NO. 266

"In the Land of Poco Tiempo"

Is the title of a new book written by Chas. F. Lummis, in which he refers to New Mexico. He does not mention anything in his book about Goebel's Crack Heater the Estate Oak because he failed to interview Hon. T. B. Catron, who thinks the Estate Oak Heater is the best stove on earth. He claims it will take a keg of powder 53 hours and 15 minutes to go off in such a wonderful combination of stove architecture. He is using three of them.

The Lease Affair.
Topeka, Kas., Jan. 2.—It is current about the state house to-day that the governor will reinstate Mrs. Lease. The law, it is alleged, does not authorize the governor to remove until an official investigation is made.

An Elopement.
Racine, Wis., Jan. 2.—Miss Mary Davis, daughter of the late Capt. Davis, U. S. army, has treated Racine social circles to a sensation by eloping with J. R. McCann, a Chicago business man. The bride is an heiress and said her marriage was opposed by her relatives, she being but 17 years old.

An Early Morning Fire.
Buffalo, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Anne Hackett's four story boarding house, at No. 12 Swan street, was burned this morning at 3 o'clock. Isaac Bradley was burned to death, and twenty badly injured while attempting to escape from the building. Loss but $2,000.

The Coughlin Case.
Chicago, Jan. 2.—Judge Tuthill to-day in the Coughlin trial overruled the objections of the defense to the introduction of testimony relative to the conversation and actions of the alleged conspirators other than Coughlin.

For Big Money.
Philadelphia, Jan. 2.—The assignment of the Montgomery Iron company, of Port Kennedy, to the Guarantee Trust company, of Harrisburg, is announced. Liabilities are placed at $330,000 and it is expected that the company will pay 10 cents on the dollar.

Walter's Evil Ways.
Denver, Jan. 2.—One of the evil effects of Gov. Walter's calling an extra session of the legislature was made apparent today. The Banking House of White & Co., of New York, had contracted to take $400,000 worth of the public improvement bonds of this city. Learning of the governor's actions they to-day withdrew all negotiations.

Arrest of Noted Anarchists.
Madrid, Jan. 2.—Salvador French, the most dangerous of all anarchists, who was concerned in the famous theatre outrage, and who has managed to delude the police for months, has been arrested at Saragossa.

Two other anarchists, Wagner and Lalland, known as being prominent among the class of agitators, were also arrested today.

Another Plot to Murder a Mayor.
Oakland, Cal., Jan. 2.—The authorities are greatly excited over a plot discovered to kill Mayor Pardee, of this city. The police are guarding the mayor. Mayor Pardee recently vetoed an ordinance passed by the city council to restore to the people of Oakland the privilege of riding free on Southern Pacific trains in the city limits. The veto has been subjected to much severe criticism among the poorer class of people, and the police declare that certain malcontents have been heard making threats.

A Chicago Collapse.
Chicago, Jan. 2.—Judge Grosoup, of the U. S. circuit, has placed the American Building, Loan & Investment company in the hands of a receiver. Insolvency is confessed with liabilities amounting to $900,000 and assets $700,000. The sheriff to-day took possession of the Chicago Toy and Fancy Goods company's store at 235 Monroe street. Judgments amounting to $75,000 have been confessed by him in the circuit court. The assets and liabilities are not scheduled.

A FINANCIAL SENSATION.

The Investor's Review Warns the Bank of England of Its Danger.

London, Jan. 2.—Investor's Review, in an article written by Mr. Wilson, editor of that paper, who is one of its best known authorities on finance, says: "If the affairs of the Bank of England are allowed to drift as heretofore since the act of 1844, it will end in a crisis compared with which the Baring collapse will dwindle into insignificance. We are driven to the conclusion by the result of many close observations of the bank, which has for years been published discount rate, and been plunged into regions it does not understand. This draws the second and third class business, whereby it sometimes realizes nasty losses. An excellent example of this is the way the bank was involved in Murie's difficulties. Little concerning the true condition of the bank is known and there is no hope of permanent improvement in the bank's position by making a scape goat of Cashier May. The directors are responsible for the misdeeds of Cashier May and the whole unhappy business, of which merely a glimmering has come to light."

WASHINGTON BUDGET.

Democrats Will Pass It—A Guess at Finance—New England Trade Statement.

REPUBLICANS CAN'T STOP IT.
Washington, Jan. 2.—Senator Hale in conversation to-day said he thought the senate would take up the federal election law soon after reconvening. "And," he continued, "I think it will be passed with little delay, as there is no doubt that the president will sign it."
"Will not the Republicans," was asked, "make some effort to delay or prevent its passage?"
"They know it will be impossible to prevent it and they will not undertake delay as that would accomplish nothing. The Republicans of course will protest. There will be some speeches on the subject, enough to make the position of the party known and have the country understand the situation and who is responsible, but we will attempt nothing more. This is a case of the legitimate results of Democratic victories in 1892, and will be accepted as such by the country."

FINANCIAL.
Yesterday being a legal holiday the treasury department was closed. The public statement which is usually issued on the first of the month will appear today. Saturday's balance has not yet been figured up, but estimates show that the net balance on January will be about $90,000,000, as against $122,000,000 July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, and $129,000,000 on the 1st of January, 1893. Exclusive of Saturday's business the expenditures over receipts for the first six months of this fiscal year amounts to $34,088,018.

A REPUBLICAN'S FRANK VIEW.
Representative Draper, Republican of Massachusetts, has during the holiday recess been looking into the business situation in that state. He says that the manufacturers seem somewhat gloomy over the new tariff bill, fearing their industries will be injured. The money question is regarded as settled for the present and the financial situation is not bad. As to the wants of the people out of employment, there has not been any actual suffering.

Plunger Walton Assigns.
New York, Jan. 2.—Francis, the lesser Walton, known as Plunger Walton, lessee of the Grand hotel, at No. 1234 Broadway, to-day made an assignment to Chas. L. Walton, with preferences amounting to $300,000.

EXPECTED REVENUES.

Reasons Given Why an Increase May Be Looked For.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Members of the majority of the ways and means committee assert that the imports of former years, while being the only basis upon which estimates can be made, will not, by any means, be a fair criterion of the actual revenues, under the Wilson bill. The decrease of import revenues, based on the importations of 1893, is shown to be about $75,000,000, while the estimates show that it will not, in reality, be more than $34,000,000.

The value of importations in 1893, it is believed that the decrease will be very large, for the new tariff goes into effect and the present stocks, and the value of the reduced duty. The given by the majority of the committee for the belief under the new bill will than the figures show. The import duty in 1893 was $1,000,000,000, but for 1894 it is far below that, in fact, it shows a large fall, it is claimed, to the advantage of the new bill.

Came Near Being.
Topeka, Jan. 2.—Se Osborne narrowly escaped Judge Hazen, of the district court, in the case of the city against Osborne, sentenced to pay $500 and costs. Osborne he would have to pay unless the case was paid and his friends then had induced Judge Hazen to withdraw the case. The attorneys appear to have been negligent in the papers ready for the appeal. Osborne intends to take court.

Gulf Receiver.
Denver, Jan. 2.—Receiver Trumbull to-day over the Gulf road estate of Colorado a system in New Mexico Wyoming be transferred up for argument this morning. The argument concerning the decision will probably be held down for several days. Trumbull left here today for the line south of Texas.

Considering Labor Troubles.
Chicago, Jan. 2.—The executive committee of the Brotherhood of Railway Employees met in session here to-day for the purpose of considering the Northern Pacific labor troubles. The outcome of the deliberations is unknown.

Leavenworth Rejoices.
Leavenworth, Kas., Jan. 2.—The new steel bridge with a draw span was opened to public traffic this afternoon with fitting ceremonies. The bridge rests on five piers, is 1,100 feet in length and cost $10,000. This bridge gives Leavenworth direct connection with Chicago by means of the Burlington and Rock Island roads.

Work of the Flames.
Boston, Jan. 2.—For the second time in the history of the elegant globe theatre, now owned by John Stetson and up to last night occupied temporarily by Hanton's Super Company, has it fallen a victim to fire. At one time it seemed as if a repetition of Boston's typical big fire was imminent, but by a good management on the part of the fire department the loss was restricted to the theatre building. The brick structure adjoining, called the Globe cafe, the new building owned by the Harvard college trustees on northwest corner of Washington street, and Hayward's place; the building owned by Bryant & Stratton college, on the south side, and the Reellen Clothing store. In the destruction of the theatre, the Hanton's lost all the scenery of their great play.

The fire was extinguished about 4 o'clock this morning. The total loss is $350,000.
Portland, Ind.—Ten business houses at Red Key were burned at 2 o'clock this morning. The loss is $50,000 with insurance amounting to over $30,000.

GUNS READY.

Deplorable Condition of Things on the Stock Range of Western Texas.

San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 2.—The richest stockmen of western Texas are badly discouraged. A dispatch from Ft. Stockton says conservative men estimate that 50 per cent of the sheep in that section will be lost by the present winter, for there is nothing for them to eat except scanty, dry grass. There is some water but the cow men are fencing and guarding it. The range grass has been killed by frost. Sheep men are moving their herds toward New Mexico and the cow men swear they will die before the sheep shall go on their ranges. Both sides are armed and ready to shoot.

A BAD WRECK.

Kansas Trains Collide and Take Fire With Many Fatalities Resulting.

Lawrence, Kas., Jan. 2.—A Rock Island freight train crashed into the rear of a Union Pacific freight ten miles east of Lawrence at 6 o'clock this morning. The Union Pacific caboose, a passenger coach, a car load of lumber and a car load of hogs were burned and five men on the same train were hurt.

The conductor and one passenger on the Union Pacific are missing. The Rock Island train's engine was smashed and afterwards caught fire.

Later advices from the scene say that four persons were killed and six injured, two probably fatal. The dead are: Henry Smith, stockman; Martin, stockman of Wakefield, Kas.; Jas. Atwood and Conductor Johnson, of Tescott, Kas., spine and back badly hurt, can not live; B. F. Posten, of Hill Centre, Kas., head badly injured, will die; J. M. McCrady, of Tescott, Kas., internally injured and legs badly mangled; G. M. Spencer, of Clyde, head and body injured.

STUFF THAT GLITTERS.

Annual Gold Output of Hillsboro—A Gratifying Exhibit.

The last number of the Sierra County Advocate contains a carefully compiled statement of the mineral output of Sierra county for the past three years. It shows a healthy growth. The total output of 1891, was $253,000; that of 1893, $354,424, and that of 1893, $408,388. The output of 1893 in detail was as follows: Gold, 16,400 ounces; silver 106,000 ounces; copper, 252,19 tons; or a total of 26,964 tons, which yielded an average of $17 per ton.

In average value per ton there has been a constant decrease; that of 1893 being $24, and of 1891 about $50. This decline in value is not a matter to be deplored, as it is really an evidence of the more thorough mining and the larger operations which have combined to make the tonnage of 1893 nearly double that of the previous year. The Advocate says: "We are, in fact, getting down to business and to the gold standard of values. Comparatively little of the high grade ore on which the camp formerly depended has been produced this year. Our reliance has been, and is now, upon the unlimited and accessible bodies of low grade ore which characterize and make the true and permanent mining camp. Our improved milling and smelting plants together with the most scientific and economical methods of mining make of the gold mines of Hillsboro an inviting and business-like investment for capital and energy."

Was he Murdered?
On Christmas day the horribly mutilated and lifeless body of Frank Eberhart, a soldier, was found about a mile and a half from Fort Stanton. Eberhart disappeared from the fort last Friday night after the ball given there, and the general supposition is that he was murdered, as it is claimed that he had something over $200 in his possession at that time which can not now be found. When discovered the body presented a horrible sight, the skull being crushed in and the brain scattered about, and portions of the body had been eaten by coyotes. The deceased was a native of New York state, 28 years of age, a saddler by trade, and belonged to G company, 10th infantry.—White Oaks Eagle.

Stock Shipments.
The Colorado rate on live stock to Kansas City, $65 per car, has been extended to Springer by the Santa Fe road, to compete with Clayton. Sheep driven from south of Las Vegas can get to Clayton much easier than Springer, owing to the topography of the country, and the Santa Fe in order to catch this trade should extend the Colorado rate to Las Vegas. The past season there was shipped from Clayton, over the Denver & Fort Worth, 275,000 sheep, which would have been shipped from Las Vegas, if the same rate as Clayton has could be secured here. This one item resulted in a loss of $90,000 revenue to this road, not counting the loss in freight on goods purchased in Clayton. The present rate from Las Vegas to Kansas City or Omaha is $72.50. This should be changed and a rate made that would give Las Vegas equal advantages with Clayton, to Omaha and Kansas City.—Las Vegas Stock Grower.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every Post Office in the Territory and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the southwest.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

With this issue the New Mexican, which has been for a lifetime the leading organ of the Republican party of New Mexico, changes hand and passes into the control of the Democracy.

The paper will in future advocate the principles of the Democratic party as laid down in its national and local platforms, believing that by so doing it will best subserve the interests of the territory and its people.

While its teachings will be Democratic in the fullest sense, this journal will endeavor to avoid all petty political squabbles, party strife and personal bickerings, recognizing that there are good and bad men in all parties; that the tenets of no party are perfect, and that reforms are necessary as well within as without Democratic party lines.

The policy of the new management will ever have as its guiding motive the welfare and prosperity of New Mexico, every part of it, everywhere, at all times, and under all circumstances. It will labor with all its might for statehood, for the development of the boundless natural resources of the territory, the conservation of the waters, the reclamation of the arid lands, the improvement of the live stock industry and the development of the vast wealth of precious and useful metals with which the commonwealth abounds.

All matters pertaining to education, the enforcement of the laws, the suppression of crime, honest collection of taxes, and a prompt accountability by public officers of all moneys coming to their hands, will be the New Mexican's season and out of season to statehood!

"Peace hath her victories," etc.

Even the St. Louis Globe-Democrat sees the handwriting on the statehood wall.

Chicago is to be congratulated over the prompt manner in which the law was made to deal with Prendergast.

A TERRITORIAL newspaper in every sense of the term—the New Mexican. Subscribe for it and keep posted on what is going on.

Congress resembles to-day and the tariff bill has right-of-way. Let's hope that the debate will not be long drawn out. Action is what the country demands.

The telegraphic news service of the New Mexican is henceforth to be the best obtainable in the west. Beginning with this issue the New Mexican becomes a member of the Western Associated Press.

The Deming Headlight has just entered upon its fourteenth volume. Under Editor Walton's management the Headlight has taken front rank as a weekly news journal. Long may prosperity attend it.

COLORADO'S TURNOUT.

Colorado is unquestionably a state of magnificent resources. It has long been justly celebrated for its rich mines of gold, silver and copper. It remained for Gov. Waite to open up its mines of brass and folly, and we are persuaded that an overwhelming majority of its progressive people are opposed to the further development of his pretended discoveries. His effort to hold an extraordinary session of the legislature for the extraordinary purpose of attempting to dictate the coinage laws of the United States and the Republic of Mexico will begin and end with the abrupt adoption of a motion to adjourn without day. Doubtless Gov. Waite is a well meaning man, but it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that he is an official absurdity.

THE BUSINESS DEPRESSION.

It would be idle to deny that business is deplorably depressed in the United States, but so it is throughout the civilized world. In its annual trade review for the year, the Fall Mail Gazette discloses a condition of affairs in England that is positively appalling. It reports from official returns that trade during 1893 was worse even than in 1892. Gloom now hangs over the country's industries. "The imports for eleven months declined $17,500,000 as compared with 1892, and exports declined $6,500,000. There has been a shrinkage in every important class of imports and export to-bacco, with an increase of imports of $27,000. The coal trade and the trade in textiles have declined enormously, and the value of yarns for textiles exported has diminished nearly $2,750,000. The shipments of coals have suffered an equal reduction, and there is a terrible depression in all trades, due to the coal strike, prior to which trade was reviving. The cotton trade was not only injured by the coal strike but by increased foreign competition, and the quantity of raw cotton imported is remarkably small; less than 10,000,000 hundred weight, having been purchased in all countries, whereas more than this was obtained in America alone in 1893."

Mr. Gladstone has been appealed to in behalf of the shivering and hungry thousands of unemployed. He coldly replies that, while he has the fullest sympathy for idle wage earners, "the distress caused by want of work is not confined to London or to Great Britain, but exists with greater intensity in other countries." This kind of talk is about as comforting to hungry people as the brazen contention of the Republican press that the hard times in the United States are due to the election of Grover Cleveland as president over the Indianapolis statesman. It, however, partakes of the nature of truth and decency, which can not be attributed to the partisan claims of the Republican calamity shriekers of the United States. They know perfectly well that poverty is pitilessly starving millions of honest people in the face throughout the British Empire, Germany, Russia, Italy and Spain, as well as in this country, and yet dare to insult the intelligence of thinking people by proclaiming that the business troubles in America are due to Democratic ascendancy in the government. This suggestion answers our present purpose. Later on we will take time to deal with causes and effects.

HOW THEY LIKE IT.

With the new year, the New Mexican, heretofore the staunchest Republican paper in the southwest, and, perhaps, the one of the greatest party influence, will pass into the hands of a company of gentlemen who will conduct it as a territorial Democratic paper. No stone will be left unturned by the party leaders to bring New Mexico into the Democratic fold.—San Marcial Bee.

The Optic understands that the arrangements have been completed by which the New Mexican passes into the hands of the Democratic management at the first of the year. It is also rumored that the Santa Fe Weekly Sun has been purchased by the same parties. This is well, and precludes the possibility of the re-enactment of the disgusting scene which has, for some time, disgraced Albuquerque, and which for a brief space disgraced Las Vegas—two papers of the same political faith in the same town, and one of them trying to build itself up by tearing down its long-established and more powerful rival.—Las Vegas Optic.

We are credibly informed that on the first of the new year, that old, reliable and popular newspaper, the Santa Fe New Mexican, will change ownership. At that time, what has for years been the recognized territorial organ of the Republican party passes into Democratic control. Mr. George H. Cross, a staunch Democrat, a capable and enterprising newspaper man, a gentleman possessing high character for integrity and complete knowledge of territorial affairs, will be general news editor. The Range predicts general prosperity for the New Mexican under the new management and wishes it abundant success in every way, except politically.—Ranton Range.

Gov. Thornton, who was in the city last week, informed a Southwest Sentinel reporter that he, in connection with several other prominent Democrats of the territory, had purchased the New Mexican and would convert it into an administration paper. The new organization will take possession of the paper on January 1. Statehood, irrigation, tariff reform and free silver will be the watchwords, and with Gov. Thornton at the helm the New Mexican will be a power for good. The crying need of this territory, in a political sense, has been a Democratic paper which could rise to the dignity of a journal for and in the interests of the people and above selfishness and place-hunting. Gov. Thornton is a broad gauge man who has the development of the territory and the advancement of her people at heart, and in this particular great change may confidently be anticipated in the tenor of the New Mexican in the future.—Silver City Sentinel.

Press Comments on Territorial Affairs.

A Change in Methods.

New Mexico stockmen have awakened to the fact that it is better to market cattle on maturity instead of waiting for the fluctuations of the markets, and thus avoid overstocking the ranges and the consequent loss therefrom. If the cattle of the southwest which were left on the ranges for increase during the rainy days of the cattle business, had been marketed, leaving only the original number of stock, the loss from drought and short grass, which has been felt so heavily the past two years would never have occurred and there would have been reserve funds in the pockets of the cattlemen to tide them over any small reverse they might sustain in the marketing of cattle during temporary depression in the industry.—Silver City Sentinel.

The Teachers.

The New Mexican says: "The public educators of New Mexico are having a love-feast at Albuquerque today. The annual meeting of the Territorial Educational association has brought together a set of men and women that would do credit to any commonwealth in the Union. The association is doing a grand and noble work for the people of New Mexico."

The New Mexican is correct in its estimate of the educators who last night closed a most successful three days convention. The Times has had the pleasure of meeting a number of immigration and every congressman in the United States could see them. The misbegotten idea that we are not fit for statehood, have no public schools and no teachers, would be forever dissipated.—Albuquerque Times.

Talking Business.

We are turning gray listening to advice about how to conduct a newspaper. We are told that we should devote more space to the merits of the Pecos valley, and do more to induce immigration and business. We are, figuratively speaking, patted on the back, and told that the press is the chief factor in the upbuilding of the country; and, while this is true, we wish to ask our advisors, and some others, a few questions. From what source do you merchants and business men derive your revenue? You will answer, "from the people of the valley," and that, as population increases, business will be better. Wouldn't you feel aggrieved if the people of the valley should refuse to trade with you and send away for their goods. Do you think you would succeed? You certainly would not; but that is exactly what many of you are doing with regard to the papers of this town. You send away for your job work when you can get better work right here at home at the same price. Does that encourage business ventures and immigration? Then again; the money spent with home papers stays here, and is kept in circulation.—Roswell Record.

Health Hints.
It is better to sleep during the day than at night. You have more time. Avoid exercise. Thus you may save your strength and energy against a call upon them.

Smoke as much as possible and inhale the smoke continually. Smoke being thicker than air widens the orifices of the lungs and expands the chest.

Always keep the feet damp. Thus you keep the blood in the nether extremities cool and certainly prevent gout. At all times eat rapidly and beyond your desires. Do not desist until a burning sensation is perceptible in the chest. This shows that the entire heat of the system is at work digesting the food consumed, and naturally it is done well.

Avoid temperance. Temperance frequently causes a reaction on the part of the muscles of the body, and it is well that the system should sometimes manage itself. The responsibility is good for it.—Truth.

Hope For Young Poets.

Peddler—One moment, please. You are a poet, I am told. Scribbler—Yes, but I—er—have not published very much of my work as yet. "Eh? Are you a publisher?" "No, sir; I am general agent for one of the greatest money saving inventions of the age."

"Um—I would certainly like to save money." "Yes; that's it, and I've got the thing to enable you to do it. It's a little rubber stamp with the words 'Declined with thanks,' on it. You write your poem, put it in an envelope, slip in a piece of paper with those words on it, address the envelope to yourself, open the envelope, read the slip, dump the whole business in the waste basket—and there you are. You'll save 10 times its cost in postage stamps every week."—New York Weekly.

Following Advice.

Annie's cousin visited her after she returned from her trip, and Annie never asked her anything about it. After the cousin had gone, Annie's mother told her little daughter that that was not very nice; that when a person had gone away and returned she should ask something about it, even if it were only "How did you enjoy yourself?" Soon afterward Annie's father attended a funeral, and when he came home Annie was the first to greet him. "Well, pa," she asked, "how did you enjoy yourself?"—Philadelphia Times.

SHOOTING STARS.

Is your master in? asked a gentleman of the office boy.

Ah, now I savey. No; he's gone to lunch.

Of Interest to Athletes.

James Robinson, the athletic trainer at Princeton college, Princeton, N. J., says: "I have found it imperative to have sure and simple remedies on hand in case of strains, cuts, bruises, sprains, colds, rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession, I discovered such a remedy in Alcock's Porous Plasters. I tried other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. Alcock's Porous Plasters give almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be enabled to quite severe exercise. In 'sprain' and 'distention' races and jumping, the muscles or tendons in legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on muscles affected."

Prepared.

Tom, were you frightened when you asked me to be your wife?
Tom—No. I knew exactly how much your father intended to give you.

—Chicago Tribune.

In Torment.

Surely if there are unhappy sufferers on earth upon whom the angels look down in pity it is people agonized with rheumatism. They are in torment the year round with little or no respite. Now, there is no evidence to which publicity has been given in behalf of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters more concurrent and convincing than that in behalf of its efficacy in incipient rheumatism. And since rheumatism and rheumatic and simple gout are among the most obstinate complaints to which this admirable remedy is adapted, and since they all have a fatal tendency to attack the vital organs, the advisability of an early use of the Bitters, when they manifest themselves, must be apparent. Efficacious, and most signally so, are the Bitters, too, in malarial disease, kidney and bladder inactivity, constipation, dyspepsia, liver complaint and nervous ailments.

Where He Missed It.

The ideas of yours about telling everything is all wrong.
It is, is it?
Yes. You told me if I wanted to get anything widely circulated to tell it to my wife.
Well?
Well, last week I told her something that I wanted to be known, and I haven't heard a word about it.
H'm! That's strange—but hold on. Did you tell her to keep it secret?
No.
Pshaw! What pleasure do you think a woman could take in telling a thing that wasn't a secret?

You don't?
No; she hasn't asked me for any money, except for things that she needs herself.

A Landslide Very Marked Results.

The term landslide usually conveys intelligence of disaster, whereby many are killed, but this is used to indicate the enormous sales of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve, a remedy that is daily saving the lives of thousands who are suffering from nervous disorders. It cures palpitation, nervous prostration, headache, backache, spinal diseases, hysteria, ill effects of spirit confusion of mind, etc. and builds up the body surprisingly. One Version.

Dusty Rhodes—I had a private box at a food exhibit this afternoon.
Fitz William—How did you come to get it?
Dusty Rhodes—I was looking in a restaurant window to see a man make wheat cakes, and a policeman stepped up and gave it to me.

Kate Field's Washington.

Immense, that's what they all say. It is customary in these later days to express our perfect satisfaction with a thing by saying "it's immense!" It's so expressive that nothing can be added. Geo. L. Fink, Philadelphia Pa., says, "My wife has been taking your New Cure for the Heart and says it is immense! She has not been troubled with pain or smothering spells since using it." Mrs. L. Roberts, Stratford, Pa., says she is 75 years old, and has suffered from heart disease over 40 years. Was treated without avail by prominent New York physicians; grew constantly worse; took Dr. Miles New Heart Cure and was completely cured. Sold by A. C. Ireland, Jr., on a guarantee.

The Grand Canon of the Colorado

the most sublime of nature's work on earth, indescribable, can easily be reached via Flagstaff, Williams or Peach Springs on this road. To the natural bridge of Arizona and Montezuma's well you can journey most directly by this line. Observe the ancient Indian civilization of Laguna or Acoma, "The City of the Sky." Visit the petrified forest near Carrizo. See and marvel at the freak of Canon Diablo. Take a hunting trip in the magnificent pine forests of the San Francisco mountains. Grand Canon of Colorado River.

On the Santa Fe route, in northern Arizona, 1,262 miles from Kansas City, is the town of Flagstaff. A tri-weekly stage line runs from Flagstaff to the Grand Canon of the Colorado river. More than a mile in depth, this is the sublimest of gorges—a Titan of chasms. Twenty Yosemite-like but hidden unseen below, and Niagara would look scarcely larger than a brook.
Don't fail to visit this first wonder of the world. You can "read up" about it by asking G. T. Nicholson, G. P. & T. A. A. T. & S. F. R. Co., Topeka, Kas., to mail you a free copy of an illustrated book describing this terra incognita. The book is no common affair; but is entertainingly written, beautifully illustrated and a gem of the printer's art.

THE WOMAN WHO WORKS, and is tired, will find a special help in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Perfectly harmless in any condition of the female system. It promotes all the natural functions, and builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures. For women approaching confinement, nursing mothers, and every weak, run-down, delicate woman, it is an invigorating, supporting tonic that's peculiarly adapted to their needs.

But it's more than that, too. It's the only guaranteed remedy for all the functional disturbances, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of womanhood. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, bearing-down sensations, internal inflammation, and kindred ailments, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Something else that pays the dealer better, may be offered as "just as good." Perhaps it is for him, but it can't be, for you.

A GOOD SHOT.

Old Bill Knew What He Was About, After All.

"It was while Stemwinder Johnson had the upper store at the Rosebud," said Colonel George Barry last night at the Lotus club, "that Mose Howard was the chief government herder for the agency. I was stationed at Fort Niobrara in those days and occasionally got over to the Rosebud at other times than I saw days. Old Bill Hirston, a sort of retired cowboy, was hanging around the agency then, sometimes working as a herder, but for the most part picking up what he could as a hunter. He was the finest shot with a Winchester I ever saw and thought nothing of taking off the head of a sage hen at 100 yards. He wouldn't pick up a jack rabbit that he'd hit anywhere else than in the head."

"Mose Howard and old Bill Hirston were good friends. Mose used to say in his slow drawl, 'Old Bill ain't such a feller as he use to be, but he's a humble citizen, an' that's me every time.'"
"One day when I happened to be in Johnson's store Mose came in more excited than I had ever seen him before. For a quarter of an hour he didn't say a word, but stood over by the big stove—it was a cold, raw day in the fall—chewing tobacco and shooting tarantula juice in a way that showed violent perturbation of spirit."

"Say, Johnson," he drawled out, 'what do ye think old Bill Hirston done?' Well, if he didn't come plumb right to shooting me cold, I'm a goat. I was comin' up 'm the lower store, an' was 'bout half way across, when a Winchester ball pinged right past my ear close I could feel the wind of it. I looked around a bit, an' over there on the creek 'bout half a mile was old Bill Hirston pickin' up a sage hen. Say-a-y, maybe you feller's believe I wasn't hoss-tile."

"What did you do, Mose?" asked Johnson.

"I jess waitized over there," said Mose, 'an' says I to Bill, 'What,' I says, 'air you a-shootin' at?'"
"Humph," says Bill, 'You fool. Don't you s'pose I seen you? Moved around till you was plumb four inches out o' range.'"
—New York Sun.

Not Important.
"There is a good story told of Oscar Turner," remarked a once prominent lawyer and county judge of the interior of the state, who is now a minister of the gospel. "They say," he continued, "that upon one occasion, many years ago, he was engaged in a very important case in one of the interior counties. There was a large array of legal talent on each side, and the case was fought hotly. Soon after the court opened one morning Colonel Turner was examining a witness. He asked a question to which the other side objected, and a discussion at once ensued. The opposition spoke at length against the asking of the question. One of Colonel Turner's colleagues replied in an equally lengthy argument."

Another of the opposing counsel addressed the court, and another of Colonel Turner's colleagues responded. When the latter had finished, a third attorney for the opposition aired his views on the subject and was followed by another of Colonel Turner's fellow lawyers. This continued until the day was well spent and all parties were worn out. All during the argument Colonel Turner, who had asked the question, sat in silence, paying close attention to the speakers, but taking no part whatever in the discussion. Finally, about 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon the presiding judge decided that the question was a proper one and might be asked."

"Now, Colonel Turner," said he, 'you may put your question to the witness.'"
"Oh," responded Colonel Turner, arousing himself, 'I have forgotten it now, judge. It was not important anyway.'"

One Way to Find Out.

"Look out for thieves! Hands on your pocketbooks!" sung out a little man in the crowd.
"That chap with the velvet vest carries his wad in his left hip pocket, Gabe!" he added in an undertone a moment later, speaking to an innocent looking man standing by his side. —Chicago Tribune.

Getting Thin

is often equivalent to getting ill. If loss of flesh can be arrested and disease baffled the "weak spots" in the system are eradicated.

Scott's Emulsion is an absolute corrective of "weak spots." It is a builder of worn out failing tissue—nature's food that stops waste and creates healthy flesh.

LOVE'S DESPAIR.

Why should I waste my life in hearing sighs For her whose love I know can never be mine? What, though her eyes with sweetest glances shine, And in her face the rarest beauty lies, Let some one else her loveliness now prize, For I shall sadly sigh for her no more. Although my heart with longing pangs is sore, And rent with love's sweet lingering memories, Let me be true to the one I love, and let Our joys and sorrows cannot always last, But like all things of earth must surely die; And so I'll sadly sigh and sigh no more, But laugh through life, a breath which soon is o'er.

—John J. McIntyre in New York Sun.

BRAVE BETTY.

There was a clatter of horses' hoofs on the hard road in front of the little wooden jail at the county seat of an interior county of West Virginia, and then a prisoner was brought in by half a dozen officers and chained to a ring in the wall. The prisoner was a broad shouldered young man, with long, black hair and piercing eyes. As he passed into the jail part of the building Betty Rainsford, the pretty wild flower daughter of Jailer Rainsford, caught sight of him. She sprang forward with the word "Jim!" trembling on her lips, but instantly restrained herself and turned away with apparent unconcern.

Jim Springston was a moonshiner. In other words, he manufactured liquor without a government license and was therefore hunted by United States detectives. He had a still among the dark recesses of the mountains, where for years he had pursued his unlawful calling. At last, however, he had been trapped by Detective Johnson and his deputies, and his capture was effected only after a hard fight, in which Springston had wounded two deputies slightly and had himself received a flesh wound in his left arm.

"Well, we've got another desperado, and the court will soon make short work of him," said Johnson to the jailer as he came out from securing the prisoner. "I shall look to you to see that he does not escape," and the officer twirled between his fingers the key of the padlock which secured Springston, at the same time striding out. After placing his deputies on guard around the insecure structure to prevent recapture by the prisoner's friends, or to circumvent any efforts on the part of the prisoner himself to escape, Captain Johnson went to the only lodging house in the village, where he put up for the night.

The reader has already surmised that the members of the Rainsford family were at least acquainted with Jim Springston. He was, in fact, the affianced husband of Betty, who had already resolved to rescue her lover at all hazards. Her father was, to say the least, morally responsible to the law for the safekeeping of Springston, and she knew it would be of no avail to turn in that direction for relief. In fact, she would not have released Jim from jail if she could have done so with her own hands, as it would have brought censure and disgrace down on the head of her father and created the suspicion that the Rainsford family was in league with the illicit distillers.

Jim Springston had been a frequent visitor to the Rainsford household for the previous year or two and had won his promised bride over numerous rival suitors, but the head of the household did not know he was a violator of the law until brought in that evening. Neither had Betty known of this fact, but the moment she had learned of the arrest she decided in favor of Jim.

At supper that evening the elder Rainsford stated that, while he sympathized with Springston, he could see no way but that he would have to go to prison. Betty acquiesced meekly, but her brain was busy with a plan of her own.

A passing country doctor had dressed the wounds of the deputies and the prisoner. Betty looked down at the latter operation, but not even a look of recognition passed between herself and lover. They seemed to pursue that course independently. They were as strangers, and thus darkness settled over the quiet country village.

Just after midnight, when the alertness of the guards was benumbed by drowsiness, a dark figure stole to the window of the jail. A voice almost as still as the night itself called: "Jim! Oh, Jim! Don't stir or make a noise. It's Betty." There was a soft answer denoting that he heard her, and she went on thus, "Read this note when daytime comes and obey instructions carefully," thrusting the paper through the bars and into the hands of the prisoner by means of a long stick.

After breakfast the next morning the prisoner was taken out and mounted on a horse, and the officers also mounted their horses, and the party set off for the nearest railroad station, a distance of 50 miles. Just as the horsemen cantered away a glance from Betty to Jim assured each that both understood the programme. Captain Johnson felt elated over the capture of Springston for the reason, first, that there was a handsome reward awaiting his safe delivery into the hands of the government and, secondly, because the capture added another large feather to the already well decorated cap of the detective.

It was a delightful summer morning, and as the party rode along the birds chirped and the dew sparkled like nothing had happened or was about to happen among the lonesome mountains.

In the rear of the Rainsford residence, it somewhat resembled Betty's younger brother, who was absent from home at the time. In a belt were two revolvers, and a Winchester rifle was grasped firmly in the right hand. The figure hurried across the mountain by way of a footpath, and on reaching the public road at the dark, shady spot, disappeared behind a log among the laurel underbrush along the roadside.

In 10 minutes there was heard the sound of the tramping of horses' feet. The figure behind the log became alertness itself in an instant. The Winchester was trained on the road, where a small opening would reveal the passing horsemen. As they came up it could be seen that by some means Jim Springston had succeeded in getting five of his captors in advance, riding single file, and was talking in a cheerful tone to the one in the rear. As they came on Jim cautiously gathered up the slack of his bridle reins and scanned that laurel thicket with bated breath. For an instant a feminine finger pressed the trigger of the sleeping Winchester, and then came a sharp report, the scream of a horse, and down went the rear guard. Bullets came from that thicket like hail and seemed to take effect entirely among the horses.

The greatest confusion prevailed among the officers. Two were entangled in the trappings of their slain horses, and a third was on the ground in danger of being trampled to death by the excited animals of those yet mounted. In less time than it takes to tell it the firing had ceased and the cloud of powder smoke floated away on the lazy atmosphere.

At the beginning of the firing Jim had dashed into a side path and disappeared. His horse came back in a few moments, however, indicating that he had dismounted and fled to the thick woods. Ten minutes later he was joined by the boyish figure, who handed him the Winchester and one revolver, when they vanished into the underbrush.

When Captain Johnson had restored order, he found all of his men safe, but three of the horses were dead. It seemed that the attack from ambush had been made on the horses. A search of the woods was made for the escaped prisoner and the attacking party, but it was a vain search. Behind the log in the laurel thicket were a half dozen cartridge shells and a small footprint in the loose earth. That was all.

Two hours later, when the officers returned to the village with chagrin pictured on their faces to get a couple more horses Betty was going about her household work singing blithely.

As the officers came up, two of the horses carrying double, she went to the door in apparent great surprise and was an interested listener to the story of the attack as related by Captain Johnson. He said the onslaught was made with such fury and suddenness that the horses became unmanageable to such an extent that himself and men were unable to use their firearms. They left the country without again seeing Springston.

Springston gave up his unlawful business, and a year later he and Betty commenced housekeeping in a neighboring settlement as man and wife. He sometimes tells their children how a disguised young woman once rescued her lover by shooting the horses of his guards. He calls that woman "Brave Betty, the jailer's Daughter." —Charles A. Hartley in Cincinnati Enquirer.

They Saw the Fair.

"Been to the World's fair?" asked the man who had not been shaved for six months.

"Saw it by moonlight—me and Jerry Raggles," replied he of the vermilion nose. "Me and Jerry was out in Denver for our health. Jerry's left lung is off bad. Let's git to Chicago," says Jerry one night when we was laying off on a truck in Wazoo street. 'All right,' says I, 'I was anxious to be in society once more. The next night we jumped a freight fo' as far as Omaha without gettin' turned down once. It got warm then, and we changed for an empty cattle car on account of the ventilation. It was on a Sunday morning when we struck Chicago. Let's lay off and recuperate after the trip, Jerry,' says I, 'and we'll make a sneak on to the fair grounds at night.' 'All right,' says he, 'but we kept a talking until it was almost dark about what we'd do when we got in the grounds.'"

"Well, as I was sayin, when I woke up the car was joggin' along kinder slowlike. I looked out through the slats. We was passing the fair. 'Hay, Jerry,' I says, 'Hay, there, here's the fair; let's jump!' We both made for the door. I got there first. 'Open it,' says Jerry. 'I can't; it's locked.' 'Let's take it in through the slats,' he says, 'and we looked for all we was worth. In 10 minutes we was past.'"

"How did you get out?"
"Get out? We didn't get out until we got to Buffalo. We would've starved if Jerry hadn't had a loaf of bread in his hat." —New York Herald.

A Chilly Duel.

A duel of an original character was fought in front of the Antwerp railway station. Two gentlemen from Liege, after a hard day's sightseeing, refreshed themselves so effectually at a cafe that from beer to brandy and from arguments to insults they came to blows. Blood alone could wash away the stain of their mutual insults, but as deadly weapons were not kept on the premises for the use of customers the proprietor of the cafe suggested that as the street was deserted the adversaries should annihilate each other with "douches," and he handed to each a portable water pipe. Cold water being anything but an exciting medium, the combatants after a thorough drenching shook hands and hurried to change their garments. —London Tit-Bits.

NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS.

Santa Fe Did Herself Proud Yesterday in a Revival of the Good Old Custom.

As predicted in these columns a few days ago, there was a general revival of the historic custom of receiving and making New Year calls in this city yesterday. In most of the homes where society holds forth the day was observed with all the niceties incident to the occasion. The blinds were down and lights were up. Unstinted hospitality and good cheer reigned supreme. The ladies were attired in full evening dress, and were radiant and beautiful, as a matter of course. As a rule coffee and bouillon constituted the liquid element on the refreshment table; indeed, the absence of other liquors was remarked and favorably commented upon by many. There were seventy-five or eighty gentlemen who made formal calls and about forty ladies received. From 2 to 6 p. m. was the popular hour. At the governor's home Mrs. Thornton was assisted by Mesdames R. J. Foley, C. M. Shannon, E. L. Bartlett, E. L. Hall, John Symington and E. P. Money. The two front parlors were bowers of floral beauty, in which roses, chrysanthemums, real English holly and mistletoe were blended in the happiest effects, and in the dining hall nothing was omitting to make the occasion enjoyable. At Col. Pearson's quarters the day was observed amid grace and beauty and good cheer. Mrs. Pearson being assisted in receiving by Mrs. L. W. Little, Miss Gulliford, Miss Butler and Miss Sauerwein.

The mansion of Mr. A. Stab was ablaze with lights and shades of floral beauty and the dainty luncheon served here by the Misses Stab, chaperoned by Mrs. L. Bradford Prince, who has always been a devotee to the customs of this day, was assisted by Mrs. J. P. Kimball, Mrs. J. T. Kirkman and Miss Solgner. From 12 o'clock until near midnight callers were entertained. Mrs. W. H. Keller, assisted by Mrs. Wm. Craig, the Misses Baker and her daughters, Mrs. J. H. Sloan, Mrs. Valentine Carson and the Misses Keller, kept open house all the afternoon and evening, and the bery of beautiful ladies here made this home a favorite attraction. At the residence of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Geo. A. Johnson served a luncheon during the afternoon to some fifteen friends and a delightful season was passed. At St. Vincent sanitarium parlor the lady guests received many visitors during the day, and at numerous other places there were hospitable suites to the event. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Crist served a dinner party to a number of invited guests.

Among the callers were the following: Gov. Thornton, Hon. A. B. Fall, Hon. C. M. Shannon, ex-Gov. Prince, Col. E. P. Pearson, Capt. Paulding, Lieut. I. W. Little, Gen. Bartlett, Col. Frost, Lieut. E. V. Stottler, Mr. J. D. Hughes, Mr. H. Lindheim, Mr. J. D. Prouditt, Mayor Twitcheil, Mr. Arthur Seligman, Mr. S. B. Sherry, Mr. Mortimer Kaufman, the Messrs. Gusdorf, Mr. Boyle, Mr. W. H. Gulliford, Hon. L. G. Read, Mr. R. C. Gortner, Mr. A. B. Renahan, Mr. Butler, Capt. Day, Major Knaebel and a host of others, including a jolly party led by Hon. James H. Walker, composed of Gen. C. F. Easley, Sec. Lorton Miller, Col. G. Coleman, Hon. J. E. Crist, Major Fay, Hon. T. P. Gable and Hon. John P. Victory.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

Santa Fe's hotels and restaurants did a slashing big business yesterday. The city council failed to get together last night. No quorum being present, an adjournment was taken to Monday night next.

Judge Aveyia held court this forenoon and judicially examined the handwriting of several persons who will never use pen and ink again.

The fruit growers and ranchmen hereabouts are eloquently praying for a foot or so of snow. The country really needs such treatment from above.

Until further notice the district court for this county will be called at the federal building for the purpose of disposing of accumulated motions.

S. B. Warner, a competent cabinet maker, formerly in business here, has come back from Las Vegas and gone to work for Wagner & Lowitzki.

Passenger traffic over the narrow gauge lines has been lively for the past few days. Miners and prospectors from southern Colorado continue to roll in over this route.

Hon. A. L. Kendall, chairman of the county board, is in the city on official business. Also Commissioner Victor Ortega, from the classic precincts of Chinayo.

When this reporter looked into the sheriff's office this morning he found Deputy Collector Marcelino Garcia busily engaged filling out receipts for a crowd of waiting taxpayers.

Mayor R. E. Twitcheil returned yesterday from a week's stay at San Diego, Cal., where his family is spending the winter. He says the season is a gray and "successful one for the Coronado beach hotel, there being 700 guests there. This fact illustrates what judicious advertising of climatic resources will accomplish.

Even the colored citizens took part in suitably observing New Year's day. There were about a dozen callers out at Christian Hall's home. Mrs. Hall received assisted by Mrs. Chas. Hines and Mrs. T. H. Dunlap and refreshments were served between the hours of 2 and 10 o'clock.

Sunday evening at 5, a very congenial company, consisting of the gentlemen belonging to the college choir, was entertained by the faculty of St. Michael's college. There was a royal spread which was quickly dispatched, and then came toasts and songs. Among those present were Rev. Bros. Stolp, Fabian, A. Hon. Demetrio Perez, territorial auditor, was called to San Antonio yesterday on a sad mission, a telegram announcing the death of his grandson, aged 2 1/2 years, the eldest son of Hon. Eutimio Montoya. The family's friends in Santa Fe extend much sympathy.

drawn Messrs. Valdes, Hinojos, Garcia, Delgado, Bass, Conklin, McCabe, J. D. Sena and J. E. Morrison. A happy time was experienced and all wished many happy New Years to the college and all its members.

Mr. W. M. Tipton, special agent of the U. S. court of private land claims, ran over to San Francisco from Tucson the other day and was nabbed by a reporter of the San Francisco Chronicle for a half column interview, in which the special agent talked very entertainingly of ex-Gov. Lew Wallace and his literary labors in the old government palace. Says the Chronicle: "Mr. Tipton says that most of the grants, so far as have come to his knowledge, are really genuine, and that only a few of them are fraudulent. He says most of the people of New Mexico are anxious for the admission of the territory as a state. They believe it will be admitted this winter."

The Chama Gold Fields.

David Allen, one of the pioneers of the Chama river placer mining district, dropped in to town yesterday with good news from his district. He reports that the new Bucyrus mill has been in operation for some days on gravel that pans 90 cents per yard, and while no clean up has been made, enough is known to prove the success of the experiment. Careful panning has established the fact that nothing comes out in the tailings. The company is so well satisfied that another mill has been ordered from Milwaukee and will arrive on the ground in March.

U. S. COURT.

What Promises to Be a Lively Term Opened at the Federal Building To-day.

The United States district court, Judge Edward P. Seede presiding, convened at the federal building this morning. The officers of the court are as follows:

Clerk—R. M. Goshorn. Stenographer—H. S. Clancy. Interpreter—L. G. Read. Bailiffs—Jesus Ma. Montoya, Juan Ortiz y Rodriguez, E. Padilla. Crier—H. O. Taylor. U. S. District Attorney Hemingway made his first appearance in court here this morning.

The calling of the grand and petit juries disclosed the fact that a number of those drawn were not qualified. Among the number who made affidavit that they were not tax payers in the county was Mr. H. C. Kinell, of Cerrillos.

Pending the completion of the panels, Judge Seede adjourned court until tomorrow morning.

The most important cases on the docket are those of A. M. Hendry et al. vs. the Lincoln-Lucky-Lee Mining company, ejectment, and Charles M. Conklin vs. W. F. Cunningham, claiming to test the title of the latter to the office of sheriff. In the latter case the question of jurisdiction will have to be argued before the merits are touched.

GOLDEN AMIZETT.

Glowing Reports from the Great Mining Camp of Northern New Mexico.

Gerson Gusdorf, the active and enterprising young manager of the general store of Gusdorf Brothers at Amizett, paid a business visit to the capital yesterday. Of course he called upon his friends connected with the new management of the New Mexican, and his enthusiastic words of congratulation over the "new departure" were as gratifying to the writer as they were evidently sincere.

Mr. Gusdorf has been constantly engaged in business and mining at Amizett since the discovery of gold there in July, and he does not hesitate to predict that this camp has a great future before it. At present about 200 people are employed in the district and new comers are daily swelling the number. Development work is being earnestly pushed on the Gold King, Navajo, Berry and Lillian claims, located on Gold Hill, and all are showing well. A tunnel has been driven 150 feet on the Gold King and a contract has been let for 100 feet more. This is the oldest location in the camp and is furnishing sufficient free milling gold rock to keep the five-stamp mill on the ground in operation day and night. The ore so far run through has netted $20 per ton, but, as careful tests recently made in Denver and Pueblo have shown from $40 to $48, it is believed that the mill will disclose better results in future.

Mr. Gusdorf has just returned from Denver, whither he went to confer with his associates in the Navajo, and, while in town, he received news that a five foot vein of honey-combed quartz had been struck in the 100 foot tunnel now being driven on the property. Consequently he could not be persuaded to remain with us longer than till the hour fixed for the departure of the morning train over the narrow gauge.

A Journalistic Observation.

Hawthorne, of the Albuquerque Times, writes a very sensible and truthful article for that paper on the unreasonable practices of societies and associations in New Mexico, demanding space in newspapers for all kinds of meetings without compensation. From our observation and experience this is as much the fault of the newspapers as the people. In eastern cities the newspapers are not expected and are not asked to contribute valuable space for the benefit of any association or individual without pay. In this territory experienced newspaper people are often-times forced by circumstances, created by the cobblers in the profession, to ignore the well grounded rules of the business and conform to distasteful and unbusiness like customs. —Raton Range.

A Novel Souvenir Spoon.

THIS SPOON, as a souvenir of Arizona, is a decidedly unique and appropriate. It is a distinctively Arizonian, picturing a scene that is an everyday feature on the streets of the cities and towns of the territory. A Pima Indian woman is represented, supporting on her head an olla which rests upon a twisted wisp of bear grass, and awaiting a customer for her ware. Statuesque and graceful as is the figure, it is perfectly fitted to endure, having been designed from a photograph taken from real life for the purpose.

The olla (usually pronounced o-ya) is a large jar or bowl of pottery for containing and cooling drinking water. It is also together an Indian invention, and is made of a mixture of clay and sand, the material being moulded exceedingly thin by the deft hands of women, and baked to a brilliant red.

In this climate receptacles for cool water are indispensable in every household and thus the durable and handsome and a ready market for them in every town.

It is no uncommon thing to see four or five of these children of nature, picturesque in their sturdy colors, advancing with stately tread down the street, each with an olla on her head, as represented in this charming souvenir.
