A Fatal Mistake.

City of Mexico, April 11.—George Agoston, the Mexican Central foreman who was accidentally poisoned at the American hospital, died yesterday. It is believed the nurse who made the mistake has crossed the border.

Bank Closed.

Aurora, Mo., April 11.—The Aurora state bank closed its doors to-day. The assets are $26,000; liabilities $11,000. The depositors are certain of receiving every dollar.

DASTARD'S DEED.A Father Cruelly Assassinated in His Home.

Kansas City, April 11.—A special to the Star from Macon, Mo., says: Late last night George Stice was assassinated while sitting in the midst of his family, some one firing through the window at him. Stice was holding two of his children on his knees and his wife and another child were seated near by. They were not injured.

Floods Receding.

Burlington, N. J., April 11.—The floods have fallen eighteen inches since yesterday, but railroad traffic between here and Trenton is still at a standstill.

Easton, Pa.—The danger from high water at this place has passed.

INDEPENDENCE DECLARED.A Report That the Cubans Will Do So To-day—Want Uncle Sam's Recognition.

St. Louis, April 11.—A special from Washington says that the Cuban revolutionists will to-day formally announce the independence of the island and establish a republic and proclaim a constitution. They will also name officers and ask recognition first of the United States, then of other nations.

Death of a Murderer.

Denison, Texas, April 11.—Dick Edwards, alias Billy Land, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Hattie Haynes in 1892 and sentenced to life imprisonment, died in Huntsville prison yesterday. It was believed Edwards killed three women and wounded a fourth on that eventful night. He maintained his innocence to the last.

Mrs. Miles Recovering.

New York, April 11.—Mrs. General Miles was stricken with a slight attack of heart failure last night but is very much improved to-day.

A Big Silver Output.

New York, April 11.—The silver output of the Butte and Boston mine for March was 184,000 ounces, making the total output since January 1 about 300,000 ounces.

Only Three Days.

Ottawa, Ont., April 11.—One of the stipulations which the Newfoundland delegates will insist on, should union take place will be a fast summer season between the nearest Canadian point and the west shore of the island, there to connect with a railway now under construction across the island. By this means the Atlantic from land to land could be crossed in three days.

A MEMBER KICKS.

State Central Committeeman Cable Talks of Silver in Illinois.

Chicago, April 11.—Ben Cable, member of the Democratic state central committee, does not see that any good end will be obtained by the silver convention, which the state central committee has set for June 4.

"The manner in which this convention was called is absolutely unprecedented in the history of the Democratic party," said Mr. Cable. "It seems to me the state central committee acted unwisely in making the call at all. The whole silver question may be adjusted to the satisfaction of the people before the campaign of 1896 through the medium of an international conference. The whole silver question for compromise and concession, just as a party issue is a result of concessions and compromises so broad and honest as to make it possible for great bodies of men to gather around its banner."

"The cause which the Democratic party may well espouse at this time is that of government control of railways, telephone and street car lines. That will some day be achieved."

"Under the prevailing hard times I suppose the result of the June convention may be favorable to silver. Yet I believe that one year hence the party would hesitate in taking a pronounced stand for silver. When times are bad, men are naturally radical. But the times show signs of improvement. In prosperous times men are conservative, and action on so grave an issue as the silver question should not be hastily taken."

Moore Shows More Fight.

New York, April 11.—John C. Moore, who brought the original suit contesting the validity of the income tax law, said last night: "I am advised by my counsel that the court divides equally on the question of the validity of the tax so far as the $4,000 exemption is concerned. There is a strong expression of opinion by Justice Field that the entire law is unconstitutional. This, however, can not be decided until there is a full bench. The question as to the invalidity of the law on account of the $4,000 exemption can be raised by a motion for a rehearing before the full bench, or by making a payment under protest and suing the collector to recover the money. This is only a partial victory. I intend to continue the contest against the law and, if necessary to do so, I will make my return, pay the taxes and then institute suit to recover."

AMBITIOUS CHICAGO.

Wants to Be Severed from Illinois and Have a Government of Its Own.

Springfield, Ill., April 11.—A movement was set on foot by Representative Jones in the legislature to-day, which if carried out will practically sever Cook county, Chicago, from the state of Illinois. It was in the form of a joint resolution and provides that the question of giving Cook county a separate government from the remainder of the state shall be submitted to a vote of the people.

WASHINGTON BUDGET.

Situation in Venezuela—Senator Morgan Believes the Monroe Doctrine Should Be Invoked—Terms of China-Japan Treaty—Price of Meats.

Washington, April 11.—Senator Morgan, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, was asked to-day how he regarded the situation in Venezuela, and he replied: "I have no doubt that Great Britain's ultimate purpose is to press her frontier sufficiently far into the interior to encompass the rich gold fields. I think the direct question should be put to Great Britain by our diplomats as to whether she proposes either by purchase or conquest to extend her domain beyond her present claims. It is most probable that instead of making a definite reply to this supposition question, England would evade it. In that event I think we should invoke the Monroe doctrine forthwith."

"As soon as the 64th congress convenes, I intend to offer a bill to repeal the income tax," said Senator David B. Hill to-day.

TERMS OF TREATY BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN.

An authoritative statement of the terms of peace being negotiated between Japan and China has been secured from official sources. The statement is made to clear up much misapprehension. The terms are as follows: First, independence of Korea; second, permanent cession of the island of Formosa to Japan; third, indemnity of 800,000,000 taels, Chinese coin, worth $125,000,000; fourth, the permanent occupation of Port Arthur and the immediate contiguous territory; fifth, the new Japan-China treaty opening the interior of China to commerce. There is no demand for territory on the main land outside of Port Arthur and the contiguous surroundings.

Secretary of Agriculture Morton to-day began an inquiry into the recent increase in the price of meats, for the purpose of ascertaining if any combination in violation of law exists. The secretary instructed Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, to furnish a statement of the number of cattle received at the stock yards in Omaha, Kansas City, East St. Louis and Chicago, during January, February and March, of the years 1894 and 1895, and to ascertain the prices paid at Kansas City and Chicago, during January, February and March, 1895.

Murder of Detective Moore.

Denver, April 11.—A man answering the description of James McDonald, alias "Los Angeles," the murderer of Detective Al. Moore, is under arrest at Pontellio, Idaho. Detectives have gone for him with requisition papers.

BOLD BANDITS.Mail and Express Wagon Held Up—Rich Booty for Cripple Creek Highwaymen.

Denver, April 11.—A special to the Times from Cripple Creek, Colo., says: The mail and express wagon, which connects with the Midland Terminal railroad at Grassy station, was boarded to-day about two miles from this city by two men who overpowered the driver, Robert Smith, secured the express package containing $16,000 and escaped on horseback. The hold-up took place about 9:30 o'clock on the summit of Tenderfoot hill, on the highway between Cripple Creek and Grassy station, on the Midland Terminal railroad. The mail and express wagon, drawn by horses and driven by Messenger Robert Smith, was en route from Grassy to Cripple Creek with the mail and express matter received at Grassy on the morning train from Denver and Colorado Springs.

DETAILS OF THE AUDACIOUS AFFAIR.

Two men, sitting beside the road, accosted Smith asking for a ride. He drew up his team and one of the men climbed up to the seat beside him, while the other mounted the baggage behind. As soon as Smith started on the man behind struck him on the head several times with a revolver. The blows staggered him but did not stun him. The man on the seat with him also drew a revolver and leveling it at him commanded him to get down, walk to the heads of the horses and hold their bridles. He complied, and while he was covered with guns, they ripped open and rifled the mail and express pouches. After securing $16,000, which was being shipped to one of the Cripple Creek national banks, and several other valuable packages, they untied the two leading horses, mounted them and rode rapidly into the mountains. Smith, very weak and bloody, drove into the city as quickly as possible. When he drew up in front of the Wells-Fargo express office he fainted and fell from his seat.

Smith revived in a few minutes and related what had befallen him. Within twenty minutes from the time the robbery was committed Deputy Sheriffs Sterling and Jackson with 200 men started to scour the hills in search of the robbers, who have so small a start that it is not believed they can escape. A messenger has been sent to Canon City for bloodhounds.

RICH BUNDLE OF MOONEY.

The $16,000 package secured by the robbers was a consignment from Denver by the Wells-Fargo & Co's. express. It has not yet been ascertained by whom it was shipped, but it is believed to have been forwarded by the First National bank, of Denver, to the First National bank, of Cripple Creek. Another package containing $850 is missing. It is believed that the robbers came from Denver and knew that the large money package was in the wagon.

IN HOT PURSUIT OF THE ROBBERS.

2 p. m.—It has been learned that the $16,000 package was a consignment to the Bimetallic National bank to be used for paying miners. The robbers have been traced to the divide road, north of town, near Rhyolite mountain. They crossed over Cow mountain and near Gillette, discarded the stolen horses, took a light buggy and horse they had secreted in the timber and drove away.

They left the regular Cripple Creek and Divide road about six miles north of town and headed toward Alamosa. As soon as the course was determined word was sent to this place and a posse of fifty heavily armed men cut across the country on horseback toward High Park, where they hope to intercept the robbers, who it is believed are headed for either Alamosa or Arkansas valley. Five hundred men from this place are scouring the country and among the volunteers are men who know every inch of the ground for miles around.

BOOM IN OIL.Great Advance in Crude Petroleum—Fortunes Made.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 11.—The oil excitement here continues unabated. The Standard this morning put up the price 15 cents, to $1.50 on the exchange. Cash oil opened at $1.50 and sold at $1.60. It was then bid up to $1.65 without sales. This is the highest oil has been since 1877, when it sold at $3.63. So far this week the advance amounts to 40 cents per barrel by the Standard and 63 cents on the exchange for May options. To the producers of western Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, this means $37,500 a day more than they were getting last week or an increase of $1,125,000 per month. It has greatly stimulated activity and not only furnishes additional work for hundreds of oil drillers, but has also increased the demand for iron and steel supplies consumed in the business. So far the oil consumer has been taxed an additional cent per gallon for illuminating oil, but a further advance is almost certain.

Toledo, O.—Crude oil took another 5 cent jump to-day. This is a rise of 15 cents in three days.

BATTLE WITH OUTLAWS.Train Robbers Trained Down by Marshals—Bloodshed.

Kansas City, April 11.—A special to the Star from Hennessey, O. T., says: Lacey, a mail carrier, brings news of another desperate battle between the Dover train robbers and United States marshals, in which two more of the outlaws were killed. On Tuesday night the marshals had located their quarry and were waiting for daylight. During the night the birds had flown again. Taking the trail they were tracked to a deserted ranch seventy miles northwest of here. There the outlaws were surrounded by officers and challenged. Their reply was a volley of bullets. Then followed a desperate fight. The outlaws attempted to force their way out, and, after a short battle, three escaped, closely pursued by a part of the marshals, the others taking charge of the two outlaws killed. None of the marshals were badly wounded, except one named Moore, who received a bullet in the shoulder more painful than dangerous.

NEW MEXICO NEWS.

Grant county ranges need the spring rains.

The school building at Hagerman is nearing completion.

Pablo Baca y Ortiz, a widower with married children, died of heart disease at Las Vegas.

The office of John A. Lee's lumber yard at Albuquerque was burglarized on Sunday night. The thieves got nothing of value.

The Baptist gospel car is at Hagerman this week. Six months ago, had the car gone there, there would have been no one to hear a preacher, as the settlement had not been started.—Eddy Argus.

A large shipment of cattle will be made from this place this week and other shipments will follow soon. The total shipments from this county this month are likely to exceed those of any previous month in recent years.—Silver City Eagle.

Sierra county, which a few years ago was seriously embarrassed financially, is to-day in the best condition of any county in the territory. She does not owe a dollar of interest, her current expenses are paid up to date and she has money in every fund. All this is due to economy and careful management on the part of her officers.

Sierra county court records will be taken to Hillsboro soon and then the residents of one county in this judicial district will not have to go to the county seats of another county to look up court records. Some years ago the court records of this county were kept here, but for several years they have been kept at Las Cruces because the clerk did not want to keep a deputy here. Now the court records of the counties in this judicial district will be kept at the county seats of the respective counties. After Friday of this week correspondence for the clerk of the court here should be addressed to Silver City. This arrangement will be a great convenience to attorneys and others who have business with the clerk of the court. Dona Ana county business will be looked after by the clerk at Las Cruces.—Las Cruces Republican.

Mrs. Kate Richardson, better known as "Broncho Kate," an inmate of Kate Stewart's establishment, died last Saturday morning. She had been drinking heavily for some time and concluded to "shuff off this mortal coil" which she did through the agency of morphine. Dr. Williams was sent for about 3 o'clock in the morning and administered the usual antidotes, but without avail. She expired at 6 a. m. Broncho Kate was the wife of a man by the name of Richardson who was convicted of counterfeiting at Las Cruces a number of years ago and sentenced to a term in the penitentiary.—Silver City Sentinel.

Banker Killed.

Convington, Ky., April 11.—Senator Goebel has just shot and killed Banker Sandford.

Sad Result of a Bank Failure.
Forth Worth, Tex., April 11.—Albert Schaff, manager of the Schaff Mercantile company, was found hanging by the neck in his store this morning. He was prominent in Knights of Honor circles. The suicide is supposed to have been caused by the fact that he had all his money in the City National bank, which suspended last week.

THE MARKETS.

New York, April 11.—Money on call 2 1/2 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4 @ 5 1/2.
Silver, 66 1/2; lead, $2.95.
Chicago.—Cattle, steady at yesterday's prices. Sheep, weak, 5 and 10 lower.
Kansas City.—Cattle, market steady to strong; Texas steers, $3.55 @ $5.25; Texas cows, $2.00 @ $3.50; beef steers, $3.85 @ $5.30; native cows, $1.40 @ $4.75; stockers and feeders, $2.50 @ $4.70; bulls, $2.50 @ $4.95. Sheep, steady, unchanged.
Chicago.—Wheat, April, 64 1/2; May, 64 1/2. Corn, April, 45 1/2; May, 45 1/2. Oats, April, 28; May, 28 1/2.

NEW MEXICO MINES.GRANT COUNTY.

The Caliente mine in the Barro mountains closed down temporarily but will start up in a few days.

P. H. Snyder has started work again on his Lotta mine at Gold Hill with a small force of men. He intends to increase the number as the work progresses.

LA BELLE MINES.

Some paragraphers left a few good locals on our table. He says the highest price yet offered for a town lot in La Belle is $500 and that in ten days it will bring $1,000. He further intimates that the true character of the ores at La Belle is not yet fully determined, but that we surely have vast bodies of high grade ore.—Crescent.

La Belle dates back to 1869, when some prospectors located what is known as the Hamilton mine. The land grant purchased their right for $6,000, then they had the shaft partly filled up and a platform built over it in order to conceal the workings.

About the first day of January, 1894, the land grant having thrown their lands open for location, Ira Wing and partners came into the district on a prospecting trip. They first located a placer claim where Spring creek empties into Comanche creek. They there worked for some time and took out considerable gold, but later, prospecting up Spring creek and near the source, they discovered the Wonder and the Colorado lodes. This ground was so rich at the surface that a great quantity of it was hauled to their old placer location and sluiced, in this way getting the necessary funds to carry on development on their lode claims.

The shipment of gold to the banks at Trinidad attracted attention and prospectors flocked to the scene, but not until August 1, had there been sufficient done to organize a camp. Upon that day the miners held a meeting and established rules and regulations, and development commenced in earnest. Since that time at least twenty good mines have been opened, among which are the Climax, Aztec, Belle of Mexico No. 2, Gold Bug, Red Cross, Canon, One Eyed Wonder, Crystal Hill and Ebbel H. All of these properties are working, forces of men, and all taking out first-class rock. Cripple Creek in her palmiest days never saw better. Mr. A. G. Smith, of Colorado Springs, purchased Ira Wing's interest in the Colorado and Wonder mines, but there have been some difficulties between the owners, which accounts for these properties being idle. But as all parties are here, matters are expected to be adjusted in a few days and forces put on both properties.—Crescent.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every Post Office in the Territory and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the south-west.

THURSDAY, APRIL 11.

A right readable paper the New Mexican prints these days.

"A new commandment I give unto you that ye love one another."

It is cheerful to learn that Spain's new commander-in-chief in Cuba will endeavor to avoid bloodshed!

SENATOR PALMER appears to be trying to put the kibosh on Mr. Aida Stevenson's presidential boom.

WALL STREET is always Republican. It talks about the friends of silver's socialists—and then it quotes John Sherman to prove that the position is right. This is the hardest blow Republicanism has had in many a day.

It's a great blight on a rich mineral section—the Weekly Chronicle Black Range. What a dirty little cur of a newspaper the Range is. If there is anything the average miner loves it is decency and fair play. Judged by this standard the Range can't enjoy much respect in its home camp.

That little press dispatch the NEW MEXICAN published yesterday, saying that Frank G. Lenz, the long missing cyclist and world circler, had probably been a victim of the Kurd atrocities in Armenia may serve to stir up international complications, compared with which the Alliance and Waller incidents are very small. Every wheelman in this broad land is interested in Lenz' fate, and the wheelmen are a power.

The Albuquerque Citizen's correspondent at Santa Fe suggests that the Agricultural college at Las Cruces has lost caste since Prof. Hadley was removed for political reasons. This is refreshing, when, under Hadley's regime we all know that the Las Cruces Republican, in which members of its faculty were stockholders, grabbed $6,000 a year of the institution's funds for printing when it was nothing more than a public high school for the sole benefit of Dona Ana county.

NOTWITHSTANDING the attempted straddle of the supreme court on the income tax question the chances are that the poor man will not have to go on paying two-thirds of the taxes, as has been his privilege under Republican national legislation. Of course the decision is as binding as if the whole supreme bench joined in sustaining the act. Attorney General Olney does credit to his intelligence when he briefly puts it this way: "I can not believe any judge would grant an injunction to prevent a collector from collecting the tax on incomes derived from other sources than rents or state and municipal bonds in the face of the supreme court's action. The only way I can see by which persons who object to paying tax can secure judicial action is by paying the tax under protest and entering suit for its recovery."

AS A MINING CENTER.

Did it ever occur to the average old time citizen, that Santa Fe is almost the exact center of a mining region, having few equals and no superior in this wide old world of ours? The Cerrillos, San Pedro, Golden and other districts rich in gold, silver and copper lie to the south. Golden Cochiti to the west is the coming camp of all this rich and golden land. La Belle, the young giant gold camp, is northeast, having for close and sociable neighbors the old steady producing camps of Elizabethtown, Baldy, Amizet and many other Taos county bonanza camps and districts. The upper Rio Grande country has been noted from the time to which memory runneth back for its wonderful mineral richness.

The fact of the matter, told in plain language, is that the ancient capital of this territory is the center and nearly equidistant from some of the greatest, best and most productive mining districts on earth. If we had more railroad facilities with better communication with these rich districts there is no reason why Santa Fe should not be one of the most available and suitable smelter and general reduction locations in all the broad west. Santa Fe should see to it that railroad communication is established between the capital and the Co-chiti country and the other camps. Once started in the race for the business, mineral and commercial, of our surrounding mining districts there is no foretelling to what pinnacle of commercial greatness Santa Fe may not climb.

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC

For renovating the entire system, eliminating all poisons from the blood, whether of scrofulous or malarial origin, this preparation has no equal.

S.S.S.

"For eighteen months I had an eating sore on my tongue. I was treated by best local physicians, but obtained no relief; the sore gradually grew worse. I finally took S. S. S., and was entirely cured after using a few bottles."

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Think of it, business men. Weigh in your minds the advantages that will come to our city by your reaching for and getting the trade of the surrounding camps. In order to secure the advantages, however, that are naturally ours, we must be reciprocal in our dealings with our mining friends. We must be generous to them to the fullest extent possible. We must encourage them, uphold them and assist them with all the moral and substantial assistance it is possible to bestow.

PRESS COMMENTS.

A Statehood Feat.

The subject of statehood for New Mexico is of interest to more people than is usually supposed. Several gentlemen were discussing the subject recently, when one who has just returned from an extended eastern trip, made the statement that in the south thousands were ready to come to New Mexico as soon as we become a state. The hard times that have prevailed in the south for the last two years have forced a great many men to seek new locations. New Mexico would come in for her share of this immigration if she were only a state.—San Marcial Bee.

Delegate Catron's Peril.

Whether Delegate Catron will be able to get the Republican majority in the 54th congress to admit New Mexico, remains to be seen. He will have a great advantage over Delegate Joseph. In the fact that the Democrats in that congress are committed to the cause of statehood for New Mexico. Mr. Catron will have to overcome his political friends and his enemies are all with him on that question. It is possible that he may not be successful, and in that case he can truly say: "Save me from my friends." If the A. P. A's hear of the capers he cut on Ash Wednesday they may prevent his securing the oft repeated and too long denied boon of statehood.—Roswell Record.

DEMOCRACY AND SILVER.

To the Democrats of the United States:

Washington, Mich. 4.—We the undersigned, Democrats, present for your consideration the following statement: We believe that the establishment of gold as the only monetary standard and the elimination of silver as a full legal tender money will increase the purchasing power of each dollar, and so increase the value of all property and the value of all other forms of property and will increase the business depression and finally reduce the majority of the people to financial bondage. We believe no party can hope for enduring success in the United States so long as it advocates a single gold standard, and that the advocacy of such a financial policy would be especially dangerous to a party which, like the Democratic party, derives its voting strength from those who may without reproach be called the common people; and we point to the overwhelming defeat of the party in 1894, to the opposition around the veto of the seigniorage bill and to the still more unanimous protest against the issue of gold bonds as proof that the Democratic party can not be brought to the support of the gold standard policy.

We believe that the money question will be the paramount issue in 1896, and will so remain until it is settled by the intelligence and patriotism of the American voters.

We believe a majority of the Democrats of the United States favor bimetalism and realize that it can be secured only by the restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present ratio, and we assert that the majority has and should exercise the right to control the policy of the party and retain the party name.

We believe it is the duty of the majority and within their power to take charge of the party organization and make the Democratic party an effective instrument in the accomplishment of needed reforms.

It is not necessary that Democrats should surrender their convictions on other questions in order to take an active part in the settlement of the question which at this time surpasses all others in importance. We believe that the rank and file of the party should at once assert themselves in the Democratic party and place it on record in favor of the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, as such coinage existed prior to 1873, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation, such gold and silver to be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private.

"Several years ago, my blood was in bad condition, my system all run down, and my general health very much impaired. My hands were covered with large sores, discharging all the time. I had no strength nor energy and my feelings were miserable in the extreme. At last, I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla and soon noticed a change for the better. My appetite returned and with it, renewed strength. Encouraged by these results, I kept on taking the Sarsaparilla, till I had used six bottles, and my health was restored."—A. A. TOWNS, Prop. Harris House, Thompson, N. Dak.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

The PECOS VALLEY of NEW MEXICO

OFFERS unequalled advantages to the farmer, fruit grower, live stock raiser, dairyman, bee-keeper, and to the homeseeker generally.

The soil of the Pecos Valley is of high average fertility, and under irrigation produces bountiful crops of most of the grasses, grains, vegetables, berries and fruits of the temperate and some of those of the semi-tropical zone. In such fruit as the peach, pear, plum, grape, prune, apricot, nectarine, cherry, quince, etc., the Valley will dispute for the pre-eminence with California; while competent authority pronounces its upper portions in particular the finest apple country in the world.

Enormous yields of such forage crops as alfalfa, sorghum and Egyptian corn make the feeding of cattle and sheep and the raising and fattening of hogs a very profitable occupation.

The cultivation of oranges—a growing material of great value—is becoming an important industry in the Pecos Valley, a home market having been afforded for all that can be raised, at a price yielding a handsome profit.

The climate of the Pecos Valley has no superior in the United States, being pre-eminently healthful and health restoring.

Lands with perpetual water-rights are for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The water supply of the Pecos Valley has no equal in all the arid region for constancy and reliability; and this with the superb climate, productive soil and the facilities afforded by the railway which extends through the Valley's entire length, will cause these lands to enjoy a constant, and at times rapid, increase in value.

The recent completion of the Pecos Valley Railway to Roswell will cause the more rapid settlement and development of the upper portions of the Valley, including the rich Felix section. The company has recently purchased many of the older improved farms about Roswell, and has now for sale lands to meet the wants of all—raw lands, partially improved lands, as well as farms with houses, orchards and fields of alfalfa and other crops. In the vicinity of Roswell several pieces of land have been divided into five and ten acre tracts, suitable for orchards and truck farms in connection with suburban homes. Certain of these tracts are being planted to orchards, and will be cultivated and cared for by the company for three years at the end of which period they will be handed over to the purchasers. Write for pamphlet fully describing the terms and conditions on which these several classes of tracts are sold.

La Fiesta de Los Angeles.
On April 18th to 20th inclusive a carnival entitled "La Fiesta de Los Angeles" will be held at Los Angeles, Calif.

It is under the management of the Merchant's Association, an influential organization of business men who have large resources and it is expected that the carnival will excel the Mardi Gras or any similar fête ever attempted in America.

The Fiesta of 1894 was a pronounced success from every standpoint and the plans for the 1895 event promise the most unique fête of modern times. As you doubtless understand, there are peculiar conditions which make a celebration of this character more enjoyable than elsewhere, among which may be mentioned the mild climate, an abundance of fruits and flowers, and the historic and romantic associations of California, from which latter are drawn materials for many artistic and unique features of "La Fiesta de Los Angeles." The Spanish and Chinese population participate in the parade and there are many other features of an instructive and refreshing nature. Low rates of fare in effect via Santa Fe route. Since the introduction of Cod-liver Oil into the treatment of consumption, the average life of patients has increased from two to eight years. The number of cases cured in the early stages of the disease has multiplied, and physicians now assert that consumption can almost always be averted if good care and treatment are begun in time.

Cod-liver Oil ought always to be a part of the treatment, and it should be taken in the form of Scott's Emulsion, which is palatable and does not derange digestion. Scott's Emulsion is in every way superior to plain oil. Don't accept a substitute!

SUNBEAMS.

Are you married or single? asked a school director to an applicant for a teacher's place.

I've been unmarried, sir.

Oh, what's that? asked the director, mystified by the construction of the sentence.

In other words I have been divorced.

Very queer indeed.

Daily, nay, hourly experienced, are the sensations of the dyspeptic, nervous invalid. Ask him and he will tell you that it is well nigh impossible to describe them. Palpitations of the heart suggest—erroneously—that the organ is affected, buzzing in the ears, a queer metallic taste in the mouth and tingling along the edges of the tongue, restless, broken slumber at night, an inclination to sleep during the day, which disappears when the recumbent posture is assumed, frequent nervousness of the stomach between and after meals when digestion ought to have performed its office. These are a few among the indicia of the complaints speedily removable by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also cures and prevents chills and fever, biliousness, constipation, rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney trouble.

Henry, said Mrs. Faddington to her husband, I wonder if it wouldn't be a good idea for us to raise our own vegetables and save what they cost in the market.

No, replied Henry. Times are too hard. We've got to economize.

One might as well try to stem the rapids of Niagara, as to expect perfect health while a scurfulous taint exists in the blood. Through its alternative and purifying properties, Ayer's Sarsaparilla removes every vestige of scurfulous poison from the blood.

Kennard (on a first glimpse of the sea) Astonishing! Who would have thought there could be such much water as that? Underhill—True, and remember, you only see what's on top.

The latest results of pharmaceutical science and the best modern appliances are available in compounding Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Hence, though half a century in existence as a medicine, it is fully abreast of the age in all that goes to make it the standard blood purifier.

He: Oh, no doubt; it's often been published.

She: Then I am not mistaken. What were you cured of?

Editor: You are sure you haven't submitted this poem on spring anywhere else?

Post: Yes, sir.

Then how is it you have a black eye and walk on crutches?

WINTER.

He spreads his coat upon the north, And does not warm the people here. He scours the thought of aching teeth Or chilblains on his fingers.

Of flowers that bloom or birds that sing Full little cares or knows he. He hates the fire and hates the spring And all that's warm and cozy.

But when the foxes bark aloud On frozen hill and river; When round the fire the people crowd And rub their hands and shiver;

When frost is splitting stone and wall, And trees come crashing after, That hates he not; he loves it all; Then bursts he out in laughter.

His home is by the north pole's strand, Where earth and sea are frozen. His summer home, we understand, In Switzerland he's chosen.

Now from the north he's hither hied To show his strength and power, And when he comes we stand aside And look at him and cower.

THE GOOD UN.

An air of gloom pervaded the store. Outside the rain came pattering down. It ran in torrents off the porch roof and across the entrance made a formidable moat, which had been temporarily bridged by an old box.

It gathered on the limbs of the leafless trees and poured in steady little streams upon the backs of the three forlorn horses that, shivering under waterlogged blankets, stood patiently, with hanging heads, at the long hitching rail. Within everything was dry, to be sure, but the firewood, which was damp and would not burn, so the big stove stood forth no cheerful rays of heat and light. Out from its heart came the sound of sizzle and splutter as some isolated flame attacked a piece of water soaked hickory. It seemed to have conveyed its ill humor to the little group around it.

The Tinsmith arose from the nail keg upon which he had been seated, walked disconsolately to the door and gazed out through the begrimed glass at the dreary village street. He stood there a moment and then he came back to the group about the stove and as he rubbed his hands on the pipe in a vain effort to absorb a little heat he grumbled:

"This here rain's upset all my calculations. I was goin' ter bilmore order, but you uns don't ketch me makin' order on such a day as this. Me weemen say'd they'd hev th' schnitz down ter today, an we could start th' kittles airy in th' mornin. Now, all this time is loss."

The lad departed. The chronic loafer leaned back on two logs of his chair and said, "Speakin' of apple butter bilin' remin' me of a good un I hed on me missus last week."

"Ee aller remin' me," interposed the tinsmith, "thet I met Abe Scissors up ter preachin last Sunday, an he was wond'rin when you was goin' ter return his copper kittle."

"Abe Scissors needn't git worried 'bout his kittle. I've a good un on him as well as on th' missus. His copper!"

The farmer, who was almost hidden from view by the stove, at this juncture leaned forward in his chair and interrupted: "But Abe Scissors ain't got no kittle. Tell th'se!"

"Let him tell his good one," cried the tinsmith. "He's been tryin' it every night this week. Let's get down with it."

"Th' missus made up her min she'd bilo apple butter this year despite all me object'n, an two weeks ago this comin' Saturday she done et. They ain't no trees on our lot, so I got John Longneck-er ter give me six bushel of pippins an York Imperials mixed on condition I helped with his thrashin' next mornin. I heve Hiram Thompson that there red shote I've ben fattenin' fer a bawrl of cider. She'd call'ated ter put up 'bout 14 gallon of butter. I said et was all fooleriness, fer I could buy et a heap sitch cheaper an was gittin' tired of Pennsylvania salve any way. Fer all year round, zulkies is 'bout th' best thing ter go with bread."

"Mentionin' zulkies," interrupted the storekeeper, "remin' me thet yesterday I got in a bawrl of th' very finest. Et's none of yer common cookin' m'lasses, but was made special fer table use."

"I'll bring a tin down an hev et filled," continued the loafer, "fer there's nothin' better'n plain bread an zulkies. But et don't eat things my way allus, an there was nothin' but me ter be ter th' storekeeper's horse an wagon an drive over ter Abe Scissors' an give th' loan of his copper kittle at stirrer."

"But Abe Scissors ain't got no copper kittle," cried the farmer vehemently.

"He say'd et was his copper kittle," the chronic loafer replied, "an I didn't ask no questions. He loved I could hev et just as long as I didn't burn et, fer he claimed he give $25 fer et et a sale las' spring. Hevin made sa'fact'ry 'rangements fer th' apples, cider, kittle an stirrer, there was nothin' left ter do but bile. Two weeks ago termmore we done et. Missus invited sev'ral of her weemen frien' in th' day before ter talk 'bout how many apples was need- ed with so much cider billed down ter so much, an how much sugar an cinnamon order to be used fer so many crooks of butter, then folks hed a great time. When they finished their outtin an parin, they was washtab an half full of th' finest schnitz you uns ever seen."

"Borrowed my washtab still," exclaimed the shoemaker.

"Next mornin we was up at 6 o'clock, an hed th' fire goin in th' back yard, an th' kittle rigged over et, an hed biler ter bile down thet bawrl of cider. Biler down ain't bad, fer they ain't nothin' ter do. Et's when yer begins puttin in th' schnitz, an hev ter stir, ketches you."

"I didn't 'low I'd stir. Missus, when th' cider was all billed down ter a kittleful, say'd I'd hev ter, but I claimed thet I'd worked 'nough gittin th' things. Besides I'd a 'sintment ter see Sam

Shores, th' stage driver, when he come through here thet afternoon. Missus an her weemen frien' th' biler cider an ter do their own stirrin. I come over here an was waitin fer Shores ter come. After an hour I decided I'd run over ter th' house an git a drink of cider. I went in th' back way, an there I seen like Lauterbach's wife standin alone stirrin. Missus hed jest dumped th' las' of thet tubful of schnitz inter th' kittle an was in th' house with th' rest th' weemen.

"When Missus Lauterbach seen me, she said pleasantlike: 'I'm so glad you come. Your wife and th' rest of th' ladies hes made a batch of crooks. Now, you jest stir here a minute, an I'll go git some for you.'"

"I was kinder afraid ter take hold on thet there stirrer, so say'd I'd git 'em myself, but she 'sisted sho'd be right out, an I fust I took th' handle. Well, I tell you I regret et th' minute I done et. I stirred an stirred, an Mrs. Lauterbach didn't come. Then I hear th' weemen laughin in th' house like they'd die."

"Me wife she puts her head out th' windy an says, 'Jes keep on stirrin there an don't you dast stop, fer th' butter'll stick ter th' kittle an burn et if you does.'"

"Down went th' windy. I was jest thet hoppin mad I'd a notion ter quit right there an leave th' ole thing burn, but then I was afraid Abe Scissors might kerry on if I did. So I stirred an stirred an stirred. I tell you I don't know any work as mean as thet. Stop movin th' stick, an th' kittle burns. If you ever done et you'll know et ain't no man's work."

"Th' weemen allus does et with us," said the Tinsmith in a superior tone.

"I cal'ated they was ter do et with us," the Chronic Loafer continued, "but I fust took. I stirred an stirred an stirred. Th' fire got hotter an hotter an hotter, an as et got warmer th' handle of th' stirrer seemed ter git shorter, an me face began ter blister. I kep' et up fer an hour an half, tell me legs was neargoin' way under me, me fingers was stiff an achin, me arms felt like they'd drop off from pushin an twistin thet long stick about th' pot. Th' apples was all discolored, but th' butter was thin yet, an I knowed et meant about three hours before we could take th' kittle off th' fire."

"Then I yelled fer help. One of th' weemen come out, an I was jest thet mad I swore, but she laughed an poked some more wood in th' fire an say'd I didn't push th' stick livelier th' kittle'd burn. Th' fire blazed up hotter an hotter, an et seemed me clothes'd begin ter smoke et any minute. Me arms an legs was achin more an more, an me back was almost broke from me tryin ter lean away from the heat. Me neck was 'most twisted off be me 'temptin ter keep th' blaze from blindin me. Et come 4 o'clock, an I yelled fer help ag'in. Th' missus stuck her head out th' windy an called, 'Don't you let th' kittle burn.'"

"I was 'most dead 'rit, but I kep' stirrin an stirrin an stirrin. I don't know how I done et, fer et seemed I'd hev ter stop et any minute. Et come sundown an begin ter git darker an darker, an th' butter was gittin thicker an thicker, but I knowed be th' feel thet they was a couple of hours yet. I begin ter think of lettin th' ole thing drop an Abe Scissors' kittle burn, fer I held he didn't hev no business ter len me his copper pot when he knowed well enough et 'ud spoil of I ever quit stirrin. Oncet I was fer lettin her go an slippin over here ter th' store, fer I heard sev'ral of th' fellers drive up an hitch an th' door bang shut. But when I tried ter drop th' stirrer I jest couldn't. Me fingers seemed ter think et wasn't right an held ter thet ole pole, an me arms kep' pushin et, though every motion give me an ache. I jest didn't dast, but kep' stirrin an stirrin an thinkin an wond'rin who was over here an what was done."

"As I kep' on pushin an pushin thet pole an thinkin an thinkin, I clean forgot myself an all about th' apple butter."

"I come to with a jump, fer some an had me th' beard. When I looked up, I seen th' missus an her weemen frien' standin around me, gestickelated an talkin. Th' missus was wavin what was left of th' stirrer. Et was jest 'bout half as long as when I begin with et, fer th' crosspiece thet runs down inter th' butter an th' biggest part th' handle was burned off. Seems I'd got th' ole thing clean out of th' kittle an hed ben stirrin et 'round th' fire."

"Reflex action," exclaimed the schoolteacher.

"Th' butter was fairly smoking, an th' kittle—well, say, if thet there wasn't jest as black on th' inside as et was iron 'stead of copper. An wasn't them weemen mad! Maybe et was reflect actin in they done, as the teacher say'd, but whatever et was et skered me considerable, they kerryed on so. But final I seen how funny et was, how th' joke was on th' missus who'd loss all her apple butter, 'stead of on me, an how I'd got square with Abe Scissors fer lendin me his old copper kittle, when he knowed et 'ud burn if I ever stopped stirrin. An I jest laughed."

The chronic loafer leaned back in his chair and chuckled loudly. The farmer arose and walked around the stove.

"What fer a kittle was thet?" he asked in a low, pleasant tone. "Was they a big S stamped on th' inside, up next th' rim?"

"Thet's th' one, he, he!" cried the loafer with great hilarity. "S fer Scissors."

"S stands fer soda too. My name's Soda, an I lent thet kittle ter Abe Scissors three weeks ago," yelled the farmer.

The loafer gathered himself together and arose from the muddy pool at the foot of the stove steps. He gazed reverently for a moment at the closed door and seemed undecided whether or not to return from whence he had been so unceremoniously ejected. Then the sound of much laughing came to his ears, and he exclaimed, half aloud:

"Well! If thet ain't a good un!"

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., composed this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthy activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or peppin—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Indigestion, biliousness, and various other ailments, are the result of a weak stomach. It is better to get to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak, nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

Mrs. H. HENKE, of No. 86 North Halsted St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I regard my improvement as simply wonderful. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in connection with his 'Pleasant Pellets' I feel in every respect particularly in flesh and strength. My liver was dreadfully enlarged and I suffered greatly from dyspepsia. No physician could give relief. Now, after two months I am entirely relieved of my dyspepsia. My appetite is excellent, food is digested; my bowels regular and sleep improved."

"We take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is praised by all who try it," says J. W. Cox & Son, druggists, Marshfield, Oregon. No one afflicted with a throat or lung trouble can use this remedy without praising it. It always gives prompt relief. It is especially valuable for colds as it relieves the lungs, makes breathing easier and aids expectoration. A cold will never result in pneumonia when this remedy is taken and reasonable care exercised. For sale by A. C. Ireland, Jr.

"I was most deeply hurt, but I kep' stirrin an stirrin an stirrin. I don't know how I done et, fer et seemed I'd hev ter stop et any minute. Et come sundown an begin ter git darker an darker, an th' butter was gittin thicker an thicker, but I knowed be th' feel thet they was a couple of hours yet. I begin ter think of lettin th' ole thing drop an Abe Scissors' kittle burn, fer I held he didn't hev no business ter len me his copper pot when he knowed well enough et 'ud spoil of I ever quit stirrin. Oncet I was fer lettin her go an slippin over here ter th' store, fer I heard sev'ral of th' fellers drive up an hitch an th' door bang shut. But when I tried ter drop th' stirrer I jest couldn't. Me fingers seemed ter think et wasn't right an held ter thet ole pole, an me arms kep' pushin et, though every motion give me an ache. I jest didn't dast, but kep' stirrin an stirrin an thinkin an wond'rin who was over here an what was done."

"As I kep' on pushin an pushin thet pole an thinkin an thinkin, I clean forgot myself an all about th' apple butter."

"I come to with a jump, fer some an had me th' beard. When I looked up, I seen th' missus an her weemen frien' standin around me, gestickelated an talkin. Th' missus was wavin what was left of th' stirrer. Et was jest 'bout half as long as when I begin with et, fer th' crosspiece thet runs down inter th' butter an th' biggest part th' handle was burned off. Seems I'd got th' ole thing clean out of th' kittle an hed ben stirrin et 'round th' fire."

"Reflex action," exclaimed the schoolteacher.

"Th' butter was fairly smoking, an th' kittle—well, say, if thet there wasn't jest as black on th' inside as et was iron 'stead of copper. An wasn't them weemen mad! Maybe et was reflect actin in they done, as the teacher say'd, but whatever et was et skered me considerable, they kerryed on so. But final I seen how funny et was, how th' joke was on th' missus who'd loss all her apple butter, 'stead of on me, an how I'd got square with Abe Scissors fer lendin me his old copper kittle, when he knowed et 'ud burn if I ever stopped stirrin. An I jest laughed."

The chronic loafer leaned back in his chair and chuckled loudly. The farmer arose and walked around the stove.

"What fer a kittle was thet?" he asked in a low, pleasant tone. "Was they a big S stamped on th' inside, up next th' rim?"

"Thet's th' one, he, he!" cried the loafer with great hilarity. "S fer Scissors."

"S stands fer soda too. My name's Soda, an I lent thet kittle ter Abe Scissors three weeks ago," yelled the farmer.

The loafer gathered himself together and arose from the muddy pool at the foot of the stove steps. He gazed reverently for a moment at the closed door and seemed undecided whether or not to return from whence he had been so unceremoniously ejected. Then the sound of much laughing came to his ears, and he exclaimed, half aloud:

"Well! If thet ain't a good un!"

A PRIVATE LINE.

Jack English was ticket agent, baggage master and telegraph operator at the little station called Ranchman's Center. It was a new station, far out on the prairie, fully half a mile from the nearest habitation; but, being situated in the midst of a wild belt of excellent grazing country, it already did more business than many places on the road boasting of several hundred inhabitants.

As the last train—the east bound express—passed he looked up the station and crossed the prairie to the little cottage, half a mile away, where his mother and sister Lizzie kept a pleasant home for him. Lizzie was a bright, active girl of 14, but with a queer intelligence and industry she was an inveterate coward. She was afraid of everything and often made herself miserable by imagining danger when none existed.

When he took charge of the little office down at the crossing, she announced her determination to study telegraphy. Jack assured her that the art was as full of electricity as a thunderstorm, of which she stood in mortal dread, but she persevered in her effort notwithstanding and in a few weeks could manipulate the instrument so as to receive and send messages as correctly if not quite as speedily as her teacher.

Pleased with her progress, the brother secured two second-hand instruments and a coil of wire and put a line from the house to the station, so that she might have practice without having to walk to the office during cold weather.

Fearing that the officious linen men might object to the instrument on his end of the line being in the office, Jack put it upon one side of the big, empty freightroom, and here, when the weather was not too cold, he spent many a lonely half hour in conversing with the little sister at home.

One night about the middle of February there was a terrific thunder and wind storm, with a blinding fall of rain and hail, a very unusual thing at that season of the year. It came up suddenly about 11 o'clock, and after the west bound train had passed and an hour before the eastern one was due.

Above the roar of the thunder and the beating of the hail against the window he heard the clatter of horses' feet. A moment later there came a loud knocking at the outer door.

Thinking they were people from a distance to wait for the train, he turned out, more from habit than from suspicion, "Who is there?"

"Passengers to take the midnight train," was the quick response. "We're wet to the skin and half frozen."

Without a moment's hesitation Jack drew back the heavy blind and threw open the door, when in crowded half a dozen rough looking men muffled to the ears in furs and woolen comforters.

He was seized by one of the stalwarts and hurried unceremoniously to the floor. Then, while two of the number held him down, the others busied themselves in binding his hands and feet.

He supposed, of course, that they would go through his pockets in search of the key of the safe, but they didn't. Instead, they carried him into the freightroom and laid him down against the side of the building, with the injunction to "keep mum if he valued his bacon."

His thoughts were interrupted by one of the men opening the door and inquiring: "Is the train on time, sonny?"

"It was at 10 o'clock," answered Jack, and then, with a wild hope in his heart, he added, "Let me loose, and I'll find out."

"Not much, my hardy," responded the rough. "Let you at that infernal instrument, and you'd send the train through like lightning, and so cheat us out of the pile of gold we're after."

He understood now why they had not asked him for the key of the safe. It was not the paltry sum that might be found in the little country depot they were after. They intended to rob the train.

He tried to loosen his hands, but in the darkness he could accomplish nothing.

Just at that instant an opportune flash of lightning revealed to him the blessed fact that, in their haste, the robbers had failed to draw the knot on the cord with which his hands were bound as tight as they doubtless intended.

In an instant the slack end of the loop was between his teeth, and a few vigorous jerks soon set him free. It required but a moment more to whip out his knife and cut the cord that bound his hands. Lizzie was a sound sleeper, but his one hope was that she might have been awakened by the storm, and so made available as an assistant. His conjecture was correct, and almost immediately the circuit was opened and the response came.

Then, as rapidly as possible, he made known the situation at the station and asked if she would go down to the cut, a quarter of a mile distant, and signal the train. The reply was in the affirmative, and there was no indecision in it either.

MONDRAGON IN JAIL.

A Corrupt Public Official Gets His Deserts—No Money for the School Fund, But Justice is Had.

"A short horse is soon carried!"
Narciso Mondragon, charged with embezzlement of public school funds, was found guilty in the district court last night. There were perhaps twenty-five persons in the court room when, as the court clock struck 12, the jury filed in and Foreman J. D. L. A. Carrillo read aloud the following verdict:
"We the jury find Narciso Mondragon guilty as charged, and further find that the defendant embezzled the sum of $3,937.33."

"We, the jury, find," etc., does not amount to much at times, but in this case it means much for Narciso Mondragon. It means that a jury of his countrymen, sitting in judgment on his official actions, and incidentally on the actions of all who hold public trusts everywhere in the state, are opposed to using such sacred trust for the furthering of their private ends.

The jury was composed of Pedro Martinez, Marcos Gutierrez, Jose Ma. Bernal, Jose Amado Lucero, Faustino Muniz, J. Lorenzo Barros, Jose de Jesus Herrera, Fausto Ortiz, Hilario Lucero, Felix Romero, J. D. L. A. Carrillo and J. W. Brady. Under the testimony, and the clear, concise instructions of the court, say, by the admissions of the defendant himself when on the witness stand, there was but little else for the jury to do than find as it did. The case was well conducted by District Attorney Crist assisted by C. A. Spies. B. M. Read appeared as attorney for defendant and was assisted by W. M. Berger.

The indictment charged that Mondragon, while serving the city as treasurer in 1893, being also ex-officio treasurer of the city school board, had embezzled public school funds amounting to the sum above named.

The penalty, according to our statutes, is one to five years in the penitentiary and $5,000 fine. The court has no discretion in the fine, and must assess it according to the law.

Immediately the verdict was read the jury was discharged and in response to a nod from the court, a deputy sheriff took Mondragon in charge and marched him off to the county jail. The attorneys for the defense say they will ask for a new trial and a stay of judgment and failing in that will take an appeal to the supreme court.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

A glorious spring day this. Impressive services in celebration of Holy Thursday were held at the cathedral this forenoon.

There will be a regular meeting of the Santa Fe Board of Trade at 4 p. m. tomorrow at the office of Secretary G. W. Knebel.

The protracted meetings at the M. E. church are still progressing with increased interest. Meeting to-night and to-morrow night.

In the district court to-day the case of Zenobio Trujillo and Emilio Encinas, charged with being accessories to the brutal murder of Tomas Martinez, the south Santa Fe county ranchman, is on trial.

There will be the regular meeting of Paradise lodge, No. 2, I. O. O. F., this evening at 7:30 at Paradise hall. Visiting Odd Fellows are given a cordial welcome. There will also be a meeting of Centennial Encampment after regular meeting.

Private letters continue to bring in reports of the disastrous results of last Friday's storm. At White Oaks several houses were unroofed and "all the wind mills in town were blown down." Over at Bland City the wind whistled down the canon like a demon approaching his prey. Several buildings were wrecked.

At a meeting of the territorial council of the Catholic Knights of America, Mr. C. M. Creamer was for the fourth time elected to represent New Mexico at the 10th national gathering of this order, to be held at Omaha next month. Rev. Father O'Keefe, of Las Vegas, was chosen alternate. Mr. Creamer, however, has declined and Father O'Keefe will represent the territory.

Speaking of poultry raising, the incubator must be placed in a room free from draughts and in which the temperature remains about stationary. Do not buy an incubator until you have a room ready for it, and don't hatch any chickens until you have an artificial brooder and a warm, dry, sunny room to keep it in.

Sheriff Guadalupe Ascare and his deputies, John P. Casey, H. K. Faulkner, P. S. Fall and Jacob Chavez, arrived at the penitentiary last night and turned over to Superintendent Bergmann the following Dona Ana county convicts: Juan Silva, murder, ninety-nine years; Melisio Pena, assault with intent to commit rape, five years; Francis Apodaca, larceny, one year; Santos Duran, larceny, one year; Benjamin Martin, larceny, one year; Benigno Ortiz, larceny, one year; Francisco Para, larceny, one year; Rafael Andree Rivera, horse stealing, one year; Jose Angel Munez, assault to murder, six months.

OUT IN THE STORM.

Rough Experiences of Several People in Southern New Mexico.

Presiding Elder J. F. Corbin, of the Methodist church, El Paso, Mrs. Corbin and their 9-year-old boy, were caught in Friday's hurricane, north of Globe Springs, this territory, while on their way to White Oaks. When they arrived home in El Paso on Saturday night they were picked up by the wind as if they were chaff. When the wagon was overturned it was rolled over several times, breaking the harness and carrying the inmates and the horses along for quite a distance. The boy, John, was bodily picked up and hurled some fifty feet, fortunately without receiving any serious injury.

A somewhat similar experience was had by John F. Doods, the aged Las Cruces, well known in Santa Fe. From San Antonio he started, with two companions, to visit a mine belonging to him in the San Andres mountains. During the wind storm the old man became separated from his companions, and for fifty-five hours wandered over the foothills of the Oscura mountains without food or water. A searching party started from San Antonio to find him, and their efforts were rewarded with success after a search of twenty-four hours. When found the old man was lying on his back in the hot sun, almost dead from fatigue. He was removed to San Antonio, where he is now slowly recovering.

PROPOSALS FOR BUILDINGS, BUILDING MATERIALS, ETC.—U. S. Indian Industrial School, Phoenix, Ariz., April 3rd, 1895.—SEALED PROPOSALS, endorsed: "Proposals for Buildings, etc." as the case may be, and addressed to the undersigned at Phoenix, Arizona, will be received at this school until one o'clock p. m., of Saturday, April 27th, 1895, for (1) furnishing the necessary materials and labor to erect and complete one frame dormitory building, one frame building and one frame employes' quarters, (2) materials and labor to complete waterworks and sewerage systems, and (3) assorted lumber, doors, windows, hinges on the back in the hot sun, almost dead from fatigue. He was removed to San Antonio, where he is now slowly recovering.

Proposals for the erection of the building must state the length of the proposed to be consumed in construction. A form of proposal is attached to the specifications for the buildings.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or any part of any bid if deemed for the best interest of the service.

The attention of bidders is invited to the Act of Congress, approved August 1, 1892, entitled: "An Act relating to the limitation of the hours of daily service of laborers and mechanics employed upon the public works of the United States and of the District of Columbia," also to the Act of Congress approved August 1, 1894, entitled: "An Act for the protection of persons furnishing materials and labor for the construction of public works."

CERTIFIED CHECKS.—Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or draft upon some United States depository or solvent National Bank in the vicinity of the residence of the bidder, made payable to the order of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, for at least FIVE PER CENT of the amount of the proposal, which check or draft will be forfeited to the United States in case any bidder or bidder receiving an award shall fail to promptly execute a contract with good and sufficient sureties, otherwise to be returned to the bidder.

Bids accompanied by cash in lieu of certified checks will not be considered.

For any further information, apply to: HARWOOD HALL, Superintendent.

NOTICE.—The bidder should attach list to his or her bid or bids specifying the price per foot, pound, etc., of materials under head of pipe materials, etc., and assorted lumber, doors, windows, etc., referring to same in their bid as "per list hereto attached."

HOPEWELL OF SIERRA.

He Tells the New Mexican Something of Interest About Sierra's Splendid Mines.

Hon. W. S. Hopewell, of Hillsboro, was met by a reporter for the NEW MEXICAN last night and gracefully submitted to the pumping process. He said there were four mills at work at Hillsboro; two at work at the placers and two in town. Those at the placers are working on the cement which is a puzzle to the mining people of the country. The cement runs from one to fifty feet in thickness and is valued at $4.50 to $6 per ton.

Mr. Hopewell says that never in the history of Hillsboro, have times been as good as at present. He says that 275 men are at work there now at good wages, and the outlook is good for many more.

Mr. Hopewell says the advance in value of late has added thousands to New Mexico ranch values, and this, taken in connection with the demand for gold properties and the promise for silver, leads him to predict good times for this territory during the coming year.

PROPOSALS FOR INDIAN SUPPLIES AND TRANSPORTATION.—Department of the Interior, Office of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C., April 2, 1895. A Thrilling Early Day Adventure—Death of Two Famous Desperadoes—Reward Money.

An incident of the upper Rio Grande valley in early days, the killing of the Espinosa brothers, attracted renewed attention recently on account of the presentation of a claim in the state legislature by John McCannan. Concerning his claim, Tom Tobin, of the San Luis valley, well known to all old timers here, and who has for these thirty years had the credit for killing the assassins, writes the following letter to the Independent Journal of Alamosa:

Fort Garland, Mo. 31, 1895.—In answer to a certain article in the Pay Streak by John McCannan, I wish to say a few words. He says that at every session of the legislature I have claimed a reward of $5,000 offered by Governor Evans for the capture of Felipio Norio Espinosa and companion. Such is not the truth. He also says that I ask the reward falsely and that I am not the captor of Espinosa and companion, and that I did not render any service toward the capture of these men. I again say that it is not the truth. I will now make a true statement of the killing of Espinosa and companion.

In the year of 1863, September 5, a man named Philbrook and a Mexican woman named Sanchez were coming from Trinidad into the San Luis valley. They were riding in a buggy drawn by two mules. In the mountains on Sangre de Cristo creek they were fired on by Espinosa and companion, wounding one of the mules. They drove away as fast as they could but the wounded mule soon dropped dead. The assassins then killed the other mule. Philbrook escaped by running and came to Fort Garland without a hat, coat or boots, the blood streaming from his blistered feet. The woman was taken prisoner by the assassins and outraged. General Tappan was then in command at Fort Garland. Philbrook reported what had happened to the colonel, who immediately sent me my ranch for me. I went to see him and he told me what had happened. He then asked me if I would go and capture or kill these desperadoes. The woman had in the meantime escaped from the assassins. She was found by some soldiers and brought to Fort Garland. She said the assassins were the Espinosa brothers.

I started out in search of the bandits September 7. Lieut. D. W. Baldwin went also with some soldiers, but he had nothing at all to do with me or I with him. On the fourth day out I struck a fresh trail of the assassins about 9 o'clock in the morning. I met a Mexican boy I had with me and we began to trail them. Two soldiers followed up voluntarily by trailing us. I came on the camp of the assassins about 2 o'clock. I shot and killed Espinosa, and his companion started to run. The two soldiers and Mexican boy shot at him and missed. I then shot at long range and broke the assassin's back, just as he was going into a quaking ash grove. I cut off the assassins' heads, placed them in a sack, and then I went to their camp and got some letters, a diary and some papers.

On the 11th of September I brought their heads and went over to Col. Tappan. After the capture I and Lieut. Baldwin met and camped together that night, and we came into Fort Garland together the next day. After being in Fort Garland a few hours I went to Col. Tappan's quarters. There he had told me that he had sent the Rocky Mountain News that Gov. Evans had offered a reward of $2,500 for the capture of the two Espinosa. This is the reason I claim the reward. It was only $2,500 and not $5,000.

I claim $2,500 and no more. Up to date I have received $1,500, and I can not see wherein I am wrong in claiming the full amount. As I am really the captor of the two men I still claim $1,000 due me.

These are the facts as I know them. If any one doubts them I can refer him to Col. Tappan, Lieut. D. W. Baldwin, Col. Shoup, Judge Wells of Canon City, Fred Meyer of Fort Garland, Mr. John McCannan wants to wrong me or has been wrongfully informed.

Yours respectfully,
T. T. TOBIN.

Jewels are the brightest things that come to hand. Come to us for jewelry of every description. There's much to admire in our display of sparkling gems and artistic novelties, for the simple reason that our assortment is remarkable for nothing so much as it is for its comprehensiveness. It's only necessary to look at what we have to see that this is the case. It's missing much to miss seeing our stock. Your eyes must describe it to you, as we can't attempt the task. Seeing is knowing, and in this case, knowing is almost equivalent to buying, our prices are so reasonable.
