INTERESTING MATTERS.

Were Discussed by the Trans-Mississippi Congress this Morning—A Bounty on Exports Considered.

St. Louis, Nov. 28.—At the morning session of the trans-Mississippi congress, the California delegation, under a special order allotting two hours to a discussion of staple agriculture, opened the debate upon the proposition to favor a bounty upon those exported agricultural products which can not be aided by the protective tariff as long as the manufacturers receive such protection. The proposition was in the form of a minority report from the committee on resolutions, the majority having voted to refuse to place such a recommendation in a report to be made by it. Delegate Roche, of California, in a brief address, urged that farmers, not from a protection or a free trade standpoint, were entitled to government aid as a matter of justice as long as the manufacturers were aided. By virtue of agricultural products being of an export, not of an import character, the only method of aid is by a bounty on exports. Delegate Lubin, of the same state, followed with an argument upon the same lines.

Delegate Frank B. Cannon, of Utah, for a majority of the resolutions committee, opened the opposition, declaring it to be his belief that such a proposition could only aggravate the ills of the farmer and only increase the responsibility of the government and that

IT WAS IMPRACTICABLE, as no such bounty could be made equally just to all farmers. He opposed it also because it was class legislation. Delegate Wilson, of South Dakota, opposed the proposition from a similar standpoint.

W. J. Bryan, of Nebraska, argued that the subject was not one of general discussion in the trans-Mississippi section or in any considerable degree anywhere and that therefore it was not sufficiently digested by the people to warrant action by the congress upon it. Help to the farmer lay not in extending a vicious system, but in keeping it down. The matter was referred to the next session of this congress. The congress then took its noon recess.

HOT ON HIS TRAIL.
Li Hung Chang seems to have stirred up a regular host of yellow jackets—More serious charges made.

London, Nov. 28.—According to dispatches from Singing a sensation was caused by a memorial to the throne signed by over 120 high officials, impeaching Li Hung Chang and charging him with corruption, peculation and deception. The memorial also says that Li Hung Chang rejoiced at the Japanese victories and prevented the Chinese from achieving success. He is said to have represented that China was prepared for war, when he knew that the contrary was the case. Li Hung Chang is also said to be implicated with Prince Kung, the emperor's uncle, president of the admiralty and recently appointed dictator, and also with the commander of the Chinese forces at Port Arthur, who are accused of high treason and of selling state secrets and war material to the enemy. They are further charged with investing money in Japan, harboring treasonable designs against the Chinese empire, and conspiring to procure the overthrow of China. The memorial demands the instant punishment and dismissal of all concerned in the conspiracy.

Not so Many Immigrants.
Washington, Nov. 28.—The annual report of Superintendent Stump, of the immigration bureau, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, shows a very material falling off in the number of immigrants arriving in this country. He estimates that since August, 1893, the exodus of foreign sailing passengers from the United States has been greater than the arrivals, and concludes that there are now fewer foreigners in the United States who came as steerage passengers than there were at the end of the fiscal year 1893. From the tables accompanying the report it appears that during the last fiscal year 288,020 immigrants arrived in this country. Of these 288,631 were landed and 2,889 were debarked and deported.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Where Religious Services Will Be Held—What Santa Feans Have to Be Thankful For.

Thanksgiving day will be appropriately observed to-morrow by the citizens of this city. Santa Fe merchants, to a great extent, will close their doors the most of the day, so as to give their employees an opportunity to celebrate. The New Mexican, for the same reason, will issue no paper to-morrow afternoon. A number of dinner parties will be given and the amount of good things which your average Santa Fe housekeeper is purchasing to-day is calculated to fill the juvenile as well as the adult portion of the household with pleasant anticipations. Religious services will be held at the various churches as evidenced by the following announcements:

Church of the Holy Faith: To-morrow, Thanksgiving day, morning prayer will be read and holy communion will be celebrated at 10 a. m. by Rev. F. T. Bennett, rector.

Thanksgiving day will be observed at the cathedral with mass at 9:30 o'clock followed by a sermon in English. At the Presbyterian church, at 10:30 a. m., the Methodist and Presbyterian congregations will unite in Thanksgiving services. The Rev. Mr. Madden will preach. The public is cordially invited to join with these churches, at the time and place mentioned, in Thanksgiving and praise to Him whose "mercy endureth forever."

Gundulphus church—Thanksgiving day will be celebrated at this church as follows: Solemn high mass at 8 o'clock a. m., at which will be preached a sermon in English on the object of the feast. After mass a collection will be taken up for the poor of the parish. All are invited.

WHY WE ARE THANKFUL.
"What are you going to give thanks for to-morrow?" was a question that was asked a number of prominent people in this city this morning by the New Mexican.

The question staggered a good many at first and some were inclined to suggest that there wasn't much to be thankful for. This latter suggestion was, however, evidently the result of thoughtlessness, for the next moment the answer would recall his reply, as he reflected upon the many things for which he has reason to be grateful as the result of another year's experience.

One of those, a prominent territorial official, with whom the New Mexican talked got to itemizing a few of the past and prospective blessings of the territory and the list

STRETCHED OUT AMAZINGLY.
There have been abundant rains, resulting in splendid grazing and, as a rule, abundant fruit crops. The sheep and cattle interests, as a consequence of the fine grazing, were never in a better condition. Statehood prospects look encouraging out at Washington; Santa Fe county seems in a fair way toward financial health; the territorial mining interests open up brighter and brighter, and on the whole the people of New Mexico have reason to feel that Thanksgiving dinner, a little less elaborate though it be than heretofore, with a good deal of zest this year and with the confident feeling that a year hence a still more bountiful feast can be spread, in which there will be enough for the whole family for generations each way. Among those who are especially thankful are the following:

Gen. Easley: "I am very thankful this year that I am still alive and well enough to enjoy life. No, there isn't any political thanksgiving among Democrats this year."

Mr. W. H. Gelliford: "I am thankful that the queen is still hale and hearty and that she continues to reign over the greatest nation under the sun or any other luminary."

County Treasurer Cartwright: "I am going to give thanks because the county is, under the law, of the railroad aid bond issue. It's the best news Santa Fe has had in years."

FREE FROM THE BURDEN

Mr. R. E. Twitell: "Thankful, why, you bet you're I am. There's going to be a stag banquet in town to-morrow night and I am going to speak."

Land Office Receiver Pedro Delgado: "I am specially grateful this Thanksgiving that my health is better than it has been for a long time past."

Delegate-Elect E. B. Catron: "I am thankful on general principles. To be more explicit, I am thankful because I got the biggest majority in the history of New Mexico Republicanism and because the attainment of statehood so probable in the near future, will make my real estate treble in value."

Secretary Miller: "Who wouldn't be thankful with plenty of game in the country and such a gun as I have."

Gen. Bartlett: "I am primarily thankful over the RESULT OF THE ELECTION.

Almost as grateful am I that the Arizona supreme court case wipes out so much of this county's debt without any repudiation on our part."

Sheriff Cunningham: "I am thankful that with the aid of my efficient deputies I am getting better and better able to ferret out crime in this county. I expect to have still greater cause for thanksgiving in this line a year hence."

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Santa Fe Southern Agent W. L. Perchling: "I am thankful that Thanksgiving day will witness the completion of the new bridge."

Mayor Sloan: "I shall give thanks that the city of Santa Fe is going right ahead in its determination to be the metropolis as well as the capital city of New Mexico."

Hon. John P. Victory: "I am grateful that the people of this country have elected me to represent them in the territorial council. I couldn't be happier. I had gotten a majority of 200 instead of thirteen. I shall spend Thanksgiving at home."

Mr. E. A. Fiske: "I am going to give thanks because I have a clear conscience and a fine appetite for that Thanksgiving dinner Mrs. Fiske has arranged. Speaking of being thankful, doesn't that Arizona case fit like a glove, though?"

Col. T. B. Mills, who is in town to-day: "I am thankful because the 'Pops' carried San Juan county. I shall be still more thankful two years hence when they sweep the country."

Mr. W. H. Goebel: "I am going to give thanks because the people all read my ads in the New Mexican and then come around promptly to see me. I am also thankful that I have not had my plate glass front broken out again. Say, I bet you can't open this knife. It's a little trick I am working on my visitors."

The reporter tried to do so, but after ruining a half dozen finger nails gave up in despair. Meanwhile it had become too late to interview others on the causes of thanksgiving, so that the New Mexican's readers will have to draw their own conclusions as to the reasons of the remainder of our citizens.

THE FOLSOM CASE.
The Bank Wrecker in Custody of U. S. Marshal Hall Pending Approval of a New Bond.

S. M. Folsom, the Albuquerque bank wrecker, is no longer in the custody of Superintendent Bergmann at the penitentiary. This morning that official received from Judge Collier an order directing him to turn Folsom over to United States Marshal Hall. This was done immediately and Folsom is accordingly confined in the United States prison at the penitentiary awaiting the decision of Marshal Hall upon the bond submitted by his attorneys for his release pending the hearing of his case by the United States circuit court of appeals. The amount of the bond was fixed by Judge Collier at $15,000, to be approved by the marshal. The bond was received this morning by mail from Albuquerque, but it has not yet been approved, there being some doubt in the mind of the marshal as to its sufficiency. As soon as it bears the signature of Mr. Hall, Folsom will doff his prisoner's garb and once more breathe the atmosphere of the outer world. As his case will probably be passed upon early in January, he will not be kept long in suspense as to his fate for the next five years.

THE COLD WAVES.
Closed Over a Number of Brave Seamen at the Mouth of Boston Harbor this Morning—A Fatal Collision.

Boston, Nov. 28.—The fishing schooner, Gracie H. Benson, was sunk in a collision with the steamer Reading of Philadelphia, at the entrance of Boston harbor early to-day. Six of Benson's crew were drowned. The Reading lowered boats and picked up seven of the schooner's crew, including Capt. John Harvender, Capt. Reed of the Reading says that the collision was unavoidable. The names of those drowned are: Edwin Harvender, aged 19; Free Merritt, aged 34; John Rink, aged 40; Fred Bonner, aged 20; N. S. St. Peter, and a Portuguese whose name is unknown. All the men resided in Providence town.

Hands Off of Mail Trains.
Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27.—The famous omnibus injunction suit against E. V. Debs, the president of the A. R. U., and 400 others issued by Judge Ross early in the strike, forbidding the defendants to in any way interfere with the moving of mail trains, was brought up in the United States circuit court yesterday on a plea of proconfesso to complaint. Judge Ross issued a decree on the plea making the injunction perpetual.

A NEW DEAL.
The Water Company in Full Control of the Electric and Gas Companies.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the old electric light plant, C. W. Dudson, H. B. Cartwright, E. A. Fiske, J. M. Howells and S. H. Day, were unanimously elected a new board of directors. The water, gas and electric light interests of the city will now all come under the same management, the Santa Fe Water & Improvement company having sometime since secured control of the gas works.

The splendid work of the water company during the past two years is bearing good fruit in the confidence inspired among our business people to combine and harmonize their conflicting interests in the old light and gas companies, to utilize the water power developed in the pipe system for the benefit of better and cheaper light for the city of Santa Fe. The officers of the new electric light and power company and the gas company will be named December 1. The water company's electric plant will be ready for business about January 1.

Manfully Treated.
It is reported that several evenings ago, the night before the feast at Los Lunas, eight men masked and heavily armed, called at the wine room of Jose Chavez Romero and took him to the bridge, across the Rio Grande, opposite Los Lunas, where they strung him up several times, and after letting him down half dead, they outrageously whipped him. He was then ordered to leave Los Lunas, and he took their advice, moving the next day with his family to Belen. This information is obtained from Ed. F. Otero, who is in the city to-day. He gives the report for what it is worth, saying that it came to him from second hands—Albuquerque Citizen.

Obstinate Case of Catarrh
Local Applications Failed—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

"O. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:
"Gentlemen—I ought to make known my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla, so that others afflicted may learn where to find a remedy for that serious and obstinate disease, catarrh. It troubled me seriously. I had a dull aching sensation in the top of my head, and the usual discharge from the nose. I became so bad that mornings I could do nothing but hawk and spit. My lungs were also being rapidly affected, and I had not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla. I would have died."

A Consumptive's Grave
Now ago. I have known about ten bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which have effectually cured me. Before resorting to this medicine, I used all the catarrh remedies, inhalants and local application, but all failed. None seemed to reach the seat of the disease. In fact I grew worse while using them. I owe my cure to the blood purifying powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MINNIE M. KEYSER, Pataskala, Ohio.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every Post Office in the Territory and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the southwest.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28.

Santa Fe and Grant are the only counties in New Mexico that have ever issued bonds in aid of railway construction.

Official news will be a feature of the New Mexican this winter. The legislature will assemble in one month and lively times will follow. Subscribe now for the New Mexican.

The gentlemen of New Mexico will get together at Albuquerque, December 17. It is time. Let the beef raisers be there in force and talk it all over. New Mexico will be the beneficiary.

The Albuquerque Citizen seems to be very much excited over the probabilities of a contest over the Bernalillo election. No wonder; the amount of Republican fraud and rascality that would thus be unearthed would put a quiver on even the Citizen's tireless tongue.

Mr. Levi P. Morton and Mr. Thomas C. Platt, strange bed-fellows in politics, are now at "outs," Mr. Morton having presumably kicked the "boss" out of bed. The New York governor-elect, it seems, doesn't want his delicate nostrils irritated by the smell of the machine, now that the election is over.

CITIZENS of Santa Fe certainly have every incentive to encourage them to united and energetic action for the advancement of the material interests of this city and county. The year 1899 promises to be one of marked progress for the capital city and its resourceful environments.

GREAT minds continue to differ as to the needs of a military post at Santa Fe. Major General A. McD. McCook, of the regular army, insists that the abandonment of Fort Marcy was an unwise move on behalf of the government and one that has crippled the military service in the department of the Colorado. Sergeant Jack McCutcheon, of the Socorro Advertiser, thinks Gen. McCook doesn't know beans when it comes to the disposition of troops in New Mexico. The sergeant is a gallant man when it comes to opening his guns on Santa Fe. He does it upon the least provocation—and very frequently when there is no provocation.

MUST BE ALERT.

CITIZENS of Santa Fe county are admonished not to rest on their oars and sit supinely by now that they have at last an opportunity to fairly test the validity of the half million bonded debt of the county issued under the guise of aid to railroad construction. There has always been more or less scandal associated with the issuance of these bonds. That the taxpayers have been repeatedly hoodwinked, badgered and deceived by a pack of unscrupulous tricksters and political slysters is well known, and the matter has now gone so far as to involve the property of the county in a very serious tangle that may result, if allowed to drift as at present, in one of two things, repudiation or confiscation.

From this time forward, now that the supreme court of the nation has gone on record as declaring such bonds issued by counties in the territories as unauthorized by the acts of congress delegating powers to the territorial legislatures, let there be aggressive action in behalf of the masses rather than a truckling to the classes. Give the poor taxpayer a chance. A test case should be pushed to a conclusion at once. County Treasurer Cartwright has said he will decline to pay interest on these bonds until compelled to do so by the courts, but a careful eye must be kept on the legislature and on congress, either one of which, under the mollifying influence of a shrewd bond manipulator, may be induced to work through some sort of an act that will serve to embarrass the situation. Let the people and the county authorities be alert and alive to the importance of taking every lawful advantage of the situation as it now exists.

PRESS COMMENTS.

Should be Slipped in the Bad.

Some of the members-elect to the next legislature are in favor of the repeal of the law for reducing the fees of county officers and a bill for this purpose will undoubtedly be introduced in the legislature and its passage attempted. The counties of this territory are in a bad enough way now financially and all attempts to increase the running expenses of the counties should be frowned down. —Silver City Eagle.

What It Means.

It is with regret that the Advertiser is forced to differ from the Roswell Record on its statement that New Mexico is no worse off for having gone Republican than some other states. It is an entirely different kind of Republicanism in New Mexico, and Judge Seeds calls the Republican party a Catron club. It means a return to the old days of county warrant speculation, land grabbing and special law making. —Socorro Advertiser.

On Statehood.

Will Mr. Joseph insist on the passage of the statehood bill in December? —Albuquerque Citizen.

Why, of course, he will. Whether he can secure its passage in view of the animosity displayed this fall by the Republican friends (?) of statehood and their organs is another and more serious question. —Santa Fe New Mexican.

If the Democratic senate passes the bill it will go a long way toward reversing the present apparent political complexion of the new state. —Springer Stockman.

Republican Election Frauds.

Since the memorable "big vote" of precinct 26, in 1882, there has been nothing in Bernalillo county or elsewhere in New Mexico to equal the achievements of the Perea party in this county at the late election. It is well known to everybody that there has been no increase of population in the county during the last two years, and it is equally well known that the hundreds of railroad men who have lost their situations by reason of the hard times and have removed from the territory, have caused a decided shrinkage of the honest vote of the county. A fair election would show a falling off in the total vote of the county of at least 500 as compared with the result two years ago; when everything was booming, and the absorbing interest in the campaign served to bring out the maximum voting strength of both parties; yet in spite of the facts the returns shows an alleged vote on the 6th of this month of more than a thousand over the high water mark of two years ago. The great county of San Miguel, by far the largest county in the territory, and with an honest voting strength of at least 20 per cent more than ours, only cast three votes more than Bernalillo county pretends to have cast at the late election. To anyone at all familiar with affairs in New Mexico this fact bears upon its face the indubitable evidence of wholesale frauds in this county, and discloses a condition of affairs here that demands investigation, and should receive the closest scrutiny of the courts. —Albuquerque Democrat.

After 25 Years
About twenty-five years ago I was afflicted with a disease which the doctors pronounced SCROFULA. I was treated by several physicians and specialists without being benefited, and I tried many blood remedies, without relief. I was recommended, and after taking six bottles I am now well. My skin is perfectly clear, and I would not be in my former condition for two thousand dollars.

Grand Canon of Colorado River On the Santa Fe route, in northern Arizona, 1,262 miles from Kansas City, is the town of Flagstaff. A tri-weekly stage line runs from Flagstaff to the Grand Canon of the Colorado river. More than a mile in depth, this is the sublimest of gorges—a Titan of chasms. Twenty Yosemite might be hidden unseen below, and Niagara would look scarcely larger than a brook.

Don't fail to visit this first wonder of the world. You can "read up" about it by asking G. T. Nicholson, G. P. & T. A. A. T. & S. F. R. R. SUNBEAMS.

—Maude—What is the trouble between Alice and Kate? Ethel—Why, you see, Alice asked Kate to let her just what she thought of her. Maude—Yes. Ethel—Kate told her.

—Suppose, Bobbie, that another boy should strike your right cheek, asked the Sunday school teacher, what would you do? "Give him the other cheek to strike," said Bobbie. "That's right," said the teacher. "Yesum," said Bobbie, "and if he struck that I'd paralyze him."

Serofala is one of the most fatal among the scourges which afflict mankind. Chronic sores, cancerous humors, emaciation and consumption are the result of serofala. Ayer's Sarsaparilla eradicates this poison and restores to the blood the elements of life and health.

He Was Disillusioned.

A couple from Accomac county, Virginia, had seats in the Senate gallery at Washington, and were enjoying their novel surroundings. Presently the man nudged the woman.

"Gently, gently," he exclaimed, "look at them!"

"What are they?" she asked.

"Why aren't they much bigger'n any other doorn?"

"Course they ain't; why should they be?" He was silent for a minute.

"Well, well," he said at last, in a tone of disappointment, "who'd think I'd ever heard so much about what big men United States Senators was that I'd a swore that a whole panel had to be tuck outen the wall for 'em to git in at," and until they left the sacred precincts there was naught in his face but the shadow of a fallen idol.—Detroit Free Press.

A cup of muddy coffee is not wholesome, neither is a bottle of muddy medicine. One way to know a reliable and skillfully-prepared blood-purifier is by its freedom from sediment. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is always bright and sparkling, because it is an extract and not a decoction.

Brobscon: I don't see how Brich can paint portraits as he advertises—"while you wait."

A NARROW ESCAPE!

How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For some time I had a terrible pain in my heart, which fluted almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and hold gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sleep a room without sitting down and resting. But, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors with no benefit. I ever received from physicians. Mrs. Harry Starr, Fortville, Pa., October 12, 1904.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, six bottles $1.50, express prepaid. This great discovery by an eminent specialist in heart disease, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

Sold by all druggists.

WHAT KATIE CAUGHT

"Oh, dear, I am so tired, so very tired, telling all day, and keep half the night, for barely enough to keep soul and body together. I must endeavor to find something that pays better than this ceaseless stitching. But here comes mother. I must chase away this weary look."

Mr. Ashley had been a government clerk and lived up to every cent of his income, just managing to keep up a genteel appearance and send Katie to an excellent school.

But Mr. Ashley died suddenly, and the little family was left entirely destitute. Mrs. Ashley was an invalid. She could help in no way to support her little family.

So Katie, when only 16, was forced to leave her studies and put her shoulder to the wheel. A sewing machine was purchased, and bravely she went to work.

"Katie, love, this will never do. You must not work so constantly. Get your hat and go take a walk, and my child!" She hesitated. "Well, I've been thinking that possibly, if you would try yourself and not depend on friends, you might get a position. I should think General Loomis, if he knew you, would give you work. Go and ask him, Katie."

"What about the general, mother? I know him by sight and to speak to a little, and he is a fine old gentleman, I think," said Walter Ashley, a boy of 10 years, who had entered the room and caught the last part of his mother's remark.

"How, or rather where, did you meet him, Walter?" asked Katie.

"Why, I see him most every afternoon up where we go fishing. Well, it would do you good to see him when he has fine luck. I believe he would soon draw up black bass than greenbacks," Walter answered.

"Oh, Walter, sometimes when he is in such a good humor, could you not tell him you are an invalid and wish him to give me something to do?" Katie asked in a tone and manner half serious, half in fun.

"Now, as if he would mind what a boy said! No, Katie, you come and go with me. Ladies often come up to the fishing ground. Then, when he looks pleasant enough, you ask him yourself. I am going now."

They were soon after on their way to the fishing grounds. When in sight of the place, Walter said: "The general is not there, but he will come by and by, I guess. I'm glad we are first. I'll get a good position."

Soon his line was dropped, and a few minutes after Katie saw him draw it up with a triumphant exclamation.

"What a beauty! Oh, there comes the general. Ain't I glad he didn't get here before. He would have caught this. Now, watch him, Katie. I'm going to have a break time, I think."

Katie raised her eyes to the approaching form timidly for an instant, but an instant only, for surely there she found nothing to encourage a longer gaze.

"What luck?" "No luck for me, mamma. I could not dare to speak to him. He looked awfully cross."

"Well, that's so. He did. I never saw him so before. But the fish did not bite for him, I guess that was the reason," said Walter.

Day after day, when Walter returned from school, she would put aside her work and accompany him, returning to the anxious mother ever with the despondent look on her pale face.

Three days passed thus. To Walter it was beyond comprehension. He declared that always before the general looked pleasant. Sometimes he was really jovial, and on two or three occasions had spoken with much kindness to him.

"I declare, Katie, it is the strangest thing I ever saw. From time to time he comes in sight he looks cross and grows more so until he or we leave," Walter said.

"Then I will not go any more. I believe I must have something to do with his changed humor."

"Oh, nonsense, Katie! I never meant to imply anything of that kind. Of course, as I told you before, neither you nor I have anything to do with it. Come on."

Again they arrived in time to secure the place for Walter's sport. And Katie began her watchful, watchful gaze.

It was not long before the familiar form came in sight, nearer and nearer, until the poor girl could plainly see the same old look, and it really seemed to her he uttered an angry, impatient exclamation.

General Loomis stopped not at his accustomed place, but came right up to where they sat. Planting his rod into the soil in the vicinity of Katie, he looked at her a few seconds and then said in a very amiable tone:

"Did I think you would have staid home such an afternoon. Can't you find anything more profitable to be about?"

Poor Katie, trembling with fright, stammered:

"No, sir."

"You are so kind, so very kind!" Katie, who found her voice, exclaimed. "How can I thank you?"

"Don't you know, ever since you have been coming here you've occupied my place, and being a young lady I couldn't very well ask you to remove, and so I'll give you an office to get rid of you."

Katie was so overjoyed and reassured by the pleasant tone and manner of the general that she told him about the object of her coming, and the general exclaimed:

"And so you came fishing for an office! But you used the worst kind of bait, my little girl."

"At any rate, you looked as if you would bite every time," Katie answered, her eyes dancing merrily.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the general. "I really have told you. Well, I am truly glad to help the daughter of Mr. Ashley and delighted to get her off my fishing ground."—Boston Globe.

GEMS IN VERSE.

A Bare Drug.

Are you sick at the heart and discouraged, my man? Do you try to do more than you honestly can? Have you overexerted your body and brain, by plodding and striving with night and with main?

Take thou a phial Of Self Denial!

Has dyspepsia claimed you for one of its own? Does neuralgia threaten you with a doleful throne? Is there on your whole system a terrible drain? Have you never a moment of freedom from pain?

Turn your mind's dial Toward Self Denial!

Are you nervous and restless and never at ease? Is your head all afire while your ankle joints freeze? Does your spinal apparatus seem breaking in twain? Do you feel just as though you were going insane?

Give it a trial, This Self Denial!—Addison Fletcher Andrews.

Just Common Folks.

A hundred humble songsters tell The notes that to their hearts belong. Where just one nightingale might fill The place with its transcendent song. And thus Fame comes, and with its smile A soul with lasting greatness cloaks And leaves a thousand wonder the while To be for aye just common folks.

If only sweetest bells were rung, How we should miss the minor chimes! If only grandest poets sung, There'd be no humble little rhymes. The modest, clinging vines add grace Unto the forest's giant oaks, And 'mid earth's mighty is a place To people with just common folks.

Not they the warriors who shall win Upon the battlefields of fame, Nor sound above the awful din; Not theirs the painter's deathless fame, Nor theirs the poet's muse that brings The rhythmic gift of heaven to men; Theirs but to do the simple things That duty gives just common folks.

They are the multitudes of earth And mingle ever in the crowd, Elbowing those of equal birth, Where none because of caste is proud. Bound by the meshes of a fate That sometimes a decree revokes: Above the lowly, 'neath the great, Are millions of just common folks.

Fate has not lifted them above The share of the human lot; They share with men a brother love, In touch with pleasure and with pain. One goal, far-reaching brotherhood, With common burdens, common joys And common wrongs and common good, God's army of just common folks.

—Nixon Waterman.

The Way of It.

This is the way of it wide world over: One is beloved and one is the lover, One gives and the other receives. One lavishes all in wild waste of love, One offers a smile for a life's devotion, One hopes and the other believes. One lies awake in the night to weep, And the other drifts off into a sweet, sound sleep.

One soul is aflame with a godlike passion. One plays with love in an idler's fashion. One speaks and the other hears. One sighs, "I love you," and wet eyes show it. And one laughs lightly, as says, "I know it!" With smiles for the other's tears. One lives for the other and nothing beside, And the other remembers the world is wide.

This is the way of it sad world over: The heart that breaks is the heart of the lover. And the other learns to forget. "For what is the use of endless sorrow? Though the sun goes down it will rise tomorrow."

And life is not over yet. Oh! I know this truth. If I know no other, That Passionate Love is Pain's own mother. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Silent Help.

For the faith that is not broken By the burden of the day; For the word that is not spoken (Dearest words are slow to say); For the golden draft unproffered: To the thirst that thirsteth on; For the hand that is not offered: When the struggling strength is gone; For the sturdy heart that will not Make a pauper of my need; Friend, I mean something to thank thee, From my soul, in truth and deed. Wait! someday, when I am braver, I will do so—say so. Now (Oh, be tender!) I am tired; I have forgotten how.—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.

The Old House.

I passed tonight the old house standing lonely, The windows closed, the rooms all dark and drear, The porch deserted where, my love, together We sat in the old sweet days, with no one near. The autumn night wind bitterly was blowing, The old trees on the roof their branches trailed, The long grass in the yard was waving sadly, The tall white pillars in the moonlight pale. Ah, how those glad times it has been lonely, And with the day of old, my heart is lonely, cold.

Sweet memories now long dead are buried in it. Old thoughts, old longings I have never told. But here tonight, with the old house before me, There comes to me a fancy strange and sweet— Suppose those darksome rooms once more were opened, And light and life and love again might meet. How joyous would the old house ring with laughter, How gay the scene, with youth and beauty bright, And though outside the autumn wind is sighing, The hearts within are beating gay and light. So if to me you ever should return, love, Then you would open my dream heart again, And with the light of your sweet presence near me My life would smile, forgetting years of pain. —Thomas Langford Wood.

Not Then, But I.

And so it comforts me, yea not in vain, To think of thy eternity of sleep, To know thine eyes are tearless though mine weep. And when this cup's last bitterness I drain, One thought shall still its primal sweetness keep. Thou hast the peace, and I the undying pain. —Philip Bourke Marston.

At Last.

When first the bride and bridegroom wed, They love their single selves the best; A sword is in the marriage bed, Their separate slumbers are not rest; They quarrel and like to be alone, They give and suffer words of pain, Both right and wrong. They struggle long, Till some good day, when they are old, Some dark day, when the bells are tolled, Death having taken their best of life, They love themselves, and find each other. They know that they are husband, wife, For, weeping, they are father, mother. —R. H. Stoddard.

To Awake To Die.

At the flash of a light we are born; we are dead Ere its splendorful refulgent is sped— Life is so short! For glory and love that we ardently court Are but the shades of a dream that floats by— To awake is to die. —Gustave Adolphe Becquer.

In Our Great Grandfather's Time,

big bulky pills were in general use. Like the "blunderbuss" of that decade they were big and clumsy, but ineffective. In this century of enlightenment, we have Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which cure all liver, stomach and bowel derangements in the most effective way.

Assist Nature.

That, of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequalled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity, with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.

A free sample of the "Pellets," (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Maria—Will not be home for some time. At present am in a lawsuit which will last, so the court informs me, for 30 days.—Life.

No Doubt.

That, of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequalled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity, with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.

THE SANTA FE GRANT.

A Talk with U. S. Attorney Reynolds, Which Wrecks the Mare's Nest Discovered by the Water Street Organ.

The last issue of the Water street organ contains a long screed signed by one of its numerous anonymous correspondents, "Property Owner," in which that well known individual pours out vials of wrath upon the heads of the city officials connected with the Santa Fe grant case in a manner that would do credit to those other famous personages, "Tax Payer," "Fiat Justitia" and a dozen more. In this article, which was evidently originally written as an ante-election effort and was crowded out until last Sunday, "Property Owner" accuses Mr. J. P. Victory, the chairman of the city council finance committee, of having been derelict in attending to the appeal in the Santa Fe grant case; says that the appeal has doubled gone up to Washington in improper shape; and that it is too late to rectify this blunder now, etc., etc. "Property Owner," who, to judge by the tone he uses, is the owner of wide acres within the Santa Fe grant, but who in reality is more probably the possessor of little more real estate than

CLINGS TO HIS SHOES on a muddy day, is not content with attacking Mr. Victory and thus attempting to discredit in the eyes of the people of this county the man whom they have just honored with a seat in the territorial council, but he goes further and makes a statement to the effect that U. S. Attorney Matt G. Reynolds, in appealing the case, acted, not in behalf of the government, which he represents, but "for the benefit of attorneys who are largely interested in the eighteen grants, which were cut out by the decree of the court in this case."

The publication was shown Mr. Reynolds yesterday on his return from St. Louis, and that gentleman, as he glanced over it, did not hesitate to express his opinion very forcibly as to this reckless attempt to misrepresent the facts to the public.

"You may say," Mr. Reynolds said, "that the statement that in entering the appeal I acted for anyone except the government is absolutely and contemptibly false. My only consultation in the matter was with the attorney general and it was under his direction that I entered the appeal. I recommended to him that

AN APPEAL BE ENTERED, because I think that when the case comes up before the supreme court the grant will be knocked sky-high. The decision having been concurred in by only two judges out of five with a strong dissenting opinion from a third, I do not consider that, strictly speaking, the decision reflects the opinion of the court on the question involved, and I am very confident that the supreme court will take my view of the situation when the case comes up for determination.

"As to the strictures made upon the city authorities in regard to looking after the appeal, I may say that such statements are as unfounded as the other statement. The government having entered the appeal, it is the duty of the government attorneys to see that the record is sent up by the clerk under the conditions prescribed by law; under penalty of the

DISMISSAL OF THE APPEAL, if these conditions are not complied with. It is further the duty of the clerk of this court to see that the record is properly sent up and if he listens to suggestions from either side as to what his duty is in the premises it is solely as a matter of courtesy. Independent of joggery from either side, it is his duty to send up such records in such a manner as the law provides. There is every presumption that he has done his duty in this case. If he has not done so, the interests of Santa Fe are not in the least prejudiced, as all that is necessary to correct such an error is a motion from the court for the city for a diminution of the record or for the transmission to Washington of such parts of the record as may have been omitted. This motion would properly be MADE TO THE SUPREME COURT at Washington when the case has reached there a year or two hence; and I have no doubt that if there are defects in the records, as sent up by the clerk, the attorneys representing the city in the supreme court will, at the proper time, take the steps necessary to remedy such omissions."

"Disfigured For Life"

Is the despairing cry of thousands afflicted with Unsightly skin diseases.

Do you realize what this disfigurement means to sensitive souls?

It means isolation, seclusion. It is a bar to social and business success. Do you wonder that despair seizes upon these sufferers when Doctors fail, standard remedies fail, And nostrums prove worse than useless?

Skin diseases are most obstinate to cure or even relieve. It is an easy matter to claim to cure them, but quite another thing to do so.

CUTICURA REMEDIES Have earned the right to be called Skin Specifics, Because for years they have met with most remarkable success. There are cases that they cannot cure, but they are few indeed. It is no long-drawn-out, expensive experiment.

25c. Invested in a cake of CUTICURA SOAP Will prove more convincing than a page of advertisement.

In short CUTICURA works wonders, And its cures are simply marvellous.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, soc.; Soap, soc.; RESOLVENT, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CO., Sole Props., Boston. "All about the Skin," free.

"I further state," he added in conclusion, "that any co-defendant of the government, whose interests have been prejudiced by a judgment of the court, when he is a necessary party under the law, can secure my recommendation for an appeal in any case."

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

Messenger boy wanted at the Western Union Telegraph office.

At the Palace hotel an extra fine Thanksgiving dinner will be set to-morrow.

The Santa Fe Southern road to-day reduced the regular fare to Chicago $8 and to St. Louis $1.50.

The usual weekly meeting of the Fifteen club, held each Thursday afternoon, will be omitted this week.

A change of time takes place on the narrow gauge line to-morrow, the train leaving henceforth at 9 instead of 8 a. m.

The Guild meets Friday, November 30, at 2:30 p. m. at the residence of the vice president, Mrs. Thornton. A full attendance is desired.

The Santa Fe Driving Park & Fair association has filed articles of incorporation with the territorial secretary. The capital stock of the company is $25,000.

Mr. O. K. Smith, an old Minnesota newspaper man, who now controls The Southwest Illustrated Magazine, is in the city from Albuquerque. His is the nearest publication in the west.

All of the government offices will be closed on account of Thanksgiving and the postoffice will observe Sunday hours, the office being open only from 9 to 10 a. m.

The Santa Fe Social club will give a swell party at its club rooms to-night. Some seventy-five persons are expected to be present. Supper will be served at the Capital restaurant. Dancing begins promptly at 8:30.

A party of Mormon settlers were in the city this morning on their way from Manassa, Colo., to points south. They are traveling in seven wagons and have been on the road eight days. They will probably settle in a farming district of Arizona.

Capt. T. W. Collier, of Boston, has been appointed aide-de-camp, and Col. W. S. Fletcher, of Santa Fe, as assistant inspector general on the staff of Gen. Thomas G. Lowler, the commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The burnt bridge on the Santa Fe Southern road is now finished so far that trains will cross regularly on and after this evening. All traffic can now be handled with the usual despatch, and the bridge will be entirely finished up this week.

Mr. Harry Whigham, the enterprising immigration agent for the Maxwell Grant company, is visiting Santa Fe to-day. He says the farming, stock raising and mining interests of the empire with which he is connected are progressing splendidly. Mr. Whigham is always a welcome visitor in the capital city.

Mr. Louis Imbert, the proud possessor of one of the finest vineyards in the west, is in the city to-day from northern Bernalillo county. Mr. Imbert is an old Santa Fe citizen and he has here a great many friends who are gratified at his success as a fruit grower in the Rio Grande valley.

Mr. George W. Knebel returned last night from Taos county. He says that court up there was expected to adjourn Monday but that the trial of the murder case against Albino Barola took longer than was expected so that matters were probably wound up last night, enabling the court officials to return to Santa Fe to-night.

On Friday the feast of St. Andrew will be observed by a service at 7:30 p. m. at the Church of the Holy Faith. Interesting addresses will be quoted of Bishops Potter, Hall, Paret and others who spoke at the recent convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew held at Washington, D. C., last month. Some special attention will be given to this service in musical and other respects. Young men are cordially invited to be present.

The stag party to be given to-morrow night by a number of Santa Fe young men will be quite an elegant affair and will be attended by a number of visitors. Among those who will be present from Albuquerque are Messrs. Wallace and Francis Baker, George Montgomery, Hugh Morrison and Harry Owen. Mr. Ralph E. Twitchell will act as toast master and under his leadership there will be an amount of latent eloquence put on tap.

The United States land office to-day had quite an unusual official event in the filing of final proofs on a desert claim by Rachael E. Ferguson to 160 acres in San Juan county. As, under the law, water must be placed upon every sub-division entered, it follows that the claimant must have done considerable work to enable her to make final proof. Messrs. Percy W. Hoyle and Edward R. Kellam, of Los Angeles, have also filed declaratory statements as to a coal vein struck near Gallup.

Another Cerrillos Hold-Up.

Another hold-up occurred at Cerrillos about 10 o'clock last night. In passing from the depot to the main street M. J. Sloops, an engineer for the coal company, was halted at the water tank by two men. One placed a six shooter at his head and the other pressed the cold steel of a gun muzzle into his ribs and then they went through his pockets. They secured $35 in cash and a note for $800. It all happened within a hundred yards of the principal business part of town. Four tramps were shortly after found under a bridge near town and taken into custody by the officers.
