds Washington too dull. It is not half so exciting, he says, as the composing room fifteen minutes before press time and a column of the best news piled. Well, Lafayette has done his humble best to live things up in congress, anyhow.

Editor Morning Journal:
Just at present there seems to be the desire on the part of many Albuquerqueans to improve the city. The council is contemplating the building of a city hall; there is talk of paying the business sections of the city, and there is nearing completion a well built but enormously expensive sewerage system. The city is endeavoring to encompass a way to build an excellent road to connect us with Santa Fe, and the Commercial club recently took steps to promote the maintenance of an improved health department for the town.

All of these enterprises are to be commended. All are exceedingly important measures. All will do much to promote business and give comfort to the city's welfare; some will do good to the few, while others will benefit the public generally. Some will cost the city thousands, some tens of thousands and still others hundreds of thousands of dollars. When only a small amount of money is available for all of these improvements, no matter how great the desire to complete all of them, some must wait; and the one that is the most needed, which least brooks delay, which gives the greatest benefit to the greatest number, and, if possible, the least costly, is the one which should be first begun.

The building of a city hall adds to the beauty and impressiveness of the city, does away with the loss of a small amount of money paid at present for rental; houses and gives comfortable offices to our city officials; but costs in the neighborhood of $20,000 and benefits only a very few.

The paving of the business sections of the city increases the value of the business blocks, increases business opportunities, gives the city an advanced position amongst the towns of the southwest, but this costs in the neighborhood of $100,000 and benefits only a comparatively few of the taxpayers.

The building of the Camino Real will cost about $10,000, increases the accessibility of the city to those few living in the country, provides good drives for carriages and automobiles, but benefits only a very small percentage of the people who will have to pay for it.

The improvement of the city's health department will cost in round numbers about $3,000 to $5,000; will return to the city from ten to one hundred fold the investment, and is a benefit to the human body which will within the boundaries of the city. It is an absolute crying necessity to the people of Albuquerque at this very moment.

There is no better advertisement for a city than its vital statistics, by which is meant its record of deaths from all causes.

Disease and death lurk in the dirty streets, in the dirt and insanitary conditions which prevail, will be the death rate of a community. More than fifty out of every hundred people die of fifty diseases could and should be prevented.

Take a glance at the death rates of the United States in general and several of the cities of this country picked at random, for the year 1909. Look particularly at Albuquerque's named false position in the list:

Table 1—Death Rate from all Causes per 1,000 of Population.

United States	16.5
Massachusetts	14.5
New York City	14.5
Chicago, Ill.	15.7
Pittsburg, Pa.	15.2
Richmond, Va.	15.2
Indianapolis, Ind.	15.2
New Haven, Conn.	15.2
Albuquerque, N. M.	27.6

It does not take much mentality to place a card over the names of the cities in the above table and pick out the dirty places. What do these figures mean? Take the figures under the headings of United States and Massachusetts; throughout the whole of the United States, taking all towns clean and dirty alike, there were 16.5 persons died last year for each thousand of the entire population.

In Massachusetts an account of the greater care in its board of health in sanitary matters, two persons for every thousand of its population are living today who would have been dead had Massachusetts taken only the average care of her citizens that is bestowed throughout the United States. It means that if Albuquerque had taken the same precautions which Massachusetts did during the year 1909 towards the prevention of disease would have been 13.1 persons per one thousand of population here in this city. In other words, Albuquerque would have 13.1 persons living today who were killed during the year 1909.

While these figures are true, still the large number of persons who come here on account of tuberculosis, who, under ordinary circumstances, would not be carried upon our death rolls, but whose deaths would go to swell the mortality records of other towns, are included in our records, so that the general death rate of Albuquerque is a bit larger in this table than it rightly should be.

If we would eliminate from our death records the imported cases of tuberculosis, who die here, and give to Albuquerque only her own deaths from this disease, it would reduce Albuquerque's general death rate to 20.4 per thousand.

At this, which is much nearer the truth, there would only have been 84 Albuquerqueans needlessly murdered in 1909 because of our inability to enforce the same sanitary standard which was used in Massachusetts.

Table 2—The Number of Deaths for every 100,000 Persons.

United States	16.3
Massachusetts	10.1

Pittsburg, Pa.	10.9
Richmond, Va.	10.9
Indianapolis, Ind.	10.9
New Haven, Conn.	10.9
Albuquerque, N. M.	100.0

In table No. 2 we cannot make the excuse for Albuquerque, that was made for her in regard to the general death rate. The cases of scarlet fever referred to in the table above were our own and were not imported.

Here we have the astounding fact presented that while the United States had accepted Albuquerque's standard of sanitation in regard to scarlet fever, there would have been 99.9 deaths from this disease in the country, instead of approximately 2,000, during the year 1909.

Had Albuquerque a population of 100,000 people, we would have had 99.9 persons die of scarlet fever in excess of the average death rate for that disease throughout the United States. Or again, by coming to Albuquerque, you take 99 chances out of 100,000 of dying of scarlet fever, that you do not have to accept anywhere in the United States. Multiply this by ten (10) and you have approximately the chance in 100,000 that your child has of getting scarlet fever in Albuquerque above that in the average city in this country.

From the above table a study will show that Albuquerque advertises herself in the following manner: "Here in this beautiful city we have fine water, the most delightful climate in the whole world, fresh mountain air and continual sunshine throughout the year. Nature has outdone herself in our behalf; but IN SPITE of all these gifts of nature, if you will only come and live with us for one short year during that period you'll have five times the chance of dying of typhoid fever than you have in Massachusetts; ten times the chance of dying of malaria fever here, as compared with the average city in the United States; and it is almost twice as easy to die of diphtheria here as in most other places in this broad country."

These figures are not fanciful; they are taken directly from the death records from our own city and compared with the official figures given out by other cities and states. Years ago Massachusetts had approximately the figures that we have today. With proper precautions we can truthfully show the same records that Massachusetts is today making.

I do not have to call to your mind what sanitation will do; we have a most brilliant example of what our own people are doing in this line in Panama, in the canal zone. For years this zone has been called "the hole of horror" and "the white man's cemetery," and yet today, the general death rate from all diseases in the canal zone is smaller than any city in the United States. For the month of March of this year (not an exceptional month), the death rate was 8.9. Compare that with the death rate in table 1. How does it look when placed alongside of Albuquerque's figure of 27.6? From a sanitary point of view, the Isthmus of Panama is a garden of Paradise compared to the city of Albuquerque.

Schistosis is a matter of avoidance when a family settles in a country and has acres of ground separating it from its nearest neighbor, the matter of sanitation is a problem which confronts itself merely to the family. As more families come to the locality and the houses are more closely segregated, then the nuisances committed by one family may have their effect upon neighbors. In large well governed cities every precaution is taken by competent, well paid officials to guard against the spread of sickness and disease by faults committed by any of their citizens. It is in towns in the transition period of their existence, from village to city, that the melancholy spectacle of insanitation is usually most extravagantly developed.

In these towns, the number of people that are living together in so large that it is not possible for one person to guard himself against the insanitary mistakes of another; and the municipality has not the foresight to appoint, and pay, competent officials, with proper authority, whose duty should be to protect the people from each other, and ambition Albuquerque in this period of her existence. It is a most dangerous period to all living here; we cannot tell how long it may continue.

To transform a town, an absolute stranger to sanitation, into a sanitary city requires time and persistent effort; but in the meantime much may be done to increase the salubrity of our home.

The great difficulty in accomplishing all that might be required in the way of sanitation is the fact that so many are ignorant of the common dangers that beset them in their every day life. It would be easy, I believe, to make your neighbor clean up his filth breeding stable, if you could get him to understand that the common house fly is a most dangerous insect; that it only breeds in horse manure and then only under the favorable circumstances which he provides in his stable.

Here in Albuquerque we can cut the death rate from typhoid fever in half next year by simply cleaning up the breeding places of the house fly. Public education on the danger of the house fly, its mode of life, how and where it breeds and the methods of exterminating it would lead to conscientious effort on the part of a large number of the citizens to do away with this pest and would do a great amount of good from a sanitary point of view.

Every citizen who adds to the sum total of the knowledge of how disease is spread in the community helps Albuquerque to a higher sanitary position.

The formation of a civic health league, whose aim and ambition should be the education of the public in all that pertains to the prevention of disease and the maintenance of health, would be of more benefit to us than all the combined societies of which the city now boasts.

Every citizen could and should help in the endeavor to place Albuquerque among the enlightened cities of the world in regard to its methods of caring for the public safety. He can do this, first of all, by keeping his own premises in a neat, orderly and sanitary condition. When he has done this, then he is in position to preach and teach this doctrine to his neighbors.

Has it ever occurred to you what an immense improvement could be made in Albuquerque from a sanitary standpoint, if each of its eight thousand citizens would do this? This Albuquerque citizen will show you how to go to the rescue.

Mrs. G. Lensch, 110 E. Lead Ave., Albuquerque, N. Mex., says: For over a year I was subject to pains in my side, just below my kidneys. There were swellings over my kidneys and I could not move suddenly without misery. The least twist or turn caused sharp twinges and if I took cold, it always settled in my kidneys, making me feel worse than ever. In the morning on arising, my back was very painful. Finally I was led to try Doan's Kidney Pills, after hearing that a number of my friends had taken them with success. The contents of one box completely relieved me of the pain and distress and I have had no recurrence of kidney trouble. It is a pleasure for me to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy

The Old Man said to me last evening when I got home from work: "You can say one thing for me, viz: Shop early and often; you can't be arrested for repeating." Funny old geezer that pop of mine. I can tell by the look on his face when he's got something stewing on his cocoon. I just feel like going up and saying: "Out with it, pop!" but I know perfectly well if I let him alone he'll "out with it," all right, and feel a lot better for it. Just the same, a man with a joke on his mind had better get rid of it or it might strike in and put his coco bolo on the bum. Well, there's one thing I can say for my boss—you don't have to wear any bump of caution under your hat when you come here to do your trading. You don't need to take the least little bit of a precaution, because everything is figured out right in the start, both quality and price; with an eye to your interests. Now, please don't think that I mean to say my boss is a philanthropist, who is burning up his money on the E. Z. Mark plan—not a bit of it. The boss enjoys good health and a cheerful disposition, but he can't live on the climate no more than you or I can. I merely express the opinion that I believe he figures everything out on the basis of mutual interest and of crowding all the value into our dollars that can possibly be done. We do not advance prices on our holiday specials during the joyous season. Coming in soon, I hope.
