The Tariff Bill Thrown Open for Amendments This Morning in the House of Representatives Under the Five Minute Rule.

A STORMY WRANGLE OVER TRUSTS

Senate Adopts a Resolution to Print the U. S. Supreme Court Decision in the Transmissouri Traffic Association Case, Which Has Caused So Much Excitement Among the Railroads.

Washington, March 26.—The real consideration of the tariff bill began this morning, when the bill was thrown open for amendment under the five minute rule. Mr. Latham, Democrat of Texas, moved to strike out the enacting clause. Mr. Sherman, Republican of New York, in the chair ruled the motion out of order and Mr. Dockery, Democrat of Missouri, offered an amendment to the enacting clause in the nature of provisions, that whenever it was shown to the satisfaction of the president that there was a trust or combination to control the price of any article on the dutiable list, the duty on such article should be suspended. Mr. Dingley made a point of order that the amendment in effect was to the free list, and as the house was considering the dutiable list it was not in order. Mr. Sherman, Republican of New York, in the chair ruled the motion out of order and Mr. Dockery, Democrat of Missouri, offered an amendment to the enacting clause in the nature of provisions, that whenever it was shown to the satisfaction of the president that there was a trust or combination to control the price of any article on the dutiable list, the duty on such article should be suspended. Mr. Dingley made a point of order that the amendment in effect was to the free list, and as the house was considering the dutiable list it was not in order.

Mr. Cooper, Democrat of Texas, offered a substitute for the Dockery amendment, in substance to accomplish the same purpose, but containing a definition of the word trust, and a provision for the determination of its existence by the courts. "If you are so anxious to incorporate such a provision as this in the bill, why did you not insert it in the present law?" asked Mr. Tawney, Republican of Minnesota. "Trusts had not gone quite so far then," replied Mr. Cooper, Democrat of Tennessee, amid laughter. He challenged the other side, who ostensibly opposed trusts to aid in the adoption of the amendment. "I have before me," said he, "heard such an insincere objection to a just amendment."

Mr. Bailey made an extended argument, appealing to the majority, to aid in putting down these combinations, which "preyed upon the energies of the people," Mr. Hepburn, Republican of Louisiana, raised a laugh on the Democratic side, by saying that this amendment if adopted would defeat the purpose of the bill.

Mr. Bailey thanked Mr. Hepburn for his frank admission that the destruction of trusts would interfere with the purpose of the bill. "Oh no," said Mr. Hepburn, "I was trying to show that under the pretense of creating a trust, this legislation could be destroyed." "But could not the courts decide between a sham trust and a real trust?" asked Mr. Terry, Democrat of Arkansas. "If a trust could be created," replied Mr. Hepburn, "but shall the revenues of the country be destroyed because of the existence in violation of law of real trusts?" Mr. Simpson, Populist of Kansas, said he thought a majority were more concerned about the falling off of revenues of the treasury (Democratic applause). Mr. Grosvener, Republican of Ohio, declared there never was a time when trusts had the government and the people by the throat as in the last four years. The gentleman says that Democrats have been the protectors of trusts, interrupted Mr. Terry, Democrat of Arkansas. "Can he name the trust in the last campaign which was not on the side of President McKinley?" The chair ruled the Dockery amendment out of order and Dockery then appealed from the decision. The ruling was sustained by a vote of 158 to 104.

DIPLOMATIC SERVICE.
The president today nominated Edgar Thompson Scott of Pennsylvania to be second secretary of the embassy at Paris.

A MURDER INVESTIGATION.
The senate, in view of a great demand for it, today adopted a resolution to print the recent Supreme court decision on the Transmissouri Traffic association case. There was more discussion without result, of the alleged absurdities of the civil service system. Then after adopting a resolution inquiring for information regarding the killing of two sailors, Richardson and Bolton, at Santiago de Cuba, the senate went into executive session.

LETTER FROM HOPEWELL.

Latest Mining News from This Promising District—Work on Good Hope and Iron Mountain Claims.

Special Correspondence New Mexican.

Good Hope is snowed under worse than Corbett. Business has to be done all in snow shoes these days. Sixty people have wintered here, most of them miners who have had steady work on five claims, these have been worked all winter, three of them running day and night shifts.

Money has been plentiful and one store and a saloon have done a good business. The "Good Hope" claim has been run in about 400 feet and several lead quartz ore leads have been out. Messrs. Thomas and Miller, of Philadelphia, are opening up a bonanza on the "Mineral Point" claim. J. J. Pace, manager for the Iron Mountain company, has run a tunnel (in the hardest rock ever encountered in the camp) nearly half way through Iron Mountain, and while they have not yet reached the vein for which the tunnel was run, still a 14 foot vein of gold ore was cut. Blake & Newcomb have sunk a shaft 150 feet on the Cinnabar and Freeport claims, and have struck some of the rich ore that gave new life to this camp a year ago, it is 96 per cent free melting and runs $600. Esh & Co. have done great work in the "Little Mary" shaft, having found some fine ore. A town site has been laid out, and although the weather is a terror, a number of contracts have been let for buildings; an assayer has lately arrived in camp from Durango.

James L. Sterling and Lad Sterling, of Cleveland, expect to put in a small cruise mill in the spring in early summer on their patented claims in Eureka gulch. Forty thousand dollars in placer gold have been taken out of this Eureka gulch in a distance of a little over half a mile of digging. The gold is very coarse and a number of fine nuggets with the quartz attached have been found. One 34 penny weight nugget was taken out. Outside of the work done by G. W. Holdrege, manager of the Burlington railroad, and his Nebraska associates, and by Miller and Thomas nearly all the work has been done by Colorado parties and some Raton and Las Vegas capital. EUREKA.

TERRITORIAL NEWS.

Interesting Happenings from Different Parts of New Mexico.

Heavy frosts killed nearly all the early fruit in the Mesilla valley on the nights of March 21, 22, and 23. This will prove a heavy loss to the growers.

The Agricultural college at Las Cruces, and the experimental stations connected with it will receive about $28,000 from the National treasury this year.

Petitions for the removal of the county seat of Colfax county from Springer to Raton are in circulation, and 1,200 signatures have already been attached.

Victor Griego, a sheep herder, was killed by a freight train on the A. & P. two miles out of Albuquerque Wednesday morning. He was probably run down on the track while in a state of intoxication. He was aged about 30 years, and leaves a wife and two children.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson, of Trinidad, Colo., arrested two men, late Wednesday night, answering to the description of the men who murdered two Chinamen at Clayton, N. M., on Tuesday. The suspects gave their names as John Goods and W. O. Smalley.

The rush for the Red River country in Colfax and Taos counties is so great that the Denver & Gulf road has been compelled to increase its accommodations for passengers, and in a short time will put another passenger train from Denver to Vasquez.

John W. Owen, while hunting in the Jarilla mountains one day last week, "roped" a large mountain lion, which had been treed by his dogs, and strangled the beast to death. The lion measured nine feet, four inches from tip to tip and weighed fully 300 pounds.

The spring meeting of the Rio Grande Presbytery was held in Las Cruces on Tuesday and Wednesday. Rev. T. C. Beattie, of Albuquerque, was chosen moderator, and Rev. E. M. Penton, of Jemez, clerk. The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held in Albuquerque. Rev. S. E. Carruth, a Methodist minister holding special services in Las Cruces, delivered a discourse in the billiard room of a saloon in that town, last Saturday night. A large audience assembled in the room and gave the minister a quiet and respectful hearing throughout the sermon.

Down at Albuquerque there is a $10,000 dog lawsuit before the District court. Postmaster Grunsfeld owns a dog that makes himself at home in the postoffice, and one day he attacked and bit Mrs. Stella Metz, and the injured lady wants $10,000 for that one bite. Peculiar interest is added to the case by the fact that Mrs. Metz is a candidate for the position now held by Mr. Grunsfeld.

We are in receipt of the largest consignment of all kinds of dry goods, carpets, notions, men's wear, etc., ever seen in this city. It will do you good to come and examine our stock and the prices will simply astonish you.

RED RIVER COUNTRY.

Rich Discoveries in Colfax and Taos Counties Result in a Boom Not Unlike That of Cripple Creek Two Years Ago.

The Red River district which is being talked of so much of late, is one of the most promising sections in the territory, probably the most promising from a mining standpoint, and all indications point to a heavy rush of immigration to the favored spot during the next few months. In fact, the tide of immigration has already set in, and several lively towns will be the result in this section of New Mexico was seldom heard of outside the territory, and even among New Mexicans its great natural advantages were little understood or appreciated. Notwithstanding the great extent of this district, it is a significant fact that it was only a few months ago that rich mineral discoveries made on one of a chain of mountains which hem in the town of Red River turned attention to the section. Since that time the fame of the Red River section has been steadily growing, as the reports of numerous big strikes in free gold, gold bearing quartz and placer ground have been consolidated. Seldom has a new camp advertised itself so well in a brief period as has Red River. It is now the objective point for miners all over the country, and in many sections of the west experienced prospectors are deserting old camps for this infant in the mining industry.

The excitement created in mining circles by rich discoveries in this section has already had the effect of transforming a small camp into a lively mart of trade and industry, which is the center of a large and unusually rich mining district. Nothing can check the rapid progress of this camp, which has been quickened into a new and vigorous life by numerous mineral discoveries of vast promise. Already a daily stage line has been established, the camp from Vasquez and other points. The town is located in the center of a horseshoe shaped district, formed by mountain ranges, which stand as natural barriers, admitting of entrance only from the east or west. These barriers have discouraged the construction of new roads to the gold fields of Red River, which while they would shorten the distance, they would at the same time entail an enormous expense. Therefore to reach Red River it is necessary to take the stage at Vasquez, 42 miles west of Trinidad, Colo., the terminal of the D. & R. G. railroad. It is not necessary to enter in details. Assays ranging into five figures have been obtained.

A large amount of free milling ore carrying native gold has been exposed by a limited amount of exploiting. The unusually heavy snowfall this winter has made work rather late, but the campaign will be opened about the 1st of May in earnest, and the season will be a busy one. Placer mining by hydraulic process will be carried on extensively, and in all the canons and gulches leading toward Red River placer claims have already been located.

NATURAL GAS PRODUCTION.

An Important Discovery in the Northwest Corner of the Territory As Related by the Farmington Times.

Among the many good things that New Mexico is turning out of late, is natural gas, which has recently made itself known in the northwest corner of the territory. This section, like the Red River mineral field, is directly tributary to Colorado. In speaking of this important discovery the Farmington Times in a recent issue says:

"A party of which The Times representative was a member went over to S. R. Blake's ranch just south of town last Saturday night to see his gas well burn. Mr. Blake, touched a match to the mouth of a four-inch pipe which encases the well, and ignited gas flamed up at the start to a height of about three feet and continued burning some minutes before dying down. This well is 350 feet in depth. When work was suspended, more than a year ago, the drill was in the formation of shale, and 16 feet was sunk through each formation in the last day's work on the well. It is probable that with 50 to 100 feet greater depth a strong pressure of gas or oil could be secured. In the light of the characteristics of the Florence, Colo., oil fields, which are identical with those of this part of the country, it is practically certain that Mr. Blake will strike oil in his well inside of 200 feet greater depth at most. Being fully convinced of this, Mr. Blake proposes within the next 60 days to resume operations and push the work until the fact is demonstrated that Farmington is located in one of the greatest oil and natural gas basins in the world."

ANOTHER RICH STRIKE.

The Old Ortiz Mine in Southern Santa Fe County Proves a Veritable Bonanza.

Special to the New Mexican.

Cerrillos, N. M., March 26.—The Ortiz Mining company, operating the old Ortiz mine under lease from the New Mexico Mining company, has struck astonishingly rich ore at the depth of about 275 feet. About the 15th inst. the miners struck a body of ore the full width of the working shaft at a depth of 267 feet, which would run $100 per ton in gold. The ore body extended beyond the sides of the shaft and its actual extent is not as yet known. On last Saturday ore was taken out of the same shaft that would surprise anyone by its richness in the yellow metal. The ore is free milling, which explodes another theory that the ores of this section all become refractory below a certain depth.

The company has ordered lumber for, and will commence the erection of a mill near the mine to treat the ore.
Tally another for Santa Fe county.

Here's to the king of Greece; he is scrapping with the great powers if he is little.

It is beginning to look as if Mr. Grover Cleveland has subsided into "innocuous desuetude."

Mr. McKinley is somewhat slow about appointments, but we suppose he will be all the surer in due time.

Congress cannot give us a tariff law too soon and Mr. McKinley cannot give us a change in federal officials any too soon.

John L. Sullivan thinks there is another good fight in him. Other people are of a different opinion and there is the rub.

By comparing William I with his grandson, one can form an idea of the rapidity with which the royal family of Germany is deteriorating.

The Las Vegas Optic thanks God, that Las Vegas has no New Mexican. It does well, for it knows that if Las Vegas had a New Mexican, The Optic would have no patronage.

One does not hear very much these days of Hoke Smith. And if Hoke Smith's hundreds of Georgians were kicked out of the interior department, the country would be still better pleased.

If our ambassador to England, Colonel John Hay, should get into a fight in old "Innauon town," the people of this country will expect him "to hold her nozzle against the bank, till the last galoot gets ashore."

A very amusing thing is found in that species of "new journalism" peculiar to New York, when the World cables Prince von Hohenlohe, imperial chancellor of Germany, to ask him whether the emperor is really crazy or not.

If New Mexico collectors and assessors were to do their duty fully and consistently there would be no deficits and the territorial and county governments would be supported in good style and on a cash basis. Hear ye, hear ye, hear ye, all you interested!

The little tug "Three Friends" is off again for Cuba with a cargo of rifles, ammunition, dynamite and so on. After becoming a free and sovereign people the Cubans ought to purchase the tug and keep it under the walls of Moro castle on perpetual exhibition.

The Territorial Supreme court met yesterday in this city and adjourned till the 5th of April next. No decisions were announced. This reminds me that once upon a time "the king of France with twelve thousand men, walked up a hill and then walked down again."

It is said that some of New Mexico's officials and some of Santa Fe's lawyers hold that President McKinley has no power to respite, reprieve or commute in the case of the Borregos et al. And suppose the president takes the power anyway to do one or the other, what then?

The Arkansas legislature has declined to adopt a resolution providing that the picture of Jefferson Davis should be removed from its halls and the picture of William Jennings Bryan substituted. Correct. You see, Bryan has not had the chance Davis had. But then he is still a young man.

The New Mexican is urged to rush the printing of the legislative session laws. There are many inquiries on the subject.—Albuquerque Citizen.

Fear not. The New Mexican is doing the work as rapidly and as well as it can be done, and the volume of laws will be ready for distribution in about three weeks.

Excursion rates have been made from Chicago to Las Vegas and return. And now what's the matter with the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe making excursion rates from Las Vegas to all rail points in the territory and return. Say good for 60 days. Strikes as a good scheme, and one that may prove very beneficial to the people and to the road.

When John Lawrence Sullivan sets his mighty intellect to work, startling results may be looked for. He says that Corbett met defeat because he went into the ring once too often. This settles it, and a country throbbing with excitement will now resume normal conditions.

The curious way a word is manufactured is found in the history of the word "demicked." As a Yorkshireman man will say, "Them taters is demicked." He means the potatoes are suffering from some disease of the plant. "Demick" comes from epidemic. When the first potato blight came, a half century ago, the farmers heard it called an "epidemic." Thus new words are coined.

In 1894 Stevenson thus described his hours of work in a letter written by him to Dr. Bakewell: "I may tell you my average of work in favorable circumstances is far greater than you suppose— from 6 o'clock till 11 at latest, (sic; least?) and often till 12, and again in the afternoon from 2 to 4. My hand is quite destroyed, as you may perceive today—to a really unusual extent. I can sometimes write a decent flat still; but I have just returned with my arms all stung from three hours' work in the canoe."

What a supernatural creature must be Dr. Garnett, of whom it is said that he can in a half hour refer to anything any man ever knew. But then it must be remembered that Dr. Garnett is the keeper of the printed books in the British Museum. Suppose he had not books at his back, how much information could Dr. Garnett impart? Fancy an ordinary or extraordinary man of today put backward 800 years or so, and by some miraculous circumstances having at hand all the chemical ingredients known today, and suppose once more that he were requested to make a pound of gunpowder; how much gunpowder could he turn out? or of what quality? Could he make it at all?

THE RAILROAD AND PROGRESS.

The recent changes, transfers, purchases and proposed innovations for the Santa Fe railroad, as published in yesterday's local columns and confirmed by a telegraphic message from President Ripley to the New York Journal, are of first importance to New Mexico. The improvements as outlined by Mr. Ripley, resulting from a conference of officials at Las Vegas, will give employment to a large force of men, and in almost every particular, some good will accrue to our people from the proposed work. This is a case in which the interests of the road and the territory at large are identical, and the corporation ought to be favored by legislation and in every other possible manner by New Mexico.

The railroad everywhere and at all times has been a potent factor in development. We have only to look at this territory to realize the truthfulness of the assertion, and the industrial and commercial benefits to be derived from railroad extension are as applicable to the present as to the past. In other words we need the aid of the railroad in developing the country almost as much today as we needed it in 1880.

Only the first steps have been taken in the campaign of progress in which the railroad must take a leading part. There should be the most perfect co-operation between the people and the company in order to secure the best results. Something has been done already, but there remains much more to do, and the best way to accomplish this is to favor by every possible means this great factor, and induce harmonious action and good natured co-operation between the people and the Santa Fe Railroad company.

THE ENDS OF JUSTICE IN THE BORREGO CASES.

It appears that there are a few men in Santa Fe, who for some reasons best known to themselves, are hard at work trying to manufacture public opinion in the matter of the reprieve or commutation of sentence of the two Borregos, Valencia and Alarid, now under sentence of death. These men are mostly inspired either by motives of revenge, or by fear, or political and personal hatred either of the condemned men or their principal attorney, T. B. Catron.

Looking at the situation impartially and dispassionately, it strikes the average observer that every citizen has the absolute and perfect right to petition for clemency in such cases and that this does not affect his standing in the community unfavorably. Every citizen has also the perfect right to believe that the trial of these men was not a fair trial, that it reeked with perjury and subornation of witnesses, that jurors were intimidated and bribed and he has the right to say so in petition or otherwise. That there are many of our citizens who think so or believe so, is an absolute and undeniable fact.

As far as Mr. Catron's action is concerned, he is doing his level best to save the lives of his clients, and none but bitter personal and political enemies will blame him for doing so.

There are many of our citizens who think these men are guilty, but also believe that clemency as far as a commutation of sentence to imprisonment for life, should be extended them. These people and there are thousands of them, and others having a still more favorable opinion of the cases, have petitioned the president of the United States to extend such clemency, and when they are charged with sinister motives for doing so, a grave and heinous injustice is done them.

As far as this paper is concerned, it certainly does believe that the ends of justice would be attained were the sentences of these men commuted to imprisonment for life. It entertains this belief in common with many thousands of our fellow citizens and does not hesitate to express it. This paper is selling fairly and for what it believes to be the public good in this matter. It needs not the cries and calumnies and slanders of the men who cry for the blood of these men; it cares nothing for them. And it certainly fears not to avow its position.

WITH THE PARAGRAPHERS.

Salient Questions of the Day. As Treated by Metropolitan Papers.

Sticks to His Friends.

President McKinley is reversing the rule of Mr. Cleveland. He is sticking by his friends.—Baltimore Herald.

In the Pink of Condition.

The United States senate is in the pink of condition, and prepared to make the talk of its life.—Indianapolis News.

Occidental Mugwumpery.

A case of purely physical mugwumpery is puzzling the doctors of Vancouver. Miss Dora Marks, of that city, sees everything upside down.—Detroit Tribune.

The Principal Business in Delaware.

As it can find nothing else to do, the legislature boldly struggles with the flood of divorce business. Were it not for the marital woes of Delawareans this session would prove a total failure.—Wilmington Every Evening.

The Chorus of Industry.

We shan't read of every mill that starts up full time again, or every dinner pail the good wife fills with a lighter heart, but by and by we shall hear the chorus of industry clashing from sea to sea, and that, that will be prosperity.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Not as Modest as Helmsight Be.

The Kaiser is not modest about asking for appropriations for his navy. He puts his figures at $50,000,000. Men who ask a good deal sometimes have to be content with less, as when a litigant sets his damages at $20,000 and the jury gives him one cent.—Baltimore American.

Sherman Knows What is Right.

Secretary Sherman is to be congratulated upon his determination not to suppress any Cuban war news. His immediate predecessor tried the experiment of beating the newspapers, and he failed about every time. Secretary Sherman will profit by the Olney experience in this particular.—Boston Herald.

For Parity.

The American people do not want to abridge the liberty of the press, but they have sternly rebuked unbridled license. They stand for parity. They may disagree in religion and politics, but they are a unit in defense of the honor of mothers, wives and daughters. They will preserve the sanctity of the homes at any cost.—Mail and Express.

The Right Thing.

President McKinley's rule of imposing the responsibility of local appointments upon senators and congressmen is not original but is a revival of the custom that prevailed previous to the installation of Clevelandism. It is the proper policy for an American president to pursue.—Evansville Courier.

Where Two Can Live Cheaper Than One.

Argentina requires every bachelor between the ages of 20 and 30 to pay a monthly tax, and imposes a fine of 500 piasters on any man or woman who is found guilty of constructive breach of promise. It is no myth that two can live cheaper than one in that country.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Officeholder and the Officeseeker.

One of Mr. Cleveland's favorite journalistic favorites, who holds a lucrative office, suggests that President McKinley was forced to throw open the White House grounds in order to provide standing room for the officeholders. Here is another instance which goes to show how inconsiderate the officeholders are of the feeling of the officeseekers.—Washington Post.

Pro-Bryan Versus Anti-Bryan.

The New York Herald reminds Baby Bailey, of Texas, that the national convention for the selection of a Democratic presidential ticket will be held in 1896, and that a vast amount of political history will be made in the mean time. This looks like an official notice from the Bryan organ to the anti-Bryan young man from Texas that his purposes are known and keenly felt.—Boston Herald.

Senator Elkins is Correct.

Senator Elkins asserts that the United States pays out more than $200,000,000 a year for transporting imported goods to this country in foreign bottoms. If one-half of this sum could be paid to our own shipping it would mean a great boom for ship building and aid in restoring the prestige of the Americans on the seas. It would mean $100,000,000 spent at home.—Springfield Union.

A Very Bad Story.

An Oklahoma legislator declared that Wall street reminded him "of that well known Biblical character, Shylock, who demanded his pound of meat though the heavens fall." The story is as bad as that of the Nebraska statesman who declared that the proud American eagle would ever stand ready to show its teeth in the face of tyranny and oppression.—Indianapolis Journal.

Deferring to Public Opinion.

Congress has to take into account the maintenance of wages at the American rate. Whether it be scientific or not, it is certain to take this into account is not settled, but it is certain that if unscientific the people are not educated to the belief that it is. If it be scientific it should be done on its merits and not in response to a variety of selfish and conflicting interests. Either way, both parties have had their turn at tariff making, and both have recognized the necessity of deferring to public opinion on the wage issue.—Brooklyn Eagle.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

Hon. A. L. Morrison Writes of the Dingley Tariff Bill and the Prospect of Its Passage in the House and Senate.

ADVANTAGE OF DELAY TO IMPORTERS

The European Combine Formed with the Avowed Purpose of Crushing Christian Greece, in Favor of the Barbarous and Blood-thirsty Turks.

To the Editor of the New Mexican: Washington, D. C., March 22.—Today the debate on the Dingley bill begins. With great good sense said debate will conclude in ten days. There is no good reason why it should be extended further. Not a single person, however, is an enemy of the bill. The only gainers by delay will be the importers who are utilizing every hour in packing the bonded warehouses full of foreign goods to avoid the payment of the increased duties of the Dingley bill. The passage of the bill through the House and Senate is an easy matter compared with its course through the Senate. I met Senator Cullum a few days since, who said that he supposed the debate in the Senate would last till the "dog days," but I am informed by several senators that there is no doubt of its ultimate passage. The trouble ahead of the country is that a year's importation will be made in a few months and we will lose both the revenue and the improvement of business which must follow the increased duty. The freetraders will talk and obstruct and play into the hands of foreign manufacturers and when after they will take advantage of their own wrong doing and blame it for the hard times and the scant revenue. Verily modern Democracy is fearfully and wonderfully made.

The great topic of talk today is as to what attitude the administration will assume on the blockade of Crete by the great European powers. What a shameful sight it is to see all the overgrown bullies of Europe joining hands to crush out Christian Greece in behalf of the bloody detestable Turk, whose garments are yet reeking with the blood of the butchered Armenians. One's mind naturally reverts back to the heroic days of ancient Greece when Leonidas, Miltiades and their kindred demi-Gods, rolled back the tide of barbaric invasion and immortalized the Grecian name. The great Dingley bill becomes a law they will take advantage of their own wrong doing and blame it for the hard times and the scant revenue. Verily modern Democracy is fearfully and wonderfully made.

FOR THE LADIES.

FOR STREET WEAR.

The spring shows no diminution of the popularity of the Eton jacket, which is somewhat surprising, inasmuch as it has gone through the whole circle of the seasons. This pretty little garment is shown in a great variety of shapes. One of the most effective is that designed with separate fronts. The illustration shows one in brown cloth, worn with a shirt of mixed chevron in which brown and green are the predominating colors. There are other combinations, but this spring has not, as yet, established any one pre-eminent color, unless, perhaps, it be red.

The vest of the costume shown in the illustration is of green liberty silk, with revers of the same attached to the vest, thus when another vest is substituted which has no revers the effect is that of an entirely different costume.

The jacket is decorated with three large buttons at the edges below the bust. The jacket has shallow revers under the vest revers in two scallops like the cuffs. The edges of both revers and cuffs are bound with braid.

THE SEVENTH Beet Sugar factory in the United States was erected at Eddy, New Mexico, in 1896, and made its first "campaign," beginning November 15th, 1896, and closing February 15th, 1897.

THE CONTENT OF "SUGAR in the beet" of the crop grown in the Eddy and Roswell sections of the valley has proven to be more uniformly high than any other part of the United States.

FORTUNATELY the land is blessed with just the fertility to produce high grade beets, and

MORE FORTUNATELY the Pecos Irrigation and Improvement Co. and the Roswell Land and Water Co. have an irrigation system of great magnitude, covering a vast body of the BEST SUGAR BEET lands on earth. The water is applied to the crop WHEN NEEDED.

124 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not assured until May, and a majority of the acreage was planted between JUNE 1st AND AUGUST 10th.

GOOD SOIL makes the seed germinate.
WATER makes the plant grow.

THE ONLY THING left to be desired that the Pecos Valley has not on hand in abundance is PEOPLE. We need thrifty farmers; 500 heads of families each on a 40-acre farm.

NO FAIRER terms or conditions of sale of beet and fruit lands were ever made.

Off Duty.
It is essential to the well being of the physical economy that the kidneys and bladder should be eternally active, that they should never go "off duty." If they do, the kidneys fail to secrete from the blood the watery element and the impurities that should be thrown off by the bladder, and both organs suffer in organic health from their inaction, and incur dangerous maladies. Among these are Bright's disease of the kidneys, diabetes, retention of the urine, gravel, dropsy, etc. These are no trifles, but obstinate diseases, developing rapidly and terminating too often fatally. To prevent or check them, the safest and most effective means is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which gives a healthful impetus to, but never excites the renal organs, like the fiery, unmediated stimulants of commerce. Malaria, dyspepsia, constipation, liver trouble, nervousness and debility are remedied by the genial medicine, useful in convalescence and old age. A wineglassful three times a day.

Notice to Contractors.
Sealed proposals will be received by the board of Insane asylum directors, at the office of the secretary, Marcus Brunswick, in Las Vegas, N. M., until the 15th of April, A. D. 1897, at 12 o'clock noon, for the erection of the new Insane Asylum, to be constructed according to and under the conditions named in the plans and specifications prepared by I. H. and W. M. Rapp, architects of Las Vegas, which will be on file and open to the inspection at their office. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check of 2 per cent of the amount of the bid, such check payable to Marcus Brunswick, secretary, as a guarantee that the contractor will enter into a contract for construction at his bid, if the same is accepted, and will give satisfactory bond for the performance of his contract, as provided in the plans and specifications. A successful bidder failing to give such bond will forfeit his certified check. Bids must be made out on blank proposals, which will be furnished by the architects. Contractors may bid on the whole work, or on the whole and any part, or on separate parts only, according to the classification in the specifications. Contractors will be required to keep the building free from liens, and to see that all laborers and sub-contractors and material men are paid before receiving last payment. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A BLOW FOR BOWSER.

LIKE THE PROVERBIAL WORM, HIS PATIENT WIFE TURNS.

She Lays Down the Law in Such a Surprising Way and Holds Such a Good Hand in the Game That He Finds Himself Speechless.

"Mr. Bowser," began Mrs. Bowser the other evening as the pair sat reading and the family cat purred softly on the hearth rug, "do you know that you have got to make a radical change in some of your little ways or I shall know the reason why?"
"What?" gasped Mr. Bowser as he looked and then rubbed his eyes as if wondering whether he was awake or dreaming.
"For instance," she continued, "I want you to keep out of the kitchen and stop being a hen hussy. You are always poking around there and bothering the cook, and I want it to cease!"
"You—you are talking to me!" whispered Mr. Bowser, looking at her in the strangest sort of way.
"Yes, sir, I am talking to you. You found fault with the meat tonight. Don't do it again! I buy the meat, and what's good enough for me is good enough for you. If you don't like my table, you can go to a restaurant!"
Mr. Bowser opened his eyes and mouth and stared at her. Was it Mrs. Bowser who sat there? Was that Mrs. Bowser's voice? Was this his wife, who had permitted herself to be bluffed and browbeaten on a hundred occasions when he felt "off"?

The Great Trouble.

HIS TONGUE SEEMED TO BE NAILED FAST.

and wanted to take it out of some one! He pinched his nose. He reached up and stroked his nose. Yes, he was awake, and that was Mrs. Bowser, and she was giving him "sass." He must sit down on her at once and with the utmost emphasis.
Mrs. Bowser—woman! he shouted as he sprang to his feet. "What on earth do you mean by such language? Do you know who you are talking to?"
"Sit right down, Mr. Bowser," she quietly replied as she looked him in the eye. "I know who I am talking to. My language is all right. You are spending and together too much money in cigars, billiards and at the club. I am wearing a pair of darned stockings because I have to economize, while you think nothing of throwing away $10 a week. After this you come down to two!"
"By the great horns upon me, but—" "It's no use, Mr. Bowser," she interrupted. "We are not talking about horn spoons or any other sort of spoons. In looking over my closet today I found a lot of your collars and socks in there. They are on the floor in front of your dresser, together with cuffs, neckties, shirts and vests. When you go up stairs, you either put them away or I'll throw them out of the window. You have no more order than a pig, and I've got tired taking care of your things. I notice you are wearing a new pair of shoes which must have cost $7 or $8, while you have two or three half worn pairs in the house. I must buy $3 shoes in order to economize and wear them until my toes stick out. There must be a change, Mr. Bowser!"

He was looking at her, his face white and red by turns, and his eyes bulging out as if a ghost stood before him.
"And another thing," she went on. "This buying patent medicines and glass cracks has got to come to an end. If your stomach can't get along without a new brand of sarsaparilla or bitters every two or three days, with somebody's sirup or pills for your liver between times, you'd better go to bed and die decently. The money which you throw away on such stuff would buy all my clothes."
Mr. Bowser tried to get out of his chair, but his knees were so weak that he couldn't stand up. He tried to speak, but his tongue seemed to be nailed fast. Mrs. Bowser looked him over and then said:
"I was looking into your dresser today, and I noticed a bottle of hair dye. The idea of an old man like you, with a bald spot on top of your head, dyeing your hair and trying to deceive the public! Every time you see me use a powder rag you sneer about it, and yet you buy hair dye and have probably been to some 'madame' to have your wrinkles removed. Are you fixing to frisk around as a gay old Lothario?"

"No—no—no!"
"That was all. He couldn't get a whole word out, while his face was so red that Mrs. Bowser feared a stroke of apoplexy. She had more to say, however.
"Every now and then you threaten me with a divorce case and talk about my going home to mother. If you want a voice, why don't you apply for it? I have a deed of this house and lot. And as for my going home to mother or going anywhere else, don't you worry. I propose to stay right here. If any one leaves, it will be you. The idea of men getting up and browbeating and bulldozing as most of them do. Their wives ought to sit down on them like a ton of brick. There's another thing while I think of it. You have been interfering with my management of the house. I want you to stop it. When I don't know how to manage a couple of servants, I'll send in my resignation on a postal card. You told the last cook that you were sorry she had to work so hard, and you hinted that I was too hard on her, but she came right to me and called you an old polly wolly and quit at a day's notice."

Mr. Bowser wasn't quite dead, but a glance at him would have satisfied anyone that he was on his last legs.
"That's about all this evening," said Mrs. Bowser as she rose up, "but we may resume tomorrow night. I shall be busy for the next two hours, Mr. Bowser, and if anyone calls you can say I'm out. In case you so desire, my lawyer will see your lawyer in the morning. Good night, Mr. Bowser, good night. Stay! If you have toothache during the night, don't come howling around to wake me up. Any man who doesn't know enough to take care of his feet on a wet day deserves to have several kinds of ache. Remember, I'm not at home to any one."
And when she had gone, Mr. Bowser opened and shut his eyes, opened and shut his fingers, crossed and uncrossed his legs, stood up and sat down. It was no use, however. He couldn't make it out. He had either fallen off the roof of a house or tumbled down a deep well and been half killed or half drowned. By and by he crept up stairs and tumbled into bed, and two hours later, when Mrs. Bowser looked in on him, there was a seared look around his mouth and a curl to his back hair, although he was sound asleep. Mr. Bowser had simply been done up.

Carte Blanche For Dinner.
He is a statesman who has not yet won national recognition, but he will be found at the south end of the capitol this time next year doing all he can to make a start that way. He is a man of large means and believes that wealth producing brains are the only kind worth mentioning. Inasmuch as he began business with nothing and had $1,000,000 by the time he was 40, it is fair to suppose he had a barrel of brains.
Two nights ago he wanted to dine a few friends of his in regal splendor, and, suspecting that a Washington hotel dinner, unless it is prepared for the occasion, is not of the regal splendor variety, he called on the hotel clerk to confer with him. He told him what kind of a dinner he wanted, and then he proceeded to enumerate all the details, just as people of that kind always do, mostly on the supposition that they know more than anybody else does. The clerk listened for some time to all the little details, and then he broke in.
"My dear sir," he said in the instant manner of the hotel clerk, "may I have carte blanche?"
The statesman staggered a moment.
"Of course, of course," he assented vigorously, "you can have anything you please if it's fit to eat, but I'm kind of afraid of some of these Frenchified dishes. What I want is a good dinner."
And he got it.—Washington Star.

Woman's Crowning Glory.
You may sing in praise of woman, from her head down to her feet;
You may say she is a vision that is more than passing sweet;
You may speak of her attractions, her allurements and her whims
And the sunshine of her graces that no shadow ever dims.
But you fondly must acknowledge while your soul in triumph crows
That a woman's crowning glory is her bargain counter nose.
Just observe her in the morning, when the paragon she takes,
When she susses all the fishballs and puts mustard on the cakes,
Or the sacrificial waist and bonnet, don't you know,
And it's certain by the glances she upon the sheet bestows
That a woman's crowning glory is her bargain counter nose.

En Voyage.
In the shadows coldly fitting,
Solemn as the tomb,
Charm in his bow was sitting
Wrapped in sashen gloom.
Through the gray shades softly groping,
Round the shore he steered,
For a pilgrim fondly hoping
In the mist he peered.
Soon a youth both tall and stately
Did the carman greet;
And he was moving surely shrewdly
As he took a seat.
Charm saw him sign and shiver
On those murky shores,
While he pushed out in the river
And resumed his oars.
In the silence all unbroken,
Desolate, supreme,
Not a syllable was spoken—
All was like a dream.
Through the leagues of gray unending
Still the pilgrim lone
At the oars watched Charm bending
For the great unknown.
Charm, for a wayward, forward,
Onward urged his bark;
And was moving surely shrewdly
O'er the current dark.
Then the pilgrim, woe and weary,
Broke the mystic spell,
When his accents, faint and dreary,
On the waters fell.
And today 'tis not known whether
Charm made reply
When the student said, "You feather
Just a bit too high!"

THE JURY DISAGREED.

Eleven of the Good Men and True Lacked Legal Evidence.
I had been down in the mountainous regions of Tennessee for my health and made a great many pleasant acquaintances among the strange people of that section. Nothing of an exciting nature occurred until the earlier part of October, when one of the men of whom I had seen a good deal was arrested on the charge of selling bottles of moonshine whiskey at a fair.

There seemed no chance of clearing him, but a bright young lawyer undertook his defense and handled it like a veteran. The case on the part of the government was made. A bottle of whiskey that the accused had sold was offered in evidence, and a dozen witnesses swore that they had seen him disposing of like bottles.
The prisoner was not placed upon the stand, and no one was called to testify in his behalf. I grew indignant at this apparent betrayal of his cause and ventured to whisper to the young attorney that he should at least make a showing. But he knew his business. Solemnly addressing the court, he said:
"Your honor, there has not been one word of proof offered, aside from unsubstantiated statements, that the flask here in evidence contains whiskey, or that there was whiskey in any of the bottles my client is said to have disposed of."
"The jury can take it with them and determine for themselves," curtly interrupted the judge.

"That is entirely satisfactory, your honor."
Though sent in time and again, the jury found it impossible to agree and was finally dismissed.
"What was the matter?" I ventured to ask of the foreman after it was all over.
"Waal, stranger, you noticed that pint bottle we took in?"
"Yes. You were to find out what it contained."
"So the judge said. Jake Hoover war th' first one ter make th' test, sn. When he had ter stop ter take breath, there warn't a doggone drop left." He said "twarn't quite 'nough ter make sure on it, but it 'peared ter be whisky. But thar warn't no use in us that didn't have legal test 'nough. Jake war th' one that disagreed."

The story got out and the case was never revived.—Detroit Free Press.

A woman's main object is to do things differently.
If the peeps had softer cushions, men would go to church more.
If a girl has any little meannesses, they will always crop out in a game of cards.
Some women's ideas of novelty is to move the furniture in the parlor all around every week or two.
Girls who part their hair on the side ought to be made to marry men who part their hair down the back of the head.
A girl can make more kinds of a fool of herself than a young polly wolly.

Making the baby happy is a woman's best pleasure. It is easy to make a healthy baby happy. Such a baby is born happy. Smiles and dimples are as natural to it as freckles. It is a puny, sickly child. It rests with every woman whether her baby shall be healthy and happy, or puny and miserable. If during the period preceding maternity a woman takes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, she insures the health of herself and child. It is easy to do this. The proper medicine is at hand. Over 50,000 women have testified in writing to the value of it.
The organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible are directly acted upon by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures all weakness and disease. It prepares for maternity. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period. It insures baby's health and makes its advent easy and almost painless. Druggists sell more of the "Favorite Prescription" than of all other similar medicines combined.
"I am anxious to add my testimonial to your 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. C. G. Brundage, of Fort Grant, Graham Co., Ariz. "I had been using the 'Prescription' for several months previous to my confinement, and I am sure I have benefited greatly from the time I commenced to use it. I feel fully as well as ever I did in my life. I have a very healthy baby, and during confinement I had not the least symptoms of fever. The 'cordal' was nothing to what I expected."

The woman who owns a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser probably does not realize at once all that she gave in exchange for it. There was the price of $1.50. That paid for the large volume of 1,008 pages. Then, as day by day she looked into these pages, one by one she gave away her anxieties for her family's health. She learned how to make her children well. In the chapters especially treating of her own weaknesses, she learned the causes and the cures. 680,000 copies have been sold at $1.50 each. Now an edition in strong paper covers, will be distributed free, - sent at once - stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., to cover the cost of mailing only. Send 31 stamps for cloth binding.

She Was On.
Why, they asked her, are you so strenuously in favor of excluding all reporters from our meetings?
In order, said she, that full reports of them may appear in the papers.
And yet there are those who say that woman's sense of dandiness is embryonic.

J. H. BLAIN,

THE NEW LICENSE LAW.

Provisions of the Act Providing for the Payment of an Occupation Tax by Business Men in New Mexico.

Council bill No. 48, which passed both houses of the legislature and received the governor's approval and signature, fixes the license to be paid by business men other than liquor dealers, of different kinds doing business within the territory.

This act provides that the money received from such licenses shall be equally divided between the general school fund and the general current expense fund in the counties where the license are issued.

Peddlers traveling on foot or with one animal shall pay $250 per year; with two or more animals, $300, each vehicle used by the same peddler shall require a separate license, and the license is only good for the county in which it is used.

Merchants whose sales exceed $5,000 and do not exceed $10,000 shall pay $10 per annum; from $10,000 to $20,000, shall pay $20; from $20,000 to $50,000, shall pay $50; from $50,000 to $75,000, shall pay $75; from $75,000 to $100,000, shall pay $100; exceeding $100,000, shall pay $150.

Real estate or collection agents, or those who buy or sell real estate on commission, or engage in the collection of rents from real estate on a percentage of commission, shall pay $10 per annum. Insurance agents, both fire and life, the same amount. Keepers of hotels or inns, who provide food and lodging for hire are taxed as follows: Receipts exceeding $1,000 per annum, $20; exceeding $2,000 per annum, $40. All keepers of livery or feed stables, and all owners of stage lines shall pay $10 per annum.

Pawnbrokers or persons engaged in receiving by way of pledge or pawn any kind of personal property as security for the repayment of money loaned or advanced, shall pay $250 per annum. This does not apply to persons advancing money on personal property not regularly engaged in the business of pawnbroking. All persons owning, controlling or managing any building or premises used as a place of amusement and renting same for theaters, public balls or public entertainments, where the seating capacity is 300 persons, shall pay $10 per annum; where the seating capacity of such place or building exceeds 300 persons, the tax is $25 per annum. This does not apply to buildings used in whole or in part as an educational institution.

All persons required by this act to pay a license tax fixed upon the amount of business done, shall before beginning or continuing business, make out an application, under oath, stating the character of business engaged or contemplated and location, and in case of merchants or hotel keepers, a statement of the amount of business done in the preceding year—in case of beginning a new business the appropriate amount of business expected to be done—said application and statement becoming the basis for fixing the amount of tax to be paid. The applicant pays the amount of tax fixed upon, to the county collector, taking the receipt therefor, and the presentation of said receipt to the county clerk obtains the license. Any county clerk who violates the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500, and to removal from office. All license tax shall be paid in advance in the current funds of the United States, but licenses may be taken out quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. Any person or firm or corporation engaged in any of the branches of business named in this act before paying the license required, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $500, or imprisoned in the county jail not more than six months.

This act in no manner annuls, repeals, revokes, nor changes or of the territory in relation to the licenses required of liquor dealers, nor the laws regulating games of chance, and takes effect on July 1, 1897.

SLEEP FOR SKIN-TORTURED BABIES

And rest for tired mothers in a warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, and a single application of CUTICURA (ointment), the great skin cure. CUTICURA REMEDIES afford instant relief, and point to a speedy cure of torturing, disfiguring, humbling, itching, burning, bleeding, crusted, scaly skin and scalp humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails.

SKIN SCALP CUTICURA SOAP.

Business in the district court clerk's office is dull. Only three suits filed during the past few weeks, and two of these are tax suits.

Edwin, the bright little son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Holt who made many friends in Santa Fe during the recent session of the legislature, is quite ill with scarlet fever, at his home in Las Cruces.

Sheriff Pat Garrett, of Dona Ana county, came in from the south last night bringing with him Walter Collins, a 16-year old boy sentenced to the penitentiary for two years, for an assault to rape. Mr. Garrett returns home tonight.

Mr. Ed. R. Downey, a director, and Mr. Albert Collins, secretary and treasurer, of the Blue Bell Turquoise Mining company, went to the mines, 18 miles south of town, this morning to inspect the property.

Nineteenth century methods are required in the administration of the affairs of this city and not Seventeenth century ideas. Hence elect live and progressive men for mayor, aldermen and city officials at the coming city election.

A. M. Blackwell of the wholesale grocery firm of Gross, Blackwell & Co., is one of the well known New Mexico Democrats who believe that the prospects for good times in New Mexico and the entire southwest are better and brighter today than for several years past.—Albuquerque Citizen.

Wm. C. Wrigley of Raton, who recently visited Santa Fe, getting petitions signed for Captain Collier for appointment for governor and for himself for appointment as chief justice of the supreme court of the territory, is now in Albuquerque for a like purpose. He has been in Las Vegas working that town also.

The report that the Supreme court had decided the case of the Early Times Distilling Company vs. Zeiger, involving the constitutionality of the involuntary assignment law of New Mexico, is a mistake. It was argued at the July term, and is still under advisement by the court.

Under chapter 37, of the acts of the Thirty-second legislative assembly, the probate clerks of the several counties are charged with the duty of preparing the jury lists, from which name slips are to be prepared for use in drawing jurors for the district court.

The United States Trust company, of New York, will foreclose the mortgage held by it against the A. & P. railroad, on May 3, 1897, at which time Special Master Owen N. Maroon will sell at public auction, at Gallup, the road together with all the rights, privileges and franchises, to the highest bidder. The A. T. & S. F. road will undoubtedly be the purchaser.

PETITIONS FOR CLEMENCY.

Over 3,000 Citizens of Santa Fe County Pray for Commutation of Sentence of Borrego et al.

Petitions praying for clemency for the two Borregos, Alarid and Valencia are being circulated in the several precincts of the county and so far over 3,000 signatures have been secured to them. There are also several papers, protesting against such clemency, being circulated and the number of signatures so far secured for them, as the New Mexican is reliably informed, does not exceed 50 up to noon of this date. These facts are certainly a sure indication of the state of public feeling in this community as to the question of executive clemency on the part of President McKinley in the case. It is also well to state here that some of the best citizens of this city and county have signed the petitions for clemency.
