DEMOCRACY IS FOR SILVER

Great States of Ohio, Indiana and Texas Join Illinois in Electing Silver Delegations.

BIMETALLISM IS PARAMOUNT ISSUE

Silver Democrats Developing An Aggressiveness That is Worrying Such Experienced Political Leaders as Hill and Whitney in New York.

Columbus, Ohio, June 24.—It was after 10 o'clock when the Democratic state convention was called to order by Chairman M. A. Sweeney.

During the morning the members of the committee on resolutions were working on the platform, which is a simple resolution on silver with an attachment for the unit rule. There were wide differences on enforcing the unit rule.

The state central committee was reorganized with U. W. Durbin, of Canton, as chairman. He is a radical free silver man.

This and the other committee stood two to one for free silver.

Temporary Chairman Taylor has long been a radical silver leader in the state. Gen. A. J. Warner, the permanent chairman, was the pioneer free silver man in congress and has been president of the American Bimetallist league ever since its organization in 1889. He is now favorable to Senator Teller for president.

OPENED WITH A FREE SILVER DECLARATION.

The convention was called to order at 10:30 by Chairman Sweeney. W. A. Taylor, the temporary chairman, read his speech. His declaration for free coinage at 16 to 1 gave the silver advocates their first opportunity to cheer and they did it vociferously.

Reuben Turner, of Tuscarawas county, was recognized and threw the convention into a turmoil of hisses and derisive shouts by saying: "Looking down on this convention is that arch-traitor, that Benedict Arnold of Democracy, Grover Cleveland."

Turner immediately moved that A. W. Patrick, who presented the minority report on resolutions for silver last year, be invited to the stage. This caught the silver men and the motion carried.

Patrick made a free coinage speech. The gold men forgot the report on rules because it referred all resolutions without debate. The report was adopted.

After the committee on permanent organization reported Gen. Warner was escorted to the chair as presiding officer and was received with an ovation.

OVATION TO GEN. WARNER.

Gen. Warner was introduced as the apostle of 16 to 1. He urged all to sacrifice their personal preferences and all other matters for the silver issue. The people had made the issue and the St. Louis convention had emphasized it by adopting the single gold standard. The lines were now distinctly drawn.

There was no longer any doubt about what would be done at Chicago on this issue. He urged all advocates of the bimetallic standard of the fathers and of the constitution to unite on one ticket, as well as on one issue. He insisted that this union of the people regardless of party alliances against the gold standard of the money power was now the duty of the hour. It would save the people from becoming a homeless tenantry, while the rich were becoming richer by the increasing value of gold.

Gen. Warner's speech was interrupted continuously by applause, especially his references to the bankruptcy and distress of the masses and the heavy tributes levied on them by the money lenders.

ADMINISTRATIVE MATTERS.

His indictment of the administration for issuing bonds to maintain the gold standard was intensely severe and was greeted with tumultuous demonstrations.

After the report on credentials was adopted, the following majority report on resolutions was presented:

We, the Democrats of Ohio, in convention assembled, hold that the money question is the vital and paramount issue now before the people of this country, and that its early and correct settlement is necessary to a revival of business and a return of prosperity; therefore,

Resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to the single gold standard and demand an immediate return to the constitutional money of gold and silver by the restoration by the government, independent of other nations, of the unrestricted coinage of both silver and gold as standard money at the ratio of 16 to 1, and upon the terms of the exact equality existing prior to 1873, such coin to be full legal tender equally with gold coin for all debts and dues, public and private.

THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE

Is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. Don't forget to take it. Now is the time you need it most to wake up your Liver. A sluggish Liver brings on Malaria, Fever and Ague, Rheumatism, and many other ills which shatter the constitution and wreck health. Don't forget the word REGULATOR. It is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR you want. The word REGULATOR distinguishes it from all other remedies. And, besides this, SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR is a Regulator of the Liver, keeps it properly at work, that your system may be kept in good condition.

FOR THE BLOOD TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. It is the best blood purifier and corrector. Try it and note the difference. Look for the RED Z on every package. You want find it on any other medicine and there is no other Liver remedy like SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR—the King of Liver Remedies. Be sure you get it.

THE UNIT RULE ADOPTED.

Resolved, That the delegates-at-large, chosen by this convention, and the delegates to the national convention from the several congressional districts, shall be and are hereby instructed to use all honorable means to secure the adoption of the principles contained in the foregoing resolution by the Democratic national convention, to be held on July 7, and to vote for candidates for president and vice-president who are known to be in full accord therewith, and to accomplish these ends to cast the votes from the state of Ohio as a unit as the majority may determine.

The gold men moved to strike out the unit rule instructions, but were voted down by a viva voce vote amid much disorder.

J. C. Patterson, of Dayton, presented a minority report covering the Monroe doctrine, the election of senators by the people, the Cuban question, tariff reform, personal liberty and all the usual declarations of Democratic conventions, but making no reference to the financial question.

MINORITY REPORT VOTED DOWN.

The minority report was signed by four members and the majority report by sixteen members.

The minority report was decisively defeated and the motion to strike out the unit rule was also promptly defeated.

The gold men demanded a call of the counties on the adoption of the majority report, resulting, yeas, 542; nays, 120.

On the first ballot McLean, Thurman, Holden and Finley were elected delegates-at-large.

LARGEST CONVENTION FOR YEARS.

Indianapolis, June 24.—The Democratic state convention met at 10 o'clock a. m. It is the largest political assembly held in the state in recent years, comprising 1,747 delegates. At least 75 per cent of them are ultra free silver men.

State Chairman Sterling Holt called the convention to order.

Chairman Robert C. Bell was introduced and made a strong silver speech.

For delegates-at-large, the committee recommended Daniel W. Voorhees and David Turpie, United States senators, and James D. McCabe, of Williamsport.

The names of Major G. V. Messers, of Mt. Vernon, and of William Shanklin, of Evansville, were presented for the fourth delegate-at-large. Messers is a gold advocate; Shanklin favors free coinage.

The convention plainly favored Shanklin. He made a speech of withdrawal, saying that he was informed that Gov. Matthews favored Messers, who may be faithful to the convention's instructions at Chicago. Shanklin was not further pressed.

The committee on credentials reported in favor of silver men in a majority of the counties.

MINORITY REPORT PRESENTED.

The minority report of the committee on credentials, signed by John W. Keren, member of the 7th Indiana district, dissented from the majority report, which recommended the seating of the contesting delegates of the 5th, 10th, 12th, 18th and 19th wards of Indianapolis, for the alleged reason that the report of the majority amounted to disfranchisement of thousands of loyal Democrats.

At 11:55 the convention took a recess for twenty minutes, and the 7th district delegates withdrew from the convention for the purpose of preparing a report.

When the convention was again called to order, the report of the 7th district was submitted. The gold men of the district organized last night and the silver wing battled by the ruling on the contests today the gold faction in the 7th district was defeated.

The following platform was reported: We re-affirm our adherence to the Democratic doctrine of bimetalism, and, therefore, demand the unrestricted coinage of both silver and gold as primary money at the ratio of 16 to 1, without awaiting the co-operation of Great Britain or any other foreign power, all such coinage to be full legal tender in the payment of all debts whether public or private.

SUFFICIENT WITH RESTORED BIMETALLISM.

Resolved, That we believe the existing tariff laws will equal to all the demands for needed revenue for the expenses of the government economically administered under the conditions which will arise from the restoration of bimetalism.

Resolved, That we are opposed to the redemption and dual cancellation of United States notes (greenbacks) or any other notes or certificates issued by the United States to circulate as money, such redemption and cancellation necessarily involving an increase of the present interest-bearing debt by the issue of bonds and a reduction of the currency.

We demand a sufficient stable volume of money, gold, silver and paper, to meet the requirements of our ever growing population and the constant increase of our productive industries.

We protest against an increase of the public debt by the issue of interest-bearing bonds or otherwise in time of peace, and, if the redemption clause of the so-called Sherman Resumption act of 1875 authorizes, as is claimed, the treasury department to issue interest-bearing bonds without limit, without exceeding and without the necessity of Congress as to each issue of such bonds, we demand that the provision of such act be unconditionally repealed. The Democratic party has never believed that a public debt was a public blessing.

We demand that the obligations of the government of every form be paid and be redeemed in conformity with the laws under which they were issued, in gold and silver, at the option of the government of the United States, and not at the option of the creditors.

We believe that public war exists in Cuba and that all the parties thereto ought to be accorded all the rights of belligerents.

The platform closes with instructions to the delegates to vote for Gov. Matthews as the candidate for the presidency, "first, last and all the time," and to vote as a unit upon all questions involving the platform or candidate.

ENTHUSIASM FOR SILVER.

The reference to free silver was the occasion for the greatest cheering of the day.

When the previous question was moved, ex-Congressman Bynum rose to protest, but was ordered down. The platform was adopted with a great hurrah.

B. J. Snively was nominated for governor.

LONG STAR STATE DEMOCRATS.

Austin, Texas, June 24.—The silver state convention assembled at 9:30 o'clock, and, after several hours of discussion, adopted the platform on which the row was precipitated last night, with a few amendments. It declares for the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 re-

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Santa Fe, N. M., June 23, 1896.

The week ending June 22 was very warm and dry. The drought remains unbroken except in one or two localities which were visited by invigorating thunder showers.

Springer reports a fine shower on the 21st amounting to 0.55 of an inch, which was of great benefit to the crops.

The conditions were more favorable than during the preceding weeks owing to the fact that the afternoons were very generally cloudy; this was of great benefit as it checked the evaporation considerably and enabled the crops to stand the severe drought much better. As a result, although crops are in bad condition from the drought in many localities, yet they are standing the drought better than was expected.

Crops that are being well irrigated have made good growth and are now in good condition.

Cattle ranges were very dry and stock generally in poor condition but are holding up better than was anticipated. It is now believed that if the summer rains come as early as usual there will be no serious loss in this important industry.

Water for irrigation is getting low in many localities.

The following extracts from a few of the reports received at this office will be found of interest.

Albuquerque—A. Montoya, Jr.—This has been an unusually warm week, some cloudy days but no rain. There is very little water in the river and if it does not rain soon it may quit running altogether in a few days. Wheat, corn and beans looking well and second crop of alfalfa making rapid growth.

Alma—Wm. French—Another dry week but cloudy and indications for future rain more favorable. Stock on range holding their own fairly well. Some thunder showers around on the mountains but none reached here as yet.

Alamo—Prof. H. H. Griffin—Extremely hot and dry with hot winds during the afternoons. Conditions can not be said to be favorable for any crops except corn. River very low for this season of the year, but an abundance of water for irrigation.

Bernalillo—Brother Gabriel—Corn, wheat and grape-vines doing well. Apples quite large. Vegetable gardens somewhat improved but with great labor and frequent irrigation. Ditches at present kept in supply with difficulty on account of rapid fall of water in river.

Espanola—L. A. Phillips—The weather the past week has been extremely hot and dry with poor prospects of rain so far. Alfalfa cutting in progress but very dry. Everything greatly in need of moisture.

Farmington—J. G. Willett—Hottest weather ever known in this part. No rain, no grass, plenty of water for irrigation. Just commenced cutting alfalfa. Alfalfa is very dry and the sheep are well watered doing fairly. Grape looking well, but other fruit nearly a failure.

Las Cruces—Fabian Garcia—Weather has been exceedingly warm; during the past part of week it was clear and no winds but toward the last part we have had some quite high winds, cloudy weather and a very light shower on the 19th. The harvesting of wheat has begun; second crop of alfalfa making a rank growth. Alfalfa crops are in good condition, with some early corn, this season's alfalfa, oats and garden truck.

Las Vegas—Dr. F. H. Atkins—Another dry, hot week. Water still not increased and irrigation about ended. Irrigated crops developing very slowly. Fruit trees that were irrigated are developing crop well. No grass yet. Bad outlook.

Los Alamos—Wm. Frank—The week has been bright in the morning, very hot during the day and sometimes cloudy, but no rain, consequently no improvement in the crops. Some of the bunches of sheep are being shorn so as to enable them to be driven away from here to the foot-hills. Commencing to rain today, the 22nd, at 12:30 p. m., with some small hail and indications are fair for more showers.

Lower Pecos—H. von Basse—The week has been unusually hot and though more or less cloudy every day it has not rained. Corn is looking splendid, vegetables are not doing well, being covered with insects. Stock all the better than the dried up ranges would let it appear possible, some cattle being in very good shape. Water in the Pecos two miles above this station is getting scarce, plenty of it below though.

Galinas Springs—E. Whitmore—Dry—everything drying up.

Melvin—A. M. Hollenbeck—Weather still continues very dry, but the past week has been more or less cloudy. Crops are in very poor condition, so much so that alfalfa is nearly all dead. The drought is more severe than has been known for years. Stock doing fairly well, scarcity of water being the main trouble.

Costa—E. M. Conner—The highest temperature ever recorded at this place was 95 on the 14th. No water, no crops, no grass, no fruit. The outlook is very discouraging.

Puerto de Luna—P. R. Page—Very hot and dry weather, which is doing a great deal of damage to crops. Sheep and cattle are getting thin and in some parts of the country a great many lambs are being lost on account of dry weather. Trace of rain on 17th.

Rincon—C. H. Raitt—The afternoons have been cloudy all week and indications of many rains near by, but there has been only a trace at this place. Wheat harvest begins this week. Some barley and wheat has been cut already.

Santa Fe—U. S. Weather Bureau—Hot, dry weather; cloudy in the afternoon. Irrigated crops are doing fairly well. The cloudy afternoons alleviated the unfavorable conditions to a great extent.

Springer—Dr. L. Hines—Past week very dry and warm. Fine rain on the 21st amounting to one-half an inch with thunderstorm. If rain continues nearly all crops will come out very well. Fruit crop will be much better than was expected.

NATIONAL POLITICS.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Washington.—An extra session of congress next spring seems practically decided upon, whether the Republicans or Democrats win in the presidential election this autumn. The Republican leaders have been planning for some time for a special session of the new congress.

The Democrats, if they elect a president and a majority in congress, are planning for a special session for the purpose of providing for free coinage, anti-trust, income tax and other needed legislation. The Democrats do not need to worry about the senate, for they are practically certain to have a majority there if the country goes for free coinage.

They expect a majority in the house if they elect a president and it is probable that the two would go together. The Republicans generally admit a reduction of their majority in the present house and a silver victory would carry along silver candidates for congress in great numbers in the states of the Mississippi valley.

The advocates of the gold standard would probably not fight for delay when they were convinced that the die had been absolutely cast in favor of silver. Some of the advocates of silver admit that there might be a period of business uncertainty pending the enactment of a free coinage bill. Both sides, they believe, would profit by prompt action and neither would gain materially by delay, so, in any event, an extra session of congress is probable.

KANSAS IN LINE.

Topeka.—Ex-Gov. Lewelling and ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson are just now interesting factors in the politics of Kansas. Lewelling is a candidate for reelection, and Simpson is being generally endorsed by Populist conventions for his old seat in congress from the 7th district. Populist conventions were held in a dozen counties and delegates chosen favorable to Lewelling yesterday. It is predicted that his nomination will be made at Abilene, July 5, by acclamation.

In his speech he advised all friends of silver to get together against the gold-bug Republicans. The Democrats will endorse Lewelling and the fight for election will be intense. In return for Democratic support the Populists will concede the United States senatorship to the silver Democrats, and the fight for the legislature will be made on that issue against the gold-bug, who anticipated the issue and declared at the St. Louis convention that he would make his fight for the senate on bimetalism.

EVEN IN DELAWARE.

Wilmington.—The announcement made by Henry C. Pennington, one of the delegates from Sussex county to the Chicago convention, that he would vote for free silver, fell like a thunderbolt in the camp of the sound money men, who had counted upon the great aid of delivery to the sheriff of Delaware county, of the delegates to Chicago will vote for free silver.

REWARDS OFFERED.

Whereas, Information has just reached me that, upon the 11th day of June A. D. 1896, Levi Heitzman and Mordelido Gallegos were murdered in the county of Guadalupe and territory of New Mexico by parties unknown, and who are now fugitives from justice;

Now, therefore, for the purpose of securing the arrest and conviction of said fugitives, I, W. T. Thornton, governor of the territory of New Mexico, by virtue of the authority in me vested, do hereby offer a reward of five hundred ($500) dollars each for the arrest of said delinquents, upon conviction of said criminals.

Done at the executive office, this, the 19th day of June, A. D. 1896.

Witness my hand and the great seal of the territory of New Mexico.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24.

Truly, troublesome times have fallen upon the goldbugs. Even in some of the counties in New York state the Democrats instructed their delegates to the state convention to vote for free coinage.

If it weren't for the crime and injustice of the thing, one might almost wish for McKinley's election just to see Judge Morrison make ducks and drakes of the crowd of New Mexico statesmen who undertook to belittle him at the St. Louis convention.

In some quarters it is denied that the New Mexico delegation to St. Louis cast a solid vote against Hobart for vice-president. The official record as telegraphed all over the country and published in all the St. Louis newspapers shows: "New Mexico, 6 votes for H. Clay Evans." That, too, after Hobart had been nominated!

The gathering of a big force of war ships in the Atlantic, headed, presumably, for Cuba, and the news from Venezuela, seems to indicate that both President Cleveland and President Crespo have their eyes on the presidential campaign in the United States. Look out for a war scare during the next ten days.

The McKinley idea of a protective tariff is a back number. A tariff that fills the pockets of the New England manufacturer of woolen goods and ignores the interests of the wool grower is not what the people of the west can be hoodwinked into supporting. They have been hoodwinked too often on that line.

It is said that in casting about for a candidate to stand for delegate to congress this fall, the Republican politicians have made up their minds to go slow, and, it may be, that Delegate Catron will find himself out in the cold, cold coop. The names of Sol Luna, John R. McFie, J. A. Anheeta and Miguel A. Otero are mentioned in this connection.

POSITION OF SILVER REPUBLICANS.

The NEW MEXICAN yesterday printed a communication from the vigorous pen of Hon. D. P. Carr, wherein the "gentleman from Grant" clearly sets forth the cogent reasons that irresistibly impel him, after thirty-one years of faithful service in the ranks thereof, to quit the Republican party. Mr. Carr's manner of handling the subject is strong, able and convincing. It proves that he is equipped with smoothly working mental machinery as well as with a conscience that is keenly active to the difference between right and wrong and courage of the required strength of fiber. Mr. Carr's forcible arraignment of the Republican party for distinctly dishonoring its oft repeated pledges to stand by the vital principle of bimetallism, pledges that were solemnly reiterated both in its platform and by its presidential candidate three years ago, is unanswerable on any theory that involves the ideas of consistency and good faith. If the Republicans were honest in their money metal declaration at Minneapolis three years ago, they are dishonest now; if they were honest in declaring for the gold standard at St. Louis the other day, their utterance in favor of bimetallism at Minneapolis was a dishonest profession intended to deceive the friends of silver. It is our candid conviction that the Minneapolis declaration came much nearer voicing the views of Republicans generally than does the recent St. Louis declaration; that a majority of the Republicans of the United States were then and still are sincere believers in the principle of bimetallism; that the gold standard plank in the St. Louis platform was bought of Banker Marcus Aurelius Hanna for a stipulated amount of New York and New England gold; that Republicans who believe as Mr. Carr does on the financial question and place principles above federal favors, can no more support McKinley on such a platform than a sincere silver Democrat could vote for Secretary Carlisle on an equally yellow platform.

E. L. HALL, U. S. MARSHAL.

There has been no more faithful, painstaking and conscientious public officer on duty in New Mexico under any administration than U. S. Marshal Edward L. Hall. We believe this declaration will be endorsed by both the press and the people of the territory without regard to politics. And particularly has Mr. Hall made an admirable record so far as concerns prosecutions under the notorious Edmunds act, so often used in the territories under former administrations as a means of persecution and personal spite work. Soon after entering upon his official trust Mr. Hall issued a circular letter of instruction to his deputies in which he announced that "the practice of deputy marshals running around and working up these cases simply for the fees will not be allowed," and in this, as in other matters coming within his jurisdiction, he has, while keeping within the intent and meaning of law, always exercised a discretion and a judgment that make it impossible for any man to say that he has ever used his office for aught than the highest motives—the preservation of law and good order.

PRESS COMMENT.

Spectacles for the Optic.

We do not see why the NEW MEXICAN and the Albuquerque Democrat object to Catron. What would they have to say editorially if it were not for him?—Optic. This is truly painful. An Optic that is not sensitive to the search light that has been turned upon the character and record of Catron for many years past requires the services of an oculist and an optician. If the cause of blindness is nothing more serious than a cataract or a case of ophthalmia, there is possibility of cure, but if it be a case of political paralysis of the optic nerve, as we fear, the oculist and the optician will not be able to give any relief. Still it is possible that the defective vision of the Optic is due to mere stigmatism or exaggerated strabismus induced by the strain of trying to keep Catron and honesty in sight simultaneously.

Upon the chance that astigmatism is the trouble, we urge the Optic to fit itself with spectacles properly adjusted, read what follows and endeavor to see why we object to Catron.

We object to Catron because he has always used his "brains and energy" to advance his own selfish interests at the expense of the people of New Mexico; because he has conspired with all the rogues that ever held office to corrupt the courts and pervert justice; because he has bribed judges, bought legislators, suborned perjury, protected assassins and has been the most potent influence for evil that ever cursed the public life of a community; because he is not only a brutal bully in politics, but a false pretender; because he misrepresents whatever there may be of honest public opinion in New Mexico; because he secured office by impudently promising what he could not perform and has made no pretense of trying to perform; because he has used his office to further every iniquitous job and steal that other scoundrels have been able to devise for robbing and oppressing the citizens of this territory; because, as delegate in congress, he has been only the paid attorney of holders of fraudulently-issued bonds; because he has done nothing honorable during his term; because his presence in Washington is a shame and a reproach to New Mexico; because he is odious not only to members of his own party in congress, but to every honest, right-minded man who knows his record. We object to him because he is the personification of everything evil in politics—because he is Catron.—Albuquerque Democrat.

NEW MEXICAN PRINTING COMPANY.

The PECOS VALLEY of NEW MEXICO

OFFERS unequalled advantages to the farmer, fruit grower, live stock raiser, dairyman, bee-keeper, and to the home-seeker generally.

The soil of the Pecos Valley is of high average fertility, and under irrigation produces bountiful crops of most of the grasses, grains, vegetables, berries and fruits of the temperate and some of those of the semi-tropical zone. In such fruit as the peach, pear, plum, grape, prune, apricot, nectarine, cherry, quince, etc., the Valley will dispute for the pre-eminence with California; while competent authority pronounces its upper portions in particular the finest apple country in the world.

Immense yields of such forage crops as alfalfa, sorghum and Egyptian corn make the feeding of cattle and sheep and the raising and fattening of hogs a very profitable occupation.

The cultivation of annaigre—a tanning material of great value—is becoming an important industry in the Pecos Valley, a home market having been afforded for all that can be raised, at a price yielding a handsome profit.

The climate of the Pecos Valley has no superior in the United States, being pre-eminently healthful and health restoring.

Land with perpetual water-rights are for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The water supply of the Pecos Valley has no equal in all the arid region for constancy and reliability; and this with the superb climate, productive soil and the facilities afforded by the railway which extends through the Valley's entire length, will cause these lands to enjoy a constant, and at times rapid, increase in value.

The recent completion of the Pecos Valley Railway to Roswell will cause the more rapid settlement and development of the upper portions of the Valley, including the rich Fells section. The company has recently purchased many of the older improved farms about Roswell, and has now for sale lands to meet the wants of all—raw lands, partially improved lands, as well as farms with houses, orchards and fields of alfalfa and other crops. In the vicinity of Roswell several pieces of land have been divided into five and ten acre tracts, suitable for orchards and truck farms in connection with suburban homes. Certain of these tracts are being planted to orchards, and will be cultivated and cared for by the company for three years at the end of which period they will be handed over to the purchasers. Write for pamphlet fully describing the terms and conditions on which these several classes of tracts are sold.

Stranger (to Johnnie Chaffie)—Is your neighbor, Jones, at home? Johnnie—No, sir; he went out to the cemetery this morning. Stranger—When will he return? Johnnie—He's gone to stay.

Round, Roxy Faces.
Laughing eyes, frames full of vigor and elasticity, are blessings attainable by the cadaverous, the haggard and the dyspeptic who try that wisest of experiments—an experiment whose happy outcome is certified to by myriads—viz., a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters promptly begun and steadily pursued. There is no tonic comparable to it in efficacy, none more agreeable and speedily beneficial. The nervous and dyspeptic, sufferers from malaria, rheumatism, constipation, biliousness and kidney troubles are rapidly aided by the Bitters, and it is one of the best means of counteracting the effects of excessive bodily or mental fatigue, and exposure to wet or inclement weather. Persons of sedentary habits find it a most useful invigorator and recuperator of exhausted energy. Use it in order to sleep well, eat heartily and digest thoroughly. Physicians everywhere speak in high terms of it.

"Yes admitted Plato, 'our climate is pretty warm. But nobody who comes here knows what to expect. We don't set up for a convention city and bring people here in the middle of June to nominate a president.'"

And he turned to one of his attendants and ordered a blanket to be brought for a shivering spirit that had just arrived from St. Louis.

Mothers will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy especially valuable for croup and whooping cough. It will give prompt relief and is safe and pleasant. We have sold it for several years and it has never failed to give the most perfect satisfaction.—G. W. Richardson, Duquesne, Pa. Sold at Ireland's Pharmacy.

I should love to see more of you! he cried. She withdrew her fingers. Not here! not here! he murmured. "But—He started. To-night! She had vanished. As in a dream he read the card she had slipped into his hand. It was a ticket for the Claret & Peel living picture series.

Mr. James Perdue, an old soldier residing at Monroe, Mich., was severely afflicted with rheumatism but received prompt relief from pain by using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He says: "At times my back would ache so badly that I could hardly raise up. If I had not gotten relief I would not be here to write these few lines. Chamberlain's Pain Balm has done me a great deal of good and I feel very thankful for it." For sale at Ireland's Pharmacy.

A little 5-year-old went to a children's party. On her return she said to her parents: "At that party a little girl fell off her chair. All the other girls laughed, but I didn't."

Well, why didn't you laugh?
Cause I was the one that fell off.

CATARRH
is a LOCAL DISEASE and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes. It can be cured by a pleasant remedy which is applied directly into the nostrils. Being quickly absorbed it gives relief at once.

Ely's Cream Balm

is acknowledged to be the most thorough cure for Nasal Catarrh, Cold in Head and Erythema of all remedies. It opens the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, heals the sores, protects the membrane from colds, restores the sense of taste and smell. Price 5c. at drug stores or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren Street, New York.

The bold, bad catarrhal soon,
All snugly hid from view,
Will murmur to the summer girl,
I have a drop on you.

If it required an annual outlay of $100 to insure a family against any serious consequences from an attack of bowel complaint during the year there are many who would feel it their duty to pay it; that they could not afford to risk their lives and those of their family for such an amount. Anyone can get this insurance for 25 cents, that being the price of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of bowel complaint before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. One or two doses of this remedy will cure any ordinary case. It never fails. Can you afford to take the risk for so small an amount? For sale at Ireland's Pharmacy.

I was told to step with caution,
And not to talk too loud;
To laugh a little easier
And not bring home a crowd.

A silent little nurse came in;
She sent me in the hall.
I tried to ask some questions,
But cut no ice at all.

They sent me round the corner
But I stole back like a mouse
And then went off to celebrate
The new noise in my house.

There are two reasonable things which everybody should do, take good care of one's health; and if lost, regain it quickly; and to this everybody will agree. And there are a great multitude of people who are agreed that for both purposes Simmons Liver Regulator is the best helper. "I am troubled with torpid liver and nothing gives relief so quick like Simmons Liver Regulator."—R. R. Strange, Lake City, Fla.

"Colonel Blood has a dry way of talking, hasn't he?"

"Yes; always suggestive of a drink."

For your Protection.—Catarrh "Cures" or Tonics for Catarrh in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain either Mercury or Iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by sudden change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat. Cold in the head causes excessive flow of mucus, and, if repeatedly neglected, the results of catarrh will follow; severe pain in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and sometimes an offensive discharge. The remedy should be quick to allay inflammation and heal the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.

They say a most peculiar thing
Happened here in town:
A woman took her watch upstairs,
And then the watch ran down.

IF WE HAD THE TIME.

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self, that stands no show
In my daily life that rushes so
It might be then I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal
I might be wiser by the thought sublime
If I had the time.

If I had the time to let my heart
Speak out and take in my life a part,
To look about and to stretch a hand
To a comrade quartered in Nook Land—
Ah, God! If I might but just sit still
And hear the note of the whippoorwill,
I think that my wish with God's would
I have.

If I had the time to learn from you
How much for comfort my word could do,
And I told you then of my sudden will
To kiss your feet when I did you ill;
If the tears black of my bravado
Could force their way and let you know—
Brothers, the souls of us all would climb
If we had the time.

—Richard E. Burton.

A CONFESSION.

In the twilight shadows of an evening in September a woman seated herself in an open window to peruse the day's mail.

The room was the tidy, correct chamber of a spinster.

Not a feature of the place or its belongings hinted at the thought of a girl in her teens.

All the literature, photographs and even the papering protested against the age of frivolity.

The small writing table, never littered by the moods of young scribbles, was correct as usual, and with a Grecian patterned letter opener Eunice Raven cut the leaves of a New York poster letter.

People said—that is, they had so ventured when in the confidential presence of their dearest friends—that Eunice Raven once had an admirer.

No one knew positively that he actually reached the importance of a "bean," and as Eunice declined to claim any such article, surely no one could know better in the matter than the woman herself.

Eunice Raven was a good and unselfish woman in her small world, and ran the sands of life to even measure with out a suspicion of revolt, but there were times when she did rebel, and her rebellion only took her the better for her little room over the best parlor, where her Thomas a Kempis and other spiritual condiments were pencil marked anew.

If any one in Palenville had chanced to see Eunice Raven open that New York poster letter, there would have remained no doubt for them that she once had an admirer.

Out from the strangely directed envelope fell a small sized photograph—one of the old style, with never a bit of polish in the finishing, and nothing but grim featured lineaments depicted.

The face was a strong, manly countenance, with much frank kindness in the smiling eyes and a chin showing well tempered affection.

The picture brought a warm, girlhood glow to the gaze's face, while the light of a sleeping memory, dim at first and quickly deepening, flamed from heart to face.

The letter was a long one, closely written, and apparently with effort, crossed and recrossed womanwise.

Within was a second letter unopened, with the date of 19 years resting on its shamefaced surface.

Over the first, leaning toward the light and nerved for something more vaguely forced than discovered, Eunice read with puzzled face.

Over the second she paused, and the dim light of that rekindled memory again filled and glowed upon her.

She trembled with all the agitation of her girl heart aroused.

Taking it between her wiry fingers, Eunice studied the still unbroken seal.

Then aloud she read the date.

"If it had come to me then, there would have been no happier day in my life," she said.

"Nineteen years from his hand to mine."

She laid the letter down and dropped back in the chair.

Her position, reflected by the faithful mirror, was an awkward, slouching one.

It was just such she had maintained in her teaching last session that only a woman with no backbone would assume, and she at once sat erect in the instant correction of such laxity.

"Nineteen years too late."

And 19 years the wrong side of matrimony, when one is alone in the world, is little more than single misery.

Her eyes, blinded with hot, angry tears at the cruel, disappointing bitterness of it.

Then she read again the fine French sheets of milk white paper upon which the guilty confession of the writer looked blacker than at first.

As she read she tried to picture very correctly and justly the mind of the writer. She tried to be impartial. She tried to judge with the essence of judgment severity.

She succeeded in a large, full, teeming measure of mercy.

A few tears, and she, the accuser, became the defender. It is often a woman's way.

The writer of the letter—now ill, undoubtedly dying—was making confession for relief of soul.

Sister of the man Eunice Raven loved, and who had loved Eunice, she wrote how bitterly she had hated the very name of an unknown sister.

With no father or mother, and an only brother, who made her entire world, she had thought anything better than to lose his love and care, and when Eunice had come into his life, and he had announced his intention of making her become nearer to him, this was the thing she had done.

"I felt," she wrote, "that I would beg, like an old woman, for you should come home here, and when brother went to his room to write you to become his wife I knew that letter and I knew my brother.

"And the devil knew me in the hour of my wicked weakness. The letter I intercepted and hid.

"I knew his spirit of sensitive pride so well that when the tempter whispered, 'He will never write but once,' I knew it well.

"I knew if he never had an answer from you that there would be no other word from him to you.

"I have lived with the torture of that stolen letter, which your heart has wrung from mine a thousand times in our silent spirit's war, with you ever conquering. * * * I am dying, but the home and the brother are here."

"Come in unto him and dwell with him."

"Preside at my chair, sit at my plate, drink from my cup, and may God grant you a double blessing and me a double mercy. Amen."

And so Eunice wept. Not for herself; her sufferings had been years in duration, and here was light. And through such she looked into the soul of that other woman.

And then she prayed. She was beyond the dear Thomas-a-Kempis and Treston gems of her agony hours.

She went to God with that other woman.

And when she arose from her knees, instead of opening that letter she dried her eyes and smoothed her hair for the tea table.

When a gentle little old lady put her head with a jerk in at the door and said, "Tea is ready, Miss Eunice," she followed her without a word and drank tea with her same daily precision.

And when, tea being over, she and the gentle little old lady sat out on the quiet piazza together, with only the song of sleepy insects and the great beauty of a mountain night, she said:

"Miss Annie, I have a story to tell you."

And the gentle little old lady heard with an amused interest Eunice Raven's romance.

"Now, Miss Annie, what ought I to do? For pray for me tonight and tell me when you call me in the morning," finished Eunice.

"Tell you what you ought to do? Why, Miss Eunice, marry him! Just to think, you poor dear, as much as I have liked your quiet way as a boarder, and that had, too, as I dreaded taking you. You have never given me the trouble of a kitten, though, I should miss you more than a hull orphan asylum."

"Remember, Miss Annie, it is 19 years, and I have not read his letter yet," returned Eunice.

"Not read the letter yet!" exclaimed the gentle little old lady. "Well, you do beat all. But one bean, and never had but one letter, being 19 years coming, and you not read it yet. Land o' love, Miss Eunice, I'm amazed. I should go right up stairs and read that letter this very minute."

Eunice Raven went slowly to her little room, but as soon as she entered the very dots in the curtains began to dance before her, and the white chair covers and bedspread all seemed shrouds that gave her shivers.

Going to her trunk, she unpacked a picture of herself in youth. She held it critically before the candle glare. It mirrored a fresh, bright, happy face.

She compared it with her poor, worn face. The significance of the act was the last and saddest truth of her wretched misery. "Sorrow beautifies only the heart, not the face of a woman."

"Ah!" exclaimed Eunice, holding the image of her girlhood at arm's length. That night there was disorder in the chamber of Eunice Raven, and the tumult of her soul was great, but as the gray dawn crept gently about her the woman arose from her knees and, bearing herself erect and firmly poised, stood beside the writing table at her eastern window.

Beneath her lay the unopened letter that had awaited her hand these 19 years. She smiled at some grim thought in abstracted look out over the sun tinted mountains.

In the shadow of their quiet, mighty grandeur there lay strength. With cold, narrow lips she pressed the letter—once, twice—and then, with steady, unerring pen, she wrote across its surface:

"Only a heart, a face and a name."

She laid it and locked it away in the very bottom of her trunk. And when she had done that she simply went on with the life of Eunice Raven—"Larks."

Fashion in Calling Cards.

The Roman or block letter is becoming more popular as the style of engraving for visiting card plates, while the fashionably thin card of two sheet quality is eminently proper. Cards for both men and women are considerably smaller, and the script engraving is finer in consequence, following more closely the English style than the Parisian, which is large and with flourishes. The block or Roman letter plate is very English, and with those affecting London styles it finds great favor. The price more than doubles that of script engraving. Ladies use the block style now on their cards for teas and receptions, as it admits of the necessary engraving of days within a smaller space than the script and enables a smaller card being used.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Color of Flames.

You have often noticed the many tinted bars and bands that rise in the shape of "forked tongues of flame" from wood burning in the grate. It is ten to one, however, that you never have thought to figure on the cause of the variegated hues presented by flames. To bring the matter quickly to the point, we will say that the many colors are the result of combustion among the different elements of the wood. The light blue is from the hydrogen and the white from the carbon, the violet is from the manganese, the red from the soda, which are constituent parts of the wood.—St. Louis Republic.

When we consider that the intestines are about five times as long as the body, we can realize the intense suffering experienced when they become inflamed.

DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure subdues inflammation at once and completely removes the difficulty. Newton's drug store.

Tom: "Why have Dick and Grace quarreled?"

Hans: "They are both learning to ride the bicycle and last week they met each other in the park. She tried to bow to him and he tried to raise his hat, and each blames the other for the result."

Cupid breaks his bow at the sight of a face full of pimples and blotches. Hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and a sallow complexion will defy his best intentions. Beauty is in the skin, and the skin is the condition of the body. The skin is the body's armor, and it is the body's armor that is the condition of the body. The skin is the body's armor, and it is the body's armor that is the condition of the body. The skin is the body's armor, and it is the body's armor that is the condition of the body.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that makes the whole body healthy—because it cleans and purifies the blood, makes the digestion strong and clears out impurities of all kinds. By increasing the ability to assimilate nutritious food, and by the infusion of its own ingredients, it enriches the blood and makes solid, healthy flesh. It fills out the hollows, rubs out wrinkles and substitutes for sallowness a rosy, healthy glow. There is no mystery about it. It is a simple, common sense medicine, the result of a combination of rational, natural common sense with expert medical knowledge. It cures diseases of the lungs, liver, stomach, bowels, skin and scalp, simply because all these diseases spring from the same cause—a disordered digestion and consequent impure blood. Don't let prejudice and scepticism cheat you out of your health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will positively cure you, if suffering from diseases named above.

"Now Josh," said the farmer to his 18-year-old son, "we allow to board a lot of city gals this summer, and you want to keep out of it far from love with 'em now. It ain't been more'n twenty years ago that I fell in love with one of our city boarders, and when she jilted me," he continued lowering his voice and looking over his shoulder, "it made me feel so bad that I rushed right off and married your maw before I knew what I was doing."

Rewards Offered.

Whereas, Information has just reached me that, upon the 11th day of June, A. D. 1896, Levi Betzinger and Maryjill Gallegos were murdered in the county of Goodall and territory of New Mexico by parties unknown, and who are now fugitives from justice;

Now, therefore, for the purpose of securing the arrest and conviction of said fugitives, I, W. T. Thornton, governor of the territory of New Mexico, by virtue of the authority in me vested, do hereby offer a reward of five hundred ($500) dollars each for the arrest and delivery to the sheriff of Goodall county, of the murderers who committed the crime, the total reward not to exceed the sum of one thousand dollars and to be payable out of any money in the territorial treasury appropriated for rewards for the 47th fiscal year, upon conviction of said criminals.

Done at the executive office, this, the 19th day of June, A. D. 1896.

Witness my hand and the great seal of the territory of New Mexico.

LITERARY SOCIETY CHAT.

A Conversation That Is Liable to Occur Anywhere at Any Time.

Time—Now.
Place—Nowhere.
Dramatis Personae—Young man, who reads Sunday papers and has the nerve to take chances on talking books to a young woman.

Young woman, who doesn't read anything and has the wit to fancy the young man doesn't know any more than she does.

He—Have you read Mr. Howells' last book?
She—You mean "Bonnie Brier Bush"?
He—Yes. Charming story, isn't it?
She—Exquisite.

He—I think Howells is one of our best writers of fiction. I mean good, wholesome fiction.
She—Yes, and he makes his characters so true to life. Take, for instance, the leading man in the "Brier Bush"—um—er—um—how silly of me to forget the name, isn't it?

He—Sherlock Holmes, I think, you refer to.
She—That's it. I have such a poor memory for names. Quite unfortunate, isn't it?
He (laughing)—Yes, but we are all that way, more or less. It's a wonder I was able to recall the name.

She—As I was going on to say, I think that character is in some particulars one of the finest in American fiction.
He—And still it did not strike me as favorably as that of his gentle and forgiving wife.

She—Naturally the woman would be more interesting to you than the man.
He—Possibly that has something to do with my opinion, but still you must admit her character is a fine one and that Mr. Howells understands the feminine heart.

She—Of course he must. How could he write novels if he didn't?
He—He couldn't, I suppose.
She—Do you think novels are instructive?

He—Of course they are. They teach us a great many things.
She—Mamma says they teach us a great deal, she wouldn't know.
He—That's the old fogey idea. Modern ideas are quite different.

She—I do wish I had time to read more. I dearly love the companionship of books.
He—I think you are quite well read, don't you know?
She (modestly)—Not as well as I should be. I fancy you have read nearly all the new books.

He—Really, you flatter me. I try to keep abreast of the times in literary matters, at least sufficiently so to talk intelligently on the subject.
She—That's what I try to do, and I presume if we do that much it ought to be all that should be expected of us.

He—Indeed, I think so too. Miss Carter was only saying yesterday.
She—Excuse me for interrupting you, but did you know she was engaged?
He—To Jack Strong?
She—Yes.

He—Wonder what she is thinking about?
She—Marrying, I presume.
He (laughing)—That's good. I'll make a note of it. Really, don't you know, that's bright enough to have come from one of Mr. Howells' stories. Is it your own?

And the conversation continues indefinitely.—Washington Star.

A Madly Instructive.
Reginald had just proposed and been accepted, but his blushing fiancée was pained to note that his mind dwelt more upon the stern necessities of the future than on the delightful possibilities of the present.

"I am but a poor man," he murmured as he resumed his seat, after the usual lovely salutation. "My little wife will have to practice strict economy, and—"

Gertrude raised her dark brown eyes to his with an eager, startled glance and murmured: "Wouldn't it be a good plan to begin practicing right away? There's no need of our wearing out both of these chairs."—New York World.

"See here," said the editor of the new Weekly Bihelot to the young artist, "these illustrations won't do at all! Did you make these studies from the model?"

"Certainly, sir," replied the aspirant.
"I thought so. Take this figure, for example, of a woman on a windy day. Her skirts don't twine about that church steeple at all, and her neck hasn't a single compound curve in it."

"Of course not, sir." "I—"

"And her hair is absurdly drawn." "What's the matter with it?"

"Why, hang it, man, it looks like hair!" —New York Press.

The shade of Napoleon was occupying a front seat on the edge of a circus cloud, watching a game of football.

The Brute Appreciated It.
Mrs. Wabash—I wish, George, dear, that you might arrange it to stay at home once in awhile at night. It is so lonesome here evenings.

Mr. Wabash—That's just the reason I'm going out.—Vanity.

(HOT SPRINGS.)

THESE Celebrated Hot Springs are located in the midst of the Ancient Cliff Dwellers, twenty-five miles west of Taos, and fifty miles north of Santa Fe, and about twelve miles from Barrenas Station on the Denver & Rio Grande Railway, from which point a daily line of stages runs to the Springs. The temperature of these waters is from 90° to 125°. The gases are carbonic. Altitude 5,000 feet. Climate very dry and delightful the year round. There is now a commodious hotel for the convenience of invalids and tourists. These waters contain 100,000 grains of alkaline salts to the gallon; being the richest Alkaline Hot Springs in the world. The efficacy of these waters has been thoroughly tested by the numerous cures attested to in the following diseases: Paralysis, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Consumption, Malaria, Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Syphilis and Mercurial Affections, Scrofula, Catarrh, La Grippe, all Female Complaints, etc., etc. Board, Lodging and Bathing, $2.50 per day. Reduced rates given by the month. For further particulars address—

IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

Thirty Thousand Dollar Verdict
Against the D. & R. G. Railroad
Company—Lincoln-Lucky-Lee
Matter—Reavis Trial Began.

In the United States district court, Judge Laughlin presiding, the trial of the case entitled the United States of America vs. the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company, wherein $30,000 in damages were sought for alleged timber trespass, was concluded and the case confided to the jury at 9 o'clock last night.

The jury reached a verdict about 3 o'clock this morning and returned the same at the incoming of court this morning. It is in favor of the government and assesses damages against the defendant company in the sum of $30,000. The usual motion for a new trial was made, and, if this is not granted, an appeal will doubtless be taken. Seven other pending cases, continued until the next term, involving alleged damages to the amount of $488,000, practically depend upon the final adjudication of the case just tried.

The trial of the case named began on Monday, June 15, and it was in uninterrupted progress until the hour above named. It was conducted with great energy and ability by U. S. Attorney Childers, Special U. S. Attorney Jones and Assistant U. S. Attorney Money for the government and Hon. J. F. Vaile, of Denver, and Gen. E. L. Bartlett, of Santa Fe, for the railroad company, every inch of ground being closely contested on both sides.

The closing arguments to the jury were made by Messrs. Childers and Money for the government, followed by Messrs. Vaile and Bartlett for the defense, and concluded by Mr. Jones for the government. All were notable efforts both as regards masterful familiarity with the law and the facts and eloquence of language.

Mr. Childers awards unstinted praise to Special U. S. Attorney Jones, giving the latter accolade credit for the exhaustive and skillful manner in which the case was prepared and for the zeal and ability he displayed in the conduct of the trial as leading counsel for the government. Mr. Childers also pronounces Mr. Vaile's conduct of the defense as exceptionally strong and free from flaw.

Immediately after the verdict was rendered in the timber trespass case, Judge Laughlin took up, in the territorial district court, the motion for a new trial of the ejectment suit of the Asacunda mine claimants against the Lincoln, Lucky & Lee company, wherein the plaintiffs were given verdict against the defendants.

Judge H. L. Warren, of Albuquerque, appeared in behalf of the motion, and Messrs. Neill B. Field, of Albuquerque, and Charles A. Spiess resisted the same. The trial of the celebrated case entitled the United States of America vs. James Addison Peralta-Reavis et al, conspiracy to defraud, is now in progress in the U. S. district court, Hon. Matt G. Reynolds, U. S. attorney for the land court, prosecuting and Mr. Charles A. Spiess defending.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

U. S. weather bureau forecast for New Mexico: Fair to-night and Thursday. Visit the Sisters of Loretto academy to-morrow and examine the work of the pupils.

What does this community propose to do about the maintenance of an efficient fire department?

Col. Brady has machines at work cutting alfalfa on the water company farms and he says the young rabbits are jumping out of the fields in droves.

During the past ten days bills have been sent out to all subscribers of this paper, and it is hoped the bill will promptly be followed by remittances.

On Friday evening there will be a lawn social at the M. E. parsonage. Ice cream and cake will be served, musical selections rendered and a general good time is promised to all who may attend.

There is an old tradition among the native citizens that St. John's day will always break a long dry spell. Accordingly many have counted on rain to-day, but up to this hour, 3 p. m., the much-wanted shower has not materialized.

The water mayordomos have been soliciting subscriptions for several days past for the purpose of opening the lakes at the head of the Rio Santa Fe and thus increasing the volume of water, as they think, coming down the river. They have met with a liberal response and leave to-morrow to enter upon the work.

There was great hurrying and scurrying among the populace early this morning, the cause of it being the excursion to San Juan over the D. & R. G. under the auspices of the Woman's board of trade. At 7:40 the special train pulled out carrying six coach loads of visitors. They return at 6 o'clock this evening.

Mr. L. P. Wilson, who is now in the Pecos valley gathering material and making contracts for the New Mexican's special illustrated immigration edition, writes that he has been most cordially received by the enterprising people of that progressive region. He will shortly pay a visit to Deming, Silver City and other southern territorial points.

Gov. Thornton and a party of friends left this morning for a two days' fishing trip on the Pecos. While absent they will be guests of Mr. Strong, of the Pecos valley ranch. Mr. Strong, two years ago, secured a stock of salmon trout for the ponds on his farm. They are now twelve to fourteen inches in length and as pretty and gaily a fish as was ever caught. None of these will be brought home, of course, for they are needed to stock the Pecos river, but no doubt the catch of the party will be large, for the water is low and the mountain trout are eager for the fly.

Hon. John W. Hess, of Indianapolis, who with his wife were guests at the sanitarium four years ago, writes to Col. Fletcher as follows: "I thank you for a copy of the New Mexican containing an account of the burning of the St. Vincent sanitarium. Please express in behalf of myself and wife to Sister Victoria and the other dear Sisters, how deeply we sympathize with them in their loss, which we feel is a personal one to us, as we had hoped to spend a few weeks this summer with them. We shall, however, try to enjoy the delightful climate of Santa Fe during the coming month."

AID FOR THE SISTERS.

Meeting of the Santa Fe Board of Trade Last Night to Consider Matter of Helping in Restoration of Sanitarium—Wise Action Taken.

A well attended meeting of the Santa Fe board of trade was held at the rooms of the board last night for the purpose of taking some action relative to the important subject of aiding the Sisters of Charity to rebuild the sanitarium, which was destroyed by fire on the evening of June 14.

In the unavoidable absence of President Webber and Vice-President Bartlett, Capt. Sol. Spiegelberg, treasurer of the board, was called to the chair and Secretary Geo. W. Knaebel officiated at the desk.

After a good deal of earnest discussion, it was unanimously decided to appoint a committee to draft fitting resolutions expressive of the sympathy of the board with the Sisters in the loss of their property, and assuring them of the board's hearty co-operation in their efforts to rebuild the sanitarium, the board pledging itself to do all in its power to create a fund to make up any deficiency that may arise in the cost of such rebuilding.

The following named members of the board were appointed as such committee on resolutions: Sol. Spiegelberg, Geo. W. Knaebel, John P. Victory, Arthur Boyle, Jacob Weltmer, H. B. Cartwright and S. H. Day.

This committee was clothed with full power to act in the premises and also authorized to appoint a sub-committee on finance, if necessary, to solicit subscriptions.

The committee will prepare the resolutions indicated during the day and present them to Sister Victoria to-morrow morning.

The excellent suggestion was also made at the meeting that it would be well for Archbishop Chapelle to call a public meeting of all interested in rebuilding the sanitarium in the court house at some convenient time in the near future, it being believed that such a meeting, sanctioned by the archbishop, would be fruitful of good results.

Joe Lopez, who has been sick since a couple of weeks, expects to return to Antonio Chico to-morrow to continue the search for the treasure trove, says the Optimist.

The infant child of Chas. Rosenthal died on last Saturday evening and the remains were taken to Vicksburg with those of its mother on Sunday morning—Las Vegas Optimist.

Mrs. Wm. McClellan, of Albuquerque, was a schoolmate of Gov. McKinley, and when he was nominated wrote a letter to his aged mother, congratulating her on the honor conferred on her distinguished son.

The Las Vegas Examiner announces that Charles G. Leicham has retired from the Allen & Leicham company, publishers of the Las Vegas Daily Examiner and Stock Grower and Farmer, and that L. R. Allen assumes sole proprietorship.

Mrs. Max Luna joined her husband, Sheriff Luna, at Albuquerque on Tuesday night and yesterday morning both returned to Los Lunas, the sheriff having in charge Jack Wilson, who was arrested for stealing several hundred sheep belonging to F. A. Hubbell.

Territorial firemen who will attend the approaching convention and tournament of the New Mexico association of volunteer firemen, which convenes in Albuquerque on July 2, and continues for three days, should write to Secretary Condit, at that point, regarding accommodations, etc.

The fire committee received this morning a liberal donation from Joshua Reynolds, president of the First national bank. The committee informs the Citizen that about $400 are yet needed to insure the success of the approaching firemen's tournament, which meets here on July 2 and continues for three days—Albuquerque Citizen.

Prof. E. O. Wootton and wife, for six years connected with the agricultural college, Mesilla Park, came in from the south last night, being met at the depot by Prof. Hadley and wife. They continued on north to Jamestown, Ohio, to which city they were taking the remains of their two children, and where they will reside in the future—Albuquerque Citizen.

Las Vegas Populists have elected the following delegates to the territorial Pop. meeting at Albuquerque: Louis Lutz, M. E. Milligan, John R. Still, T. B. Lutz, Jose Herrera, M. K. Morris, A. L. Lutz, John G. Wagner, John Shank, J. A. Jameson, J. B. Allen and B. F. Giltner, the delegates to go uninstructed, and to favor the plan of not instructing the delegates to the national convention in St. Louis, July 22.

Manager McCue, of the Albuquerque Browns base ball club, called at the Albuquerque Citizen office yesterday and stated that he expected to be able, in a few days, to announce big games for Albuquerque during the firemen's tournament, but that he must have some assistance from our citizens. He is negotiating with the Los Angeles, Cal., base ball team, the champions of southern California, and expects to make satisfactory terms with them.

Mrs. T. A. McCormick, whose sensation in Juarez, Mexico, over the kidnapping of her 3-year old daughter by her runaway husband, was published yesterday, arrived here from El Paso last night in search of her husband and child; but the police are absolutely certain that no man answering the description of McCormick has as yet reached the city. However, Mrs. McCormick, who was Miss Bertha Smith, and whose married life has not been one of the sweetest, will pursue the chase after her husband and child soon to recover her child, which is a bright little one, and those who are familiar with the father and mother, their past and present history, claim that the mother is more able to take care of the child than the father—Albuquerque Citizen.
