FAST ON THE ROCKS

British Steamer with 174 Souls On Board Wrecked on Lizard Point Rocks.

143 LIVES REPORTED LOST

Passengers Were Eating Dinner When the Crash Came, and Then All Was Confusion—Machinery Failed in a Gale.Falmouth, Eng., Oct. 15.—The British steamer Mohegan, Captain Griffiths, belonging to the Atlantic Transport Company, has been wrecked in the vicinity of Lizard, between Manafas and Lisbon. About 143 persons, passengers and crew, were drowned.The Mohegan left London for New York Thursday, having on board 59 passengers and 115 officers and men.
The coast is extremely dangerous and the general opinion is that the machinery of the Mohegan became disabled during a heavy easterly gale, ran ashore and foundered. Tugs which put out returned without being able to approach the vessel, owing to the severity of the weather. The life boat landed 31 of the passengers and crew. One woman died after she was brought ashore. One survivor, George Maule, of New York, said: "At 10 o'clock yesterday evening, when most of the passengers were at dinner, the ship began going at full speed. We heard a crash, which seemed to denote collision with some other vessel. But when we rushed on deck we found the Mohegan on the rocks."Orders were given immediately to lower the boats. The crew behaved like heroes. The steamer immediately began to settle by the head, when two boats were launched. The women were sent away in the first boats. I managed to secure a life belt and jumped overboard. When I was leaving the vessel a little girl begged me pitiously to save her but I was powerless. Eventually, I caught and held a plank floating on the water and clung to it seven and a half hours, when I was picked up by a tug. I could not have lasted much longer."The Mohegan sank in about 20 minutes after she had run on the rocks.
Later in the morning it became known that another life boat had landed 16 more survivors. As the life boats put out from a number of places, the number of survivors may be increased. All survivors are in a pitiable condition, some being badly injured by the waves and rocks and suffering from bruises and fractured limbs.As the day wore on, further reports were received which showed that 44 survivors of the Mohegan were landed at Port Houtcock, Cornwall, where the bodies of 140 dead persons were received. Then came an announcement that 14 of the crew had been found alive on the rocks. The coast guardman who was on duty says he noticed the Mohegan was pursuing a dangerous course.Among the passengers saved are Miss Noble, of Baltimore, Md. A. G. L.
Smith, W. Bloomfield, R. Kelly, A. M.
Sondberg and S. Wood. The following officers were saved: Victor Lawrence, Ferguson, Dr. Trever, Mrs.
Piggott, the stewardess. The saved include 50 members of the crew. Among those missing are Mrs. S. C. Crane, believed to be the wife of Stephen Crane, novelist, and Mr. J. Hyslop, believed to be the official measurer of the New York Yacht Club. Miss Roudburn is an American operative singer, professionally known as Maud Roudburn. She telegraphed to a relative in London:
"Ship wrecked; mother dead."

Explanation from London.

London, Oct. 15.—The Mohegan is said to have been an ill-fated vessel from the start. She was only bought by the Atlantic Transport Company when their own boats were to be delivered to the United States government during the war. She was formerly the Cleopatra, of the Wilson & Furness-Leland line, and was bought direct from the Hull yards. She only made one voyage out and home. This was most unlucky, for her engines were defective and the boilers leaked. She is further alleged to have arrived at New York in such condition that she was sent home empty. The steamer has been in dock undergoing repairs and her managers claimed she was in perfect condition when she left port. It is surmised her engines broke down and the vessel, in the rough sea and heavy gale, drifted on the rocks.

SEDATE BOSTON STARTLED.

Admiral Gherardi Proposes An Offensive and Defensive Alliance with England on the Chinese Question.Boston, Oct. 15.—The Massachusetts Reform Club decided last night to hold an investigation on its own account for the benefit of the board now in session at Washington. Rear Admiral Gherardi (retired), who spoke for the navy, created much surprise by saying: "Lack of attention on the part of the people regarding the army's needs was the cause of the present trouble. Congress has not done as it should: the regular army should be increased. We are not yet out of war, and we need to be thoroughly equipped with an efficient land and naval force. We are going to dabble in the east, and you will have to fight yet shoulder to shoulder and ship to ship, with England on the Chinese question. There will be an offensive and defensive alliance there. I wish to God we would keep out of the Philippines."

Will Lose Their Jobs.

ECHOES FROM VIRDEN.

Negro Refugees in St. Louis—Coal Company's Counsel Advises to Abandon Further Alabama Negro

men with 51 women and children were brought to St. Louis last night, after being driven out of Virden, Ill., and are being cared for by the city temporarily. The negroes desire to be taken back to Alabama. Mayor Ziegenheim says he will demand that the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis railroad which carried them here last night should take them out of town again.

No More "Alabama Coons."

Virden, Ill., Oct. 15.—Attorney William Patton of the Chicago Virden coal company says no further attempt will be made to land Alabama negroes whose coming has resulted in the loss of so many lives. Attorney Patton declares the grand jury will have to say whether Governor Tanner shall answer in court or not.

A Fake After All.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The Anti-Revisionist papers regard the reported discovery of a military plot against the government as pure invention.

Dick Thompson Still on Deck.

Paris, Ill., Oct. 15.—After his drive about Terre Haute and an inspection of the street fair now in progress, President McKinley ascended the platform near the Union depot arm in arm with the venerable Richard W. Thompson, ex-secretary of the navy. The sight of the veteran statesman on the arm of the president of the United States was a signal for long continued cheers from 12,000 throats. Thompson introduced the president, who made a speech, in which he said that the great assemblages greeting him everywhere meant that the people "want those of us who are charged with the administration of the government to see to it that the war is not in vain and that just fruits of our achievements on land and sea shall not be lost."

SPAIN DOESN'T LIKE IT.

Because the United States Will Not Submit Her Absurd Propositions to Arbitration.Madrid, Oct. 15.—La Correspondencia a semi-official paper of the Spanish government, attaches much importance to yesterday's meeting of the peace commissions. It is believed that besides discussing the Cuban debt and evacuation of Cuba, the Philippine question was under discussion.La Correspondencia says: "The Americans are uncompromising, disposed only to yield on points of unimportant detail. They are not disposed to agree to arbitration, while Spain is willing to accept Russia or Germany as an arbitrator."

Window Glass Plants Closed Down.

Pittsburg Pa., Oct. 15.—The window glass plants throughout the United States failed to start the season's operations last night. Fires were banked and may be extinguished, and 15,000 workers who have been looking forward to a general resumption on October 15, are forced to remain idle. This strike is for the advancement of the wages of cutters and flatteners, but is really the result of a fight between the Knights of Labor and the American Federation of Labor.

Still the Drawing Card.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 15.—Across Illinois the president's train swept all last night and today crossed into Indiana, reaching Terre Haute at 10 o'clock. The president expressed a desire to have the train stopped at every point where the crowd is large and clamorous to see him. At Terre Haute the president entered a carriage with Secretaries Gage, Wilson, and Bliss, and the party drove about the city for half an hour.
The streets were lined with people eager to catch a glimpse of the president.

Fitzhugh Lee's Wife Very Ill.

to take command of the first division.

POLITICAL NEWS.

Bernalillo Republicans.

The county convention to nominate candidates for legislative and county offices on the Republican ticket in Bernalillo county meets in Albuquerque on Wednesday, the 26th inst. It is understood that Hon. Thomas Hughes and Hon. T. A. Finkel are candidates for renomination to the territorial council, and that Sheriff Thomas S. Habbell is also a candidate for renomination.
The ticket that will be nominated by this convention will carry the county by an overwhelming majority. The so-called Independent Republican movement will not hurt the regular Republican ticket to any alarming extent, in fact, it is understood that the Democrats will make no nominations but will endorse the Independent Republican movement. This will not prove good politics, as the result will show. Bernalillo county two years ago gave Mr.
Catron 629 majority, it will double this election and will make it 1,200.
This is the estimate put upon the vote by those best informed on Bernalillo county affairs.

What the Gang in San Miguel is Up To.

Word comes from San Miguel county that the Union party gang in that county, in office and desiring to get into office, is getting ready to perpetrate enough election frauds to carry the county for their ticket. That gang favors Mr. Ferguson, to be sure, but cares not much for him. Pelf for itself is its motto. But the abatement board of county commissioners of that county will do well to consider the situation.
There is no judge on the bench to help along this time. Quite the reverse, there is a fearless, honest and able judge there now, one who desires to see the law upheld and respected and who will see to it that this is done. The board will do well not to play with live coals.
Its abatement and county scrip fingers may get severely burned.

Mr. Ferguson Goes North.

Delegate H. B. Ferguson accompanied by A. O. Larrazola, of Las Vegas, was a passenger north to Taos county this morning, where he will open the campaign and tell the dear people what a strong protectionist he is and how he insisted that a Republican house of representatives and 44 Republican senators should vote for the Dingley tariff law, how he procured the proviso of the tariff on wool in that law and how he demanded, that the president must approve the measure. He will also visit Rio Arriba county, where he will give the dear people the same song and dance. How much good this trip will do him, will be shown on election day.

Donna Ana County Conditions.

Most encouraging news for the Republicans reaches the New Mexican from the county of Donna Ana. The Republican ticket there, standing for law and order and for security to life, and property and good, honest, county government will be elected by at least 500 majority, although a great big slush fund has been raised by the Democrats in order to secure a sheriff who will do the bidding of the lawless and law-breaking element in certain parts of the county. The Republican ticket is first class and will be elected by the majority quoted. Preciliano Moreno is chairman of the county committee and Clinton Llewellyn is secretary of it. The election of Hon. J. A. Anicheta for the council of Captain W. H. Llewellyn for the house from Grant and Donna Ana, and of Marcial Valdez for the house from Donna Ana county seems to be absolutely sure.

Sugar Beets.

Captain S. H. Day has just received the following letter of interest from Professor Arthur Goss, of the Agricultural college at Mesilla Park: "The beets sent in by you analyze as follows:
No. 985, Kleinwanzlebener, per cent of sugar in juice is 17.5; purity, 80.6. No.
996, Vilmorin, per cent of sugar in juice is 17.6; purity, 81.1. I am pleased to showing for this season is much more satisfactory and speaks well for Santa cultivation of the sugar beets.

Yellow Jack in the Army.
It isn't the number of men that yellow fever kills that frightens you," said a soldier, "but the unexpected suddenness of its attack, and the rapidity with which it kills." A man is well and hearty at 3 P. M.; at 4 P. M. he is dead; at 5 P. M. he is buried. The man who dies of yellow fever sometimes digs trenches right up to within four hours of his burial. In much the same manner men will work day after day in apparent health, and then will suddenly appear a general weakness. The body is giving out. It needs something to strengthen it, to tone up the stomach, and assist digestion. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is highly recommended. It is the best tonic ever made.

Old fashions in dress may be revived, but no old-fashioned medicine can replace Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

When They Knew Him.
There are plenty of women who would be glad to get me, he said. Very likely, she replied, pointedly, but none of them would care to keep you after she once had you. He went outdoors to say what he wanted to say after that thrust. He felt that he couldn't do justice to it in the house.—Chicago Post.

Our little boy was afflicted with rheumatism in his knee; and at times unable to put his foot to the floor. We tried in vain, everything we could hear of that we thought would help him. We almost gave up in despair, when some one advised us to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. We did so, and the first bottle gave so much relief that we got a second one, and, to our surprise, it cured him sound and well.—J. T. HAYS, Pastor Christian Church, Needohsa, Kan. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

Confoundingly Ignorant.
Our country, sir, roared the Yankee, knows no East, no West, no North, no South. Indeed, said Mr. Fyppes, of London. What a confoundingly ignorant country.—Harper's Bazar.

Just What She Didn't Want.
Poor Lover—I'd always treat you like an angel. She—Yes, with nothing to eat and still less to wear.—Harper's Bazar.

Three Doctors in Consultation.
From Benjamin Franklin.
"When you are sick, what you like best is to be chosen for a medicine in the first place; what experience tells you is best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason (i. e., Theory) says is best is to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inclination, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best advice that can be taken."

When you have a bad cold Dr. Inclination would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take. Dr. Experience would recommend it because it never fails to effect a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

Accounted for at Last.
Mosley Wraggs—You've got some egg on yer whiskers. Tufford Knutt—I knowed I didn't seem to be getting much of that egg I ctt day before yesterday, but I hadn't no idee what had become of it.—Chicago Tribune.

All for His Sake.
He—Carrie! I saw you flirting with Tom Swarrel last evening. She—Well, it was all for your sake. He—For my sake? How do you make that out?

She—You wanted me to learn to love you, and I was just practicing on Tom.—Boston Transcript.

How to Prevent Croup.
We have two children who are subject to attacks of croup. Whenever an attack is coming on my wife gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always prevents the attack. It is a household necessity in this country and no matter what else we run out of, it would get to be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. More of it is sold here than of all other cough medicines combined.—J. M. NICKLE, of Nickle Bros., merchants, Nickleville, Pa. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

Economy.
She—Now dear, we must begin to economize. He—All right. Begin by making the bread lighter.—Yonkers Statesman.

Burlington Route
Our service to St. Louis.

Do not lose sight of the fact that the Burlington Route is in the field for Kansas City and St. Louis as well as for Omaha and Chicago business. It runs only one train a day to the first-named cities, but that train is a mighty good one. It leaves Denver at 9:50 p. m., reaches Kansas City at 8:30 next night, and St. Louis at 7:10 the following morning. Through sleeping and chair cars. Dining car, too, of course.

G. W. Vallery, Gen'l Agt., 1039 17th St., Denver.

The Fatal Thirteenth.
I proposed to her just twelve times, and I shall not propose another time. How superstitious you are, Mr. Bluffs.—Brooklyn Life.

Man's Inhumanity.
Oh, you needn't talk, said the indignant wife. What would you be today if it weren't for my money. I'd like to know?
I really don't know, my dear, calmly replied the heartless wretch, but I'm inclined to think I would be a bachelor.—Chicago News.

LOVE AND FRIENDSHIP.
Love and Friendship came this way by our village toller day. Friendship was a cloak of gold. Rich and full with many a fold. Knew him by bow and arrow, And he stood at men and sparrows, Ever singing, ever gay.

"Gammer, gammer, answer true, Which of us may sup with you?" Some chose Love, that laughing led Ere the morning clouds were red. While who had Friendship hidden. Ofttimes found young Cupid hidden, Peeping that same mantle through.—Blanche Lindsay in Athenaeum.

HER CHOICE.

Miss Kitty Hurst ran out with an unfinished break of 21. "Gloves all round," she said to the group of men who had assembled to her prowess with the cue. "Bravo, Kitty!" exclaimed an enthusiastic youngster.

"You have most extraordinary luck, Miss Hurst," said Fanshawe of the Coldstream. Fanshawe was voted a card and frowned upon.

"Would you like me to play it over again?" asked Miss Hurst of Fanshawe of the Coldstream. "I'll give you more points, just to compensate for my luck, you know."

Fanshawe patted his mustache, and Miss Kitty smiled at him like an angel. She wore a white dress, cunningly devised from plain, and her waist nestled those happy red roses which young Barker had plucked at 6 o'clock that morning, and young Barker was always seriously indisposed by dinner time if he got up before breakfast.

"Well, what shall we do?" asked Kitty. "No more billiards, eh?" The group of men uttered an inharmonious assent.

"You come into the orchard and flirt with me," said the enthusiastic youngster, "and these fellows can go into the library and improve their minds. It'll do them a lot of good, and me, too—in the orchard."

Kitty shook her head. "I don't," she said. "You have such a fascinating way with you that I might say and do all sorts of silly things."

"You're rather good at that," said the boy. Barker and the boy were Miss Hurst's most ardent admirers, and Barker considered her a queer chap, an imperious young idiot, while the boy was loud and confident in describing Barker as a "silly ass."

"Well, then, come and upset the professor's specimens," suggested the boy. "He's got a new lot in—brought 'em home in his pockets last night." There were three caterpillars in the bath this morning, but it didn't take long to drown them.

"Shut up, Tommy!" said Hemming, the rising barrister. "By the way, has any one seen the professor this morning?"

"I saw him groveling in the kitchen garden," drawled Barker, "and when I asked him what he was up to he muttered ghastly things about some one having seen a death's head among the potatoes."

"He's a queer chap," said Hemming. "He has a nice voice," said Kitty. "I believe Kitty is in love with him," said the boy. "I saw her stroking one of his butterflies the other day. It spoiled it, didn't it, Kitty?"

"I didn't know the color came off," protested Kitty. "Ah, that was a female butterfly," said the boy. "Well, you fellows, if anybody wants to relapse portions of a small museum, they had better come with me. It's jolly slow here, and it's horrible to see Barker yawning in the corner over there. I wonder why Barker looks so dreadfully unpleasant when he yawns? Never mind, you can't help it, and hitting me with a billiard cue won't improve your method of yawning."

"You'd better leave Mr. Sinnett's specimens alone," said Kitty. "And so had you," retorted the boy. "I don't go stroking all the color off. You know you won't get him to love you that way. Entomologists are awfully touchy people. I say, Barker, don't you think you had better go to bed or cover your face with a newspaper? Hello, there is the professor. Don't look at him, Kitty. His trousers are positively indecent—Barker said so."

Alfred Sinnett stepped lightly across the lawn. A basket, swinging from a leather strap, hung against his right hip, tin boxes bulged from his jacket, and in his left hand he carried a stick conveniently hooked to pull down the branches of trees. He was tall, dark, clean shaven and apparently about 40 years of age.

"Perhaps he has some beetles with him," suggested Hemming, the rising barrister. Every one laughed except Fanshawe, who suppressed a shudder.

"Never mind, Fanshawe," said the boy; "beetles can't run as fast as guardians. Look out, here he is! Does anybody know a low line of Durwin as a rooster?" He might consider it a delicate compliment.

The professor raised his straw hat in salutation. "Any sports?" asked the boy. The professor raised his eyebrows interrogatively.

"Have you got anything to kill?" went on the boy. "There's nothing like drowning caterpillars." The professor smiled, and his smile was rather pleasant. "No; I have brought home nothing alive this morning," he said.

"May I see what you have collected?" asked Miss Kitty. "I shall be delighted to show you." The professor opened one of the tin boxes and extracted a small specimen of blue quartz. "This," he said, "is peculiar and different from any I have hitherto seen in this neighborhood, but if you can spare me a short time after lunch I shall be able to show you my recent acquisitions with less inconvenience to your friends." And he smiled pleasantly at Fanshawe of the Coldstream.

"It's so good of you to take so much trouble over me," said Miss Kitty to the professor. "I am very glad if you find my hobby of interest," said the man of learning, "every foot of the road contains for you some object of study which the uninitiated never dream."

"You must come with me one morning, and I will show you how to observe all the curious minutiae which are lying around you at every step. Will you excuse me now? I shall be rather busy till luncheon. Good morning, gentlemen."

Barker yawned, the boy whistled, Fanshawe of the Coldstream smiled, Hemming, the rising barrister, smiled, Kitty blushed. The boy shook his head at Kitty reproachfully.

"Don't be silly," Kitty said. "The most morning he'll be in the way, Fanshawe and Hemming watched Miss Kitty Hurst and the professor pass through the wicket gate at the bottom of the rose garden and enter the copse a few yards beyond. The professor walked hurriedly, avoiding the patches of wet clay by instinct. Miss Kitty had more than once to request a less speedy progress, and at the stile, which they reached after a few minutes' hurried tramp, she was glad to stop and recover her breath.

"Isn't it lovely?" gasped Kitty. "This meadow and this copse are worth the whole of London season." Two months hence Kitty would be dying for a dance.

The professor looked at the flowers and dissected them with his eye, looked at the butterflies and classified them at a glance. "Yes," he said; "it is very lovely."

They walked on until the basket and the tin boxes were almost full, and Kitty heard about many things which she tried vainly to remember. Kitty Hurst felt happier than she had been for a very long while. There was something instinct with pleasure in this wandering through peaceful meadows, beside hedgerows, finding wonderful things in the least considered places and feeling your step springing over the turf with continually renewed vigor.

On the following morning Kitty and the professor again set forth with baskets and boxes, and on several successive mornings, until the young men who assembled in the billiard room began to detest the professor most cordially.

"Miss Hurst," said the professor, staring curiously at the twisted trunk of a massive oak tree, "I feel that I must undertake a serious study of botany."

"Oh, it's very interesting," said Kitty. "and it's very nice to be among these delightful green fields and copses, but as to becoming a really serious botanist, I am afraid I am not built that way."

"Yes, it's very pleasant," said the professor. "and your presence seems to make it even more pleasant."

"It's very good of you to say that, but I thought that you scientific men always spoke the truth as far as your knowledge allowed. In fact, I thought that that was the basis of the scientific spirit and what made it so objectionable to the imaginative creature."

"As far as my knowledge admitted I spoke the truth," said the professor. "Ah, that's because you haven't the artistic instinct! If you had, you would know that my person in its present relations to those trees is abominable and that my frock is simply revolting beside those purple flowers."

The professor smiled and walked on. Blue shadows dappled the little grass, soft breeze shook the boughs overhead; the morning was perfect. Miss Hurst and the professor staid suddenly in their walk as if by instinctive sympathy and gazed at the soft line of the downs which stretched far on their left hand.

"What a paradise this pastoral England!" said the professor. His glance had synthesized, not analyzed.

Kitty nodded. There is an element in such a scene that hushes the human voice. "For this," went on the professor, "I love you. I feel that I must undertake a serious study of botany."

In the olden days men were physically, at least, worthy of the admiration of women. It is a great big something for a woman to feel that her husband is truly a capable man.

Nowadays there is not much to admire about the average man from a physical standpoint. He may be a moral and a mental giant, but the flesh of ill-health is weak, and he is probably a physical coward. It is not in nature for a sickly man to be a brave man.

His spirit may be willing but his body is weak. That is the man's own fault. He can't be a man of action if he is a little common sense attention to his health when he has it, and when he gets a little out of sorts, take the right remedy. Many of the diseases that afflict mankind are traceable directly to indigestion, torpidity of the liver and impurities in the blood.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the greatest medicine for the disorder of the nature. It strengthens a weak stomach, corrects all disorders of the digestion, gives edge to the appetite, invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood and tones up and invigorates the nerves. It searches out disease germs, kills them and carries them out of the system. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve-tonic and restorative. It makes strong, healthy men out of weak, sickly invalids. Medicine dealers sell it. Be sure you get the honest dealer will urge a substitute upon you.

"I have been taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellies' and must say that they have worked wonders in my case," writes Mr. L. L. Pack, (Box 75), of Hinton, Summers, Okla. "I feel like a new man, in fact, I think I am well, but I will take one more bottle to make sure the cure is permanent. I cannot speak too highly of this medicine. It can cure anything now without misery in my stomach. I have gained some eight or ten pounds, weighing as heavy as I did three years ago. I can eat now, but when I first began to take it I felt a little worse for a few days, but I gained through my body and bones, but all this time after taking the medicine four or five days."

John Roper, the well known D. & R. G. roadmaster, is in town and at the Palace.

The unsightly portals on the west and south sides of the plaza should be pulled down.
Mrs. N. Whitt, of Antonito, registered at the Palace last night, and left this afternoon for Arizona.

Miguel Chavez, a prominent merchant and sheep man, is in town from Park View on business.
Among the Republicans, Captain Muller seems to be in the lead for the nomination for collector.

Advertisement for penitentiary supplies on second page. The attention of merchants is called to the matter.
E. S. Waddles, the St. Joseph dry goods man, returned last night from a northern trip, and is at the Palace.

E. F. St. John, a Colorado Springs business man, is in town, and is registered at the Palace.

It is rumored around town that the local statesmen are endeavoring to put up Lieutenant Dame for sheriff, and if he declines, to name Sergeant J. S. Langston, of the Rough Riders, for the place. ### LETTERS FROM CAMP HAMILTON.

New Mexico Boys Nicely Situated—Regiment Under Orders for Cuba—Indian War Dances Given by Territorial Regiment.

Captain William Strover, of company G, 1st territorial regiment, stationed at Camp Hamilton, near Lexington, Ky., writes to a friend in this city as follows:

We are all settled now and have our equipment complete. Our camp is situated in a lovely place and is perfect. The country around here is simply grand, and you can imagine how a fellow with 14 years' experience in New Mexico feels to look over such a place as this. Mrs. Strover has a room in an old farm house near by, belonging to one of the oldest Kentucky families, and enjoys her stay here immensely.

The drills are very easy, only three hours a day. The boys are comfortable; have a wall tent for each three men; floors are put in of hard wood, and most of the men have bunks and mattresses.

We belong to the 1st army corps, 2d division and 3d brigade, and are quartered with the 2d Missouri and a Mississippi regiment. Altogether we have 11,000 men here and the camp stretches for six miles along the railroad track. Orders have been received for the regiment to go to Georgia preparatory to going to Cuba, but I do not think we will move for a week yet. I am enjoying myself greatly here and do not care whether we go any farther or not.

The people are of the best and it is a treat for us to walk under big shade trees and upon blue grass. I cannot imagine a lovelier place than our camp, and I shall regret leaving Kentucky.

In coming here our train passed through Frankfort, along the principal street, very slowly, our band playing the "Old Kentucky Home." The people went wild and cheered themselves hoarse.

Our division commander inspected our camp the other day, and said he never saw a finer body of troops than our regiment, and they are, on the whole, far superior to any other troops here. The boys are all well and are having an easy time. Only 20 men out of the 12 companies on the sick report. There is some talk of mounting our regiment, and I hope it is true.

John G. Sena's Letter.
Juan G. Sena, a member of Captain Strover's company, has also written to friends in this city, and from his letter the following is taken:

We reached this place the 28th of last month, but I have not written before for the reason that we are kept busy. We had a nice trip, being on the way about three days and three nights from Whipple barracks. The boys were allowed to get off the train at all stations where stops were made, and I lost no chance to see all that I could. We came through Kansas, Colorado, Missouri, Illinois and a part of Kentucky, and they are great states. On the way we crossed three large rivers, the Missouri, Mississippi and the Ohio, and I saw several steamboats on the water. This is a great country.

On reaching Camp Hamilton the New York volunteers said they expected to see horns and tails on us, and they were sure that we were Indians, horse thieves, murderers and several other kinds of criminals. The other regiments in camp are very friendly toward the territorial boys, and from the fact that there are a few Indian boys in the regiment the New York boys invited us over to their camp to give them an Indian dance. The Indian war dance, as the boys in the regiment thought one ought to look like, was given, and in return the spectators gave us a free lunch.

Lexington is five miles from the camp, too far to walk, but the fare on the train is only 10 cents. The camp, to the boys from New Mexico, seems to be quite damp. When rain commences to fall it keeps it up for 24 hours, but we are getting used to it. When the sun shines it is hot enough to cook beans.

James Reed has been quite sick, but is now doing nicely and will be out in a few days. I don't know how long we will stay here, as there are several rumors floating around that we are to be sent to Cuba in a short time.

To be Broad Gauged.
Roadmaster Roper, of the D. & R. G., has received orders from Denver to put in standard gauge ties as he makes his repairs between La Veta and Alamogordo, which is a sure indication that at an early day the standard gauge system will extend to the latter point.

It is very inconvenient transferring at La Veta from one gauge to another, and then the business over the western part of the system is such as will justify the change, which will be made within the next 18 months. The company is doing such a heavy business between Denver and Pueblo that a double track all the way between those two points has become imperative, and may be soon built.

Unveiling of DuChemin Monument.
Tomorrow afternoon the ceremony of unveiling the DuChemin monument at the National cemetery, under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World, will take place, the members of the order leaving Odd Fellows' hall for the cemetery at 2 o'clock.

On reaching the grave, the services provided in the ritual of the order will be conducted by the different officers, an address will be delivered by Rev. Madden, poem recited by Sovereign W. M. H. Woodward, and a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. McCord, Miss Nellie Blanchard and Mr. Alps will sing appropriate songs.

A general invitation is extended to all to be present at the cemetery to witness the unveiling of the monument and the ceremonies. The members of the camp are requested to be at the hall not later than 1:45.

are finding that it pays to sell Schilling's Best baking powder.

It makes good cake. Good cake makes friends.
