WASHINGTON NEWS BUDGET

A Resolution Passes the Senate, Protesting Against the Trial of Gen. Ruiz Rivera by a Drumhead Court Martial.

SENATOR CULLOM'S SCALPING BILL

The U. S. Supreme Court Denies a Writ of Habeas Corpus in the Case of Jos. Isagi, Turkish Consul-General at Boston, Under Arrest for Embezzlement.

Washington, April 5.—Senator Chandler has introduced a bill in the senate intended as an amendment to the Forsaker pooling bill. Senator Chandler's bill provides in the first section that contracts may be made to maintain prices by merchants, manufacturers and producers of commodities, under the supervision of the interstate commerce, the same as railroads for maintaining transportation rates by pooling.

THE CUBAN QUESTION.
The senate today indulged in some bantering with Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, who introduced a bill "abolishing competition in trade and production, and authorizing a combination to enable merchants, manufacturers and producers of commodities, subject to interstate commerce, to maintain prices and profits notwithstanding business depression." Senator Allen said that nothing like this bill had ever been seen even in the palmiest days of Populism. Senator Chandler announced his serious intention to press the bill as an amendment to the railroad pooling bill, in case that measure was brought forward. The Cuban question was then debated. Senator Allen's resolution, protesting against the trial of Ruiz Rivera, by a drumhead court martial, forming the basis of debate. Senator Allen made an emphatic speech, calling on the United States as a Christian nation, to stop Spanish savagery and outrages.

Sensor Hoar, of Massachusetts, opposed the resolution, and favored a calm deliberate course. Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, made a very vehement speech in favor of Cuba. He said that he, and every other senator, were getting letters denouncing them for their position on Cuba. They came, he added, from the money changers of the east. In reply to the Rivera. Cuban resolution to the committee on foreign relations was defeated. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 41 to 0.

ANTI-SCALPING BILL.

Sensor Cullom has introduced an anti-scalping bill, substantially as it was reported by the interstate commerce commission during the last congress.

MR. BRYAN CALLED ON VICE PRESIDENT

Hobart today to pay his respects.

HABEAS CORPUS REFUSED.

The United States Supreme court today refused to grant the motion of Jos. Isagi, late consul-general for Turkey, at Boston, for a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from arrest on a charge of embezzlement. The decision of Justice Brown, of the second district, dismissing Isagi's appeal and recommending him to the custody of the city authorities was sustained.

RICH STRIKE AT YUMA.

Two Mines in the Pichaso District That are Yielding Ore That Runs Over $6,000 to the Ton.

Pomona, Cal., April 5.—Col. George F. Payne, a well known gold miner in California for more than a quarter of a century, who has just arrived here from Arizona, says that Yuma has suddenly become the most excited mining town in the west. Nothing quite like the present excitement over suddenly found riches, and prospects of further finds, has been seen since the palmy days of Virginia City in the early seventies. Cripple Creek and Tombstone were never in it for unadulterated excitement. Towns are wild with excitement because of two finds of marvelously rich bodies of gold ore. In the Pichaso mining district, 25 miles north of Yuma, on the California side of the Colorado river, are the Golden Dream and Noonday mines. For several weeks men at those mines have been getting into rich ore and the owner has been offered as high as $175,000 for his mines. On Thursday the men in both mines at almost the same hour, ran into ledges of ore that yield over $6,000 to the ton. Because of this there is a stampede coming into Yuma news of rich finds in the Gleason district.

Chicago, April 5.—The Globe Savings bank, organized in 1891, assigned this morning to the Chicago Title & Trust company. The last statement published on February 13, showed a capital of $200,000 and a surplus of $12,600, with deposits of $142,000, and savings of $313,000. The Globe Savings bank had no connection with the Globe National bank, and cleared through the Northwestern National bank.

A Fort Wayne Freight Train Goes Through a Bridge at Pittsburg with Fatal Results.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 5.—The wooden span of the north end approach of the Ohio connecting railroad bridge, collapsed about 6 o'clock this morning while a Fort Wayne freight train was crossing, and the engine and 13 cars were precipitated to McClure avenue, 50 feet below. Fireman William Haggerty was killed instantly and Engineer William Graham was so badly injured that he can not recover. The engine was completely wrecked and the cars which were loaded with coal and iron were entirely demolished. The loss will be very heavy.

The Ohio Connecting Bridge Crosses the Ohio River at Woods Run, and connects the Panhandle and Fort Wayne roads of the Pennsylvania company.

Danger Averted.

St. Louis, Mo., April 5.—Clear weather for the past two days has averted a rise of the Mississippi to the danger line, which was predicted last week would be reached this morning. This morning the flood leaked one foot and four inches of 30 feet, the danger point.

BURIED IN THE SNOW.

Tacoma, Wash., April 5.—Two Montecristo miners had a frightful experience Saturday on an avalanche in the Cascade mountains. One Edward Graham of Denver, Colo., was smothered to death under the snow. His companion, Sam Sperry, made heroic effort to rescue him by digging away the snow with his hands. When he uncovered Graham the latter was past resuscitation.

FOSTER'S PROCLAMATION.

He Calls Upon the People to Assist Those in Charge of the Protective System, and Thus Save the State Further Damage.

New Orleans, La., April 5.—Gov. Foster last night issued a proclamation to the people. He calls attention to the fact that the levee system, although not yet entirely perfected, is the bulwark of the state's salvation. Government and state aid has been extended, and the future depends upon the people. Trusted leaders are in charge of the work, and if the people help them properly, despite the fact that the flood apparently is the greatest ever known, almost all of the levees can be held, and the future will be bright, because the system will be strengthened and completed and the country will have confidence in Louisiana, her enterprises and her opportunities. So far there is not a break in the entire Louisiana levee system, not counting the tributary bayou of La Fourche, where the levee is weak.

Yesterday the sunshine raised hopes and quickened the work of the army of protection and a few more days of fair, calm weather will see giant efforts made in raising the barriers against overflows. Last night General Manager Thorne, of the Texas & Pacific, General Agent Spelman, of the Illinois Central, who is also president of the Ponchartraine levee board, spent the night, one at Lusher, the other at St. James, distributing material to planters, who say if they are given supplies they will furnish labor and hold the line.

Block House Bombardment.

Canea, April 5.—The Block house at Bal Sidiaria was attacked from several directions by the insurgents today, and the international troops repulsed with an artillery fire. The fighting lasted four hours. The French commander reports that the Greek troops took part in the action. Two European soldiers were wounded.

A DAM IN DANGER.

A Steady Rise of Water at Minneapolis Gives Rise to Serious Apprehension As to Safety of People on the West Side.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 5.—Some expression is felt for the safety of the New-powder dam recently completed at a great expense below St. Anthony falls. A portion of the coping was carried away by the first rush of ice, and it was noted this morning that the notch had been enlarged by a rush of water. There had been a rise of 16 inches since Saturday, and 100 families on the West side flats have been evicted by water. The upper Mississippi is now looked to as a danger point. The woods are full of snow and everything depends on whether it melts rapidly or slowly.

ARIZONA'S GOVERNOR.

The President Has Decided Who He Is to Be.

Says the Washington Post of March 31 last: "It has been practically settled that Hon. J. M. Evans, formerly of Monroe county, Ohio, now of Phoenix, A. T., will be appointed governor of that territory. Among Mr. Evans' endorsers are said to be Senators Foraker and Hanna, Governor Bland, of Ohio, ex-Secretary Foster, General Governor, Governor Atkinson, of West Virginia, Governor Pingree, of Michigan, and many prominent residents of Arizona. A warm struggle has been made for this place, there having been eight applicants for it."

MURDERERS CAUGHT.

Four Men Now in Jail at Clayton, and a Full Confession Made.

The men who killed E. Hopp and partner, two inoffensive Chinamen living in Clayton, on the night of March 24, have been caught and a full confession of the crime made.

The murder was committed with a hatchet and a coupling pin, which were left near the mutilated bodies, and from the clew given by these implements the case was worked up and the arrests made. Antonio Lenta and Juan Martinez were suspected, and a trail, supposed to have been made by them was followed into the country north of Clayton. Martinez was overhauled and arrested after a pursuit covering 100 miles, by Manuel Vigil and Albert Valdez. On the Saturday following Martinez confessed, giving the names of all the men implicated. There were five in the plot: Juan Martinez, Antonio Lenta, Antonio Quintana, Eligio Arguello, and Juan Garcia. They have all been caught but one; he is closely pursued, and no doubt is under arrest by this time.

The original plan was to rob the Chinamen, the saloons of Carl Eklund, C. E. Meredith, and Albino Garcia, Cone & Dyrans' store, and the depot, but the unexpected appearance of E. Hopp in his store while the men were rummaging it resulted in the murder of the Chinamen, and the murderers at once fled. They had expected to get $3,000 from Hopp's place, but instead only found 30 cents.

The prompt action of the citizens of Clayton, in raising a large reward for the capture of the murderers, and the determined pursuit prevented the escape of the five men, and Clayton's good name has been vindicated and the town's reputation as a law abiding community fully sustained.

MONDAY, APRIL 5.

Exceptions to all rules. Gov. Thornton has resigned.

The great powers of Europe are now giving the world a practical illustration of the "rarity of Christian charity."

The wool growers of the country must watch the Dingley bill in the U. S. senate. There are signs of breakers ahead for the wool schedules.

For city clerk vote for Charles B. Conklin; he is a young man, well educated and competent. He will make a courteous and attentive city clerk.

Daniel Webster's tailor has been discovered. Any reminder of the time when the U. S. senate was a great law making body, composed of brainy men, is welcome in these degenerate days.

The promptness with which the administration has ordered ships to Honolulu to protect American interests is to be commended. There will be no "paramount" business in Honolulu this time.

Here is a man who reasons that you cannot have too much of a good thing. A widower with 12 children, living in long Island City, New York state, has just married a widow with seven children.

In the coming city election, those who desire to see a clean progressive and economical administration of municipal affairs will stand together as one man, for the election of the Republican ticket.

You cannot possibly make a mistake in voting for Samuel G. Cartwright, the Republican nominee for treasurer. A better man for the position could not have been selected. Give him your vote by all means.

Ex-FORMER GENERAL WILSON freely expresses the opinion that the Dingley tariff bill, if enacted into a law, will prove a failure. Mr. Wilson judges by the results of his own tariff law which was a complete failure.

In answer to an anxious correspondent the New Mexican is pleased to say that, in its opinion, the Republican party of New Mexico will not go to smash, no matter who is to be the new governor, vice Thornton resigned.

The queen of Great Britain and empress of all the Indies has decided to allow Mr. Richard Harding Davis to attend the jubilee of the 60th anniversary of her reign. The older that woman gets to be, the more sense she gets. And she is getting right old.

Vote for the Republican nominees for members of the city council and members of the city board of education. The Republican nominees are good men, who have the best interests of the city at heart and who, if elected, will work for the city's advancement and best interests.

City election tomorrow. Vote the Republican ticket which is man against man and candidate against candidate better than the opposing ticket. This city needs a clean and efficient city administration and will have it during the coming year, should the Republican ticket be successful.

Greece has offered to purchase the island of Crete, but the sublime porte does not know whether the island is for sale or not until it has had time to consult the great and good monarchies whose guns are now trained upon the Christians who are trying to throw off the Moslem yoke. Greece should have known that the "concert" owns Crete and not Turkey.

The ticket placed in the field by the Republicans to be voted on tomorrow in the city election is a very good one and superior to the Democratic ticket in every respect. The Republicans are not running this campaign as much on politics as they are in the interest of an economical, fair and energetic city administration. Every taxpayer, regardless of politics, can well afford to vote for the Republican nominees and help elect them.

The Republican candidate for mayor, Hon. C. A. Spiess, has done good, faithful and successful work for the citizens and voters of this city during the sessions of the last legislature. Therefore and because he deserves this in every other way, should be voted for at the city election tomorrow and elected.

The issue in this city election is plain. The Republicans have the best ticket and stand for economy and clean city government. The Democratic nominees stand upon a political platform, that talks of the greatness of the Democratic party and what that party would do if it had a chance. Hence vote for the Republican nominees and secure thereby the right kind of a city government.

During the month of March, the first month of Republican administration, the amount of cash in the treasury increased some $8,000,000. It is comforting to read of a monthly surplus instead of a monthly deficit, to which we have been so long unhappily accustomed. To be sure there has been no change in the fiscal policy of the government since the Republicans assumed power. But there has been a decided change in the sentiments of the people; where only a few months since there was distrust, comparative confidence now holds sway, and there has been a decided change for the better all along the line.

JAPANESE AGGRESSION.
It is becoming more and more apparent that unless some powerful nation takes the Sandwich Islands under its protection in the near future, serious race troubles will be likely to arise, which the government may not be able to control. The late war over Japanese immigration is a sample of what will occur a dozen times a year until something serious happens, if this group of islands is left to manage its own affairs. Annexation of Hawaii to the United States would at once put a stop to all this. Our laws against the employment of alien contract labor would at once apply to Hawaii if annexation were to become a fact.

The Japanese are becoming very numerous and aggressive in Hawaii, and it will only be a matter of time when they will precipitate a revolution on one pretext or another with the view of gaining control of the government. The United States could not safely permit the islands to pass under the control of Japan nor of any other power. The time is not far off when this government will be forced to take some definite and decisive action in relation to Hawaii.

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.
The Democratic city convention, which met on Friday evening, adopted as a political emblem the rooster. This fact in itself is not a startling piece of political news, for the noisy bird has served in the same capacity before, but there is a strong suspicion abroad that upon this particular occasion the emblem was assigned to novel duty—that of promulgating the resolutions adopted by this gay gathering of local Democratic statesmen. If not—if these resolutions did not come from a rooster, where did they come from? They are devoid alike of sense, truth and modesty, and are so palpably characteristic of this obscene fowl, that we are irresistibly impelled to the conclusion that they emanated from this emblem of untruth, discord and disaster. The cry of the little street Arab who taunts his playfellow with "having less brains than a rooster" is not without basis in scientific fact. This bird knows enough to make a noise and that is about all. Its strut is also at times the subject of remark, but when you have included strutting and crowing, the list of its eminent possibilities is complete, and its appropriateness as an emblem of Democracy is amply demonstrated.

The defeat suffered by the Democrats at the last election is fast proving to be to the detriment of the welfare of the country. This gem forms a part of the resolution adopted by the convention of Friday. How very like the crow of a rooster. The remarkable declaration continues: "The era of prosperity based upon hopes and promises has not yet made itself apparent to our midst, but on the contrary the interests and all values are steadily on the decrease and very much depressed." Then it was resolved "that we firmly adhere to the free and unlimited coinage of silver on the Bryan basis." Of course the silver issue will play an important part in the city election, which made imperative a declaration on this question. The "Bryan basis" is good. It betrays a mental unsoundness, quite consonant with the needs and aspirations of Democracy. The promoters of this silver resolution evidently could not recall, if indeed they ever knew, the coinage basis defended by the Democratic party, and so the name of the boy orator instead of being used to cover a multitude of sins, a use to which it is well adapted, was in this specific case used to cover dense ignorance, quite rooster-like in its proportions.

Provincials who crow about the condition of the money market should read the newspapers. Even Democratic organs are forced to admit that there has been a steady improvement in finances since the inauguration of Mr. McKinley. Values are steadily on the increase, instead of the reverse.

As stated in these columns before, any marked improvement in local conditions will be some time in making itself manifest. The nerve centers of prosperity and depression are to be found in the great money markets. Here a change in conditions, even of the slightest character, first makes itself felt. Intelligent men of whatever shade of political opinion understand this. That a Democratic rooster should find it a little to abstruse for his comprehension is no marvel. He will keep on crowing just the same, and wagging his hollow head, a fit emblem of a noisy and shallow party.

ANNEXATION OF HAWAII.
It will be news to a good many people to learn that the annexation of Hawaii was prominently before the country, is but the revival of a proposition dating as back as 1853.

In that year John T. Wright, known on the coast as "Billy" Wright, owned three steamboats named the Sea Bird, S. B. Wheeler and West Point. The two former ran to Sacramento and the latter to Vallejo and Benicia. The Wright boats were too slow to be of any formidable opposition to such steamers as the Senator, New World, Antelope, Confidence and others operated by a rival company, known as the California Steam Navigation company, of which Captain James Whitney and Samuel Hensley were the principal owners. Hensley and Whitney nevertheless, lost some business to the Wright boats, and they finally offered the old man $8,000 a month to take them out of California waters, naturally supposing that he would take them to Oregon or Puget sound.

Wright accepted the offer but sent his boats to the Sandwich Islands, his financial backer in the enterprise being James C. L. Wardsworth, a hardware merchant of San Francisco. As soon as the boats reached the islands, they were given Hawaiian registers and had native names painted on their paddle boxes. At that time industrial conditions were wholly different in the islands from what they now are. Honolulu and Lahaina were the winter rendezvous of several hundred whaling vessels engaged in the Arctic oil trade.

There was no sugar industry at that period. If there had been the scheme planned in San Francisco might have been consummated without a struggle. Occasionally a big clipper would arrive from San Francisco and carry away in her capacious hold the cargoes that five or six whalers had brought down from the land of the midnight sun. Beyond that Honolulu was very quiet. Influences at Washington were not wanting to aid the scheme which old Col. Wright deemed necessary to the success of this big enterprise. One of his trusted friends was James O'Meara, who had previously been an editorial writer on John Nugent's Daily Herald in San Francisco. He was the political figure head in the case, though Ryckman and his coadjutors in San Francisco were really nearer the throne than he. O'Meara is still alive and resides at Santa Rosa, Cal.

Just what his position was in the enterprise, nobody but himself knows, but the general belief is that he was paid a handsome salary, by parties in Washington who were very close to President Pierce, himself an ardent supporter of the proposition. Everything was ready for the annexation of the Sandwich islands in January 1855. The group was to be called the State of Hawaii and King Kamehameha (who afterward took the throne as Kamehameha IV) was to be one of the two U. S. senators, the other to be of American birth. On January 13, 1855, just as O'Meara and Wardsworth were ready to leave for Washington via San Francisco, old Kamehameha III was taken violently ill and two days later died. Alexander at once convened the council of nobles and had himself pronounced king, with indecent haste, that caused much unfavorable comment. The missionary element and a small faction of the nobles that had always viewed Americans with distrust, knowing of the scheme of annexation to which the dead king had been favorable, were the prime movers in the haste of Alexander, and really defeated the proposition, which, soon passed away like any other nine days wonder, and the American element returned to San Francisco. Wardsworth and Wright each spent about $100,000 on the scheme and many others were out sums varying from $10,000 to $50,000. A great deal of money came from high officials in Washington, who were careful not to be known in the transaction.

TERRITORIAL COMMENT.
Leading Questions as Treated by the Territorial Papers.

A New Richmond.
The latest out: John Davis, merchant at Maxwell City, is looking up his chances for secretary of the territory.—Springer Stockman.

Mothersill Should Be Appointed.
It is said that Philip Mothersill, R. F. Campbell and Moses Dillon have each made application to be collector of customs at El Paso. All them can't get the appointment.—Chloride Black Range.

The Souvenir Pamphlet.
The Liberal is in receipt of a handsome bound pamphlet issued by the New Mexican as a souvenir of the late legislature. It contains fine engravings and biographies of the legislators.—Lordsburg Liberal.

The Santa Fe New Mexican has issued a very neat souvenir of the late legislature in the form of a well printed sketchbook containing half-tone pictures and biographical sketches of the members. The work is a credit to the New Mexican office.—Donna Ana Republican.

Catarrh
Mrs. Josephine Polhill, of Due West, S. C., had a severe case of catarrh which finally became deep-seated that she was entirely deaf in one ear, and part of the bone in her nose sloughed off. The best physicians treated her in vain, and she used various applications of sprays and washes to no avail. Fourteen bottles of S. S. S. promptly reached the seat of the disease, and cured her sound and well.

An Editorial Opinion.
Ex-Delegate Carter will undoubtedly be the next United States district attorney for New Mexico.—Eddy Argus.

He is Deserving.
Colonel Mott Timoney, one of the stalwarts of the Republican ranks of Chaves county, is an applicant for appointment to a consular position in Mexico. The colonel has been valiant in the service of the party, has good endorsements, and is almost sure to receive what he wants.—Eddy Argus.

Kendall for Register.
Hon. A. K. Kendall of Cerrillos, is a candidate for the office of register of the United States land office at Santa Fe, and indications point strongly toward his appointment. Judge Kendall is a sturdy Republican and an deserving, and fully competent to administer the duties of the office he seeks.—Cerrillos Rustler.

Colonel Hudson for Collector.
The Washington Post of the 28th ult. had the following very favorable notice of our esteemed fellow townsman, Colonel Richard Hudson, and best of all it is perfectly correct.

"Among those here from New Mexico who are after getting on Uncle Sam's payroll is M. F. McKinley, of Albuquerque, a cousin of the president, who would like to be collector of internal revenue. His chief rival is Colonel Richard Hudson, of Silver City, conceded to be the most popular man in the territory, and a fighting Republican."—Silver City Enterprise.

Philip E. Harroun.
This gentleman is a very formidable candidate for the office of surveyor general of New Mexico. He has the confidence of his party and is unquestionably well qualified for the position. He was born in the city of Chicago in the early 60s and came to New Mexico with his parents in 1881 and settled in Santa Fe, where he has since resided. Mr. Harroun has a liberal education and a great deal of executive ability. He attended the University of California, where he took a course of civil engineering and surveying. Since his return from California he has been employed continually on large irrigation enterprises in New Mexico, and is at present superintending the construction, as chief engineer, of the second largest irrigating plant in the southwest, at Rio Puerco, Bernalillo county. In politics he has ever been a true and faithful Republican, and has rendered valuable services to his party. His father is the most popular physician in Santa Fe, and at the same time one of the most esteemed and respected citizens in the territory. His grandfather, Dr. Douglas Houghton, was Michigan's first state geologist, and it is to him that the world is indebted for the first definite information relative to the rich mineral deposits of that state. Mr. Harroun is courteous and genial and is popular wherever he is known. He is a man of sterling integrity and his appointment to any position of honor would give general satisfaction.—San Marcial Bee.

FOR THE LADIES.
AN EVENING WAIST.

Separate waists, especially for theatre and evening wear, have lost none of their popularity, though it was said last fall that their vogue was over. They have been the rule, not the exception during the winter, and the coming spring and summer will find their favor undiminished. There is a reason for this in the possibilities they offer of variety combined with comparative economy. They also afford a use for remnants and short lengths of handsome materials, which are so often to be picked up at the bargain counter.

A striking example is shown here. It is made of a figured silk of pink ground with a black vine, combined with pink silk crepe. The back of the waist is entirely of the silk, which is stretched smooth over a fitted lining. In front, the silk forms a tiny jacket with draped revers over a pouch bodice of the crepe tucked crosswise. Long fitted sleeves of the silk are slashed at the top, a puff of the tucked crepe being run under the strap formed by the slashes.

A black satin belt with bow and a bow at the bust finish this effective waist. A black moire skirt is worn.

124 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not assured until May, and a majority of the acreage was planted between JUNE 1st AND AUGUST 10th.

GOOD SOIL makes the seed germinate. WATER makes the plant grow.

SUNLIGHT puts the sugar in the BEET.

THE ONLY THING left to be desired that the Pecos Valley has not on hand is abundance in PEOPLE. We need thrifty farmers; 500 heads of families each on a 40-acre farm.

INDIAN SUMMER.
Like Helios' son in mythic age old Tender heart grew all too quickly cold.
Who, having won King Min's daughter true, Gave up as taught young love's immortal dove.
Fled while she slept on Naxos' lonely isle,
And sleeping dreamed of Theseus' love the while.
The royal summer, through the leafy ways,
Wooded well and won the beauty of the days;
O'er hill and dale they wandered late and long
And talked of love and life and love's long Till, while she slept between the tender trills,
He fled and left her dreaming on the hills.

IN ARGENTINA.
The visitor or new resident in the Argentine Republic will, very soon after arrival, become unconsciously aware that one of the customs of the Spanish inhabitants is to reverse a well known proverb and render it thus, "On no account do anything today that can possibly be put off until tomorrow." With natural politeness, or perhaps to save the trouble of discussion, they promise anything and everything for "today." If so required, but the sun will set and rise and set again before the promise is fulfilled. He who promises thinks "manana" (Spanish for "tomorrow") will do equally well. Why be in such a hurry?
Oh, these Argies; they cannot wait. They have no patience!

In a small camp town in the province of Santa Fe there dwelt one Manuel Rodriguez, a good looking fellow, according to his kind with black eyes, thick masses of dark hair, and a well built frame. He owned the principal panaderia in the place, and, besides being a baker, carried on a small trade in shoe-making and repairing. All these qualifications raised him to the position of an eligible young man, and one looked up to as a desirable beau by the señoritas of his own class.

It was the hottest hour of a very hot day, 100 degrees in the shade, and not very much shade either to be found in that flat and treeless part of the country. But Rodriguez had a portion of the patio well covered in, and there he lounged in loose attire, drinking mate—the tea of the country—before taking his usual siesta. He would take a long rest; true, there were those of the senora's promise for today, and still unfinished—but there would be tomorrow, "manana"—his eyes closed, his head fell back—and Manuel Rodriguez was in the land of dreams.

He was not allowed to remain there long. Scarcely had he begun a nice comfortable nap when there resounded in the still air a loud clapping of hands. A man on horseback rode up to show the usual fashion at the door. Both he and his horse were drenched with the heat and covered with dust. A second clapping producing no effect, the man, muttering impatiently, alighted and knocked on the closed shutters. A voice was heard within, and presently there appeared, from behind the house, a youth, who inquired of the newcomer what he wanted.

"The master," was the reply.
"But the master is asleep, señor," said the boy.

"Then wake him," exclaimed the stranger, "and tell him to come quickly." Rodriguez, already awakened by the noise, rose from his chair, stretched himself, yawned and very leisurely opened the doors, greeting his customer with a "Buenos días, señor." Responding in like manner, the stranger held out a foot to show the plight he was in, the sole of his shoe having parted company from the upper leather, revealing a considerable portion of the wearer's sock. He requested Rodriguez to repair the shoe while he rested and dined at the restaurant, promising to send for him to return sunset before resuming his journey.

"This is a small order to be mended from one's necessary rest for," Rodriguez thought, but he was too sleepy for anything but an assenting "buenos." So the stranger, placing his shoe on the table, and the stranger, thanked him and rode away.
Rodriguez closed the doors, threw the shoe into an inner workroom, returned to his chair, resumed his slumbers, and this time enjoyed them undisturbed.

The stranger senior was kindly entertained at the restaurant, supplied with slippers, refreshed with a bath, and his dusty clothes shaken and brushed. After partaking of the inevitable mate and enjoying a short siesta, he was now dining, previous to resuming his journey. A boy was now dispatched for the shoe, with general payment for the repair.

"Ah, señor," said the mistress of the house, "if it is that lazy Rodriguez you have left your shoe with, it will not yet be done."
"Not done?" he exclaimed. "But it must be done, or what shall I do?"
"Quien sabe?" said the woman, with her soft lip and a sympathizing shake of her head. The boy returned without the shoe, reporting Rodriguez would do it tomorrow. This made the senior very angry, and the boy was sent a second time to say he must have it, however roughly stitched, and he would wait an hour longer, and the answer came that Rodriguez was going to dine, his man was drunk and unable to work, and therefore the shoe could not be repaired until the morning. The senior had better stay all night.

"It is impossible," said the senior, who was now in a great rage, and ordered his horse to be brought, he rode off to see what he could do in the matter. Rodriguez took it very coolly when asked the reason of the delay, saying he had been "indisposed," which was perfectly true in one sense, and he was now going to ride out in the camp.
It was too late to work.

"But," said the stranger in a despairing voice, "it is time I return. What am I to do?"
"Quien sabe?" said Rodriguez unconcernedly, with a shrug of his shoulders.
The senior, who had been looking at him, and without another word took away, and telling himself, however, "I'll make you pay for this, my fine fellow. You'll see me again before many 'mananas' if all goes well."

The mistress of the restaurant found a half worn pair of shoes which fitted the senior, and for which—his good temper being restored—she received ample remuneration. Then, after paying for his own refreshment and not forgetting that of the horse, he left the place. Outside the little town he drew in rein, turning round, kissed his hand in the direction from which he had come, saying, "A good one. Other men's shoes! Aha, it is very good.
Adios hasta luego!" (until we meet again).
The last train passing through this little town the same night brought the resident jokester, who had been absent a few days.
He was somewhat agitated and made instant inquiries concerning a man whose description answered exactly to that of the shoeless stranger, and whom he was most anxious to seize and imprison. He sent vigilantes to all the restaurants, and on their return, hearing that such a person had not only been in the town, but had remained there for several hours, leaving only at sunset, he exclaimed:

"The evil! He knew how well I was far away. Ah, my bad luck!"
An exciting time now followed. Rumors of a rebellion had been floating in the air, and the day came when it broke out.
The sympathy was mostly with the insurgents, the rising being in consequence of the unjust and one-sided administration of those in power. The rebels gained the victory, and a general "turn out" of officials took place, followed by a putting in of new men. Another judge was appointed in the little town, and the senior soon settled themselves very comfortably, as if nothing had occurred. Meanwhile Manuel Rodriguez had been roused from his usual apathy and the question of his preference for a certain senorita definitely settled. An energetic suitor for the hand of the fair Anita having come forward, caused Rodriguez to realize the state of his own heart, and the fact that Anita, and she only, was his mistress. He then lost no time, but made such favorable overtures that he was accepted and the marriage arranged for the next "fiesta."

A few days previous to the wedding he called at the residence of the newly appointed judge to notify him that he should present himself with his betrothed, her parents and usual witnesses on the morning of the fiesta for the civil marriage. It was not surprising that Rodriguez failed to recognize in him the dusty, unkempt, worn out traveler of two months ago, whose shoe still remained unended and unclaimed on the shelf of the workshop. But the judge recognized Rodriguez and listened gravely while the latter stated his business, and said they would, with the permission of his excellency, assemble before him at 9 o'clock on the morning of the fiesta. The only response of the judge was a brief "Buenos," and taking up a paper he signified that the interview was closed.

Rodriguez, thus dismissed, uttered his thanks and bowed himself out.
If Rodriguez had glanced back on leaving the room, he would have seen the grave countenance of the judge instantly relax, a smile spread over his face and his eyes twinkle with joy, as he rubbed his hands together, exclaiming, "Ah, I shall now be even with you, my friend."

It was a glorious morning. The fiesta was one of the great ones of the general holiday. The tinkling bell of the little church had been calling worshippers together at intervals from a very early hour.
The Argentine colors were displayed over the residence of the judge, and a few minutes before 9 o'clock the wedding party came in sight, a gay procession of some length, a thronging file across the plaza by a well trodden path under the acacia trees, thus avoiding the dusty road. The invitations to participate had been well responded to, and the party crowded the room where they awaited the appearance of the judge.

Ten minutes passed, and Rodriguez, becoming impatient, rose and looked out.
A vigilante was walking a saddled horse to and fro before the door of the judge's bedroom, which opened on the plaza. At the same moment, dressed for riding, out came the judge himself, and to the utter astonishment of Rodriguez proceeded to mount his horse. He was then about to start; but this was too much. Rodriguez dashed forward.

"Pardon, señor," he gasped. "The marriage—we are all assembled on the plaza."
"Oh," said the judge. "Marriage?"
"Yes, señor. It was arranged for this feast day at 9 o'clock, with the permission of your excellency, and we are now waiting."
"Ah," said the judge, frowning. "But I am indisposed. I am going to ride out in the camp. The marriage can be put off until tomorrow."

Rodriguez was furious, but dared not show it. "Pardon, excellencia," he cried in agitation, "but my bride—the company?
The priests, too, will be waiting at the church. What am I to do?"
"Quien sabe?" replied the judge as he rode on a few paces. Then turning his head he added: "Perhaps you will now mend my shoe, my good fellow. Adios hasta manana" (adieu until tomorrow).

"Shoe!" In a moment all flashed out of Rodriguez, and the angry blood rushed to his face. But catching a glimpse of Anita peeping out in alarm, he swallowed down his anger and pride, and rushing after the judge begged a thousand pardons for his fault, entreating that his bride, so young and happy, who had done no wrong, should not be punished and put to shame. Ah, his excellency should see how grateful he would be.

Now there was not in the whole province of Santa Fe a kinder hearted man than the judge, and although he had determined to punish Rodriguez, he did not intend to give him more than a "bad half hour."
The priests, who were to be the guests of the judge at his breakfast table that day, being in the secret, thought the lesson was well merited, and might prove beneficial.
But as the judge glanced back at Rodriguez, he also saw that Anita's troubled face, and this, together with Rod-riguez's appeal on her behalf, was too much for his kind heart. He could hold out no longer. So, dismounting, he led the poor fellow back to his bride, said a few gra-tious words to her, and remarking generally that there had been "a little misunderstanding," proceeded with the marriage contract.

Before Rodriguez and his bride left the room, the former placed on the table a double fee and assured the judge of his grateful feelings. They then proceeded to the church, where the religious ceremony took place.
That day week the judge received a present—the handsome pair of shoes Rodriguez ever sent out of his shop.

There is an odd shoe hanging up in a conspicuous place in Rodriguez's workshop with the word "Recuerdo" (reminder) painted under it. Old habits are never easily got rid of, or mended as old shoes, and he needs this "remembrance," for he still occasionally fails to keep his promise, in spite of the judge's lesson, and continues to cherish a fondness for the visionary "manana."—

An Unconscious Irony.
"I never see that good old motto, 'Honesty is the best policy,'" remarked Senator Sorghum, "without being carried back to my boyhood days."
"It is a grand old motto," replied his friend, "one that it is well to impress early in life."

to pay the school boy 7 cents and a jackknife to write that line in my copybook so as to keep me from getting marked below the average in penmanship."

A SONG OF WINTER.
The north wind's ripping through the dark
Around the snowy cliff.
The plumb's happy as a lark.
The plumb's frozen stiff.
The snowflakes through the garden fly
On light and airy wings.
The sleighbells' merrily starry sky
Go ding-a-ling-a-ling!
The snowflake's batter's at the lat,
With joy our dreams to fill.
When topped with golden honey that Falls from Hymeneus' hill.
While quaint, fantastic wreaths are hung
Upon the dreary yew.
The rabbit's fondlest song is sung
Within the snowy dew.

Before the wind that wildly wails
The wool pile mounds pulled.
The coal man monkeys with the scales
Not wisely, but too well.
In linked sweetness long drawn out
We see the sausage soon.
When in our loudest tones we shout
The slogan, "Shut the door!"
The sparrow's piping on the gate
For bread his coop to fill.
And we upon the job estate
Go flying down the hill.
That capers down our snow
There is one blooming truth we know—
The winter is on deck.
Then let the punch serenely steam
Our fondlest hopes to raise.
And glad our lotos eating dream
Beside the logs ablaze.
To fairy isles in ecstasies
We'll sail in fancy's shift.
While all the blizzard leaps in glee
To freeze the plumbing stiff.

Reflections of a Bachelor.
If a rethundered girl is rich, it is said she has Titian tinted hair.
Cats and women always cry when they are lonesome, and nearly every in the same key.
The man who is honest enough to think may sometimes see a girl he likes better let it in love.
When a girl says a man is a regular bear, it makes you wonder if he has been trying to act like one.
The smaller the hat a woman wears at the theater the more she always keeps her head bobbing around.
The heart doesn't believe in platonic friendship so much as women is because they generally have tried it.
The more attractive a girl knows she is to be, the more aggravating she thinks she has to be.
Snowfall when a girl is rescued at night from a fire she never has on as pretty a one as you would expect from the pictures in the papers.—New York Press.

Thought It Was a Fly.
She wore her hat very far down over her eyes. It was a very large hat, and its proud devotion was a bunch of bird of paradise tail feathers. She came into church with the most devout air imaginable and knelt for a moment in silent prayer. The baldheaded man just in front of her twitched uneasily. His head moved round and he lifted one hand and brought it smartly down on the top of his bald head—and the tips of my lady's bird of paradise feathers which had been tickling it. After that a very red faced woman sat bolt upright in her pew, while a baldheaded man just in front turned purple, and what in any other place would have been a snicker ran through the congregation.—Boston Journal.

The Colonel's Observation.
"I'm afraid," remarked Colonel Stillwell's friend, "that I have a touch of malaria."
"That's very bad," replied the colonel sympathetically.
"It's a most disagreeable malady."

sibly think of in favor of malaria is the fact that whisky is considered a good medicine for it."—Washington Star.

An Exchange of Compliments.
Freshleigh, '00, met an old colored man the other day crossing the campus, and the following conversation ensued: Freshleigh—Hello, Sam! The trees are getting nearly as black as you are, hey?
Big Sam—Yessah, and next spring, sah, they'll be nearly as green as you, sah.—

Followed.

thing tells me we are being followed."
The hero laughed lightly.
"Impossible," he rejoined.

WHY THE JURY DISAGREED.
It was plain the Members Meant to Beat the Court.
The jury in the case of Sam Davis, charged with killing Pete Skinner, had been out nearly three hours wrangling and making a great deal of noise, and the judge, who had been peering up and down and muttering to himself for the last hour, finally sent for them to come back into the courtroom.
"Look a-yere, Bill," he said to the forward man of the jury as he stepped in, their appearance showing every evidence of several free for all fights in the jury room,
"ar' yo' fellers goin' to arger in that much longer?"
"Hard to tell, judge," replied the foreman as he tried to stop the flow of blood from his nose.
"Sense to this court," continued the judge, "thet yo' all must be a passel of idjits thet yo' can't agree in such a plain case as this!"
"Reckon we be, judge."
"Waal, I'm jest gittin' dog tired of it, shuck me if I ain't! Hev yo' critters here payin' attention to the evidence on both sides?"
"Yes, judge, we hev."
"Was thar any evidence on the prisoner's side to show thet he shot accidentally?"
"Not a bit."
"Dn't it all show thet he did it a-pu-pose?"
"Fur shore."
"Didn't he practically admit his guilt on his nose?"
"Yep, I reckon he did thet."
"And, furthermore, when I charged yo', didn't I ask as a special favor to me to hurry up, as I'm powerful anxious to see thet dawg fight over at B'ar Creek at 8 o'clock?"
"Waal, I'll be chawed up by a grizzly bear!" exclaimed the judge as he slapped his leg and jumped a foot high. "Bin arguin' and fightin' all this time 'bout the prisoner's boss and guns, oh! Waal, jest me tell yo' all thet the guns are in my desk, and the boss is safe in my stable, and yo' jest git back in thet jury room and bring in your verdict. If I hear any more 'bout thet snarl and thet boss, yo'll all git fined $100 apiece fur tryin' to beat this court!"
The jury limped out and came back in a minute with a verdict of "guilty," and three minutes later, with the judge leading, they were on the road for B'ar Creek and the dog fight. A. B. Lewis in New infrequent. Too often the baby is

The woman who neglects to take proper care of herself and who therefore suffers from weakness and disease of the organs of wo-

Her children will be puny and ailing and happiness will pass by on the other side.
There is no reason why every woman should medicines did her a world of good. She was con-

She got along nicely afterward. She says she

Hon. Harvey B. Ferguson, New Mexico's delegate in congress, has given notice that it has become his duty to fill a vacancy in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, for which appointment a competitive examination will be held in Albuquerque some time during this month. The examination is to be conducted by Professor C. E. Hodgins of Albuquerque, Brother Amien of Santa Fe, and Professor W. H. Seamon of Socorro, to whom applicants must apply for information relative to the coming contest. The physical examination will be conducted by Dr. Wroth, Dr. Stratton and Dr. Haynes, all of Albuquerque, and will take place at the same time and place as the mental examination. Applicants must be bona fide residents of New Mexico between 15 and 20 years of age, and must be physically sound. The mental examination will cover the common school branches, reading, spelling, arithmetic, United States history, geography, composition, etc.

Mr. Ferguson has announced his intention of making this appointment without reference to politics, race or religion. The prize will go to the best qualified, and the course chosen by Delegate Ferguson in making the appointment by competitive examination is to be commended. The fortunate applicant must present himself at Annapolis for examination on May 15, 1897.

A GRACEFUL ACT.

Gov. Thornton Releases Young Jose Borrego During Good Behavior.

After due consideration Governor Thornton this forenoon issued a release to Jose Gonzalez y Borrego, brother of the two men executed last Friday, who was serving a sentence of imprisonment of two and a half years in the territorial penitentiary, under a conviction for an assault with a deadly weapon, and sentenced about a year ago. This will probably be Governor Thornton's last official act, as he leaves tonight for Sonora and will not return until the new governor shall have been appointed. The action of the governor in this instance is considered very timely and proper by the best citizens of Santa Fe, and meets with public approval. The full text of the release is as follows:

Whereas, Jose F. Gonzalez was convicted in the District court, sitting within and for the county of Santa Fe, of an assault with a deadly weapon upon one Elias Rael, and sentenced to serve a term in the territorial penitentiary of two and a half years, and

Whereas, The said Gonzalez having already served about one year of such sentence, and taking into consideration he is only 18 years of age, and feeling that the ends of justice have been satisfied, I, W. T. Thornton, governor of the territory of New Mexico, by virtue of the authority in me vested, do hereby issue a stay of execution in such case during the good behavior of the said Jose Gonzalez, and hereby direct the warden of the territorial penitentiary to release him from confinement—not to be again re-arrested for this offense, unless he at some future time shall violate some law of the territory, in which event he shall be re-arrested to serve the remaining portion of his time for which he was sentenced.

Dated at the executive office, this the 5th day of April, 1897.

Witness my hand and the great seal of the territory of New Mexico.

W. T. THORNTON,

Governor of the territory of New Mexico.

A General Eagerness to Know What the Outcome of the Affair Will be is Plainly Noticeable Amongst Many of Our Readers.

As a result of the announcement made North and South, but at the best he has received only temporary relief.

"Dr. Hobbs' announcement that he has made a discovery which will cure and build up the kidneys, and his offer to prove it by the giving away of a free package, is quite a novelty to me, as heretofore it has been 'pay' whether the medicine did any good or not."

"We are going to give this remedy a good, fair trial, and I hope that others, suffering as my husband is, will hear of it and accept the kind and generous offer which Dr. Hobbs makes."

It is expected that tomorrow there will be a great rush of applicants for a free package of Dr. Hobbs' Spargus Kidney Pills. But no matter what the demand is, A. C. Ireland is well prepared to meet it.

"All those living in Santa Fe or any town outside who apply at our store tomorrow in person or write for a sample will be welcome, and not only a of this wonderful medicine will be given rate. The owners of this medicine certainly have faith in it, and they are going about it in an honest straightforward manner. Just this thing alone gives me confidence and strong hope that I shall again be a well man."

Another caller yesterday—a lady—said: "I live several miles away from Santa Fe but I am going to get a sample box of this kidney medicine for my husband. He has been a sufferer from kidney disease for many years."
