WHITE RAY AT LAST BE TOO LATE

To Save Tottling Government of the Czar.

WITH TREPOFF HE ALONE CAN STEM THE TIDE

St. Petersburg in State of Siege Isolated From Rescue Without and Torn by Mobs Within. Crash Coming Fast.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—Day after day passes without the promulgation of Russia's new governmental organ, a responsible ministerial cabinet to bring order out of the present administrative chaos. Count Witte, to whom all factions look to assume the premiership, has spent almost the entire time of the past two days at Piterhof wrestling with the emperor, insisting upon conditions in connection with his appointment which his majesty was unwilling to grant. Upon his return to St. Petersburg tonight Count Witte announced that the cabinet project, which has been lying dormant for three days on the emperor's table, would not be promulgated tomorrow, intimating thereby that his program, which is known to include a species of constitution involving the granting of the emperor's "four liberties"—freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of the press and freedom of the person—has not been accepted.

It is felt here that the delay cannot be long protracted and that it is only a question of hours when the emperor confides the fortunes of the dynasty and the government to Count Witte's hands.

Meanwhile the situation is passing from bad to worse, with matters at a less how to act, and the revolutionists, encouraged by the inactivity of the government, are growing bolder and more insistent in the demands made in their speeches.

Think Trepoft Is Weakening.

It is true there has been no disorder in St. Petersburg and that General Trepoft, Russia's other strong man, has taken every measure to put down an uprising in its incipency, but he has not felt safe enough of the possibility of a revolution to act boldly with regard to the revolutionary meetings at the university, and has contented himself with issuing warnings which, not having been enforced, are again being ignored as lack of backbone by the agitators.

As before Friday's giant meeting at the university, it was again announced today that further meetings there would not be permitted, but less portals were again open tonight and the hospitality of the university was extended to a group of lawyers and other professional men, one of whose orators, referring to the Russian folk legend that the world is supported on the backs of three whales, said that the autocracy rested on three cetaceans: MONEY, THE PEOPLE, and the moral sympathy of the people alienated, and that the army alone remains true, and that it is predicted, would not be for long.

Another speaker, recently preached terrorism and advocated "making an example" of a number of high personages.

Count Witte's ally in the stupendous task he is about to undertake will be General Trepoft, who through all his life has been spent as an instrument for repression, and though he twice has escaped attempts to execute the terrorists' sentence of death, has come to realize that the old order of things is changing and giving place to a new, and is now a genuine convert to the policy of giving the people a share in the government.

Should Witte and Trepoft now fall, the opinion is that nothing will save the present government from complete ruin. Many shrewd observers believe that Witte comes too late.

St. Petersburg in State of Siege.

The conditions in St. Petersburg are that of a city under siege, with an uprising threatened from within, almost completely isolated and its scanty stores of provisions being rapidly exhausted. The situation, however, is overwhelming.

General Trepoft has 50,000 troops under his command, which are distributed in every section of the city. There is scarcely a block without its military patrol. Infantry and cavalry are quartered in court yards all over town, the barracks are crowded, and the watch-fires of the soldiers who are bivouacking in the streets light up the thoroughfares where electricity has been extinguished. The Nevsky Prospect, the city's main avenue, which last night was in darkness, tonight presents a weird appearance. A powerful searchlight mounted at the admiralty illuminates the center of the avenue with a blinding light, leaving the sidewalks in darkness. Drivers in the roadway, dazzled by the glare, were unable to see where they were going and the throngs in obscurity on the sidewalks were in but a little better plight. There was constant confusion, which was augmented during the evening by an attempt of Cosacks and gendarmes to clear the sidewalks. Two hundred thousand men are idle. Workmen's meetings held throughout the city today unanimously favored continuing the strike. The lawyers during the afternoon stopped all business of the courts.

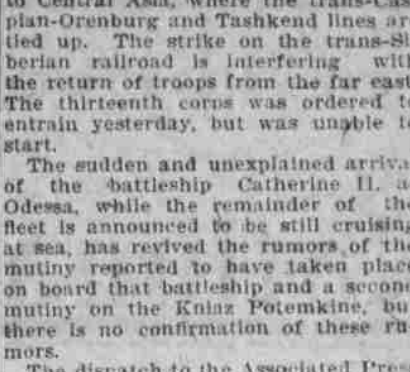

Moscow Also Paralyzed.

The situation at Moscow parallels that at St. Petersburg. The same paralysis has seized Russia's second city. The strike is general. The people are defying all prohibitions and are swarming to the universities and other meeting places. A provisional government has already been organized and is waiting to exercise its powers. The university is barricaded against the troops.

The populations of other towns are growing more violent and demonstrations of disorders are arriving in in-

EXPRESS ROBBER'S WIFE YIELDS UP $5,000

AFTER REPEATED DENIALS MRS. CUNIFFE REVEALS MONEY IN LINING OF BABY CARRIAGE.

EDWARD GEORGE CUNIFFE. Wife Earned $55 a Month and Stole $5,000.

Pittsburg, Oct. 28.—The persistent report that Mrs. Cuniffe, wife of Edward C. Cuniffe, the Adams express robber, had in her possession $5,000 of the $12,000 stolen by her husband on October 9, was confirmed today when Superintendent H. J. Rideman of the Pinkerton detective agency, went to the Cuniffes' home, No. 311 Lottess street, West End, this city, and in the lining of a baby carriage found a package containing $5,000. On the night Cuniffe was brought here from Bridgeport, Conn., where he was captured, he made before confession to the authorities that he had given his wife $5,000. Mrs. Cuniffe, who, in the meantime, had moved to her father's home at Hartford, Conn., denied that she had the money, notwithstanding that she was shown the written confession made by her husband. She was repeatedly questioned, however, and today admitted to the detectives that she had the money. The authorities say there now remains about $6,000 which has not been accounted for.

BLOODSHED ON LARGE SCALE SEEMS IMMINENT

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—A condition bordering on panic prevails here today. Business is completely suspended. Soldiers are everywhere in the streets, and bloodshed on a large scale is feared. The government is trying to appease the infuriated populace, but the revolutionaries seem determined to force an armed conflict. The last railroad connection with the capital and the outside world was broken last night when the Finland railroad discontinued service between St. Petersburg and the Finnish border, but communication by water is still open. From all over the empire the story is the same: work stopped, no newspapers printed, schools closed and business suspended. The cry of the masses is always the same—political liberty. Telephone and telegraphic communication with Moscow has entirely ceased. St. Petersburg is entirely isolated from Moscow.

STRIKERS TOSS A BOMB TO GOMEL POLICE CHIEF

Gomel, Russia, Oct. 28.—Strikers today threw a bomb at the chief of police while he was driving through the principal thoroughfare. His carriage was wrecked and the chief and two Cosacks escorting him were badly injured.

RIOTING AT REVAL ASSUMES SERIOUS PHASE

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—Serious rioting occurred at Reval last night. This morning the city is ablaze. The theaters and spirit shops are burning, and crowds of rioters are in the streets. # WILL ACT INDEPENDENTLY IMPERIAL AUTHORITIES

Grindell Not Sent by Uncle Sam.

Washington, Oct. 28.—The Grindell party whose probable loss on Tiburon Island is reported from Bisbee, Ariz., was not sent out by the government. Prof. W. H. Holmes, chief of the United States bureau of ethnology, says Professor Grindell doubtless went to Tiburon on his own account, and that the report brought back several days ago by J. E. Hoffman, a member of the party as to Grindell and those with him having perished of hunger and thirst, is probable.

Investigating Wire Pulling.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The Tribune today says: The federal government is investigating the efforts of the railroad to pack the interstate commerce commission with its old order of things. The railroad is now a genuine convert to the policy of giving the people a share in the government.

TO OUST MUTUAL LIFE FROM STATE OF OHIO

Akron, O., Oct. 28.—Quo warranto proceedings were commenced in the circuit court this afternoon, by Prosecuting Attorney Hagelbarber, of Ohio, against the Mutual Life Insurance company, and the New York Life Insurance company, to oust them from the state by taking their franchises from them, on the ground that the companies have misused their powers for the past five years in violation of the laws of the state. Thirty-three interrogatories are submitted to the companies to be answered. The appointment of receivers is asked for.

DEMOCRATS WILL PROTEST NOMINATION OF JEROME

New York, Oct. 28.—That there will be opposition by the democratic party to the placing of the name of William Travers Jerome on the official republican ballot is practically assured. The certificate of the action of the republican convention in nominating county convention in substituting the name of Mr. Jerome for that of former Judge Flannery was filed with the board of election today. The board will pass upon the question of the validity of the action as

The fate of Jones is in doubt because Leduc, after the shooting, dragged the body into the bank vault, closed the door and denied arrest. Nickel, who was Leduc's brother-in-law, was cashier of the bank as well as mayor of Chenoa.

JUDGES CONFLICT OVER SALOONKEEPERS' CASE

Denver, Colo., Oct. 28.—Two judges of the district court of this county came into conflict today over the case of seven saloon keepers charged with keeping their places open after midnight and permitting poker games therein. District Attorney George Stedinger disagreed with the order of Judge Frank T. Johnson, who caused the arrests to be made, to file informations in his court against the accused men, and filed them instead in the original division of court before Judge Peter Palmer, who ordered their release on furnishing $300 bond in each case. Judge Johnson, however, remanded the prisoners to the custody of Sheriff Nickel without bail.

POWERS WILL SHOW TURKEY IN ASIA

Vienna, Oct. 28.—It is announced that the powers have decided to make a demonstration against Turkey's Asiatic, but not her European ports, in order to avoid the appearance of giving encouragement to the Macedonian insurgents, and that simultaneously a collective note will be presented to Turkey.

Telluride Tragedy.

Telluride, Colo., Oct. 28.—Carlos Delas, while intoxicated this morning shot and killed his four months' old baby, wounded his wife in the cheek and then turned the revolver on himself. It is expected he will die. Some say jealousy and some say that a family quarrel was the cause of the shooting. Delas was a miner.

WASHINGTON TALKS TO GULF BY WIRELESS

Washington, Oct. 28.—The wireless telegraph station at the Washington navy yard was in communication with the armored cruiser West Virginia, which President Roosevelt left a messenger from 2:07 to 5:15 this morning. As soon as the noise of the machinery and engines began before 7 o'clock this morning, it became impossible to communicate with the ship. The communication will be resumed when the yard quiets down at nightfall. The feat of communication from Washington to the vessel on the Gulf of Mexico, about 1,100 miles of distance, and mostly overland, is regarded as remarkable.

CRUISE DOWN POTOMAC

Washington, Oct. 28.—Accompanied by several of her children, Mrs. Roosevelt left Washington today on board the Sybil for a cruise down the Potomac. If the weather is good she may continue her cruise as far as Hampton Roads to await the president's arrival there on Monday.

ALLEGED ANDREWS GOT OVER $50,000 BY FRAUD

ENTERPRISE BANK RECEIVER BRINGS SENSATIONAL SUIT

DELEGATE IN CONGRESS WILLIAM H. ANDREWS.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—The first sensational suit arising out of the Enterprise National bank scandal came today when Attorney John S. Wendt, acting for Receiver John B. Cunningham, brought suit in the common pleas court against W. H. ("Bill") Andrews.

The action is to recover an amount in excess of $50,000 alleged to have been received from the bank by Andrews through Cashier T. Lee Clark, and is the result of the discovery made by Receiver Cunningham in his investigation into the bank's accounts. Sensational developments are expected.

It is alleged that Andrews was an intimate business associate and interested in various corporations and enterprises with T. Lee Clark, and unlawfully and fraudulently conspired with F. R. Nichols, Clark and others to unlawfully procure funds by the proceeds of negotiable paper and that Nichols at his request assisted in carrying out the alleged conspiracy.

The notes referred to in the statement of assets are as follows:

May 1, 1905, a note for $3,000 made by Andrews to Francis J. Torrance for four months and endorsed by Francis Torrance.

May 16, 1905, a note for $2,500, four months, made to Torrance and endorsed by Torrance; two notes for $3,000, made by Frank McManus to order of Andrews and endorsed by him, one dated July 5, 1905, for $1,000 and one dated July 8, 1905, for $2,000 payable in ninety days. There is a claim of $3,729.50 on drafts or bills of exchange drawn by Frank McManus to the order of Andrews and fully accepted by A. L. Bentley, the drawer named therein, delivered at the Enterprise bank by the defendant before maturity for value received, and proceeds paid to the defendant.

Andrews has left Pittsburg, and his present whereabouts is unknown here.

WILL MARK BOUNDARY LINE WITH BUOYS

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—The International Waterways commission are going to take up the question of defining the international boundary line on the lakes by means of buoys. The project to do this has come from the American side. It is designed to prevent fishermen caught out of their own waters being in a position to catch fish in the lake. When a fishing license will be issued a copy of territory which covers will be attached. Both countries will be notified of putting an end to poaching, which, if not guarded against, might lead to international difficulties.

CLARK UTTERLY DECEIVED

Washington, Oct. 28.—The comptroller of the currency stated today that he had not yet received any detailed report from the Receiver Cunningham of the Enterprise National bank at Allegany City nor from Judge Oldham, representative of the controller's office, who has been at Pittsburg for several days. That labor of making a thorough examination and report will be very great, owing particularly to the suicide of the cashier of the bank and the consequent difficulty of ascertaining the condition of affairs, that it will be several days yet, possibly weeks, before an accurate and exact report of the condition of the bank can be sent to the comptroller. Letters and messages from Mr. Cunningham, however, justify the comptroller in making the statement that the failure will be a very bad one and will justify an assessment of one hundred per cent on the stockholders, against their liability and these assessments have been made today. on Home Grounds.

BROWN UNIVERSITY LOSERS TO THE CRIMSON

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Yale's football team defeated West Point today by a score of 20 to 0, making three touchdowns and one safety. Yale's large score was made during sudden spurts in which the heavy eleven threw West Point's defense aside with apparent ease and crossed the gridiron for touchdowns in a few minutes' play. Aside from these few minutes' play, the game looked quite promising for West Point. Toward the close of the game Yale's attack strengthened and sensational runs were made. The game was practically ended before time limit by hundreds of enthusiastic spectators running out upon the field after Yale's last touchdown had been made on a forty-five yard run by Quarter-Back Jones.

Harvard 10, Brown 0.
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 28.—By straight plunging football with but few variations and a sturdy defense, Harvard scored a touchdown in each half against Brown today, but the first try at the goal was missed while in the second the kick was spoiled by Denny, of Brown, running out and catching the ball. Two runs by Schwartz, Brown quarterback, for 20 yards each were the longest of the game. The final score was Harvard, 10; Brown, 0.

comptroller's office has also been advised that Receiver Cunningham has today brought suit against W. H. Andrews, of New Mexico, for $52,252 on notes signed by or endorsed by him. A most vigorous effort will be made to collect this money as well as other amounts due to the insolvent bank. Judge Oldham reports to the comptroller's office that Cashier T. Lee Clark seems to have abstracted collateral held in the bank, and other securities belonging to it, and his shortage will be a very large one. He seems to have falsified his books and to have deceived the president of the bank as well as directors, who appear to have made at least some effort to examine into the affairs of the bank.

ROMERO TO REBUILD EL PORVENIR HOTEL

WILL RESTORE THE BEAUTIFUL MOUNTAIN RESORT NEAR LAS VEGAS—MEADOW CITY NOTES.

Correspondence Morning Journal.
Las Vegas, N. M., Oct. 28.—Margarito Romero announces that he has completed plans for rebuilding the beautiful Porvenir hotel, sixteen miles from the city, which burned down three years ago. A large two-story, rustic structure will be erected. It will be ready by early spring.

The Red Men of the city are making considerable preparations for entertaining the Great Inchohones of the national order and the Great Record Keeper, who will visit the lodge here. Special drill work is being prepared, and a large class will be initiated. A reception and banquet are other features planned.

The territorial organizer of the Order of Eagles will be here. The charter membership will be large.

Crane a Murderer.

The people of Las Vegas are considerably interested in the conviction of murder in the first degree of J. M. Crane, who live here for several years, and conducted a hotel. He married Mrs. Fiest of this city a short time after she had received a large sum of money from the insurance policy of her departed husband, ran through with the whole of it and deserted her. Crane was charged with having murdered his Kansas wife for her insurance money.

"Polly Primrose."
Miss Carol Arden, in the title role of "Polly Primrose" last night pleased the record house of the season, as few performers have done in the past year or two. The young lady's charming work redeems the play from several weak features, notably the weak support of the men in the cast.

PRESERVING THE LAST OF AMERICA'S GREAT ELK HERD

Thrilling Scenes in Capture of Antlered Band.

CALIFORNIA COWBOYS ROPE
WILD BEASTS LIKE STEERS

Bakersfield, Cal., Oct. 28.—Scenes that will never again be witnessed in the Western Hemisphere are now being enacted on the great mesa along the coast range where the only surviving elk outside of parks in the great bands of the antlered herd that once roamed the western plains by thousands are being temporarily taken into captivity to be again liberated within a day or two in an immense enclosure in the Sequoia National park, near the Yosemite valley, some one hundred miles to the north of the present round-up.

Stirring scenes are those connected with the capture of this antlered band. Men whose lifetime training has been among the cattle herds of the west, each of whom is a part of the animal he rides, whose eye is clear and whose wrist and hand possess the cunning that comes only from a life of long practice. Fifty of these picturesque vaqueros, the pick of the men who attend to countless herds on the great cattle ranches are leading in the work of rounding up the elk and these animals, though swift of limb are not able to escape the noose thrown by the practiced hand of their pursuers.

A year ago an effort was made to take these elk into captivity to transfer them to the Sequoia National park, but it was doomed to failure inasmuch as the attempt was made to drive the animals. On two occasions two bands of elk were headed northward by vaqueros, but when they found they were being driven they scattered out over the vast territory that is practically desert, adjacent to the coast range and efforts to stop their flight, resulted in the death from exhaustion of thirty large elk. Now the new method of lassoing and tying the elk individually is in operation and has proved successful. After two days thirty-two elk will have been placed in captivity in a strong stock corral and their transmission to the park will be easy. The round-up is still in progress.

The history of this band is unique. When the last of their kind had disappeared from mountains, plains, and valleys throughout the west and when it was presumed that so far as California was concerned there were no elk in existence, it was discovered that there were a few survivors roaming loose on the great ranges of the cattle kings, Miller and Lux, in the neighborhood of Button Willow, 25 miles southwest of Bakersfield. Occasionally the vaqueros spied an antlered head among the long horns in some lonely canyon, and at times an elk would be driven in with a band of cattle into one of the great enclosed fields. And here on this great cattle farm the remnants of all that was left of the elk kind in California increased from year to year until now there are between 250 and 500 full grown elk in the hands that roam over the cattle ranges across the mesa lands and in the foothills of the Coast range. They have lost most of their timidity for man and it is not uncommon for them to break into enclosed fields and play havoc with the Egyptian corn and other crops. For some years past the management of the Miller and Lux ranches has been anxious to have the government remove the elk to the National park and the plan now being adopted to move the elk is the suggestion from the interior department at Washington. Possibly within the next two months the last wild elk will be safely within the enclosure of the park and become in fact the ward of the government.

It was daylight on the morning of October 14th, when the first reconnaissance was made in the lands adjacent to Button Willow. The body of elk had moved away from their usual feeding grounds and five big bucks only were discovered in the high tules adjacent to the slough. These were quickly surrounded. When the bucks discovered that they were discovered, they made strenuous efforts for liberty, but fleet of limb as they were they found themselves unable to escape the trained cattlemen who pursued. Manuel Rodriguez, the chief vaquero for the Kern county land grant company, was first to effect a capture. Urging his horse in fast pursuit after the flying buck and with riatas in hand, at a distance of fifty feet, the coil unswervingly shot from a trained hand and the animal, retreating over the head of the antlered buck and the largest was halted, and then other riatas were thrown until his elkship was safely held, just as the wild steer becomes helpless under the skilled manipulation of the vaquero. Antonio Felix accomplished the preliminary work on the next three and La Salle Quinn put the coil over the fifth. The animals fought savagely while being tied and Rodriguez was bucked in the shoulder and suffered a dislocation of that member and was hurried to Bakersfield for medical attention. The subdued elk were taken to the corrals at Lokern, where crates were on hand to receive them and then they were put into a stock corral.

The vaqueros secured a good rest and broke camp at daybreak on Sunday, October 15th, for the second day's chase. Each rider was on his favorite cow pony and each was prepared to do the hardest riding. Jests were bantered back and forth in Spanish and English as the vaqueros dashed off. With gaudy bandanas flashing from broad necks, with wide sombreros bobbing up and down and with spurs glinting the band made a splendid picture when the sun appeared from behind the hills.

Out from the tall grasses along the coast range there came four immense bucks and within a few minutes afterward, an antlered herd of a hundred walked over the divide and made for the low hills at the west and south. The herd took quick note that its liberty was involved for each individual elk was racing for safety toward the higher land. The five vaqueros were given an order to form a line and in this manner the two divergent lines and in this manner they quickly took up the chase. Before nine o'clock twenty-three of the elk had been taken into captivity and the chase was over.

Another died in the corral and still a third died from injuries. When the herd closed in the powerful bulls became infuriated and charged the desperate vaqueros. Here again great skill was displayed by the cowmen.

Jim Wasy lassoed four, Antonio Felix scored again with three, Leo Castro put the coil over three bucks and Harry Clifford, Will Stuchfeld and Ed. Turner were successful twice.

As quickly as the riatas were over the horns other riders caught the elk from the rear. The animals were thrown to the ground and tied. While this contest lasted three ponies died from exhaustion and excitement. At nightfall five stock cars containing thirty-two elk left Lo Kern for Eker. They will be landed on Monday and moved overland a distance of thirty miles to the government reservation. Of this number, eight were calves, ten cows and twelve more bucks. Dr. Marion of the interior department, will have charge of the unloading, and Harry Stewart of the Yuma land office, made arrangements for the transfer of the animals from the station to the park. During Sunday a large barbecue was held for the comfort of those who took part in the chase.

The round-up will be continued until the entire herd has been captured. Spectators are coming to Bakersfield from all over the state to witness the chase. ABRAHAM SIMON.

THREE LINES FOR THIRTY CENTS

WITH TEN CHANCES FOR FIRST-CLASS BOOKKEEPER FOR ALBUQUERQUE BUSINESS HOUSE.

When a business house needs a book-keeper the need is usually imperative and it is usually necessary to find one quickly. That is probably the reason why we are asking for employees of this kind always come to the Morning Journal. They generally bring results at once.

Thursday night an Albuquerque business house sent a want ad to the Morning Journal, to run two issues, asking for a book-keeper and stenographer combined. It is a hard combination to find. The ad consisted of three lines, and cost the advertiser thirty cents for the two issues.

The ad was discontinued yesterday morning. Up to that time there had been ten replies. Ten replies for thirty cents, is at the rate of 3 cents per reply. If the business house got the book-keeper it wanted out of the ten, it was pretty cheap at thirty cents; don't you think so? Of course the business house got the book-keeper, for the ad stopped. This is just one of a number of cases during the past week in which Morning Journal want ads have done things for people. We believe the want ads can find anything to be found in Albuquerque and New Mexico. We believe the want ads will sell most anything to be sold. We've seen it tried so often, and we've seen it fail so seldom, that we believe in the want ad as a winner, every time.

The people believe in the want ad too, they have just as much reason for it as we have. They get the results.

My Dear Sir: Your letter, with notice, has just reached me. I was aware from my policy, that I would be entitled to a "dividend" at this time, but I had no knowledge upon which to base an opinion as to the amount of the dividend. I certainly did not expect that it would be anywhere near the amount you mention ($24.15 cash). This is nearly one-eighth of my annual premium, $204.50. I am more than pleased with this showing. I inclose herewith check for $204.50. The present dividend, and subsequent ones—unless otherwise instructed—will be left to purchase additional insurance. You know we have to protect the wife and babies, even if we have to go without a vacation ourselves.

I hope to have the pleasure of meeting you here soon.
Very sincerely,

Let Everyone Help

Now that the town is practically organized for charity work, everyone should make up his mind to help, even if it be but very little. If we will all do our duty in this matter, a very little from each will be sufficient, and the burden will not be onerous upon anyone. We bespeak for the canvassing committee a generous reception, and trust that every citizen will be prepared when called upon, to put down his name for a liberal monthly contribution.

In view of the fact that an organization of this character here will have a tendency to attract to Albuquerque more than our proper share of indigent invalids, and to encourage other towns to still further "unload" upon us, it would be well for the society to give notice through all the newspapers that it will not undertake to assist any person of the class mentioned who has not been here at least three months. A man who is not able pecuniarily able to bear the cost of taking care of himself for that length of time, has no right to leave home and acquaintances and make himself a burden upon strangers; but experience has shown that there are a good many sick people absolutely penniless, who think if they "can only get to Albuquerque" they will be "all right"—and some of our neighbors seem to be perfectly willing to encourage them in this belief, and to assist them in getting here. Such a notice as we have referred to would discourage this business and enable us to take better care of the poor that we have with us always.

A Terrible Arraignment

Wonderful progress has been made by the press of the United States during the last few years in the direction of independent journalism. Everyone can remember the time not so very long ago, when if a man, no matter how unworthy, were nominated by "the party," no matter by what methods, it was regarded as the imperative duty of every paper in the state or district to be blind to all the blemishes upon his character and support him as earnestly as though he were the most honest and upright man in the country.

Three years ago this paper placed at the head of its columns this announcement:

"The Morning Journal is the leading Republican paper of New Mexico, supporting the principles of the Republican party all the time and the methods of the Republican party when they are right."

This very mild statement of the policy which the Morning Journal intended to pursue was regarded by some party people as bordering upon party infidelity, and indeed a number of these persons who think the whole of republicanism is to vote the ticket straight, declared that the Morning Journal had "left the party." We call attention to this incident in our own experience for the purpose of introducing the following editorial from the Philadelphia Press, in opposition to the present republican "machine" ticket in Pennsylvania. And it must be remembered that the North America and a score of other staunch republican papers in the state are every day giving expression and prominence to similar sentiments—all of which serves to illustrate how the American press has "moved up" toward independence of the politicians in the last few years. Says the Press:

"The dark list of tragedies associated with the state treasury receives a melancholy addition, and the pestilent system which makes the state funds the prey of the state ring is illustrated in the crash of another bank."

"The story of the explosion at Allegheny, with its suicide, its robbery and its wreck, is startling. And yet, in one form or another, sooner or later, it has been expected. In the nature of the case it was inevitable. It is the natural result of the infamous ruse of the state treasury for forty years."

"The manner in which the state funds have been exploited by what may fairly be called the state gang has long been an open secret. From time to time a lurid light has been let in upon it. One tragedy after another has marked the successive crises which have followed the daring, reckless and unscrupulous misuses of state money. More than once it has seemed as if the lid was about to be lifted and the whole record of iniquities laid bare. But the desperation of despair has each time succeeded in holding it down and staving off the ultimate exposure. Has the limit at last been reached?"

"Under this system the state treasury has been the most important of all the state offices to the gang—far more important than even the governorship itself. The treasurer was simply their tool, and they used the funds in his custody at their pleasure. The state money was applied to the personal and political ends of the gang."

"The deposits were made upon condition of loans. They were employed to bribe banks and bankers. They were put where they would do the most good to the members of the ring. In some cases the money was boldly taken from the treasury and loaned into the whirlpool of speculation. Suicides there have been from the awful stress of loss and still more illustrious suicides only barely averted."

"The present instance is a peculiarly flagrant exhibition. The president of the wrecked bank is said to have exclaimed when he realized the ruin: 'This will break the republican machine.' The bank has been robbed by a lot of politicians. Unhappily too true, that is, unhappily as to the latter of the two statements. A large amount of state money was deposited and then loaned out to gang favorites on worthless securities. As in this particular bank and its transactions the lid is off and the rottenness is uncovered. Is the day of reckoning to end here?"

"This startling revelation is only an index of other iniquities which lie yet behind the veil. It will impress the people with the necessity of taking the lid off altogether, and going to the bottom of the seething pot. It will undoubtedly intensify the feeling, already so strong all over the state, that it is a matter of public duty and safety to elect a state treasurer who is not under the control of the ring, and who can be trusted to turn the treasury inside out and stop the long continued and monstrous misuse of public money."

"The effect of this explosion, coming at this stage of the campaign, will be the deepened suspicions it arouses, will be disastrous to the machine. It lifts the question which the people will weigh far above all party and political considerations to the demands of the highest public interest and obligations."

THE comparison made by the department of commerce between the duties now imposed by Germany on goods imported from the United States and the duties that will be in effect against them next March unless Germany's new maximum tariff is modified in our favor is not reassuring. The prospective rates are in many cases prohibitory. The rate on wheat is advanced 112 per cent, on wheat flour 157 per cent, on corn 212 per cent, on dried fruit 150 per cent, on bacon 30 per cent, on pork 176 per cent, and on beef 200 per cent. On manufactured articles the increases are also large—shoes 70 to 177 per cent, machinery 40 to 1150 per cent, sewing machines 46 per cent, and so on.

It seemed like the "good old times" to see Jesse Wheelock on the street yesterday. He is prospering in his new home, but still has a warm spot under his vest for Albuquerque—and Albuquerque will cheerfully "set along" and make room for him whenever he wants to come back.

RECIPES FOR VARIOUS JAGS

"Is there any difference in jags?" repeated the old barkeeper; well, I should kiss a goat. There's no two alike. Of course, there's always the headache attachment, the early-morning thirst and the inclination to dodge when nobody's trying to soak you—but, to come down to a closer analysis, jags are the most different things on earth.

"Everybody knows there's a heap of difference in whiskey. Why, shouldn't there be a variety of jags? In the first place there are different kinds of men. They drink for different reasons, and want different kinds of booze. In the dawn of inebriety beer will do all right, but there is a stage where beer merges into red liquor, just as certain as there is a time of the day when you can step on the head of your shadow."

"Some folks call that the zenith, or something, but the fellows that stand before the big mirror call it the limit. There's when an apple brandy would buckle on your skates and a creme de menthe would make you bark at the trolley cars."

"Different causes lead to drink and different drinks lead to the police station. A man will get drunk when he inherits a fortune just the same as when he loses one. It takes an expert to say which reason is the right one, and even then the dope often goes wrong."

"Wronged love figures to win in nearly every jag handicap where the starters are in the maiden class. Four-year-old drink because the barkeepers need the money."

"A jag inspired by misplaced affection is a sad sight, and a barkeeper that doesn't soften up and tell the young fellow that Mayme is a good-for-nothing flirt and that the man who marries her will rue it to his dying day, ain't got any right to belong to the union. Neither has the interest as he knocks the fiddle Mayme, just so long will the lad one continue to buy."

"Now, as to the selling plaster, the procedure is different. I don't know anything but whiskey and fire. Lunch, Romance with him is as dead as Nan Patterson's starting tour. He gets his drink after the bell has rung on the cash register. He also gets it out if he back drives home. If he says something about bottled-in-bond goods we turn the key stare on him, and if that don't work, it's the hose. He's entitled to one pretzel, but a hard look goes with it."

"Everybody knows there's different kinds of jags. There's the feel-like-you-own-the-earth jag, the 'ain't-got-no-poor-kin' jag, the 'best-little-man-of-your-size-in-town' jag, the crying jag, the merry jag, the 'wifey's-gone-away-from-home' jag, and the 'want-to-treat-the-house' jag."

"For that John D. Rockefeller feeling I recommend champagne on a nightfall foundation. It's safe, and sure, and will stick to you like a porcupine plaster to a lame back. You remember that Billy Baxter said something about the Standard Oil company being the smallest thing he owned when in a certain condition. Well, with the proper mixture of extra dry and bourbon highballs the Bank of England becomes just the proper thing to drop into the blind fiddler's cup. The only sad thing about it is that the richer you feel in the evening the poorer you are the next morning. That's a hunch right from the power house. I've known the time when I might as well have been a strike in the mine so far as I was concerned, and those days followed nights when a twenty-dollar bill looked meaner than a corn pad."

"For an old-time funeral jag drink beer. There's not an idea in the whole brewery. To make it consistent our stomach ought to be a little off-color and you feel cold. The longer you drink the sadder you'll get. I think he will water is due at the nineteenth class, but you've got to allow for several things in calculating on this. You'll be mad all right, don't forget that. You'll be sad the next day, and perhaps the day after. Don't make the mistake of sandwiching in a Scotch highball at any stage of the game. You might smile if you did, and if you smile once the artistic solemnity of the game is gone. The expert that undertakers drink containing fluid is all both. They drink beer."

"If you want to get a talking jag drink four gin rickys, then switch to an absolute frappe. You'll find words that you didn't know were in your mind at all. You'll talk about anything, from what to eat after bringing fever to the best way of bringing up a politician. You'll see second frappe will make the doctors look like mushrooms. There's nothing to it. I've seen fellows take buzzards for canary birds, and I guess that's going some."

"To successfully build one of those best-little-man-of-my-size-in-town jags you must first go to the corner grocery. Don't stop in the grocery, or if you do, merely look at the picture of the cow on the soda packages. As soon as you can edge through get into the bar and stay there till the boss tells you to get out. Don't ask any foolish questions about the booze. Drink what he sets before you, and ask for another. If the bottle has a label with a landscape on it, so much the quicker. Ask for that bottle every time."

"What do barkeepers drink? Well, now, that's hardly fair. If the very man is treating, and the boss is on the bar, it's something expensive, as they value their jobs. I know some barkeepers though that occasionally take a cherry phosphate or when alone. They never let the union hear of it, I thought and nearly all of them have a friend or two who can keep it out of the papers."—Louisville Post.

UNIVERSITY IS MOVING FORWARD IN RAPID STRIDES

Beautiful Little Pueblo Building Just Completed.

SOME INTERESTING PLANS FOR INSTITUTION'S FUTURE

The beginning of the working out of a broad plan for the development and expansion of the University of New Mexico is to be seen in certain improvements which have been made within the last few months in the grounds and buildings on the edge of the great mesa east of Albuquerque. It is a plan, the working out of which will be watched with absorbing interest by every loyal man and woman who claims this city as home and its development is bound to enliven the good will, the approval and hearty co-operation of every man and woman who has the interests of the city at heart. For the plan contemplates first an institution which is architectural beauty will be without equal in the west. It is in America and behind that the greater plan of an institution than which there will be none better in point of educational advantages, a broad, well founded institution of learning which will do for the young men and women of New Mexico what the great state universities of the older eastern states have done for their youth. Except that in this institution of ours it will be possible through a study of the older institutions, to avoid many of the mistakes they have made, to reach definite results without so much of experiment and the disadvantages bound to follow.

Here in Albuquerque we are apt to take the University of New Mexico as a matter of course. It is there, on the edge of the mesa, with its magnificent view of the mountains and valley, it is supported in a way by the territorial government. We have a dip idea that it has lands it can sell and rent, that it will be there from day to day and from year to year. Some of us send our children there and thereafter the interest ends.

It will surprise most people in Albuquerque to know that the enrollment of the institution has doubled twice over in the past four years. It probably isn't generally known here that whereas two years ago the entire enrollment was of preparatory scholars there are now thirty young men and women doing strictly college work in courses of study which are not more rigid nor better planned in any college of the United States. Some day we will wake up to find that thirty college students increased to thirty hundred, that the growth of this college is inevitable. Its location is ideal. It is bound to grow as the country grows, and perhaps a little faster as it becomes better known. Unless it should fall short of some breaker of adverse legislation, which now seems unlikely. So long as New Mexico maintains a School of Mines in one corner of the territory, and an agricultural college in another, the institution cannot but grow, and in the broad sense of the term. But it can become a great college. With a continuation of present conditions it cannot help it, the growth is bound to come, and it is in view of this inevitable growth that a broad-minded board of regents and a far-seeing management is preparing to meet the growth with a proper development of the physical condition of the institution.

Some Recent Improvements.

Within the past half year a gymnasium, a splendid water system, and a perfect heating system have been installed. The gymnasium building is not an expensive structure, but its equipment is complete. It has in connection a swimming pool, in the open air, which is large enough to go boating on, and which serves the double purpose of a swimming pool and a reservoir for water for irrigation. There is a lot of irrigation going on in the University grounds just now, and right here it might be worth while to tell of the improvements. In the heart of the grounds, the planting of hundreds of trees. President Tipton is a believer in trees. He says every tree he can get to grow adds just its height to the growth of the University, and there is something in it. He has laid out broad avenues which someday will end in splendid buildings, he has transplanted great trees before the buildings already completed, and he has made them grow. The system of badgering laid out and growing, will one day make the campus look like a solid carpet of green and an evergreen amphitheater, built of cedar trees will in a year be a thing of beauty without equal in the colleges of the nation.

But to return to the solid improvements already complete. The heating plant now in commission has been constructed with a view to its growth. It is adequate to heat an institution four or five times the size of the present buildings, and the system is thoroughly modern, and is more important, thoroughly successful. Moreover, it is an Albuquerque plant from start to finish, from the beautiful little building in which the main plant is housed to the last bolt in the steam fittings. The steam fitting was done by the Whitney company; Contractor Wallace Hesselnden built the building; and of this building and its lines, there will be more, for it is the beginning of the expansion idea. The heating plant is located in the northwest corner of the campus, the pipes being laid in a wide circle, half of the grounds being heated by the return so that there is no waste of water or power. Two powerful boilers are installed, so that there is no possibility of the plant being put out of commission, one being ready for use, while the other is being repaired. In addition to heating the buildings, this same plant furnishes steam to operate apparatus in the several departments where power is needed.

The Pueblo Architectural Idea.

The building which protects the heating plant is absolutely perfect. For a long time the president has favored an idea in architecture for the University buildings modeled after the home of the Pueblo Indian. Following the Indian's scheme of construction, with the addition of modern methods and the Pueblo dwelling offers advantages and architectural beauty not to be overlooked. This building for heating plant is the first actual test of the idea. E. B. Christy, the architect, has followed the Pueblo lines to the letter, while the contractor, Mr. Hesselnden has carried the idea to completion in the minutest detail, from the buttresses which guard the doors, to the curious portico above which is Pueblo in the real. Save for the smokestack which towers above the building, it would be impossible to imagine it as an engine house. Outside it is picturesque, attractive, and to attract attention before anything else in the University grounds. Inside it is a modern heating plant, conveniently arranged, solidly constructed, from the modern overhead coal-burner holding a carload of coal right at the door of the fire boxes, to the cozy rooms for the University janitor who operates the plant. Instead of being built of adobe, as the Indian build, the building is brick and stone with a veneer of concrete as hard and enduring as the rock of ages and infinitely more attractive than any brick veneer ever laid. It is hard to describe the attractiveness of the building. It seems to fit in with the landscape. Its gray walls catch the New Mexico sunlight and seem to blend with the shadows of the mountains. It draws the eye at once, but it does not jar, and it is this last which makes one believe in Dr. Tipton's idea that there can be no more attractive architecture for future University buildings than that modeled after this little building, on a larger scale. That a campus dotted with such buildings would be beautiful is beyond question; that it would attract attention far and wide is certain. For the dormitories now imperatively needed and soon to be built it would be ideal.

It offers comparative cheapness of construction, with beauty and durability beyond any other material. The engine house and heating plant were housed in this little building, an experiment. The experiment has proven satisfactory. The construction is without fault and it has shown that the Pueblo style with the concrete and stone can be used successfully on larger buildings.

That the institution must have dormitories is plain. There are no more rooms in the present buildings for the young men or young women. Students are being turned away, and almost any reasonable number of rooms can be occupied as soon as completed.

And as the University is growing, the development inside the buildings is just as rapid. There is a library with two years ago could have been housed in a closet. Now it has outgrown three big rooms in the main building and threatens to spread out all over the place. A library building will be needed in another year or so, indeed, is needed now and when it is built, it should and undoubtedly will be a credit to the scheme of graceful avenues which has been President Tipton's dream for several years. When the library building comes, as it soon must, it is proposed to make it a part of the main building, with a big assembly hall—a real college building. It is no longer a dream, for it will presently be an imperative necessity. The many people who are great future alumni for Albuquerque can readily see the part this institution will play in it and they are bound to rejoice when the University keeps up with, and a little ahead of the progress.

The gymnasium, now complete, is likely to be adequate for years to come. It is an outdoor gymnasium, with all the apparatus in the open air, even to the punching bag and the horizontal bars. Nothing but the dressing rooms are indoors. It is the modern idea which has proven successful even in the muddy atmosphere of New England. It is bound to be successful in sunny New Mexico.

The Climatological Station.

For years an effort has been made to get a regular climatological station of the government established in the University. The effort has proven futile, owing to the narrowness of the ground station in Santa Fe. At last it has been necessary for the University to get its own equipment. The importance of a climatological data in Albuquerque cannot be overestimated. The business men of Albuquerque can measure it in dollars and cents. The University has placed in Hadley hall a station which is as complete as any maintained by the government. Through a scheme, which must be seen to be appreciated, and which only the scientific man can entirely appreciate, the university will in the next two or three weeks begin an absolutely complete record of all climatic conditions in this vicinity. The direction and velocity of the wind, every day in the year, every minute in the day, will be recorded with absolute accuracy as will be the hours and minutes of cloud and sunlight, rainfall and relative humidity, every minute of variation of temperature, not at noon and midnight but at every hour of the day and every minute in the hour.

The apparatus is placed on the roof, recording its messages through electric wires on a great roll of paper drawn beneath the recording pens at the rate of half an inch a hour. At the same time, a clock is placed, and the only attention needed will be the winding of a clock once each week and the tearing off of the unwound paper containing the past week's record, the clock in turn being regulated by electricity upon United States Observatory time. Instead of the old incomplete and faulty records of climatic conditions we will soon have an absolutely perfect and complete record to give to the outside world.

And so on through its scientific department the institution is keeping pace with the times, adding apparatus and equipment as it is needed and as the limited means will allow. Every department, however, is made with judgment and an eye to the future when means will not be so limited and the work will be on a broader scale.

The University is now moving forward and moving fast. It will not be long until the institution on the hill will be one of the most beautiful spots in the Rio Grande valley, and one of the great educational institutions of the west.

UNIVERSITY DEFEATS MENAU SCHOOL 15-0

AMERICAN LUMBER COMPANY
TEAM WILL MEET CITY AGGREGATION THIS AFTERNOON.

The variety team on the local grounds yesterday defeated the football eleven from the Menau school by a score of 15 to 0 after an exciting game. The score at the end of the first half stood 10 to 0.

The variety boys put up a snappy game and show that they have been practicing assiduously. Mayo, Clancy, Allen and Bryan played a star game, but the whole eleven did good team work from start to finish. Mayo made a 60-yard dash, Clancy a speedy gain of forty yards and Bryan did some spectacular tackling.

The team from the Menau school put up a plucky game, but lost ground steadily through both halves. Julius Franz refereed the game.

The line-up of the University team has been published. The Menau line-up yesterday was as follows:

C. Roney; Guards, Garcia and Martinez; (Capt.) tackles, Chavez and Montoya; ends, Aguirre and Maes; halves, Lucero and C. Cordova; quarterback, D. Cordova; fullback, Gonzalez.

Lively Contest This Afternoon.

This afternoon at Traction park the newly organized Albuquerque Athletic association eleven and the team from the American Lumber mills will meet on the gridiron and some strenuous stunts are anticipated. Both teams are new and untried, but both contain some first class football players and both are confident of wiping up the earth with their opponents. The line-up of the American Lumber company team is as follows:

L. E. Gliden; L. T. Dixon; L. G. Patton; C. Horka; R. G. Palidino; R. T. Garza; R. E. Johnson; Q. B. Moffett; (Capt.) R. H. McMillan; L. H. B. Burke; F. B. Bailey.

The line-up for the Albuquerque team will come from the following list of players who have been practicing for the eleven:

Brown, Anderson, Seattle, Stamm, Mitchner, Benjamin, Smith, Orth, I. Hale P. Hale, Holman, Fluke, Stubb, Hughes, Albers, McGuire and Strumquist.

MORE FRENZY IN COUNTY SCHOOL FINANCE SHOWS UP

Improvements Galore for Favored Districts.

SALARY WARRANTS FOR SERVICE UNSPECIFIED TURNING UP

As the investigation into the books of the county school department, found in the treasury's office, progresses, it becomes more and more evident that frenzied finance in its most approved methods had found its way into Bernalillo county long before it became the ruling power in Wall street. Following the comparative statement of the school census by districts, published in the Morning Journal yesterday, in which it was shown how the enrollment or census of the several districts was juggled to make accounts balance another startling evidence of fine frenzy has come to light in the methods of making improvements in the district schools. In several districts more money has been expended on improvements of the school houses than would have been needed to pay a teacher for half of the usual school term. In Bernalillo in the last half year of Superintendent Vigli's term, more than $250 was expended for repairs. In District 43, just across the river, almost as large an amount was expended for repairs and the directors of the district have now before Superintendent Stroup with a petition for repairs to the building so that school may be opened. Whether the improvements paid for by Vigli have been made, is not known. It is certain, according to the school directors, that the improvements asked for are needed. There seems to have been no system, in allowing for repairs, so that they should not exceed the apportionment of money available for that district. The improvements were made, and if the district had no money, the money was taken from the apportionment of some other district and the census of that district reduced to make the funds fit the situation. How far this improvement to building business was carried is not known since the vouchers of the school superintendent disappeared when he left the office and have not yet turned up. In many districts where the census is less than 100, allowing the enumerator but $1.50 for the work, item appear on the same voucher allowing from $10 to $15 for implements. What these implements were, whether they were the pad and pencil used by the enumerator, the horse he rode or his own good legs, no one knows, the vouchers do not tell.

From time immemorial up to the past year it had been the custom to pay for the school expenses without consulting the county commission as required by law. It was the custom of the school superintendent to pay any bill he saw fit with a voucher on the general school fund, which the treasurer honored if he in turn, saw at the county commission was never consulted. However, following the disclosures of these methods through the efforts of the district attorney and his vigorous demands for business methods in county affairs, the county commission forbade the payment of any warrants drawn by the school superintendent without they had been first approved by the commission.

It appears that the order of the commission has been violated and that warrants to the general school fund have been paid which the commission never saw. Warrants have turned up in two cases, calling for considerable sums, which are designated simply as for "services." What these services were, how the warrants came to be paid without the order of the commission, are among the many questions yet to be solved. The money seems to have been for clerical work since one is to J. J. Sheridan and another to Nestor Montoya. It is well known that the late superintendent was unable to keep his own books and that Mr. Sheridan, the deputy in the treasurer's office kept the school accounts for him, or at least that portion of the accounts which was for record and the public. But the law allows the county superintendent no money to pay clerk hire, and if he has a clerk he is expected by the law to pay it out of his own pocket not out of the county treasury. Indeed a legal opinion from a well known Albuquerque lawyer, dated within the past three months and just prior to the date of the two warrants mentioned, was found in the school superintendent's safe, informing him that he had no right to draw on the county treasury for any money for clerk hire, and that he had no right to draw on the county school fund direct for any purpose save that of the county institute and for teaching. The law allows the county superintendent considerable latitude in the holding of examinations for third grade certificates, and $5 per day for himself and one other examiner while the examinations are in progress. It seems to have been the custom to hold these examinations, at $16 per day expense to the county schools, just whenever the spirit moved the superintendent. They occurred at no regular date, and were of varied duration sometimes extending into ten, fifteen and twenty days.

In spite of this interesting method of examining teachers at any and all times, it seems that there are now less than a dozen regularly certified teachers in the entire county, outside of the city of Albuquerque.

A Judicious Inquiry.
A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a tough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or an adult, and if for a child, they almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know that there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. ## REST OF THE FAIR OFFICERS RESIGN

SECRETARY ROSENWALD AND VICE PRESIDENT SPITZ DECLINE TO SERVE.

The following letters, addressed to W. T. McCright, chairman of the executive committee of the Fair association, concerning the time involved to successfully and conscientiously fill the position of secretary of the territorial fair as held here annually, I find the remarks made by me after my election on the evening of the 23d fully substantiated. These remarks were to the effect that owing to my business connections I thought it would be impossible for me to accept the honor rendered me, inasmuch as I felt that it would be a difficult matter for me to do both justice to the business with which I am connected and also to the business of the Territorial Fair association, and I therefore, deem it but justice to those who have placed this confidence in me to tender my resignation owing to the facts above mentioned.

Very truly yours,
D. S. ROSENWALD.

Mr. Spitz Resigns.
Albuquerque, Oct. 28, 1905.
W. T. McCright, Esq., Chairman Executive Committee Fair Association, City.

Dear Sir:—As the fair association needs essentially the unremitting efforts of those who are able to do the work justice, I am compelled to here tender my resignation as vice president of the association. Absolutely sure that my business duties would prevent me from fulfilling the obligations that the office would incur, I ask you to have this resignation take effect at once.

Yours truly,
BERTOLD SPITZ.

POLLY PRIMROSE MAKES A HIT

CLEVER SOUTHERN PLAY AND SPIRITFUL ACTRESS WIN AUDIENCE IN ELKS' THEATRE.

"Polly Primrose," as impersonated by Miss Carol Arden made a hit with a fair sized audience in Elks' theater last night. "Polly" proved everything her press agents have promised for her, and even a little more. She has the southern accent, she is evidently well versed in the art of singing and in the one or two dramatic passages of the somewhat dramatic piece, she is quite good. The play is on the ever-absorbing theme of the war time of '23, and the scenes are laid in Georgetown, just at the time when Lee was ready to move on Washington.

It tells a pretty story quickly, there is some bright talk and lots of action and it is well fitted for the company Mr. Pottle is piloting about the southwest.

Miss Arden is not pretty, but she is clever and bright, and she is almost always on the stage, keeping things moving, especially the male things. Aside from John Arthur, who appears in the difficult role of Polly's kid brother, none of the rest of the company rise much above the average. But Arthur is just enough of a kid to do his turn naturally and his little spats with his sister won the audience completely. A few more plays of the kind will add to the popularity of Elks' theater.

SUES DEPARTED LIVERY MAN TO RECOVER BILL

J. E. PALMER FILES ACTION AGAINST L. L. AYRES WHO SUD- DENLY LEFT CITY LAST WEEK.

J. E. Palmer, the grocer and feed merchant, filed a suit in the district court yesterday against L. L. Ayres, recently proprietor of the London Club livery stables on North Second street, to recover a bill of about $125 which he sent Ayres on feed furnished to the stables.

Ayres suddenly disappeared last week without saying anything to anyone about his intention of leaving town or leaving anything to indicate whether he went. There are rumors of a number of unpaid bills, but others allege that Ayres has left more than enough to pay all accounts. His friends say that he simply took a sudden notion to take a trip and will return shortly.

The London Club stables were sold during the week by F. H. Strong to C. O. Grimsby, who now has charge of the livery establishment.

The Wilson Heater with the celebrated Hot Blast Down-Draft is the only heater which actually burns all of the fuel put into it. The Hot Blast Down-Draft creates perfect combustion and the fumes which rise from the fuel, ordinarily escaping unburned in other stoves, are all consumed and turned into heat in the Wilson. It has been ascertained that the fumes which arise from the fuel constitute 40 per cent of the entire heating power of the fuel. Buy a Wilson and get all the heat you are paying for.
