THURSDAY, MARCH 18.

Last day, gentlemen, and the militia warrant sharks were not "in it."

Nor a single bad or improper bill has become law during the present session of the assembly.

The country seems to be getting on right well without Grover Cleveland. Strange, but true.

To the Thirty-second legislative assembly: "Face thee well, and if forever, still forever, face thee well."

From all appearances Mr. McKinley is boss and no other fellow is doing anything in the bossing line so far.

Orto is not as much in the swim in the matter of appointments as Ohio expected, and the country at large is not grumbling.

If Mr. McKinley has no objections, several men in New Mexico would like to fill federal appointments in this territory as soon as possible.

The great European powers are ready and willing to give Crete exactly what Crete does not want, and there is the row for you.

Even Senator Pitchfork Tillman, of South Carolina, praises President McKinley. Who says the age of miracles is past and gone?

If any person aggrieved, desires to fight the law, providing for the compilation of the laws, in the courts, let him step forth and do it.

Civil service as applied under the Grover Cleveland regime was a fake. The present administration should make a change for the better.

From all indications the coming four years will be years of improvement, prosperity and progress in New Mexico. They can not come any too soon.

The free silver Republicans propose to fight it out on the free silver issue for the coming four years. They may wage a forlorn battle. The future will tell.

Mr. Cleveland's many extensions of the civil service law have made that law odious and ridiculous. It is to be hoped that Mr. McKinley will look upon it in the same light.

The Hon. James J. Corbett and the Hon. Robert Fitzsimmons have pummeled each other, much to the delight of many spectators. And now please give us a rest for awhile.

The present national administration is proving to the country that it is not an iridescent dream but a living and strong reality, and that's doing pretty well considering that it is but two weeks old.

The appropriation bill as passed cuts down appropriations from the law of two years ago over $30,000 per annum. Not a bad showing this, and one for which the assembly is to be commended.

Records of doings and acts in the last campaign are bothering some of New Mexico's applicants for office just now and will keep on bothering them. "The evil that men do, doth live after them."

Despite all evil and criticism by a few interested parties in the territory, the fact remains that the Thirty-second legislative assembly has done right well, both by acts of commission and omission.

SENATOR HOAR is trying to put a stop to talking in the U. S. senate. Even so grave and reverend a senator as Mr. Hoar is none too old to learn and let's hope he will learn how to stop the floods of talk that occur annually in the senate.

Business conditions all over the country are improving and with the passage of a sensible tariff measure this improvement will be steady and continuous. The Fifty-fifth congress should enact that much desired and long wished for tariff bill.

The great powers of Europe are just now amusing themselves with massing large bodies of troops and assembling great navies. Costs money to be sure, but what do the crowned heads care? They are not taxpayers.

GOVERNOR THORNTON did a wise thing yesterday when he returned that substitute for H. B. No. 59. Had this measure become law, the sale of liquor at the time of general elections, would have very soon convinced the people of its pernicious possibilities.

Licenses is license, and all very well in its place. It is out of place, however, when it permits the sale of large quantities of liquor at the time of a general election, as provided for in a bill passed during the session of 1891, which went to the governor yesterday. He promptly vetoed this pernicious measure, and in so doing performed a valuable service to the people of New Mexico.

House bill No. 124 in regard to the holding of normal institutes and giving county superintendents of schools certain powers, passed this forenoon. It is a measure of very doubtful utility, and it is hoped that Governor Thornton will treat it to a pocket veto. The measure deserves such a fate.

The Thirty-second legislative assembly did a rushing business today in passing bills. The bill providing for new code of procedure in the courts passed the house, having passed the council some time since. The members of the bar of New Mexico were somewhat divided upon the question, but a majority of them were in favor of a code, simplifying the practice. The bill passed in the house by a vote of 19 to 3.

A PERNICIOUS MEASURE.

Governor Thornton yesterday exercised his veto power for the first time during the legislative session to close this evening. It was a council substitute for council bill No. 59, An act to amend chapter nine of the laws of the Twenty-ninth legislative assembly of the territory of New Mexico, approved February 2, 1891, entitled: An act licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors, and to amend chapter 37 of the laws of the Thirty-first legislative assembly of the territory approved February 17, 1893, relative to gaming.

The reasons given by the governor for vetoing the measure, are entirely logical, and will appeal strongly to any unprejudiced man who is willing to view the situation as it really exists. In the position which he has assumed, Gov. Thornton will have the unqualified approval of all who have the good of the territory at heart. He says that, if this substitute were to prevail, the effect would be to increase the number of saloons and gambling houses in the territory. Not only this but under its provisions a saloon might be opened in the various precincts from 60 to 90 days prior to the general election, and intoxicants sold in large quantities, at a time when the communities are laboring under great excitement, thus leading to local disturbances, demoralization, and the commission of crime.

It requires no prophet to realize that the effect of this measure, were it to become law, would be exactly as outlined above by the governor in his veto message. In the face of this, who will have the hardihood to argue that it would be wise or just to enact such a law. In setting upon this pernicious measure the mark of his disapproval, Governor Thornton has performed a distinct service for the people of the whole territory, who will not be slow to recognize this action and render a due sense of appreciation therefor.

A UNIQUE EXPEDITION.

A few days since, a small brig sailed out of San Francisco harbor, bearing the strangest expedition ever formed by men presumably sane. This expedition was made up of exactly 99 men bound together as the United Brotherhood of the South Seas, and actuated solely by a spirit of adventure. The objective point of the brotherhood is Leouka, one of the Fijie group of islands via Honolulu and Sura. This band of adventurers incorporated under the laws of California as a stock company, sold stock enough to charter and stock a vessel and then sailed away to unknown shores. They propose to purchase land of the islanders for a colony, strenuously denying the charge that they are upon conquest bent. The idea originated with one Bernhardt who read an article in a newspaper stating that there existed a dearth of husbands on one of those south sea islands, but plenty of women who would pay handsomely for mates. His idea was to furnish husbands for these lonely females and he opened an office forthwith. Gradually the expedition was diverted from its original intention, and assumed the shape in which it recently sailed away.

The member are all over 30 and under 50. Every trade is represented with the exception of shoemaker. There is one German doctor of ripe scholarship, and a lawyer who graduated some years since from Harvard college.

The commander of the brig is a capable man of wide experience, but no member of the strange band has ever visited the island where it is proposed to start a colony. The members were selected with great care to the end that no idle or dissolute characters should get into the expedition. No member could purchase less than $100 worth of stock, and from the money so obtained an excellent equipment was procured.

A TARIFF ON WOOL.

The proposition for a wool schedule, to be rushed through as an emergency measure, for the purpose of checking the importation of wool and woolen goods, until the enactment of a regular tariff bill is possible, is an excellent idea, and is meeting with deserved support in the house of representatives. The pinch will come when it reaches the senate, but it is hoped that the bill may be put through that body, taking effect from the day of enactment, and therefore stopping the foreign importation of this staple, until a regular tariff measure can be passed. Such a bill is necessary at this time, for it is a generally recognized fact, that the proposed tariff legislation will require weeks for consummation, perhaps months. Unless a special wool measure is put through at once, importers will improve this time by making importations enough to deprive the government of revenue on wool, for at least a year after the new bill goes into effect. It is this possibility, or more correctly speaking probability (for the importers will not miss an opportunity to make a dozen fortunes on an oversight of government) that makes the measure now under consideration imperative. Should it fail, the government will be the loser by large sums of money, and the wool industry will suffer to a vast amount.

TERRITORIAL COMMENT.

Leading Questions as Treated by the Territorial Papers.

Keep Your Temper.

Santa Fe, as usual wants everything in sight in the appropriations bill. And the chances are that it will get what it wants.—Albuquerque Citizen.

It Looks That Way.

The capital removal bill failed to pass. The Albuquerque News thinks that the proposition which is brought up for consideration for changing the seat of territorial government is simply a bunco game to work Albuquerque suckers for money. It looks that way.—San Juan Times.

Thinks It Will be Foster.

The appointment of a governor for New Mexico will be made very soon now. It is confidently expected in this portion of the territory that Judge E. C. Foster will be the man. He is undoubtedly has a stronger support for the position than any other man who has been mentioned for the office.—San Juan Times.

Col. Hudson the Man.

Col. Dick Hudson appears to stand a pretty good chance for appointment to the office of collector of internal revenue for the district of New Mexico and Arizona. He has a magnificent line of endorsements which he will present personally to the powers at Washington in a few days.—Silver City Independent.

The Assembly Has Made a Good Record.

The legislature will adjourn tomorrow after having been in session for 60 days. The personnel of this legislature is above the average of our legislatures for the past 12 or 15 years, and it must be said to the credit of the legislators that there have been no bad measures passed. The members of both houses have been cautious and have not tried to see how many bills could be passed in the 60 days of the session, but have rather tried to pass only meritorious measures.—Silver City Eagle.

WITH THE PARAGRAPHERS.

Salient Questions of the Day. As Treated by Metropolitan Papers.

Carrying the Fake Too Far.

It is now discovered that Mr. Cleveland's extraordinary interpretation of the civil service law deprives even cabinet officers of the selection of confidential assistants. Certainly this is in contravention of the spirit if not the letter of the statute.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Tariff and the Farmers.

Altogether, the new tariff is likely to benefit American farmers and agricultural interests of this country as much as any other industry of the United States, and in almost every instance the benefit will come about without any injury, but rather with benefit to other American industries.—Boston Advertiser.

An Imperial Fool.

In a recent speech the German emperor referred to Bismark and Von Moltke as mere creatures of his grandfather's will. This is something he would not have dared to say while his grandfather was alive. The old emperor placed a different estimate on the men who aided him to build up the German empire.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Dead Loss."

The official salary of Vice President Hobart is $10,000. Mr. Hobart, upon taking office, resigned positions and connections paying him probably five times the amount of this salary, and he assumed social functions that will increase his expenses about ten times. In a pecuniary way, the election of Mr. Hobart has been a "dead loss" to him.—Newark Advertiser.

Facts and Figures.

For the four years 1889 to 1893 the decrease of net debt was $265,070,275. From July 1, 1893, to this date the increase of net debt has been $264,483,219. In other words, the Harrison administration by paying off debt left the surplus cash in the treasury at $49,000,000. The Cleveland administration increased the cash by borrowing it, and $264,000,000 more.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Less and Better Government.

Artificial remedies will never cure the evils which afflict America today. A reduction of the number of offices, with a radical reduction of the ratio of the sum of public expenditures to the sum of public resources, will eventually be found to be one of the absolute essentials of progress.

NO MERCURY

No potash—no mineral—no danger—in S. S. S. This means a great deal to all who know the disastrous effects of these drugs. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed.

Purely Vegetable.

S. S. S. forces the disease out through the skin—does not dry up the poison to decay the bones, like mercurial mixtures do.

"I was almost a physical wreck, the result of mercurial treatment for blood poisoning. S. S. S. is a real blood remedy. It cured me permanently." J. E. Smith, 1248 South Ninth Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Books free; address, Swift Specific Co., Atlanta.

parity. There must be less government and better government, or the burden of taxation will make the plain citizen into the earth. The true patriot and the genuine statesman will find herein a great field for usefulness.—Galveston News.

Alleged in Illinois Politics.

Alleged's one idea in politics, aside from alleged, is silver. He seems to be possessed with the queer notion that Chicago, which passed judgment by 50,000 majority against his egregious blunder last year, is now consumed with anxiety to approve that blunder. The man is wrecking the Democratic party in the city and state. He has done it more harm in four years than it suffered during 30 years of Republican supremacy.—Chicago Journal.

The Individuality of the President.

It will be noticed by those studying the situation that the individuality of the president is prominent. The extra session is his act. The Wolcott bimetallic mission received its importance from his co-operation and sympathy and fair interpretation of the St. Louis platform. Each member of the cabinet is representative of one of his ideas, if not his ideals. The policy of friendliness toward congress is especially that of the president, and he gave it consequence in his vindication in his inaugural address of congress against sensitive "business" in excellent temper and taste, and has made a profound impression, doing much to give the people confidence in their government. The Democratic walks and plain talks of the president do good, because they declare him a man of the people without affectation, and there is no abatement of dignity in his marble face, lit up with keen, deep eyes, when he responds cordially to the respectful salutes that greet him.—Murat Halstead, in Brooklyn Standard-Union.

THE SEVENTH Beet Sugar factory in the United States was erected at Eddy, New Mexico, in 1896, and made its first "campaign," beginning November 15th, 1896, and closing February 15th, 1897.

THE CONTENT OF "SUGAR in the beet" of the crop grown in the Eddy and Roswell sections of the valley has proven to be more uniformly high than any other part of the United States.

FORTUNATELY the land is blessed with just the fertility to produce high grade beets, and

MORE FORTUNATELY the Pecos

Irrigation and Improvement Co. and the Roswell Land and Water Co. have an irrigation system of great magnitude, covering a vast body of the BEST SUGAR BEET lands on earth. The water is applied to the crop WHEN NEEDED.

124 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not assured until May, and a majority of the acreage was planted between JUNE 1st and AUGUST 10th.

GOOD SOIL makes the seed germinate.

WATER makes the plant grow.

SUNLIGHT puts the sugar in the BEET.

THE ONLY THING left to be desired that the Pecos Valley has not on hand in abundance is PEOPLE. We need thrifty farmers; 500 heads of families each on a 40-acre farm.

NO FAIRER terms or conditions of sale of beet and fruit lands were ever made.

Wanted A Pointer.
Maid of Athens, ere we part Tell me, from your heart Which wheel do you think the best—Which one knocks out all the rest?

A Piece of Parchment.
When unwritten on, is not more colorful than the cadaverous countenances of those unfortunate persons whom we are accustomed to call "confirmed invalids." What a misnomer! Inspiring, too, is the giving up for lost! As long as the vitalizing power of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be felt, and that is possible so long as there is no absolute collapse of the faculties, fresh vitality can be infused into wasted, feeble frames; color and flesh can be brought back to wasted, pallid cheeks with this grand sheet anchor of the debilitated and the sickly.
It is a tonic of the greatest potency and the utmost purity, and a remedy for preventive of dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, rheumatism, nervous and kidney complaints. Appetite and sleep are easily aided by its invigorating, tonic effects of indigestion, or excitement, and nullifies the often perilous consequences of exposure in inclement weather or damp clothing.

Hard Luck.
Mamma—No, Johnny, one piece of pie is quite enough for you.
Johnny—It's funny, you say you are

Of a mean Welsh rabbit dream.

Her Faithful Vows.
Before a girl is married she says she is willing to live on a desert island with her loved one.
Of course; any real woman would feel that way.
Yes; and after she is married she has to have her mother and sisters with her all the time.

Notice to Contractors.
Sealed proposals will be received by the board of trustees and the city engineer, in Las Vegas, N. M., until the 17th day of April, A. D. 1907, at 12 o'clock noon, for the erection of the addition to the New Mexican asylum to be constructed according to and under the conditions named in the plans and specifications prepared by I. H. and W. M. Rapp, architects of Las Vegas, N. M., which will be open to the inspection at their office. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check of 5 per cent of the amount of the bid, such check payable to the order of the board of trustees, as a guarantee that the contractor will enter into a contract for construction at his bid, if the same is accepted, and will give satisfactory bond for the performance of his contract, as provided in the plans and specifications. A successful bidder failing to give bond will forfeit the check. The board of trustees may look to the whole work, or on the whole and any part, or on separate parts only, according to the classification in the specifications. Contractors will be required to keep the building free from liens, and to see that all laborers and sub-contractors and material men are paid before receiving last payment. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

THE YOUNG TENOR.

I woke. The harbored melody Had crossed the slumber bar And out upon the open sea Of consciousness arose.
So soft the silver sound and clear Outriggered the dream again.
That silence seemed a listener O'erleaping with delight The slender moon, a finger tip Upon the portal of her lip.
—John B. Tabb in Century.

HARD WATER.

"Tha'll live to rue it."
"Well, Aw cannot go again my feel-in's. Aw cannot help not lovin' thee."

"Naw, an tha' cannot help lovin' somebody else, can ta? Tha'll live to rue it, Aw tell thee, an so will that hupstart thee'seet thy heart on—mind that."

The girl addressed blushed faintly, but did not hang her head. Rather she lifted it, with a proud look which, despite her working shawl, plain black hat and somewhat pasty white complexion—the common heritage of mill girls—lent something queenly to her whole appearance.

Had you seen Rachel Swann on Sunday as she walked, with her Bible and hymnbook, to the Methodist Sunday school to teach her class you would scarcely have known her. Dressed in the latest style—or the latest that had percolated to the provinces—from the "tips" in her hat and the "fall" which expressed rather than hid her delicate features, to her neat little shoes, she looked, what she was, a lady. And had you seen her, at the chapel door after evening service, without ado or even greeting beyond a mutual look of satisfaction, meet a pleasant faced young man and walk away by his side, you would have been in possession of the secret—no secret now—that James Sumner, assistant cashier at Messrs. Peel's mill, and Rachel Swann were "keeping company."

Jim Sumner had started life as a half timber and little piece; but, naturally an intelligent lad and a great favorite with the schoolmaster, he had, in spite of the great disability of beginning to earn his living at 10, made such good use of his opportunities that he was early taken into the "office" and was not quite "looked up to" by right thinking folk as a man who "could addle (earn) his brass 'out takkin his coat (off)." Moreover, he was junior "chapel steward" at the Methodist chapel, and altogether a man any girl in that place might be proud to "keep company" with.

That Rachel was proud of her lover everybody knew. They had only "made it up" a short time ago and had walked in public less than a fortnight when the above conversation took place. The man —for such he considered himself—who threatened to "mak' her rue" was considerably older than herself, and an "overlooker" at the mill in which they all worked. He had long forced his attentions upon Rachel, who, while giving him no encouragement, had not absolutely repulsed him until she heard that he did a little private bookmaking among the youths and young men in the great mill. Until then she had regarded him as a decent fellow and shrank from hurting his feelings, hoping he would decent in time and give it up as a bad job. She did not know Jabez Smethurst.
He was the sort of man whose love can turn to bitter hate, and now, both against the girl and the man he deemed his suitor, his rage burned fiercely.

"Aw'm fair miserable at my work, Jim, now," said Rachel as she walked with her lover from his mother's cottage along the embankment of the great reservoir.

"Why, how's that, my lass? Aw thought tha' wur all reet now an gradely set up wi' four looms an an average in an 8 a' week," for, though Jim was an assistant cashier, he dropped, like his lady love, into his native Doric on all familiar occasions, "an tha' tow'd me that even thy cross grain'd owd aunt could speyk civil now."

"Aye, Aw was fain enuf, Jim, but—Eh, lad, Aw can hardly tell yu, Aw've kept it to mysel' for days, but Aw cannot bear it no longer. Th' overlooker's ta'en one o' my looms off me an says he'll tak' another if Aw don't mend my work."

"Dost mean Jabez Smethurst? Aw'll see that reet, ne'er heed, Rachel." And as they had passed the railway station, which stood at the upper end of the reservoir and were in a somewhat secluded place he put his arm around her waist, drew her to him and kissed her fondly.

"Say now, Jim, it'll do no good.
Gaffer thinks weel o' Jabez. He hearten'd to him as if Jabez knew everything an him nowt. An it does look as if my work was bad, for he gives me such bad sorts at Aw can on'y do half what g'thers can, an my aunt says who'll be the key o' th' street if Aw cannot add more nor a little ween. It's piece-work, tha' know."

"Aye, well, ne'er heed, my lass. Kis-ma'll soon be here, an we'll get wad as soon as th' New Yr' comes in. Aw'm gettin' 43 a week now, an Aw'm promised a rise wi' th' New Yr'."

A month had passed. Poor Jim! All his fair hopes seemed blighted. Bromley Bro's, a firm in the neighborhood with whom Messrs. Peel occasionally did business, in checking their bankbook found themselves debited with an amount paid by check to Peel & Co., for which they could find no corresponding item in Peel's account, and on making inquiry from them, found that there was no account of its receipt in their cashbook, nor did such an account appear to have been paid in the usual way to their credit at the bank. Evidently a check had been drawn and paid of which the books of neither firm had any record. It was a sum under $10. But as the youth who ran between the mill and the bank in the declining town of Black-brook appeared so uncomplacated to transact such a fraud, and as Jim Sumner was immediately responsible for the current cash of the firm, he was held to be morally responsible, if not actually criminal, and, according to the immortal custom of the firm, "had to go." Poor Jim! He did not wait to meet his chapel folks and intimates. He just kissed his widowed mother, who would not have believed "ovt again" Jim" on the testimony of an archangel, and went out into the frosty air, straight to the station and away to a town 80 miles distant, to make a fresh start. His sweetheart was still in the mill. He ought, of course, to have waited for her and told her. But he didn't. He would write. She would learn soon enough.

The village would buzz with the news as though the new "hooter" had proclaimed it by nightfall. And it did.
There were girls who seemed glad to tell Rachel, and when she flared up and said:

"Yo' know as well as Aw do'tat Jim ne'er did it," they only replied:
"Well, he's ta'en his hook, at any rate. Yo' Aunt Bet seed him goo an says 'good riddance to bad rubbidge.' She doesn't seem to think as weel o' Jimmie as her niece does." What could Rachel say? She went home with rage in her heart against her aunt, and something like resentment against her lover for hastening away without a word to the girl who could have died for him. Ah, little did she think, yet even now a dead misery had taken possession of her.

"Well, Miss Prondie, an how's thy fine gentleman nae?" (Aunt Bet's own lad had had hopes of the "office" once, but had turned out a wastrel; hence her bitterness.) "Aw thout wot it 'ud be.
Some folk can't stand gettin up i' th' world. Pridle'll hev a fa', an thy whyp-persnapper's come a cropper, at any rate."

In tongue warfare Rachel was no where. Besides Aunt Bet wasn't worth answering. Then, that very day, the overlooker had threatened to reduce her to two looms and had humbled her so terribly before the other weavers that all the spirits seemed clean gone out of her. She went to bed, but not to sleep.

The "knocker up" had an easy task next morning. That day was the blackest of many black ones during the past few weeks, and now no lover's comfort awaited her. Everything went wrong.
The stuff wouldn't weave. Her looms seemed bewitched. The overlooker overlooked with a vengeance.

"Yo'll start on two looms to-morn," he said. "Think on that! Aw've lots a' wenches o' 14' at weave better nor thee an doo more wad on two looms 'an tha' com o' three."

It was the last straw. She dare not face Aunt Bet and her sneers.
"Oh, Jim, Jim," was the cry of her heart, "why couldn't you say a word to me?" For when her heart spoke it cried for Jim, and not for looms. Coming out of the hot mill it was bitter cold. She drew her shawl over her head and hurried away—not to the place she called "home." She scarcely knew where she went. A hopeless despair weighed on her sensitive spirit. Tears, unchecked and unheeded, dropped as she walked.

"Anywhere, anywhere, out of the world!" would have been her exclamation could she have expressed her deepest wish. Suddenly she found herself on the top of the reservoir embankment.
The moon was shining upon the water, which sparkled and shone with a crystalline brilliance.

"There's nowt left to live for, an I won't live!" and, casting her shawl from her, she threw herself from the embankment. There was a sharp, ringing sound. The moon shone on, and all was still.

"Now, Aw wonder what's come out about this money?" thought Jim Sumner as he struck the reservoir bank on his way from the station home. "Folks are fair to stay in to-mor, Aw reckon.
Aw'm glad nob'y'll see me till Aw've cleared myself—if clearin it is—and what can th' masters ha' taken th' trouble to get my address fro' mother—for no'dy else knew it—an telegraph for me to come instantly, if it's not? My owt th' frost has bin keen this two days!
Aw'll bet th' lodge'll bear." So saying, he ran down and tried it with his foot, and, finding it safe, walked a distance on the margin.

"What's that? Good heavens!" He had stumbled over the prostrate form of a woman lying a few feet from the embankment. The ice was starred in every direction where her head had struck it.
"Poor wench!" He turned her over, and the moon's light fell upon a face he had often kissed. He reeled as though he had received the blow that made the blood flow from that marble brow. How cold she was! But she breathed. He picked her up and carried her, he knew not how, up the bank and away till he staggered into his mother's cottage.

Could she be in better hands? Still unconscious, but with signs of returning animation, he left her and hastened to the mill. The lights still burned by the fire, and in the background sat the messenger and Jabez Smethurst.

"How d'y'e do, James—you got our wire?"

"I did, sir, thank you."

"Boy, tell us again what you told this morning." Whereupon the penitent lad, with fearful looks at Jabez, told how the overlooker had terrorized him about small betting debts; how, at his instigation, he had obtained a blank check from the office lad at Bromley's; how Jabez had filled it in, copying the writing from another of Bromley's checks; how he had presented it with the rest at the bank and got the cash.
The sequel was known and did not need recounting. Jabez swore it was a parcel of lies, but the boy's evident sincerity, and revelations of Jabez's bookmaking transactions and later Rachel's account of her rejection of his suit, and his subsequent threats and persecution, convinced the masters of Smethurst's guilt. They simply discharged him and ceased their consciousness of Jim's overhasty dismissal by raising his salary to $150 a year.

The folks who cheered a happy pair and pelted them with rice did not see a scar on the brow of the bride, for it was covered by her bridal veil.—Tit-Bits.

JAMES B. WALKER, Register.

Many a man will protect his money at the risk of his life. Thousands decide to protect their lives because it would require the sacrifice of a few dollars of their money. This seems almost incredible but it is true. Men feel and realize that the most relentless enemy of mankind, consumption, is slowly but surely creeping upon them. But in the mad race for money they refuse to stop and drive of the dread disease. It would require a sacrifice of both time and money and so they neglect it, until it is too late.
There is no excuse for this. A sure and quick remedy is at hand. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. It remedies all disorders of the digestion. It invigori-ates the liver. It makes new rich blood and builds up firm healthy flesh. It enters the blood and drives out all impurities, and acts directly upon the lungs driving out all disease germs. It builds sound vigorous lungs. Thousands have testified to their cure by this wonderful remedy after they were given up by the doctors and all hope was gone. Druggists sell it.

"I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and do recommend it every place I go," writes Mrs. J. D. Graves, of Salamanca, Kansas. "I had been a sufferer for sixteen years. When I find people who are afflicted I tell them what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for me. Twelve years ago I was given up by the doctors as incurable. I had consumption. I had hemorrhage of the lungs, night-sweats, and in fact I fully realized my condition. I begged of them to let me try the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and the result is, I still live and do lots of hard work."

Dr. Pierce's It is better to do nothing while the damage is slight,
than wait until the whole structure is ready to fall. Consumption is the one, all-embracing disorder that is responsible for many other diseases. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. Druggists sell them. They never gripe. One little "P. P." is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules.
Nothing else is just as good.
A permanent cure.

Battle Hymn.
We've the men, we've got the ships—
At least we think we've got 'em, For to the hour of going to press
No more had hit the bottom.

Beautiful Daughter, But Unkind.
Everybody says my daughter got here beauty from me. What do you say to that? That it was unkind of her to take it from you.

To Cure a Cold in One Day
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets.
All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25 cents.

A DROP AND A DROP.

Her Rebuke Was Slow In Coming, but It Got There.

"John!"
"Well, Mary?"
He knew that something was wrong and made up his mind to proceed with all due caution.

"The weather, John?"
"Not my fault, Mary," he interrupted.
"I know you don't like it, but I'm not making the weather this year."

He felt that he had made a first, but he did not deem it wise to exhibit unseemly jubilation over the fact until the game was finished.

"John!"
"My dear,"
He was meek now. There was something in her tone that made it seem advisable to be meek.

"This effort to be gay is not becoming under the circumstances, John." He knew that it wasn't, but he thought it best to keep silent.

"At no time since I have married you, John," she continued in the same solemn tone, "have I thought for a moment that your influence extended to the weather. In fact, I have had doubts at times as to your influence in your own county, town, ward, precinct and household."

This, of course, would be an aggravation to any politician, and John felt that he would explode in just about another minute if he did not get a good opportunity to say something, but he didn't get it—at least not then.

"I never have expected you to arrange the weather to suit my convenience," she went on. "Even in the 10 or 15 minutes following the marriage ceremony, when I thought much more highly of you than I ever have since, I did not anticipate that you ever would be able to attend to all the details of high and low barometer, but I did think, John,
