WASHINGTON NEWS BUDGET

Senator Turpie Attacks the Policy of Putting High Rates on Low Priced Articles.

SOME LATE ARMY ASSIGNMENTS MADE

Sharp Discussion Over Tillman's Motion to Discharge the Committee on Contingent Expenses from a Consideration of the Sugar Investigation Resolution.

Washington, June 3.—Senator Tillman moved that the committee on contingent expenses be discharged from a consideration of the resolution for an investigation of the charges in regard to sugar speculation, and that the resolution be brought before the senate.

Senator Gallinger, a member of the committee, said he objected to Senator Tillman's motion, and added that the committee would make a report after carefully considering the matter. Senator Vest quoted from a speech by Thurman regarding the demand made at one time by the Louisiana senator for an investigation. Senator Thurman said a senator of the United States had a recourse to the courts the same as any other citizen, and no other investigation was ordered. Senator Tillman said he was not concerned as to the charges against himself, but he proposed to have these charges investigated, because an attempt had been made to attract attention from the fire he was building in front. He saw no reason why any senator should not want charges investigated. What he wanted was to find whether the senate, or any senator belonged to the sugar trust. Senator Gallinger said the question was, whether the word of Senators Aldrich and Smith was to be taken by the senate. He said the charges against the committee on finance and Senator Smith, were vague and indefinite. Senator Tillman said what he wanted was to bring the matter before the senate, and if they refused to answer to put them in jail. If they had lied about the senate or senators, they should be punished for contempt.

Senator Gallinger said there was no necessity to railroad the resolution through the senate. Tillman replied that railroad was necessary, as congress would adjourn as soon as the tariff bill had passed.

Senator Gallinger referred to the last sugar investigation, a considered an outrage that he and other senators were dragged before the committee of investigation to swear that they were honest men.

Senator Tillman said the necessity for swearing senators, was because a witness exculpated one senator then refused to answer as to the others, leaving the others under an imputation. This witness had been sent to jail for refusing to answer, and now he would be compelled to answer.

Senator Tillman said he would not ask the senate to discharge the committee, if Senator Jones of Nevada, the chairman, had not told him he had not been able to get the other members to meet with him.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, said the chairman of the committee could not have made such a statement, because it was not true.

Tillman—"He told me he tried to get a meeting and could not." Jones of Arkansas—"The chairman of the committee, will not so state, in his place in the senate, as there has been a meeting of the committee to consider the resolution." Tillman then withdrew the motion to discharge the committee, saying he did not wish to cast any imputation on the committee.

THE CUBAN QUESTION.

Mr. Terry, Democrat of Arkansas, today endeavored to get the Cuban question before the house as a privileged question, by offering a resolution declaring it the sense of the house that a foreign affairs committee should be appointed to consider the matter. By a vote of 90 to 55 the house sustained the speaker's ruling, that the resolution should not be privileged. The consideration of the Fry bill to prevent collisions on certain harbors, river and inland waters of the United States was then begun.

THE REPORT ADOPED.

The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill has been adopted by the house of representatives.

TURPIE'S OBJECTION.

Speaking on the agricultural features of the tariff bill today, Senator Turpie attacked the policy of putting high rates on low priced articles. He said the bill was practically a bill to pension the entire manufacturing and agricultural interest of the country, and to give the great "army of prosperity" of the last campaign.

FIRE BILL PASSED.

The Fry bill to prevent collisions in the harbors, rivers and inland waters of the United States, has passed the house.

ARMY ASSIGNMENTS.

Acting Secretary of War Meiklejohn this afternoon announced that Brigadier-General Wade had been assigned to the department of Dakota at St. Paul, and that Brigadier-General Graham would go to the department of Texas at San Antonio. This leaves vacant the department of Columbia, which will be assigned to Colonel Merriam, when he shall be promoted next week to be a brigadier-general.

FIXING THE DUTIES.

Senator Vest's substitute for the outlying paragraph, fixing 70 per cent as a maximum, was lost by a vote of 23 to 81. An amendment by Senator Jones fixing the maximum rate on outlying at 60 per cent was lost by a vote of 17 to 23. The committee amendments were then agreed to. The paragraph relating to shotguns, pistols, etc., was amended to make the rate on revolving pistols 75 cents each, and 25 per cent ad valorem, and then agreed to.

THE BUILDING COLLAPSED.

New York, June 3.—A new five story brick building at Fifty-first street and Twelfth avenue, collapsed today. Several men are buried in the ruins. The rescuing party has not yet reached them, but it is probable that they are dead. Jacob Jacobson, a millwright, is one of the victims. David R. Brown, owner of the building, and Alexander Brown, a contractor, were arrested by order of Fire Chief Bonner, but afterwards released.

SPANISH CABINET COUNCIL.

The Queen Regent Prepared to Propose Extensive Reforms to the Government Through the Instrumentality of General Campos.

Madrid, June 3.—A cabinet council was held today, the queen regent presiding. The retiring premier, Senor Canovas del Castillo, made a long statement regarding Cuba, the Philippine islands, the internal situation, and the relations between Spain and the United States which led to his resignation. Her majesty declared herself satisfied with the explanation of Canovas, and begged him to continue in the government, until the crisis was solved. Canovas after the council, said the queen asked him to telegraph Marshal Martinez de Campos, to come to Madrid, and he replied he would arrive here tomorrow.

Canovas added that the solution of the crisis will depend upon the conference between the queen regent, General Campos, and Senor Sagasta, the liberal leader. It is said the queen is prepared to propose extensive reforms for Cuba through the instrumentality of General Campos, who it is believed will shortly succeed General Weyler as captain-general.

DENIES RESPONSIBILITY.

The Spanish Government Declines to Shoulder the Blame for Firing on the Valencia.

Washington, June 3.—The Spanish government has disavowed the responsibility for the action of the Mercedes in firing upon the Valencia.

This disavowal is the result of an official protest filed with the United States by the state department, based upon a communication received at the department from the Ward line, stating that the Mercedes fired on the Valencia while leaving Calimera in peaceful pursuit of her business.

Several Whites and Indians Involved in the Murder of Herdsman Hoover—Prisoners Will Be Turned Over to the Sheriff Tomorrow.

Miles City, Mont., June 3.—Latest advices from the scene of the Cheyenne Indian troubles are to the effect that Standing Elk has confessed complicity in the murder of John Hoover, the herdsman, implicating Philip Stanley, Sam Crow and Chief Red Bird. Captain Stough, the Indian agent, will surrender the prisoners to Sheriff Gibbs on Friday, though it is not likely that they will ever reach Miles City, as the settlers seem determined to lynch them.

A VIRGINIA CONFLAGRATION

Alexandria Visited by a Fire That Destroyed About $500,000 Worth of Business Property.

Alexandria, Va., June 3.—The greatest conflagration that ever visited Alexandria broke out in Bryan's fertilizing mill on the river front shortly after midnight, and raged with great fury for about eight hours, causing a total damage (including the loss of time to the mills, etc.) of from $450,000 to $500,000, partly insured. The entire block, bounded by Strand, Duke, Union and Prince streets, is almost completely wiped out, only one warehouse with a few contents being saved. This section was covered principally by warehouses and manufacturing property. The Old Dominion Brass works, the Old Dominion Boat club, the Acheson's coal yard, and the Old Pioneer mills were quickly gutted. The fire extended about two blocks along the river, and burned most of the wharves to the water's edge. The Washington fire department five miles away, was called upon for help, and engine company No. 4, under Assistant Chief Bell, was sent down on a ferry boat. The firemen did effective work and at 4 o'clock this morning the flames were under control though the ruins were smoldering all day long.

An Absconding Teller.

Dover, Del., June 3.—While the directors of the First National bank here were examining the accounts of William N. Boggs, a paying teller, who had been in their employ for 15 years, they received a letter from him saying he was $38,000 short and had left town. This loss will not affect the bank's solvency.

ALBUQUERQUE NEWS.

The Otero Appointment Well Received—News Notes and Personalities.

Albuquerque, June 2.—The nomination of Miguel A. Otero by the president for governor comes to us as a genuine surprise, as Pedro Perea seems to have been the choice of the majority in Bernalillo county, certainly so of the Spanish speaking citizens. From a conversation with many of our citizens it would appear that while there is some disappointment felt, still not a word has been heard derogatory to the good name of "Gillie," as he is generally called. That the man who saw the first light of day in the Planters hotel of St. Louis some 37 years ago, will make a good official no one yet approached has a doubt. That Bernalillo county will also secure a presidential appointment there remains no doubt; it may be more than one, judging by certain observations.

Superintendent Arthur G. Wells of the A. & P., left tonight for a trip westward. He is accompanied by his new secretary, Edwin G. Gott, a clever young gentleman. Mr. Wells, it is safe to predict, will remain in office under the new regime, dating July 1 next.

Geo. Blunt has two young nephews, brothers, which were given to him by Jack Akers a few days ago. Blunt says he expects to have fun out of the animals a few months hence.

Joe Barnett's bird shooting record on the 30th was 36 straight, not 46 as the last New Mexican made it. The correction was hardly necessary, as every sportsman would note the error.

Mineral lodge K. P. elected new officers tonight and from this time forth will grow to be one of the leading lodges in the jurisdiction.

Miss Emilia, sister of ex-Sheriff Jacobo Yrizarri, will construct a handsome one story building on the site of the one destroyed by fire about three months ago. Luke Walsh will occupy the building with the new Tivoli. Plans will build just west of the Yrizarri structure.

J. M. Vanderwerker who placed men at work on the new shop of the A. & P. at this point today left for the west. He says the Winslow station and hotel will be 172x30 with an ell 32x70. The foundation of Patnam rock is being laid. The superstructure will be of Winslow brick, which are of a cream shade. The hotel will contain 28 rooms.

Benefit lodge No. 2, A. O. U. W. will install the officers chosen May 31, on July 5. The lodge is 15 years old and has 175 members.

Postmaster Geo. Denny of old town, whose left leg was amputated a few weeks ago is out on the streets and doing finely. He lost a good deal of flesh in the past three months by confinement.

Baseball, cycling and running races are given pre-eminence in the entertainment of the Fair association. Santa Feans will be welcome in large numbers and are assured of excellent treatment.

Sig Grunsfeld, one of the leading Republicans of this city and who is a prominent candidate for postmaster, is especially gratified with President McKinley's choice for governor, though the appointment was wholly unexpected.

The temperance workers are actively involved in matters of importance to them at the Congressional church. Mrs. M. J. Warner, of Santa Fe, is on the committee on resolutions, Miss Eva Tucker, of Las Vegas, is on the same committee. Las Vegas is represented by Mrs. E. Cochran, Mrs. T. Elston, Miss Tucker and Mrs. Clara Caruth.

Rocco Dionovitch started tonight on his walk to New York. He is a tall, thin man, and his last start from Pomona, Cal. Santa Fe will not be included in his stops, though he carries the name of the New Mexican on his book, your correspondent having placed it there.

Mrs. Chas. Zeiger has joined her husband at Congress, south of Prescott, A. T. Mr. Zeiger's business record here in early years stands high, the depression of 1893, leading to complete failure in '94. He is doing well at Congress in general merchandising.

A closer connection with the San Juan country is assured since Messrs. Kite and Willett came among us this week.

A General Strike.

Pittsburg, June 3.—The entire plant of Jones & Laughlins was closed today on account of the strike, and 3,500 men are idle. There has been no disorder, but tomorrow is pay day, and trouble is feared then. The strikers met again today and resolved to stand firm.

Will Not Strike.

Pittsburg, June 3.—There will be no strike of 23,000 miners in this district for the present. This was decided at today's delegate convention. Resolutions were adopted however, demanding a uniform rate of 30 cents a ton for mining, but deferring the strike, until the national executive board should consider it advisable.

Woodmen in Session.

Dubuque, Ia., June 3.—Today's session of the head camp of Woodmen was largely devoted to a consideration of the laws of the order. The most important action was to keep the per capita tax at the present amount, but the surplus in the general fund is to be applied to the benefit fund. The streets are congested with people from all over the north west, 311 special trains bringing in upwards of 15,000 people. The number in the parade was fully 7,000.

SOCORRO COUNTY.

The Mogollon correspondent of the Silver City Independent says: "Times are awful dull in Mogollon and nothing doing. The price of silver is too low to justify working now."

The new ore bin at the Wing stamp mill near Chloride has been completed, and the hauling of ore has commenced. Manager Jones proposes to have a good supply of ore on hand before the rainy season sets in.

The Elkins place property on the south side of the Ortiz mountains on the grant of the same name is being worked with a large force of some 40 or 50 men and a good deal of gold is being taken out. On the whole southern Santa Fe county is active in the matter of mining and there is a fair prospect of seeing several new propositions opened up in the near future.

Carley & Arrada want $150,000 for the Gold Standard mine at the present time and are not very anxious to sell at that price. Things are humming on this property. There are two mills in operation at present, and a third mill is in course of construction, and will soon be ready for operation on low grade ore that runs about $10 a ton. THURSDAY, JUNE 3.

The appointment of M. A. Otero of Las Vegas, as governor, is being received with sentiments of approval by the people of New Mexico.

One of the Harvard mannerisms that ought to be corrected is that of defiling with red paint the statue of the founder of the university at Cambridge.

And now for a vigorous, honest and beneficial administration of public affairs. The New Mexican expects such to be the order of the day during the next four years.

A KANSAS CITY man was asked recently to sign a petition to get a man out of the penitentiary. He promptly declined, saying there were not enough men there now to suit him.

And now, Mr. McKinley, as you have made a good beginning, please keep this up. The sooner we have a complete set of Republican officials the better for the prosperity of the territory.

It has been decided by the Canadian Supreme court that a man or woman who leaves Canada to go to the United States for divorce without intending to live there, afterward marrying and returning to Canada, can be prosecuted for bigamy.

GOVERNOR OTERO understands the political situation in New Mexico thoroughly. The New Mexican is of the opinion that he will use this knowledge for the benefit of the people and for the success of Republican principles and of the Republican party.

The loose talkativeness and tearful hilarity in the offices of certain alleged statesmen in this city on the receipt of the news of the appointment of a governor and secretary on yesterday were simply remarkable and remind one of the tears shed by the gentle Niobe.

The information from Washington that Senators Pettigrew, Cannon and ex-Senator Dubois are preparing to go to Japan and China for the purpose of learning something new about the silver question is truly startling. The strange feature of the announcement lies in the fact that a United States senator can be found who is willing to concede that he does not know all there is to be known on this subject.

The hanging of the San Francisco murderer, Durrant, will probably come off on Friday, the 11th of June, with the approval and concurrence of an overwhelming majority of the people of the United States. Durrant belongs to the most horrible and odious class of criminals, the hypocrites, the crawling, treacherous, fair-seeming shedders of innocent blood. Even the methods of his defense were criminal. Justice never called with more reason for an example than in his case.

MINING IN NEW MEXICO.

New Mexico, in the matter of mines, is to a greater extent than any other section of the United States "a poor man's country." It is a fact, that a greater part of the paying mines of the territory, have been opened by men with small capital—in some instances without any capital at all. The wealthy mine owner of today is in nine cases out of ten, the man who discovered a good proposition, and put it on a paying basis, with little outside help. As a consequence of this, it happens, that in no section, are so many of the mines managed by the owners themselves. Stock gambling here is practically unknown. The mining men as a rule are working men and not gamblers and non-residents. The advantage of such a condition of affairs need not be pointed out. It must be apparent to all. The opportunities are just as good today as they were 10, 15 or 20 years ago. Of course capital is a great help in this era of improved mining machinery, and is an absolute necessity in rapid development. But this fact does not shut out the practical miner with a small capital, or no capital at all, who is willing to get out and dig. There are thousands of good propositions as yet untouched.

There is one thing very much in evidence in the matter of the two appointments made yesterday, and that is, that some of the statesmen who were in the business of making charges against candidates, were not benefited by their law and infamous conduct. So much for that sort of business.

SECRETARY GAGE has just given the officers of the revenue cutter service a sound lecture on soliciting the exercise of personal or official influence of prominent citizens, in obtaining for them pleasant assignments to duty. The secretary is of the opinion that this kind of conduct is not only unbecomingly, but detrimental to the public interest, and injurious to the morale of the service. He threatens with dismissal an officer found guilty of an infraction of this order. It will go on just the same, and all the orders from all the secretaries that ever held office will not put a stop to asking and receiving desirable assignments at the request of influential people. It is well known what becomes of a man in this service without influential friends.

SECRETARY GEO. H. WALLACE.

Hon. George H. Wallace, who has been appointed secretary of the territory, is a man, not very well known throughout the territory, but respected and liked by those who do know him. He has been a resident of Santa Fe for about eight months and was for about a year a resident of Las Vegas prior to that.

From what the New Mexican knows of Mr. Wallace, it is of the opinion that he will fill the important office of secretary well and with satisfaction to the people and to the government. He is fully posted on public affairs, and during his residence in Santa Fe has familiarized himself with the conditions, needs and resources of the territory and has become acquainted with many of its public men and prominent citizens. The New Mexican had no particular candidate for the place and is quite content with the president's selection and believes the same will prove a very good one. Here is success to the new secretary!

IMPROVED CONDITIONS.

Among the factors affecting the money market favorably in the general tendency towards an improvement in the earnings of the railroads, both gross and net, as compared with those of a year ago. The gross earnings of 80 roads for the first week of May amounted to $6,316,485, an increase of $208,205, or 3.41 per cent over the same period in 1896; while 56 roads for the second week of May report $5,163,769, an increase of $260,487, or 5.31 per cent over the same period last year. As to net earnings, 136 roads show an increase of $1,615,000 for March, or at the rate of about 9 per cent; while, for the first three months of the year, 179 roads exhibit a gain of $1,651,000, or at the rate of nearly 8 per cent. One of the most satisfactory features of this improvement is that it extends pretty evenly over the roads of all sections, showing that the recovery is due to causes common to the country at large.

RAILROAD CONSTRUCTION.

A very general revival in railroad building is now in sight.

Since the first of the year the Railway Age notes a considerable number of new undertakings which promise much, while a still larger number of enterprises carried over from previous years, and on some of which work has already been done, appear now to have secured the means for going ahead. Thousands of miles of lines can be enumerated for which room and need seem apparent on an intelligent study of the situation, and whose construction, therefore, is merely a question of better times. For a few of these contracts have already been let, while the promoters of others are sanguine that they will get under way this year. Besides the legitimate enterprises there are various paper schemes, such as that of a new transcontinental line, which have little likelihood of accomplishment; but altogether there is already a better outlook for railway building than has been observed for several previous years. There are few sections of the country which present today a better field for railway investment than New Mexico, and this fact of late is being realized by the leading railway men of the United States generally. This is proved by the many enterprises now under consideration, and relating to the territory, several of which are almost sure to be consummated in the near future.

GOVERNOR M. A. OTERO.

President McKinley on yesterday appointed Miguel A. Otero of San Miguel county, to be governor of New Mexico. As is well known there were numerous candidates for the position and a strong fight was being made for the appointment.

The New Mexican's first choice was Hon. A. L. Morrison, and when he voluntarily withdrew, the New Mexican announced that, as a Republican paper, the selection of any good, clean, competent man and good Republican would be satisfactory to this paper and to a vast majority of the Republicans of the territory.

Mr. Otero has been chosen. He is quite a young man for the position, being but 33 years of age and the youngest governor New Mexico has ever had. The New Mexican being a Republican paper, having the best interests of the party and of the people in mind and at heart, proposes to give Governor Otero's administration loyal support and will do its level best to make his administration a success.

The appointee is very well known throughout the territory and he also knows the territory and its people very well. He has had considerable experience in business and in politics and while he has never held any office demanding any great executive ability, the New Mexican believes that he is a man of considerable executive ability and otherwise well qualified for the position. In the meantime, as said before, the new territorial administration will be supported and upheld by this paper and the principles of the Republican party will be maintained and defended earnestly, consistently, persistently, and at all times.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

The decision of the United States supreme court in the case of the interstate commerce commission against the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railroad company has had a favorable effect upon railroad interests. The commission has maintained that it has the power to determine, within certain limitations, what is a "reasonable rate of freight," a power which has hitherto been reserved to the courts of law. On this point, the court ruled against the commission, thereby relieving the roads of a very embarrassing exposure to official intervention. If the matter is allowed to rest here, the roads will become the more free in the regulation of their rates, which would be a valuable advantage to their business; the probability, however, is that, having been defeated in the highest court, the commission will be disposed to co-operate with the companies in securing the consent of congress to some system of pooling accompanied with power for the commission to determine what rates are reasonable; in which case the roads would have the benefit of harmonious co-operation, while the commission would have the satisfaction of being endowed with larger functions than the law now gives them. In any case, the decision puts the railroads in a better strategic position than they have hitherto occupied in their frequent disagreements with the commission.

FOR THE LADIES.

A BLACK AND WHITE EFFECT.

The new accordion-plaiting which is narrow at the top and at the foot widens out to three times that depth, makes a most graceful hanging skirt and is appropriately called "soleil" or sun-plaiting. The skirts thus made are variously shaped: some having many gores (which is perhaps the best, as they do not stretch) or of straight breadths of the goods sewn together to form a square out of which a circle is cut in the center; the corners are cut to make a corresponding length all around.

Our design shows a black tulle, the waist is made with a deep yoke, both back and front, which is trimmed with two groups of three folds of white satin put on crosswise and edged with two trillings—one of black and one of white chiffon. Below this is a drapery which begins at the left front and goes around the figure in folds which are drawn close to the right under arm seam from where it extends in loose folds to the yoke where it is held in place by two rosettes of white satin. Collar of black satin with a ruche of white chiffon. Hat of red tulle.

Recollections.

You may break, you may shatter
The vase if you will,
But the bill for the roses
Will bother you still.

Where All the Trouble Started.

She—Do you think, at the rate woman is progressing, that the time will ever come when she will treat the man, instead of the man treating her?

He—I hope not. That was what got the whole human race into trouble! Eve's setting up the apples to Adam.

Blood Poison.

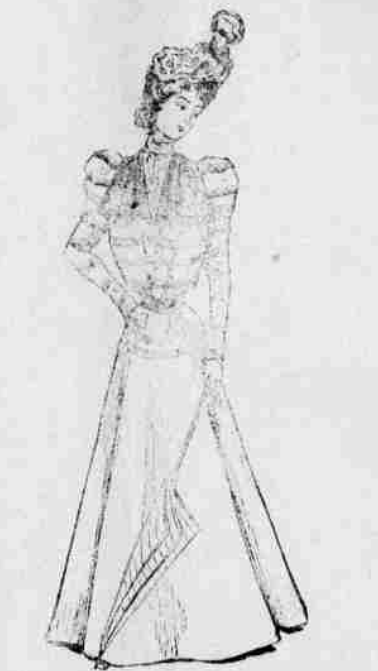

Contagious Blood Poison has been appropriately called the curse of mankind. It is the one disease that physicians cannot cure; their mercurial and potash remedies only bottle up the poison in the system, to surely break forth in a more virulent form, resulting in a total wreck of the system.

Mr. Frank B. Martin, a prominent jeweler at 926 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D.C., says: "I was for a long time under treatment of two of the best physicians of this city, for a severe case of blood poison, but my condition grew worse all the while, notwithstanding the fact that I had charged me three hundred dollars. My mouth was filled with eating sores; my tongue was almost eaten away, so that for three months I was unable to taste any solid food. My hair was coming out rapidly, and I was in a horrible fix. I had tried various treatments, and was nearly discouraged, when a friend recommended S.S.S. After I had taken four bottles, I began to get better, and when I had finished eighteen bottles, I was cured sound and well, my skin was without a blemish, and I have had no return of the disease. S.S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) will cure any case of blood poison. Books on the disease and its treatment, mailed free by Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga."

EFFECTS OF TRIMMING.

One of the most striking modes of trimming is to set home of braid around sleeves, bodices and skirts; but it is a fashion to be shunned by all but the most slender figures. Braid, ribbon or folds of material or the material tucked is used to produce this effect.

The picture shows a light woad-brown canvas. The trimming is of black braid with one edge white. The two rows on the skirt are garnished with designs in white guipure. The revers are violet tulle, formed of squares plaited on the shoulders and trimmed with guipure.

Belt of violet tulle, tiny vest and stock collar of white lace over white satin. The hat is of white tulle over black, made in the style which is so universally becoming that of the large turban. The effect of these turbans is lessened if heavy materials are used. Black and white plumes are the trimming with violets in the back.

BACKACHE CURED

I have used Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills for two years and find that they are the only pills that I have been able to find, that would cure my case. I am an old railroad man, and the continual motion of the train has given me pains in the back, due no doubt to the wrenching of my kidneys. I would not be without Hobbs Sparagus Kidney Pills, I have tried others and they failed to relieve me, but Hobbs has done the work. Brown McALEER, 617 Park St., Atchison, Kan.

THE SEVENTH Beet Sugar factory in the United States was erected at Eddy, New Mexico, in 1896, and made its first "campaign," beginning November 15th, 1896, and closing February 15th, 1897.

THE CONTENT OF "SUGAR in the beet" of the crop grown in the Eddy and Roswell sections of the valley has proven to be more uniformly high than any other part of the United States,

FORTUNATELY the land is blessed with just the fertility to produce high grade beets, and

MORE FORTUNATELY the Pecos Irrigation and Improvement Co. and the Roswell Land and Water Co. have an irrigation system of great magnitude, covering a vast body of the BEST SUGAR BEET lands on earth. The water is applied to the crop WHEN NEEDED.

THE SUN SHINES more hours in the day and more days in the year in Eddy and Chaves counties, New Mexico, than in any other section of the west.

124 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not assured until May, and a majority of the acreage was planted between JUNE 1st AND AUGUST 10th.

A French Phrase.
Nell—Miss Jones uses French phrases in the most peculiar manner.
Bell—Dose she?
Nell—Yes, indeed! Why, at breakfast yesterday I asked her how she liked her eggs and she said they were very chick.

A Back Number.
It's strange, said the young woman, how things go out of vogue. Tribby has gone completely out of style.
Yes, said the young man in bicycle clothes, she's a '98 model at the latest.

Complexion Indications.
The complexion of persons whose digestion is out of order, who are bilious, or who lack vigor, always exhibits an unhealthy tint. It is by regulating the bodily organs and promoting digestion and assimilation, that the complexion becomes healthy. To rectify the fault of a sallow complexion, use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an invigorant and alterative which removes those obstacles to renewed strength, physical comfort and personal attractiveness—an imperfect digestion and secretion, and a disordered condition of the bowels. Persistence in the use of this inestimable corrective and tonic will assuredly result in renewed physical regularity and vigor, will tend to the bodily substance, and cause the glow and clear color of health to return to the sallow, wasted cheek.

English as She Is Wrote.
There was a young fellow named Cholmondeley,
Who greeted his friends very grolmandeley.
When asked to explain,
He appeared in great pain,
And said nothing, but shook his head dolefully.

Do you think, roared the old sailor, that I would be found aboard a craft that had its rudder in front?

MY SWEETHEART'S EYES.

Poets have written of hope and love,
Of the things of earth and those above,
They've dreamed of folly and song of fame,
And covered with glory some great man's name.
They've named their praises of country and town,
Made for their history a wide renown.
Poets have sung of war and peace,
From our own bright days to the wars of Greece,
They've told us fiction, have told us some truth—
Really, they've sung of all things, forsooth.
Unless, perhaps, by some luckless chance,
They've forgot to write of my sweetheart's glance.
Ah, mischief is in those eyes of brown,
And love is filling those eyes cast down,
And down in their depths to guard her well,
Purity and truth constantly dwell.
Those eyes speak words no tongue could form,
Words that are cold, or wise, or warm.
They've told me things I would never tell—
I said by the coming of May she'd tell—
I said by the coming of May she'd tell—
But I know she will; those brown eyes are true.

SIGNOR SALVINO.

After my old nurse, Jane Williams, had been left a widow, and worse than that, with two grandchildren to look after, it became one of my duties, as well as one of my pleasures, to suggest various means by which she could make both ends meet. She owned her little house, and as it was a pleasant cottage, just outside of the bustling, noisy part of the city, it often occurred to me that Jane could not do better than rent one of her rooms. She was too good for that, she would not do so. In any event the care of the children would keep her near home. But to my advice in this direction she at first turned a deaf ear. One of her neighbors had aspired to lodgers and had put out a sign to that effect, only to get a man who came down with a cold, and she might as well have been a sign. The neighbor had to turn up half her furniture before she got through with the health board.

"Then look at the expense of their printed notices," said Jane, who counted farthings as most people do dollars. "I'd have to put in a new one every month, for between the sun and the rain and the dust the paper would get dirty, and a dirty sign might make the people think that the rooms was like the sign."

I overcame this objection by offering to pay for all the printed signs entitled "For Rent," and Jane could not refuse, and before I left for my next trip south I had the satisfaction of seeing the nearest placard I could find adorn the doorstep of Mrs. Williams' cottage, and on one young man had already been to look at a room.

"That will bring you good fortune, Jane," I said in parting with her. "Now remember what I predicted. It will bring you good fortune. I feel it in my bones."

My first evening walk upon getting home, a few months later, was to see Jane. Had she a lodger? Or should I have to pay for scores of soiled and wasted placards and have to her reproaches? My curiosity rose as I approached the cottage. There was no sign on the door. Evidently she had a lodger. Moreover I could see, even in the dim light, that the house had been newly painted. And when the door opened, and Jane welcomed me into the neat sitting room, it didn't take a second glance to tell me that the carpet was new and that the children were better dressed than usual. Jane herself showed the signs of uncommon prosperity.

"Didn't I tell you that lodgers would bring you fortune?" were my first words. "Who is he and when did he come?"

"What?" exclaimed Jane in amazement. "Haven't you heard?"

"Haven't you heard?" echoed the children.

"Haven't you heard?" I said.
"Why, it was in all the papers," continued Jane. "If you find us all alive, Mr. John, you have a right to be surprised. And you haven't heard a word!"
"Oh, Mr. John," shouted both the children at once, "we might all of us be murdered!"
"Stop, stop," I exclaimed. "Let your grandmother tell me all about it from beginning to end. Sit down there, Jane, and begin at the beginning. So that nice young man turned out to be a murderer?"
"I'll tell you all about it, Mr. John," her face flushing with importance. "It was an awful thing. You may well be surprised to find us all alive!"
"But, Jane," I said, a trifle testily, "I'm not a bit surprised. I should have been surprised to find you all dead."
"Ah," said Jane, "but you don't know what happened. Oh, it was just awful!"
"Well, but go on. Did that young man try to murder you?"
"That young man, Mr. John? Oh, no. He took the room for a week at $3, and I spent 15 cents upon a cake of scented soap for him. He went off without paying a cent. He left a letter in which he said he was going home to die. He took that cake of soap with him too." Jane sighed and went on.
"For two weeks after he left not a soul asked to see the room till one rainy night about 8 o'clock. Just as I was a-lisin' a pen to write 'Inquire Within' on a new sign, there came a loud knock at the front door. 'Mercy sakes, alive,' says I, 'what can that be?'
"Perhaps it's a lodger," says Lizzie, who was studying her lessons at the table there. 'Laws, no,' says I, 'ain't light enough to see the sign.' With that I stepped into the hall and opened the door.
"I'm lookin' for lodgin's," says a gruff voice, and a big man with a red beard all dripping with rain stepped inside. 'It's not a night for a dog to be out in, is it, mum?' He was inside the settin' room before I knew it. Johnny got half under the table, and Lizzie helped me stare at him.
"Lodgin's is what I want, mum—a place for to sleep in. I see your sign up when I come by here this afternoon, and I says to myself, 'This is the place for Bill Crumfit.' Bill Crumfit, that's me, mum. Now, it's for you to say whether it is the place for me or not."
"I kind of hesitated, for his eye was sort of wild, but I could think of no way of getting him out.
"He left a letter to say, mum," he says again, almost in a shout.
"My room is $4 a week," says I all of a tremble. "That was double what I always asked, and I thought he might go away."
"The price is high, mum," says he, "but as I live the house, I'll take the room. I'll move in right now." And he stamped the water off his boots so hard that the house shook. Then he asks for a light.
"A light?" says I.
"Yes, mum. I don't generally go to bed in the dark when I pay $4 a week for a room, and I want a candle. Not, says he, 'that it is indispensable. Forhere's what I calls the wanderer's own friend.' And with that he pulls out a bullseye lantern. 'The wanderer's own friend is a wonderful invention,' says he. 'Do you know, mum, that if you open the blind square in the face of a person in the dark, that person won't see nothin' at all for quite awhile, especially if that person has been waked up sudden? One night I opened my friend within two inches of an old lady's face. You'd 'a' thought she'd been struck with a club. She woke up and said, 'I don't think she ever got over it. I can't say for sure, 'cause I never called there again. But if you'd 'a' seen her go down all of a heap you'd almost 'a' split yourself laughin'."
"I couldn't see any joke. Lizzie was a-starin' at him, her eyes almost out of her head.
"You have a small family, mum," says he. "I always live in a small family—when I can. I've lived in some pretty large families, though. Your interestin' daughter which I have the pleasure of seein' and your young son in the act of pursuin' knowledge makes up your household, mum?"
"I was that frightened I could only say 'Yes.'
"And what may your name be, mum?" says he, dancin' his lantern on his knee.
"Williams," says I.
"Ha!" says he. "Williams, eh? Names I don't fudge anyway, ain't they, mum? I don't never keep the same name longer than three months—if I can help it. Last month my name was Signor Salvino. And, mum, could you close up to my chair and nudgin' me with his lantern, 'what do you think my name was afore that? Guess, mum, guess,' says he. 'You won't guess it if you try all night.'
"I was so frustrated that when he nudged me with his lantern, I says 'Jones' spasmodically. 'No,' says he, a-splittin' on my best carpet, 'tain't Jones. But it's like it. Guess again.' And he nudged me with that lantern. 'Smith,' says I, desperate like. 'Pshaw,' says he. 'Smith ain't no more like Jones than Crumfit is like Salvino. Crumfit and Salvino is names what I calls far apart. Suppos, mum, you was to know that a man named Salvino—I say supposin, you know—that a man named Salvino had done some murder, supposin he had cut up an old lady into bits and had her down and sold her for furniture glue—and such things has been done—now, supposin, mum, that a man named Salvino had done this and was to call himself Crumfit, would you see any likeness in the names? Of course not, mum. There ain't nothin' like allases, mum. It's the greatest convention that was ever invented," says he. "When a man can get a alias which is the exact opposite of what his name was afore, then, mum, he is safe. If you ever want a alias, mum, come to me," says he. 'Now, just for curiosity, if you wanted a alias, what would you want?'
"I don't know," says I, a-rubbun' my eyes to make sure I was not dreamin'. But there was this awful man a-sittin' in his wet clothes on my best lounge and a-splittin' on my best carpet. If he'd 'a' given me a chance, I'd 'a' sent for the police, but he kept talkin' right on my nerves.
"So your name is Williams," says he. "I knowed a Mrs. Williams once who kept a gunshop in Boston, but you ain't the one, for she was hanged. Well, mum, if I were you and wanted a alias, I think if you was to call yourself Mice. Pivoty it would do. You see, the alias must depend somewhat upon what you do. If you only cracked a store or pulled a pocketbook, you might call yourself Skinner or any such name as that, but for any thing serious Mice. Pivoty would do. How do you like the name of Pivoty, mum? You'd better remember that name—it might come in useful. I see a kind of wildness in your eye, mum, that makes me think of the great French child torturer, Mice. Oscar. They say she made blue children for circuses by feedin' 'em on indigo. She was a genius for makin' children to good uses. She always kept a stock of show children on hand—human skeletons, fat boys, transparent infants and such like. When a fat boy stopped growin', she could turn him out as a skeleton in less than a year. But she couldn't make fat boys out of children, so she turned to their insides. It ain't all children that'll make good skeletons, anyways," says he. "Now, your boy there, lookin' at Johnny, 'might do. Mice. Oscar hadn't no success one year, and when she got a good fat figure the police thought she was a-burly too many infants and fetched her up. She didn't last long after they stopped her; she couldn't live without her interestin' work."
"How do you like Pivoty, mum?" says he again after a split on my nerves. I began to suspect by this time that he was a kind of lunatic, and I was a-shakin' all over.
"It's a very pretty name," says I.
"Pretty, mum?" says he. "With that name, mum, you might do anything and never get caught. You see, 'mice' is a fearful, mum, to go ahead. I can see that if you was sure of knowin' enough allases you'd make a name for yourself."
"His sayin' this kind of riled me, if he was a lunatic, but I was afraid to stir an inch. After awhile he jumps up and wants to go to his room. So I makes signs for him to go with me, and he followed, feelin' of Johnny's arm as he went and sayin' that he'd make a good skeleton. When he got to the room, he shook my hand and said 'Good night, sweet angel!' Then he shut the door, and I could have knocked me down with a feather.
"It was 10 o'clock and here I was, with nobody in the house but the children and a big maniac full of all kinds of murderin' notions. But I sent Johnny round to the police station to say that we had a lunatic murderer in the house. The police captain came in five minutes.
"Mrs. Williams," says he, 'you've got a lunatic warden havin'. He went crazy readin' dime novels when he was a boy, and escaped from the asylum last week. His friends offer $1,000 for his capture.'
"The captain and two of his men went up and brought him down. He was quiet enough and seemed amused like. When they was takin' him out of the door, he says to me, 'Remember, mum, what I told you. When you gets into trouble, you know what to do.'
"The very next week I was paid the $1,000. I washed the sign off the front door, and I guess, Mr. John, that it will stay off."—Hartford Times.

Congressional Obituaries.

The obituary addresses delivered upon the occasion of the death of a member of congress cost the government a good deal of money. Usually 12,000 copies are printed, with a steel plate portrait of the deceased, 50 of which, bound in full morocco with gilt edges, are for the family of the dead congressman. The cost of obituary volumes in the Fifty-first congress was over $50,000.

A WOMAN SOLDIER.
"Yes, there were women in the army," I know that—I know that. Mrs. Logan was with the general a good deal, and so was General Frank Barlow's wife with her husband in the army. I have seen Mrs. Barlow riding by the side of the general on more than one march. I saw her once when Barlow's division was suddenly attacked by the enemy. The bursting of shells directly over her head did not seem to scare her, and when the general directed an orderly to escort Mrs. Barlow to a place of safety she begged to remain. Just then a dozen shells and solid shot rushed over their heads like a train flying over a bridge.
"My dear," said General Barlow, 'this is no place for you. Go back. I can't fight with my wife in such danger as this.'
"I'll go, general," said the lady, 'but how must I feel when I know my husband is in such danger?'
"Three or four of the Johnny camp kettles, by the Whitworth gun route, dropped over at that point, singing their well-known whisher-washer-vasher-boom-bling-pling-pling song, when Barlow called out: 'Goodby, my dear. I'll be back soon. Obey your orders. Take Mrs. Barlow away from here at once.' And the orderly and the woman galloped out of danger.
"But I've told a war story with a woman in it when I started out to test you on the question of woman soldiers. Did you know of any?"
"I said yes, and I meant women soldiers, not women with the army, such as you have been talking about," was Colonel Charley Richardson's answer—Richardson, the printer, who was a private, made a prisoner by Mosby, but lived to get out and become a Dakota editor, a colonel and a member of the legislature. Then he told this story:
"I was made a prisoner soon after the Kelly-Ford fight, while a member of this train guard, on our way with rations to Culpeper. Upon reaching a bit of forest near Brandy Station, Mosby's men swooped down upon us. The first thing I knew Mosby was within a few feet of me, calling for a surrender and allowing me to look into a six shooter. The guerrilla chief caught sight of my fine new pair of high-top boots, for which the sinner had received $12 the day before.
"Get out of those boots, young fellow!" was his second order.
"Can't I keep them?"
"Back talk means a hole through you in a second. Get out of those boots!"
"That was enough. The boots came off."
"Throw it up here," was his next order when one was off. I can see just how the rough rider looked as he swung his right foot over to the left, took off his well worn shoes and threw them at my feet with an order to put them on, and blank quick, too, for we have no time to feel away. And they didn't, for our cavalry had heard the skirmish and were rapidly riding to our relief. But they didn't catch up with us. So, in time—it took a week—we reached Libby prison.
"My particular chum in prison was a beardless young Virginian, Billy Gates, whose family, he said, was loyal to the old government and hadn't objected to his entering the Union army. He had been captured at about the time Mosby plucked our squad. My chum was very nervous and hated prison life worse than I did, if possible. He mingled but little with the other prisoners. We shared our rations, slept under the same blanket and became very good friends.
"In January, 1864, the Richmond Whig office was in great need of printers. The foreman called upon Major Dick Turner, the prison keeper, and the two came to our floor and asked if there were any Yankee printers there. They said we could have work if we would take a parole not to leave the city, give information or do anything else unbecomingly paroled prisoners. We readily agreed to the terms.
"My chum, Gates, took on as badly as I if I were his brother starting on a long and dangerous tour. He begged me not to go, saying he didn't want to make friends with the others, declaring that I had been a very brother to him. But I partially satisfied him by saying that it was not likely that they would want us more than a week or two, and that now and then I would send him something good to eat. But I shall miss you ever so much, Charley. Come back as soon as you can."
"It was 11 o'clock when they let us out. We were to go to work at 2. While passing the Spottswood House I said: 'Baker, let's go in and get a square meal. It's been a long time since we've had one.'
"After registering, washing and brushing up we started for the dining room, when one of the Confederate officers, seeing our blue clothes, asked us if we were Yankees. We told him yes.
"What is the name of blue blazes are you doing here?"
"We came here to dine."
"I arrest you."
"I guess not," said Baker, as he showed his pass from General Windecker and a copy of his parole. We were allowed to dine. My but how we did eat. We were both young fellows. I was only 17, and he was 18. I had managed to get $20 in greenbacks when captured. I had most of that with me. I imagine my surprise upon stepping up to the bar for that dinner when the clerk said: 'Twenty dollars each.' I had about $15 and Baker less than $10. Suddenly it came to me that his charge was based on Johnny money, so I said: 'We have none of your money. How much is it in greenbacks?' 'Oh, it's Yankee money you have. A dollar of that will do.'
"But what about a woman soldier?"
"Be patient. I had been at work on The Whig a week or ten days when one day, while on the way to the office, I saw an officer of the patrol guard, whom I had met several times, coming toward me. A well-dressed young woman was with him. She looked at me as if she expected I would recognize her. Seeing that I did not, she laughed, extended her hand and asked, 'Why, Charley, don't you know me?'
"I've heard the voice, but can't place you."
"I'm Billy Gates, your prison chum, not a boy, as you supposed, but a girl, and for the Union, if they hang me for it."
"Her Virginia friends had found out where she was and by some means got her out of prison. I learned afterward from the officer that she was a relative of John Minor Botts, at one time a distinguished Virginia congressman, who remained true to the Union."—J. A. Watrous in Chicago Times-Herald.

GIVES STRENGTH TO MEN.

Free to All Who Are Weak and Worn.

A METHOD TO CURE AND INCREASE THE POWER.

It is a reasonable fact that a man never appreciates the sufferings of others until he himself has passed through the fire of pain or remorse. Then it is that he looks around for those who are suffering; he wants them to profit by his experience; he gives his time and money gladly for the benefit of others and never tires of his zeal. There is a plan by which we can get rid of our troubles, struggling with remorse and fear, the natural outcome of habits that brought incapacity; a sense of looseness and a feeling as if the best side of life had been banished forever. Such men should write to Thomas Slater, Box 508, Kansas City, Mo. He will send free by mail, in plain sealed envelope full particulars about the method he used, and this will enable any man to get a complete cure at home. It is the method that Mr. Slater used to cure himself of the troubles that sap the strength and vigor and also enlarged his organs of nativity. The cure was so complete, so satisfying and such a wonderful change from his former condition that he will gladly tell others all about it, sending full particulars. He figures that he doesn't know of a better way to show his appreciation of his own cure and the sufferings of others. There must be generous men in this world to set the tide of avarice. Write to Mr. Slater—it will cost nothing for his description and method.
