WASHINGTON NEWS BUDGET

Southern Senators Bring on a Warm Fight in the Senate by Criticizing the Proposed Duty of 7-10 of a Cent on Cotton Ties.

VEST FIGHTS FOR FREE COTTON TIES

His Amendment is Lost, However, by a Vote of 21 Yeas to 28 Nays and the Rate of 7-10 of a Cent Will Stand in the New Bill.

Washington, June 2.—In the senate today Jones of Arkansas, opposed the rate on pig iron, and bar iron, as absurd, in view of the fact that America is able to sell iron in all parts of the world, but the rates were allowed to stand. The first fairly warm fight came up when cotton ties were reached. Vest of Missouri, Mills of Texas, and Bacon of Georgia, fighting the proposed duty of 7-10 of a cent per pound, and criticizing it as taxing the cotton farmer of the south, while the wheat farmer of the north, got free binding in twice. Vest's amendment for free cotton ties was defeated by 21 yeas to 28 nays, and the committee paragraph adopted. The next contest arose over tin plate. Vest, White of California, Gray of Delaware, and Jones of Arkansas, all sharply criticizing the senate rate of 14-10 as indefensible, since the industry is no longer a new one. The motion to reduce the rate was lost.

CURRENCY COMMISSION.
It is announced semi-officially that congress will not immediately adjourn after the passage of the tariff bill. The Republican members have decided, in accordance with the wishes of the administration, that they will attempt to pass a currency reform measure as soon as the tariff question is out of the way. It is stated that all the president desires is authority to appoint a currency commission, whose members shall be directed to report at the regular session of congress in December, a feasible plan for placing the national finances on "a sound, substantial and enduring basis."

The president was driven directly to Horticultural hall, where the American medical association convention was in session. The president addressed the doctors briefly and was then driven to the Philadelphia Commercial museum where he inspected the exhibits. Luncheon was served at the museum. Later in the afternoon the president visited the Academy of Music and delivered an address at the opening of the international commercial congress.

BIMETALLIC LEAGUE.

Annual Meeting of the Bimetallic League at Manchester, England—Council Report Dealing with the Questions at Issue, and Urging the Friends of Monetary Reform to Renewed Efforts.

Manchester, England, June 2.—The annual meeting of the Bimetallic league opened today. There was a large attendance, including 50 delegates from labor associations. The lord mayor of Manchester welcomed the delegates. Letters of regret were read from Lord Abernethy at the head of the firm of Anthony Gibbs & Sons and a director of the Bank of England; first lord of the treasury, A. J. Balfour; the president of the local government board, Mr. Henry Chaplin, the Duke of Eile, and the Marquis of Lorne. The report said that the most important event of the year was the election of a president of the United States, when Bryan polled 6,500,000 votes on a platform of international bimetalism, and McKinley polled 7,000,000 votes on a platform pledging him to promote international bimetalism. This report referred to the support, alleged to have been given international bimetalism, by M. Melline, the French premier, in the chamber of deputies, and touched upon the relation to Europe of Senator Wolcott, which "was so successful that it led to the appointment of a special mission now in France, which it is earnestly hoped, through the co-operation which will be accorded by the leading nations, will lead to an international agreement to be concluded at an early date."

The report concludes: "While the necessity for international bimetalism is never greater than at present, this council can with confidence affirm that never since 1879, have the prospects been so hopeful. In view of the serious attempt at making a secure settlement on an international basis, it earnestly calls on all friends of monetary reform to redouble their efforts during the coming year."

The show cases are filled with rich, rare and beautiful specimens of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, iron and precious metals and stones. Leeson is always on hand, day and night, and cheerfully gives all information regarding the mineral, agricultural, horticultural, sugar beet industry, climate and all resources of New Mexico. Manager Leeson informed the Sun reporter that he would soon add to his exhibit a fine agricultural and horticultural display, especially the grapes of New Mexico, which have no equal in America. He will also exhibit best sugar, raised in the great Pecos valley country; also some Navajo blankets and basket work from the Browne Manzanares company of Las Vegas. When all of the exhibits are here and in place it will be the leading feature of the exposition. He will also exhibit a fine collection of turquoise, both polished and in the matrix. It looks as if the Republicans of Ohio had a rather tough job ahead this coming election.

It may be asserted, without fear of successful contradiction, that Mr. McKinley has acted very deliberately indeed in the matter of appointing a governor for New Mexico.

EUROPEAN war news is occasionally enlivened by a dash of humor, as for example the announcement that the sultan is making efforts to restore friendly relations with England.

Eight prominent physicians of Massachusetts certify over their signatures that the watering of streets is an unsanitary proceeding, and this question is of late coming into general discussion.

JOHN F. JOHNSON, late president and cashier of the State National bank at Logansport, Ind., has been sentenced to serve ten years in prison. That is a light penalty for a bank wrecker, and it is doubtful whether there should be any abbreviation of the term for good behavior.

It may be stated as a general proposition that the sugar conspiracy is in need of more ventilation than it gets, but the senate is opening a wide door when it takes a step which may induce Tillman to consider himself in a serious light.

SECRETARY GAORE's pleasing compliment to the patriotism, loyalty and earnestness of congress is probably a tribute to the house of representatives for holding up the Cuban resolution by way of preventing the embarrassment to the administration which would grow out of its adoption.

RIGHT after Booth-Tucker's conviction for making too much noise, comes an attachment against him, his wife, and his father-in-law, "General" Booth of England, for a matter of $70, on account of buttons furnished to the Salvation army and not paid for. Buttons—think of it!

The war, gotten up by the special correspondents and said to be ranging at and near the Cheyenne agency in Montana, is turning out to be a very mild affair and seems to have been gotten up principally for the purpose of putting a few dollars into the pockets of the aforesaid correspondents.

FAMINOTON is likely to solve the fruit shipping question this year by establishing the fruit packing industry in time to take care of this seasons crop. Such an enterprise would fill a long felt want. A good deal of the fruit crop of this splendid section of the territory suffers for the lack of adequate transportation facilities, every year. No doubt but a railroad will come in time, but the people cannot afford to allow their fruit to perish until this comes.

PRESIDENT FRANK THOMPSON of the Pennsylvania railroad, has just returned from a trip over the company's lines and says that the business conditions of the country are improving. Glad to know it, Mr. Thompson, but we hope this improvement will get a move on itself and not do as the United States senate does.

CONSUMERS, Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Vanderbilt of New York, has declined to contribute toward an American charity in London, the endowment of hospital beds in London, the same being made a feature of the Queen's Jubilee, for the reason that she "is no longer an American." What would her grandfather, William II, or the old "Commodore," her great-grandfather, have said to that?

The parade on Monday was a credit to the city in every respect. The militia companies turned out a full membership and performed the duty assigned in a manner that would have done credit to veterans. The civic organizations also responded promptly and vied with the military in making the day a success. It is safe to say that no city in the United States of the size of Santa Fe could find the ancient town in honoring the nation's heroes dead.

PRESIDENT THOMPSON of the Pennsylvania railroad, after a tour of inspection over his system of roads, says: "The universal opinion in the west is that the crops of the coming season will be unusually heavy. Altogether, I come back with the feeling that the time is not far distant when we will see a decided improvement in railroad traffic. If it is possible to obtain some favorable legislation at the hands of congress, which will enable railroad managers to feel more confidence in the future, I have no doubt that additional expenditures by the railroads will contribute very largely toward the restoration of good times."

THERE are those who deny that newspaper work is valuable as a training for literature from a literary standpoint. It cannot be denied however, that such a training is valuable in the merely mechanical part of the work. Among the writers of the present day the newspaper men are able to do a much greater amount of work than those who have not had this training. Robert Barr and W. L. Alden do 4,000 words a day easily while Sir Walter Besant considers 1,000 words a big day's work. Conan Doyle thinks 1,500 words a day is all that a man ought to do. Anthony Trollope used to do never less than 1,500 words, getting up at 5 in the morning for the purpose, and performing his regular work at the postoffice all day.

SIMPSON has discovered in Richardson a willing ally in his frequent furious attacks upon the speaker of the house of representatives. When things get dull "Uncle" Jerry opens his batteries upon Mr. Reed, calling him an autocrat, a czar, a boss, a tyrant and anything else that he can think of. No doubt the speaker enjoys these harmless flights of fancy on the part of the rural member who is said to show his temper upon these occasions to a most laughable degree. He is still haggling at his old grievance, or alleged grievance rather—the appointment of committees. Mr. Reed has announced that he will not take action in this matter until after the tariff bill has been disposed of, and the chances are that he will keep his word despite the issue howling of Simpson, Richardson & Co.

THE FINANCIAL OUTLOOK

"During the past week, Wall street has shown an improving tendency," says the Weekly Financial Review issued by the banking house of Henry Clews & Co. of 55 Wall street, New York City. Step by step normal conditions are gaining ascendancy; and the adverse incidents of politics, domestic and foreign, are steadily losing their effect. For a long period, these special extraneous factors have stagnated the investment and speculative markets alike, and normal influences have been held entirely in subjection to their paralyzing effects. Now, the relative standing of these different sets of conditions is reversed, and the intrinsic causes regulating values receive their old-time attention and have their legitimate effect in determining the course of prices. This is a healthful and hopeful symptom; for it shows that the outside influences which have so long disturbed confidence are gradually disappearing; which is the one thing needful to a restoration of activity. The accidents of politics, the probabilities of war and the excitement of popular passion, all have a very quick bearing on prices, but they do not create activity, but rather stagnancy, because of the special uncertainties attending such causes; and the only influences on which the men of Wall street will operate freely are those upon which they can form a reasonable judgment. It is therefore a hopeful sign when influences of the latter kind are coming into control.

The Greco-Turkish affair, though it has entered upon a new phase attended with new difficulties, still affords promise of an early and safe settlement. At the moment, the sultan finds himself confronted by a fanatical anti-Christian sentiment to which he is compelled to show some seeming respect, and hence his present show of opposition to the terms of peace proposed by the powers. He may be allowed a temporary leniency for the purpose of softening offense to this sentiment and its supporters in the palace, but it is plain from the latest information that Russia, England and France are inflexibly opposed to any material departures from the peace terms they, with the other governments, have presented, and that Turkey must accept peace with no other gain than a moderate money indemnity.

Naturally, Wall street keeps a keen eye upon the crop prospect, which is already becoming an element of buying. At present, the conditions favor a phenomenal crop of spring wheat. The failures in the winter sown crop are being compensated to a large extent by ploughing the wheat in and planting corn in its stead. Reports indicate an altogether unexpected crop of wheat in Oklahoma; a recent press dispatch states that the yield may reach 20,000,000 bushels, which however, may be tinged by the characteristic enthusiasm of that sanguine population. The crops along the route of the Northern Pacific are reported as promising an excellent yield.

TERRITORIAL CROP REPORT

The Outlook Exceedingly Favorable for Crops. As Outlined in Reports from Various Sections of New Mexico.

The week ending May 31 was, generally speaking, an excellent week for New Mexico. More county reports rather more rainfall than was desirable, and Colfax county too much cloudy cool weather for rapid growth. Everything in those counties, however, is in good condition and with a few days of normal weather will advance rapidly. Chaves and Eddy counties report ample rainfall and an excellent week. Grant county is the only one short on rainfall. In that county very little rain has fallen since March and the ranges are in need of it. There is abundant water for irrigation, however, and crops are doing well.

Considerable damage was done in various localities by hailstorms, but the area injured seriously is small. Some alfalfa that had been cut was damaged by showers.

The rivers have generally subsided and no more damage has been reported by overflow. The stock ranges are generally in splendid condition except parts of Grant county that need rain. Stock of all kinds are gaining flesh and the outlook for stockmen was never better.

The fruit crop is still in good condition and the prospect for the crop in general could not be better.

The following extracts from a few of the reports received at this office will give specific information from different localities:

Albuquerque—A. Montoya—Light rain on the 27th. Five crop of alfalfa being cut. Wheat heading out. Green peas in the market. River has fallen a great deal. Rainfall for the week 2.2 of an inch. Thunder storm on the 27th.

Alma—Wm. French—Everything in the farming and fruit line looks well here, but not much growth owing to cool nights. Not much grass on the ranges and things getting pretty dry.

Bernalillo—Brother Gabriel—Weather this week, with one day's exception, favorable to vegetation in general. On Thursday evening a storm wind with heavy hail storm, one at 6:40 and the other 8:10, but luckily neither lasted more than five minutes and no serious damage beyond tearing the leaves of vegetables and grape vines. First cutting of alfalfa now going on.

Bluewater—J. S. Van Doren—Cloudy days during the week but no rain. Light rain playing on the mountains and showers seen in the distance, the valley escapes. Had a good growing week. Cereals, corn and root crops promise large returns.

Eddy—Prof. E. M. Skeats—We have had excellent "growing" weather this week. Fruit trees have made good growth and apple especially look exceedingly thrifty. Corn is coming up well; sugar beets look healthy and vigorous. Total rainfall 0.82 of an inch.

Espanola—Jim Curry—A good growing week with fresh showers all week. Alfalfa looking fine; strawberries are ripe; alfalfa ready for first cutting and a big crop. The Rio Grande is a foot and a half lower than the highest point reached this spring.

Farmington—J. G. Willett—Warm and no wind. Everything growing nicely; grass on range better than for years; corn is up and a good stand; alfalfa is fine and about ready to cut; fruit never looked so promising. The work of thinning will be great. Rivers very high.

Fort Stanton—Jno. S. Taylor—The weather these days suits everybody, the agriculturalist, horticulturist and stock raiser. Crops and grass doing well.

Gallinas Spring—J. E. Whitmore—Hail on the 27th did a great deal of damage to orchards and alfalfa and all garden stuff. There was about two inches of hail. It will take some time to make up the loss. A great deal of garden truck will have to be replanted.

Lower Gila Valley—J. E. Casper—Favorable weather for crops under irrigation. Alfalfa being cut and a big yield. Wheat and barley heading. No rain since March but plenty of water for irrigating. Plums, peaches and apples were injured by frosts in March and will not be much more than half a crop in this locality.

Las Cruces—C. E. Mend—The week, with the exception of one day, has been very calm and clear. On the 26th, about 4:30 p. m., there was quite a hail and rain storm lasting about 30 minutes and seriously damaging tender young plants such as sugar beets, sprouts on grape vines and a number of garden vegetables, also bruising and knocking off a great deal of fruit such as apples, pears, peaches, plums, etc. Total rainfall 0.74 of an inch.

Las Vegas—D. D. Harkness—All crops making fine progress. Corn planted and some already coming up. Heavy rains Monday and Thursday, local showers nearly every day. One light hail storm did slight damage through this belt but nothing serious.

Los Alamos—Wm. Frank—Frequent showers with good growing weather. Everything doing well. Please note that this section has escaped all damage from hail so far.

Ocala—E. M. Casner—Still it rains, a little too much of it, but it is the first time I have ever known it to be so. Two well formed water spots were seen here on the 25th, which twisted about with a rapid serpentine motion, rising and falling with great force, but fortunately did not strike the ground. The second appeared about ten minutes after the first disappeared. Crops somewhat retarded by cloudy weather.

Ojo Caliente—Hon. A. Joseph—This week the weather has been very favorable for crops and grass on the ranges. The alfalfa harvest has fairly commenced and the yield is above the average. The fruit crop is in excellent condition and if nothing happens to it we will have an immense yield.

Roswell—W. M. Reed—Plenty of rain. Farms, range and people all looking well. Prospect of a No. 1 agricultural year. Total rainfall, 1.80 inches.

San Marcial—J. M. Buchanan—Rainfall visible in and around San Mateo mountains Sunday, Monday and Friday and in Magdalena mountains Wednesday. On the 25th we had a shower amounting to 0.30 of an inch.

Santa Fe—U. S. Weather Bureau—The weather conditions for the past week were nearly perfect. Temperature averaged a little above the normal with ample sunshine. Frequent showers kept everything right and the means are as green as a New England pasture. All crops in splendid condition.

Springer—Dr. L. Hines—Past week was cool and cloudy. Vegetation rather slow on this account. Fruit and all kinds of crops in good condition.

It certainly is disheartening to a patient to find that the treatment he is given for a disease is more disastrous than the disease itself. Such is the case, however, with the usual treatment given for diseases of the blood.

Notwithstanding the great progress made in many branches of medicine, the doctors have failed absolutely to find a successful treatment for blood poison, and the many diseases having their origin in the blood. They give but one kind of medicine, they know but one treatment, and whether in the form of powder, pill or liquid, the doctor's prescription is always the same—potash or mercury.

Too much cannot be said of the harmful and disastrous effects of these drugs. The doctors are unable to rid the system of the poison, and direct their efforts toward covering up the symptoms from view. There is but one effect to be obtained from potash and mercury—they bottle up the poison and dry it up in the system, but it must be remembered that they dry up the marrow in the bones at the same time, gradually consuming the vitality. Those disgusting copper-colored spots are but indications of worse results to follow. No sooner has the system taken on the full effects of this powerful drug than that supples and elasticity of the joints gives way to a stiffness, followed by the racking pains of rheumatism. The form gradnally bends, the bones ache, while decrepitude and helplessness prematurely take possession of the body. Under this treatment, it is but a short step from vigor and health to a pair of crutches. With this wreck of the system often comes falling of the hair and eyebrows, loss of finger nails, and decay of the bones—a condition most horrible. This is no overdrawn picture, for the world to-day is full of these horrible mercurial wrecks.

Contagious Blood Poison is the most horrible of all diseases, and has been appropriately called the curse of mankind. Until the discovery of S. S. S., it was incurable. It has always baffled the doctors, and it is in this disease that the evils of mercury and potash are most common, because these drugs are given in such large doses in an effort to counteract the poison. While they succeed in bottling up the poison in the system, it always breaks forth again, attacking some delicate organ—frequently the month and throat, filling them with eating sores. S. S. S. is the only known cure for this terrible disease.

It is the same in other diseases of the blood. Scrofula, Eczema, Cancer, Rheumatism, all are given the same treatment by the physicians—mercury and potash, and the result as above set forth is always the same.

We offer a remedy purely vegetable, powerful in its effect, yet harmless in every way. For fifty years S. S. S. has been curing blood diseases, from the most violent to the mildest case, after all other treatment failed. It is guaranteed purely vegetable, and one thousand dollars reward is offered for proof to the contrary. It is a real blood remedy for real blood troubles, and never fails to cure Contagious Blood Poison, Scrofula, Eczema, Rheumatism, Cancer, or any other disease of the blood. If you have a blood disease, take a remedy which will not injure you. Beware of mercury! don't do violence to your system. Don't get bottled up!

Santa Fe Chapter No. 1, E. A. M. Regular convocation

My Enemy.
I have an enemy. And shall he be
A useless thorn to vex and worry me,
A dominant discord in life's perfect strain,
Marring my dreams, turning my joy to pain,
Molding my life to his malicious whim?
Shall he be lord of me or I of him?

A bitter stream may turn the mill wheel round,
A thorny tree may burn to heat and light,
And out of shameful wrong may spring the flower
Of perfect right.

So from my enemy I may demand
A priceless tribute of perpetual good
And lead him captive at my chariot wheels
In royal mood.

Because my enemy hath cunning ears
That listen hourly for my idle speech,
My words shall flow in wise and measured way
Beyond his carping reach.

Because my enemy has eyes that watch
With sleepless malice while I come and go
My days shall show no act I would not wish
The world to know.

Because my enemy doth hourly wield
Some subtle snare to trip me every day
My feet shall never for one moment leave
The straight and narrow way.

Because my enemy doth hate me sore
I fix my gaze beyond him and above
And lift, as shield to all his fiery darts,
A heart of love.

And of my enemy I thus shall make
A beacon light to light me to my goal,
A faithful guardian of my house of life,
A spur and whip to urge my lagging soul,
And though our strife may never have an end,
I yet might call this enemy my friend.
—Ella Calvert Hall in Independent.

Complexional Indications.
The complexion of persons whose digestion is out of order, who are bilious, or who lack vigor, always exhibits an unhealthy tint. It is by regulating the bodily organs and promoting digestion and assimilation, that the parched hue indicative of ill health, is banished from the cheeks. To rectify the fault of a sallow complexion, use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an invigorant and alterative which removes those obstacles to renewed strength, physical comfort and personal attractiveness—an imperfect digestion and secretion, and a disordered condition of the bowels. Persistence in the use of this inestimable corrective and tonic will assuredly result in renewed physical regularity and vigor, will tend to the bodily substance, and cause the glow and clear color of health to return to the sallow, wasted cheek.

Talks With Travelers.
Yes sir! The most enjoyable trip I ever took to New York was over the Wabash. Only one change of cars in St. Louis; the finest passenger station in the world. Fine restaurant and cafe. Got an elegant supper for 50 cents.

We arrived in St. Louis at 6:00 p. m., and left on the Wabash New York Limited at 7:00 p. m., in the elegant through sleeper, reaching Detroit at 9:15 the following morning. Niagara Falls at 4:37 that afternoon, and arrived at New York, Grand Central Depot at 7:30 a. m., just the right time to get breakfast and attend to business.

Oh! the Wabash is the route for New York.

By the way just write to C. M. Hampton, Commercial Agent, Denver, for particulars. I may have forgotten something.

EN AVANT.

"By moor and hollow,
What dost thou follow
With thy feet?
"Neath the sunny skies,
Where the wind flies
There's a white bird flies,
So fair to see.
Could I but guess
His plumage of snow
No more loneliness
I 'd should know."

"By moor and hollow,
What dost thou follow
With thy feet?
"Neath the sunny skies,
By the leucous springs,
There's a white bird flies
With weary wings.
Could I touch at last
His pinions fair
All my grief were past
And all my care."

"The sunset's dying
From the lone hill,
Who art thou, lying
So calm and still?
"On the mist clad way
My bird I found
Where could he lay
Frogs on ground.
His plumage grown dim
To my heart I've pressed.
Ah! me and him
We shall have rest."

A CAB ADVENTURE.

I will wager my chances for the throne of France against a box of cigars that there never was a marquis so difficult, so timid, so irresponsible, as the Marquis Suetone Amator de Longme. My hero possesses a heroine, that is to say, a legitimate heroine, a 34-year-old heroine, as beautiful as you might wish and as unamused as you can imagine. From the rising of the sun till the last flicker of the night lamp she was constantly at the piano. She strummed with such untiring zeal that it was impossible to keep servants in the house. There were times when the marquis, surfeited with Schumann, tortured by Mendelssohn and dead weary of Saint-Saens, even envied the good fortune of his servants, who could escape the instrument of torture.

"Will the marquis please settle my account?"

"Are you going to leave us?"

"Yes, sir, on account of—"

"The piano? I know; you have had enough of it."

"If it were only enough I could stand it, but it's too much. It is driving me crazy."

"I understand."

"You are not angry, then?"

"The dance, no! But how can I replace you?"

"I know a man who would suit the place. He is quite deaf."

"Lucky dog!"

Even the neighbors were driven to rebellion. Petitions and threatening letters poured in daily, until at last the poor marquis determined to move to some isolated quarter near the barracks where the cornets and drummers were sent to practice scales.

It is scarcely to be credited, but the marquis deeply deplored the absence of a better rival in his wife's affection than the piano. He hated it with a deadly hatred, and it is not surprising that he seized the opportunity to escape when the misguided virtuosa said to him:

"Can I count upon your escort Monday evening, dear? I have promised to play a fantasia for 'Henry VIII' at Mme. la Maréchale's. Are you fond of 'Henry VIII'?"

"Yes—since I've learned to feel for him."

The intended sarcasm passed unnoticed, as his wife thought he alluded to the bold harmonies of the modern school.

The marchioness, however, was obliged to go unattended to Mme. la Maréchale's. Monday evening, at 10 o'clock, she dropped her husband at his club, and extending the soft little hand that was so soon to torture poor "Henry VIII," she said to him:

"Will you call for me? I play at half past 11. No applause would give me so much pleasure as yours."

The marquis bent his head over the extended hand and disappeared without a word.

He played at the club and lost, so heavily, in fact, that he soon found himself wishing he had gone to the reception, thinking that even "Henry VIII" would be preferable to this. From "Henry VIII" to thinking of his wife was but a short step, and he determined to go after her. For you will remember that Elizabeth Alida Marcelline de Longme, away from a piano, was a very charming little woman.

Hardly conscious of what he was doing, the marquis allowed himself to be driven to the house of Mme. la Maréchale. Not caring to enter at once, he remained outside, listening to the hideous fantasia being performed by his wife. "It is half past 11," he thought to himself. "It is she playing—those discords are unmistakable. Anno Boyn and Catherine Howard are at last avenged. Henry VIII, go thou to thine execution!"

The noise of a passing cab momentarily drowned the sound of the piano, and the marquis forgot his wife's musical shortcomings in mental contemplation of her shoulders, her arms, her eyes, her luxuriant hair and her other perfections. This vision appealed to his aesthetic side. He felt that he had been too exacting in the face of so many alluring charms.

"By Apollo! If a piece of ill luck should come my way, I'd get no more than I richly deserve. What if her heart is wrapped up in those little black hieroglyphics with the long necks? She loves me with a constancy that is really touching. I can put up with a little music. At any rate, I shall not care the less for her on account of it. Poor woman, how abominably she plays! But they applaud her. And I—I have played the coward. I will wait outside here for her if it takes an hour to make up for it."

But his ardor was doomed to be dampened by a fine, cold rain that now began to fall. Suetone Amator grew impatient and was conscious that he was getting tired. He had waited a full half hour. Just then he noticed a coupe come out of the courtyard and draw up near the curb behind a line of carriages. "This rain will not last long," he said to himself. "In all probability the last guest to arrive will be the last to go. I shall wait in her coupe and rest."

Taking advantage of the absence of the coachman, who had sought shelter in a neighboring doorway, he entered the coupe. It was a bijou little conveyance, upholstered in blue silk and exhaling an aroma of youth and elegance. The marquis settled back in the corner, which was still warm, and availed himself of a wrap that had been left behind, and in that blissful state of comfort he soon fell asleep. How long he slumbered I cannot say, but he suddenly awoke as the coupe drew up in Mme. la Maréchale's courtyard.

The door was thrown open, and a young woman of extraordinary beauty approached. When she saw that the coupe was not empty, she suppressed an exclamation, and, hastily divesting herself of her wrap, threw it in upon the astonished occupant.

"Are you mad to throw off your cloak here in the court?" exclaimed the young man who had escorted her to the carriage. "The air is freezing."

"I am suffocating," she replied. And, stepping hastily into the coupe, she closed the door with a bang.

"If you care to drop in at mother's, I will go with you."

"No, no. I have changed my mind. I am tired. Good night. I am going directly home."

The coupe rolled rapidly away. The marquis did not stir. Not a word was spoken until they reached a dark street, when the lady withdrew her mantle.

"Gaston," she exclaimed, "what recklessness! You might have been my ruin!"

As the marquis was about to reply she laid a little hand on his lips.

"No, not a word. I know what foolish excuses you will make. I will not, I dare not, listen. My mind is made up. He is breaking my heart, but what is the difference? First take back this ring. I have no right to keep it."

The marquis was conscious that a ring was being slipped on his finger.

"And now kiss me, sweetheart. You deserve that much for your silence and devotion."

The marquis spent five ecstatic minutes, which, however, neither you nor I need dwell upon.

"And now leave me. In another moment I shall be home. Make haste—make haste."

She let down the right hand window and addressed a few words to the coachman, to divert his attention from the supposed Gaston, who alighted on the other side and disappeared, filled with regrets that he had not been able to follow up to the end this unexpected and delightful adventure.

The coupe drove off straight ahead and was soon lost in the darkness.

A clock was striking 2 as our hero reached home. The marchioness was just alighting at the door. The marquis passed her without seeing her.

"Why, my dear, have you been asleep in the vestibule? You must help me up stairs whether you want to or not. They improvised a cotillon, and I'm simply exhausted."

As he offered her his arm she noticed the ring he had forgotten to remove from his finger.

"What a beautiful ring!" she cried. "Is it for me? I'm sure it was meant for a surprise."

The confusion of the marquis was only equalled by his wife's delight.

"Yes, it is a—surprise. I shall tell you about it in the morning."

For the next three days the young wife was in the most affable of moods in expectation of the diamond. She didn't open the piano once.

While the jeweler was making a facsimile of the ring the marquis endeavored to find his charming unknown.

"I'm a thief," he said to himself. "I'm a thief, and here's the ring to prove it. What will Gaston—the real Gaston—say to her? Poor thing, what a beautiful trinket she lost! Poor fellow, what kisses he lost! The recollection of them makes my head swim."

This little adventure cost my friend just 8,000 francs, and to help him out of his embarrassment I am sending the following notice to the newspapers:

"Lost, Monday, 8th, in a coupe with blue livery, a diamond ring worth 8,000 francs. A liberal reward offered to the owner."—Translated for Argonaut.

Faust's Birthplace Sold.
The house in Roda, Saxo-Altenburg, where Dr. Johann Faust, the famous magician and soothsayer of legendary fame, was born toward the last quarter of the fifteenth century was knocked down to a native junk dealer for $25 the other day and is now being dismantled. The building had almost fallen to pieces from age, and in order that it might not fall down the municipal fathers of the little town ordered its immediate demolition.

This historic structure stands, or stood until quite recently, on a rocky eminence near the Jesuites' Thor (city gate). It is a frame building, very rickety, and has been extensively repaired. There is a legend that it dates back to the year 1450 or 1460, as do many other buildings of Roda. That Faust saw the light in one of its dingy rooms, with floors of trampled earth and tiny windows in leaden frames, is attested by several authentic statements in the town chronicle and also in the "Faust Buch," printed in 1587, from which all later writers on the Faust legend quote and which is their chief authority.—Berlin Letter.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Treasure Seekers.
We have been far away—ah, far away!—
Beyond snow-shrouded hills, and we have seen
Strange things, and strange things, our steps
Lay down
Through lands unknown and trackless, with
No star to guide.
No moorlands dim and gray
And lonely wastes, led by no kindly star,
Athirst and weary, we have wandered far,
Yet have we found no treasures till today.
And now, when hope our hearts no more beguiles
With visions of fair lands beyond the foam,
We have found treasures which earth's thorn-
sands hide
Could never give, though we for aye should roam—
Treasures of true hearts and loving smiles,
Of kind hand pressings and warm welcomes home.
—Good Words.

Sleep.
"God bless the man who first invented sleep!"
So Seneca Panza said, and so say I.
And bless him also that he didn't keep
His great discovery to himself or try
To make it, as the lucky fellow might,
A close monopoly by "patent right!"

Yes, bless the man who first invented sleep
(I really can't avoid reiteration),
But bless the man, with curses loud and deep,
Who stole the man's name or age or station,
Who first invented and went round advising
That artificial cut of "early rising!"

"Rise with the lark and with the lark to bed,"
Observes some solemn, sentimental owl.
Maxims like this are very chippy said,
But ere you make yourself a fool or fowl
Pray just inquire about their rise or fall
And whether larks have any beds at all.

The "time for honest folks to be asleep"
Is in the morning, if I reason right,
And when, at last, we wake we take
Upon his pillow till it's fairly light,
And so enjoy his forty morning winks,
Is up-to-snuff, or else—he drinks!

Thompson, who sang about the seasons, said
It was a glorious thing to rise in season,
But then he said it—lying in his bed
At ten o'clock a. m., the very reason
He wrote so charmingly. The simple fact is,
His preaching wasn't sanctioned by his practice.

"'Tis doubtless well to be sometimes awake—
Awake to duty and awake to truth—
But when, ah, a nice review we take
Of our last days and days we find, in sooth,
The hours that leave the slightest cause to weep
Are those we pass in childhood or in sleep!"

The Sweetest Things of Earth.
What are the sweetest things of earth?
Lips that can praise a rival's worth,
A fragrant rose that hides no thorn,
Riches of gold untouched by scorn,
A happy little child asleep,
Eyes that can smile though they may weep,
A brother's cheer, a father's praise,
The ministry of summer days,
A heart whose anger never burns,
A gift that looks for no return,
Wrong's overthrow, pain's swift release,
Dark footsteps guided into peace,
The light of love in lover's eyes,
Age that is young as well as wise,
A mother's kiss, a baby's mirth—
These are the sweetest things of earth.

I Dare Not Long For Death.
In grief's first selfish, blind abandonment
With each reluctant breath,
Nor knowing that I sinned against my soul,
O Lord, I longed for death!

Through suffering, thou, dear Lord, didst set my heart
And teach through pain the precious privilege
Each earth hour doth confer.

New love, once eager to go hence, grieves not,
How'er thou dost defer
My summons, Lord, if here I may but be
To thine a minister.

The dear ones thou hast taken hence are safe.
They need me not. The cry
I hear now cometh from the aching heart
Of new humanity.

How dare I long for heaven while still I hear
That cry? Ashamed, I feel
My share, I bless thee, Lord, that thou dost keep
Me here to do thy work.

While any of the children of thy love,
O Lord, here languisheth,
While work thou dost bid me do still undone,
I dare not long for death!

—Mary Norton Bradford.

Night.

How beautiful is night!
A dewy freshness fills the silent air.
No mist obscures, nor cloud nor speck nor stain
Breaks the serene of heaven.

In full orb'd glory yonder moon divine
Gleams through the deep blue depths,
Beneath her steady ray
The desert circle spreads.

Like the round ocean, girdled with the sky,
How beautiful is night!
—Southey.

So two souls silent in this world may be
Till one strong chord is smitten suddenly
And all of life is tuned to harmony!
—Eve Brodrique.

the benefit of others and never tires of his tale. There are plenty of men weak and worn out, struggling with remorse and fear, the natural outcome of habits that brought incapacity; a sense of lonesomeness and a feeling as if the best side of life had been banished forever. Such men should write to Thomas Slater, Box 508, Kalamazoo, Mich. He will send free by mail, in a plain sealed envelope, full particulars about the method used, and this will enable any man to get a complete cure at home. It is the method that Mr. Slater used to cure himself of the troubles that sap the strength and vigor and also enlarged his organs to natural size. The cure was so complete, so satisfying and such a wonderful change from his former condition that he will gladly tell others all about it, sending all particulars. He figures that he doesn't know of a better way to show his appreciation of his own cure and the sufferings of others. There must be generous men in this world to off set the tide of avarice.
Write to Mr. Slater—it will cost nothing for his description and method.

It is a mother's duty to crown her child with that greatest blessing any human being can possess—good health. This she can only do by taking proper care of herself prior to the child's birth, and especially during the period of gestation. Too few women realize the importance of their own health. Too few understand that the health of their children is dependent upon the vigor and health of the organs of reproduction. A woman who is to become a mother owes it to her offspring to take thought of the most important and delicate organs of her body.

Every woman may be strong and healthy in this respect and insure the health of her child by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is designed for the cure of weakness and disease of the organs distinctly feminine. It is the best medicine for this purpose in all the world. More of it is sold than of all other similar medicines combined. Thousands have testified to its beneficial effects. It allays inflammation and restores the organs to their natural, regular, healthy action. It makes the coming of baby easy and comparatively painless.

Mrs. Rachel Clark, of Houston, St. Croix Co., Wis., writes: "I am in good health since I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I have taken three bottles, which cost me one dollar each. I gave birth to a 12½ pound boy last June.
He is six months old now and weighs 20 pounds, and has two teeth. He had no trouble in getting them."

A clear complexion. Any one can have it who keeps the blood pure. Constipation causes impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite cure constipation. One is a laxative, two a cathartic. Never gripe. Druggists sell them.

THE NEW EXECUTIVE.

President McKinley Appoints M. A. Otero as Governor and Geo. H. Wallace as Secretary of New Mexico.

The Nominations Not Unexpected and Satisfactory to Friends of the Other Candidates for the Positions Named.

Washington, June 2.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate:

Interior—Miguel A. Otero, to be governor of New Mexico.

Geo. H. Wallace, to be secretary of New Mexico.

William M. Jenkins, to be secretary of Oklahoma.

SKETCH OF M. A. OTERO, THE NEW GOVERNOR.

Miguel Antonio Otero who has been appointed by the president to be governor of New Mexico, was born in St. Louis, October 17, 1859, and is the son of M. A. Otero, who represented New Mexico in congress during the '50s and was also secretary of the territory in 1861.

The subject of this sketch was educated at Notre Dame university; after finishing his education he acted as book-keeper for his father for two years. He then became cashier of the San Miguel National bank retaining this place for two years. He was elected probate clerk of San Miguel county on the Republican ticket and in 1890; he was appointed clerk of the Fourth judicial district court, a position which he filled with honor and credit.

Mr. Otero is a strong Republican and during the past six years has been a member of the Republican territorial committee and has done good work for the Republican party. He was one of the delegates to the Republican national convention held at Minneapolis in 1896. On the 19th of December, 1888, he was married to Miss Caroline Emmett, daughter of ex-Chief Justice Lafayette Emmett of Minnesota. They have one son. Their home is located in Las Vegas, but of course on confirmation Governor Otero and family will take up their residence in this city.

Mr. Otero was strongly indorsed for U. S. marshal of New Mexico, and was making an active campaign for this appointment, and there is no doubt but that his fight for this appointment brought him into prominence and aided him in securing the appointment of governor of New Mexico.

THE NEW SECRETARY OF THE TERRITORY. George H. Wallace, who has been appointed secretary of the territory was born December 26, 1842, in Akron, Ohio, and was raised and educated in Canton in that state. He was for three years with the army of the Cumberland, and in commercial life from the close of the war to 1871, subsequently going into manufacturing until 1875.

Mr. Wallace was married in October, 1875, and in 1876 he removed to Howard county, Mo., where he engaged in sheep breeding and wool growing. He was president of the Missouri Wool Growers' association from 1884 to 1895, and was secretary of the National Wool Growers' association in 1899 and 1900.

Mr. Wallace was the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of Missouri in 1888, receiving nearly 240,000 votes over 4,000 ahead of the ticket, and was appointed consul-general to Melbourne, Australia, by President Harrison, and was removed by President Cleveland immediately upon his accession to office.

While in Australia, Mr. Wallace made a report on the "Sheep and Wool Industry of Australia," which was published by the state department as a special consular report. In this valuable document every feature of that industry, from its origin in 1797 to the present time, is given from a practical sheep breeder's standpoint, as may be seen.

Mr. Wallace has been located in Santa Fe, during the past eight months and he and his estimable wife have made many friends during their residence here.

The Weather.

CITY TREASURER TO PAY.

Judge Laughlin Grants a Peremptory Writ of Habeas Corpus to the City Treasurer to Pay Certain School Warrants.

Judge Laughlin upon the petition of S. Spitz, Charles Haspelmath, J. M. Diaz, J. G. Schumann, the Sisters of Loretto and others this morning granted a peremptory mandamus directed to the city treasurer compelling the latter to pay warrants issued by the city board of education prior to March 12, 1897, and held by complainants out of funds in his possession and collected as taxes prior to that date. The city treasurer under the provisions of the Bateman law had declined to pay such warrants and therefore complainants made application for a mandamus. The city board of education declined to employ counsel for the city treasurer and the latter had no alternative than to make such answer as he could to the alternative writ issued last week. There being not much of a defense to the prayer of the petitioners, of course it was granted.

The Western Telephone Construction company of Chicago will furnish this equipment. This company will defend the Santa Fe company against any legal proceedings, that might or will be instituted for infringement of the Bell or any other telephone patent. These changes will make the local system here one of the best that can be procured.

The local company cut prices immediately upon its commencing to do business and it compelled the Albuquerque and Las Vegas companies to lower their rates. The child is 3 years of age. Camilo Berardinelli was sent for and consented to the adoption, whereupon the court made the necessary order in the premises.

Mrs. Trujillo took the child away with her. He is a very bright and pretty boy.

The protest and objections to the probate of the will of the late Valentine S. Shelby and the petitions for reopening the case filed by Fernando Nolan, esq., on behalf of Jose Valentine Shelby and Leopoldo Shelby, claiming to be natural children of the said deceased and by Camilo Berardinelli, esq., as attorney for A. T. Shelby, claiming also to be a natural son of the said testator, then came up for hearing. General Bartlett appeared for the beneficiaries under the will as already probated and approved by the court. Arguments by counsel were had and papers were submitted by the attorneys and the court took the matter under advisement.

Fernando Nolan, esq., on application, was appointed guardian ad litem for Leopoldo Shelby.

The court then adjourned until 3 p. m. At that hour the court reconvened and handed down its decision in the case, affirming its former action in allowing the will of V. S. Shelby to probate and again approving the will and testament and the protests, objections and petitions for reopening were ordered dismissed.

The court then adjourned.

THE DEAF AND BLIND.

The Territorial School for the Deaf and Blind Forced to Close for Lack of Funds.

On Sunday last the term of the school for the deaf and the blind of the territory closed owing to the insufficiency of the appropriation granted the school by the last legislature. It has been as successful in every way as could be desired. The pupils have so far made satisfactory progress in their studies, and it is regretted that the school cannot re-open until next year.

There have been during the scholastic term 14 deaf pupils and seven blind pupils in attendance. The superintendent of the school will remain as the custodian of the entire property of the school for the territory. He will gladly continue teaching Indian scholars at the expense of the government, and it is hoped that the board of the school will soon make some arrangements about allowing the deaf of school age residing in Arizona to come and be instructed in the school at the expense of that territory. This aid would be of help to the school.

Rev. Job Turner, a deaf-mute missionary to the deaf in the south, made a recent visit to the school and preached a good sermon to the deaf of the school last Sunday. He has traveled throughout the Union preaching to the deaf in the most populous parts of the country. He has been engaged as a missionary for 24 years.
