AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Silver Substitute for the House Bond Bill Came Up in the Senate To-day.

IT WAS PASSED BY A VOTE OF 43 TO 35

The Vote on this Important Measure in Detail—Silver Manifested Unexpected Strength—House Censures Ambassador Bayard.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The senate was opened at 11 o'clock to day with a speech by the venerable senator from Vermont, Mr. Morrill, who said that the house had promptly responded to the president's message and had supplemented it with an emergency tariff revenue bill. The free silver substitute for the bond bill, he added, may not be the first time that bread has been asked for that a stone has been presented, but it is the first time that a committee of the senate seems to have perpetrated a practical joke, almost good enough for a clown of the Barnum menagerie.

The senator thought that a deficient national income should be not less swiftly remedied than an excess. Referring to the assertion that France maintains silver at par with gold, he said:

"Because there is no blustering silver party and no silver-plated Democratic party there that are daily striving to pull down their money standard to that of depreciated silver, they keep silver to the amount of $388,000,000 with $772,000,000 of gold on a ratio of 15 to 1. The United States has been the friend and patron of silver to its own harm."

MORRILL'S IDEAL THEORY

Mr. Morrill paid his respects as follows to the threats to form a new silver party: "Some whispered threats have floated in the air that the extreme silver men, now fraternizing here and at home with the Republican party, would band themselves together on the one dominant idea with auxiliary Democrats to hang on the tail of the Republican measure at the first opportunity, some silver amendment, hoping thereby to secure a silver triumph of the hybrid combination, although the grand old Republican party might perish. But there is little fear of these eruptive threats; for, if carried out, the riot act might be read at home to the offenders, upon whom public opinion would not fail to place its brand, and, whatever party might survive, not all of the garrotes of the Republican party would be among its members."

"The election of Republican governors in such states as New Jersey, Maryland and Kentucky indicates that the old Whig states of the south are wheeling into line with their former brethren on questions which concern their industrial prosperity. The Republican party at the earliest opportunity will seek the co-operation of the leading nations in the coinage of silver and will in the meantime aim to maintain the integrity of business affairs and the honor of the country by the maintenance of every dollar of the money in the hands of the people, without depreciation, at its full face value."

SENATOR TELLER TAKES BACK.

Mr. Teller, of Colorado, replied briefly to the reference Mr. Morrill made as to the cheapness of silver. He said that the remarkable mines at Crevice Creek were turning out gold ore worth 25 cents an ounce.

Mr. Teller referred sarcastically to the frequent characterization of "silver barons" and asked what had become of the "gold barons."

From this time forward the speeches were brief under an agreement that the five minutes rule of debate should prevail.

Under this rule, also, various amendments were taken up for debate.

A RADICAL AMENDMENT DEFEATED.

The first vote in the senate to-day occurred upon an amendment offered by Mr. Butler, Populist, of North Carolina, to prevent the further issue of bonds without authority of congress and to pay the coin obligations of the government in silver when silver bullion was below the par value of gold. The amendment was defeated—Yea, 15; nays 40. Those voting in the affirmative were: Brown, Butler, Cameron, Cannon, George, Hill, Kyle, Peffer, Pritchard, Roach, Stewart and Tillman.

ANOTHER AMENDMENT DEFEATED.

Mr. Allen's amendment, forbidden bond issues, was defeated by a vote of over two to one against.

The vote on the Allen amendment was: Yea, 21; nays 64, as follows: Yea, Messrs. Allen, Baker, Berry, Blanchard, Brown, Butler, Call, Cameron, Cannon, Hill, Hoar, Irby, Kyle, Lindsey, Mills, Peffer, Pritchard, Roach, Stewart, Thurston—21; nays, Messrs. Allison, Bate, Burrows, Carter, Chandler, Chilton,

LORD SALISBURY SPEAKS

The British Premier Recognizes the Monroe Doctrine as He Construes It.

NO HELP FOR THE POOR ARMENIANS

St. James Gazette Says Dunraven Made Baseless Charges Against American Sportsmen and Owes Them an Apology.

London, Feb. 1.—At a banquet last night the Marquis of Salisbury referred to the recent Transvaal crisis as throwing lurid light upon what might happen if home rule were granted Ireland. Referring to the Venezuelan affair, he said:

"I have been held up as a denouncer of the Monroe doctrine. As a matter of fact, although the Monroe doctrine is no part of international law, my dispatch to Olney, secretary of state of the United States, supported it as a military policy in the strongest and most distinct terms. We mean the Monroe doctrine as President Monroe understood it. (Cheers)."

"In that sense you will not find any more convinced supporters than we are."

Lord Salisbury then turned abruptly to the Armenian question and reproached the religious communities with laboring under a mistake when they supposed that England had bound herself in honor to succor Armenians, which means to go to war with the sultan in order to force him to govern Armenians well. He spoke of the fanaticism of the Turkish populace and said: "Nothing but military intervention could have suppressed the massacres, and England does not possess the power of military intervention at that distance."

DUNRAVEN SHOULD APOLOGIZE.

London, Feb. 1.—The St. James Gazette says: "The report of the New York yacht club committee makes clear: Firstly, that a very serious accusation was brought by Lord Dunraven on the flimsiest possible evidence; secondly, that the New York Yacht club has given his lordship a severe lesson in fairness and good manners."

The Gazette adds: "Lord Dunraven owes it to himself as a gentleman to apologize to those he accused without justification."

JARNDYCE VS. JARNDYCE.

Heirs of Davis, the Montana Multi-Millionaire, Fighting Over Deceased's Will.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The Davis will trial, which was in the courts of Montana for several years, is likely to be fully ventilated in Chicago.

This morning a bill was filed in the U. S. court by Erwin Davis, of New York, a brother of A. J. Davis, the multi-millionaire, whose vast fortune is at issue.

A. J. Davis died at Butte, Mont., on March 11, 1890, supposedly intestate, leaving an estate of about $5,000,000.

In the midst of the turmoil among the dead man's relatives, a will was found leaving to Thos. J. Davis, his sister and son, a share of the property and the balance to his brother, John A. Davis.

The children and heirs of the other relatives of the dead millionaire contested the will, declaring it to be a forgery, but later entered into an agreement with the contestants, agreeing to a division of the property.

This was decreed by the court.

Erwin, a brother of A. J. Davis, now attacks the compromise and asks the court to restrain the children of John A. Davis from receiving any of the estate and exhibits a decree signed by all the living brothers and sisters of the deceased, including John A. Davis, in whose favor the will was made, agreeing to give half of the money to Erwin, in consideration of his furnishing money to fight the claims of Mrs. Begett's children.

A similar issue is being contested in the Montana courts.

EL PASO PASTORS PROTEST

Ministers' Newspaper Organ Savagely Denounces Prize Fighting and Prize Fighters.

FISTIC CONSPIRATORS SEVERELY SCORED

Gov. Thornton Called on to Do His Utmost to Prevent Proposed Fight in New Mexico—Old Mexico Congratulated.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 1.—The El Paso Visitor, the Ministers' union paper, is out this morning red-hot against prize fighting, calling on the local Christian public not to countenance the carnival in any way, scoring the public for conspiring against the peace of New Mexico by allowing gamblers, sports and prize fighters to arrange to have a contest in "no man's land," calling on Governor Thornton to do everything possible to prevent the invasion by sports, and hurrahing for Mexico, which will not allow the fights to be held there.

The Amende Honorable.

Anent the garbled dispatch sent out to the press from El Paso, the Ministers' union down there publishes this: "The Ministers' union, of El Paso, not desiring to publish the letter from Gov. Thornton, of New Mexico, without his authority, desire to say that the statement published in the evening papers, the Herald especially, is erroneous and does not do Gov. Thornton justice. He says that while he has to depend upon the law with regard to breaches of the peace, chiefly, yet, he says, 'you may rest assured I will do all I can to prevent this disgrace being brought upon the territory.' After receiving his authority the letter will be published."

A Dental.

Meeting a Times reporter late last evening Mr. W. K. Wheelock said: "We have just received a telegram from Chicago denying the report sent out from the City of Mexico last night to the effect that the minister of the interior had instructed Governor Alvarado to send 600 troops to Juarez for the purpose of preventing the fights. Our information in contradiction of last night's report is reliable."—El Paso Times.

A Good Record.

J. E. Wharton has made a good record as prosecutor this term. He has placed to his credit a large number of convictions and not a case has been continued on the application of the territory. This shows that Mr. Wharton has the business of his office well in hand and sees to it that the territory is prepared to give the accused a speedy trial, thus saving to him delay and annoyance and to the taxpayers a large part of the expense usually incurred in criminal proceedings.—White Oaks Eagle.

Freight Train Wrecked.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Feb. 1.—Last night a freight train, east bound on the Big Four, was derailed by a broken wheel. Thirty cars crashed into a bridge and went down together. The property damage is $20,000.

Murdered and Beheaded.

Cincinnati, Feb. 1.—Some employees of James Lock, who lives on Alexandria Pike, Ky., found the body of Betsy Young, a woman, this morning in a somewhat secluded place about sixty yards from the pike. There were evidences of a fierce struggle. The astonishing feature of the case is that the victim was beheaded and the head missing.

Santa Fe, Wagner and Pullman.

New York, Jan. 30.—The report was received yesterday that the Wagner Palace Car company would get the Santa Fe contract, long held by the Pullman company, and one story has it that President Erwin has already awarded the plum to the Wagner company.

When the road was reorganized recently the sleeping car and dining car privileges were withdrawn from the Pullman company. President Ripley decided to wait a bit before renewing the contract, and in the meantime to confer with the opposition. H. Walter Webb, of the Wagner company, and Mr. Ripley had several talks recently, and it is said the Santa Fe contract was discussed. The report now current is that the contract has been signed and that it is for a long period of years. The Wagner company, it is said, will receive 2 cents a mile as mileage, in addition to the privilege of doing business over the Santa Fe system. The contract, according to the same authority, will go into effect March 1.

When seen this afternoon, Mr. Webb said he hoped the report was true, but he added that he had no information on the subject to impart.

Chairman Walker, of the A. T. & S. F. board of directors, said: "The negotiations respecting the A. T. & S. F. sleeping-car privileges are still pending, and the contract has not been awarded."

The Pullman people seem glum, but continue to express confidence in their ability to hold the Santa Fe in line. Pending any other change the Pullman company is running its cars over the line.

Whereas, A written request has been filed with us, signed by several members of the committee, for a meeting of the whole committee in the near future; and, Whereas, There are several important matters which the interests of the party demand should have speedy and careful consideration by the committee; and, Whereas, The time is rapidly approaching when in the usual course of party practice a meeting of the committee would be necessary to authorize a call for a territorial convention, and to apportion the county representation thereto, for the election of six delegates to the national Democratic convention, to be held at Chicago on July 7, next;

Therefore, by virtue of the authority in us vested by the rules and regulations of the committee, a meeting of the Democratic territorial central committee of New Mexico is hereby called to be held, at its headquarters in the city of Santa Fe on Wednesday, the 5th day of February, at 11 o'clock a. m., then and there to provide for the holding of a territorial convention of the party for the above named purpose, as well as to consider all other business which may come before it within the purpose of its existence and scope of its authority.

EVIDENTLY the goldites in the senate desire "a little more powder." They've sent Depont, of Delaware.

ACCORDING to some of the eastern newspapers, Speaker Reed is a "John Sherman bimetalist." That is, he is "in favor of bimetalism, but against the free coinage of silver."

DELEGATE N. O. MURPHY, of Arizona, ran over to New York last week and got in a body blow on Bosa Reed. "Six weeks ago there was practically no opposition to admitting the territories," said Murphy, "but lately considerable irritation has developed on account of the monetary dispute, and motives un-American, sectional and selfish have caused several hasty, and, I think, ill-advised representatives to announce their opposition to the admission of any more western states, whose senators, they think, would disagree with them on the money question. The merits involved are temporarily obscured on this account. I have, however, too much confidence in the ultimate justice and love of fair play of the American people to think that an entirely extraneous issue will be allowed to prevent justice being done to a loyal and patriotic subdivision of this country."

NEW ROADS FOR NEW MEXICO.

A New York press dispatch of January 27 confirms the announcement frequently made by the western press of late that the St. Louis & San Francisco and the Atlantic & Pacific railroads are in future to be operated independent of the A. T. & S. F. As a first step in this direction Mr. C. W. Smith, nephew of C. P. Huntington, of the Southern Pacific company, assumes control of the A. & P. road to-day, and negotiations are now in progress which will doubtless result in an amicable arrangement whereby the A. T. & S. F. will relinquish all control of the 'Frisco road.

Such independence on the part of these two roads, links in a trans-continental transportation scheme which years ago excited the attention of the whole investment world, vividly calls to mind the original plans of the Belgians and other capitalists who then cherished the idea of a model, all-the-year-round short route from the Missouri river to the Pacific coast, and in the near future, although the old crowd is out and Huntington is in, we may expect to hear much of this original project. The probabilities of its now being carried out are many, and, such being the case, it makes a glimpse of the railway grid-iron in New Mexico not only interesting but decidedly fascinating.

Already the intimation comes from the east that the gap between the 'Frisco line at Sepulpa, I. T., and the A. & P. at Albuquerque is to be built. The distance is 700 miles. Those interested, chiefly because they have long sought and must have a Pacific coast outlet, are the Rock Island, the Missouri Pacific, the M. K. & T. line and the 'Frisco. The New Mexican understands that these companies or any two of them stand ready to guarantee the interest on the bonds necessary to build and equip the new road if Huntington will undertake to float them, and such a deal is not improbable. This 700 miles of new road can now be built for less than one-half the amount required in past years.

When such a project is considered, wonderful possibilities are opened up to New Mexico. Such a line would give great impetus to the growth of Albuquerque and operate to benefit every section of the territory east of the Rio Grande. The Tijeras canon route would be adopted to get through the mountains east of Albuquerque, which would open a superb mining section in south Santa Fe county and the result would unquestionably be that the D. & R. G. road would extend its line south a distance of only fifty miles from Santa Fe to tap the new road. Coming up from Roswell the Pecos Valley road would reach it somewhere between Anton Chico and Fort Sumner, and C. B. Eddy's White Oaks-El Paso line now under way would surely find its way northeast from White Oaks to a junction with the road, thus rendering it from the start a trunk line of no mean importance with feeders covering a very rich section of the Rocky mountain country. These several projects have for years been discussed, we know; but they are all feasible, and, under the changed condition of things, we believe New Mexico will realize her hopes in railway construction much sooner than most of us now imagine.

PRESS COMMENT.

"Republican Bimetalism."

For obvious reasons all the prominent Republican candidates for the presidency have, for some months past, carefully avoided parting with their opinions on the silver question. The Republican state conventions of last year, with few exceptions, either dodged or straddled this troublesome issue, and the National League of Republican clubs made a complete reversal of its practice under the inspiration of the discovery that it had no business to formulate a creed or enunci-ate a policy. The Democratic party, being more seriously pressed by the free silver element than its chief opponent, took up the issue in its state campaign of 1895, and waged a hot factional fight in various states. It is probable that, by this means, some progress was made toward a final settlement, but the immediate results were disastrous, so much so that, at the end of the year, the party found itself in worse shape, if possible, than the torn and tattered condition in which it was left by "the awful avalanche" of 1894.

The Republicans having set the date for their convention, and the election of delegates thereto having begun, we notice a revival of interest in the silver question and an increased desire to know just where the candidates stand on that issue. Whatever their opinions may have been in the past, however they may have spoken or voted on this or that occasion in by-gone years, it is assumed that changed conditions may have wrought corresponding changes of opinion. But the candidates are still maintaining a profound silence on the most important and, by all odds, the most exciting issue in American politics. In view of this reticence on the part of the candidates, unusual interest attaches to the deliverances of their next friends. Senator Chandler is a close friend of Speaker Reed, and is a sincere supporter of the Marine statesman for the presidential nomination. He comes out for Reed early, while other New England senators were hesitating, and he came out with his customary zeal. The senator contributes to his newspaper, at Concord, N. H., the following interesting statement concerning the opinion of Thomas B. Reed on the money issue.

"He is not willing at this time to agree to the unlimited coinage of silver at the present ratio by the United States alone; but he is opposed to the monometallism of Cleveland and Carlisle, and in favor of the Republican bimetalism, to be secured by the most feasible means and with the least possible delay, so that gold and silver, admitted to unlimited coinage at an agreed ratio, shall together constitute the standard money of the world's values."

We are afraid this will not satisfy either the silver or the gold element. There appears to be a pressing demand for the positive declaration. The silver Republicans in congress say they will insist on a free coinage, 16 to 1 plank in the national platform. At the east there appears to be a settled determination to make the platform speak out clearly for "sound money." The Philadelphia Bulletin is a fair representative of the anti-silver sentiment. That paper says of Mr. Chandler's statement:

"It will soon be time for Tom Reed to define his views explicitly and distinctly on the one vital question of policy that will be up for consideration by the American people this year. He has hitherto been the frankest and most courageous of all Republican leaders in stating his opinions; but, like all the other candidates for the presidency, with the exception of Morton, there has come to be some doubt as to where he stands exactly on the relations of gold and silver. If 'Republican bimetalism,' as Chandler calls it, is to be Reed's shibboleth, he should state with something like precision what that now vague and indefinite phrase is intended to represent."

The Bulletin is not alone in its desire for a definition of "Republican bimetalism." There is no old platform of the party which throws any light on the mystery.—Washington Post.

The PECOS VALLEY of . . . NEW MEXICO

OFFERS unequalled advantages to the farmer, fruit grower, live stock raiser, dairyman, bee-keeper, and to the home-seeker generally.

The soil of the Pecos Valley is of high average fertility, and under irrigation produces bountiful crops of most of the grasses, grains, vegetables, berries and fruits of the temperate and some of those of the semi-tropical zone. In such fruit as the peach, pear, plum, grape, prune, apricot, nectarine, cherry, quince, etc., the Valley will dispute for the pre-eminence with California; while competent authority pronounces its upper portions in particular the finest apple country in the world.

Enormous yields of such forage crops as alfalfa, sorghum and Egyptian corn make the feeding of cattle and sheep and the raising and fattening of hogs a very profitable occupation.

The cultivation of canebrake—a tanning material of great value—is becoming an important industry in the Pecos Valley, a home market having been afforded for all that can be raised, at a price yielding a handsome profit.

The climate of the Pecos Valley has no superior in the United States, being pre-eminently healthful and health restoring.

Land with perpetual water-rights are for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The water supply of the Pecos Valley has no equal in all the arid region for constancy and reliability; and this with the superb climate, productive soil and the facilities afforded by the railway which extends through the Valley's entire length, will cause these lands to enjoy a constant, and at times rapid, increase in value.

The recent completion of the Pecos Valley Railway to Roswell will cause the more rapid settlement and development of the upper portions of the Valley, including the rich Felix section. The company has recently purchased many of the older improved farms about Roswell, and has now for sale lands to meet the wants of all—raw lands, partially improved lands, as well as farms with houses, orchards and fields of alfalfa and other crops. In the vicinity of Roswell several pieces of land have been divided into five and ten acre tracts, suitable for orchards and truck farms in connection with suburban homes. Certain of these tracts are being planted to orchards, and will be cultivated and cared for by the company for three years at the end of which period they will be handed over to the purchasers. Write for pamphlet fully describing the terms and conditions on which these several classes of tracts are sold.

THE GOLD CROSS.

"Hello! What's this?" John Ainsworth stopped to pick up a gold cross which was lying on the sidewalk outside his office door. Being intent on his morning drive, he put it in his waistcoat pocket without further thought, for he was a busy man, the editor of a great daily paper.

He had studiously avoided the other residents of the house, and perhaps it was for that reason that he scorned the elevator, preferring to climb up the marble stairs to his cozy rooms on the third floor. This habit greatly amused his young brother, Elliott, who shared his home and any other comforts that the gods of John provided. Elliott was a lazy, happy-go-lucky artist, whose profession had not as yet brought him an income.

When John entered the pretty sitting room that evening, he found his brother putting the finishing touches to what he was pleased to call an "ideal head."

John walked to the easel and glanced curiously at the sketch, rather bored to be forced to spend time on one of Elliott's many daubs. But for once his attention was arrested. Something in the light brown eyes appealed to him, and as he studied the face it seemed more and more to bespeak his friendliness at least.

"Elliott, you rascal, you have stolen this! By Jove, it's the best you have done!"

"Thank you, Jack, and to tell you the truth, it's a face I've seen and dreamed about, but painted entirely from memory."

"Where did you see her? If you have really portrayed some living girl, she must be indeed a beauty!"

Elliott seemed well pleased that an answer was not expected.

The next morning when John put his hand in his pocket for his car fare he ran against something unusual, and pulling it out recognized the little golden cross. He looked at it carefully and saw the inscription: "Muriel" upon it.

When he raised his head, he blushed to see the light brown eyes of Elliott's sketch watching him demurely, even appealingly, it seemed to him. Yes, it must be she, the same brow, the waving hair, the dainty lips, and, best of all, the wonderful eyes!

Now, John Ainsworth had reached the sober age of 35, and if any one had told him that a pair of hazel eyes would set his heart to beating like a steam pump or cause a crimson hue to suffuse his manly face he would have scouted at the idea. But that was just what was going on this very morning, and as the sensation was so new and so alarming the only idea that came to him was flight.

So he made his way to the door of the car and dropped off, only to regret it, as he had voluntarily given up the only chance of finding out who she was or where she was going.

Following his first impulse, he started at a lively pace to pursue the car, but stopped short when he heard a familiar voice calling:

"Hold on there, Jack, old man! What's the rush? Is there a fire, or are you after a second?"

"Well, you here? I managed to get off at the wrong corner and thought to regain the car."

"Your supper last night must have been too much for you, though I should have supposed you would have slept off the effects. Let us walk on down town. I'd like to take you in to see some water colors at Brown's."

"Speaking about water colors, what are you going to do with that head? You won't sell it, will you?"

"Will it? Won't it? If I can find any patron of art who appreciates it to the tune of $100 or so? This art for art's sake is all very poetical, but the time is coming, my boy, when I must earn my living. You know, I can't always expect to live on your bounty, Jack. You may be wishing to marry some day yourself."

"I don't know about that. We are all liable to succumb, but don't send that head to Brown's anyway. I want it, and if I take it you can show it at the spring exhibition and perhaps gain glory, if not wealth."

The mind of John Ainsworth was full of but one subject all that week, and street car riding became a steady habit, his hope being to catch another glimpse of the hazel eyes. But fortune did not seem to favor him.

One morning he remembered the golden cross and bethought himself that some effort should be made to find its rightful owner. Smiting the action to the word, he wrote a description of it and inserted it in the advertisement column of the paper.

The following day brought an answer, stating that the owner would be very grateful if the finder would return the cross to her home, giving the very apartment house where John lived.

That evening John called at 35 and asked for Miss Muriel Margold, but when she did glide softly into the room she glided also into his heart, for who should it be but the possessor of the hazel eyes!

"Thank you so much, Mr. Ainsworth, for bringing my little cross. It is an old keepsake and was given to me when I was a child. I regretted its loss exceedingly, but when I saw you had it," she added mischievously, "I knew it was safe. Let me thank you again warmly. I hope now that we have met we may be friends. Your brother and I often meet in the elevator, and though we only nod and smile I feel that we are old acquaintances."

Two months later at the spring exhibition of water colors three people stood before a painting which was catalogued as an "Ideal Head."

"It is very like—yes, very like," said the older of the two young men. "There is only one thing lacking—the golden cross, for that, you know, is what brought me my sweet!"

"Hush, John, dear," whispered the girl who looked so like the picture. —Chicago News.

The Causes of Vagabondage.

The principal causes or sources of vagabondage, as I understand them, may be briefly recapitulated:

First.—The love of liquor.

Second.—Wanderlust—the love of wandering.

Third.—The county jail, owing to the promiscuous herding of boys and homeless wanderers with criminals.

Fourth.—The tough and rough element in villages and towns.

Fifth.—The comparatively innocent but misguided pupils of the reform school.

Though not, properly speaking, a cause of vagabondage, the nonenforcement of law is its nursing mother, and misguided and misapprehended justice its base of operations. The tramp evil is not so much a disease as a symptom of public ill health. As such, and all the more because it is such, it deserves to be more thoroughly investigated, more reasonably apprehended and more boldly treated. —"How Men Become Tramps," by Josiah Flynt, in Century.

NEW HAMMOND TYPEWRITER

FOR SALE AT NEW MEXICAN OFFICE.

A card on the outside of office door says:

"Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And, the man will be there on time. That is, for some days, weeks or even months, he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache—a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten-minute lunches condensed. They were hurried in, but they were taking their own time about getting out, or even "moving on."

This is a great mistake, but as long as there's life there's a chance to rectify mistakes.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's "Heart Cure," the best friend he ever met. The "Pellets" may not hurry as much as the man does, but they will do the work for which they are intended—surely—promptly—effectually.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart burn," or any of the rest of the night-mare breeding brood, that these little "Pellets" will not cure.

They are not disagreeable to take, neither are the effects disagreeable. They are gentle laxatives. They cure permanently. There's no danger of forming a "Pellet habit." Therefore, you don't become a slave to their use.

Send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and receive absolutely gratis, Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, and find out how to keep yourself and family healthy. The book contains 1000 pages, over 300 illustrations and over 600,000 copies have been sold at $1.00 each. The new edition of 500,000 copies is to be given away absolutely free. It is a veritable medical library, complete in on volume. Address, with stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Paw, is there any difference between a cold and an influenza? If the doctor calls it a cold, the bill is about $4; if he calls it influenza, it's about $18. The difference is $14, my son.

Popular Low Price California Excursions.

The Santa Fe route personally conducted weekly excursions to California are exceedingly popular with travelers who seek a wise economy in cost of railroad and sleeper tickets without sacrifice of any essential comfort. About one-third saved as compared with first-class passage. The Pullmans occupied by these parties are of latest pattern and afford every convenience.

Convenience, a porter goes with each car, and an experienced agent of the company is in charge.

Ladies, invalids, elderly people, etc., will appreciate this personal care.

The Santa Fe California line passes south of the region of severe snow storms and through the most picturesque country. The service is same as above, except as regards agents in charge. For descriptive literature and other information, address local agents A. T. & S. F. R. R.

who are coming west to visit you just send a postscript like this: "Be sure to take a Burlington Route."

You are quite sure in doing this because our service from Omaha, Peoria, Chicago, St. Joseph, Kansas City and St. Louis is just as good as our service to those cities. And every Colorado man who has tried it knows how good that is.
