THURSDAY, APRIL 8.

A MOVEMENT is now in order for reforming the Mississippi.

The ex-husbands of Lillian Russell will have their annual reunion this year in New York City on June 2.

When it comes to offices President McKinley does the sleeping and the other fellows do the floor walking.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY is taking his first outing since assuming executive authority at the nation's capital.

QUEEN VICTORIA is to pay Willy Wally Astor a visit very soon. It is not often that the old lady pays a social visit to an American. And still this country is not satisfied.

THE European "concert" is a sort of a governmental trust. It is trying just now to get up a corner on kings, or to get a king in a corner, which amounts to the same thing.

"THERE are still more thieves in Brooklyn than we have use for" says the Brooklyn Eagle. Wonder how many thieves they need in Brooklyn to be perfectly happy.

MR. McKINLEY's democratic ways are all right, but the New Mexican hopes they will not extend to keeping Democratic officeholders in New Mexico, in office too long.

AS USUAL the Democratic gangsters are talking about undoing the will of the people as expressed at the last city election. Let them attempt this! They will find it somewhat more dangerous now, than during the past three years.

THE industrial department of the Santa Fe at Chicago will be glad to receive suggestions from the people of New Mexico as to the new project inaugurated by that system looking to the development of infant industries in the territory.

THERE seems to be a death of war news from China these days. Probably the European "concert" is being reorganized. The crazy emperor is likely to withdraw in disgust, now that he has discovered that he is not to be allowed to run the thing to please himself.

THE action of Delegate Ferguson in calling for a competitive examination for the purpose of selecting an appointee to fill the vacancy from New Mexico, existing in the Annapolis naval cadet corps, is proper and right and meets with approval from the people of the territory.

FOURTH ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL BRISTOW is at work, and fourth class postmasters are being changed at the rate of about thirty per day. This is highly commendable, as the changes are for the better. Besides being from Kansas, Mr. Bristow understands the necessity of staying by his friends in politics.

MR. JAMES A. DAVIS, industrial commissioner of the Santa Fe railroad, says that if New Mexico had nothing but her bracing health restoring climate as a resource, she ought to quadruple her population annually until a destiny equal to any eastern state is reached. For a globe trotter this is saying a good deal. Mr. Davis is right. It is our incomparable climate that first attracts the attention of strangers. But this great blessing is backed by resources of much greater importance as Mr. Davis goes on in his interview to prove. "I have seen," said he, "more undeveloped wealth during the past week than I ever dreamed of. Only people and a fair share of money are required to make New Mexico richer than the Indies."

WASHINGTON advices are to the effect that the senate finance committee is hard at work on the tariff bill which is to be reported in the senate at an early date. It is also reported from stray bits of information from individual members of the committee presumably, that many changes are being made in the bill as it left the house, and that in several instances these changes will take the form of lower duties. The senate committee can easily overstep the bounds of wisdom in this matter. While duties should not in any case be made prohibitory, it should not be forgotten that the United States at the last election declared emphatically for a return to the protective principle in tariff legislation.

THE "NEW" JOURNALISM.

New York journalism must be in a bad condition when it is necessary to curtail its liberties by special legislative enactment, such as the Ellsworth bill now before the New York legislature. This measure prohibits the publication of cartoons and portraits without the consent of the persons involved. The bill may or may not be constitutional, but it has passed a second reading in the lower house, and has had the effect of arousing the New York newspapers, some of which see that a promising field of adventure will be closed to them should the measure become law. Newspapers generally throughout the state will feel the sting of this rebuke, when as a matter of fact it is only aimed at a few sheets wallowing in filth and entering to the lowest taste to be found in a great metropolis. It is a fact, nevertheless, that restrictive legislation of this character brings a certain amount of discredit upon the entire profession.

This "new journalism," so called, is a fad that will soon die out, for it is founded upon a sensationalism that will never become welcome to the great body of American readers. It works on the same lines as the erotic novel, and is doomed in the very nature of things to an ephemeral existence. It is against the exponents of this class of journalism that the legislation referred to above is directed. Clean, honest and conservative journalism is recognized by the best minds of the country as the greatest educational force of modern civilization, and it is this class of work alone that will stand the test of time and truth.

THE OMAHA EXPOSITION.

Ex-Governor L. Bradford Prince is in receipt of a report concerning a reception recently tendered ex-Governor Saunders, of Nebraska, by the Houston, Texas Business League, upon which occasion Mr. Saunders spoke at length of the coming Trans-mississippi and International exposition to be held at Omaha, Neb., in 1898.

Ex-Governor Prince, in common with other leading and progressive citizens of the territory of New Mexico, is doing all in his power to aid in this great project. He is of the opinion that this exposition is going to play an important part in the development of the west, and that the territory should be well represented.

The report which he has received from the meeting of the Houston Business League deals principally with the address of ex-Governor Saunders who, by way of introduction, stated that the exposition was intended to be a grand exhibiting place for the twenty-four states and territories west of the Mississippi river, doing for that section of the country what the World's fair did for the whole United States.

The city of Omaha had, he said, subscribed over $100,000, a large part of which was paid in. The subscriptions of that city are expected to reach $500,000. Mr. Saunders went on to say that the state government had appropriated $100,000 and the national government $200,000 for the exposition, while various states had made appropriations ranging from $10,000 to $20,000 for the purpose of securing proper representation.

Mr. Saunders thought that Texas after Nebraska was most interested in the success of the project. He spoke of the desire of the people of the northwest to find a shorter route for shipping their grain. Deep water on the Texas coast, he claimed, offered such a route. Texas ports he pointed out were 500 miles nearer to the grain producing region than New York and Baltimore, which received the greater part of western grain. Houston, when deep water is obtained, will be 50 miles nearer the grain shippers of the west than any other Texas port, hence Houston should be particularly interested in being advertised in the great grain region. He said that one of the greatest difficulties had been heretofore the lack of direct railway communication from Omaha, but the construction of the Kansas City & Gulf road from Omaha to Kansas City would soon bridge the gap, and give direct communication to southern Texas.

The ex-governor's remarks were received with enthusiasm, and C. H. Milby and others assured him that Houston would not be found behind her sister cities when it came to a question of making a creditable exhibit.

Concerning New Mexico's part in the great exposition ex-Gov. Prince says: "The measure which passed the recent legislature of New Mexico looking to an adequate representation of the territory at the Omaha exposition is a good one, and will enable New Mexico to put up a very creditable exhibit. An important feature of this exhibit will be a splendid mineral display now under course of collection for the Tennessee exposition. From this latter exhibition, New Mexico's mineral collection will go to Omaha, and it will do doubt a great deal of good in advertising our mines to the world. This Omaha project for which the various states west of the Mississippi are subscribing so liberally, is something in which the whole west is interested. It is the biggest thing of the kind ever proposed for this section of the United States, and everything points to unequalled success. The promoters of the project may be assured that New Mexico fully realizes its importance and will do her share to carry it to a successful consummation. The sentiment of the people of this territory has already been demonstrated by legislative enactment, and there is a growing interest in the exposition among our people that assures for this territory an important place in making the thing a big success."

RELIEF FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS.

President McKinley's special message to congress urging an appropriation for the flood sufferers in Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee was anticipated by that body, which yesterday passed a bill to appropriate $200,000 for the relief of these unfortunate people. Mr. McKinley, basing his judgment upon the information furnished by the governors and prominent citizens of the states in question, was of the opinion that between $150,000 and $200,000 would be necessary to adequately relieve the great distress now existing throughout the flooded region. This is a large sum, but it must be remembered that the larger part of four states, and portions of several others, have been devastated by floods such as have never been known before in the history of the country, and the trouble is by no means at an end. In several localities the water is steadily rising, and the result will be nothing else than additional loss and more homeless people. No attempt has been made thus far to estimate the total loss, but it has been something enormous, and the end is not yet. Thousands of people have been financially ruined. Day after day they have stood by, to see the savings of years of toil swept away, considering themselves fortunate in escaping the all devouring waters with their lives. Mr. McKinley speaks in his message of previous calamities which have been met with congressional appropriations, but there is no need of elaborating this humane appeal with precedent. It was enough for congress to know that thousands of worthy American citizens are in dire distress, and suffering for the common necessities of existence. Action in their behalf was prompt and generous.

Whether the sum appropriated for relief will be sent to the governors of the respective states, or entrusted to a commission remains to be decided. The Washington dispatches indicate that the secretary of war will have a hand in the distribution, but just how far his authority will extend in the matter is not known. No doubt the appropriation will be judiciously expended.

WITH THE PARAGRAPHERS.

Salient Questions of the Day, As Treated by Metropolitan Papers.

The Poet's Reward.
The north knows how to treat her poets. If they have been real good for 70 years, she gives them a dinner and makes a congratulatory speech to them.—Atlanta Constitution.

Has Its Hands Full.
The esteemed Galveston News has its hands full explaining how it is the Texas Democratic congressmen vote the Republican ticket when it comes to the tariff.—Washington Post.

The Terrible Powers.
The great powers of Europe are such terrible fellows that they were going to eat up the Greeks without stopping to butter them, but now the Greeks say they feel like dining themselves.—Chicago Record.

And the Heathen Rejoiced.
"Greet the brethren with a holy kiss," was the old Christian injunction. "Greet the brethren with shot and shell!" is the new theory of the great powers of Europe. And the heathen rejoice exceedingly.—New York Sun.

A Bold Move.
The New York school board has decreed against pie, and the children will not be permitted to eat this indigestible article of food during school hours. This is a bold move on a great American institution.—Washington Post.

A Suggestion to the Queen.
Queen Victoria is going to visit William Waldorf Astor. It is to be hoped that the queen will not insist on sitting out on William Waldorf's front steps, for William Waldorf disapproves of such conduct.—Chicago Record.

Natural and Characteristic.
Mr. Cleveland refused to give little "Phil," the late General Sheridan's son, a West Point cadetship, which was natural and characteristic. President McKinley sent for Mrs. Sheridan to tell her that he had filled out an appointment in advance of its being asked; also natural and characteristic. Well, rather so! "Hyperion to Satyr!"—Washington Times.

The President is Right.
The president's determination not to vacate any of the forest reservations until a survey and further report from the scientific forestry commission, is commendable. Once Mr. McKinley understands the gravity of this question, and the awful consequences of western deforestation, he will turn a deaf ear to the lumber grabbers.—Washington Times.

Coming, Coming Sure.
Bradstreet's has ascertained by a careful investigation that, in 50 cities, 100,000 more men are employed at the present time than were able to find work five months ago—an average of 2,000 for each city. The figures show that the country has made a pretty good start toward better times since the election, notwithstanding the disappointment of those who were determined not to be content with anything less than a miraculous transformation of trade conditions.—Kansas City Star.

Effects of British Policy.
If Britain were not bound to a cast-iron free trade policy, she would now command great privileges in the United States at the price of the market, she affords American farmers. Not only has Britain's policy emboldened other countries to tax her products out of their market, but under the high duties to which they have safely resorted their industries have grown into strength to compete with Britain's industries, even in the home market. Germany's competition is formidable everywhere, and that of the United States is becoming vigorous. Pig iron, steel, steel rails and woolen goods are now being shipped from the United States into the British market.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Sectional Stuff and Nonsense.

The south will not soon again have as wise a friend in the White house as Grover Cleveland.—Chattanooga Times.
What sectional stuff and nonsense! Why should any section of the country expect special friendship in a president? The country has a right to expect its president to exhibit sufficient mind expansion and patriotism to render unnecessary and needless for remarks like the above. The Chattanooga Times does the predecessor of President McKinley an injustice and at the same time makes an unfair attempt to prejudice its readers against an occupant of the White house who has not had an opportunity to place any of his plans or policies on trial.—Washington Post.

HOBBS HEARS GOOD NEWS.

Great Crowds of People Obtained A Free Sample of His Wonderful Discovery

At the Drug Store of A. C. Ireland, Many of Whom Make a Report.

ALL SAY THEY HAVE NOTED A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

From Day to Day the Facts of This Investigation Will Be Published in This Paper.

Dr. Hobbs' representative did not expect so soon to get favorable reports from applicants who procured from Ireland's pharmacy, a free sample of Dr. Hobbs' Sprague Kidney Pills. Tests so far have gone to show that these remarkable pills produce favorable results with a degree of quickness heretofore unknown in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases and all ailments arising therefrom. At the same time no reasonable person would expect that within five days from the first sample of Dr. Hobbs' Sprague Kidney Pills was given out, good effect would be generally manifest, as the very nature of kidney disease is such that a reasonable amount of time and patience will be found necessary to test their real virtues.

People who have dosed themselves with all kinds of so-called kidney medicines until not only their kidneys, but their entire system is in a state of prostration, cannot expect to be cured in a day or two by Dr. Hobbs' grand remedy, however, great his claims may be. The man who would advertise to cure Bright's disease—that fearful insidious and dangerous ailment—in a few hours, should be drummed out of town as an impostor and a man trifling with human life. The modesty of Dr. Hobbs' claims is one thing that especially commends him and his remedy to the public.

What Dr. Hobbs' Sprague Kidney Pills are designed and guaranteed to do.

They soothe, heal and cure any inflammation of the kidneys and bladder. They cure Backache.

They cause the kidneys to filter out of the blood all poisons and impurities, whether made in the system or taken in from the outside.

They render sluggish kidneys active. They cause the kidneys to render out poison of rheumatism (aric acid), the disease germs of malaria and the grippe.

They cause the kidneys to keep the blood pure and clean and thus prevent neuralgia, headache, dizziness, nervous dyspepsia, skin diseases, eruptions, scales, tetter and rashes.

They cause the kidneys to work steadily and regularly.

They dissolve and cast out brickdust and phosphate deposits and dissolve gravel and calculi in both the kidneys and bladder.

They cure Bright's disease.

They cause the kidneys to rapidly rid the system of the poisons of alcohol and tobacco.

They yield a clear mind, sweet sleep, steady nerves, active bodies, brimful of the zest and happiness of living, bright eyes and rosy cheeks, because they keep the blood free from poisons and impurities that would otherwise clog and irritate it.

Healthy kidneys make pure blood. Pure blood makes perfect health. Perfect health makes life worth living.

Dr. Hobbs' Sprague Kidney Pills do this, and do it at all times.

Notice.

All applicants desiring to avail themselves of the opportunity to be examined for Annapolis cadetship will please present themselves, Monday, April 10, 1897, at 9 o'clock a. m., at the public school office on 214 South Edith St., Albuquerque, N. M.

COMMITTEE OF EXAMINERS per BRO. AMIAN, M. E.

THE SEVENTH Beet sugar factory in the United States was erected at Eddy, New Mexico, in 1896, and made its first "crop" in November, 1896, and closing February 5th, 1897.

THE CONTENT OF "SUGAR" in the beet of the crop grown in the Eddy and Roswell sections of the valley has proven to be more uniformly high than any other part of the United States.

FORTUNATELY the land is blessed with just the fertility to produce high grade beets, and

MORE FORTUNATELY the Pecos Irrigation and Improvement Co. and the Roswell Land and Water Co. have an irrigation system of great magnitude, covering a vast body of the BEST SUGAR BEET lands on earth. The water is applied to the crop WHEN NEEDED.

THE SUN SHINES more hours in the day and more days in the year in Eddy and Chaves counties, New Mexico, than in any other section of the west.

THE SUGAR BOWL OF THE GREAT Southwest Is the Rich Valley of the Rio Pecos. IN THE COUNTIES OF EDDY AND CHAVES OF NEW MEXICO.

124 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not assured until May, and a majority of the acreage was planted between JUNE 1st AND AUGUST 10th.

GOOD SOIL makes the seed germinate.

WATER makes the plant grow.

SUNLIGHT puts the sugar in the BEET.

THE ONLY THING left to be desired that the Pecos Valley has not on hand in abundance is PEOPLE. We need thrifty farmers; 500 heads of families each on a 40-acre farm.

NO FAIRER terms or conditions of sale of beet and fruit lands were ever made.

Maudie—Curtley stole a kiss from me last evening. Aunt Kate—The villain! What did you do? Maudie—I was awfully angry with him at first; but when he said he stole it that he might give it to a poor girl who never had any kisses, then I couldn't help seeing what a noble man he was. So I told him if he thought that poor girl was really destitute he might as well take another one for her.

Food Not Digested.

Imperfectly nourishes the system, since it is only partially assimilated by the blood. Pale, haggard mortals, with dyspeptic stomachs, impoverished circulation and weak nerves, experience a marked and rapid improvement in their physical condition by availing themselves of that reason of the sick and debilitated, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This genial tonic and alterative lends an impetus to the processes of digestion which insures an adequate development of the materials of blood, fiber and muscular tissue. Moreover, soothes and strengthens overworked or weak nerves, counteracts a tendency to hysteria or depression, to which dyspeptic and bilious persons are peculiarly liable, and is an agreeable and wholesome appetizer and promoter of repose. The infirmities of age, and of delicate female constitutions, are greatly relieved by it, and it is a reliable preventive of, and remedy for, malarial fevers.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed proposals will be received by the board of insane asylum directors, at the office of the secretary, Marcus Brunsvick, in Las Vegas, N. M., until the 17th day of April, A. D. 1901, at 10 o'clock noon, for the erection of the addition to the New Mexico Insane Asylum, to be constructed according to and under the conditions named in the plans and specifications prepared by I. H. and W. M. Rapp, architects of Las Vegas, which will be on file and open to the inspection at their office. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check of 3 per cent of the amount of the bid, such check payable to Marcus Brunsvick, secretary, as a guarantee that the contractor will enter into a contract for construction of the building, if the same is accepted, and will give satisfactory bond for the performance of his contract, as provided in the plans and specifications. A successful bidder failing to give such bond will forfeit his certified check. Bids must be made out on blank proposals which will be furnished by the architects on the whole and any part of the work, and parts only, according to the classification in the specifications. Contractors will be required to keep the building free from liens, and to see that all laborers and sub-contractors and material men are paid before receiving last payment. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Whisky.

That is one painful thing about whisky, said Col. Constance. What is that, eh? said Major Bludsoe.

Why, eh, it is odd that a drink of whisky at a time is enough to make you not drink too much, and the drink not half enough.

"FELICE NOTTE!"

God send the little golden bees of sleep To murmur in the blossom of your ear. Their gentle summer music, hushed and deep, Their softest slumber songs to you, my dear.

And may the gypsy, fortune telling dreams Draw you beneath their painted tent and take Your palm and tell you fortunes, rose glooms Too sweet to be remembered when you wake.

Once may your hazytime lids unfold Calm in the pleasant glow of the moon. The happy stars in heaven may you behold And pray and sigh for joy and slumber soon.

MILLY'S RETURN.

Uncle Ben Simms stood by his barn door, intent on fixing a broken harness. He did not hear my footsteps or see me until I was close upon him. "Good morning, uncle," I said. I knew how friendly he was to every stranger and did not fear his not answering me or asking annoying questions about me.

"Mornin', stranger. Fine mornin' this!"

"Yes, sir; just this morning. At what time does the train—"

"Bout 4 this afternoon. I wuz jist tryin' to fix up this ole harness, so's to meet the 1 o'clock train. It's jist about played out. 'Loved 't would last as long as me an' the ole lady did, but seems like it's jist fallin' all to pieces all at once. You see, stranger," and a glad smile lit up his bearded, wrinkled face, "you see, Milly's comin' home today."

Milly—that's my darter—been gone nigh on nine years. She wuz our only child, all we ever had, 'cept Andy. He's been with us since he wuz 9 years old. Andy's a good boy, sir; a good boy you ever seed, and most anybody'll tell you the same.

"Yes, she wrote me a card. I got it here in my blouse pocket. Ma's jist wild for joy. An' stranger, yer ought ter see the things she's got cooked. Ma's a wonderful good cook. There ain't a woman in the country round that can beat her. She's been trapesing round fixing up good things ever since Andy wuz out this card. Yes, it'll lift a mighty heavy load from this ole heart if Milly comes today, and it'll make me ten years younger. These has been nine of the most miserable long years ole Uncle Ben Simms ever put through with."

"You see, stranger, it wuz this a way." And Uncle Ben wiped his eyes on his checked blouse sleeve and let the old harness down carefully. "Dick Plummer, he us't often to come out here in the summer for a visit, ever since he was the same age as when we took Andy to raise. He an' Andy us't to have such times a fishin' an' swimmin' an' huntin'. He wuz a bad chap, an' I didn't mind his visits to our place—sorter liked to see him an' Andy together. But when he grewed up an' began to learn to be a doctor, I sorter 'bout turned ag'in him. He us't to tell 'bout cuttin' people to pieces an' all. It gived me the creeps. He us't to say 'twuz' nothin' to see scholars where he studied play ball with a man's arm. Ugh, s'frit men! In our day it wuz different, very different.

"Waal, one day I wuz out in the smokehouse shap'nin' my sickle—an' I wuz in a very good humor either. I mind—when Dick came out that mornin' he wanted to marry my Milly. I mind, sir, I got so riled I wuz fairly beside myself, for I'd sot my heart on her marryin' Andy, for Andy wuz good 'bout for any girl—wouldn't hurt a flea, Andy wouldn't. Why, sir, I've seed him pet an' coax an' work with our ole black boss (he's balky most all time), an' if 'twould been me I'd come blame near killin' him. Waal, I ain't so much that way now since Milly's gone. I've sorter mastered my fiery temper, 'twen thinkin' of her an' watchin' Dick come out that mornin' when he wanted to marry Milly—I told you I wuz on a 'high hog' as old Parson Shockley used ter say—an' I wouldn't give in an inch, he kept a-tellin' me that he loved Milly an' she loved him, but he never made any difference; I wanted her to marry Andy, but they went over to Roseville an' wuz married that afternoon.

"When they came back—I can see her now come in a-laffin—an' she came up to me an' said, 'Pa, you ain't mad, air you?' mother she bust out a-cryin', for she knew I would not be a dern fool, for I wuz in a terrible fit of temper, fer that mornin' ole Dodson's boys had nigh stripped my fine Bartlett pear trees at the back of the lot—I jist p'inted to the door an' told her"—his voice again wavered and up went the checked shirt sleeve—"she needn't ever come here ag'in even if she lived to be 100 years old. An' I mind, too, I said, 'Some day mebbe you'll want ter come back, mebbe to beg food fer yer children, but mind, I am not grandfather to any of your children.

"An' so they left, but Milly says: 'Pa, dear, let me kiss mother goodby. Please, please do.' An' she looked so pitifully to her ma—I can see it now; I couldn't then—but I shut the door and left the house. I went over that meath that sassafras hedge an' threw myself on the ground an' tho't of what I'd done, but I couldn't help it. The very devil of a temper wuz in me, an' he would crop out at times.

"'Foot that I wuz! Why can't a man see when he's actin' a dern fool? An' Milly wuz sich a good girl—sich a good girl! Now, thinks I, who'll comb yer ole hair before yer go to bed nights? Who'll get you a cool drink when yer so fagged out that yer can't do it yerself? Milly was a good girl, Pa, she wuz that. One thing fer a fact, I thow, I was ashamed to go into that house ag'in an' face mother, for she wuz so many years as got as good a wife as I hev, an' that's shore. She wuz purty as a peach," and his eyes brightened, "when she wuz Milly's age. I us't to like to watch Milly working around, fer it seemed I wuz young ag'in, fer she wuz jist like mother, gentle an' patient, an' when mother come in 'would see what Milly would be in years to come.

"'Poor mother, by my bein' sich a

Good she's seed lots an' lots of trouble. She ain't what she us't to be, but is the patientest woman in the world today. I don't know if Dick turned out bad. He never was sich a bad chap—not like some city raised boys I've seed. I don't even know if he's livin' or dead; jist know that Milly's a-comin', an' that she don't say nothin' about Dick.

"'T would wonder if he's got any children. I don't deserve ter know, blamed ole idiot that I wuz! It would save me right never to know or even see our little Milly ag'in!"

"'T would wonder if that wuz a boy if 'twould be named for his granddaddy?"

"No, I never go to York. It's all I kin do to get to Roseville. They been so crippled up with the rheumatism in this leg since it was hurt three years ago by that ole black boss, that I can't git about, and I do say that if it wuzn't fer Andy I don't know what would become of this yer farm. Yes, Andy goes to York some times, but he says he's never located Dick Plummer, though 'twould be like huntin' for a needle in a haystack fer him to try to find him in sich a place as New York."

"I can tell you all about Dick Plummer, uncle," I said. "Dick Plummer has one of the dearest, best little wives in the world, and three of the sweetest children that ever learned to lip the name of 'grandpa.'"

Uncle Ben rose as quickly as his stiffened old legs would allow and gazed at me as if I were one of the seven wonders.

"What, stranger, you know Milly—my Milly?"

"Not stranger, father, but Dick Plummer."

"Waal, waal—I'd never a—"

"Yes, and I'm not so had a husband. Jist ask Milly. There she comes. You need not mind that old harness. See? Milly, Bennie, Richard and Dot!"

"Dear Milly! My little wife came from the summer house by the gate, the little ones by her side, and with a glad cry, fell in her father's arms. The old man held her and was silent. Tears came in his eyes, and I turned away, while Bennie said:

"Is that grandpa? Then what they cry'n' for? Mamma cried while we was waitin'. I thought we'd be happy when we got here."

The kitchen door then opened, and the chickens that picked about it flew in all directions, and a bent, white-capped figure hurried painfully down the path in our direction.—Ella Edmondson Church in St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Her Old Slave Aided Her.

Two members from Mississippi were swapping stories during the intervals between refreshments, when in an accidental way the name of ex-Senator Blanche K. Bruce was mentioned.

"That reminds me," said one, "of a story told me a long time ago by a barkeeper at the Ebbitt. I was in there one day when Bruce came in, went into one of the side rooms, and having been served, walked out without saying anything to any one.

"You don't draw the color line here, John," I remarked to the barkeeper.

"Not on that man, sir, I don't," was the reply. "I have had a pretty good opinion of him since a little thing that happened soon after he first came here.

"Bruce was in his seat at the capitol one day, when a card was brought to him. He read it and at once went out to the waiting room. There he met the woman who owned him when he was a slave. With her was her daughter. Both were in tears. She had lost all of her property during the war and was absolutely penniless. The negro once her slave was the only man she knew in Washington. She appealed to him. Bruce listened to her story. He got his hat and went outside with her. His carriage, drawn by a handsome pair of bays, was waiting there. He called the carriage, assisted the mother and daughter to enter it with as much deference as he could possibly have shown them in the old plantation days, closed the door and told the coachman to drive to the treasury. Then he called a public cab and followed. The three entered the treasury together, and before Bruce came out he had placed in the hands of the woman he had once called 'missus' an appointment to a good clerkship in the treasury department.

"That," added the Mississippi member, "was the reason why the barkeeper didn't draw the color line at Blanche K. Bruce, and it seems to me the reason was a mighty good one too."—Washington Post.

He Got There First.

There is a small town in one of the eastern states, not far from Boston, whose inhabitants take great pride in excelling every other town in their vicinity. They try every new invention, and if it has any sort of merit it is sure to be assigned to duty in some part of the place. Two party gentlemen, one a sea captain and the other a lawyer, both retired from active life, were the prime movers in the experiments and adaptations, and naturally in the course of time they failed to agree. Extreme jealousy then prevailed, and a bitter animosity sprang up between them.

Unfortunately these two gentlemen lived next door to each other. In fact, so close were their houses that the side walls almost adjoined. One very windy night the lawyer was reading a book in his study when a terrific crash up stairs startled him. Upon investigating he found that an unruly chimney had ruthlessly hurled itself through his roof, doing considerable damage. That in itself was a matter of great annoyance, but when he discovered it was the sea captain's chimney that was responsible his wrath knew no bounds. Hastening down to his library, he pulled out his bookshelves and hunted up similar cases, looking and scheming how he could exact satisfaction from the detestable captain. While thus engaged a note arrived from his enemy that read as follows: "You don't return those bricks at once, I will put the matter in the hands of the law."—Harper's Round Table.

There are bandits nowadays as well as in the days of old. Business men have to meet what are known as business bandits. They may not commit violence with knife and pistol, but they resort to all manner of dishonest business methods, and the honest business man must be brave, strong and steady if he would meet and overcome them. The modern business man needs above all other qualifications—good health. Without good health, he may be naturally shrewd, bright and capable, but he will eventually fail. It takes a keen brain and steady nerves to be successful. Impure blood will bring the brightest brain and shake the steadiest nerves.

"The greatest known blood-maker and purifier is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, tones the liver, makes the appetite keen and assimilation perfect. Consequently the blood is plentifully supplied with the elements of health and the body is properly nourished. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. All good druggists sell it.

N. Gaddis, Esq., of No. 313 S. J. Street, Tacoma, Washington, writes: "I was taken ill in February, 1892, with headache and pain in my back. I called in a doctor and he came three times. He said I was bilious, but I kept getting worse. I took a cough so that I could only sleep when propped up in bed. My lungs hurt and I got so poor that I was just skin and bone. I thought I was going to die. I tried a bottle of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it did me so much good that I tried another one and it made me strong and well. It saved my life."

HIS PRELIMINARY HEARING

Camilo Berardinelli, charged with Wife Murder, Has An Initial Examination Before Justice of the Peace Garcia.

SOME VERY GREWSOME EXHIBITS

Examination of Several Witnesses Who Visited the Berardinelli Home on the Morning of the Crime.

The preliminary hearing of Camilo Berardinelli, for the killing of his wife on the morning of March 30, began before Justice Garcia this forenoon. The territory was represented by Mr. J. H. Crist; Messrs. C. A. Spies and H. L. Ortiz appeared for the defendant.

Berardinelli entered a plea of not guilty, and the trial proceeded. Mr. E. Lacossigne, the prosecuting witness was called and sworn. His testimony in substance was: He saw Mrs. Berardinelli alive for the last time on Monday a week ago. The next time he saw her was on Tuesday morning (March 30) lying on the floor of her room. He came down town and found Justice Garcia, and together they went back and opened the door of the room. He saw her first through a window, going there to see what was the matter. Mrs. Berardinelli had not been seen that morning, nor had any noise issued from the room. The body was naked and the bed and floor and walls were covered with blood.

Sheriff Kinsell was next sworn. He knew the defendant and his wife; knew the wife to be dead. The last time he saw her was on the morning of March 30, at 11:15, lying on the floor of her room dead. She was on her back, an old quilt thrown over her, and black stockings drawn on her feet. The head was turned to the right, showing that her throat had been cut. The floor and walls of the room, two beds and one pillow were covered with blood. The pillow was saturated and appeared to have been placed over her face after the wound was made. The double bed had the appearance of having been occupied; the front part at the head was covered with blood for the space of about a foot, and the blood ran down to the floor. Berardinelli was arrested by Marshal Fomhoff of Albuquerque, on a train between Cerillos and that place. When turned over to Sheriff Kinsell, Berardinelli had changed his clothing and so stated to Mr. Kinsell. A value belonging to the defendant, containing the clothes, was produced and the contents introduced as evidence. The shirt was one mass of dried blood, the undershirt covered, and the right leg of the drawers was also covered; coat and vest were covered with blood on the inside; the bloody blade of the razor used in cutting the unfortunate woman's throat, and a key to the house were also produced; a railroad ticket from Cerillos to Socorro was handed the justice, taken from the defendant, and Mr. Kinsell stated that he had a letter in his safe which would have to be translated. The pillow, stained red on both sides, from end to end, was shown, and Mr. Kinsell identified it as the one seen in the room by him. Mr. Kinsell repeated the confession made to him by Berardinelli on the train the night of March 31, and which has been published in the New Mexican.

Dr. Knapp was next sworn. He examined the body the morning it was found. At the time he saw it, it lay on the floor, feet extended and arms thrown over the head; throat cut exposing the trachea. A pillow, which was identified by the doctor, was on the floor near the head. In the opinion of witness the cut was a fatal one, unless given immediate attention. A dress worn by the woman, which the doctor cut away in order to make the examination, was shown and identified by its complete saturation with blood and the peculiar manner in which it was cut. Death resulted from hemorrhage. By the large clot of blood on the floor and the condition of the pillow the doctor thought that the woman had been held down, the pillow over her neck and face, until death came. Dr. Knapp made the examination at 10:30 in the morning and he thought the woman had been dead between six and seven hours.

Deputy Sheriff Allan was next sworn. He knew the dead woman by sight only. On the morning of the crime, in the presence of many witnesses he saw her lying on the floor of her room dead, with a quilt thrown over her, with her throat cut. In an adjoining room he saw a tin basin full of water on the floor, and a lamp standing on a stool. The water in the basin was red with blood, and the chimney and handle of the lamp were smeared with blood. In the room where the crime was committed, there were two beds, one double and one single. The double bed had been occupied, and was covered with blood on the floor and the front side. He judged the woman had run around the room, as there was blood everywhere—handmarks on the wall and the single bed.

Court then adjourned until 3 o'clock, when the examination was resumed and Mrs. Lacossigne and Mr. Martin sworn. Their testimony was a repetition of all that had been given by the other witnesses. This closed the hearing and Justice Garcia bound Berardinelli over to await the action of the grand jury without bail.

OJO CALIENTE

(HOT SPRINGS.)

THESE Celebrated Hot Springs are located in the midst of the Ancient Cliff Dwellers, twenty-five miles west of Taos, and fifty miles north of Santa Fe, and about twelve miles from Barranca Station on the Denver & Rio Grande Railway, from which point a daily line of stages runs to the Springs. The temperature of these waters is from 90° to 125°. The gases are carbonic. Altitude 5,000 feet. Climate very dry and delightful the year round. There is now a commodious hotel for the convenience of invalids and tourists. These waters contain 100,000 grains of alkaline salts to the gallon; being the richest Alkaline Hot Springs in the world. The efficacy of these waters has been thoroughly tested by the miraculous cures attended to in the following diseases:—Paralysis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Menstrual Affections, Scrophula, Catarrh, La Grippe, all Female Complaints, etc., etc. Board, Lodging and Bathing, $2.50 per day. Reduced rates given by the month. For further particulars address—
