RENOWNED BATTLE FIELDS.

Bloody Fields of Chattanooga and Chickamauga Dedicated as National Pleasure Grounds.

ELOQUENCE OF PALMER AND GORDON

Doubtful if the World Ever Before Saw Such a Scene as that Witnessed at Chickamauga To-day—Stirring Ceremonies.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 19.—The bloodiest battle field the world ever saw was formally dedicated here to-day as a pleasure park for the edification and enjoyment of the American people for all time. It was Chickamauga, whose ravines and mountain sides were strewn with nearly 30,000 dead and wounded.

The dedication was conducted by the men who fought in that awful strife. The two generals, with silver gray hair, who headed the thousands of men in the fray on opposite sides, made the principal speeches at the dedication. They were Generals John M. Palmer and John B. Gordon.

It is doubtful if the world ever before saw another such scene as that at Chickamauga to-day. It was witnessed by no less than 50,000 people from the north and south, at least half of whom took part in the bloody civil war.

The first event of the day was a display of arms by battery "F," fourth U. S. artillery.

There was a battalion regimental drill, showing the new tactics and field movements, under the command of Col. Holland.

These exercises at arms were of great interest to the veterans, who expressed the belief that such tactics would have fallen as timothy before the mow if played against those adopted during Chickamauga.

Vice President A. E. Stevenson presided over the dedicatory exercises. He was introduced by Gen. John S. Fullerton, chairman of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga national park, and greeted with loud applause.

The great national arena on Snodgrass Hill, selected by the national commission for the exercises, was so arranged that the tens of thousands of auditors could here the addresses throughout.

By way of beginning there was a national salute of forty-four guns by the artillery, followed by the "Star Spangled Banner," played by one of the U. S. infantry bands.

It was cheered to the echo by the veterans of the blue and of the gray, and many grizzled veterans shed tears of joy.

When the applause ceased, Vice President Stevenson made a brief address appropriate to the occasion.

Prayer was offered by Right Rev. Bishop Galer, of Tennessee.

"America" was sung by the audience accompanied by the bands.

The volume of sound rolled up as a great tidal wave and ending before the ended tears were coursing down the cheeks of thousands of veterans.

Gen. John M. Palmer, the venerable senator from Illinois, made the first dedicatory address. His voice at first had a tremulous sound, but he became grandly eloquent as he advanced and frequently was applauded.

Another patriotic tune followed Gen. Palmer's speech.

Then the battle-scarred veteran of the Confederacy, whom Lee called his "right arm," John B. Gordon, of Georgia, was introduced. He was greeted with no less applause than was accorded Gen. Palmer and he spoke with fully as much enthusiasm, feeling and patriotism.

Those who had heard Gen. Gordon before said that this was the effort of his life.

Great Crops in Iowa.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 19.—The Iowa weekly weather crop bulletin says: On the whole the crop season of 1895 has been very propitious to the farmers of Iowa, bringing forth the most abundant harvest that has been garnered within the past ten years.

NOT PROHIBITED BY LAW.

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Declines that the Statutes of that State Do Not Forbid Prize Fighting.

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 19.—After two days consumed in argument on the habeas corpus hearing of Jesse Clark, charged with prize fighting, Chief Justice J. M. Hurt, of the court of criminal appeals, decided yesterday afternoon that the act in the penal code was wholly inoperative. The court said: "It was I who first suggested to make prize fighting a felony. I wanted the state of Texas to take an advanced ground on the subject, which I regarded as the most brutal of acts. But my private opinion has nothing to do with the law. I do not believe that, under the provisions of our statutes or the well settled rule of construction, this man has violated the law that has been so plainly written that he is responsible for it, and I shall discharge him. I will give my reasons hereafter in writing."

Skipped With Thousands.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Ross C. Von Bokkelen, receiving teller of the Merchants Loan & Trust company, is missing with $85,000 belonging to the institution. It is thought that Von Bokkelen has gone to Mexico.

ANOTHER MISSING BANKER.

Chicago.—An employee of the National Bank of Illinois is missing and with him has disappeared $19,000. The bank officials refuse to make public the name of the defaulter.

REPUBLICAN HARMONY.

Alderman Lammer, Anti-Swift, Bravely Beaten by a Swift Supporter at a Republican Meeting in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The "harmony" meeting of the Republican county central committee wound up last night with a brutal attack upon Alderman Henry E. Lammer, of the anti-Swift element, by "Buck" McCarthy, a supporter of the jelly. One eye was gouged out, his head was cut in several places, and he was more dead than alive when McCarthy was finally dragged off.

Executions in China.

London, Sept. 19.—The Times to-morrow will publish a dispatch from Shanghai which says that several prisoners were executed to-day at Ku Cheng in the presence of the consuls.

Turks Apprehensive.

London, Sept. 19.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Constantinople says the British minister's yacht has been under steam for the past twenty-four hours awaiting dispatches from the fleet. Great apprehension is felt among the Turks.

DURRANT'S DARK TRAIL.

Strong Evidence Being Piled Up Against the Young Man Accused of Murdering Blanche Lamont.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—As the trial of Theodore Durrant progresses strong evidence is being piled up against the defendant.

The prosecution has shown by the testimony of Mrs. Vogel that the accused walked up and down the sidewalk in front of the high school until Blanche Lamont came out. He was then seen to take a car with her and started toward Market street. Later he was seen on a Valencia street car in company with a young lady answering Blanche Lamont's description by Mrs. Croset, who has known Durrant intimately for years.

The evidence that has been introduced relative to Durrant's whereabouts on the afternoon of April 3 is directly contradictory to his statement made on the night of arrest, that he had not seen the murdered girl after he left her on the way to school on the morning of the 3rd.

Martin Quinlan, an attorney, took the stand and supplied another link to that furnished by the evidence of Mrs. Croset, testifying that he saw Durrant and a young lady walking on Backstreet toward Emanuel church about ten minutes past 4 on the 3rd of last April. The witness adhered to his story and refused to be led into the slightest contradiction.

David Clark, who accompanied Quinlan on the visit to St. Luke's hospital late on the afternoon of April 3, was then called and corroborated the previous witness had stated regarding his movements with Clark. His testimony narrated in detail the story told by Quinlan.

PREVIOUS UNITED PRESS.

President Cleveland Didn't Touch the Electric Button Until 6:30 Last Night.

New York, Sept. 19.—President Cleveland had expected to start the machinery at the Atlanta Exposition, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by the pressure of an electric button in his home at Buzzard Bay. There was some delay in making the connection and the Atlanta people decided to defer the president's functions until 5 p. m. Not till 6:30 was the connection closed at Gray Gables and the wheels moved in Atlanta. Unhindered, however, by the facts, the United Press, promptly at 2 p. m., reported that Mr. Cleveland had started the Atlanta machinery.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER.

Killers of Banker Ross, in Alabama, Turned Loose—Queer Explanation.

Birmingham, Sept. 19.—Robt. S. Walter and Jas. Skelton, brothers, have been acquitted of the murder of Robt. C. Ross, banker, in February, 1893. The Skelton boys believed that Ross, a wealthy married man, had betrayed their sister, Annie. When Annie heard of the murder, she wrote a letter to her brother, Bob, exclaiming, "I am a widow," and blaming J. C. McGuire, the United States marshal, for her condition.

THE JERSEY LILY'S JEWELS

Delivered by Her London Banker to Unknown Person on a Forged Order.

London, Sept. 19.—During the absence of Mrs. Langtry on the continent, a forged order was presented at her bank for her jewel box, which contained $200,000 worth of jewels. The box was delivered to the bearer of the order. Mrs. Langtry returned a few days ago and today sent to the bank for her jewels, when she learned that the box had been delivered under the circumstances indicated, on Aug. 24.

Old Colonnade Falls.

Nashville, Sept. 19.—A portion of the walls of the Old Colonnade building, being torn down, fell to-day. Six workmen were buried, but none are thought to be hurt. The injured are: John Wesley, Andrew Jennings, Ed Blair, A. Hopkins, Geo. Vaughan and Austin Wilson.

CYCLONE IN WISCONSIN.

Work of the Furious Winds in Door County—Church Capsized.

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 19.—Cyclones swept here to-day that a terrific cyclone swept over the Door county peninsula yesterday, demolishing thirty buildings. At Oak Bank a large shingle chow was twisted from its foundation, lifted bodily into the air and dumped bottom up in the forest. For twenty miles the cyclone cut through the timber and across farms, leveling everything.

STEAMERS COLLIDE AT SEA.

Steamers Edam and Turkistan Run Into Each Other Off the English Coast.

A DENSE FOG PREVAILED AT THE TIME

A Great Blowing of Whistles and a Terrific Crash—Narrow Escape of the Passengers—Edam Goes to the Bottom.

Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 19.—The steamer Bechford has arrived here, having in tow the Trawler-Vulture and four ship's boats, containing the captain, crew and passengers of the Northlands-American Steamship company's steamship Edam, of Rotterdam, from New York, bound for Amsterdam.

At 1 o'clock this morning, the Edam collided with the Turkistan, fifty miles southeast of the starting point in a dense fog.

The Edam foundered and the Turkistan was lost to view in the fog. The captain, crew and passengers of the Edam and the boats immediately after the collision, and were picked up by the Trawler.

The Trawler-Vulture was on the fishing grounds, fifteen miles in from the Eddystone light house, last night. Just before 1 o'clock a thick fog came up.

Then the Vulture heard a great blowing of whistles and then a terrific crash. The Vulture immediately went along side the steamship Edam, which was rapidly filling.

Capt. Brunsma requested the Vulture to stand by. The ship's boats were quickly lowered and the passengers helped into them without accident.

The passengers were greatly alarmed, but there was no panic.

A majority went on deck without having taken time to dress.

The women and children were the first embarked in the ship's boats. The sea was smooth.

The steamer Turkistan, which did not appear to have sustained serious injury, stood by until the danger was passed and then proceeded in the direction of Cardiff.

The Edam foundered at 3 o'clock, two hours after the collision.

NEW MEXICO FAIR NOTES

Says the Citizen: Santa Fe puts up a swift game of ball.

Joe Baile was beaten in the five-eighths of a mile running race yesterday.

Gov. and Mrs. Thornton will remain in Albuquerque until the close of the fair.

The exhibits at the territorial fair are being admired by thousands of visitors.

An unusually large number of representative newspaper people are in attendance.

Gallup is one of the best towns in New Mexico, and in base ball and everything else it is hard to beat.

The grand trades procession was most attractive and imposing. The proteoic display to-night will be fine.

The championship bicycle race, one mile, was won by John M. Moore, Bert Vorhes, second, Tom Scott, third. Time, 2:36½.

M. P. Moore, of the internal revenue office, Santa Fe, is in Albuquerque, the guest of the deputy internal revenue collector, Wm. Burns.

The fourth game of the base ball tournament resulted in a victory for the Raton team over the Indian school team by a score of 28 to 7.

This has been observed as a general holiday in Albuquerque to-day. The most of the stores and most of the stores were closed for the day.

Three exhibits of sandstone are shown, the gray, white and red. The two former are found overlying the coal beds and close to White Oaks, while the latter is found on the slope of Lone Mountain. Gov. Thornton so admired these great blocks of stone that he made a request that they be shipped to Santa Fe after the fair.

Solider General Victory and Mr. Fitzhugh Thornton returned from Albuquerque this morning. Mr. Victory reports that the territorial fair is a dazzling success, both as regards the attendance and the large and varied exhibits of the fruits, vegetables, grains, minerals and other products of New Mexico. He pronounces the Santa Fe fruit exhibit superb, and is naturally proud of the fact that his fine exhibits of choice cherries and raspberries were the only ones of the kind displayed.

Visitors to old town should take in the ancient church built in 1701, 2, 3, 4 and 5, and have their attention called to the building to the west of the court house, which was the residence of Gen. Manuel Armijo, commanding the Mexican forces at the time of the occupation of New Mexico by the American forces under Gen. Kearney, in 1846. It is also known as the building where Major (afterward General) Rucker afterward lived with his family, and where, it is said, Gen. Phil Sheridan's wife, a daughter of Major Rucker, was born.—Albuquerque Citizen.

The fair is a success, even beyond the hopes or expectations of the most sanguine of our citizens. Taken altogether, nothing like it has ever been witnessed in all the long years during which the fair has been annually held. There are products of the soil, both vegetable and mineral, on view, such as have never before been gathered together in the great southwest, and a sight of them gives a promise for the future which should be sufficient to arouse the hopes and the ambitions of even the most despondent.—Albuquerque Citizen.

The Old Abe mine shows a specimen of free milling gold ore of immense value, as does the Lady Godiva with a specimen assayed at 4,000 ounces of silver and thirty ounces of gold at a depth of 450 feet. The specimen from the Old Abe was taken out a week ago at a depth of 600 feet. The North Homestead shows lead and wire gold upon which it is impossible to place a value. In the Jicarilla district the Eureka mine shows free gold in chalcopryrites.

No. 8 from the north last evening brought in a detail of ten men from company B, New Mexico National Guard, of Santa Fe. They were armed and equipped in a business-like way, such as to reflect credit on their captain, William Strover, who, unfortunately was detained at home by sickness. The men were under the command Maj. Newater, of Gov. Thornton's staff. The men are an enthusiastic guardsman, having served three years in the national guard of Arizona before coming to New Mexico. He is the efficient office deputy for United States Marshal Hall, at Santa Fe.—Albuquerque Citizen.

NEW MEXICO NEWS.

Tierra Amarilla is preparing for a big blowout when the Biggs' railroad reaches that place.

W. L. Booth passed through Chama with a train full of sheep the other day. They were loaded at Lumberton and shipped to Kansas City.

W. R. Garrison, a talented lawyer of San Juan county, has located at Park View, and will practice his profession.

Davidson Bros. and Mrs. J. O. Rose shipped 474 head of stock cattle from Deming last week to Patrick & Doyle in Colorado.

The two saw mills of the New Mexico Lumber company on the Navajo are running on full time but are behind with their orders.

The report comes up from the Jicarillas, down in Lincoln county, that Col. G. N. Stonerod has nearly lost his hearing, from causes not stated.

Needed repairs are being made on the Continental oil tanks on the Las Vegas hot springs branch. The tanks have a capacity of 12,000 and 14,000 respectively.

The report from the country is that another week of warm, dry weather is needed to thoroughly ripen the small grains, especially oats. The unusual rainfall prolonged greatly the growing season.

There are thirty-five laborers and three bridge carpenters employed repairing the Silver City & Northern railroad between Hanover and Whitewater, and the road will be ready for operation in a few weeks.

It is an undisputed truth that whoever improves his private property improves the city, and it is none the less true that every improvement of the city is an improvement for private property.—Gallup Gleaner.

Several loads of native salt have recently arrived, at Las Vegas, from the Pecos country, the teamsters bringing it in rather than to come empty after loads of merchandise. The Optic understood that it sold at 4 cents per 100.

Owing to a called term of the supreme court for the first Monday in October, the court term at Lincoln has been changed to the third Monday in October. The term will begin at Eddy on the second Monday in November, and will be followed by a special term at Roswell.

We understand that Mr. Hearn has bought over 12,000 head of cattle during the past year at an average of $8 a head and sold them at about $14. He must have cleared fully $48,000. Several other cattle men have done equally as well in eastern New Mexico. Looks like old times for the cow man.—Roswell Register.

The Pecos valley, like all irrigated countries, was scarcely self sustaining for a time but now we are forging ahead. Quantities of fruit and vegetables are going west into the mountain towns and car loads of over 20,000 pounds of melons was shipped to Dallas from the Caldwell farm, below Eddy, last week.—Roswell Register.

Frank Jones, special deputy U. S. marshal, left for San Francisco last Wednesday, with the five Chinamen ordered deported by Judge Bantz. Mr. Jones also took with him some of the finest specimens of fruit ever grown in Grant county, with which he will surprise the natives of California.—Silver City Sentinel.

The Las Vegas roller mill is running from fifteen to eighteen hours every day now, and commencing with next week, will run day and night, probably to the first of the year. This is the first year in the history of this mill that wheat has not been imported. Home-grown wheat is coming in very fast now, and is of the best quality. There is no better flour than that made right here in Las Vegas.—Las Vegas Optic.

The Romero-Clarke party camped on top of Baldy mountain Friday night, and at sunrise next morning, a most beautiful sight met their gaze in the broad expanse of country thousands of feet below them in the distance. Don Benigno Romero succeeded in locating about 150 lakes, small and great, to the satisfaction of the pleased and interested sight-seers.—Las Vegas Optic.

The Giver of all things is showing very little partiality in the distribution of the water storage above. Poor little Rincon was killed for last Sunday, and the water rushed through the center of the town with great fury. A building, belonging to the railroad company and containing building material, was set on fire by the slacking of lime and destroyed.—San Marcelino Bee.

Two train loads of cattle were unloaded here the first of the week. They are from the ranges in the southern part of the territory. It is plain to be seen that the cattle business is rapidly coming to the front in Colfax county, and in the next few years it will show evidence of continued improvement. In this county the present season, several thousand head have been added to Colfax county ranges, and in the next twelve months as many more will be brought in.—Springer Stockman.

R. B. Rice, the surveyor, says that there are a few things in the article printed in the Optic yesterday, from the New Mexican, not correctly stated though possibly without intention. He is anxious to know who the Las Vegas business man is that charged in Santa Fe that Rice had given tips about locations to some of his friends. He states that about twenty persons have asked him about quarter sections, and his reply has always been a profession of his ignorance on that question. He also states that if he were given more assistance in defining boundaries, by those who should give it, the survey work would probably get along faster.—Las Vegas Optic.

M. K. Walker, the young man who left his wife in Armourdale, Kas., in seventeen hours after marriage, next turning up in Las Vegas, and telegraphing her not to be uneasy, is a Missouri farmer, occupying a farm adjacent to that of the bride's father. The bride said that he had been an affectionate sweetheart, and, when he left her at 10 a. m. on the day following the afternoon of marriage, he kissed her an affectionate farewell, and said he was going to the parson's home to get the certificate of marriage. The secret of the strange conduct seems to lie in the fact that he was drinking, and celebrated the honeymoon happening a little too heavily.—Las Vegas Optic.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every Post Office in the Territory and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the southwest.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19.

The authorities of Hawaii have turned ex Queen Liliuokalani loose and the world continues to revolve just as usual.

The withering comments of the English newspapers on the Defender-Valley incident are forcing us to the reluctant conclusion that John Bull disapproves of Uncle Sam.

FIRE ALARM FORAKER is bravely fighting the war over in Ohio. Not having an army register handy, we are unable to give details as to the command with which the old hero fought and bled during the war. Our deep-seated impression is, however, that Foraker belongs to the "putrid reminiscence" variety of warriors, who fight exclusively with their mouths.

HARD PUSHED FOR "GREAT LEADERS."

It will be remembered that Tom Platt one time resigned a seat in the United States senate because, in a fit of the sulks, the really great and brilliant Roosevelt resigned his seat. The New York legislature then had sufficient self-respect to decline to re-elect either of the over-confident gentlemen, and, after Mr. Conkling died a disappointed and broken-hearted man, it was hardly supposed that Platt would have the hardihood to recall a most disagreeable reminiscence by outbidding his personality into public view. Yet, in spite of the fact that he is a clear case of "lingering superfluities on the stage," he now seems to be a recognized Republican machine boss in the Empire state, and very likely aspires to the seat in the senate that he was unable to render much more vacant by resignation than it was when he occupied it as a misfit. The Republicans of New York must be rather hard pushed for "great leaders" these days.

SENATOR VEST STANDS BY SILVER.

Day before yesterday the Associated Press gravely announced that, in an interview at Carlsbad, Senator Vest, of Missouri, had declared his opinion that free coinage at the old ratio was no longer possible. The New Mexican was obliged to leave something out that day and selected this paragraph for the waste basket because it was perfunctory that it was a lie. The judgment of the New Mexican was fully sustained yesterday afternoon when the Associated Press convicted itself by sending out from New York Senator Vest's point blank denial that he had changed his views on the silver question. He added that "the alleged conversation at Carlsbad never occurred." Just how the Associated Press, which pretends to be absolutely non-partisan, justifies itself in taking such improper liberties with the truth we are unable to imagine.

AGRICULTURE IN NEW MEXICO.

Plant life depends on four elemental properties: Light, water, heat and the soil. Given the first three, and any plant known in nature will grow. The last is only important as an alibi, for mixing them.

In New Mexico, we have an almost constant sunshine, a genial heat, and our mountain waters are filled with the very best fertilizing matter. It is a fact that fields and orchards subjected to a long series of irrigation become, yearly, richer and more productive. This is because the chemical food of the plants, carried in the water, is in excess of the needs of agriculture.

New Mexico's soil, water and climate are not the only advantages she possesses over her principal rivals—California and Colorado. These enable the farmer and horticulturist to produce large crops, of superior quality, with certainty. But after the production of crops, the farmer must consider his market, its accessibility, and the remuneration it offers. New Mexico's position gives her marked advantages in this direction. The season of maturity is about three weeks earlier than in Colorado, and New Mexico's central location commands the markets, for hardy fruits, about ten days ahead of California.

Closeness to markets is another advantage. Fruit can be allowed to remain longer on the trees in New Mexico, before shipment, than elsewhere. Thus it preserves a better flavor and appearance. For these reasons it commands about 30 per cent better prices. Fruits that come from California and sell for 2 cents a pound, if raised and shipped from New Mexico would bring 3 cents a pound or over.

The mining districts and towns make profitable home markets and steady demand for fruits, vegetables and all other home products.—Las Vegas Optic.

PRESS COMMENT.

The "x" is all right.

A very lively discussion has been created in the Eagle office over the spelling of the name of our neighboring county on the east, and as to whether it should terminate with a "z" or "x." The nomenclature that county spells it Chavez and Chaves. The name of J. Francisco, for whom the county was named, is spelled with a "z." Like the case of Arkansas, it will probably require an act of the legislature to settle the vexed question.—White Oaks Eagle.

A Shrewd Financier.

E. L. Foster, the receiver of the defunct First National bank of Deming, does not propose to let a chance for making a dime slip by. Occasionally drafts will be sent to the bank, by mistake, for collection. Instead of correcting the evident mistake and turning the collection over to the Deming bank, he attempts to make the collection himself and gather in the fee for doing it. Recently a business house in Lordsburg received a letter from the receiver of the defunct bank saying he had a draft on them and would they please remit. The house drawn on immediately wrote to Mr. Foster telling him to pay the draft and charge it to its account with the defunct bank. As the house has not yet received the cancelled draft it is feared that Mr. Foster refused to pay it as requested.—Lordsburg Liberal.

Miners Encouraged.

A greater interest in mining affairs is exhibited in and around Cerrillos than ever before. Every morning there are numerous parties, nearly all strangers, leaving town in every direction, visiting mining claims which may be specially attractive, or making a general tour of the districts surrounding us. This indicates that this vicinity is engaging the attention of mining men to a degree hitherto unknown and can not fail to be of benefit to us. Just at this time there are numerous undeveloped or only partly developed properties which may be picked up at a very reasonable figure, and which, if handled by parties of means, can be soon put in shape to produce great wealth, and that too with a comparatively small outlay.

Claims of this kind appear to be most inviting to the visiting stranger, and several deals have been made and more are under way involving properties which, while they prospect well, have hitherto produced nothing because the owners have been unable to command the money necessary for development.

The outlook is most encouraging. More work is being done on undeveloped claims than ever before, every prospector in the hills is busy and a great many of them are letting go a portion of their holdings, thereby putting themselves into a position to handle those retained to a better advantage.

We may confidently look for great results all along the line.—Cerrillos Register.

The PECOS VALLEY of . . . NEW MEXICO

OFFERS unequalled advantages to the farmer, fruit grower, live stock raiser, dairyman, bee-keeper, and to the home-seeker generally.

The soil of the Pecos Valley is of high average fertility, and under irrigation produces bountiful crops of most of the grasses, grains, vegetables, berries and fruits of the temperate and some of those of the semi-tropical zone. In such fruit as the peach, pear, plum, grape, prune, apricot, nectarine, cherry, quince, etc., the Valley will dispute for the pre-eminence with California; while competent authority pronounces its upper portions in particular the finest apple country in the world.

Enormous yields of such forage crops as alfalfa, sorghum and Egyptian corn make the feeding of cattle and sheep and the raising and fattening of hogs a very profitable occupation.

The cultivation of osage—a tanning material of great value—is becoming an important industry in the Pecos Valley, a home market having been afforded for all that can be raised, at a price yielding a handsome profit.

The climate of the Pecos Valley has no superior in the United States, being pre-eminently healthful and health restoring.

Lands with perpetual water-rights are for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The water supply of the Pecos Valley has no equal in all the arid region for constancy and reliability; and this with the superb climate, productive soil and the facilities afforded by the railway which extends through the Valley's entire length, will cause these lands to enjoy a constant, and at times rapid, increase in value.

The recent completion of the Pecos Valley Railway to Roswell will cause the more rapid settlement and development of the upper portions of the Valley, including the rich Feltz section. The company has recently purchased many of the older improved farms about Roswell, and has now for sale lands to meet the wants of all—raw lands, partially improved lands, as well as farms with houses, orchards and fields of alfalfa and other crops. In the vicinity of Roswell several pieces of land have been divided into five and ten acre tracts, suitable for orchards and truck farms in connection with suburban homes. Certain of these tracts are being planted to orchards, and will be cultivated and cared for by the company for three years at the end of which period they will be handed over to the purchasers. Write for pamphlet fully describing the terms and conditions on which these several classes of tracts are sold.

Ought not to have been slain. Her fate was wholly unmerited. She was a most useful fowl. There are lots of bipeds of our race who don't know as much as she did. Conspicuous for their folly among this class are the people who persistently dose themselves with violent drugs, which either have a tendency to aggravate the complaints they are claimed to cure, or else to cause a most pernicious disturbance of the system. Among intelligent physicians the use of "drastic" or violent medicines has passed away with other fallacies like blistering and bleeding. The Doctor Sagrales are an extinct race, happily for mankind. For years I was a constant sufferer from weak lungs and bronchial asthma. My rest at night was disturbed by a hacking cough, so that I felt miserable the greater part of the time. Many remedies recommended by friends were tried, none of which proved suitable to my case. I did not experience any beneficial results until I began taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. After two bottles of the large size have been used I am pleased to state, my health is better than it has been for years. The soreness has left my lungs and chest and I can breathe easily. MADE FOR TWO.

Jack Hinkston was her slave, bound hand and foot to her chariot wheel, or perhaps it would be modern to say, now that she has taken to cycling, that he was bound to her bicycle wheel. She had flouted him and scorned him for upward of two years, and in despair Jack set himself at undoing his bonds. It was a slow and painful process, and the bonds had a habit of slipping again into hard knots when he caught a glimpse of Cissie, and Jack had almost made up his mind to emigrate to some outlandish country, for he feared he would never see his own man again unless a very broad and extensive ocean rolled between them. No matter how stern his resolutions were, they faded away to nothingness when he met Cissie in a new, pretty and stylish dress, for every costume she adopted seemed to be even more fetching than the last. Clothes have so much to do with the appearance of a pretty girl. The trouble with Jack was that he had too much respect for women in general, and they all knew that and consequently despised him, Cissie being the leader in tempting comely on poor Hinkston, who, after all, was a very nice fellow, who did not realize that girls as a rule are somewhat silly and more apt to take up with a shadowy brain, conceived rascalities than with a fellow of genuine worth like Jack Hinkston.

Jack had heard that Cissie had taken to the bicycle, but he had never seen the young lady on a machine. For the past week or two Jack had avoided Cissie, and his resolutions of abandonment had so strengthened themselves that he felt he would be a free man if he could keep away from her; but, on the other hand, he realized that the next time he saw her she would have on a new dress and would look more like an angel than ever, and he trembled for the result.

In the matter of the new dress Jack was perfectly right and he saw the girl in circumstances that nearly resulted in his downfall, but not the kind of downfall he had looked for. He had taken out his bicycle and had gone for a long wheel into the peaceful country where he would have no comrades but the trees and the green fields and the hedges that bordered the lanes. As he cycled along a narrow country thoroughfare, wheeling at a leisurely pace, for rapid cycling doesn't lend itself to somber meditation, he heard behind him the sharp ring of a bicycle bell. Something in his imperative clang, or else the fact that he was on a lonely road, caused him to look over his shoulder, and he nearly tumbled off his machine with amazement and surprise. There was Cissie on the top of a silver plated machine, with the very newest and most natty out of an advanced woman's bicycle costume, clipping over the distance at a tremendous rate of speed. She passed him with a whirl, giving him a saucy nod and a salutation as she went by. Jack gasped and said under his breath, "well, he would be something—a phrase that would not look pretty on these pages, but it must not be taken as typical of Jack's conversation. He was knocked off of a heap by the astonishing sight of Cissie in the very latest lady's bicycling costume. The next instant he put his muscles to the wheel and sped after her, shouting:

"Stop a minute, Cissie! I want to tell you something!"

But the young woman never paid the slightest attention. She bent over the handle bars and roared down that lane in a way to make pedestrians' heads swim. Jack shouted ineffectually two or three times, then pulled up and said to himself:

"Well, let her go. She will find out all I wanted to tell her."

Cissie disappeared round a corner and when Jack came to it she was not to be seen. He looked at the long avenue, on which the sunbeams flickered through the intertwining branches of the trees overhead. Jack went on leisurely for a mile or two; then he jumped lightly off his machine and trundled it along beside him. He was now miles away from civilization, deep in the midst of the country. The road had suddenly become very bad, and Jack, who knew the peculiarities of every lane within miles around, thought it safer to wheel the bicycle along by hand rather than risk a puncture of his pneumatic tires on the sharp flint stones scattered with such profusion along the way. Near a little runnel bridge over a clear stream at the bottom of a dell he found what he expected to find—a very pretty girl with a most woe-begone, disconsolate look on her face sitting on the grassy bank looking forlornly at a bicycle that lay on the ground with the tire of the hind wheel collapsed.

"Hello, Cissie," said Jack breezily.

"Had a tumble?"

"No," snapped Cissie. "I am not in the habit of tumbling."

"Ah," said Jack. "I see what is the matter. The tire is punctured. I knew that would happen. I shouted after you to tell you of this bit of road, but you would not listen."

"I did not hear you," said Cissie, at which assertion Jack raised his eyebrows with incredulity, which made Cissie all the more angry, especially as she knew she was telling a thing which was not true.

"Well, I don't want any help from you," she said curtly.

"Why, of course not," returned Jack, sitting down on the opposite bank and leaning his bicycle against the hedge. "A person who comes out on a wheel and doesn't know how to mend anything that goes wrong is simply a silly fowl. One can see you understand all about cycling because you have left your machine lying on the ground and the oil is running out of your lamp."

Cissie looked at the young man in amazement.

"Is isn't your lamp," she said at last, "and I can surely do what I like with my own. I don't see what right you have to interfere."

"Bless you, Cissie," said Jack. "I am not interfering. I am not even offering advice. I have never yet had the pleasure of seeing a woman take off a pneumatic tire and mend the inner tube. This of course you are to do before you can move on, for you are miles away from any place, and even if you left your machine here you would not dare to walk home in this idiotic costume."

Cissie blushed deeply, and the tears came into her usually bright eyes. She tucked nervously at the skirts of her coat, and then seeing what she was doing and finding that they but scantily covered her knees she looked for a moment as if she was going to burst out crying, for it had taken some heavy crying out of her for the first time in knickerbockers. However, instead of crying she blazed out at him in anger:

"What business is it of yours," she cried, "how I am dressed? You are nothing to me, and I am sure I don't care a penny for your opinion one way or another."

"I don't suppose you do," said Jack, striking a match and lighting his pipe. "I used to be under the impression that you knew how to dress. I am not any longer. I used to think that you could not put on anything that would be unbecoming. Now I hold no such opinion. I once had an idea that nothing you put on would make a guy of you, but now, Cissie, that idea has fled. Still I must say that I admire your bravery in coming out in the daylight where people can see you in such a state of utter rattle for you to put together the skirts of that coat. The hard things you have said to me when you had on a pretty lawn tennis costume, for instance, do not affect me a bit when they are said by one who merely looks like a saucy, impudent boy. You see, Cissie, I look down upon you as you once looked down upon me."

"How dare you say you look down upon me?" said Cissie.

"Because it's true," answered the young man calmly. "This bank is ever so much higher than the one you are sitting on, or rather were sitting on, for now you are trying to crouch out of sight, and I don't wonder at it. I take back all those numerous offers of marriage I made to you."

"You wretch!" she cried, springing to her feet. "You take them back, do you, when you know very well they were all rejected and scorned?"

"Oh, Cissie!" cried the young man, turning away his head. "Sit down again. Do sit down. The costume doesn't look so bad on a bicycle, but it is simply awful when a girl stands up."

When he looked round again, Cissie had sat down and had drawn her bicycle up on its wheels, crouching in a measure behind it, as if with its splendid tires it could hide the awfulness of the costume.

"Well, Cissie," cried Jack, "when are you going to get at mending that tire?"

"I—I—I don't know anything about tires," sobbed Cissie.

"Ah," said the young man, with a long breath. "I thought that was the case. A woman never knows how to do anything well except scold. Most things in this world a man can do better than a woman, and that fact never becomes so apparent as when a woman tricks herself out as a man. Then her general facility becomes apparent, even to an infatuated fool like myself."

Jack had bent her head upon her hands, which rested on the saddle of her groc. It was quite evident that she was in tears, and Jack, waiting for a reply, smoked on in silence.

At last he said in a gentler voice:

"Look here, Cissie, if you ask me very nicely, I will take off the tire for you, and I will mend it in five minutes by the watch."

Cissie looked up again with something like her former indignation in her eyes.

"I'll throw the machine into the stream," she said, "before I will ask you to mend it."

"Just as you please, Cissie," replied Jack, clasping his hands behind his head and leaning back in luxurious enjoyment of his pipe. "Just as you please. The day is my own, and I suppose you will wait here till night before you venture back home again. Out of the kindness of my heart I will stay with you, not to look after you, for I shall gaze at the tops of the trees as much as possible, and not to talk to you, for if there is anything in this world I abhor it is an impudent, cheeky boy. But this lane is a great place for dreams and grapes, and it becomes very dark at night, because of the overhanging trees. It is a gruesome thoroughfare and a nasty place in which to meet a villain after the sun has gone down."

"I have already met a villain and a brute," sobbed Cissie, who had now let the bicycle go and had buried her face in her hands.

"If you refer to me, Cissie," said Jack, "this is simply like most of the things you have said—not true. I am only too pleased to be of any assistance to anybody; but, at the same time, although you might not have thought it by my former conduct, I am too proud to offer any assistance unasked."

Jack smoked on, gazing up, as he had promised, at the tree tops. The silence was broken only by the sweet singing of the birds and now and then by a quick catch of the breath on the part of Cissie. Five minutes elapsed and then ten.

"Jack!" said Cissie, without raising her head.

"Did you speak?" inquired the young man.

"Jack," she said, "I am perfectly helpless, and I think you have been very kind to me."

"All right," said the young man, rising to his feet. "I will go away. But do try to get out of this lane before darkness comes on."

"Don't go away," cried Cissie. "Please forgive what I said, and won't you be so kind as to mend my tire?"

Jack picked up the bicycle, took off the dripping lamp, turned the machine quickly wrong side up, took the materials out of his own eye pouch, had the tire off in an incredibly short space of time, righting the machine and putting the lamp on once more, he held out his hand.

Cissie reluctantly got on her feet.

"There," he said, "you see how quickly a thing is fixed when the time is not wasted in foolish conversation. Last night, I soonest mended. Are you going any farther, Cissie? If you are, I would advise you to walk your machine over these stones."

"No," said Cissie, with a deep quivering sigh. "I am going home as quickly as I can, and then I will turn this awful costume. I did not really want to put it on, but all the girls in our club have one."

"Cissie," said the young man, slipping his arm around the natty, tailor made coat, "the costume is all right, and don't you be bluffed. It looks as pretty as a picture and suits you down to the ground. When a girl talks kindly, it's simply one of the naivest costumes that ever was constructed by a tailor, but I say, Cissie, don't you think we have misunderstood each other for a long time now, and don't you think that a bicycle made as two would require less exertion than a couple of single machines?"

"I don't know but it would," said Cissie, looking up with a smile that was just the sweetest because there was just the slightest suspicion of a quiver at the corners of her pretty lips.

And then Jack, with a villainy that surprised himself, taking advantage of the lonely situation, stooped down and kissed her, and Cissie, realizing the futility of resistance, did not resist.—Robert Barr in Detroit Free Press.

The chronic grumbler still lives, but there are less cases of chronic indigestion and dyspepsia than formerly. And a great multitude are now taking Simmons Liver Regulator for the same troubles and they will soon be cured. "It is the best medicine,"—Mrs. E. Raine, Baltimore, Md.

W N Society

women often feel the effect of too much gaiety—balls, theatres, and teas in rapid succession—find them worn out, or "run-down" by the end of the season. They suffer from nervousness, sleeplessness and irregularities. The smile and good spirits take flight. It is time to accept the help offered in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a medicine which was discovered and used by a prominent physician for many years in all cases of "female complaint" and the nervous disorders which arise from it. The "Prescription" is a powerful uterine tonic and nerve, especially adapted to women's delicate wants for it regulates and promotes all the natural functions, builds up, invigorates and cures.

Many women suffer from nervous prostration, or exhaustion, owing to congestion or to disorder of the general functions. The waste products should be quickly got rid of, the local source of irritation relieved and the system invigorated with the "Prescription." Do not take the so-called celery compounds, and nervines which only put the nerves to sleep, but get a lasting cure with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"FEMALE WEAKNESS."

Mrs. WILLIAM HOOVER, of Beloit, Wis., writes: "I had been suffering from 'female weakness.' I tried three doctors; they did me no good; I thought I was an invalid forever. But I heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and then I wrote to him and he told me just how to take it. I took eight bottles, and now I feel entirely well. I could stand on my feet only a short time, and now I do all my work for my family of five."

Notice to Teachers.

In compliance with a resolution passed by the territorial board of education, notice is hereby given that the county board of education will meet at the court house in the city of Santa Fe on September 27 and 28, 1895, for the purpose of examining applicants for teachers' certificates.

Under the ruling of the territorial board first grade certificates are only good for two years and second and third grade certificates for one year from date of issue.

Are you taking SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" That is what our readers want, and nothing but that. It is the same old friend to which the old folks pinned their faith and were never disappointed. But another good recommendation for it is, that it is BETTER THAN PILLS, never gripes, never weakens, but works in such an easy and natural way. Just like nature itself, that relief comes quick and sure, and one feels new all over. It never fails. Everybody needs take a liver remedy, and everyone should take only Simmons Liver Regulator.

Be sure you get it. The Red Ribbon on the wrapper. J. H. Zeile & Co., Philadelphia.

IRRIGATORS IN SANTA FE.

Excursion of National Irrigation Congress from Albuquerque to New Mexico's Historic Capital.

A DELIGHTFUL AND DELIGHTED PARTY

Five Hours Profitably and Pleasurably Passed Viewing the Many Places of Interest About the Ancient Capital City.

Pursuant to the program outlined in these columns yesterday, about seventy delegates to the international irrigation congress at Albuquerque arrived in the historic capital city of New Mexico on a special train at 11:30 this morning.

The distinguished gentlemen and their ladies were met at the railroad station by the reception committee, headed by Mayor Hasley and Vice President Bartlett of the Board of Trade, and conveyed in carriages to the historical rooms, the hydraulic works, the orchards and gardens, and other points of interest about the city.

Prof. Perez's splendid native band discoursed fine music in the beautiful plaza from 11:30 to 12:30 p. m. An excellent dinner was served to the party at the Palace hotel.

The following features of this famous city were viewed with deep interest by the visitors:

IRRIGATION.

The reservoir and power station of the Santa Fe Water & Improvement company and Electric company, the most complete water works of the southwest, designed for city supply and irrigation. Dam 900 feet long, eighty-five feet high, 320 feet wide at the bottom, on Santa Fe creek.

Great dam in progress of erection north of the city, being constructed by hydraulic process. This is the first dam of large dimensions constructed by this new method, and is of great interest to engineers and irrigators. The reservoir will cover 268 acres and is expected to irrigate a large area of valley land.

ORCHARDS, ETC.

The fruit of Santa Fe is celebrated everywhere. The Bishop's garden, Manderfield orchard, Clarendon garden, orchard of J. P. Victory, and others, were visited.

PLACES OF HISTORIC INTEREST.

The Governor's palace—The most historic building in the United States, built in 1598, thus antedating Jamestown and Plymouth, the seat of Spanish, Mexican and American authority for nearly three centuries.

The historical rooms—Full of objects of interest.

The plaza and soldiers' monument.

Cathedral of St. Francis.

Church of San Miguel—The oldest church in the United States.

The Old House—Believed to be the oldest home in the country.

The Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe. The Garita—Old Spanish fort. Old Fort Marcy ruins, fine view. The Military reservation.

The Federal building and monument to Kit Carson.

The Rosario chapel.

U. S. military cemetery.

Territorial penitentiary.

United States Indian school.

Ramona Indian school.

St. Catherine's Indian school.

St. Michael's college.

The capitol grounds and burned building.

Sisters' hospital, Academy of Our Lady of Light, Deaf and Dumb asylum, etc.

So far as was possible in the very limited time, under the painstaking guidance of the active local committees appointed for the purpose, the visitors were shown the many points of world recognized interest about Santa Fe, and they all seemed delighted with what they saw as well as with the hospitable treatment extended to them. One of the visitors, who seemed to voice the sentiments of all, remarked: "Why, this is the best part of the program; we wouldn't have missed Santa Fe for anything."

But the five hours winged their flight into the past all too swiftly. The time for the departure on the return trip to Albuquerque, 4 p. m., arrived before the visitors were half through sight-seeing, and many expressed a resolution to come back again as they boarded the train.

Choice samples of Santa Fe fruits were distributed among the party on the train just before it pulled out for the south.

Subjoined is a complete list of the excursion party:

John C. Childs, Riverdale, Utah; C. S. Kinney, Salt Lake City, Utah; L. A. Sheldon, Los Angeles, Cal.; John C. Moore, Selma, Cal.; W. H. Bailey, Los Angeles; J. T. Priest, Tempe, A. T.; W. L. Loveland, Provo, Utah.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Mr. James M. Peterson, banker, Richfield, Utah, visited Santa Fe a surprising success.

Mr. L. F. Shurtliff, of Ogden, Utah, said he didn't see why Maj. Breiden left Santa Fe.

Ex-Gov. L. A. Sheldon, of Los Angeles, was warmly greeted by many old friends.

Col. A. C. Fisk, one of the recognized hustlers of Denver, said he was very glad to see Santa Fe.

Mr. L. W. Cook, editor of the Oskaloosa, Iowa, Globe, took notes of everything he saw.

Rev. F. G. Lentz, of Bement, Ill., looked at Santa Fe's ancient church with special interest.

Mr. E. F. Tabor, hydraulic engineer, Escondido, Cal., made quite a study of Santa Fe's hydraulic works.

Mr. Walter Pearl, member of American Society of Irrigation Engineers, Denver, had his eyes wide open for everything.

Mr. Cleason S. Kinney, attorney, of Salt Lake, pronounced Santa Fe's United States and territorial court rooms all right.

Mr. A. C. Magruder, professor of agriculture in the Oklahoma college, Stillwater, regretted when the hour arrived for leaving.

Mr. E. C. Murphy, civil engineer of Kansas university, Lawrence, will give his students the benefit of his observations at Santa Fe.

Mr. Ferdinand Levi, of Newark, N. J., was with the party, and admitted that the flavor of Santa Fe fruit was unsurpassed even in Jersey.

Mr. J. V. Admire, editor of the Kingfisher, Oklahoma, Free Press, will have something mighty nice to say of New Mexico's capital city in his paper.

Prof. L. G. Carpenter, who holds down the chair of irrigation engineering in the state agricultural college, Fort Collins, Colo., looked at the irrigation object lessons hereabouts with unfeigned astonishment.

Milk Punch 10 cts a glass at the Colorado saloon.

SHEEP HERDER KILLED.

A Herder Named Rivali Brutally Murdered by Two Other Herders at Tierra Amarilla.

Mr. Jose Martinez, of Rio Arriba county, who passed through Santa Fe last night en route to Albuquerque, reports a killing of a sheep herder named Rivali, at Tierra Amarilla, on last Wednesday night.

The murder was committed in the presence of the dead man's mother by two other sheep herders whose names are not given. No details are reported except that it was a most brutal affair, growing out of the too free indulgence in "sheep herder's delight."

The murderers were promptly arrested and are now in jail at Tierra Amarilla.

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient.

Attention Ladies.

While in Denver I learned the only genuine Improved Tailor System of dress-fitting. This system drafts on the same principles as the merchant tailor uses and with the same results. By this method every seam is in the proper place; the garment maintains a perfect proportion to the figure, and perfect ease is secured. I will cut and guarantee an absolute fitting pattern. Mrs. C. A. HAYNES

To the Bicyclists of Santa Fe.

Buy one of our all-wool sweaters at $1.50 each. They are beautiful. All-wool bicycle hose, the best made, at $1.25 a pair. Guadalupe & Dolan.

GRAND Auction SALE.

Charles Wagner will begin a grand auction sale of the entire household furniture of Mrs. Louis Hafner, consisting of parlor and bedroom sets, carpets, library, kitchen furniture and other articles too numerous to mention. The sale will begin promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning in front of my store on lower 'Frisco st., and will continue till this splendid lot of goods is all sold.

Chas. Wagner, Auctioneer.

PERSONAL.

Mr. R. E. Twitchell is looking after the interest of clients before the district court in San Juan county.

Mr. S. W. Raymond, business manager of the Durango Herald, was in Santa Fe last night on his way to Albuquerque.

At the Palace: Miss E. Clark, Aloise N. M.; Chas. B. Kehrman, St. Louis; W. B. Blandin, Colorado Springs; A. Rhoads, Las Animas; J. P. Kimball, Fort Wingate.

PAST OCTOBER WEATHER

Record of Observations Taken at Santa Fe During Past Twenty-one Years Upon Which to Base Forecasts.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE. Weather Bureau. Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 19th, 1895.

The chief of the weather bureau directs the publication of the following data, compiled from the record of observations for the month of October, taken at this station for a period of twenty-one years. It is believed that the facts thus set forth will prove of interest to the public, as well as the special student, showing as they do the average and extreme conditions of the more important meteorological elements and the range within which such variations may be expected to keep during any corresponding month.

Temperature.—Mean or normal temperature, 60 deg; the warmest October was that of 1875, with an average of 53 deg; the coldest October was that of 1880, with an average of 46 deg; the highest temperature during any October was from the southwest, 87, 1874; the lowest temperature during any October was 16 deg on October 16, 1880. Average date on which first "killing" frost occurred (in autumn), October 10.

Precipitation (rain and melted snow). Average for the month 1 inch; average number of days with .01 of an inch or more; 4; the greatest monthly precipitation was 4.19 inches in 1881; the least monthly precipitation was 0.00 inches in 1878; the greatest amount of precipitation recorded in any 24 consecutive hours was 1.16 inches on October 27, 1874.

Clouds and Weather.—Average number of cloudless days, 20; average number of partly cloudy days, 8; average number of cloudy days, 2.

Wind.—The prevailing winds have been from the east; the highest velocity of the wind during any October was from the southwest, 45 miles per hour on October 16, 1892.

H. B. HENRY, Observer, Weather Bureau.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

The guild of the Church of the Holy Faith will not meet to-morrow afternoon. This is the Jewish New Year's day, and the 28th inst. is their day of Atonement. The last rose of summer has faded and gone, but autumn flowers are with us in great profusion.

Las Vegas Optic: The Santa Fe ladies' Board of Trade has been of great advantage to that city. Las Vegas should have something similar.

John Wilkerson, who has been a sufferer from tuberculosis of the bowels for weeks, passed quietly into the beyond at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The deceased was about 28 years old.

The Creamer drug store was sold this morning by the sheriff under foreclosure of a chattel mortgage for $1,017. J. L. Zimmerman bought the place for Mrs. Isabella Crist for the above amount. The store will be retitled in every particular and continued at the old stand.

John, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Clancy, died last night at 12 o'clock of bowel trouble. The little one will be buried at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Charles A. Spiess and Miss Ruby Lynch, both well known in Santa Fe, will be united in marriage at Las Vegas, on next Wednesday. Rev. F. T. Bennett, of this city, will probably perform the interesting ceremony.

CHAS. WAGNER,

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant. 40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

A telegram just received from Albuquerque, brings the gratifying news that Santa Fe has been awarded the sweepstake premium for fruit.

At the meeting of Carleton post, G. A. R., held last night, a committee, consisting of Col. E. M. Bergmann, W. S. Fletcher and J. T. Steele, was appointed to take the necessary steps to have the remains of Col. Albert H. Pfeiffer removed from near Del Norte, Colo., to the Santa Fe National cemetery. Col. Pfeiffer was one of the bravest soldiers New Mexico ever produced, and in his time was a noted Indian fighter. It is proper that his remains should rest here in our beautiful cemetery.
