WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM J. BRYAN, OF NEBRASKA.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
ARTHUR SEWALL,
OF MAINE.

Let justice be done.
Crime must be suppressed in New Mexico.

By the way, why is not Stephen M. Folson, the bank wrecker, behind the bars where he belongs?

Who'll eat crow, we wonder, the Optic or the Citizen? Both can't possibly win—with Roday and Stover on one side and Catron and Perea on the other.

Now that they have a cinch on that great beet sugar factory, the lower Pecos valley farmers are organizing a creamery. Great people down that way, surely.

Good hit in the Eddy Democrat: "Our friends in the states should be continually reminded that a vote for Bryan is a vote for statehood for New Mexico."

It may require drastic measures to beat the pie-counter Republicans and McHanna helpers in New Mexico this fall, but free coinage and statehood are at the other end of the goal and if all the friends of these measures can be brought into line the thing is as good as done.

It strikes us that the Hon. B. S. Roday is hanging his harp on a slender willow. He wants to know how it is that the Morgans and the Havemeyers control national finances, and yet he writes in support of McKinley. We wonder if Mr. Roday ever heard of a man named John Sherman. It won't do, Mr. Roday. You've got to be fish, flesh or fowl in this campaign.

There is no end to the mineral resources of New Mexico. In the districts of Grant county the mines and mills are doing splendidly. In western Colfax county, and at Cochiti and elsewhere new strikes are the rule and milling machinery is being placed that will make a record for our mineral output this year, despite the hard times.

The Republican bosses in Santa Fe are remorseful. Their interest—they always take the people for fools—is to circulate through their henchmen this idea: If McKinley is elected, S. B. Elkins will become secretary of war and the troops will be again ordered to Santa Fe. What absolute rot! In the first place McKinley can't be elected; in the next, Elkins will be secretary of war even if he is, and as to Elkins' and Catron's influence in securing the troops to reconquer Fort Marcy, why, that was exhausted long ago. Let the petty politicians try some other dodge.

THE SUPREME COURT.
Evidently crime and disorder are to be put down in New Mexico by the strong arm of the law. The supreme court yesterday handed down twenty-three opinions that are far-reaching in their results and will have a salutary effect upon all territorial interests. The New Mexican to-day devotes much of its space to the very able opinion rendered by Chief Justice Smith in the Chavez assassination case. It will well repay perusal. Opinions by the court in other cases will be taken up in due time and given to our readers. The supreme court has made an admirable record, and the New Mexican proposes that the people shall understand that evil doers of all classes can receive no quarter under a Democratic administration.

LEARNED, LUMINOUS, STRONG

Say the court in Disque vs. State, 49 N. J. L., 101: "The extent of the cross-examination of a witness into pertinent facts, not touched by the direct examination, is a matter resting entirely in the discretion of the trial court. Since the passage of the statutes capacitating parties as witnesses, it has been the general practice, both with respect to civil and criminal procedure, to permit such testifying party to be cross-examined as to the whole case, and such judicial action, being founded in discretion, is not a matter for which error can be assigned."

Say the court in the case of the People vs. Clark, (N. J.) 8 N. E. Rep. 38: "The extent to which he may be cross-examined on matters irrelevant and collateral to the main issue with a view to impeaching his credibility necessarily rests in the sound discretion of the trial court."

See also State vs. Pfeiffer, 12 Pac. Rep. 406.
The jury has found that the defendants were, beyond a reasonable doubt, at the bridge where Francisco Chavez was shot and murdered, and doubt whether they were at any point on San Francisco street during that day, before the killing, may have existed in the minds of the jury without affecting the final conclusion, that they were at the place of the homicide.

The sixth assignment of error by the court, it is alleged, was the admission of testimony tending to show that the defendants were at the saloon of J. V. Conroy, in Santa Fe, on the evening of the killing of Francisco Chavez, and the exclusion of evidence by the defendants to the effect that the witnesses who swore they saw the defendants in said saloon, were not there themselves during the said evening. It was admitted in the argument that the evidence objected to was inadmissible if it tended to show the defendants were at the said saloon at 7 o'clock, or later, that night, before the killing of Francisco Chavez, and it appears from the record that the hour, when they claimed they saw said defendants, was not specified, but was stated to have been at sundown, which at that season of the year occurred after 7 o'clock. Such evidence as rebuttal of the defense of the accused, it would have been error to have excluded from the jury, and, as the accused had already had the opportunity to testify in chief that they were at 7 o'clock in the house of Seforino Alard, it would have been needlessly cumulative to have permitted them to repeat themselves.

These defendants had located themselves from 7 o'clock until after the killing of Chavez. Other witnesses gave statements conflicting with theirs, and, if still others were allowed to contradict the last, an interminable counter examination would have resulted, and we do not believe it either the duty or the policy of courts to permit such prolixity in their proceedings. But in any event the trial judge must be allowed a sound discretion in such matters, and, as we do not perceive any abuse of his exercise in this instance, we do not deem it incumbent upon us, or legitimate for us, to reverse his action. Our concluding remarks in the paragraph immediately before that next preceding we here repeat.

Other Crimes of Defendants Immaterial.
The eighteenth assignment is, that the court erred in permitting the territory on cross-examination of the defendants, Francisco Gonzales y Borrego, to interrogate said witness as to how they had killed Juan Pablo Dominguez a few days before the death of Francisco Chavez, and as to the killing of Silvestre Gallegos by Francisco, and his indictment therefor. It can not be pretended that the evidence of the defendants contributed to the conclusion reached by the jury—that the said defendants were at the killing of Francisco Chavez, as the jury, having been instructed to give them the benefit of any reasonable doubt as to their participation in the homicide and acquit them, must have ascertained their verdict upon testimony in contravention of that of the accused. It is immaterial whether Francisco Gonzales y Borrego and Antonio Gonzales y Borrego killed one Juan Pablo Dominguez after the death of Francisco Chavez, or at all, or whether Silvestre Gallegos was killed by Francisco Gonzales y Borrego. They might have been shown guilty of such crimes and yet not have impaired their defense of not having been able to execute by the many witnesses other than themselves, whom they introduced to support them, a reasonable doubt as to their presence at the killing of Francisco Chavez, and, if it was error to admit such inquiries, it was not such a mistake of discretion as to require review, for "the asking of incriminating or disgracing questions is a matter largely in the discretion of the court, and where no material injury is thereby done to either party, the refusal of the court to order such question stricken out, will not be reversible error." 110 Mass. 545.

Section 2087 of the Compiled Laws authorizes the impeachment of the credit of a witness by evidence of his bad moral character, and the present tendency is to regard all facts as relevant which will enable the jury to decide in what extent the testimony of the witness can be relied on. Accordingly a witness may be asked with a view to show his character for truthfulness as to specific facts, not too remote in time, which may tend to disgrace him, and counsel will be bound by his answers.

Underhill on Ev. p. 517.
Say the court in Territory vs. O'Hare, 41 N. W. Rep. 256: "We hold that the right of cross-examination as to outside matters of fact, which affect the general character of the witness, and tend to degrade him, and affect his credibility, is within the limits of sound judicial discretion, a salutary rule."

In Roberts vs. Commonwealth (Ky. 1892) 20 S. W. Rep. 267, it was announced proper in a prosecution for murder in order to discredit a witness for the state to ask him if he had not been indicted for robbery and confessed the crime, as it was designed to affect his credibility. For the same reason it was declared in State vs. Miller, 138 S. W. Rep. 1832, that it was not error to ask a witness whether he had been in the penitentiary two or three years.
In 72 N. Y., People vs. Casey, 393, the prisoner was a witness in his own behalf, upon the charges of assault, and the counsel for the people upon cross-examination put questions to him as to other altercations in which he had been engaged, and other assaults committed by him, and it was held that there was no error in such ruling.

In Good vs. the State, 24 S. W. Rep. 100, it was decided that, for the purpose of impeaching a witness, he may be asked if he is not under indictment for theft.

Citations Might Be Multiplied.
We might multiply citations to the same effect, but will conclude with the announcement that in the case before cited, People vs. Casey, 72 N. Y., 393, it was declared that the extent to which such an examination may go to test the witness' credibility is largely in the discretion of the trial court, and as we do not perceive that the judge of the court before committed any impropriety in his election in this instance we will forbear further consideration of the subject.

It will be sufficient to say in reference to the alleged errors of permitting like Nowell to detail an alleged conversation with Thomas B. Catron, one of counsel for the defendants, in reference to the testimony of said Nowell in this case, and in allowing Luis Gonzales to do the same as to an interview between him and Charles A. Spiess, another attorney for the accused, that we recognize that counsel occupy such relation to their clients as to justify a disclosure of their action in the interest of such clients and for their benefit at their trial. Many other errors are alleged which we do not deem it necessary to consider, and it may be remarked that in the multitude of assignments there appears almost a lack of confidence in the substantial merits of the appeal, which impression is not diminished by the technical character of the complaints mainly relied on in the oral argument.

Says the supreme court of the United States, in Grayson vs. Lynch, 163 U. S. 485: "It is to be regretted that defendants found it necessary to multiply their assignments to such an extent, as there is always a possibility in the very choice of alleged errors, that a substantial one may be lost sight of. This is a comment which courts have frequent occasion to make and one which is too frequently disregarded by the profession. Having reached the conclusion that none of the errors alleged by the accused to have been committed by the trial court were material, and being impressed that the instructions given are a fair, clear and comprehensive enunciation of the principles by which the jury should have been guided in their consideration of the evidence, we do not discover any ground for reversal of the action of the lower court."

The evidence in the record is abundant to establish that the accused, in pursuance of a diabolical conspiracy of long standing, unlawfully, feloniously, willfully, and purposely shot Francisco Chavez with a deliberate intention to take his life, and the judges of the facts wisely found that there should not be by their default any escape for the perpetrators from the penalty for the unprompted and cold-blooded assassination.

This case may, as to this territory, be pronounced a cause celebre, from the prominence of the deceased, from the notoriety of the criminals, from the complication and mystery of the circumstances, from the delay in procuring a jury, from the time, nearly six weeks, and the money, amounting to thousands of dollars, consumed in the trial, from the extent and the intensity of the public interest, and from the exceptional skill and zeal displayed by counsel in its management, and it would be extraordinary if such litigation under such circumstances did not develop difficulties formidable even to a court of large experience. We are much pleased to say that the presiding judge, though last seen, was elevated to the bench at the date of this trial, with admirable discrimination and commendable firmness held the scales of justice.

In conclusion we hereby affirm the judgment of the lower court in this case.
THOMAS SMITH, Chief Justice.

SCROFULA
Miss Della Stevens, of Boston, Mass., writes: "I have always suffered from Scrofula, for which I tried various remedies, but none relieved me. After taking a bottle of SSS I am now well. I am very grateful to you, as I feel that it saved me from a life of misery and agony, and shall take pleasure in speaking only words of praise for the wonderful medicine, and in recommending it to all."

The PECOS VALLEY of NEW MEXICO
OFFERS unequalled advantages to the farmer, fruit grower, live stock raiser, dairyman, bee-keeper, and to the home-seeker generally.
The soil of the Pecos Valley is of high average fertility, and under irrigation produces bountiful crops of most of the grasses, grains, vegetables, berries and fruits of the temperate and some of those of the semi-tropical zone. In such fruit as the peach, pear, plum, grape, prune, apricot, nectarine, cherry, quince, etc., the Valley will dispute for the pre-eminence with California; while competent authority pronounces its upper portions in particular the finest apple country in the world.
Bounteous yields of such forage crops as alfalfa, sorghum and Egyptian corn make the feeding of cattle and sheep and the raising and fattening of hogs a very profitable occupation.
The cultivation of sisal—a tanning material of great value—is becoming an important industry in the Pecos Valley, a home market having been afforded for all that can be raised, at a price yielding a handsome profit.
The climate of the Pecos Valley has no superior in the United States, being pre-eminently healthful and health restoring.
Lands with perpetual water-rights are for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The water supply of the Pecos Valley has no equal in all the arid region for constancy and reliability; and this with the superb climate, productive soil and the facilities afforded by the railway which extends through the Valley's entire length, will cause these lands to enjoy a constant, and at times rapid, increase in value.
The recent completion of the Pecos Valley Railway to Roswell will cause the more rapid settlement and development of the upper portions of the Valley, including the rich Felix section. The company has recently purchased many of the older improved farms about Roswell, and has now for sale lands to meet the wants of all—raw lands, partially improved lands, as well as farms with houses, orchards and fields of alfalfa and other crops. In the vicinity of Roswell several pieces of land have been divided into five and ten acre tracts, suitable for orchards and truck farms in connection with suburban homes. Certain of these tracts are being planted to orchards, and will be cultivated and cared for by the company for three years at the end of which period they will be handed over to the purchasers. Write for pamphlet fully describing the terms and conditions on which these several classes of tracts are sold.

Suffering for a Life Time.

Persons afflicted with rheumatism often suffer for a life time, their tortures being almost without remission. The joints and muscles of such unfortunate are in most cases shockingly contorted and drawn out of shape. To afford them even temporary relief, the ordinary remedies often prove utterly useless. Hetter's Stomach Bitters, on the other hand is avouched by persons who have used it, to be a genuine source of relief. It keeps the blood cool by promoting a regular habit of body, and removes from it impurities which, in the opinion of all rational pathologists, originate this agonizing complaint, and the kindred malady, the gout. Besides this the Bitters remedy disorders of the stomach, liver and nerves, prevent and eradicate intermittent and remittent fevers, promote appetite and sleep, and are highly recommended by physicians as a desirable medicinal stimulant and tonic.

An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unacquainted by any other. Land Office at Santa Fe, N. M., August 8, 1896.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register or receiver, at Santa Fe, N. M., on September 10, 1896, viz: William Sparks, of Glorieta, N. M., for the N. E. 1/4 of section 17, T. 10 N., R. 10 E., S. 10 E.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land: Clarence Sparks, of Glorieta, N. M.; Henry Winsor, of Glorieta, N. M.; Alfred Viles, of Glorieta, N. M.; James H. Walker, Register.

THE PEDDLER'S PACK

"It ain't a very pleasant story," said the landlord of the Long Pack, "but I like to tell it sometimes just to remind myself that the worst thing a man can have in this world is a obstinate temper."

"You see, I came to this coast soon after the gold fever broke out and settled down in the Santa Barbara valley, below here, ranching. I was a widower even then and had brought with me from the states my only child, a daughter past 17. She was a pretty girl, I do say it, and being as good as pretty you can imagine I was quite wrapped up in her. Of course I was anxious to keep her with me, and if not that at least I looked for her to do something better than fall in love with a peddler."

"And did she?"

"Yes. You see, in those days the country was full of young fellows who had struck out for themselves and were trying to get a start by carrying knickknacks around from one mining camp to another. Some of them were lively chaps enough and well educated, but I was fresh from the states, with all the eastern prejudices, and it almost drove me wild when Nellie told me she wanted to marry a young fellow who brought his pack through out district a good deal oftener than the trade seemed to require. I was a hot tempered fool in those days, so I stormed, threatened, locked Nellie up for a week and sent word to her lover that I had loaded my pack for wildcats and peddlers."

"What did Nellie do?"

"You might have guessed it. One day when I came back from a cattle sale I was missing. I chased her a couple of days, but they had taken to the woods, and it was of no use. After awhile I got a letter from Frisco, and I wrote back saying that I disowned her, and that he had better keep out of the range of my rifle."

"What did you do then?"

"Suffered, mister, just suffered. I knew I was wrong, but I'd have died rather than give in. For five years I lived like a toad in a rock, hating the whole world. All the pleasure I had was in watching for peddlers. The number I chased off the ranch during that time would astonish you."

"One evening after a terrible rainstorm a peddler came to my house and asked for shelter for the night. He was a thin, weak looking fellow, with his face covered with a huge, ragged beard. He carried on his back an enormous long and heavy pack and seemed so exhausted with his tramp through the mire that I hadn't the heart to do more than order him off the place."

"That was pretty hard," said the listener.

"I suppose it was. The peddler seemed all broke up when he found I wouldn't even give him a bunch of straw to eat, and no other house within 12 miles. Instead of complaining, however, he merely begged that I would let him leave his pack, which he said contained goods of value, under shelter from the rain. I finally consented to this. So, as I had sworn never to let my hands touch anything over my threshold, I carried his pack inside, while the owner limped off to crawl under some bush or other."

"Didn't you feel mean?"

"Yes, mean and bitter at the same time, for something about the man reminded me of Nellie's husband a little. However, I looked and barred all the doors and windows as usual, for some road agents had been around those parts about that time and had stopped and robbed several ranches, and, as I told you, I was all alone. So I couldn't go to sleep when after that I went to bed. After tossing around for awhile I got up and sat by the fire, brooding over my trouble and trying not to think of the poor chap shivering out there in the cold and rain somewhere. I looked at his pack sitting up in the room and wondered what made it so long."

"As I watched it I fancied I saw it move."

"Saw it move?"

"Exactly. I wouldn't believe my own eyes at first, but after watching intently for awhile I distinctly saw the front of a hand pressed against the curve from the inside. Like a flash then I understood the whole thing. The peddler was one of the road agents' gang, and, knowing I had considerable money about the house, they had adopted that plan for smuggling one of their crew inside the house. After I had gone to sleep the fellow inside could let in the rest and finish the job. I walked quietly across the room, took my gun from the antlers, knelt down a few feet from the pack, aimed square in the center and pulled the trigger."

"Go on," murmured the listener, with a shudder.

"But the gun didn't go off," continued the landlord, clearing his throat. "The nipple was rusty and wouldn't work, so I laid down the rifle and got an ax from the kitchen. It had been newly ground that day, and when I lifted it over my head I counted upon clearing that pack, robber and all clear to the ground. Just as I raised the ax and braced myself for the blow I saw a ghost."

"A ghost?"

"Yes, sir. The pack opened, and I saw sticking out of its top the curly yellow hair of my Nellie who was a little to of 4. The shock staggered me so that I sank on my knees. I wiped my eyes and wondered if I had not gone crazy. I was almost certain of it when the ghost stretched out a pair of chubby white arms and said:

"How do, grandpa?"

"Ah," said the guest, with a relieved sigh, "I begin to see. And what did you do then?"

"I don't exactly know," said the landlord softly, "but if there is anything that will bend a stiff, stubborn neck quicker than the arms of a little child I'd like to know what it is. I put the tired little prisoner down by the fire, opened the door and held out my arms."

"And the mother?"

"Yes, nodded the landlord. 'They were both very much distressed, I guess that's the end of my story.' And the old man wiped his eyes. 'You must excuse me, but that was a wet evening, and somehow I haven't got quite dry since.'—Exchanged."

A Tidy Maid.

A wealthy Chicago woman the other day came across one of her priceless Persian prayer rugs in such a strange condition that she exclaimed to the parlor maid, 'Mary, what in the world is the matter with this?' The cheerful reply was, 'Oh, I've just been darnin' the holes and outtin' off the ravelly edges an' tidyin' 'em up a bit.' This is a true tale. The mistress thinks it o'errun.

A Change.

Deacon Jones—I trust you always observe the Sabbath?

Blackbird—Well, I used to, but of late years I find it more entertaining to observe the way other people observe the Sabbath than to observe it myself.—Boston Transcript.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Then and Now.

Once I wrote a charming sonnet To my Lady Mary's beauty, And I called it smart and fetching, and I called it highest art. And I vowed each time I met her With it as I loved her better, And I ended by affirming that it simply touched my heart.

We are wed, but Mary's sonnets Never move me now to sonnets. If they did, I'd spend in rhyming of my life the greater part. True, her millinery's charming, But the bills are most alarming, And they touch my pocket deeper than the bonnets touch my heart.

—Mary Clarke Huntington in New York Sun.

Of Course.

If you were on the smallest pay And horrid grind made up your day, A hard pushed, weary 'son of toil,' Whose master thought you made for toll, You'd 'abuse the cup,' the 'cheering bowl,' The fellowship of 'kindred soul.'

You'd never care for comrades gay; You'd thank God that your life was gray, Thank him the more for sorrow thick and fast, And close your eyes to all the mirth And make a sepulcher of earth!

If you were poor, you'd be a saint, Born with no soul compelling taint; You'd smile when sorrows thick and fast Cut round you like a wintry blast; You'd smile when food and warmth took wings.

You'd 'live above such trivial things!'

If you should find the rent was due, And angry landlord threatened you, The children sick, the food was such It could not nourish overmuch, It could not be that you would beg! Ah, no! You'd rather lose the leg!

If you could get no work to do, And all the world cared less for you Except your wife and babies there, In tenement so poor and bare, You'd let their blood grow cold, congeal, Before a scrap of food you'd steal!

Of course, if you were growing old, And out of work and hungry, cold, And one who felt philanthropy Tug at his heart should stop and say, 'Here are five pennies,' I can't think You'd go and spend it on a drink!

—Lillian W. Rountree in Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Old Flag.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by And let the heart have its say, You're man enough for a tear in your eye That you will not wipe away.

You're man enough for a thrill that goes To your very finger tips, Aye, the lump just then in your throat that rose Spoke more than your parted lips.

Lift up the boy on your shoulder, high, And show him the faded shield, Those stripes would be red as the sunset sky If death could have dyed them red.

The man that bore it with death has lain This thirty years and more. He died that the work should not be vain Of the men who bore it before.

The man that bears it is bent and old, And ragged his beard and gray, But look at his eye first, and take hold, At the time that he hears them play.

The old tune thrunders through all the air And strikes right into the heart, If ever it calls for you, boy, be there— Be there and ready to start.

—H. C. Bunner.

Everybody's Garden.

All along the wayside garden's garden: There the wild rose blossoms through the summer days: Bounded by field fences and ever stretching onward.

It is God's own garden. For it give him praise, There blossoming grass and flowers, And sunflowers small and yellow turn over to the sun;

Quaint daisy heads are there, And daisies wild and fat, In everybody's garden each flower's the lover's best one!

All along the wayside is everybody's garden. Come out and gather posies; the very air is sweet. Come out, with hearts of gladness, ye big and little children.

Into our Father's garden, made for out strolling feet, The fitting butterfly, The fragrant winds that sigh, The tiny clouds that hover above us in the blue, The bird's song high and clear, Make heaven draw more near.

In everybody's garden the world once more is new! —William Zachary Gladwin in Independent.

Life's Messure.

"He liveth long who liveth well." So ran the legend true and old. To keep this truth in mind were well, For truth is better kept than gold.

The one will perish in an hour. One never dies, but bright and pure As heaven itself, when earthly power Has passed, forever shall endure.

Not by the years of life is told The length of life, but by the zeal And kindly words, as growing old, Men for each other do and feel.

His life is long whose work is well. And, be his station low or high, He who the most good works can tell Lives longest, though he soonest die.

Then, as the swift winged moments speed, Freight them with wealth and truth and love, With garnered sheaves of thought and deed For the grand harvest home above.

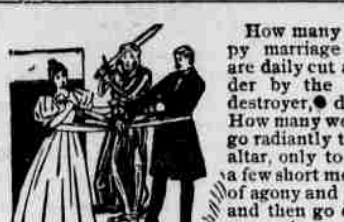

Sow love and sows its fruitage sweet, Sow smiles and sow the desert spring, Sow wisdom for its harvest meet, Sow sunlight for the joy 'twill bring. —H. H. Browne.

Arborealists.

A word of grief to me erewhile, 'We have cut the oak down in our aisle.' And I said: 'Ye have bereaved The song thrush and the bee, And the fawn boy at sea Of his searack in the eve, And guards of cooling shade, to lie Within the sickle's sound, And the old sheep dog's saffron eye Of sleep on duty's ground, And poets of legend in by-mooring, And quiet tenement. Ah, impious, who so paid Such faithfulness and made Of murmurous immortality a cargo and a trade!' —Louise Imogen Guiney in Century.

Remember thou a debtor art.

To every man who want distressed, And he may claim a rightful part In every good with which thou'rt blessed. And if today a golden stream Of comfort through thy life is flowing, Should hungry eyes unheeded gleam In on thy board with plenty glowing? Scarcely from thee the frightened dove, Think of the gleamer in by-mooring, And the last vineyard clusters why remove? —Raymond H. Stearns.

How many happy marriages tie are daily cut asunder by the grin destroyer, death. How many women go radially to the altar, only to pass a few short months of agony and pain, and then go down with it early graves.

There is one cause of this ever-recurring tragedy. No woman should enter the marriage relation without some knowledge of the physiology of the female organs of reproduction, and of the necessity of keeping them always healthy and vigorous. Ignorance on these points digs graves for thousands of happy brides but a few months' journey from the altar. There is a sure and speedy remedy at hand. The most marvelous medicine ever discovered for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the discovery of a most eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. W. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalide Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. It acts directly on the delicate organs that make weakness and motherhood possible. It makes a healthy and strong. It cures all weakness and disease. Taken during the expectant period it insures a healthy baby and makes parturition easy and almost painless. Women who discover for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription should write to Dr. Pierce.

Mrs. W. Robinson, Springfield, Cumberland Co. Nova Scotia, writes: 'I feel that I cannot say enough about your Favorite Prescription. I was confined on the 8th of April, and I was only sick about thirty minutes in all. I can truthfully say that your medicine worked wonders in my case. Although the physician was in the house I did not seem to require his aid. I am going around doing my own work and before I had to keep a girl three months till I was able to do my work. I recommended the medicine to a lady friend of mine and she is taking it. She expects to become a mother next month.'

Constipation if neglected will lead the most robust to the doctor's office. The blood gets loaded down with impurities. It deposits its waste matter in the tissue of the body. Serious illness is the inevitable result. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are prompt and pleasant in their action. They never gripe. They cure permanently, and are not mere temporary palliatives. Druggists sell them. If you accept something said to be "just as good," you will regret it.

Tommy how did you get the back of your neck all sunburnt? Pull'n' weeds in the garden. But your hair is all wet my son. That's perspiration. Your vest is on wrong side out too. Put it on that way a purpose. And how does happen, Tommy dear, that you have got John Brown's trousers on? (After a long pause.) Mother I can't tell a lie. I've been a swimmin'—G. Washington, Jr.

Muggins—We got beautifully deceived in our entertaining friend Goodfellow. It turns out that he is a professional crook.

Guggins—Great Scott! I can't believe it. What is his specialty?

He's security farmer.

What on earth is that?

He makes a business of raising notes.

IN THE COURTS TO-DAY.

Supreme Court Denies Application for Bail in Abeyta-Lujan Case—Folsom Case Again—Sept. 24 Fixed as the Day for Nine Executions.

In the New Mexico supreme court yesterday afternoon an application for bail in the cases of Agapito Abeyta, Jr., and Jose Victor Lujan, indicted for the murder of John Doherty in Mora county on December 9, 1893, was urged by O. A. Larrazola for the accused and resisted by Solicitor-General Viotory. The motion was denied by Chief Justice Smith in chambers at Las Vegas on August 11 and came before the supreme court on appeal. The latter tribunal this morning handed down an opinion by Judge Bantz denying the application.

The case of S. M. Folsom, wherein the supreme court of the United States has issued a mandate on the supreme court of New Mexico to execute the decree of the district court imprisoning Folsom for five years for fraud and embezzlement in connection with his management of the wrecked Albuquerque National bank, was called up this morning. Of course Folsom was not present. Chief Justice Smith announced that the mandate of the highest court of the country must be enforced; that the means resorted to to gain further time could not be tolerated; that definite action would be taken in the premises at 3 o'clock this afternoon. It now seems probable that Folsom's bond will be declared forfeited and an alias writ will be ordered for his apprehension.

In making a necessarily hurried report of the multiplicity of opinions handed down by the supreme court at noon yesterday, the NEW MEXICAN made two or three omissions. In the case of John Chamberlin, sentenced to sixteen years in the penitentiary for murder in the second degree in Socorro county, the judgment of the lower court was affirmed. Judge Bantz prepared the opinion and Judges Smith, Laughlin and Collier concurred.

The case of Augustin Lermo, convicted of murder in the first degree in Judge Bantz' court, was reversed and remanded on the ground that instructions as to circumstantial evidence were left out of the record. Judge Laughlin prepared the opinion and all the other judges concurred.

Yesterday's report also contained the erroneous statement that Judge Hamilton concurred in the opinion affirming the death sentence of Gonzales and Aragon, in Chaves county. Judge Hamilton was at one time attorney for the defendants and did not participate in the hearing.

No motions for the rehearing of any of the nine capital cases submitted yesterday were filed, and September 24 was fixed as the day for the execution of the nine doomed men—Francisco Gonzales y Borrego, Antonio Gonzales y Borrego, Lauriano Alarid and Patricio Valencia, of Santa Fe county; Perfecto Padilla and Rosario Ring, of Rio Arriba county; Antonio Gonzales and Eugenio Aragon, of Chaves county, and Dionicio Sandoval, of Bernalillo county.

Rumors are rife that Mr. Catron, attorney for the Borregos, will make a desperate effort to gain delay in behalf of his clients, the Borregos, by appealing to the president for a reprieve and then to one of the judges of the United States supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus. But these are mere conjectures. The New Mexican can be depended upon to report the facts as fast as they are disclosed.

HOT SPRINGS SNAP SHOTS.

A Breezy Letter from the Celebrated Valle Range Health Resort—Personal and Otherwise.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

Hot Sulphur Springs, Aug. 28.—The sun is set; twilight lingers in the lap of night, and occasions much comment thereat. That's good. The principal topic of conversation continues to be whether one is able to stay eight minutes in one tub, (at 106 degrees,) or ten minutes in the other, (at 110 degrees;) or whether five or seven and a half minutes is the proper limit for the vapor. Bear meat continues dear, and deer meat continues bear! As trout do not fly in this section, we have not yet had any. Hunting (for wood) is a common and persistent diversion in which all alike indulge.

The discussion of the financial question is limited to the precincts of the bath house, and only after one has taken his stew and is rolled up tightly in blankets to sweat. Hated arguments, while assisting the water in performing its functions, do not call for any rebate in the price. These springs are good for most anything, even the "shorts," judging from the character of some of the patrons.

The "loafers' parlor" in the hotel is liberally patronized every evening by the neighboring campers desiring to save wood.

Hilario Ortiz walked from here to Thompson's ranch (about three-quarters of a mile) on Tuesday, returning about noon. When asked how far he had walked, he estimated the distance at fifteen miles. Mr. Reynolds says he would be a good man to go up of grain boundaries.

Claire Bantz has the reputation of being the foremost "high five" player in these parts.

Jack Dixon has lost his reputation by making a "wrong turn." As related in the Bland Herald of last week, he "showed his hand" as an old-time stage driver, by completely upsetting the buckboard and precious load on the Bland hill. Talk about your "heavenly hash," you ought to have seen our lunch. We blocked the wagon with one of Harry Mottley's mince pies.

Last bulletin from Henry Pohlman's outfit, which left Santa Fe on last Sunday, is that they had put the team in the wagon and were pulling it themselves and are expected here September 8.

R. A. Moore and Sanford North, two jolly good fellows from Las Vegas, left yesterday after a pleasant stay of two months. People are constantly going and coming. The new hotel is only fairly well put-up, and the people have not heard of its opening. There are about thirty tents on the hills around the springs. Dr. and Mrs. Knapp and Mrs. Wm. Tipton arrived this p. m., having come from their camp on the Santa Clara (twenty-five miles) without food, having lost their lunch on the road. Smith says, however, that they didn't lose their appetite. They have engaged a parlor suite at the hotel, and will remain all summer, unless sent for. They also report Dr. Murrell, wife and son, Mrs. Garver and Eddie Stabb, who are still in camp on the Santa Clara, as improving in health and having a "high time." Dr. Murrell keeps the camp supplied with game and Eddie has caught 500 trout.

Mr. Reynolds is rapidly regaining his old-time form; has been voted a medal for gallant conduct at the dinner table, and is ready for another bout. Of course, our natural well known modesty will not permit us to say much, still it might be mentioned that we had a birthday, on which occasion our friends conducted themselves in a manner towards us that made a stinging and lasting impression, and feeling of dark and bloody revenge still lingers in the bosom of

Your Devoted Invalids,
OTERO AND PARKER.

P. S.—Since writing the above we have learned that some of the Santa Feans down the canon do the ghost dance before the camp fire so beautifully that the Indians from Santa Clara threaten to kidnap them and appropriate their services on feast days.

The Indians who came with the freight packs from Espanola this morning killed a bear about fifteen months old not 600 yards from the dam and within sight of all the camps. Peace reigns, notwithstanding, at this writing.

Frank Becker and Harry Burnett, of Espanola, arrived this morning and will parboil a couple of weeks.

J. H. McCarty, of Bond Brothers at Espanola, who has graced our midst for the past two weeks, reluctantly tears himself away in the morning. O. & P.

Normal Weather Conditions Prevailed Throughout the Territory During the Past Week.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Weather Bureau, Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 1, 1896.

The week ending August 31 averaged about normal in temperature and rainfall. The precipitation was mostly in form of local showers and not well distributed.

Crops are so far advanced that rainfall can not benefit them to any great extent but the rains were of considerable benefit to the stock ranges.

The greatest total of rainfall reported for the week was 3.35 inches at Gallinas Springs in San Miguel county; next in amount 1.40 inches, Hillsboro, in Sierra county, and 1.12 inches at Circula, near Wagon Mound.

The stock ranges have generally improved during the week and are generally in very fair condition.

Some localities need more rain to make the wild grass in being cut and marketed for hay. Corn is beginning to ripen and the outlook for a good crop is favorable.

Alfalfa is doing very well and the third and fourth crops are now being cut with good results. Vegetable gardens are in good condition and the markets well supplied locally.

The following extracts from a few of the reports received at this office will be found of interest:

Albuquerque—M. Custers—Heavy thunderstorm on the 23rd. Total rainfall for the week 0.42 of an inch.

Aztec—Prof. H. H. Griffin—Temperatures averaged about 10 degrees lower than last week. A good rain on the 27th. The corn acreage is larger than usual and the early varieties are ripening.

Bernalillo—Brother Gabriel—The week has been favored by occasional showers which proved very beneficial to crops in general. Grapes are maturing very rapidly also corn. Ranges seem to improve and cattle profit thereby. Potatoes seem to be inferior to last year. Sweet potatoes have proved very successful in this section. Days fairly warm and nights cool.

Circula—A. M. Hollenbeck—This week has been more favorable, cool and cloudy with two nice showers the first part of the week. Grass coming again nicely, but needs more rain for winter feed. Early corn is being gathered; owing to the dryness of the fore part of the month it has matured early and the crop is very light. Rainfall 1.12 inches.

Edy—H. G. Holabird—During the past week we have had delightful rains here. The sugar beets are doing nicely and the outlook very favorable.

Gallinas Springs—J. E. Whitmore—The past week has been excellent for all kinds of crops and grass. Total rainfall for the week was 3.35 inches. Some thunder on the 27th.

Las Vegas—Dr. F. H. Atkins—A cool, moderately cloudy week. Crop conditions have remained the same except a little less favorable for maturing corn. Remaining crops not irrigated look for loss.

Los Alamos—Wm. Frank—The weather has been cloudy and damp nearly all the week. Wheat and oats are being harvested and the grain is good and sound but a light yield. Corn is doing fairly well.

Lower Penasco—H. von Bosse—The rainfall of the past week too light to be of any great benefit. Days more or less cloudy and warm while the nights were mostly very cool. Crops are now too far advanced to be benefited by rains. The ranges are dry and unless we have more rain soon there will be a scarcity of feed for winter. Grasshoppers are very abundant and doing considerable damage to vegetables and fruit.

Hillsboro—R. A. Nickle—The best rain of this season fell on the 27th, a steady soak. Wheat and barley is all stored. Corn, the only remaining crop, was benefited by the rain. Total rainfall, 1.40 inches.

Ricoon—O. H. Raitt—If the rains this week had been heavier the result would have been more satisfactory. However, corn, beans, alfalfa and the grass on the range have made fair growth. There is water in the river for irrigation.

Springer—Dr. L. Hines—Two fine rains during the preceding week on the 22d and 23d, while so late for crops, they were of benefit to the stock ranges, but the past week was warm and dry. There were some local showers, but extent of territory covered limited. Most of oats and wheat does not pay for harvesting and hay in vegas very short.

Santa Fe—U. S. Weather Bureau—Temperature and rainfall about normal. Feed on the ranges has improved considerably. Everything looking well. The wild grama grass is being cut to quite an extent on the ranges and brought to market for hay.
