SANTA FE DAILY NEW MEXICAN.

VOL. 32.

SANTA FE, N. M., TUESDAY, JULY 2, 1895.

NO 110

Hammocks hold first place for breezy coolness. Summer isn't summer without a hammock. Some hammocks, though, are worse than none at all, being too flimsy and badly made to be either safe or comfortable. It will pay you to get a good hammock while you are about it, even if you pay a little more for it. Our hammocks have been voted A1 by all who have purchased them. Better not to lie at all if you can't lie well and comfortably. Speak the truth at all times, but if you lie do so in one of our hammocks.

COLORADO CONVENTION.

Democratic Silver Coinage Meeting in Denver Mergely Attended—No Federal Officials Present.

Denver, July 2.—Just thirty persons were assembled at East Turner hall at 10 a. m., the time set for the Democratic mass convention for the consideration of the financial question. Chairman Frank Arbuckle, of the state central committee, who called the convention at the request of the committee, was not present, but sent an address discouraging radical action, to be read by Secretary Olney Newell. It was claimed that the understanding of the time at which the meeting was to be held was that it was confidently predicted that the afternoon session would bring out a large crowd.

At 10:40 a. m. Secretary Newell, of the state central committee, called the meeting to order, about fifty persons being present. Newell, in his opening address, suggested that the present financial policy of the government accounted in a measure for the fact that leading Democrats had sent letters instead of attending. He spoke in severe terms of the action of certain officeholders in trying to prevent the present meeting, lest something might be said to hurt their political chances.

He then read the address of Chairman Arbuckle, which was received without demonstration. Mr. Arbuckle characterized the action of the Illinois Democracy in adopting resolutions of condemnation of the administration, as impolitic and disgraceful, and advised this convention to do nothing to forfeit the respect of the national Democracy.

Mr. Newell also read a letter from Charles S. Thomas, national committee man, who was absent, in which he commended Colorado Springs, strongly endorsing the convention and urging action in favor of the free coinage of silver. It was warmly cheered.

An organization was effected with Gen. Samuel E. Brown as chairman and J. H. McDonald, of Weld county, as secretary. A committee on resolutions was selected, after which the meeting adjourned till 8 p. m. Among the prominent Democrats present were Judge Caldwell, Yeaman and T. S. O'Donnell, of Denver; J. O. Sweeney, of Trinidad; Dr. Jones, of Boulder; B. U. Day, of Colorado. No federal office holders were seen.

This is for you! Smoke a Diamond D cigar. Best 5 cent cigar on earth. Can only be had at Ireland's Pharmacy.

Ruinous Rates in Mexico.
New York, July 2.—Negotiations have been begun by bankers representing large interests in Mexican railways looking to the re-establishment of the Mexican pool which was broken June 1. The four chief parties to the agreement, which was adopted in 1892 are the Mexican Central and Mexican National and the two Vera Cruz routes. Rates are quoted at ruinous prices to get what business is in sight and general demoralization prevails.

Rate Cutting in Texas.
St. Louis, July 2.—The M. & T. has announced a reduction of 50 per cent in the one way rate between St. Louis and all points in Texas, effective from July 5 to July 25. This is an extension of the cut here to the first announced Kansas City-Fort Worth rate. The trouble grows out of a home seeker's excursion, authorized for July 5.

Attorneys of the Electrocutured Wife Harbored Threaten Damage Suits.

New York, July 2.—Col. Geo. W. Gibbons, who, with A. C. Butts, labored hard to save the wife murderer, Dr. Buchanan, from the electric chair, said to-day that he did not intend to let the case drop. "Nothing, however, can be done until the United States court decides the question of our appeal," he said; "we will proceed the same as if Dr. Buchanan were alive." "Will you commence an action against the state and warden of Sing Sing for damages," the colonel was asked. "If the United States supreme court decides in our favor, we will push the case to the limit," he replied.

Treasurer Claims to have Been Harbored.

Little Rock, Ark., July 2.—A Democrat special from Harrisburg says that J. H. Vanderver, treasurer of Polk county, claims to have been robbed of several thousand dollars yesterday. July 1 is the last day for county treasurers to settle and the discovery of the alleged robbery just before the hour of settlement caused a sensation.

Patents Pronounced Void.
Cleveland, Ohio, July 2.—The U. S. circuit court has handed down a decision, which may prove a knock out blow to the American Fibre Chamol company, of New York. The Fibre company brought suits against various firms here for an infringement of their patents in the manufacture of fibre, which is used in making women's garments. The court holds that the patents are absolutely void. Similar suits are pending against the big dry goods houses of fibre manufacturers in nearly all of the large cities.

Not a doctor in the town but knows that he can get the best of Ireland's Pharmacy than can anywhere in the territory of New Mexico.

Looks War Like.
Tacoma, Wash., July 2.—The Norwegian steamer Oscar II. 18 days from Vladivostok, Siberia, brings news that the indications are good for another oriental war. Unknown to the outside world, Captain R. Anderson, of the steamer, reports that Russia has massed 80,000 men at Vladivostok, and it is believed in Siberia that preparations are being made for an advance upon Japan.

Captain Anderson says: "Russia has been secretly but actively at work, and in the event of trouble with Japan is prepared to hurl a formidable naval and land force into the coveted territory which Japan has wrested from China. Inside the harbor the entire Pacific fleet of Russian warships is massed, ready to steam down the coast at a moment's notice. On shore 80,000 troops have been concentrated, and the evidence is clear that Russia is fully prepared for trouble in case the Japanese government gives any occasion for it."

OREGON TRAIN ROBBERS.

Southern Pacific Overland Train Successfully Looted Last Night.

Grant's Pass, Oregon, July 2.—The Southern Pacific Overland train, north bound, was stopped last night at 10:10 by three highwaymen, near Riddle, about thirty miles south of Roseburg. Sticks of dynamite were placed on the rails, which disabled the engine by blowing the flanges off from the pony trucks. Taking the train the two highwaymen proceeded through the train. Every car was searched. Nothing was obtained from the express car, as there was no treasure on board. The Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Victoria, B. C., registered sacks were rifled, and the passengers also were searched, but just what was secured is not known. One highwayman took a hasty shot at Conductor Kearney without effect. Supt. Fields, of the Southern Pacific, in an hour after learning of the hold up, had two parties on the way to the scene of the robbery.

Howgate, a former disbursing officer of the signal service, who after years of wandering as a fugitive, was found in New York City in business as a second-hand book dealer. Howgate was removed to jail to await the result of an appeal.

Official information has been received here that the real reason for the detention by the United States, at Key West, of the small cutter, Attick, is that she is charged with filibustering.

The father and son followed the daughter to Corsicana. At the hotel the Thompsons found Wake and Mrs. Faulkner in a room together, and began firing at Wake. Eight bullets entered his body, but before he died he shot A. L. Thompson, badly wounding him. The Thompsons were arrested.

Cloud Burst in Nebraska.

Denver, July 2.—A special to the Times from McCook Neb., says: There was a cloud burst in the neighborhood of Haigler and Ives, in western Dundy county, last night, causing five washouts on the Burlington road. One washout is about 100 feet long and fifteen deep. Up to 1 o'clock to-day no trains arrived from the west.

Mrs. Cassassin's back was broken and the son was injured, probably fatally. Mr. Cassassin was badly hurt, but will recover.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The Habeas Corpus Act Seems to Be in a Muddle—Mr. Carr Again at the Bat.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

Albuquerque, July 1.—It is said that our last legislature mixed things regarding the writ of habeas corpus act. Previous to 1889, as section 2014 of the Compiled Laws stood, application for such a writ could be made before two justices of the peace, as well as before a district or supreme judge, but when the justices of the peace happened to divide in their ideas, no result could be attained. The legislature of 1889 repealed entire that portion of the section giving this power to justices of the peace, by section 2 of chapter 17 of the laws of that session, under date of January 31, but followed such action by a later act dated February 26 of that year, page 207 of the laws of that year, by an act attempting to amend that section by providing that three justices of the peace would have such power. It was under this last act that the three justices in Santa Fe county turned the three prisoners loose that Judge Seida had committed to jail. Now our last legislature, page 43 laws of 1895, comes along and repeals this last act of 1889 which was itself an amending act or a repealing act, and now the question arises, does not the repeal of this amending or repealing act (if it did amend or repeal anything) revive the original act, that is, section 2014, as it stood previous to 1889?

THE CHANGE OF VENUE LAW.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

Albuquerque, July 1.—After the adjournment of the 31st legislative assembly, Pineto Pino, who was chairman of the judiciary committee of the house, stated to you that he had made a report on H. B. No. 2 and 7 to repeal the present change of venue law too late to be acted upon by the house. In reply I stated that if he made such statement he simply lied, as no report whatever was ever made by the judiciary committee upon those bills. A few days later M. F. Bean, who was chief clerk of the house, published a card stating that I was mistaken, that such a report was made by Pino, as stated by him. I have waited to examine the journal of the house before making reply to that card and have just the same and find that I was correct and that Mr. Hinkle's bill No. 2 and my bill No. 7 to repeal the present objectionable change of venue law, "repose in the graveyard of Pineto Pino's inside pocket," to him having been assigned the duty of drafting a substitute therefor, which duty he failed to perform and both he and Bean made false statements in your paper to make it appear that I was in error in making that charge. D. P. CARA.

NEW MEXICO NEWS.

Boarding houses are becoming numerous in La Bello.

Gov. Stover has leased the Stonewall mine at Magdalena.

A mountain lion has been lately seen and heard in the suburbs of La Bello.

New steel rails are being laid on the railroad between Las Vegas and Romeroville.

Mrs. Chas. Zeiger, whose arm was broken in a runaway accident at Albuquerque, is getting on very well.

Archuleta, of Lumberton, has purchased the Burns cattle and is buying steers from several parties.

The big Richmond engines in use on the A. T. & S. F. road in New Mexico weigh 242,000 pounds and carry 4,000 gallons of water in the tender besides eight tons of coal.

The San Juan Index is accountable for this: A mountain trout weighing nine pounds and measuring twenty-six and one-half inches in length was caught in Pine river Sunday last by a Durango man.

The San Juan Index: The spirit manifested by the tax-payers of this school district in the matter of voting $2,000 bonds for the purpose of building a new school house was in keeping with this age of progress and liberality.

At Pena Blanca on Sunday night occurred the death of Mrs. Lupa Lucero, probably the oldest person in central New Mexico. She remembered distinctly the eclipse of the sun in 1806, and was then a grown woman.

Las Vegas Examiner: There is no doubt that the dying off of trees in Lincoln park is wholly due to the rank growth of alfalfa which is literally choking our beautiful trees to death. If the proper city authorities will take the necessary steps to kill the alfalfa, instead of looking for a remedy for borers, they will probably save the life of many of them, otherwise the trees in Lincoln park are doomed.

Says the Albuquerque Citizen: Another dark chapter is now added to the cowardly assassination of the two sheep herders in the northwestern part of this country. The details, as far as learned, have been published in the Citizen. Saturday's Citizen told of the finding of the bodies of Maximo Sandoval and Pedro Lobato, Jr. It is now learned that Pedro Lobato, the father of the murdered boy, is also missing. He is part owner of the sheep, the other owner being Francisco Archibque, of Algodones. It is likely that the old man has met the same terrible fate as the boys. Nothing should be left undone to run down the assassin or assassins.

Some people do not like us, I will tell you the reason, you must pay your bills if you deal at Ireland's Pharmacy.

Obstructions on the Highways.
Are sometimes allowed by the authorities to remain too long, but when that important outlet to the refuse and debris of the system—the bowels—becomes obstructed, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters promptly "raises the blockade." This it does, too, without creating any abdominal disturbance in the way of griping, an unpleasantness always produced by a drastic purgative. No permanent, decisive relief from constipation can be obtained through the agency of a violent cathartic.

Mandrake, blue pill, salts andenna and calomel, while they evacuate the intestine, weaken and partly unfit it for future usefulness. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, on the contrary, invigorates the whole abdominal region and promotes a regular secretion and flow of bile. Use this time honored remedy also in malaria, dyspepsia, rheumatism, nervousness, in cases of debility, and for kidney trouble. It confers both appetite and sleep.

Mrs. Scott Donald. I see by the society notes that Mrs. Fitzjones was at Home she was, indeed! It wasn't a day fit for

Among the numerous persons who have been cured of rheumatism by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, mention should be made of Mrs. Emily Thorne, of Toledo, Wash., who says: "I have never been able to procure any medicine that would relieve me of rheumatism like Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I have also used it for lame back with great success.
It is the best liniment I have ever used,

a walk in the park.—Who with?—No one.
Then explain how you came home with a walking-stick instead of your umbrella.

All the world is drenched and dreary.
Drowned in April's tears.
Leadon skies, a wind grown weary.
Sighing with a cadence eerie April's foolish fears—
Tear stained, frowning child of springtime, Sprite of smiles and tears.

Over all the world the gloaming
Light of April's smiles,
Wake the flowers from winter dreaming,
Every breath with hope is teeming—April's withering smiles.
Fickle, fleeting month of promise,
Mingled tears and smiles.

A NIGHT IN TOWN.

"Dorothy, I wish you would run in town today and attend to a little business for me. I've a touch of the gout myself." said my father as we sat at the breakfast table idling over our home grown strawberries and gleaning over the rich country cream.

"And then you might possibly induce Jack to come out with you tomorrow for over Sunday."

Father looked slyly at mother as he made this last suggestion, for was there ever a Sunday during the whole long summer that Jack, my dear, old Jack, did not spend with us at Applegate?

Father gave me no instructions. I was to go to the bank and have a check cashed, a $1,000 check, pay his fire insurance premiums, settle a bill at one of the shops and bring home the hundred or so I would have left.

Before boarding the train I telegraphed Jack to meet me at 3, so when I arrived in town I made straight for the bank and drew the money, intending to hurry through my errands so to have all finished when Jack and I should meet. But just as I stepped from the cashier's window
Mr. Allan stopped me, saying:

"Why, how do you do, Miss Clyde?
How very intent on business we are."

I looked up smiling and then felt conscious that Harry Allan was looking at the package of bills in my hand.

"Oh, yes," I replied, "just attending to a few errands for father. How are you?
We have been hoping to see you. At Applegate this summer."

A pleasure yet in store for me. Jack Osborne has kindly offered to chaperon me some time, and if I can get away from business you may be sure that I will avail myself of your hospitality."

Chatting and laughing and interchanging town and country gossip, Harry and I walked down the street. I thought at every corner he would leave me, and I hoped so devoutly, as I was impatient to pay out the money that was already becoming a care and a burden; but no, he had never seemed so attentive. Finally the recollection of mother's injunction came to me, and I told him I had to do some shopping. He looked as if he were about to accompany me.

"Oh, no. Don't come with me. I am buying a gown, and a word at the wrong time or even a misplaced smile might pervert my judgment. Come up tonight if you wish. I'll be staying at the house."

Without giving him time to remonstrate or even to say goodbye I turned into the nearest shop. When I had finished my purchases, it was time to meet Jack, and the thought of him drove all care for the money away. The rest of the afternoon was spent in a much more profitable manner than in any way concerned business.
Our gay little dinner was given up entirely to mirth, the very idea of dining alone being so deliciously novel that father's $1,000 never entered my rattle braind head until we started for home,
and then it was but a momentary anxiety, as I felt in my inner pocket only to find the crisp notes safely there.

Jack and I opened the house and brought out rugs for the porch, and were talking the nothings that we always talk when I saw Harry Allan approaching.
Jack grumbled at the threatened interruption to our tete-a-tete, but both of us really liked Harry, and we felt it was only selfishness that made us dislike to have him with us, so we welcomed him, and,
after all, we had a very pleasant evening.

"Won't you sing for us, Miss Clyde?" asked Harry later in the evening, and so the evening passed, leaving the music to their cigars. But after one or two songs Jack followed me in. I remember singing 'Wish I Were Where the Gads Runs,' but I did not at all. I would not have been anywhere in all the world except right there, with him, leaving the music to the piano and joining in the music with his deep, mellow voice. Harry was forgotten, and when he came in to bid me good night it was with a start that I remembered he was one of the party.

"You surely won't stay here tonight, will you, Miss Clyde? Can't I induce you to go home with me? Mother would be charmed to have you."

"Oh, no, thank you, Mr. Allan; I am not a bit afraid, and then, you know, I have to get down town so early. I have not yet attended to father's business, and if I staid at your house I would disturb dear Mrs. Allan, who, I know, is used to her late breakfast. By 10 o'clock I expect to have my errands done and be on my way to the station."

"Dorothy, dear, don't stay here; do go to Mr. Allan's or the Browns'."

"Why, Jack, you are as foolish as mamma. You need not talk about it; I am determined now to stay and prove to all you fussy bodies that an American girl is quite safe in her own house, even if alone."

"Well, if you are determined, I suppose there is nothing I can say, especially as Jack's advice does not go," laughed Harry, and, bidding me goodbye, ran down the steps. Jack staid a few minutes longer, and then said:

"Good night, foolish little girl. You will be sorry tomorrow when you see me looking worn and haggard after a sleepless night worrying about you. You ought to be made to obey, but I daresay I can't undertake a task at which your parents have so signally failed."

And dear, sweet Jack kissed me good night and left.

When he was really gone I regretted the foolish pride that had made me stuck to my threat of remaining alone in that great, dreary house, but repentance came too late. Feeling nervous and excited, I took a book to my room and read for a half hour or so, trying to quiet my disturbed nerves.

Finally, getting somewhat sleepy, I began to prepare for bed. As I stepped to the dressing case to braid my hair for the night the first glance into the mirror revealed the face of Harry Allan at the transom. My first thought was that I was in some danger and he had come to protect
me. My impulse was to call him by name, but as I looked again his desperate expression showed me that should I speak or scream no course would be too brutal for him. For one moment I felt numb and cold, and any action seemed impossible, but I roused myself and by what now seems an almost superhuman effort I forced myself to carry out a plan that formulated like a flash in my dizzy brain.

With trembling hands I arranged my hair, and when I had finished I went to the pocket of my gown and took out the package of money, looking at it and counting it in as interested a manner as I could feign. Then I carefully placed it under some boxes in my bureau drawer. All this time I felt his gleaming eyes upon me, though I did not again have the courage to look into the glass. Before I went to bed I knelt down to pray in hope that some latent feeling, some inherent goodness, might come to that watched man at the sight of innocent devotion. My only prayer was: "God help me! God help me!" I turned the light low and laid myself in bed, acting like some one in a trance. I thought: Can this be? Can this be Dorothy Clyde?

I closed my eyes and waited. It seemed a lifetime before I heard Harry Allan let himself down over the transom and creep softly in his stocking feet to the foot of my bed. Oh, the horror of it! I groaned.
I thought then that I was done for, but he evidently took it for the breathing of a heavy sleeper and went on over to the bureau, opened the drawer, took the money package and stole back to the door. I heard the key turn in the lock, and he was gone.

I lay there some time in a state of semiconsciousness, but after what must have been about 30 minutes I pulled myself together and managed to prepare for my part in the game. I rose hastily, dressed and went quietly out of the lonely house.
I stood waiting on our steps for the policeman to pass on his beat. He saw me and paused, looking at me suspiciously.

"I am Miss Clyde," I said. "I came to town today and am staying alone in our house. I find I have forgotten one of my principal errands. I wish to go up to Mr.
Allan's house. He leaves early in the morning for the east, and if I don't see him tonight it will be too late, and father will be so put out. If you have any doubt of my being Miss Clyde, however my waiting, with Dorothy Clyde on it, and see—this is the latchkey of our house."

As I showed these slight proofs of my identity I pressed a $5 bill into his hand and was pleased at its effect and his apparent belief in my unimpaired story.

"How can I serve you, miss? Shall I walk up to Mr. Allan's house with you?
It isn't exactly on my beat, but I can fix that all right."

As we approached the Allan house my courage began to fail, but I was ashamed then to back out and interested that if I died for it I would make an effort to get back that money. I asked the policeman to ring the door bell. I wished to save all my strength. The house was dark and quiet and it was after continued pulls at the bell that a sleepy servant let us in.

"I wish to see Mr. Allan," said I.
"Sure, mum, he's in bed."
"Never mind if he is. Take me to the door of his room."

The stupid girl was too far gone with sleep to see anything unusual in this demand of mine.

"You stay here in the hall," I said to the policeman, "and wait till I want you —to walk home with me." I added, seeing his surprised look.

We paused on the landing and the girl pointed to a door at the head of the stairs.
"Sure, that's his room, kiddy. Will you be wanting me any more?"

"Please stay here, so you can show me out after I have seen Mr. Allan," I replied.
With sudden courage, born of desperation, I knocked firmly at the door of the stairs.
"Is that you, mother? I am all right.
You are old enough to know better than to prowl around in the middle of the night, worrying about me as if I were a baby. Do go back to bed," Harry Allan said in irritated tones.

"No, Harry Allan, it is I, Dorothy Clyde, who stands outside your room." With that I opened the door and stepped in.
There he sat in a most dejected attitude. Closing the door so as not to be overheard, I continued:

"I've come for my money, you thief! I will have it! You are in my power! A policeman stands below ready to help me at any moment."

"For heaven's sake," he cried, "there must be some mistake! Dorothy, you are crazy!"

I looked at him firmly in the eye, and,
stretching out my hand, said:
"Mr. Allan, if you will give me my $1,000 I will never tell a living soul of this night's work. If you do not return it to me I will give you up to justice!"

"Do you swear it?" he gasped, and his white face grew more pallid.

"I give you my solemn word of honor,"
I answered, and he tremblingly handed me the package of notes, just as it was when I lay in my bureau drawer.

"Good night," I said scornfully as I started to leave.

"Stay! Let me tell you why I did it. I can't tell you without your knowing that an act so low was not done except at a moment of greatest extremity. A foolish investment, this union railroad, has been so crippled me that unless I can meet a note of $1,000 tomorrow I am a ruined man. I would not go to my mother for aid, as the last time she helped me out I promised never to dabble in stocks again.
When I met this union railroad, I thought it was my chance to get out of my debt, in your hands, for I heard the paying teller count it out to you, an idea came to me like an inspiration from Satan. I learned your plans. Everything you did seemed to favor my theft. In the evening when you sang I stole down stairs and unlocked the basement door. I was well pleased when you insisted upon staying alone, for after Jack left I returned to the house and entered through the basement door. How did you know it was I?"

"I saw you in the glass. My first impulse was to speak, but I thought you had come to save me from some danger, but the expression in your face frightened me."
"If you had spoken or screamed, I would have killed you. I was mad, stark, staring mad. Miss Clyde, you have saved me from myself. May God bless you."

"Prove your gratitude by going to your mother for help," I answered. "She has never failed you yet." So saying I left, clinging tenaciously to that hated money.

When we arrived at home, I gave my stewardess another good grilling, confessing to him that I was quite timid and asking him to especially guard the house during the rest of the night.

In the morning, when Jack came, I threw myself into his arms and cried as if my heart would break.

"Oh, Jack, I have had such a horrible night!"

"Well, my little one is not so brave as she thought. It was too much of a strain on your nerves, dear, but you were really perfectly safe. Dorothy said I tipped the policeman $5 to watch the house all night.
Cry all you want to, darling. I see you are a very nervous little girl, and the best thing I can do is to marry you right away and never let you out of my sight again."

Dear old Jack, if he had only known—

Are you taking SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" That is what our readers want, and nothing but that. It is the same old friend to which the old folks pinned their faith and were never disappointed. But another good recommendation for it is, that it is BETTER THAN PILLS, never gripes, never weakens, but works in such an easy and natural way, just like nature itself, that relief comes quick and sure, and one feels new all over. It never fails. Everybody needs take a liver remedy, and everyone should take only SIMMONS Liver Regulator.

ASSASSINS OF CHAVEZ.

Sworn Confession of Patricio Valencia Supplemented by That of Lauriano Alarid.

Another Shocking Chapter in the Celebrated Case—Valencia's Statement Corroborated—Officers, Court and Jury Vindicated.

The NEW MEXICAN to-day supplements its publication of the sworn confession of Patricio Valencia, one of the five active parties to the cowardly and brutal assassination of Francisco Chavez, with the confession in detail of Lauriano Alarid, another one of the persons engaged in the diabolical conspiracy to murder the ex-sheriff. The circumstances under which these voluntary confessions were made have already been narrated in these columns and need not be repeated here. Those shocking documents, fairly dripping with the lifeblood of one of the biggest-hearted men who ever trod the soil of New Mexico, can hardly be read without a shudder. They vindicate the course of the officers in their laborious task of ferreting out the facts surrounding the awful crime and absolutely prove the righteousness of the jury's verdict and the judge's sentence. The second affidavit speaks for itself. It is as follows:

CONFESSIO OF LAURIANO ALARID.
Territory of New Mexico, ss County of Santa Fe.

Lauriano Alarid, being duly sworn on his oath, says: I am one of the defendants in the case of the territory of New Mexico vs. Francisco Gonzales y Borrego, Antonio Gonzales y Borrego, Lauriano Alarid and Patricio Valencia, lately tried in the district court of Santa Fe county, in which a verdict of guilty was rendered by the jury against the said above named persons on the 29th day of May, A. D. 1895. It is true, as charged in the indictment in said case and as found by the verdict of the jury, that I am guilty as one of the persons concerned in the murder of Francisco Chavez at the southern end of Guadalupe bridge in the city of Santa Fe between 9 and 10 o'clock, on the night of the 29th of May, A. D. 1892, although I was not then and there present at the time of the commission of the murder. I had been there for about twenty or twenty-five minutes about a half an hour previous to the commission of the murder and had been

INSTRUCTED BY HIPOLITO VIGIL or Francisco Gonzales y Borrego. I do not now remember which one, to go up town to ascertain the whereabouts of Francisco Chavez and to go back and report to them. If Francisco Chavez had gone across Guadalupe bridge, while I was there with the said above named persons for said twenty or twenty-five minutes, I would have taken part in the assassination of said Francisco Chavez, according to the agreement between us to that effect. I well knew that the said above named persons were lying in wait then and there for the purpose of assassinating said Francisco Chavez, and I was not there to aid them in the commission of the deed because I had been directed and had gone up town to act as a spy on the location and movements of the said Francisco Chavez. I was armed with a 38-calibre fire shooter. When I saw the said above named persons at the southern end of said bridge on said 29th of May, 1892, about thirty minutes before the MURDER OF SAID CHAVEZ, they were under the southern end of said bridge on the ground. Francisco Gonzales y Borrego had a Winchester rifle and had on a rubber coat; Hipolito Vigil had a large pistol, either a 44-calibre or a 45-calibre; Antonio Gonzales y Borrego had a 45-calibre pistol, and I did not see whether Patricio Valencia had a pistol or not, but Francisco Gonzales y Borrego told me the next day after the murder that Patricio Valencia had a pistol belonging to him; said Francisco Gonzales y Borrego. I do not know the manner in which said Francisco Chavez was killed, but Francisco Gonzales y Borrego told me the next day after the murder that he, Hipolito Vigil, Antonio Gonzales y Borrego and Patricio Valencia had killed him.

I was at the southern end and under said Guadalupe bridge two or more nights previous to the 29th of May, 1892, lying in wait for the purpose of assassinating said Francisco Chavez. The said Hipolito Vigil, Francisco Gonzales y Borrego and Antonio Gonzales y Borrego were also there for the same purpose on said two or three nights prior to said 29th of May, 1892.

I make this affidavit freely and voluntarily, and it has been written by District Attorney J. H. Crist at my request, and I ask that it be published so that the public may know that justice was done by the verdict of the jury in the trial of the case. I have truly repented of my complicity in the assassination of said Francisco Chavez and desire now to tell the truth in connection with the matter.

(Signed) LAURIANO ALARID.

NOTABLE DEEDS PASSED

Title to Texas, Santa Fe & Northern Railroad Now Vested in Charles W. Waterman Without Encumbrance.

The title to the property of the Texas, Santa Fe & Northern and the Santa Fe Southern Railroad companies is now vested in Charles W. Waterman, of Denver, without any encumbrance whatever.

In compliance with the terms of the foreclosure sale by Hon. Antonio Joseph, special master, on June 3, and upon payment of the balance of the purchase money, Mr. Joseph has deeded the property to Mr. Waterman.

The Texas, Santa Fe & Northern and the Santa Fe Southern companies, each, in consideration of $1, have also deeded their interests in the property to the new purchaser, and Mr. Charles H. Gilderleeve, for and in consideration of the sum of $1, has satisfied and dismissed his several judgments and liens and also those of the Second National bank and Lehman Spiegelberg against the property.

Thus Mr. Waterman is now clothed with full authority to give a clear title to the property and it is presumed that it will soon be transferred to the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

Enjoy an intellectual treat and hear the lecture at the court house this evening. The Albuquerque running team's practice runs on the horse racing course attract large crowds.

Tickets for the concert to-morrow evening are on sale at the hotels, drug stores and other places of business.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church have decided indefinitely to postpone the festival they had partly arranged to give on the evening of July Fourth.

A five mile bike race, open to all comers, purse $25, divided into three awards, is to take place on the 4th. The start and finish will be at Firemen's hall.

Trainer Price, who has charge of the Santa Fe horse team, says he is prepared to put up $50 to $500 that he can defeat any member of the Duke city team in a dash of 100 yards.

The plaza streets and those leading to the Palace hotel and Federal building should be thoroughly wet down to-night, for the sprinkling cart may not get here to-morrow as now expected.

Mr. H. J. Loomis returned yesterday from a trip to the Dorsey ranch in Colfax county. On Friday last a terrible hail storm visited that section and on Saturday at noon the drifts of hail four feet deep were still visible. The stock range is fine, heavy rains having frequently come this spring.

Hon. A. Joseph came to town last night and left again this morning, returning to Ojo Caliente in company with Mr. M. S. Baldwin, of Chicago, the sanitarium promoter, and Dr. H. R. Allen, of Indianapolis, who has made a fortune running a sanitarium in Indiana. It is probable that these gentlemen may take hold of the Ojo Caliente sanitarium project.

J. H. Peers, Chicago; A. E. D. Caracallen, Philadelphia; Lou M. London, Huntington, W. Va.; Frank Gessinger, Cincinnati, health seekers, are in the city from Albuquerque. After the Fourth they leave for a two months' camping trip along the upper Pecos. A large party of Kansas visitors also camped near Dalton's on Sunday and the valley is rapidly filling up with pleasure seekers. Henry Winsor, who was in town last night, says the trout fishing was never better.

Capt. Frederic P. Muller and wife, of Taos, arrived on the D. & R. G. last night and are the guests of Jose D. Sena. After spending the Fourth in the city they will go to the Zanteens and the City of Mexico, possibly with a view of locating in the sister republic. Capt. Muller has resigned his position as commandant of company F, 1st New Mexico militia, and Miguel Archuleta, an old regular army veteran, has been elected to fill the vacancy.

Daniel McIntire, of Wilmington, Ill., who has spent the last six weeks at the hot sulphur and Jemez springs, left for home last night for a brief visit. He was very much benefited by his trip and is loud in his praises of the medicinal value of the springs. He promises to return to New Mexico soon to make this his permanent home. Marcus Schultz, of Santa Cruz, who was his guide on the trip, left for home yesterday with his pack outfit.

Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, a notable Philadelphia divine, is in the city and will lecture at the court house at 8:30 this evening on the subject, "Only a Jew." He stands at the head among the Jews in this country and preaches to one of the largest audiences of any rabbi in the country. As a lecturer he is one of the most eloquent of his race. Santa Feans should not fail to hear him. Admission $1.

Mrs. Bontice C. Chaney, of Denver, an enthusiastic kindergarten worker, is sojourning at the sanitarium. She holds a responsible position in the kindergarten department of the Denver public schools, and was for three years connected with the work as organized by Mrs. Hill, wife of ex-Senator N. P. Hill. To-morrow and on Thursday Mrs. Chaney would be pleased to receive the ladies of Santa Fe interested in the cause of education and talk with them on the subject of introducing the kindergarten into the city school system.

MUNICIPAL PARENTS.

Interesting Meeting of the City Council Last Night—Profess Against Glove Contest Fabled—Freedom of City Extended to Visitors.

The city council met in regular session last evening. Mayor Easley presided, and Counsellmen Andrews, Dominguez, Delgado, Garcia, Holmes, McCabe and Sena were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Charles Hopper, Julian Baca, Isaac Van Arsdell and Tomas Pino petitioned for the privilege of conducting lemonade stands in the city on July 3, 4 and 5.

Messrs. E. J. Newton, A. C. Ireland, Jr., and J. W. Akers presented written protests against the erection of lemonade stands in the business portion of the city unless properly licensed.

As there was no ordinance on the subject, and hence the erection of stands could not be prevented, the four petitions mentioned above were granted, the stands to be located and controlled by the committee on public works. [The council must have overlooked section 13, of chapter X, city ordinances.—Editor.]

Manager Lewis, of the Western Union Telegraph company, asked permission of the council to suspend a sign across San Francisco street, opposite the office of the company, said sign to be eighteen feet or less in length and of proportionate width.

This request was refused, and the city marshal was instructed to have the sign of the Postal-Cable company, now suspended across the street, taken down.

Protests of sundry people, including a number of young boys and girls, were presented against the prospective glove contest on the evening of July 4.

Rev. Williams and Rev. Neef addressed the council in favor of the protests and Mr. Webber spoke against them.

It appearing that glove contests were authorized by a city ordinance, and that in accordance therewith the city clerk had already issued a license for the contest on July 4, the protests were ordered filed without action.

The city treasurer submitted his monthly report showing: Cash on hand, June 1, $500.22; receipts, $120.70; warrants paid, $254.18; cash on hand, $366.74. Referred to the committee on finance.

The city clerk reported licenses issued, $63, and warrants issued, $761.19, during the month.

The lengthy report of the police magistrate was referred without reading.

The city marshal reported fines collected $10 and expenses $1 for past two weeks. He also reported that he had killed and buried nine dogs during June.

The members of the committee on public works reported that they had conferred with the superintendent of the gas company, and asked for an extension of time before closing the works of the company, and had been assured that the company was doing all in its power to continue the operation of the works, but that the furnace and receiver were out of order and liable to give out at any time.

The committee on surveys and lighting asked for and was granted further time to report on petition asking for an additional electric light on College street.

The following bills were ordered paid: Ned Gold, killing dogs, $5.40; Jacob Weltmer, stationery, $2.45; Water and Improvement company, water service, $166.68; Electric Light company, light service, $166.68.

The bill of Sheriff Cunningham for boarding city prisoners was referred to the committee on finance with instructions to report back some plan whereby the sheriff would receive cash or its equivalent for his services.

The $13.00 bill of City Engineer McRae was disallowed as unauthorized and exorbitant.

The mayor was authorized to employ five extra policemen at $1.65 per diem on the 3d, 4th and 5th of July, three to serve in the day time and two at night.

On motion of Counsellman Delgado the freedom of the city was extended to all visitors during the tournament.

The council then adjourned.
