Beaming With Smiles

Are the countenances of people who have found speedy and thorough relief from malaria, kidney, bilious, dyspeptic or nervous troubles through the aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Such countenances are very numerous. So are letters from their owners attesting the efficacy of the great family medicine. Among the signals of distress thrown out by the stomach, bowels and liver in a state of disorder, are sick headache, heartburn, nausea, loss of appetite, sallowness of the skin and eyeballs, and an uncertain state of the bowels. They should be heeded at once. If the Bitters are resorted to, the way beyond lock which accompanies sickness will give way to cheerful looks produced by renewed health. If you are drifting on the coast of disease, throw an anchor to windward by summoning the Bitters to your assistance. It will keep you in safety.

The Alleghany County Medical society wants condemned criminals executed by gas. Of course this is not intended to be a laughing matter.

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Rowles, of Holland, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had a gripe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by all druggists.

A glance at the naval budgets of the several powers shows unmistakable evidence of a bull movement in the price of peace.

Many merchants are well aware that their customers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing, Mich. They say: "We have no hesitation in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always gives satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by all druggists.

For a pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. This is especially valuable in cases where the pain is caused by a cold and there is a tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

Lunacy is from luna, the moon, it once being a popular belief that all mental aberrations were caused by the moon.

Silly once meant blessed. The English writers of 800 years ago frequently allude to the silly child Jesus.

are you bald? Is your clothing constantly covered with dandruff? Is your scalp itching? Is your hair thinning? Is it falling out? Does your head itch? Is it itchy with sores and scabs? Is your hair growing thinner year by year? Is it dry and brittle? If so, you have a parasitic disease of the scalp, which you are neglecting at great risk. Danderine will cure you quickly and permanently. Money refunded in case of failure. For sale at Fischer & Co's. Pharmacy.

A FIELD OF DAISIES.

Away and away on every side
The wide fields billowed in gold and white—
Tens of thousands of daisies fair
Looked up and welcomed the sunshine bright.
The farmer leaned on his hoe to rest
And muttered proudly, "This is the best
If ever I see such a spreadin' pest!"
His wife was bustling to and fro,
Making the guestrooms "spick and span,"
Decorating with muslin and sorin,
And the ever present Japanese fan.
Then she threw her arms over her head
And out for a "posy" of daisies sped.
"The boards 'll like 'em!" she breathless said.

The "boards" came, and with "Ohs!" and "Als!"
Greeted the fields where the daisies trooped.
And they plucked them for belt and breast and hair,
Then threw them down where they faded and dropped.
And they fell in the dusty wagon track,
Where the clumsy oxen drew cart and rack,
And their trampled beauty came not back.
But the little daughter wandered forth
Under the branching apple trees
That bordered the field, and lived all day
With birds and flowers and whispering breeze.
And the daisies listed her prattle sweet,
And sold her stories for fairies meet.
Such as only the daisies can repeat.
And the poet, dreaming beneath the trees,
Half in shadow and half in sun,
As the drifting clouds moved overhead,
Lived with the daisies till day was done,
And they wakened thoughts that in liquid rhyms
Carried the soul of the summer time
To an exile lone in a dreary clime.
—Minnie Louisa Upton in Good Housekeeping.

A SURPRISE.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lester had a flat on the North Side.
They were and are the kind of young married people calculated to restore a feeling of confidence as to matrimony.
Many a bachelor after spending an evening at the Lester flat and rioting in the simple delights of a "Dutch lunch" would remark to some other bachelor as they were walking homeward, "Say, if I knew where there was another Mrs. Bert Lester, I'd be a married man in less than six months."

The Lesters had a dozen or more men friends, mostly of the hotel kind, but Joe Barnett held the record for constant attendance. When there was any sort of social gathering at the Lester flat, Joe was neither absent nor tardy. He and Bert Lester had been good friends long before there was any Lester flat. Mrs. Lester believed that Joe was an "awful nice fellow." She had laid certain plans for his future.

Louise Rhodes had been preached to Joe Barnett for a year.

Her picture was on the Lester mantel, and her name went back and forth between the Lesters.

"Oh, Joe, I must have Louise come up to visit me," Mrs. Lester would say when she had dragged Joe up to the photograph for the hundredth time.

"You'll like her immensely. She's as clever as she can be, and pretty. Joe, her father has plenty of money too. Think of that."

"I don't see why that should interest me," Joe would reply with an indifference which was wholly assumed.

"Well, if I was a man there would not be many girls like Louise Rhodes running around single."

"You couldn't marry more than one of them."

"You're very bright tonight, aren't you? Wait till you see her. I know you will fall in love with her, and then it will serve you right if she refuses to look at you at all."

Mrs. Bert Lester and the much talked of Louise Rhodes had been classmates in a girls' seminary in Ohio. After graduating Kate Townsend returned to Chicago and promptly accepted Bert Lester. Louise resumed a country town existence at Flaming, Ind., where her father owned a grain elevator, a bank, a general store and a hub and spoke factory. His country possessions were marked by white farmhouses and huge red barns. Mrs. Lester once visited Louise at Flaming, and when she returned home she told fanciful stories of the Rhodes possessions.

Last spring, while Mrs. Lester was writing to Louise, coaxing her to come to Chicago on a visit, Joe Barnett did a very unusual thing. He wrote a letter to Miss Louise Rhodes of Flaming, Ind., a young woman whom he had never seen.

Mark the cunning of the scoundrel! This is the way the letter ran:

"Of course you dare not overlook my vast presumption in thus addressing you. One fact you must consider, however. I am with the Lesters so much of the time that I am, to all intents and purposes, a member of the household, and this may entitle me to the privilege of joining in the invitations. You may remember that May 8 will mark the third anniversary of their marriage. I am arranging to give a little dinner in their honor, but I want to make it a surprise to them. As you are Mrs. Lester's most intimate friend, it would be almost a calamity if you were not present at the dinner. You will understand, of course, that I could not have forwarded this information through the agency of Mrs. Lester. Don't tell her that I have written to you. I do not want her to learn of the dinner, and there are other reasons."

The letter closed with a final plea for pardon, and Joe mailed it, in the consciousness that he had done a very clever thing. He believed that any young woman, no matter how strict her seminary training had been, would have to answer that kind of letter. He was not mistaken. The reply came three days later, and it was in a bald and peaked handwriting, in which both ink and space were lavishly wasted. The letter called him "Mr. Barnett" and said among other things:

"ding here (my cousin), and until she is safely away on her wedding tour I shall be deliciously busy. It's too bad, perhaps next month I shall be in Chicago, and you may be sure I will be prepared to feign proper surprise and embarrassment when Kate presents you. I would not for worlds let her know I had written this letter."

"Say, she's all right."—This is what Joe Barnett told himself as he read her letter and grinned like a veal boy over his first love note.

Joe studied the letter again and concluded that the young woman had not been seriously offended. So he wrote another letter, setting forth some of the June attractions in Chicago and hoping, rather more fervently than in the first letter, that she would accept the Lester invitation. He received an answer expressing regret that no absolute promise could be made and incidentally suggesting that the writer would be pleased to learn some of the particulars in regard to the little dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lester. Joe construed this as an open consent to keep up the correspondence, and in one short month thereafter his letters began, "My Dear Miss Rhodes," and she addressed him as "My Dear Mr. Barnett," this being the set and accepted form, although not commonly used between young people who have never met.

In the meantime Mrs. Lester continued to show the photograph to Joe and lecture on the superlative merits of her classmate. In her letters to Louise she eulogized Joe.

All this was preliminary to her subtle plans for a matchmaking.

In July the correspondence had become so cordial in its exchanges that Joe felt at perfect liberty to slip away to a night train and go to Flaming, Ind. He told the Lesters an elaborate lie about going to Indianapolis to settle a tax claim against some property left to him by his uncle. Miss Louise Rhodes, having been advised of his coming, told her parents an unblushing falsehood to the effect that she had become well acquainted with Mr. Barnett while she was attending the seminary in Ohio.

That day at Flaming settled it. They strolled under the maples and went driving along a winding creek road, an ardent Flaming couple in the front seat and the overhanging boughs sweeping the canopy top of the Rhodes family carriage.

They sat side by side in the big dining room while State Senator Rhodes, at the head of the table, ordered the timid hired girl to deliver immense portions of spring chicken to the young man from Chicago.

From that time on the developments came with the rush of closing chapters in a novel. Joe wrote almost daily, and after an interval of two weeks he was called to Indianapolis to settle another tax claim. On the occasion of his second visit to Flaming he proposed, but he was not definitely accepted, with the full consent of the state senate, until he had paid a third visit.

All this time he was pretending to be carelessly indifferent to the photograph in the Lester flat, and Louise Rhodes, in her letters to Mrs. Lester, sometimes mentioned that she would be glad to meet Mr. Barnett, having read so much about him.

Last week the Flaming girl came to Chicago for the long delayed visit.

Joe had been advised that the photograph girl was coming. He appeared at the flat promptly at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Lester, fluttering with importance, met him at the door.

Joe did not wait to be welcomed. He slammed his hat and coat on the rack, rushed into the parlor and then and there threw his arms around Louise Rhodes and kissed her.

Mrs. Lester shrieked and then tottered over against an armchair, actually faint with terror. She thought that Joe had gone stark, staring mad.

There had to be an immediate explanation, but it did not satisfy Mrs. Lester. She said the two of them were no better than the people who go to matrimonial agencies or put alimony "personals" into obscure weekly papers. She was shocked beyond expression and did not fully forgive them until they had pleaded for at least five minutes.—Chicago Record.

William Morris as a Socialist.
Mr. Joseph Pennell, writing in the London Daily Chronicle, records the following incident: I remember seeing William Morris one Sunday afternoon walking up Parliament street. A meeting was being held in the square. I now forget entirely what it was about, but the people holding it had made up their minds to march to Westminster abbey, with a vague idea probably that when they got there they might do something. Suddenly an enormous crowd began to pour out of the square down Parliament street—a black, solid, muddy mass, for it was a wet, wintry day. On they came, with a sort of irresistible force, which really frightened one looking on as a spectator. And right in front—among the red flags, singing with all his might "The Internationale"—was William Morris. He had the face of a crusader, and he marched with that big stick of his as the crusaders must have marched.

One turned round and went with the crowd, which, when it got to the abbey, seemed half inclined to smash the windows, but those at the head of it were switched off and passed into Poots' corner, there to sit down and be preached to, while the others, who could not get in, were addressed by Canon Rawlinson outside. But what was so curious was to find this artist—like another Corboto—leading a crowd who really did not know what they wanted to do. However, had this crowd determined to destroy, to tear down even a stone of the abbey or to break a window, I think, instead of William Morris leading them a step farther, that they would only have taken that step over his body. I am not so sure what would have happened had the crowd marched against St. Paul's, for Morris hated the one sort of work as much as he loved the other.—St. James Gazette.

A woman's happiness comes true if they are not all destroyed by ill-health; sickness is the touch at which happiness bursts like a bubble. A sick woman cannot be a happy wife or mother. More marriages and homes are wrecked by the wife's physical weakness than by any other cause. Diseases incident to the delicate and intricate, feminine organism need the skilled treatment of an experienced specialist. Average doctors have not the opportunity to acquire the necessary special knowledge and skill. Dr. R. V. Pierce, for a thirty years chief consulting physician at the "Invalids' Hotel" and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has devoted a lifetime to the treatment of these delicate complaints, and his "Favorite Prescription" is the most successful medicine ever devised for women.

James Caswell, Esq., of Ocheltree, Johnson Co., Kans., (P. O. Box 61), writes: "My wife was troubled with prolapsus or 'femal weakness' for several years. She was not able to do her work, she had such bearing down pains, and pain in the back. Her periods were irregular, varying all the way from two to six weeks. At those times she would have fainting spells so bad that she could not live. She was attended by the best doctors in the country. They did her no good, and she grew worse all the time. I picked up one of your advertisements and thought I would try your medicine. Before my wife had taken one bottle she seemed better; so I got her another. By the time she had taken four bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and two of the 'Pleasant Pellets' she was completely cured. No more pain. Her monthly periods are regular now and she is stout and strong. She weighs 105 lbs."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the liver, stomach and bowels. By druggists.

As a matter of fact, he said reflectively it is only recently that men have begun to treat their wives like dogs.

You astonish me! she exclaimed. I did not suppose such a thing was possible under the conditions of civilization.

It is civilization that makes it possible he replied shortly.

Then all that I have read upon the subject in history must be wrong, she asserted.

On the contrary, history is right. But all that I have seen is to the effect that men treat the wives better now than ever before.

Unquestionably. But there never was a time when they did not treat their dogs well.

FREE TO EVERY MAN.

THE METHOD OF A GREAT TREATMENT FOR WEAKNESS OF MEN.

WHICH CURED HIM AFTER EVERYTHING ELSE FAILED.

Painful diseases are bad enough, but when a man is slowly wasting away with nervous weakness, the mental forebodings are ten times worse than the most severe pain. There is no let up to the mental suffering day or night. Sleep is almost impossible and under such conditions men are sensibly responsible for what they do. For years the writer rolled and tossed on the troubled bed of sexual weakness until it was a question whether he had not better take a dose of poison and thus end all his troubles. But providential inspiration came to his aid in the shape of a combination of medicines that not only completely restored the general health, but enlarged his weak, emaciated parts to natural size and vigor, and he now declares that any man who will take the trouble to send his name and address may have the method of this wonderful treatment free. Now when I say free I mean absolutely without cost, because I want every weakened man to get the benefit of my experience.

I am not a philanthropist, nor do I pose as an altruist, but there are thousands of men suffering the mental tortures of weakened manhood who would be cured at once could they but get such remedy as the one that cured me. Do not try to study out how I can afford to pay these postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it, and learn that there are a few things on earth that cannot be paid for. Write to Thomas Slater, Box 88, Kalamazoo, Mich., and the information will be mailed in a plain sealed envelope.

The house thereupon went into executive session and soon after adjourned until 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION OF THE HOUSE. Promptly at 2 p. m. the house was called to order by the speaker.

Clerk Holt, of the council, communicated to the house the fact that council joint memorial No. 1 had passed the body indicated, and the favorable action of the house was solicited therein.

The speaker was authorized to appoint a committee of three to confer with the secretary of the territory and also with the president of the council regarding the provision of a proper repository for the safe keeping of the papers of the chief clerk. The speaker named Messrs. Sena, Cristman and Ortiz as such committee.

The house then adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Legislative Notes.

Ex-Senator George W. Friedrich, of White Oaks, was on the floor of the council this morning.

Hon. T. D. Burns, capitalist, politician and philosopher, arrived from Tierra Amarilla this morning.

Petitions against the division of Dona Ana county are being circulated at Las Cruces and very generally signed.

Geo. Hicks Emanuel, one of the brightest colored men in the west, politician and law student, is here on business. He's from Gallup!

Miss Natalie Stoner, one of Las Vegas' amiable young ladies, came over from there last evening and has accepted a position as type-writer in the legislature.

"All political questions are to be disposed of at the opening of the session and the remainder will be devoted to business legislation," says a Santa Fe dispatch to the Associated Press.

Rev. Craig, of Santa Fe, was elected as chaplain of the territorial council. He owes his election to Mrs. Thomas P. Gable, who is a much more successful politician than the popular postmaster of Santa Fe—Albuquerque Citizen.

Hon. Larkin G. Read, of Santa Fe, enjoys the pleasing distinction of having introduced the first bill and made the first speech in the house. Hon. Max Luna, of Valencia county, rejoined, in the good natured debate that ensued, that he hoped that there would not be a "deluge of bills."

Secretary D. C. Hobart, of the territorial board of equalization, left last night for his home at Silver City. Mr. Hobart is much gratified over the record made by the board. Its total expenses for the two years was $672, which is nearly $200 below the expenses of the board for the previous two years.

Major Thomas Hughes, who represents Bernillo county in the council, was observed early this morning going over the frosty "Summit" of Baldy on a "Gallup." That new county delegation is supposed to have had something to do with the agility with which the major jumped from peak to peak—but he kept his footing.

Hon. R. E. Twitchell is on hand as usual. His genial smile and never exhausted fund of anecdote and stories have given him the name of the "Chansey M. Depew of the New Mexico Bar"—at least Col. Riley says so. Major Twitchell is popularity itself with sixteen members of the legislature. There are various reasons for this. Verb sap., rooms 48 and 50, Palace hotel. No admittance except on business.

In the Optic, Rev. J. H. Defoori, formerly of Santa Fe, speaking of needed legislation, writes: "Alas! I have little time to give to the consideration of this subject, but it seems to me that laws should be passed to help the various counties of the territory to get over their financial troubles. I see corporations going into the hands of receivers to straighten their business; private firms do the same with success, perhaps that remedy might help counties."

It is really a pleasure to see the interest which the Hon. J. H. Riley takes in New Mexico affairs notwithstanding the fact of his being a citizen of Colorado. There is little doubt that the fine Hibernian hand of Col. Riley pulled the wires which made Col. Llewellyn speaker. Col. Riley is the right hand man of the "Mark Huxley of New Mexico legislature" and much of the success of the great interests he represents is due to the Machiavellian methods of this past master in the art of politics and policy.

Says the Albuquerque Democrat: The organization of the legislature has been without the least friction and the proceedings have been unusually quiet and business-like. This result was brought about in the main by the compromise heretofore mentioned, by the careful work of Secretary Miller, Senators Fall, Curry and Duncan, of the Democrats, and Senators Hughes, Martin and Chavez, of the Republicans.

The territory is to be kept quiet and the success of such men, who are willing to sacrifice all party ends to attain the best results for the taxpayers of the territory.

Regular meeting of Carleton post G. A. R. at 7:30 sharp. Visiting comrades cordially invited.

U. S. weather bureau forecast for New Mexico: Fair to-night and Thursday; slowly rising temperature.

Coal oil sells in El Paso at 15 cents a gallon. In Santa Fe it costs twice that much and it isn't a very good grade of oil either.

Edwin J. Adams, of Monte Vista, Colo., and Miss Nellie Freckle, who passed through Santa Fe last night, were joined in marriage at the Lead Avenue Methodist church parsonage, Albuquerque, on Monday afternoon, by Rev. Welch.

It leaks out at this late date that Geo. A. Foley, late chief clerk at the A. T. & S. F. depot, and Miss Lillian Smith, the pretty milliner from Kansas formerly employed at Gusdorf & Dolan's, were joined in marriage here some three months ago. Who the officiating clergyman was, however, deponent saith not. Mr. and Mrs. Foley are now residing at Thatcher, Colo., where Mr. Foley is A. T. & S. F. agent.

A St. Louis press dispatch recites that Sanford Murray, an old man, exhausted from lack of food, was picked up on the streets of that city on Monday and taken to a hospital. He said he formerly had plenty of money and "claims to have built the capitol at Santa Fe." Inquiry here, however, develops no one who knew a man by this name who even had employment on the capitol work.

Passengers from the south say that an unusual storm prevailed all day Sunday at El Paso, Deming and Lordsburg. At El Paso the mercury dropped from 68 to 38 degrees Sunday night and a heavy snow fell Sunday afternoon. On the Southern Pacific road four inches of snow fell at Dragon pass, and trains ran through a "mud storm" all the way from Lordsburg to El Paso. Health-seekers down that way should come up to Santa Fe where the climatic conditions are never subjected to such erratic spasms.

THE DISTRICT COURT.

Forecible Entry and Detainer Action in Matter of Carley-Aranda Gold Mine in Progress.

In the territorial district court, Judge Laughlin presiding, the case of Bruno Nieto, Portino Nieto, Sostino Nieto and Nicholas S. Montoya, claiming to be the discoverers of the remarkably rich Carley-Aranda gold strike at San Pedro, defend ants in the action of forcible entry and detainer brought by Robert M. Carley, Pablo Aranda and Manuelito Aranda, is still on trial before a jury with a prospect that it will not be concluded until to-morrow. Judges Warren and Downs represent the plaintiffs and Marcos D. de Beas the defendants. This case may eventually decide the title to the alleged bonanza, the defendants holding that Carley and the Arandas illegally took possession of their location.

As to Hack Fares. Santa Fe, Jan. 19.—I notice in your issue an agreement signed by the owners of the several hack lines of the city to the effect that they have made a combine or trust to regulate hack fare in the city and from the depots. In this connection I would call your attention to the fact that this is going a step backward—as from 1880 to 1885 or thereabouts—when hack fare was $2 per 100 pounds, hay at $20 per ton and oats at from $2 to $2.50 per 100 pounds and work and labor at least 100 per cent in advance of present prices, hack fare to all depots each way was only 50 cents. Now, when oats and corn are selling for only $1 per 100 pounds and hay at $10 per ton, the price of hack fare is raised to the price of ten or fifteen years ago. This seems to me not consistent with fair play to the public and the stranger within our gates. Now suppose the city council should raise the license 100 per cent, and take it into their heads to form a combine in the interest of the public and pass an ordinance regulating hack fares, as in other cities, commensurate with the service rendered—what then?

OUR MINERAL OUTPUT.

An Important Duty Assigned to Don H. Kedzie by the Director of the Mint.

A personal request from Don H. Kedzie, of the Lordsburg Liberal, directed to the New Mexican, has been received, asking that the names of mine owners at the various camps of Santa Fe and adjacent counties be forwarded to him, to enable him to get reports from the mines of this section. By request of the director of the mint Mr. Kedzie has undertaken the task of gathering the mining statistics of the territory for the past year, and to those who know Mr. Kedzie's faithfulness to a duty it is an assured fact that the work will be well done. The New Mexican will cheerfully comply with the request and would suggest to all parties receiving blanks to faithfully and truthfully fill them out, that the true production of minerals may be shown in mint statistics for the past year.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

For governor of New Mexico, L. Bradford Prince, the best hustler the territory ever had, says the Albuquerque News.

Mr. Silas Alexander, of Socorro, is kept busy these days keeping tab on several politicians about the capital who are inclined to dispute his claims on a cushioned chair over in the historic palace.

Col. Richard Hudson, of Silver City, whose friends declare him to be pretty sure of being struck by official lightning from Washington sometime about November, 1898, when Charlie Shannon quits, is hobnobbing with the "politicos" to-day.

Report bath it that Mr. Miguel A. Otero, of Las Vegas, has been doing a great deal of effective work in securing about during the past few days, and has made marked progress toward building a pole long enough to tap that particular political persimmon which he seeks and which will be in sight when the present worthy occupant, Hon. E. L. Hall, has served out his full term.

Hon. E. S. Stover, of Albuquerque, who has been in the city for the past few days attending the sessions of the bureau of immigration, is a candidate for the position of collector of internal revenue for district of New Mexico and Arizona. Gov. Stover has a record second to none as a Republican and his army record in the late war will give him quite a start in the race for the position.
