BANNOCKS AND SETTLERS.

Reported Massacre of Whites in Jackson Hole Country Denied by Agent Teter.

Conflict Between Uncle Sam and Wyoming as to Enforcement of Game Laws—Views of Gen. Schofield on the Situation.

Market Lake, Idaho, July 29.—Gov. Richards, of Wyoming, insists that the Indians be taught that, when they are in Wyoming, they must obey the laws. Indian Agent Teter, on the other hand, asserts that the Indians have authority to hunt in Wyoming under the treaty of 1867. It is stated that indictments will be sworn out against the settlers connected with the killing of the Indians who tried to escape while under arrest.

SETTLERS PREPARED TO RESIST SAVAGES. Dr. Womborn, of Rexburg, has just come from that place with the news that James Simmons and Fred Cunningham, scouts, arrived in Rexburg last evening straight from Jackson Hole. They report that no conflict had taken place between the whites and the Indians. Five hundred Indians are in Hoback basin, fifty miles from Marysville, where the settlers are fortified and prepared to resist the savages should an attack be made.

REPORTED MASSACRE DENIED. Washington.—A further denial of the report of a massacre at Jackson Hole reached the interior department today, in a dispatch from Indian Agent Teter. The dispatch is dated Rexburg, Idaho, near Market Lake, July 28, and says: "On the 27th Sheriff Hawley, near Rexburg, is returning from Jackson Hole, where he had been sent to ascertain if any settlers had been killed by the Indians, states that the settlers have not been molested by the Indians, who are supposed to be encamped about forty miles from the settlement, in practically an impenetrable position. There is no doubt of the fact that a large body of Lemhi Indians recently joined the other Indians in Hoback's canon."

GEN. SCHOFIELD'S VIEW OF THE SITUATION. Washington.—Speaking of the Indian disturbance in northern Wyoming, Gen. Schofield today expresses the opinion that with discreet management the Indians will soon surrender and return to the reservation. The only way they can cause trouble is by scattering and taking to the mountains. But he thinks it unlikely that they will precipitate hostilities, now that the soldiers are coming. Speaking of the dispatch from Market Lake, stating that Jackson Hole settlers will be arrested and tried for killing several Indians accused of violating the Wyoming game laws, Commissioner Browning said that he has no objection being taken in this direction. The Indian office would welcome a legal test of the right of the Indians to kill game in defiance of the state laws. "If the courts decide that the law is superior to the treaty of the government with the Indians, the matter would be settled and we would be very glad of it," he said.

NEW YORKERS CALL FOR TROOPS. New York.—John O'Connor, attorney for the exponents of the late Robert Ray Hamilton, has received the following telegram: "Market Lake.—Can you get a detachment of troops ordered to protect the Mary Mere ranch, as planned by the commissioner. No troops are within forty miles of the post. J. D. Sargent." The Mary Mere ranch, of which Robert Ray Hamilton was a partner, is about forty miles north of Jackson Hole, close to the southern boundary of Yellowstone park.

Bloody Malice Row in Iowa. Oskaloosa, Iowa, July 29.—Mute Jones, colored, Kirkman, white, and two others went into a saloon last night and started a row with the keeper, Echlin. Jones was killed, Kirkman wounded and Echlin shot himself through the right foot. Echlin gave himself up.

STILL ANOTHER MYSTERY.

Holmes Believed to Have Made Way with Dr. Russler in 1902.

Chicago, July 29.—Another case of mysterious disappearance, which may yet be charged to Holmes, was reported to the police today by the neighbors of Dr. Russler, who disappeared in 1902. Dr. Russler for several months had offices in the Holmes building and he and Holmes were often seen together apparently being intimate friends.

AFTER DAVE DAY.

Charges of Fraud in Management of the Utes—The Removal Question Involved.

Denver, July 29.—A special to the Times from Durango says: Great interest is felt here in the result of an investigation of the Ute Indian agency at Ignacio now being made by T. P. Smith, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, and Judge Duncan, superintendent of agents. The course pursued by Agent Dave Day regarding the removal of the Utes to the western part of the reservation is freely denounced here and has led to bringing the charges of fraud in the agency management. The investigation will close today and the findings of the commission will be forwarded to the secretary of the interior.

Havana, July 29.—Before leaving Manzanillo for Cienfuegos, Capt. Gen. Martinez de Campos pardoned all political and war prisoners. The prisoners thus released include many under sentence to be shot according to military law and others condemned to imprisonment in the Africa colony.

FOUGHT TO A FINISH.

Constable Ed. Cain Shot Down at Catskill While Performing His Duty.

Pierced Through with a Murderous Bullet a Nerve Officer Gets His Man.

Trinidad, Colo., July 29.—A report comes from Catskill, N. M., of a double murder which took place yesterday afternoon. Two men named Fowler and Reese had some trouble and Reese left Fowler, saying he would see him again. Ed. Cain, constable at Catskill precinct, came along about that time, when Fowler asked him to stay there with him as he expected Reese to come back and there might be trouble. Reese soon returned with a rifle and upon Cain trying to arrest him he fired, the ball entering Cain's body just below the heart. Cain fell, rolled over and fired three shots at Reese all of which took effect. Both men died.

Worst Storm in Years.

Kansas City, July 29.—Kansas City and vicinity were visited yesterday by the worst rain and thunder storm in the history of the weather bureau. The rainfall was 4.07 inches. No damage was done on the Missouri side, but across the line in Kansas great damage was done to private and public property.

MINES AND WATER POWER.

Objects of the Thought and Effort of Men in the West.

San Francisco, July 29.—The Chronicle says there is a revival of mining in all the Pacific coast states and territories, and particularly in California. Reports of increased activity come from all the mining centers, which are of a character to indicate that the improvements in the great industry are of a permanent character. Investments of eastern and foreign capital are noted, and an increase of confidence is shown on all sides. Gold mines are being sold, new ones being developed and old workings being reopened. It is not alone in the mining of precious metals that activity is seen, but in the working of the abundant valuable mineral deposits throughout the state. The utilizing of water power to generate electric force is a new factor which is bound to play an important part in the development of the mining industries of the coast.

Eastern Finances.

New York, July 29.—Talk of higher money rates is still heard, but the uncertainty surrounding the exchange market and the knowledge that outside offerings of funds are probably at higher rates have prevented any advancement so far. The demand for money from the south and west has not been up to the point, although there is every reason to look for a movement from this point soon. Comparisons with a year ago show that New York banks are carrying a much larger volume of loans and many millions less in deposits, while the excess reserve is only about half as large as reported for the corresponding week in 1894.

TO-DAY'S CONDENSATION

The seed division of the agricultural department will be abolished on October 1. The change is financially to involve a saving of about $200,000.

Mr. J. P. Cole, territorial treasurer of Arizona, will receive bids until August 26 for the purchase of $365,000 funding bonds, to run twenty years and bear 5 per cent interest, payable semi-annually in gold.

The shipments of silver per steamship New York amounts to 454,000 ounces, by the following concerns: J. and W. Seligman, 225,000 ounces; Heidebach, Ickelheimer & Co., 29,000, and Handy & Harmon, 200,000 ounces.

A French company has been organized, with $5,000,000 capital, to convey electric power into the City of Mexico from the waterfall at Pueblo, 120 miles away. It is calculated that 20,000 horse-power will be obtained by this means.

The time for the meeting of the national Republican committee has been changed from November to December. Chairman Manley is in favor of holding the national convention on one of the Pacific coast cities.

Great interest is felt in the speed test which the United States cruiser Columbia is now making across the Atlantic, she having sailed for New York at 12:30 p. m. Saturday from Southampton.

An exposition of California products, especially preserves and wines, has opened at Berlin. A Hamburg firm is going to open 400 branch stores in Europe for the sale of these products of the Pacific coast.

The free coinage fight is on in Ohio. Democrats of Butler county split on Saturday. Ex-Gov. Campbell, leader of gold bug forces, Paul J. Sorg and others walked out of the convention and met at the court house. At the opera house the regular convention selected H. Gray, Peter Schwab, David Pierce, John F. Neelan, Christian Benninghoffen, E. F. Bung, of Middletown, and A. J. Demore, of Ross township.

FORT MARCY RESERVE.

Authorities at Washington Have Under Consideration Disposition of Abandoned Military Reservation.

Washington, July 29.—A great deal of interest seems to be taken by the citizens of New Mexico in the disposal of the abandoned Fort Marcy military reservation at Santa Fe. A dozen letters on the subject have recently been received at the interior department. The war department has been requested to furnish the interior department all the information it may have. When this is received, the matter will be taken up and disposed of as quickly as possible.

SILVER DEBATE CLOSED.

Harvey's Pointed Answer to Horr's Insinuation Regarding Silver Barons.

Horr Presented with a Genuine Dollar of the Daddies as a Souvenir Amid Applause.

Chicago, Ill., July 29.—The last day of the Harvey-Horr silver contention began this afternoon, when Mr. Harvey spoke exclusively of the effect of independent free coinage of silver and gold by the United States. On Saturday afternoon, in closing the main debate, Mr. Harvey said:

NOT A BULLION BARON CAMPAIGN. "The proposition is made by the gold standard men that all of our effort for the restoration of silver is for the interest of silver bullion owners. It is not true. In our struggle to restore a sufficient volume of primary money in this country we have turned our attention to silver to right the wrong that was committed and to restore to the people that which is the people's money, irrespective of who owned that property. We do not object to gold because the gold miners produce it, and the arguments that the gentleman makes about silver producers could be made with the same force about the gold producers, but I want to make another answer to it. I want to say to you that the silver producers have not assisted in running this campaign. (Applause.) If they were assisting anyone it is reasonable to suppose they had assisted me. I began my work in 1886 by publishing a weekly paper, and commenced bringing out books in December, 1888. I became chairman of the bimetallic committee of this state in the summer of 1893. My committee appealed personally and by letter to about all the silver mine owners in the west for donations to assist us. We did not receive a cent. At one time I sent out forty-four letters to selected names of as many prominent who were supposed to be wealthy, such as Moffatt, Shattuck, Colorado, and Clark of Montana—and did not receive a cent from them, not even enough to pay the postage on the letters; not even the courtesy of a reply except from one. At the time I brought out Coin's Financial School I was in debt and had no money left."

In closing the debate for the day Mr. Harvey handed Mr. Horr a souvenir silver dollar of 1799, with the word "Unit" upon it. Mr. Horr said: "Take it, Mr. Horr. Washington may have carried it in his pocket; Jefferson may have had it in his possession; it may have been paid for the paper on which the declaration of war was written in 1812 against Great Britain; it may have been fondled by Jackson when writing his message to congress against the national banks. (Applause.) It is a souvenir for any American proud of his country and of its institutions to carry in his pocket all the days of his life." (Passing the dollar to Mr. Horr.) (Applause, shouts of "Hurrah," and continued applause.) Mr. Horr, smiling: "I shall keep this dollar and put it to a good use. I intend to have a hole bored through it and then I will hang it around the neck of my grandchild, born just as we commenced this discussion. (Applause.) It will do Brother Harvey good to learn that the people of the United States are still, in spite of the gold standard, marrying and giving in marriage, and that children are still born to us in spite of the silver dollar." (Laughter and applause.)

CRIME IN KANSAS.

A Farmer's Daughter Assaulted and Outraged Near Lawrence.

Lawrence, Kas., July 29.—News was brought to Lawrence this morning that the 18-year-old daughter of Steve Sturdevant, of Baldwin, had been assaulted by an unknown man and outraged. She was in a hammock reading, about 8 o'clock last night, and was found an hour later unconscious in a hollow near the house.

Shot Dead in the Pulpit.

Mitchell Station, Ala., July 29.—While Sunday services were being conducted in a negro church near here, a pistol shot was fired and the preacher, Rev. Eli Williams, fell dead in the pulpit. The ball entered his heart. The assassin's identity is not known.

CORBETT VS. CORBETT.

Referee Finds that Mrs. Corbett is Entitled to a Divorce and $100 Per Week During Life.

New York, July 29.—Referee Jacobs, in his report in the matter of the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Ollie Corbett against James J. Corbett, the pugilist, finds Mrs. Corbett entitled to divorce and recommends that the agreement entered into between herself and husband at the time of separation, by which he was to pay her $100 a week for life, be continued.

Election Riots in France.

Paris, July 29.—This election of members of the council general resulted in the republicans gaining three-quarters of the seats. At Roubaix, department of the north, there was a collision between the republicans and the collectivists and gens d'armes had to charge repeatedly before the disturbances were quelled. Serious riots, accompanied by bloodshed, are reported on the Brabantine, near Maraisville.

UNION NATIONAL CLOSED.

R. W. Woodbury's Bank in Denver Has Gone Into Liquidation—Claimed Depositors Will Lose Nothing.

Denver, July 29.—The Union National bank, of which R. W. Woodbury is president, was closed today. It will liquidate and go out of business. The Union National bank was closed during the panic of 1893, but subsequently resumed business and later consolidated with the State National bank, which was also closed during the panic. It is said that the depositors will lose nothing and that business will not be seriously affected.

BURNED HIS BOOKS.

Irreconcilability in His Affairs as Town Treasurer of Highland Forces Treasurer of Arapahoe County to Retire.

Denver, July 29.—T. H. Wygant, county treasurer of Arapahoe county, retires from office to-day on account of inability to furnish a satisfactory bond for $750,000. Wygant was formerly treasurer of the town of Highlands. An investigation of the town's affairs is in progress and Wygant was asked to produce his books. He refused, saying that he had burned the books. On account of this and other revelations, D. H. Moffatt and others, who signed his bond as county treasurer, withdrew their names. The county commissioners will elect a new treasurer this afternoon.

DISCLOSURE AT DENVER.

One of the Alleged Cripple Creek Train Robbers Said to Be Author of a Double Murder at Las Vegas.

Denver, July 29.—Louis Vannoe, who turned state's evidence at the recent trial of the alleged Cripple Creek train robbers, says that Taylor, one of the prisoners, is "Hurricane Bill," who killed a policeman and citizen in a Las Vegas, N. M., dance hall in 1883. "Hurricane Bill" or Bill Watson was a cowboy on a ranch belonging to San Does, near Las Vegas. On the night of the double murder, he was dancing in a hall with a woman and quarreled about her with the citizen, who was killed. Shooting then began, and when the panic subsided, an officer and "Hurricane Bill's" rival were found dead. Watson fled. Taylor says that Louis Vannoe or his brother, Frank, did the killing at Las Vegas.

NEW MEXICO NEWS.

Vacant houses are scarce at Hagerman. The ball game between the Roswell and Eddy teams resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 23 to 9.

The cattlemen of Socorro county are elated over the prospect of abundant grass since the late heavy rains.

The employees of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe have organized a house committee at Las Cruces with H. E. Shannon as chief.

Remarks the Roswell Board: We have had 4.22 inches of rain so far this month. Not a bad state of drought for a dry country. Copious rains have fallen all over New Mexico and good grass is assured if not another drop of rain falls between now and the 1st of January.

Observes the Socorro Advertiser: The Atchafalpa "River" is doing no harm, and no over-zealous officer of the law should interfere with him.

It is rumored that W. R. Jones, of Coolidge, N. M., tried to draw a pistol on one of the L. C. cowboys, and was shot three times, dying instantly.

Cattle in New Mexico must necessarily be in first-class condition for the market this fall as the plains are as meadows, in short, the territory generally, is a veritable pasture.

D. L. Baker, a brakeman on the Denver, Texas & Gulf, fell between two box cars, near Manitou junction, about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, and was frightfully and fatally mangled.

Marshal Clay arrested the first bicyclist last night for riding on the side-walk. The young man pleaded ignorance of the ordinance, but had to pay the fine, all the same.—Las Vegas Optic.

The fact that plenty of artesian water has been struck at Hagerman demonstrates the fact that artesian water can be secured anywhere in the valley between Roswell and McMillan.

Sixty-five persons, including many of the most prominent business men, were converted at Pecora by Abe Mulkey in last week's meetings. Fifty-one new members were added to the churches.

Ed. Bates, who has been working for the V. V. ranch, near Roswell, was thrown and badly hurt Monday, by his horse stepping in a prairie dog hole. He was unconscious for nearly two days, but is getting better now.

An inch of rain fell Monday night, an inch and three-quarters Wednesday afternoon and night, and, as the ground was wet from Sunday night's rain, the streets, highways and byways have been somewhat too soft for bicycling this week.—Roswell Register.

Remarks the Citizen: The new post-office, fixtures and everything else connected with Uncle Sam's handsome letter shop, including Major E. A. Grunsfeld, the postmaster, is a credit to Albuquerque, in fact to a city with more than three times the population.

The people of Socorro are becoming impatient. After expending more than $15,000 on a work that should have cost no more than $3,000, again a portion of the city is under water because of the condition of the dam at the point of the mountain.

Frank Selman has in his possession a very rare German coin. It was coined in 1693, making it 202 years old. In size it is a trifle smaller than our silver dollar and is remarkably well preserved. On one side the motto reads, "Quo fas et gloriaducunt." On the other, "Dux Br. & Luns. Geor. Will. D. G." Frank has refused $20 for it on several occasions.—Rio Grande Republican.

The new and spacious hall built by A. B. Ely has been leased for a term of years by the Knights of Pythias, and as soon as the building is completed, they will vacate the Leyer building and take up their quarters in Ely's hall.—Las Cruces Republican.

The answer of the New Mexico board of health in the Dr. Gentry case has been filed at the court clerk's office. It is a voluminous document and concludes with a denial of having refused, finally, to grant the physician a certificate to practice medicine, but that the board intended having a meeting on the 10th, at which (time he could have been fully heard upon his application. The meeting was not held for this purpose, upon notice that suit had been commenced. The board deny having acted arbitrarily, unfairly, unlawfully or unjustly toward Dr. Gentry, the relator, or that they are prejudiced against him, but state in so many words that they are ready and willing, so soon as convenient to them, to meet together and consider, fairly and justly, his application for a practitioner's certificate. —Las Vegas Optic.

HOME INDUSTRIES.

An Observer Speaks Critically of Business Methods that Injure the Community.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

Santa Fe, July 28.—Two or three days ago you commented editorially upon the necessity which exists for citizens of Santa Fe to stand together; you pointed to the example of Denver, Colorado Springs and other thriving communities, which, once, only a few years ago, were not so large or prosperous as Santa Fe, and you particularly alluded to the necessity of encouraging and supporting the fruit industry. Your remarks were most timely, for there is a disposition on the part of dealers and residents to look everywhere rather than to the Santa Fe growers for the fruit required for sale or consumption in the city, and this although it is admitted all sides that our own product can not be excelled.

Do you think it has ever occurred to the boarding houses, to the wealthier residents of Santa Fe, to the hotel keepers and to the dealers that in placing turpentine fruit from California, Arizona, Texas and elsewhere before the consumer they are inflicting a wanton injury upon this community, and especially upon the unfortunate invalid who has sought our doors for renewed health? The fruit that comes from the points mentioned is turpentine and therefore more or less unfit for any but the most robust digestion. It is turpentine because it must be picked unripe in order that it may be transported to a distant market in marketable condition. And what is the only excuse for foisting off upon this community this inferior fruit? Simply that it comes in earlier, and that the pampered palate may than be tickled a few weeks sooner with a fruit that is not yet mature in this locality.

The whole community is injured by such a course of action. First, the health seeker, by overtaxing already enfeebled digestive organs; second, the merchant, by sending money out of the town that could be and ought to be kept in the community; thirdly, the fruit grower, because after the public has been supplied with strawberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches, apricots, etc., out of season and more or less tasteless at more or less exorbitant prices, the same public is not willing to purchase at any price the same fruits home grown, when they are offered in perfection a month or more later.

It should be borne in mind that we can not have the glorious climate of which we boast and have strawberries ripe at Christmas. No horticultural skill can alter the seasons, nor would our fruit be so good as it is if it ripened at the same time as fruit in southern California. And lastly the whole territory is injured, for these remarks do not apply to Santa Fe only. The stranger judges of the horticultural possibilities of a country by what he sees and eats more than by what he is told. It is a common remark that, "I have never tasted any good fruit in New Mexico," or, as visitors frequently say in my garden, "I have never tasted such fruit as this in Santa Fe. I never see it on the table at the sanitarium or at the hotel, and there is none for sale in the stores nor on the street." It is not remarkable that the stranger does not see good fruit peddled in the street, because the careless way of handling it very soon injures the appearance and the greater part of it has been picked unripe and comes from a distance, but it is rather curious that in other towns Santa Fe fruit tops the market and is always sought for, while at home the growers have to pack and ship it in order to find a sale. Fruit growing is the only industry thriving amongst us at the present time, the only resource which brings money into the town, and yet the merchants and hotel keepers who are dependent upon the community for living are annually paying away thousands of dollars to the express companies, railroads and foreign growers, which would be much better expended in fostering the infant industry which promises to be so important a factor in our progress and future prosperity.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every Post Office in the Territory and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the southwest.

MONDAY, JULY 29.

With three important gold strikes to its credit in the space of two weeks south Santa Fe county may well look forward to the future. The precious stuff is surely there.

Artesian water has been developed at the town of Hagerman at a depth of 295 feet. This is the result of enterprise. If artesian flows are so readily brought to the surface in the lower Pecos valley, why not in the Rio Grande valley? Go after it, citizens.

The Pacific coast anticipates a marked stimulus in business and industrial interests as a result of the new Japanese-Chinese treaty. The Japanese government has ordered 15,000 tons of flour from a commission house in Tacoma, Wash.

The Roswell Record truthfully remarks: It is an all too common mistake to suppose that a boy, who expects to be a tiller of the soil, needs no special education. While mother earth will stand more neglect than anything else, there is no business that affords a greater premium on intelligence than that of farming.

The New Mexican is almost daily chronicling attempts of the murderers of Frank Chavez to escape. They must have very poor jailors up there—Las Cruces Republicans. Well, they are quite competent to prevent the Republican gang from succeeding in their many and varied attempts to liberate these assassins.

Ten competition for first place in the "Messiah" business about Albuquerque, says the White Oaks Eagle, has become so sharp of late that the whole enterprise is in danger of being ruined. It will now be in order for the religious dailies of that city—the Democrat and the Citizen—to offer free salvation as a premium to new subscribers.

The revival which has occurred in the iron business has caused so much of an increase in freight traffic in western Pennsylvania that the Pennsylvania Railroad company has been obliged to put on 1,000 new cars for coal, ore and limestone, and will add 500 more as soon as they can be built. It is announced that this company will spend $5,000,000 on improvements, alterations and extensions to their property this year. No sign of hard times there.

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN.

Five gentlemen, representing colonies of discontented farmers in Illinois and Wisconsin, recently paid a visit to Eddy, Roswell and other parts of the Pecos valley for the purpose of personally inspecting that fair and fruitful region with view to securing locations for themselves as well as reporting the results of their observations for the benefit of others. The gentlemen were so charmed with what they saw that they purchased 1,500 acres of land near Florence, and, as soon as they harvest their crops and dispose of their homes in the northwest, will return to the Pecos country to stay. They also said that many other families in Illinois and Wisconsin were only waiting for their favorable report to move with them to New Mexico. The fact that so many such desirable people, after careful investigation of our climate and resources, are eagerly seeking permanent homes in this territory is most encouraging. It is not only the strongest possible testimony to the attractiveness of New Mexico, but the introduction of the modern methods familiar to these people is certain to contribute very much toward the rapid and satisfactory development of this resourceful region.

A SCRAP OF HISTORY.

A little more than a year ago it was decided by the associated banks to force a special session of congress to stop the purchase of silver by our government. To that end it was determined to make money scarce and precipitate hard times, the results to be charged to the silver purchasing law, the object being to manufacture public sentiment. This was the origin of the business wreckage of 1893. The panic, deliberately planned by the banks, got beyond their control and they had to share freely in the ruin impelled by themselves. When that conspiracy was shaped in New York the following was sent to every national bank in circular form. It is well worth perusal and preservation:

Dear Sir: The interests of national banks require immediate financial legislation by congress. Silver, silver certificates and treasury notes must be retired and national bank notes upon a gold basis made the only money. This will require the authorization of from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 of new bonds as a basis of circulation. You will, at once, retire one-third of your circulation and call on one-half of your loans. Be careful to make a money stringency felt among your patrons, especially among influential business men. Advocate an early session of congress for the repeal of the purchase clause of the Sherman law and act with the other banks of your city in securing a large petition to congress for its unconditional repeal per accompanying form. * * * The future life of national banks as fixed and safe investments depends upon immediate action, as there is an increasing sentiment in favor of government legal tender notes and silver coinage.

The foregoing was produced in an article by William Knapp, of Denver, in the June number of the American Journal of Politics. It discloses the objects of the money power as authoritatively expressed. It is dated New York, March 12, 1893.

Is it right that professional money dealers should possess the power, by contracting or expanding the currency at will, to tamper with the business of the country and set in motion forces too sweepingly destructive for control?

PRESS COMMENT.

It Pays.

Statistics show that mining of precious metals pays better profit to the employer and higher wages to the employee, than any other business carried on in the United States. The census bureau in the mining statistics shows that the average output per man engaged in the actual production of these metals is $1,753 per year, and that the wages paid averages $725 per year for each employee, a considerable better showing than that made by any other industry.—Hillsboro Advocate.

The Advertiser's Explanation.

The New Mexican is mistaken when it states that the Advertiser is only airing a personal grievance, although there is no objection to anyone believing that way, anyway you put it. The Advertiser gathered an exhibit of over fifty boxes of mineral, containing many valuable specimens, borrowed for the occasion under the supposition that the man placed in charge at Chicago was to be under bond for the return of all valuables. The editor of the Advertiser went to Chicago (paying his own fare) and while there received a voucher for $250.75, it not being stated what the money was for. As the exhibit taken there by him was fully one-half of what was there, that may have been the one-half value of the whole, but no one supposed so at the time. If so, what was done with the money over and above the $500? However, that is not the trouble. A number of those borrowed specimens were never returned, and the Advertiser will be forced to pay for them. Now it may be perfectly proper (according to the New Mexican) to rob a man, but it isn't honest, and the man in charge may be responsible, but if a man was sent there to control him, that man is responsible. What the Advertiser objects to is that Mills was paid $8,577.91, and some one else more than $20,000, without the people being allowed to look at the accounts.—Socorro Advertiser.

The Broken Banks.

Grant county people are still wondering if the end of those Deming and Silver City bank receiverships will ever come. Let's see; about eight years, isn't it, that this matter has been dragged along?—New Mexican.
Not quite so bad as that. The banks failed February 3, 1892, nearly three and a half years ago, and up to the present time the depositors have received just 40 per cent of their deposits at the time of the failure. The last dividend was paid considerably more than a year and a half ago and it is not believed that the prospects for further dividends are very bright. The controller of the currency assessed the stockholders in the bank here 50 per cent of the amount of stock, but it has turned out that an assessment of 100 per cent would not more than have paid the depositors in full by this time. Quite a number of worthless judgments have been obtained, but it is questionable whether they could be sold for enough to pay the court costs in obtaining them, to say nothing of the attorney's fees.
The murmurs of the depositors have reached Washington, but so far they have been productive of no good results. The former president of the two banks is working for his board in the territorial hotel at Santa Fe and this fact is comforting to some of the losers in the banks, but they still have to mourn the loss of their money.—Silver City Eagle.

The PECOS VALLEY of . . . NEW MEXICO

OFFERS unequalled advantages to the farmer, fruit grower, live stock raiser, dairyman, bee-keeper, and to the home-seeker generally.
The soil of the Pecos Valley is of high average fertility, and under irrigation produces bountiful crops of most of the grasses, grains, vegetables, berries and fruits of the temperate and some of those of the semi-tropical zone. In such fruit as the peach, pear, plum, grape, prune, apricot, nectarine, cherry, quince, etc., the Valley will dispute for the pre-eminence with California; while competent authority pronounces its upper portions in particular the finest apple country in the world.
Enormous yields of such forage crops as alfalfa, sorghum and Egyptian corn make the feeding of cattle and sheep and the raising and fattening of hogs a very profitable occupation.
The cultivation of canebrake—a tanning material of great value—is becoming an important industry in the Pecos Valley, a home market having been afforded for all that can be raised, at a price yielding a handsome profit.
The climate of the Pecos Valley has no superior in the United States, being pre-eminently healthful and health restoring.

Lands with perpetual water-rights are for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The water supply of the Pecos Valley has no equal in all the arid region for constancy and reliability; and this with the superb climate, productive soil and the facilities afforded by the railway which extends through the Valley's entire length, will cause these lands to enjoy a constant, and at times rapid, increase in value.

The recent completion of the Pecos Valley Railway to Roswell will cause the more rapid settlement and development of the upper portions of the Valley, including the rich Felix section. The company has recently purchased many of the older improved farms about Roswell, and has now for sale lands to meet the wants of all—raw lands, partially improved lands, as well as farms with houses, orchards and fields of alfalfa and other crops. In the vicinity of Roswell several pieces of land have been divided into five and ten acre tracts, suitable for orchards and truck farms in connection with suburban homes. Certain of these tracts are being planted to orchards, and will be cultivated and cared for by the company for three years at the end of which period they will be handed over to the purchaser. Write for pamphlet fully describing the terms and conditions on which these several classes of tracts are sold.

Eat and Be Happy!

Nobody can do this who has dyspepsia. Even a light meal, eaten with relish, induces more or less torture upon the wretched victim of indigestion. But why allow one's self to be thus victimized when succor in the shape of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be summoned? If you are going to any locality—a remote country farm house, or new settlement, for instance, where it is not readily procurable, provide yourself in advance with an adequate supply. An unaccustomed diet is very apt to produce dyspeptic qualms, so is brackish water aboard ship and the eating of acid fruits. Forestall further encroachment of the complaint with this superb and genial corrective and preventive. Heartburn, sour eructations, biliousness, constipation, malaria, rheumatism and kidney trouble promptly succumb to the onset of this vanquisher of bodily ailments and restorative of vigor.

PERICLES AND ASPASIA.

Restless words were on his tongue,
Then eloquence first flashed below;
Full armed to life the perfect springs—
Minerva from the Thunderer's brow
And his the sole, the sacred hand
That shook her axis o'er the land.
And thronged immortal by his side
A woman sits with eye sublime—
Aspasia, all his spirit's bride.
But if their solemn love were crime
Pity the beauty and the sage—
Their crime was in their darkened age.
He perished, but his wreath was won—
He perished in his height of fame.
Then sunk the cloud on Athens' sun.
Yet still she consoled in his name.
Filled with his soul, she could not die.
Her conquest was posterity.
—George Croly.

TARANTELLA.

The summer sun bore downward and neared the horizon when the P. and O. steamer Comandante glided into the harbor of Brindisi and the ancient building on the breakwater, apparently a castle, was girt edged by the slanting rays. It was a little while before the huge hull at last settled alongside of the quay and the gangway slid out. Then began some business with the shore, men with packing cases and parcels and bags came upon the pavement, and the clang of the north mingled with the jargon of the south. But the mail would not come in till next day.

There were on board some young fellows, also some old ones. Two or three of the former and one or two of the latter were tramping the dock and hanging over the side rail in that aimless fashion of all passengers, listening to the jargon of the town and watching the boxes being waded in by the steam crane. Every now and then came an interval in the hissing, rattling roll of the chain and the powwow of volleys, and in one of these intervals Slater said to James: "Some sort of festival is going on behind the buildings in there. Don't you hear it?"

"No, I don't," said James.
"Well, listen next time a pause comes," said Slater, "and if your ears are as sharp as mine you will. You may not be able, though."

Another pause came and James put his hand behind his ear. He also contracted his brows together with the tense effort to get hold of any such sound, however faint it might be with distance, starting nervously as the steam crane raised anew the noise of its labor, and broke the clench he was putting on the muscles of his forehead.

"No," he said, striking a match and relighting his pipe, "I heard nothing; did you?"
"I heard it the same as before," said Slater—"same as before. Your scale of hearing evidently isn't tuned up to the pitch that mine is. There are some other things you would not be able to hear, the shrill little cry of an Egyptian tomb cat, for instance. There are lots of people who think that when they come whistling as they do it silently. But they give a tiny creak also, the highest note I have ever heard. Though, of course, that may be a different thing altogether from the faintness of distance, because those notes of that pipe and that concertina were not far past middle pitch. I wonder what they are doing."

Some more of that little set of acquaintance edged to them, and the knot compared notes. No one had heard the pipe and concertina but Slater, and passenger-like, they began to look at the matter in the light of a bet as they obeyed the bell summons and went in to dinner. As Slater was one of those peculiar people, not so common, who seem to get on chaffing terms with every one in whatever place he may stay, it followed that he was the center for a good deal of banter. Even the second officer, a man usually of the silently smiling sort, made some humorous comment on long hearing, all by the way of keeping up conversation on the subject of ears. Slater thus made several bets on the understanding that if he heard the sound again after dinner was over some of them should go with him to try to find it out, supposing that he had heard aright. Then they started other topics and forgot that one.

But by and by, as they emerged on deck again in a fine summer night, still and palpitating with heat, and were leaning against the rail in a little group, smoking placidly and gossiping lazily, Slater suddenly said, "Would you mind keeping quiet for a minute, please?"

It was just then that a largish case of wine or something was pushed along a side gangway and into the ship's lower deck. The job done, there came the usual pause, and there being no voices around at that moment a silence, deep and intense, of five seconds only intervened.

"Yes, I can hear it still," said Slater, "but as to the quarter I'm not quite certain—a pipe and concertina and, I think, dancing."

Some of the others also thought they had heard the pipe and the discussion came up again. Slater buttoned up his coat and went down with his watch in his hand. Putting it on his cabin table, he took a stick and went across the gangway on to the paved wharf, where he found the others, who said they were all going too. It was then a moot point as to which direction to take. The majority decided for the right hand, so up the right hand street they went, past an old and battered church, down another street, where the people sat at their doors and panted with the heat. One of the party, who knew Italian to some extent, asked if any festa was going on and was told no. Presently they came into the square and saw a few groups of folk, but nothing unusual. Nor did any sound of anything but a guttural come to their ears.

"The majority is wrong—and usually is," said Slater. "I'm going straight back to the ship to listen again. You needn't come with me if you don't want. Good night."

However, two of the others elected to return with him, and the three retraced their steps accordingly until they stood by the Comandante once more. Slater put a hand behind each ear, and after a moment, said, "Of course!" and went sharp off to the leftward, followed by the others.

The moon now rode high, like a dimming, pale orange, and they followed the railway line for some minutes till there was a crossing, over which they went. A hill rose in front of them with some ruin on its crest, and a road ran past inland; the sound of pipe and concertina was now clear, though still distant, and Slater followed his instinct up the rocky hillside, giving his shins a bruise or two in the shadow.

At last they passed through a gap in the parapet wall that stretched a broken circle round the eminence and stood beneath a queer old church fortress, very macabrous and quite lifeless. The music now rose clearer, and straying around by the path they looked down into a nest of houses, beyond which stretched long patches of field. There were furrows and piles upon those lighted places, heaps of sticks or shaves, or bundles of weeds for burning—species and sort became lost in that garish glitter and everything was jagged light and jagged shadow. Again the music rose. Slater and James and the other man descended by a winding path that felt dusty and smelled filthy. The night was hot, and in this squalid place it seemed, if possible, even hotter. When they came to the bottom, they followed the piping quite naturally down a crooked lane, and the turn brought them suddenly into a small throng of folk, standing in front of a two storied house, upon whose whitewashed front and stuffed panes the moon struck full and glaring. The lower part was a cellarlike sort of a place, lighted with all lengths of candle ends, stuck in bottles and on spikes. Some person inside seemed to be out of breath with much blowing of the pipe. Every now and then the instrument gave a guttural gurgle, and there was a little stoppage while the player wiped his mouth and perhaps took a sip of something, the concertina still ambling along with a tremor and accompaniment until the pipe joined it again. Slater and James and the other man shoved forward through the tight knot and looked into the room with eyes of curiosity, like the others.

This is what they saw:
Benches and a few casks turned on end, on which and great rubbish heaped aback, pushed away into corners, a cleared space in the middle and a large, comely girl dancing a wild tarantella barefoot to the playing of a couple of men, while a short, squat hag beat the earth with her boots to incite the dancer, as friends will run beside one in a long race. The girl's bush of black hair was fast coming undone; she pressed it with her hands as if to push it together, and down it rolled over her swarthy shoulders and breast, a cloudy mass, lying up and down, winding about her arms, sometimes nearly brushing the floor as she bent and bounded and whirled. After a while of this she suddenly dropped her arms to her sides, her head sank back and rocked over one shoulder, her bosom shook like an uncertain sail flapping in the breeze. She cast a languorous, half fainting glance around. Instantly the pipe stopped, leaving the concertina ambling on with the accompaniment, and ere the fall could take place a squarely built young fellow in striped trousers leaped forward and caught her round the waist, gripping her tight with one arm and holding in his other hand a bottle. Some one said in her ear, alternately caressing and threatening, it seemed, while she lay quite limp against him, her head on his shoulder, her hair hanging over him like a black mantle, his eyes gazing into his with a lustreless, dazed expression, her full lips parted as one who dreams heavily. He put the bottle to her mouth, and she took a little passively, as a child might. Then a light came into her dull look, she raised a hand, took hold of the bottle for herself, drank long and deeply with greedy eagerness, and her feet twitched with the fresh pulse of the dance that was arising in them. She now struggled a little in the arm that held her, and when the man relaxed her gradually and returned to his place she put her hands to her head and stooped, as if in thought, with her hair hanging still.

Then another shrilled the pipe notes, and instantly she flung her head back and sent her hair round her in great waves, pressed her hands over her bosom, that swelled as if to burst her bodice, gripped hold of the earth floor with her toes and bounded high, like a young panther, setting her teeth and breathing hard, then down again, twisting swiftly, smiling the players with her skirt—dancing—dancing—dancing as if fire ran in her veins.

It was a strange and thrilling thing to see and Slater felt the contagion of movement as never before. He wondered how the others could refrain from all bursting into action.
With such Italian as he knew, he presently asked what this might be.
An old woman answered after a moment.
"It was in the fields this morning, signor, that Nannina there was at work, and the lay creature lay down by a heap of corn to take a nap while we were busy. Then presently she gives a scream and jumps up, running to us. We, of course, killed it at once, the nasty thing—but there! It had bitten her, and right in the breast too. So we did what we could to save her—took her here at once and set her off dancing. By the saints, she has a good night's work before her now and Carlo has kept her up to it well. My own son had to dance for three days and nights once, signor, just like this; has been the same since, though it saved him, of course. It is as bad a bite as I've ever seen this time, alas, indeed!" and so on.

They staid there for half an hour and watched the grim sport, notling at times a red, angry pustule as the bodice sunk lower toward the waist and showed more of the panting breast. Several people took a turn of dancing with her. Then they returned to the vessels and Slater collected his bets.

Next day the mails were shipped and the gangways drawn in. And in the interval of silence Slater thought he still heard a faint piping far away.
Was it fancy, or was it that Nannina was still in that squalid cellar with her lover, dancing—dancing—dancing for her life!—London Graphic.

Frankish Lightning In Texas.
Miss Fannie Moxie, living about five miles north of Santa Fe, Tex., while sitting at an organ during a thunderstorm recently, was struck by lightning and fell to the floor apparently lifeless. A Miss Guile was standing by her side with her hand on Miss Moxie's shoulder, but felt about the slightest shock. The bolt came through the ceiling, making a hole in the roof about the size of a 38 caliber pistol ball, struck Miss Moxie on the left side of the face, ran down and across the breast to the other side of the body, burning a path in both body and clothing until the current reached the ceiling, where it spent itself, tore the shoe from the foot, driving some of the nails out of the heel, thence through the temple of the instrument and the floor, killing a chicken under the house.

There was no evidence of the current touching the roof or any part of the house except the ceiling and the floor. Miss Moxie was carried out of doors into the rain, and soon regained consciousness.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Mexican Dainty.
Pinole is a Mexican corn dainty. The corn is roasted, ground to a coarse meal, mixed with sugar and spices and then stirred with water. It is very nutritious and often forms the sole food of travelers on long journeys.

Of Value In Murder Cases.
A spectroscopic detector by which one part of blood in a solution of 80,000 parts can be discovered has been invented by M. D. Thierry. It will be of value in murder cases where the stains are very minute.

Among the numerous persons who have been cured of rheumatism by Chamberlain's Pain Balm, mention should be made of Mrs. Emily Thomas, of Toledo, Wash., who says: "I have never been able to procure any medicine that would relieve me of rheumatism like Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I have also used it for lame back with great success. It is the best liniment I have ever used, and I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends." For sale by A. C. Ireland, Jr.

a little now and then in removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels and you thereby avoid a multitude of distressing derangements and diseases, and will have less frequent need of your doctor's service.
Of all known agents for this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best. Once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and their attendant discomfort and manifold derangements. The "Pellets" are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. No care is required while using them; they do not interfere with the diet, habits or occupation, and produce no pain, griping or shock to the system. They act in a mild, easy and natural way and there is no reaction afterward. Their help lasts.

The Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. In proof of their superior excellence, it can be truthfully said, that they are always adopted as a household remedy after the first trial. Put up in sealed glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, or to relieve distress from over-eating, take one after dinner. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules; any child will readily take them.

Accept no substitute that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

RAILROAD SETTLEMENT.

Receiver Chapman, of the Santa Fe Southern, Discharged—Special Master Joseph Retained for the Present—Extension Deemed Certain.

Late on Saturday evening, as forecast in these columns that afternoon, the receiver of the Santa Fe Southern Railroad company was discharged, and the balance of the money in the hands of Hon. Antonio Joseph, special master, arising from the sale of the road and from the final settlement with Receiver Chapman, was apportioned pro rata to the bondholders.

In view of the protest of Mr. Fiske against the payment to George Cuyler Preston, trustee, of the amounts apportioned to seven of the bonds claimed by the late Second National Bank of Santa Fe and Bernard Seligman, and the refusal of Mrs. Fannie Staab and Mr. Rody to accept the amounts awarded on the eight bonds held by them, Judge Laughlin retained Mr. Joseph as special master with instructions to hold the money apportioned to the fifteen bonds mentioned until further orders of the court.

Mr. Joseph returned to his home at Ojo Caliente this morning feeling well satisfied with the results of the settlement and fully persuaded that the extension of the Denver & Rio Grande system south from Santa Fe was only a question of a short time.

Right here it may properly be added that the enterprising people of Albuquerque, ever awake to whatever promises to advance the interests of their town, are already actively working to secure the line from Cerrillos. With this in view, the president and secretary of the Territorial Fair association have addressed a letter to Mr. E. T. Jeffrey, president of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company, asking him to deliver an address before the association at the exhibition to be given next September. The letter was placed in the hands of Dr. G. W. Harrison, chairman of a special committee appointed for the purpose, and he immediately left for Denver to deliver the letter in person to Mr. Jeffrey.

On August 1 the Denver & Rio Grande will commence running trains and crews through direct from Antonio to Santa Fe. This will let out several very good men who have been running between here and Espanola. Capt. W. L. Pershing, the former local agent, will also be dropped and will leave in a few days for Denver. It is understood that young Mr. McBride, of Espanola, will serve as local agent.

Santa Fe Shut Out.

The Stenden Electric base ball team, of Denver, captured with perfect ease all four of the games played in this city. The United States Indian school team struggled hard in the game, on Saturday, and until the last two innings did most creditable work. Then the team went to pieces. The score was 20 to 7 in favor of Denver. In their game with the Santa Fe yesterday afternoon, the Denverites placed Clark, their crack pitcher, in the box, and started in with the avowed intention of shutting out the Santa Fe team. They made good their vow with only one apparent difficulty. The Santa Fe only succeeded in hitting Clark for bases four times, one of the number being a two base hit by Ashford, and W. Parsons was the only one who reached third base. The Denverites played an errorless game, showing for the first time in the territory what they could do in the line of ball playing, while, with the exception of the outfielding, the Santa Fe made many errors that piled up the score of their opponents. The game resulted in 23 to 0 in favor of Denver.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

The first peaches on the market from any Santa Fe orchard came from Mr. Bernardell's place. For size and flavor they certainly excel.

In the matter of Mrs. Parsons against George Cassino, charged with an assault with words, tried before Justice Antonio Borrego, on Saturday, the defendant was convicted and appealed to the district court. Mr. A. B. Renahan appeared as attorney for the prosecution.

Mr. W. T. Cudaback and brother start for Old Mexico to-night to accept positions with the Sonora railway. The Postal office here will be run by another of the Cudaback brothers, who is an expert telegrapher and good office manager.

Mr. A. D. Coon, who enjoys the distinction of owning one of the finest fruit farms in the Rio Grande valley, sends the New Mexican a sample of superb peaches from his place near Socorro. Such fruit as that must prove a great factor in New Mexico's future business prosperity.

In pursuance of a decree of the district court, the property of the Lincoln, Luck & Lee Mining company will be sold by A. B. Renahan, special master, on next Saturday, to satisfy the mechanic's lien of Odenville Yates for about $1,300, unless the mining company puts up an appeal bond of $1,800. Francis Downs is attorney for the company and J. H. Sutherland is solicitor for the plaintiff.

The Santa Fe company has completed all repairs east of La Junta and trains are running on schedule time again. The company has had a force of four or five hundred men at work for several days making repairs after the floods. All trains practically got in and out on schedule time to-day. There is still, however, a whole day's mail missing. It is said the mail of the 23d inst. has never been received here.

Mr. P. B. Coffin and wife, Miss Guilford and the Day lads returned last evening from their trip to Baldy mountain on barros. It required ten hours to make the trip going up and eight hours coming home. On Saturday they camped on the crest of that stately mountain and snowballed one another. The view of the Pecos and Santa Fe valleys from that elevation is described as magnificent.

Mr. A. J. Loomis, editor of the Silver City Eagle, arrived from the south last night and to-day entered upon his duties as chief clerk in Collector Shannon's office. He drove a team twenty miles out of Silver City yesterday to catch a train. For one week three construction trains have been at work repairing the Silver City branch of the A. T. & S. F. Through travel will scarcely be resumed until next week.

Dr. Wm. D. Gentry, late of Chicago, who has in view the establishment of a national sanitarium for consumptives at Las Vegas, is in the city to-day. He is backed by the national executive committee of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and is much pleased with the enterprise displayed by Las Vegas. They have secured a tract of thirty-one acres of land just north of town, on which there is a 200-foot building, and it has been donated for sanitarium purposes. Dr. Gentry is here looking after his case in the supreme court, the territorial medical board having attempted to annul a certificate to practice granted him on the ground of alleged unprofessional conduct in Chicago.

Mr. Justice Thos. C. Fuller, of the U. S. court of private land claims, returned to the Palace to-day after a stay at Las Vegas hot springs. His son Mr. Jones Fuller accompanied him.

Dr. W. R. Tipton, president, and Dr. Francis H. Atkins, secretary of the territorial medical board, are over from Las Vegas on business before the supreme court.

Messrs. W. B. Childers, H. B. Ferguson and A. B. McMillan were among those who represented the Albuquerque bar at the opening of the supreme court this morning.

District Attorney A. A. Jones, of Las Vegas, Hon. J. D. W. Veeder, Mr. M. C. de Baca and Mr. O. A. Larrazolo, are members of the San Miguel bar in attendance upon the supreme court.

Judge J. S. Thompson returned last night from a ten days' visit to the Cochiti mining district. He left Mr. John Garrison, the mining expert, in camp with the intention of returning in a week.

Mr. Ollie S. Williams, son of the partly editor of the Socorro Chieftain, and who has been studying law at Ann Arbor, is in Santa Fe to remain some months. That big library in Catron & Spiess' office is his attraction.

One of Socorro's Native Sons.

Mr. Elfigo Baca, of Socorro, junior member of the law firm of Freeman & Baca, is receiving congratulations from his many friends over his supreme court. Mr. Baca is in every sense a self-made man and he has before him a bright future. He is a native of Socorro, the son of Don Francisco Baca, and he was educated at the schools in his native town, though for several years he was a resident of Topeka, Kas., and there acquired his knowledge of English. Mr. Baca has served as deputy sheriff and as county clerk and for some five years past has taken an active part in politics. He is a Republican, but none the less esteemed at home and throughout the territory for his pluck, ability and perseverance.

KINDERGARTEN Miss Guilford will, when her private classes reassemble in September, also open a kindergarten on the most modern and approved principles, assisted by another thoroughly trained teacher.

SUPREME COURT.

Meeting of the Important Tribunal this Morning—Justice Bantz Absent—Forty-one Cases on the Docket.

The Cerrillos Postoffice.

Inspector A. P. Fredericks came up from Cerrillos on the midnight train, having had several days of hard work down there, in straightening out the accounts of Postmaster Lyons, of that place. Mr. Lyons had gotten several hundred dollars behind in his accounts with the government, through careless book-keeping; and no light labor was needed to bring order out of chaos. This the inspector did, ultimately arriving at the amount due Uncle Sam.

Hudson Hot Springs Sanitarium. According to the Rincon paper, the contract for erecting the new sanitarium at Hudson hot springs, New Mexico, has been let to Messrs. Widner and Bonnell of Rincon. The entire building is to be of gypsum concrete.

The work of cleaning out and walling up the spring, says the Rincon paper, has been undertaken by Mr. Olcott, of Deming, and is being pushed day and night without cessation. During the course of the excavation a number of human skeletons have been found in hollow spaces by the side of the springs. With these nothing has been found to indicate to what race they belonged nor the reason of their interment in such a peculiar situation.

Silver jewelry equals the bicycle as a go. If the white metal has been demonstrated it hasn't been dis-jewelled, and a glance at the number and variety of artistic and beautiful articles which we show in our stock, justifies the prediction that it never will be. When it comes to the question of silver holding the fort against gold for belt clasps, buckles, etc., the case stands 16 to 1 in favor of silver. Don't miss an early inspection of our silver sets that exhibit the white metal in the handsomest forms it was ever made to assume here or abroad.
