TARIFF TINKERS AT WORK

The House Ways and Means Committee Begins Operations in Washington To-day.

COMPETITION OF SILVER COUNTRIES

Chemicals and Wines and Liquors Schedules—A Texas Man Pardoned—Three Friends to Be Labeled.

Washington, Dec. 28.—The tariff hearing before the ways and means committee began to-day. There were several large delegations in attendance and much interest displayed. The morning was devoted to the chemical schedule and the afternoon to wines and liquors.

Chairman Dingley said the committee desired to avoid repetitions as far as possible and would prefer, where convenient, to receive condensed briefs rather than oral arguments.

Thos. F. Harrison, of Philadelphia, representing the Manufacturing Chemical Association, delivered a statement to pave the way for a brief to be submitted later.

In a general way he said the manufacturing chemists would ask for a moderation in schedules, and as far as possible, a change from ad valorem to specific duties. He called attention to the fact that $150,000,000 were invested in the manufacture of chemicals and products annually approximated the same sum. Those he represented asked no favors, they only desired justice. They were being crushed between textile manufacturers and importers.

He said some data would be submitted relative to the competition they had to meet from China and Japan.

Samuel Merz, of Newark, N. J., argued for the restoration of the McKinley law duties on ultra marine and aniline dyes. Merz created a laugh by saying in order to overcome prejudice against home product, he had frequently placed his product in the hands of importers and it had been easily disposed of by them.

SENTENCED FOR LIFE.

An American Citizen Arrested in 1895 Sentenced for Life in Havana—Weyler Well Hung.

Havana, Dec. 28.—Julia Sanguilly, the American citizen arrested in 1895 charged with conspiring against the government and sentenced by court martial to life imprisonment, who appealed and obtained a civil trial was formally sentenced to-day to imprisonment for life and to pay half the expenses of the trial. He was subsequently declared insolvent.

WYLER WELL HUNG.

New York.—Gen. Weyler was hanged in effigy in two New Jersey towns Saturday night, citizens of Cape May and New Brunswick celebrating Christmas by demonstrating in favor of Cuban liberty.

At Cape May the Rifles, an independent company, sent a squad of men to participate in the affair. A big crowd was present. From a wire stretched across from the principal streets an effigy representing Gen. Weyler was hung out and suspended over the middle of the road. The effigy was carefully gotten up to resemble the Spanish commander in Cuba, and the clothing was fashioned after the field uniform of a Spanish general. The crowd appeared when the effigy was drawn into position, and a Cuban flag was unfurled amid an enthusiastic demonstration.

Then a detail of the Rifles fired out and fired a volley at the suspended figure. Lieut. Bailey commanded the detail. Capt. Miller of the company was present but not in uniform and took no part in the affair. The figure remained hanging until an early hour this morning, when it was set on fire and burned, while the crowd wildly cheered. Cape May is full of Cuban sympathizers. Several men have gone from there to fight in the Cuban army. Nearly all of these were New Jersey militiamen.

Suspended from a flag pole extending from a window in the New Brunswick postoffice building an effigy of Gen. Weyler hung all day. The figure of the Spanish general was designed by members of the camp of Sons of Veterans, who took this method to show their sympathy with the Cubans. A great crowd gathered and heartily applauded the vigorous utterances of those who took occasion to denounce Spain and the Spaniards.

WILL SPEAK FOR CUBA.

New York.—Gen. Daniel E. Stokes, ex-minister to Spain, will speak on the Cuban question on Jackson's birthday, January 8, in Brooklyn, advocating interference by the United States in favor of the Cubans.

The Sopris Killing.

Trinidad, Colo., Dec. 28.—Coroner Sipe Saturday held an inquest on the body of Gertrudis Duran, the woman shot at Sopris Thursday night, and developed a strong case against Manuel Gallegos.

It seems that the scene of his crime had an irresistible fascination for the murderer and forced him to follow Coroner Sipe and others into the room where the dead woman lay. It was while he was standing gazing at the corpse of his victim that the coroner ordered him taken into custody.

Gallegos claims that he did not do the killing and that no one who knows him will believe in his guilt.

A HINT FOR NEW MEXICO.

Interesting Statistics on the Beet Sugar Production of Germany.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Germany sent out in the season of 1895-96 of raw beet sugar 968,538 tons, against 1,045,043 tons in 1894-95. The home consumption was 695,360 tons, against 622,695 tons in 1894-95. The factories employed in making sugar numbered 96,498 and they consumed 11,700,000 tons of beet root. The bad business of the preceding year forced the sugar makers to offer less for the roots and they in turn caused the farmers to plant less. United States Consul Monaghan, at Chemnitz, sends these statistics to the state department to back up his statements that Germany's beet sugar industry has been making huge strides in a dozen years, in part owing to intelligent government aid, and also to the energy of the manufacturers, who believe in helping themselves. He says that intensive farming rather than extensive farming may be made as profitable in Nebraska and Ohio as it is in Germany, and he sees no reason to doubt that America can profitably make her own beet sugar and save the millions of marks which are annually spent in Germany for this article.

Weston's Effort Failed.

New York, Dec. 28.—When Edward Payson Weston, the 68-year-old pedestrian, at 10 o'clock Saturday night left the track on which he had endeavored to equal his record, 112 miles in twenty-four hours, he had walked 103 miles, 426 1/2 yards. The old man went to the office of the skating rink, in which the track was situated, threw himself on a cot and wept bitterly. A number of friends gathered around and sought to console him, but Weston refused to be comforted, and reproached himself for his failure.

Weston undertook the task of equalling his record of 112 miles in twenty-four hours, made when he was 33 years old, to illustrate how a regular and temperate life conserves man's vigor and makes him strong in his later years.

THE A. & P. FORECLOSURE.

The Road to Be Taken by the Holders of Its Mortgage Bonds.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—The final decree of foreclosure and sale of the Atlantic & Pacific railroad was filed in the United States circuit court yesterday afternoon. This decree is a series of similar decrees which have been made in suits between the same parties and for the same action in every district in which the insolvent Atlantic & Pacific has property.

It is ordered that unless the sum of $2,823,416 is paid by the railroad to its debtors within thirty days the entire property shall be sold at auction at Gallop, Bernalillo county, New Mexico.

The foreclosure proceedings were instituted by the United States Trust company of New York to recover the interest on an issue of bonds. The bonds were in two sets aggregating the sum of $16,000,000, with interest at 6 per cent payable annually. The issue was held in trust by the Mercantile Trust company, and was known as the mortgage on the western division of the railroad. A second issue with terms similar to the first was taken by the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust company.

The suit came up in the United States circuit court in this city on October 5, 1896, before Judge Ross, who appointed O. N. Marron to take testimony in the case at Los Angeles. Marron has filed his report, and consequently thereon Judge Ross has filed the decree just mentioned.

The bonds, aggregating $12,000,000 and delivered to the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust company, have been declared to be subordinate to the first issue. It has been decided by the court that after the proceeds of the sale have been received the complainants distribute to the holders of the first mortgage bonds the sum of $28,323,500, the first balance due. It is further ordered that unless the debt of the railroad be paid within thirty days the sale shall take place as above mentioned, the proceeds to be used in the liquidation of the corporation.

It is astonishing

how many people who go east over the Burlington return the same way.

It is even more astonishing how many people who go east over other lines return via the Burlington.

Undoubtedly the reason is that the Burlington pays much more attention to making its patrons comfortable. One thing sure is that it has shorter and better track than any other railroad between Denver and Chicago.

Lincoln—Omaha—Chicago—St. Joe—Kansas City—St. Louis are six of the 1,210 stations on the Burlington.

CONFERENCE OF THE POWERS

Representatives from Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Austria Have an Audience with Sultan.

THE SULTAN REMAINED OBDURATE

Abdul Hamid Says He May Be the Last of the Caliphs, But Will Never Become a Second Khedive—The Throne in Imminent Peril.

Copyright 1896 by the Associated Press.

Constantinople, Dec. 28.—The Russian ambassador, Saturday, acting in concert with representatives from Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Austria, had an audience with the sultan, Abdul Hamid, regarding the better administration of affairs in the Turkish empire.

The Russian diplomat began by warning the sultan and Turkish government of the revenues needed for the payment of the Turkish debt were touched, European control of the finances of the empire will become inevitable. M. de Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, further informed the sultan that the czar, government, his personal safety and engaged himself to maintain the sultan's supremacy in the event of severe measures being necessary upon the part of the powers.

The sultan remained obdurate, refusing consent to any measure of control, financial or otherwise, by the powers. He said the Russian ambassador replied that the conditions of the Turkish empire placed the throne and the caliphate in imminent peril.

Thereupon Abdul Hamid remarked, impressively: "I may be the last of the caliphs, but I will never become a second Khedive."

In addition to these warnings M. de Nelidoff sent a note to the Turkish government and to the palace. Utmost significance is attached to it in diplomatic circles. He pointed out in precise terms the necessity of the powers, in giving the advice of the powers and acting in complete agreement with their plans for improving the situation, warning them once more that the sultan's refusal to do so involves most disagreeable consequences.

The ambassadors will reassemble in the future twice a week until they complete their recommendations to the sultan and his advisers.

These latest steps are reported to have produced a profound impression at Constantinople, and in the presence of an anniversary of the Armenian prisoners in Asia Minor and this city and vicinity are being released daily in batches of fifteen.

FIENDS INCARNATE.

They Remove a Rail from a Trestle, Causing Twenty-five Deaths, Afterward Robbing the Dead and Wounded.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 28.—Fiends wrecked the Birmingham Mineral passenger train at Cahaba river bridge, twenty-seven miles from here, yesterday, and twenty-one lives were lost. The wreck is regarded as almost certainly accomplished by the removal of a rail on the trestle. This derailed the train which caused it to fall into the river, 110 feet below. Survivors are being cared for in the hospital at Cahaba. The bodies of the dead and wounded are being taken to the woods.

Conflicting statements are current as to the number of dead bodies taken from the debris. The official list furnished at the office of the Louisville & Nashville railroad shows only twenty-one deaths and eleven injured, of whom at least two will die. It is claimed by some who witnessed the clearing of the debris yesterday, including several physicians, that twenty-eight bodies were taken out.

INCREASED TO TWENTY-FIVE.

Birmingham, Ala.—The list of dead from yesterday's bridge disaster, at Cahaba river, on the Birmingham Mineral road, has increased to twenty-five by deaths to-day.

THREE PARTIES AFTER IT.

Novel Contest Over the Possession of Valuable Mining Property in Dona Ana County.

Says the Las Cruces Republican: A. J. DeMules seems to have struck a pretty rich mine in the Jicarillas. A short time ago he sold a mine to Dr. W. O. Mason, of Denver. While Mr. Mason was on his way from Denver to see the property and pay for it, Gov. Thornton and Sheriff Garrett were given an option on it. Before the option had expired the property was sold to Messrs. Burton and Mackey, of Kansas, for $25,000. When Gov. Thornton and Sheriff Garrett heard of this they went out and re-located the claim, claiming that the location notice was defective. When they returned they informed the interested parties of what they had done, and at the same time offered to fulfill their part of the contract; i. e. pay over $500 at once, and $14,500 at the expiration of the time granted in the option.

It is now also claimed on good authority that there is a deed in escrow in the El Paso First National bank in favor of a Mr. Bell, of Chicago.

Judge McFie has filed a suit in chancery for the delivery of the deed to Dr. Mason.

The property was formerly worked by the late Charles Bull as a silver and copper property, and Mr. Vincent May, who is administrator of the estate will go out on the 26th to do assessment work.

Gov. Thornton and Sheriff Garrett have possession and from present appearances will keep it—for a time at least. Messrs. Burton and Mackey accompanied by a mining expert left yesterday afternoon for the mine, but as Mr. Garrett has several men there on guard, they won't be able to get possession, if that is what they are after.

The affairs are pretty badly mixed up and it is hard to tell who will eventually get control of the property.

SENTECE TO HANG.

Allen House Downed to Hang for the Murder of Joel Ashworth in Denver—Wife Murderer Sentenced to One Day.

Denver, Dec. 28.—Allen House Downed, the highwayman convicted for the murder of Joel G. Ashworth, in this city the night of June 27 last, was to-day sentenced to be hanged the third week of January. He broke down and tearfully protested his innocence of the crime he originally confessed.

Pat Phillips pleaded guilty of involuntary manslaughter to-day and was sentenced to one day in jail. He killed his wife nearly three years ago. On the first trial he was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The second trial resulted in a verdict of murder in the second degree. Each verdict was set aside by the supreme court.

Owing to her advanced age, 84 years, Mrs. Beecher's condition is admittedly serious.

AMERICAN THE WINNER.

Kid McCoy Wins the Decision in a Championship Fight with Billy Doherty.

Copyright 1896 Associated Press. Johannesburg Dec. 28.—Kid McCoy, the American middleweight, defeated Billy Doherty, the Australian, this evening in nine rounds for the middleweight championship of the world. The fight was to be a decision for $5,000 a side and a division of the gate receipts. Doherty, who recently defeated Duggan for the championship of South Africa without getting a scratch, was completely outclassed by McCoy in cleverness. The men came together at 158 pounds with the Australian a slight favorite in betting. McCoy, who sails for England next Saturday, has challenged Ted White to make a match at $2,500 a side.

CATTLE ON A BOOM.

Healthy Demand for New Mexico's Feeders—Importations from Mexico.

The importations of Mexican cattle for the month of November as shown by the report of the department of animal industry number 14,858 as against 14,263 for the month of October. Of this number 5,611 were entered through the port of El Paso, in which custom district Deming is included, and from which point the greater portion of the stock was shipped. Advice as to the effect that the importations of Mexican cattle for the winter will hold up to and likely increase the October and November figures. In this connection the Deming Headlight says:

Cattle these days are better than gold. They are at a good price and continue on the upward grade. There is a big demand at $10 and upward for ones, $15 for two, $15 for three and $17 for four. Twelve months ago the same grades were hunting buyers at $9, $11 and $13, and two years ago the price was still much lower.

BANK FAILURES IN THE EAST

Atlas of Chicago Closes Its Doors. Followed by Dime Savings, Which is Under Same Directorship.

THESE ARE FOLLOWED BY MANY OTHERS

Bank of Superior and Scandia Bank in It, Also Security Mortgage & Trust Company and the Laconia Car Company.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—The Atlas National bank went out of business to-day. It was involved in the failure of the Mead-overo Brothers and the Central Trust & Savings bank, which assigned a year ago, and cleared through the Atlas.

The collateral the defunct bank had on deposit to secure its clearances was said to be ample, and at the time President Grannis, of the Atlas, said it would not lose by the failure.

W. A. Paulsen, who was president of the Central Trust & Savings bank, recently brought suit for $250,000 against the Atlas bank, W. C. D. Grannis and Charles B. Farwell.

The suit is based upon trouble Paulsen had with the bank at the time of the failure of the Central Trust & Savings bank.

Paulsen alleged that, although his bank had deposited Atlas collateral sufficient to cover all claims against it, clearing facilities were refused and the bank was forced to assign.

The liabilities are about $2,800,000, deposits being $1,800,000.

Partly as a result of the failure of the National bank of Illinois, last week, the Atlas National bank began paying off depositors to-day, thus marking the first step in retirement from business. No deposits were received and as fast as accounts were checked up depositors were paid in full and their books taken up.

The Atlas suffered heavily from runs occasioned by the close of the National bank of Illinois, deposits aggregating $900,000 having been withdrawn last week. This brought the resources down to a low figure.

The clearing house committee at the request of the officers of the bank, investigated its accounts and found the bank solvent. To expedite liquidation the committee assigned the aid of the associate banks of Chicago.

Vice-President C. B. Farwell said to-day: "After depositors have been paid off, I believe the shareholders will receive a large percentage of their interest, if not every dollar."

The Atlas was organized in 1887. Its statement, December 17, shows the deposits to be $1,860,000. Deposits six months ago amounted to $3,500,000.

DIME SAVINGS BANK FAILS.

Chicago.—In pursuance of an agreement among the directors of the Dime Savings bank, Treasurer George W. Reed's window is barricaded to-day and payments suspended under the ninety-day withdrawal notice clause granted in the statutes to savings banks.

W. C. D. Grannis, president of the Atlas National bank, is vice-president of the Dime Savings bank, and several of the directors of the Atlas National bank are also on the directory of the Dime Savings bank.

The officials of the Atlas National bank vigorously denied that the Atlas liquidation had in any way influenced the future course of the Dime Savings bank. At the latter there was a persistent silence as to the action of the directors.

A majority of the Dime Savings bank depositors filed withdrawal notices. They were assured that the issuing of the notice was no indication of the bank's inability to meet all demands but simply means the protection against violent forgeries. Nearly all the depositors are laboring people.

WILL BE PAID IN FULL.

Washington.—Comptroller Eekles said to-day the closing of the Atlas National bank of Chicago was entirely voluntary. Eekles said the creditors would be paid in full at once, through advances made by the Chicago clearing house, and in his opinion the stockholders will eventually realize 100 per cent.

MORTGAGE & TRUST COMPANY.

Dallas, Texas.—The failure of the Security Mortgage & Trust company created much discussion in business circles in this city.

Many business men had long expected trouble for this concern, but the public generally was surprised at the failure.

The opinion is general that local losses will be comparatively insignificant, but eastern and foreign capitalists will lose fully $1,500,000 on their investments and ventures.

The exact figures of the liabilities and assets were as follows: Liabilities, $1,296,225; interest, $25,000; quit sale mortgages, $650,000; interest, $10,000; taxes, $17,000; liabilities on stocks, $500,000; cash and mortgages, $1,500,000; in sub-companies, $114,000; bonds in various corporations, $50,000; mortgages sold—not collected—$650,000. Total assets, $2,514,000.

Sub-companies are trust company, building associations, the Texas Farm Land company, Security Investment company and Cotton Mills Building association.

A PAYING TELLER DISAPPEARS.

Chicago.—A special from St. Paul says: Leander Bosch, paying teller of the suspended Bank of Minnesota, has disappeared. There is a small discrepancy in his accounts.

BANK OF SUPERIOR FAILS.

West Superior, Wis.—The bank of Superior, doing business in the east end, suspended to-day. An assignment was made by the directors to Henry S. Butler. The bank had $25,000 capital and $6,000 surplus. The big proportional deposits of $100,000 was a constant menace. A slight run on Saturday influenced the closing. The deposits are mostly small amounts and the bank expects to liquidate in full, unless there is a continual decline in the assets.

CAR COMPANY INSOLVENT.

Laconia, N. H.—The Laconia Car company was declared insolvent to-day. Liabilities $617,000; assets $407,000.

THE SCANDIA BANK FAILS.

Minneapolis.—The Scandia bank suspended to-day. It was a small bank and was loaded up with real estate on which it could not realize.

Its catchin'. Now the Las Cruces Republican has gone to work to issue a special irrigation and immigration edition, printed on enameled book paper and profusely illustrated, about February 1, 1897.

SINCE Kentucky went Republican mob law has become rampant in the grand old Blue Grass state. Gov. Bradley should make it his particular business to see that the law is upheld, even if he fails to beat Joe Blackburn for the senate. Poor old "Kaintuck."

THE territorial press is doing commendable work toward advertising to the world New Mexico's mineral resources. Almost every weekly paper coming to our exchange desk this week contains news relating to new strikes, new mills, mining sales, etc. Keep the ball rolling.

"STANDING at the mouth of the Carley shaft and looking down into the hole the gold can be seen reflecting back the sunlight from the uncovered vein. Some of it assays from $10,000 to $35,000 per ton," says a writer in the Albuquerque Democrat, describing the recent mineral find in south Santa Fe county.

SPEAKING of the chief justiceship, "on the expiration of the term of the present talented chief justice, Hon. Thomas Smith," the Eddy Argus unquestionably confines itself to the realms of truth and fact when it declares that "the law abiding people of southern New Mexico, without distinction of race or politics, are almost without exception, in favor of Judge Freeman's appointment."

JOHN CONNELLY, who is working the French Henry mine in the Baldy-Poult district, Colfax county, N. M., cleaned up from the mill run last month a trifle over $1,000 in gold. This month he will clean up about $2,000—Pueblo Chieftain.

PAHAW! That's very ordinary in New Mexico these days. However, we are obliged to Colorado, our neighbor, for helping us call such facts to the attention of the outside capitalist and miner.

THE Rincon Weekly thinks the Republican politicians of Colfax county are asking too much. Collier for governor, Voorhees for the U. S. attorneyship, Floyd for mine inspector and Wrigley for chief justice, seems to it to be asking too much for a county that gave a 400 Democratic majority in the recent election. It, however, thinks Collier "deserves recognition" from the chief executive. The Rio Grande organ, though, is inexperienced. It should remember that Colfax county is perfectly justified in the eyes of the people in doing all it can to offset the cheeky claims of the hungry horde in Santa Fe, Grant, Dona Ana and Valencia counties.

A SHOCKING SHOWING.

The number of applications for charity in New York by able-bodied men who are willing to work is said to be greater than ever before known in the history of that city. That it is charity, starvation or crime for them," as said by an agent of a New York charity organization, certainly betrays a condition anything but flattering for alleged "advance agents of prosperity."—Springer Stockman.

True, and yet New York boasts of being the richest city in the world; it is over-rich and luxury loving. If the aggregate wealth of the greater New York were divided pro rata among its 3,500,000 inhabitants, the share of each would be about $3,800. This is the largest per capita of wealth shown in any city in the world. Richest of all cities, it is the most luxurious as well. In the items of wine, beer and spirits, cigars and tobacco in various forms, theater patronage, pleasure vehicles and fine horses, cut flowers and ornamental plants, European travel, diamonds, jewelry and bicycles, there is annually expended in New York the colossal sum of $185,000,000, or about $53 per capita.

The unit of comparison is the figure representing the total population, or the embodiment of $3,500,000. Accepting the argument of the prohibitionist that all manner of malt, vinous and spirituous beverages are luxuries pure and simple, it would appear that a total of $100,000,000 is spent on the beverages that cheer and also inebriate. Of this total, $30,000,000 is paid for lager beer by New Yorkers every year. They spend annually $6,000,000 for theater; $15,000,000 for horses and carriages; $3,500,000 for flowers; $7,500,000 for bicycles; $20,000,000 for diamonds; $20,000,000 for ocean travel; $30,000,000 for cigars and tobacco, and $70,000,000 for wines and liquors—still 50,000 children are growing up in ignorance in New York City because there is not room for them in the public schools.

PRESS COMMENT.

A Wise Suggestion.

A. B. Fall strikes the nail on the head when he says that the first duty of the next legislature will be to devise ways and means to make both ends meet in the management of county finances.—Las Cruces Republican.

Promptly Called Down.

The territorial Republican press is making a frantic effort to prove to the people that the council will be a tie and that the house will contain a majority of Republicans. It is just as well to stop it, gentlemen, you can't prove the impossible.—Lincoln News.

But Not This Year!

Col. J. Francisco Chavez, of Valencia county, is said to be in the field for the federal judgeship down in the 2nd judicial district. He would make a better president of the legislative council, he would.—Las Vegas Optic.

The PECOS VALLEY of . . . NEW MEXICO

OFFERS unequalled advantages to the farmer, fruit grower, live stock raiser, dairyman, bee-keeper, and to the home-seeker generally. The soil of the Pecos Valley is of high average fertility, and under irrigation produces bountiful crops of most of the grasses, grains, vegetables and fruits of the temperate and some of those of the semi-tropical zone. In such fruit as the peach, plum, grape, prune, apricot, nectarine, cherry, quince, etc., the Valley will dispute for the pre-eminence with California; while competent authority pronounces its upper portion in particular the finest apple country in the world. Enormous yields of such forage crops as alfalfa, sorghum and Egyptian corn make the feeding of cattle and sheep and the raising and fattening of hogs a very profitable occupation. The cultivation of sugarcane—a tanning material of great value—is becoming an important industry in the Pecos Valley, a home market having been afforded for all that can be raised, at a price yielding a handsome profit. The climate of the Pecos Valley has no superior in the United States, being pre-eminently healthful and health restoring. Lands with perpetual water-rights are for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The water-supply of the Pecos Valley has no equal in all the arid region for constancy and reliability; and this with the superb climate, productive soil and the facilities afforded by the railway which extends through the Valley's entire length, will cause these lands to enjoy a constant, and at times, rapid increase in value. The recent completion of the Pecos Valley Railway to Roswell will cause the more rapid settlement and development of the upper portions of the Valley, including the rich Felix section. The company has recently purchased many of the older improved farms about Roswell, and has now for sale lands to meet the wants of all—raw lands, partially improved lands, as well as farms with houses, orchards and fields of alfalfa and other crops. In the vicinity of Roswell several pieces of land have been divided into five and ten acre tracts, suitable for orchards and truck farms in connection with suburban homes. Certain of these tracts are being planted to orchards, and will be cultivated and cared for by the company for three years at the end of which period they will be handed over to the purchaser. Write for pamphlet fully describing the terms and conditions on which these several classes of tracts are sold. Lemuel—I tell you men may prate all they will about woman's extravagance, but she can dress well on a sum that would keep a man looking shabby.

Simcoe (drily)—That's true. Now the sum that my wife dresses on keeps me looking shabby year in and year out.

Major C. T. Pictou is manager of the State hotel at Denison, Texas, which the traveling man may say is one of the best hotels in that section. In speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Major Pictou says: "I have used it myself and in my family for several years, and take pleasure in saying that I consider it an infallible cure for diarrhoea and dysentery. I always recommend it, and have frequently administered it to my guests in the hotel, and in every case it has proven itself worthy of unqualified endorsement. For sale by all druggists."

Uncle Hiram, did you find the New York people intelligent?

Wal, they knew a heap 'bout New York, but they didn't know a blame thing 'bout the rest of 'th' country.

The wife of Mr. D. Robinson, a prominent lumberman of Hartwick, N. Y., was sick with rheumatism for five months. In speaking of it, Mr. Robinson says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that gave her any rest from pain. For the relief of pain it can not be beat." Many very bad cases of rheumatism have been cured by it. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by all druggists.

Miss Daisy Medders (cooly)—Do you love me, Jason?

Jason Huckleberry—Conrse I love you! Do you 'pose I'd have been actin' 'th' fool over you all this time if I didn't?

When most needed it is not unusual for your family physician to be away from home. Such was the experience of Mr. J. V. Sobensky, editor of the Caddo, I. T., Banner, when his little girl, 2 years of age, was threatened with a severe attack of croup. He says: "My wife insisted that I go for the doctor, but as our family physician was out of town I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved her immediately. I will not be without it in the future." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

Young Hawkins (back from college)—Wal, dad, I'm an all round 'feller, now I'm one of the best boxers in college.

Old Hawkins—Gee whizz! that's good. Get to work there, an' box up them punks.

HAIR HEADS, see Danderine, the most wonderful discovery of modern times. For sale at Fischer & Co's. Pharmacy.

He—Did you like the Rocky Mountain regions, Madge?

She—Never so disappointed in my life. Couldn't see anything for the hills.

Are you bald? Is your clothing constantly covered with dandruff—itchy animal matter falling from a diseased scalp? Does your head itch? Is it infested with sores and scabs? Is your hair growing thinner year by year? Is it dry and brittle? If so, you have a parasitic disease of the scalp, which you are neglecting at great risk. Danderine will cure you quickly and permanently. Money refunded in case of failure. For sale at Fischer & Co's. Pharmacy.

Doctor Banks—And in spite of all rumors to the contrary, you are still prepared to contend that Binks died a natural death?

Doctor Shanks—I am; fo' d'ring his last illness I attended him myself.

Thousands have been cured from baldness and other diseases of the scalp by Danderine. It will cure you. Guaranteed. For sale at Fischer & Co's. Pharmacy.

Uncle Simon, what is success in life? It is getting people to think as well of you as you think of yourself.

Hubby—Denise take such a dull razor. It won't cut a thing.

Dovey—Dull? Why, I sharpened a pencil with it yesterday.

This Is Your Opportunity. On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely's Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate the great merits of the remedy.

ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren St., New York City.

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement. It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed.

ON AN OLD LONDON STREET.

Mid-morning streets that rise in a day, Smart with stucco, with painting gay, In eldorado quiet the old street stands, A relic of days that have passed away—

Quaint old gables and corbels grim, Curves inside the figures dim, Bricks burned red by a thousand suns, Long lawns bordered by yew trees trim.

This great house was built by a man Who died ere the century well began, That goes back to the second George, And that to the days of good Queen Anne.

Those ancient houses seem to keep The same old pleasant haunting sleep, Lulled by the voice of a child comes Stilled to a murmur low and deep.

(Built they were in a world that made Much of rank and station and grade, And thus one fancies a still disdain In their look on the bustling streets of trade.)

And standing there one sees the men Of that old world time appear again, And the faded tints of the houses freshen, And the fields about them are green as then;

Men of the days of courtly grace, When the dance was the minut'stately pace, And in a learned leisure lovers Wrote Latin odes to a lady's face;

Days of the hoop and patch and fan, E'er vexed questions to vex began, Of roses in filigree, polished rakes, Of woman goddess and worshiper man.

And so this street seems reaching o'er From the quieter life of the days of yore, Yet, go but a hundred yards, you hear The rattle of traffic, the city's roar.

—London Spectator.

A FORTUNATE FIASCO.

He was very anxious. He was exceedingly nervous. All night he lay awake with throbbing brain and palpitating heart, and he would have broken down entirely but for the one idea which pervaded and sustained his being. The next day his fate would be decided. On the morrow he would know whether the world recognized him as a musician worthy to enter its foremost ranks of composers. On the morrow, moreover, he would learn the secret of Dorianne's heart—Dorianne, whose love seemed to him a finer gift than all the adulation that fame could bring.

And now the morning had dawned, Dorianne's answer had come, and although he never quite remembered how he arrived there, he was already in his seat at the conductor's desk waiting for the signal to commence the opera upon which he had spent many weary months of zealous brain toil.

It was for Dorianne he had labored all those months, to lay at her feet a name ringing with the people's praises, a position worthy of her and of the brilliant loveliness which had made her a queen ere she had passed her nineteenth year.

Then, unable to wait, and fearing that a failure might affect his chance of winning her, he had written, entreating her to put his doubts at an end and at once make him either the happiest or the most miserable man in the world.

The reply had come as he was leaving his chambers for the theater on the evening of the first performance of his opera, "The Land of Venus," and though it could not be termed a refusal, it was about as unsatisfactory as anything but an acceptance could be.

Let things be as they are. We have been so content. Why consider a new fate just yet awhile? To tell you the truth, Ferdinand, I scarcely know my own mind. Give me time to consider this all important question. You would not wish me to decide hastily. Only a few weeks, that is all I ask, and in the meantime let us be the same good friends we have always been. In answer to your letter, I am very sensible of the honor you have done me in asking me to become your wife. Yours ever sincerely, DORIANNE.

F. S.—I shall be at the opera with mamma tonight, and of course we both wish for your success.

Ferdinand Lingard thought of this letter as he sat waiting in the orchestra. Its bold, characteristic handwriting stood out clearly before his vision. Its calm, cold words swam across his eyes. "I scarcely know my own mind. Give me time. . . . Let us be the same good friends we have always been. . . . Only a few weeks."

A few weeks! An eternity! Oh, for patience, for forbearance! No, more than either of these, he wanted success—success and fame, and a name. Dorianne would not hesitate then.

"Her own mind!" Was she waiting for this evening's result? Was she afraid to plight her truth in case there should be a fiasco tonight? The thought gave the young man infinite pain, and he tried to banish it from his mind.

Then a sudden anger against her worldliness filled him. He turned his head slightly to see if she had arrived.

Yes, there she was, in a side box on the grand tier, her mother sitting beside her, and some woman who he did not know standing behind gazing down at him with his opera glass to his eyes.

Ferdinand grew yet more angry as he noted the expression of absolute content that lay on Dorianne's charming young face—a face which, in its shadowy beauty, had always reminded him of a budding rose of perfect, pale pink. How could she be so indifferent when with him so much was at stake? Was it not a veritable sign that her inmost feelings had been untouched by his appeal?

Yet, if he could only have known how under that mask of carelessness the heart of Dorianne was beating almost to suffocation in her anxiety for her lover's success, and that the flutter on her cheeks was wholly due to suppressed excitement, Ferdinand would have been a less troubled man at this moment.

As it was, he was conscious solely of a vague sense of apprehension, and the nervousness he felt nearly overwhelmed him.

The drawbacks to a favorable interpretation of the young composer's work were numerous. The most he had been able to do was to obtain for it a first hearing during an autumn season at the National Opera House, when none but second rate artists were taking part in the performances, and he knew only too well that unless the prima donna who was singing for him improved vastly upon the first rehearsal most of his music would fail to be understood by the critical public.

His fears redoubled when at last—the proudest being over and the curtain drawn up—his diva stepped forward and sang her opening phrases distinctly out of tune and with all the errors against which he had taken such pains to warn her.

The first act was received with good tempered spirit, but the crowded house, but the second with more toleration. Ferdinand sat conducting as in a dream, his face, usually full of youthful brightness, now ashen pale and drawn with anxiety.

Everything from beginning to end seemed against him. The principal roles, and all, were out of voice, the chorus went wrong, the orchestra played in a half hearted manner that was sufficiently damning in itself, and his music, so boldly of all its intrinsic beauty and poetic grace, fell flat and sounded dull and meaningless. When the curtain dropped upon the last act, Ferdinand was forced to pass through an ordeal such as he hoped never to undergo a second time during his life.

Lord and lord, cries rang through the house, but for some time the distracted composer refused to obey their summons. Determined, however, to exact its bitter penalty, the audience continued to call, and at length Ferdinand bowed to his fate. He met the storm of derision with which he was received bravely and without flinching, and there were few among that merciless crowd who understood by the look of pain on his deathly face what he was really suffering in that moment of cruel and agonizing disappointment.

Ferdinand went home at once to his rooms in Westminster, and, throwing himself down into an easy chair, began to think over the events of the evening.

A stern resentment rose in him against the fate that had proved so unkind. He had toiled earnestly on his first opera, and he knew without conceit that it contained much beauty of idea and conception. Given proper treatment and produced under more favorable conditions, it might have proved a success, whereas it had been the direct failure. London was laughing at him, deriding his lack of talent, his want of musicianly skill, and, worst of all, no doubt, Dorianne was joining in the laugh.

Dorianne! Ah, of course he had lost her now forever! How sensible she had been to wait before giving her answer! Full of scorn, he cast from him the thought of the girl he had loved. To his distorted imagination she appeared a being he no longer cared for, but hated with all his soul. No woman should spoil his heart, much less a woman so unworthy as the one to whom he had laid bare his heart and offered the devotion of a life, and, if he had failed in his first great effort, very soon would he give the world cause to sing praises of him and his work.

He would rise from the ordinary, commonplace position which he now occupied to one of fame and renown. No longer was he that he should sink under the burden of a disappointment such as had been his tonight.

Suddenly he started. A shadow fell across the lamplight in the room. A hand touched him. Someone had entered noiselessly. He was no longer in solitude with thought.

He sprang from his seat, gazing at the graceful form which, in its snowy draperies and flower-decked hair, seemed to him like some beautiful dream, far too exquisite and sweet to be real.

"Dorianne!" he gasped. "You here—alone?"

The girl's eyes dropped, and a wave of crimson color swept over her face as she spoke.

"I have come to give you your answer," she said shyly. "Mamma wanted me to write, but I knew what you must be feeling after what you went through tonight, and so I persuaded her to call here on the way home. Mamma is waiting below in the parlor."

She paused, and Ferdinand understood vaguely that she was waiting for him to speak. After a moment he did so, but his voice was so harsh and bitter that he scarcely recognized it as his own.

"Very so, indeed," he cried, "that you could not put off over until tomorrow the news of your decision! You might have spared yourself the trouble of coming here tonight. I know already that which you would tell me. You waited for my failure, and now you would add to my suffering."

"Ferdinand!"

The girl's clear young voice rang out in the room with a passionate cry, and the color left her cheeks as she turned upon him with flashing eyes.

"Ferdinand, you are wrong—unjust. It is true that I did not wish to tell you my own mind, but tonight, when you came upon the stage and faced those howling wretches alone and with such courage my heart went out to you. The world's depreciation of your great talent would mean to me the loss of you. In that moment I understood that I loved you—truly I would be no man's wife but yours. This is what I came to tell you, Ferdinand, and I hoped that it might in some measure prevent your brooding too much over your ill luck. But as I am not welcome—"

She turned to go, but the man caught her hand and detained it in his.

"Oh, my love, my Dorianne," he murmured, "forgive me! I have been mad. I knew not what I was thinking. Come close to my heart and put your head near mine, so that I may realize it is not a dream. I love you. All I have lived for and worked for since I first saw you has been for you, and you alone, and I thought I had lost you—I never imagined that you could be mine after!"

Dorianne interrupted him with a little, laughing laugh. "The point of most importance at this moment is that we are keeping mamma waiting. Don't you think you had better come and have supper with us, Ferdinand? Come."

He bent and kissed her rosy, laughing face, then, hand in hand, the two walked down stairs and into the hall, where, doubtless, drawing of the time went slow, but harked in the sunshine of "love's young dream," sat, patiently waiting, Ferdinand's future mother-in-law.—London Sketch.

Willing to Compromise.

An Englishman at a dinner once told a tale of a tiger he had shot which measured 24 feet from snout to tail tip. Every one was astonished, but no one ventured to insinuate a doubt of the truth of the story. Presumably a Scotchman told his tale. He had once caught a fish which he said he was unable to pull in alone, managing only to land it at last with the aid of six friends. "It was a skate, and it covered two acres." Silence followed this recital, during which the offended Englishman left the table. The tale followed. After returning he said to the Scotchman: "Sir, you have insulted my friend. You must apologize." "I dinna insult him," said the Scot. "Yes, you did, with your two acre fish story. You must apologize."

"Well," said the offender slowly, "with the aid of six men making great concessions, I tell him if he will take ten feet off that tiger I will see what I can do with the fish." —San Francisco Argonaut.

Cities and Morals.

This shifting of the population from the country to the towns is accompanied by a profound change in the habits, thought and mode of life of a large portion of the population. The wits are sharpened and the moral sense is dulled by the excitement and variety of city life. There is a feverish activity arising from the struggle of so many hungry beings in such keen competition and close contact with each other. The crowding of the population increases with the value of real estate, and the injury to health and morals increases in the same ratio.—Colonel F. V. Greene in Scribner's.

Many women live under a constant cloud of gloom and depression. The weariness and weakness caused by some ailment of the system is like an overhanging demon of disaster always ready to descend upon them.

The average doctor cannot help them much. He has not time to become a specialist and learn the best local treatment for these delicate troubles. He relies upon "local treatment" which seldom does any good, and often does harm. No wonder women get discouraged, but they need it.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., will receive, free of charge, a letter of sound professional advice and suggestion for home-treatment. Dr. Pierce is one of the most skillful specialists in the world in treating women's diseases, and his "Favorite Prescription" cures the most obstinate difficulties, when all else fails.

J. F. Beverly, Esq., of Goliad, Goliad Co., Tex., writes: "My wife suffered from cold feet and nervous prostration, loss of appetite, tired feelings, restlessness, could not sleep. I tried five doctors. None of them gave her relief. She suffered five years. She was helpless, and could not walk. I sent her to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. One bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Kidney and Bladder Pills, and one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Spermia Pills, cured her. Now she is well and happy, and I can praise your medicine to the extreme."

Daughter—Because he was the only one that had the good taste to propose.

FREE TO EVERY MAN. THE METHOD OF A GREAT TREATMENT FOR WEAKNESS OF MEN. WHICH CURED HIM AFTER EVERYTHING ELSE FAILED.

Painful diseases are bad enough, but when a man is slowly wasting away with nervous prostration, the mental torments are ten times more than the most severe pain. There is no let up to the mental suffering day or night. Sleep is almost impossible, and such strains men are scarcely responsible for what they do. For years the writer rolled and tossed in the troubled sleep of sexual weakness until it was a question whether he had life or not. He now declares that the cure was his. But providential inspiration came to him in the shape of a combination of the best of the old and new, and he restored the general health, but enlarged his weak, emaciated parts to natural size and vigor, and he now declares that the cure was his. Do not try to study out how I can afford to pay the few postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it and learn that there are few things on earth so much worth the cost of nothing to get them as a cure for the above named ailments. Write to me for a free copy of the book, which is sealed and the information will be mailed in a plain sealed envelope.

CALLED TO OTHER DUTIES.

Sister Victoria summoned from St.
Vincent's to a broader field—Regret Over Her Departure.

Sister Victoria, who for nine years has had the control of the St. Vincent institutions here—the sanitarium, hospital and orphan's home, conducted by the Sisters of Charity—departs to-night for Cincinnati to accept a higher position in the order which she adorns with so much grace and ability. She has been designated to direct the affairs of St. Joseph's orphan home at Cumminsville, a suburb of Cincinnati, which has the care of some 800 children.

When it became known that this morning that Sister Victoria had been called elsewhere there was unusual regret expressed by Santa Feans, and all day long a steady flow of visitors has been kept up at the sanitarium parlors, and many a tear has been shed by the friends of this much beloved woman. To say that her going away is regarded locally as a public calamity scarcely expresses it, for during her long sojourn here her unselfish devotion to duty, her many acts of disinterested kindness and charity to all classes of people, and high character as a woman of affairs in the business and social life of the community, have endeared her to the hearts of all our people. It is not too much to say that every resident of Santa Fe, says, of all New Mexico, throughout which she is so widely known,
will join the New Mexican in bidding her God-speed and a long and happy life in her chosen field of philanthropy.

Sister Victoria will be succeeded here by Sister Eulalia, who comes from Trinidad, and who is greatly esteemed by our older residents who remember her efficient and able management of these institutions for twelve years prior to 1885.

All who are indebted to us will please

Two young men passed through Santa Fe yesterday on their way to White Oaks from Creede, Colo., with a bunch of horses, where they expect to go into business. They were so taken with Santa Fe they almost decided to stay here, and had they not made up their minds on making White Oaks their place of business would undoubtedly have remained in Santa Fe.

MORE KINDLY EXPRESSIONS

Praise of the Press for the New Mexican's Handsome Immigration Edition.

The Chieftain has been favored with a copy of the special immigration supplement of the Santa Fe New Mexican. It is a large and impressive publication which would do credit to one of the old doggy eastern states, to say nothing of the rich territory of New Mexico to which they refuse the privilege of statehood.
The supplement contains thirty-two large and well printed pages of five columns each, completely filled with descriptive and pictorial matter concerning New Mexico, its towns and its cities, its fine and varied resources, its streams and orchards and fields, its mines of gold and silver and copper, its quarries of valuable stone, its historic scenes and venerable landmarks, the new blood of enter-getic people that are adding yearly to its population. The pictures are very numerous and are elegantly printed, and include a few picturesque views from Colorado.

This publication ought to be sent to all parts of the United States. It is difficult to imagine how a man of energy, desirous of bettering his condition and who is stuck in the rut in the poverty stricken east, can resist the impulse to come west and grow up with the country, after perusing this attractive paper.—
Pueblo Chieftain.

The Santa Fe New Mexican has issued its immigration number, and it is a beauty. Printed on book paper, and profusely illustrated with pictures of various parts of the territory, it contains special write-ups of the different counties, and is in every way a credit to the publishers.—Las Cruces Republican.

The Santa Fe New Mexican has just issued a finely illustrated supplement, setting forth the advantages of different portions of the territory. Lincoln county comes in for a nice write-up, which is deserved and worthy of reproduction.—
Lincoln News.

The Santa Fe New Mexican has reason to be proud of its immigration edition issued last week. It will do the territory a world of good.—El Paso Times.

The New Mexican's special immigration supplement has reached us, and truly a work of art and value it is. Its fund of information will prove to be an advertisement of New Mexico's hampered, though persistent, progress and limitless resources that will result in great benefit to this territory and its rapidly increasing population. It is replete with the history and industries of New Mexico, falling just short of exhaustion. The New Mexican is worthy of much credit in issuing with the leading New Mexico
daily such a supplement.—Herald-Weekly, Cochiti.

The cathedral and Gregorian choirs were royally entertained at St. Michael's college yesterday at 5 p. m., and a banquet given them which, according to the general opinion of the members, is the best treat they ever enjoyed. The banquet was served in the college music hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Thirty covers were laid. The tables were laden with the most toothsome victuals the market can afford, and sparkling wines of many kinds were quaffed. Besides the members of the cathedral and Gregorian choirs present there were Vicar-General Anthony Fourclegue and Fathers Cassala and Gauthier, of the cathedral. The banquet was the gift of the vicar-general.
The following toasts were eloquently responded to, under the graceful direction of Mr. Geo. A. Johnson, as toastmaster:
"The president of the United States,"
Most Rev. A. Fourclegue; "The Christian Brothers, Founders of Education in the West," Hon. J. G. Read; "Our Alma Mater," Mr. Alfred Hinojos; "St. Cecilia,
the Mother of Music," Rev. Bro. Fabian;
"The Ladies," Rev. Bro. Botolph. Happy
remarks were also indulged in by Mr. F.
B. Delgado and Mr. Luciano Ortiz. The occasion was one long to be remembered by the happy participants.
