INTERVIEW IN PANTOMIME.

Breckenridge Resorts to Tragic Tones in Telling the Tale of His Shame.

Washington, April 2.—On the stand today Col. Breckenridge denied taking a carriage ride with Miss Pollard on which he proposed marriage, denied that he ever asked her to give up her child or that he knew she had any, and testified that he never told her he was going to Europe as the representative of Whitney & Fairchild.

Mr. Butterworth asked the witness what interviews he had with Miss Pollard prior to the interview of the 17th with Major Moore.

The witness related in detail the interviews that occurred, including the interview with Mrs. Thomas, when he left Miss Pollard in a real or simulated fainting condition. The next day at the Riggs house, she expressed regret at what had occurred at Major Moore's office. The plaintiff gave him a schedule of what she wanted in the way of underwear prior to the trip to New York. The following day the plaintiff and a conversation ended between them as to a further conference which she proposed to be held with Major Moore.

As he described how he waived her off Breckenridge, gasconaded impressively with both hands and explained the whole interview in pantomime. There was tragic intonation to his tones as he closed the account of the visit to Mrs. Thomas. "Then I left her."

In his description of the second visit to Major Moore, the witness said: "We agreed to say she was going to New York to have the child and I was the author of her pregnancy. She insisted I should tell Major Moore that I was the only man who ever had been intimate with her. I said I had put myself in the power of her and Major Moore already, and I would refuse to say I had seduced her. Then she said she would not go. When she turned her jacket back I saw in her bosom. She said: 'I will use that on myself if I do anybody.' Then describing the scene in the office of the chief of police, where they sat on the sofa, he said: "She seemed to be dissatisfied with the form in which I had made the statement. She took out the pistol and looked at it. I said: You better let Major Moore take that and make me a Christmas present of it."

"Then I said nobody could say I had seduced her because the first night I saw her I and the second night I slept with her."

The account of the interview in Major Morris' office differed with the version given by Fisher and the plaintiff. Witness said that Miss Pollard went to New York May 18 and returned 19. After arriving in Lexington he received a telegram that Miss Pollard was coming there. He returned the message, the principal part of which was: "Wait, it will come," referring, he declared, to money. This correspondence was reviewed at length.

WASHINGTON BUDGET.

Bright Prospects of the Arid Land Bill—Voorhees Opposes Tariff Debate—Roswell Promoted.

Washington, April 2.—Sec. Smith has transmitted to congress an adverse report on the house bill recently introduced, providing for the restoration of 1,861 square miles of land in the Yellowstone national park to the public domain. The secretary says the segregation of the land would result in obstructing the enforcement of the regulations for the government of the park owing to squatting. The boundaries of the park, as now fixed by law, are satisfactory to the department and no good reason for the proposed change is known.

ROSWELL A PRESIDENTIAL OFFICE.

The following fourth-class postoffices have been raised to the presidential class: Roswell, New Mexico, $1,100 salary; Alvin, Texas, $1,000 salary.

FAVORABLE PROSPECTS OF ARID LAND BILL.

Senator Carey is much encouraged over the prospects of the bill for the cession of a million acres of land to each of the arid land states and territories to be improved by means of irrigation. Senator Carey is led to believe the bill will receive the unanimous endorsement of the committee. Senators Dolph and Vilas both of whom favor the bill, say it provides for an experiment in the right direction, which, if undertaken, may lead to the solution of the question, what shall be done to reclaim the arid lands?

TO-DAY'S HOUSE.

The struggle over the O'Neill-Joy contested election case was resumed to-day in the house. Mr. Reed intimated on Friday that the speaker overlooked a flagrant violation of the rule governing votes under roll call. The Democrats lacked twenty of a quorum to-day.

A JUDICIOUS CUT.

A cut of $4,500,000 in the item for armor plate and armament in the naval appropriation bill has been agreed to by the house committee on naval affairs.

UTES WILL REMAIN IN COLORADO.

The house committee on Indian affairs has finally decided not to move the Utes from the reservation in Colorado.

NOMINATIONS.

The president to-day sent the following nominations to the senate: Thomas B. Benedict, of New York, to be public printer.

Consuls of U. S., Jas. H. Dinmore, of Texas, at Cienfuegos, Cuba; William C. Foster, of Arizona, at Trinidad.

J. T. Heiler, register, and Louis Groosmith, receiver of the U. S. land office at Gunnison.

James D. Youmans, of Iowa, interstate commerce commission.

TO-DAY'S SENATE.

Senator Morgan has reported to the senate the Behring sea bill to carry into effect the Paris arbitration and asked its immediate consideration. Senator Morgan said the British parliament was acting on a similar bill to-day.

Senator Culom, of Illinois, raised the question if it was not unusual to authorize foreign power to direct American citizens, and Senator Morgan pointed out that an arrangement had been entered into between Great Britain and the United States to suppress the slave trade.

Senator Morgan asked unanimous consent that the bill be considered after Senator Voorhees' speech on the tariff bill, which was agreed to. Mr. Voorhees made an eloquent presentation of the tariff reforms proposed in the senate bill. He said he would be glad to see the whisky tax even higher than it had been fixed. He warmly defended the income tax. He said that if he believed wool on the free list would help the farmer he would not vote for the bill.

EXECUTED IN LIVERPOOL.

A Woman Suffers the Death Penalty for Brutally Murdering Her Husband.

Liverpool, April 2.—Margaret Walber, 53 years old, was executed to-day in the Walton jail. Mrs. Walber, who was extremely jealous of her husband, confined him in a garret, chained and pad-locked, until he was hardly able to move. Walber was found dead in the apartment in which he had been imprisoned. The prisoner at the trial admitted striking her husband over the head with a heavy chain.

THE FOLSOM CASES.

Specific Charges On Which S. M. Folsom is Now on Trial at Albuquerque.

False Entries and Statements—List of the Indictments—Trial to Last All Week.

Stephen M. Folsom, president of the defunct Albuquerque National bank, will soon follow Danes, the Deming and Silver City bank wrecker, if one-half the allegations contained in the indictments against him are true.

There are three indictments containing twenty-eight specific counts or charges. He is charged with continually making false entries in the records of the bank and false statements with the intent to injure and defraud the public and to deceive the officers and agents of the United States. He is also charged with embezzlement of large sums at various times. Below will be found a synopsis of each count in the three indictments:

The first count of the first indictment charges Stephen M. Folsom with having, on the 25th day of September, 1891, made a statement, which was sworn to be true, of the condition of the bank. The statement contained an item marked: "Individual deposits subject to check, $1,937.03." The indictment charges that no such sum was on deposit.

The second count charges that the statement alleging that $19,214.89 was due the bank from other national banks, was false.

The third count charges that the statement reporting bills of other banks at $14,171 was false.

The fourth count charges that the statement alleging there was no borrower of more than $17,500, which would be 10 per cent of the capital stock of the bank, as much as the law allows one person, firm or corporation to borrow, is false, as W. B. Slaughter, J. A. Johnson and the Aztec Cattle company were each at the time borrowers of more than $17,500 from the bank with Mr. Folsom's knowledge.

The fifth count charges that Folsom on the 9th day of July, 1891, made a statement of the affairs of the bank, and in which it was reported that there was on deposit in the bank subject to check $169,293.64. This statement is declared to have been false.

The sixth count charges that the statement reported overdrafts to the amount of $18,578.01. There was a much larger sum due the bank, and the statement is branded as false.

The seventh count charges that the statement claimed $14,682.37 as due from approved reserve agents. There was not that much due.

The eighth count charges that the statement claimed $14,755.39 due from other national banks. The indictment says there was not near that amount due.

The ninth count says the amount reported as due from state and private banks and bankers, $19,105.08, was false.

The tenth count charges that the bank's statement showed that the demand certificates of deposit on hand, at $124,575.52, when there was not this amount on deposit.

The eleventh count charges that in the general balance item of the statement the sum of $15,000 appeared opposite the name of the New Mexico Savings Bank & Trust company, making it appear that the Savings bank owed the Albuquerque bank this sum. The indictment declares that no such amount was due.

The twelfth count charges that the statement reported $7,000 as having been transmitted to the Hanover National bank, of New York city. The statement was false as no money had been transmitted.

The thirteenth count charges that $7,000 was purported to have been received from the American National bank, of Kansas city, whereas nothing was received.

The fourteenth count charges that $8,000 was purported to have been transmitted to the National Bank of Commerce, of Kansas City. This is branded as false.

The fifteenth count charges that $10,000 was purported to have been transmitted to the American National bank, of Kansas City, whereas no sum was transmitted.

The sixteenth count charges that $10,000 was said to have been transmitted to the National Bank of Commerce, of Kansas City. It is charged that this entry was also a false one.

The seventeenth count charges that the declaration by the bank officers that there was on hand certificates of deposit to the amount of $20,000, whereas no such amount was on deposit, says the indictment.

The second indictment contains nine specific counts or charges. The first count declares that a statement of the bank's resources and liabilities was made on the 3d day of July, 1893, and that it was an erroneous one.

The second count charges that Folsom embezzled $10,000 of the bank's funds.

The third count charges Folsom with having embezzled $10,000 and converted it to the use of Wm. F. Hulvey.

The fourth count charges Folsom with having embezzled $10,000 and converted it to the use of himself and Wm. F. Hulvey.

The fifth count charges Folsom with having embezzled $10,000 and converted it to the use of Geo. L. Brooks.

The sixth count charges the same.

The seventh count charges Folsom with having embezzled $10,000 and converted it to the use of W. B. Slaughter.

The eighth count charges Folsom with having embezzled $10,000 and converted it to the use of the firm of Slaughter & Folsom.

The ninth count charges the same.

The third indictment contains four counts, the first of which charges that a statement of the bank's resources and liabilities was rendered on Dec. 2, 1891, and that the statement reported individual deposits subject to check at $155,469.23. The indictment says there was not this much on deposit and that the statement was made with fraudulent ends in view.

The second count charges that the statement reported demand certificates deposit to the amount of $95,351.68. This is branded as false.

The third count charges that the statement reported due from approved reserve agents $17,587.57 and that no such amount was due.

The fourth count charges that the bank allowed W. B. Slaughter and the firm of Slaughter & Folsom each to borrow more than $17,500, which was above 10 per cent of the capital of the bank and contrary to law.

On the charge of making false statements regarding the condition of the Albuquerque National bank Mr. Folsom was on trial last week before the district court at Albuquerque.

The trial was resumed to-day and will continue until the close of the term on Saturday next. There are twelve witnesses to be examined, four of whom have already given in their testimony.

Democratic officials have no apologies to make for landing criminals, of what-soever shade of politics, behind the bars.

CITIZENS of Santa Fe, go to the polls to-morrow and do your duty. You quite understand what the times demand. Let's have a change from those degrading political methods which have all too long characterized the administration of public affairs in Santa Fe.

THE Denver Daily Mining Record takes occasion to observe that: "The Santa Fe New Mexican is doing much toward promoting the mining interests of that territory. It is a brisk and live newspaper and while it has much to say of the camps nearest to the capital, its columns are always open to chronicle anything of importance in other portions of New Mexico."

SENATOR SPURGEON, the whilom Republican, but now the crank Populist candidate, of Nevada, has written to Horace trader Corey: "There is no law now on the statute books authorizing the president of the United States to march an army against the people at the ballot box." Neither is there a law which authorizes the marshaling of an army of tramps at the national capital, but there is one for suppressing an assemblage of unlawful mobs, and this will be enforced if Corey continues his attempt to carry out his fanatical ideas.

WOULD SEEM TO SETTLE IT.

Henry Lockhart, who is known throughout the territory as a conservative, trust worthy and successful business man, is one of the owners of the Crown Point mine in the Cochiti district. He does not believe in blindly investing in mining properties however alluring they may appear to the eye. So he shipped a carload of Crown Point ore—an average sample from across the vein—to the Socorro smelter and had the same thoroughly tested.

Here is what he says of the district: "For the information of parties interested in the Cochiti mining district I would state that returns from the carload of ore shipped from the Crown Point mine, to the Rio Grande smelter at Socorro, gave results of 2 32-100 ounces in gold and 89 7-10 ounces in silver to the ton, making a little over $100 to the ton. This is the first shipment from the district, except one from the Washington mine some months since, all statements and reports to the contrary notwithstanding. I make this statement in order that the people may not be misled in regard to the outlook of the district by various unfounded rumors set afloat."

Such testimony from a man enjoying Mr. Lockhart's reputation for veracity goes a long way toward dissipating all doubt touching the permanent nature of the wonderful discoveries at Cochiti. If the mineralized ore body in the Crown Point, varying from ten to thirty feet in width, mill runs $100 or even $250 to the ton, then it is settled that Cochiti boasts at least one great wealth producer, and the chances are that there are a dozen mines in that locality that will turn out equally as good.

SOMEWHAT OFF ITS BEARINGS.

The press is by no means taking the interest it should in demanding the suppression and complete extinguishment of the secret political organizations known to exist in several counties in this territory. It is a notorious fact that much of the crime that has disgraced New Mexico during the last five years is chiefly attributable to such "societies." Let the press speak out and indicate how it stands on the proposition. Shall it be progress or retrogression for New Mexico?—NEW MEXICAN.

The Enterprise has heretofore withheld the commendation honestly due Governor Thornton for his earnest efforts in the suppression of crime and capture of criminals. And for so doing there was a good reason. The great and everlasting good which he has done the territory has been belittled and dwarfed by the utterances of Governor Thornton's organ, the NEW MEXICAN. In every instance the recital of these occurrences, in the NEW MEXICAN, has been accompanied by an implied, if not explicitly uttered, vilification of the Republican party in New Mexico. The Enterprise did not care to aid in maligning the whole Republican party, by joining the New Mexican chorus of parasite papers, which echo its utterances, simply because its editor is governor of the territory. How about the lawless semi-secret society of San Miguel county, which is credited with being the great Democratic power of that county and which is said to be led by the strongest leader in the Democratic party in New Mexico to-day? Let Governor Thornton and his efficient officials continue to do their duty as they have been doing; let the New Mexican cease vilifying honest and law-abiding citizens for political purposes, and the press of the territory, Republican and Democratic, will volunteer their commendation and publish his praise, unsought by such editorials as that at the head of this article. Let him continue the good work without political bias, and he will succeed, not in making himself a leader in the Democratic party, but a leader among all the people of New Mexico. The Enterprise has spoken out and this is how it stands on the proposition.—Silver City Enterprise.

In apologizing for what it is pleased to term "the commendation honestly due Gov. Thornton," the Enterprise indulges in statements that are not borne out by the facts when it charges that the New Mexican has vilified honest and law-abiding citizens for political purposes. The New Mexican is not built that way; it has a higher appreciation of its duties to the masses, to every good citizen of the territory, than to indulge in anything of that sort, and it believes that one statement of fact is worth a column of abuse when it comes to criticizing public men and public measures. In carrying out its policy of reform it may be that some rather unpleasant facts may have to be dealt with, and that prominent Republicans may cringe and wince as a result, but "vilification" is not the word to be used in this connection.

Again, the New Mexican has always felt that the people of the territory, regardless of party, are thoroughly in accord with the governor in his efforts for reform and the suppression of crime, and, with one exception, the territorial press, Republican and Democratic alike, have nobly supported the administration in its work of clearing wrong in public officials and bringing criminals to justice. It is needless to add that the Albuquerque Citizen, which is under the influence of a few bitter partisan Republican politicians here at the capital, constitutes this single exception.

Press Comments on Territorial Affairs.

How They Feel About It.

Several Republican editors of New Mexico were highly disgusted when they found they had been invited to Santa Fe to attend a meeting of the territorial committee, called for the purpose of establishing an "organ." Pretty rough upon our brethren. It is needless to add that they didn't contribute.—Deming Headlight.

It Made 'em Smile.

It caused a broad smile to spread over the countenances of Messrs. Williams, Hyland and Hughes, when they learned that they were invited to meet with the central committee at Santa Fe for the purpose of contributing to the establishment of a Republican paper. They publish Republican papers and ask no favors of the party, and did not feel called upon to grow enthusiastic over the "organ" idea.—Albuquerque Citizen.

On Statehood.

Delegate Joseph of New Mexico is working hard to secure the passage of the bill for the admission of his territory as a state. There is not much opposition to the measure on its merits, but the Republicans think that they are justified in making the Democrats produce a quorum before a vote is taken. Their purpose in this is to secure favorable consideration for the bill for the admission of Oklahoma, which the Democrats are opposed to. If the Democrats would consent to the admission of Oklahoma the Republicans would let the New Mexico bill come to a vote at once.—Denver Republican.

Grand Canon of Colorado River.
On the Santa Fe route, in northern Arizona, 1,282 miles from Kansas City, is the town of Flagstaff. A tri-weekly stage line runs from Flagstaff to the Grand Canon of the Colorado river. More than a mile in depth, this is the sublimest of gorges—a Titan of chasms. Twenty Yosemite might be hidden unseen below, and Niagara would look scarcely larger than a brook.

A man's stomach is his weak part. The weapons to subdue him the most readily are found in the kitchen.

Cry for Help.
In the stillness of the night is sufficiently startling. What if no aid be at hand or we know not whence the cry comes? This is not the case with that mute appeal made to the resources of medical science, every ready, ever available by disease on every hand. A prompt means of self help for the malarious, the rheumatic, the dyspeptic, the bilious, and persons troubled with impending kidney complaints, is to be found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an ever "present help in time of trouble" for all such hapless individuals. They should not delay a moment in seeking its aid. Experience has shown its wide utility, the recommendation of eminent physicians everywhere sanction its use. Nervous, thin, debilitated invalids gain bodily substance and vigor by a course of this fine invigorant, which is eminently serviceable also, to the aged and convalescent.

A Nurse's Delight.
Every experienced nurse knows the value of a remedy which, without being an anodyne, will relieve soreness of the limbs or stiffness of the joints, and enable a patient to sleep quietly and naturally.

Just such a remedy are Alcock's Porous Plasters. Placed on the chest or on the back, if necessary cut into strips and placed over the muscles of the limbs, they work marvels in the way of soothing and quieting restlessness. Being perfectly simple and harmless in their composition, they can be used freely, and many a sufferer has thanked them for a night of quiet rest, grateful both to him and those who care for him.

A NARROW ESCAPE!
How it Happened.
The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which I attributed almost incessantly to indigestion and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sleep a room without sitting down and resting, but thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband brought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry B. Potteville, Ft. Collins, Colo., October 13, 1902.
Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a five guarantee by all druggists, or by the Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt price, 10¢ per bottle, six bottles $5. Express paid. This great discovery, which cures heart disease, contains no other medicine, contains no dangerous drugs.

AN ELOQUENT PLEA.

And the Lawyer Who Made It Reaped His Reward.

A good story about a lawyer is going the rounds. The occurrence took place so long ago that it is not within the recollection of any but the older disciples of Blackstone, so it will pass muster even though it is a chestnut.

It seems that a tramp was indicted for stealing a watch. He was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Having no counsel and being without funds and a total stranger, the court assigned his defense to the attorney in question. The tramp was as guilty as a man ever was, but as the attorney was young in practice and desirous of grinding off some of his wire edges against the district attorney he accepted the task and entered upon its discharge with all the zeal at his command. He had absolutely no defense. His client practically admitted the theft and sat through the trial in an attitude of dejection and despair.

Nothing daunted, the young attorney rose before the jury to sum up his case. Providence had endowed him with a tongue capable of almost anything. He had his address at his tongue's end, and the manner in which he recited it established his name in the community in characters as eloquent as the district attorney he accepted the task and entered upon its discharge with all the zeal at his command. He had absolutely no defense. His client practically admitted the theft and sat through the trial in an attitude of dejection and despair.

Arbor Day Proclamation.

Whereas, The legislature, by the enactment of Chapter XXXV, of the laws of 1891, set apart the second Friday in March of each year to be observed as Arbor Day.

Now, therefore, I, Juan J. The day as above designated shall be a holiday in all public schools of the county, and school officers and teachers are requested to have the schools under their respective charge observe the day by the planting of trees and other appropriate exercises.

JUAN J. ORTIZ,
County School Superintendent.

MOTHER'S HANDS.

Oh, loving hands so glad to greet
And warmly clasp my own,
Your welcome I no more shall meet
While time and I are known.

Oh, tender hands, whose magic touch
Could soothe the keenest pain,
Earth holds for me no solace such,
Nor ever will again.

Oh, helpful hands so prompt to cheer
And banish trouble far,
You made for us our heaven here,
But now 'tis where you are.

Oh, open hands so free to share;
Oh, weary hands at rest,
Now folded in eternal peace
Upon the peaceful breast.

A BIT OF NEWS.

For the fourth time the city editor of The Daily Chronicle stepped into the reporters' room and looked anxiously at the three men who sat at their desks. Copy was needed and upon this night of all others.

The sporting editor was at Jacksonville, and his "stunt" would come to the night editor. The religious editor was attending a sensational debate given for charity between a well known minister and a prominent and exceedingly clever society woman. The subject matter under discussion was "The Rights of Woman Relative to Free Speech."

The city editor usually depended for early copy, had gone out with the detectives for a raid on a gambling den in ward 9. The young gentleman who was supposed to edit a column of gossip didn't come in as yet. He was probably attending some social function—a favorite pastime of his.

He went thinking about the lack of copy, not a line of local had been sent in, while the machines were devouring reprint as fast as it could be clipped, and only two of the three reporters in the room were writing. The third was leaning forward on a desk, a cigar in one hand and a pencil in the other, and looking at the clock.

He was 35 years old, in the 35th year of his life, and in the 65th of his experience, and 65 in disappointment. He was good looking, bright and had just enough of egotism flavored into his study character to make him thoroughly self confident.

This was Robert Sumner as he sat on this special night, his mind preoccupied with the thought of the lack of copy, and the city editor was absolutely nervous for copy.

He walked to a window and stood looking at the night. The lamps winked their white electric light out into the wet air, and the vivid, pulsating rays seemed to struggle with the damp wind in a dripping rain, shaking and wavering like white flags. As he gazed at this without seeing, Sumner laughed, not because it was appropriate in any sense of the word, but merely because it didn't require any effort of mind or thought.

But it was a cynical laugh, and as he thought of the lack of copy, he mentally argued. After more of this depressing mental discussion pro and con he arrived invariably at the same spot, in the parlor where he had been rejected by Mildred Nelson. He remembered how he had stood directly in front of her as she sat in a big armchair, and how she had looked at him and he had wanted to smoke but so bad, and after he had finished she looked half frightened and said, "You're joking surely," and then, very pale, had given her refusal, a simple "No." The look on her face he could not forget, and now when he thought of the lack of copy, he mentally argued.

at a single glance. He was about to ask what her errand was, but instead pointed with his pencil toward the door of the reportorial room. He watched her as she started in and noticed an air of hesitancy about her. He first thought she would call Sumner, but as she was reading a decision in his mind she entered.

Eleven o'clock it was when Robert Sumner finished his last piece of copy and sent it in to the city editor. Then he had put on his coat, took his umbrella and hat and was about to leave. The rain poured down in such torrents that he decided to wait a few minutes and resumed his seat. Again he sat thinking, but this time his thoughts appeared to realize, and instead of reviewing past events he was castled building into the future.

He imagined that he caught the rustle of a dress near him, and it accorded with his castles. Some one seemed to call his name in a timid manner and soft. He closed his eyes in the hope that he might hear it again. Again he heard it, but it was so lifelike, so actual that he refused to open his eyes and instead he thought of the thought stretched in golden links into years to come. His name was repeated, not any louder, but accompanied by a touch. With a start he turned in his chair.

"Mildred," he cried, "what are you doing here?"
"Oh, Robert," she half sobbed, "haven't you read about me? Don't you know all about it? Won't you keep it out of the paper? It's all I ask of you. Please keep it out."

"What is it?" he demanded Sumner almost fiercely, hardly knowing what to suspect in his bewilderment and despairing of what the space he could give it and who he should put it. Sumner read his thoughts, for he concluded quickly, sharply, and said immediately:

"But you are not going to use it—it is not to be printed! It's only known among the directors of the bank."
The city editor stepped back in his chair and let the points of his fingers fall together. He could appreciate the position of Sumner perhaps, but much more thoroughly did he appreciate the news value of the story.

"Not going?" he said in a surprised tone. "Why, that's the best story we've got to date. We'll use it. I want it in a column. You're my best man handy. Go work it. It means $10 on space."
Sumner flushed vividly. The woman stepped forward, and the city editor saw her presence for the first time. His dark face duplicated the blush that had suffused Sumner's countenance. He began to see.

"It is not to be used," said Sumner doggedly.
With the city editor the young space writer had always been a favorite, so he was willing to do all he could for him. He sat thinking. Miss Nelson crept timidly up to Sumner's side and her hand looked first at one man and then at the other almost imploringly.

"Why don't you want it to go in, Sumner?" asked the city editor finally. "Can't you give me some reason?"
"No," said Sumner, "but it's not going in."

"Is it," asked the city editor, ignoring Sumner's mandatory tone, "on any personal ground? If it is, why?" and the city editor made a gesture of unconditional surrender. Sumner looked sideways at Miss Nelson. She laid a hand on his arm and he looked at her with a happy light came into the young man's eyes.

"Well, sir," began Sumner stammering, "you see, sir—that is, you understand—he, the gentleman under discussion and consideration, is to be my father-in-law!"
"Oh, Robert," exclaimed Mildred Nelson, but she did not remove her hand. The city editor stood up and congratulated both. Confused and embarrassed, Sumner led the young lady to the elevator, and while that affair was slowly hoisting itself explained himself.

"I had to, you see," said he, "and of course, she became more confused still—'why, of course.'"
"This was the reason," she said, stopping him with a kiss, modest and shy. The office boy, who had come out to file a telegram, reversed his decision, jabbed both hands into his pockets and veered about. The message could go later.—Julian Harris in Atlanta Constitution.

How Jovett Won a Strike.
Jovett's brevity of speech and dispatch of business never shone more than on the great occasion of his dealing with the refractory washerwomen of Balliol. These worthy dames struck for higher wages in one department. Twelve years for a shilling was, I believe, the statutory price. They came to interview the master.

"The washerwomen have come to see you," said the butler.
"Show the ladies up," said the master. They clumped into the room, to find him sitting at a poker at the chess in the grate. He turned round. "Will you wash 12 collars for a shilling?" They began to expostulate. He touched the bell. In came the butler. "Show the ladies down."

Presently the butler appeared again. "They seem very sorry, sir—would like to see you again."
"Show them up," said the master. The washerwomen found the master intent as before on the fire grate. "Will you wash 12 collars for a shilling?" piped his cheery little voice. A stalwart speaker began to make explanations. He touched the bell. "Show these ladies down," said he, and down they clumped. Again the butler came, with a hope that he would see them. "Certainly. Show them up," they entered the room. "Will you wash 12 collars for a shilling?" "We will," they cried. "Thank you. Good day, good day," said the master, and touching the bell he said, "Knight, show these ladies down." And the strike was over.—Cornhill Magazine.

Character as a Whole.
Narrow criticism will give place to generous appreciation when we learn to lift our thoughts from the single faults which we are so swift to condemn to the whole character of which we know so little. Many a reproach might be changed to approval, many a feeling of scorn might be changed to respect, many a foe might be changed into a friend, did this practice of rising from a part to the whole become a habit of the mind. To cultivate this power is one of the most efficient and valuable branches of self culture.—New York Ledger.

The speaker who has too many heads to his discourse will find it difficult to secure attentive ears to all of them.

Santa Fe, the city of the Holy Faith of St. Francis, is situated on the site of an ancient Indian Pueblo called O-ga-p-ho-ge. It is probably the oldest civilized community in the United States and the most ancient of American capitals. The Spanish town was founded in 1605. Authorities disagree as to whether this city or San Augustin, Fla., were first founded. Santa Fe was first visited by American traders in 1804, and from that time dated a wonderful era of prosperity. The thrilling incidents of the old Santa Fe trail, starting from Westport, Mo., gave it a world wide fame.

CAMPAIGN FACTS.

"Some very clever nominees with very bad influence back of them," is the way a representative citizen speaks of the Republican city ticket.

The gang that has so long "fought, bled and died" for the Borrego family seems still to hold sway in the local Republican party. Otherwise how is one to account for the nomination of a Borrego to be a candidate for the public school board from the 1st ward?

There are some conscientious Republicans in Santa Fe, good men and citizens, who are faithful to every trust. These men are grossly misrepresented by the work of the self-constituted party leaders who persist in entering to all that is low and disreputable in politics when it comes to manipulating Republican conventions to nominate candidates for office.

Citizens who are interested in a speedy prosecution to final victory of the Santa Fe grant will to-morrow go to the polls and vote the Democratic ticket. Republicans have been tried in this matter and have been found wanting.

One Sixto Garcia is the Republican nominee for councilman from the 1st ward. He at present serves as a public school teacher in that ward. It is told of him that whenever he wants a holiday he tells his pupils not to come to school when he rings the bell. Then he pulls the bell rope lastly, not a child shows up, and Sixto marches off to enjoy himself. By the grace of a Republican school board his salary goes on just the same.

Every good citizen ought to vote to-morrow to wipe petty political trickery out of the public school board. A policy that prompts the payment of $10 a month to Caetano Alarid, a Republican member of the board, for services as janitor in the 2d ward, while teachers are paid $50 a month for their services and then compelled to discount their salaries—such a policy, it seems to the New Mexican, ought to be condemned most emphatically.

It is not complimentary to Santa Fe's public educational interests that a teacher in the 2d ward public schools, a mere boy, employed through political favoritism only, should be caught writing silly love letters to the young girls in the high school. Only such things are possible under a Republican regime.

The Democrats will not keep a gang of drunken and disreputable policemen guarding the plaza.

The Republican bondsmen of the defaulting Republican city treasurer months ago solemnly promised to see that the $4,000 stolen from the school funds were restored to the treasury. But they have done nothing more than promise and consequently the city schools are languishing for lack of funds. Place the Democrats in power and these bondsmen, who pose as capitalists and leaders of affairs, will either be forced to pay their obligation to the community or be exposed as men of straw.

The statement in the Republican city platform that the late defaulting Republican city treasurer participated as a delegate in the Democratic city convention is false. It is too short to mail all the other lies in that precious document.

The faces of Democrats are brightened with smiles. They scent success in the very air.

The confirmation of the Santa Fe de Villa grant, with the exception of the recalled interior grants which have been plastered over most of the valuable property in the city, would prove a serious disaster to Santa Fe. Yet that is precisely what is contemplated in the petition presented to the court of private land claims by the Republican city attorney, and the suspicion is rife that in so doing he acted in collusion with influential party associates whose word is law in Republican circles. The question of the confirmation of the Santa Fe grant will come up at the ensuing term of the land court. It is a matter of vital importance that it be placed in charge of an honest and capable city attorney, who will see that the interests of the people are protected. This will be accomplished by the election of the Democratic city ticket.

Adolfo P. Hill, Democratic candidate for city clerk, is a native of Santa Fe and one of the cleverest young men in the community. His qualifications for the place are first rate and the young men of the city should rally to his support in such a way as to render his election certain.

In the person of W. L. Jones the Democrats certainly made a wise choice for city treasurer. Mr. Jones has long been a resident of Santa Fe, and, whether as manager of the Western Union telegraph office, accountant in the surveyor general's office or book-keeper in the bank, he has proved prompt and faithful in the discharge of every trust confided to him. The funds of the city will be perfectly safe in his custody.

The Democratic candidates for aldermen in the 1st ward, Messrs. Pedro Delgado and John P. Victory, are well known as men of probity, experience and ability. They will prove a power for good in the next city council, for of course the banner Democratic ward of the city will see that they are handsomely elected.

The Democrats of the 2d ward could not have selected a stronger man for alderman than Charles F. Ensey. No legitimate effort should be spared to make his election certain.

Honest Mike McCabe, whose devotion to duty and democracy is well known, should by all means be elected to the council from the 3d ward.

Dr. Enos Andrews is an old timer, a good citizen and an intelligent gentleman. The Democrats of the 4th ward should strip off their coats and elect him to the council.

The Democratic candidates for members of the board of education are all worthy men. The finger of suspicion can not be pointed at one of them.

Dr. J. H. Sloan, whom the Democrats fortunately persuaded to accept the chief place on their city ticket, needs no introduction to the people of Santa Fe. He is familiarly known to nearly every man, woman and child in the community. His services as a physician and surgeon have for years been at the instant command of all in need, night or day, rain or shine, money or no money. He is a man of progressive ideas, fine executive ability and undoubted honesty.

It appears that some time ago City Engineer Hobart ascertained the extent of the alleged grants inside of the Santa Fe grant and the names of the claimants. This information he promptly communicated to City Attorney Spies, and the latter official was instructed to take out process in the land court, showing the priority of the Santa Fe grant, and serve the same on the interior grant claimants. This the city attorney has neglected to do. Consequently the grant question can not come up on its merits at the approaching term of the court. Fine guardians of the public interests are these Republican officials.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

Old Joe's meat market got in a car load of high grade Kansas beef to-day. The April fool killer didn't have a very great job on his hands yesterday.

Meeting of the 1st ward Democratic club at Padilla's hall, at 7:30 to-night.

A postoffice has been established at Alerton with Richard Green as postmaster. The first day of April, like a freshly minted golden eagle, was a shining success.

There must be good order in Santa Fe to-morrow. Let every good citizen appoint himself a committee of one and see to this.

Work on the plaza improvement ought to be pushed more rapidly. It ought not to be kept in a stable-yard state any longer than possible.

The marriage of Miss Elena C. Delgado, sister of Frank Delgado, and Mr. Hilario Baen y Romero, of Las Vegas, takes place at the Cathedral at 8:30 a. m. on Wednesday.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church, having inadvertently appointed their "rainbow social" for Tuesday next, (which will be election day), have postponed it until further notice.

The reliable house of H. B. Cartwright to-day experiences a change in name. Mr. Sam Cartwright, the younger brother, stepping in as a member thereof. Good luck attend the firm of Cartwright & Bro.

Yesterday's delightful weather brought a large and gaily attired crowd out on the plaza. The concert program was extraordinarily fine. Very many strange faces were to be seen, showing that Santa Fe is growing. Every place where seats were occupied during the concert hour; indeed, where weren't seats enough to accommodate the public.

Citizens must move at once in the matter of improving the stage facilities between Santa Fe and Cochiti. It is suggested that a meeting of the Board of Trade be called for 4 p. m. on Wednesday to take action on this subject. A guaranteed bonus of 10 per cent over and above expenses for the first thirty days ought to be sufficient to insure first-class service. This is important because the D. & R. G. people will not put on through tickets and advertise the camp until the stage matter is settled.

The marvelous success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is based upon the corner stone of absolute merit. Take Hood's throughout the spring months.

OFFICIAL GOSSIP.

THE U. S. LAND COURT.
U. S. Attorney Matt G. Reynolds connected with the court of private land claims, accompanied by his able assistant Mr. W. M. Tipton, returned from Tucson yesterday. The important victories which the government won before the recent term of this court at Tucson are bringing many compliments to Mr. Reynolds. In these cases the court established an important precedent by rejecting all grants alleged to have been made by the state authorities of ancient Sonora. Among these were the Colin Cameron grants, which had great influence, both at the east and in Arizona, back of them, but they suffered the common fate and were rejected. This leaves but three grants in Arizona, outside of the Peruvian Reavis claim, that stand even a possibility of confirmation by the land court.

THE MORA AFFAIR.
Mr. Chas. C. Shirk, of Las Vegas, ex-part accountant designated by the governor to review the books of ex-Sheriff Agapito Abeytia, of Mora county, is in the capital to-day. His official report will be laid before the governor in a day or two. Mr. Shirk says Abeytia's shortage is $6,444, and this includes all the over-allowances that the late sheriff can possibly claim.

Mr. Abeytia has been released from the Mora county jail on $20,000 bail bond, it having been approved by Chief Justice Thos. Smith. The sureties are all of Union county and their names are: Agustín Vigil, Jose M. Gonzales, Luis A. C. de Baen, Guadalupe C. de Baen, J. M.
