The arrests were made by Marshal Elliott of Trinidad, and Deputy Sheriff Gallegos of this county.

One of the Penland brothers is not more than 16 years old.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 6.—The officers of the Pacific Express company have announced the amount of money stolen from their safe by the train robbers, near Folsom, N. M., on Friday night, as not more than $2,500.

Called to Washington.

Kansas City, Sept. 6.—Senator Harris of Kansas, passed through the city today on his way to Washington. Mr. Harris is a member of the senate sub-committee on Pacific railroads and was summoned to Washington by a dispatch from Senator Foraker, chairman of the committee. Mr. Harris stated that he and Senator Foraker would appeal to the attorney general to take no action in the Cherokee cases against the Union Pacific railroad until after congress had convened.

RESISTANCE THREATENED.

Efforts to Eject Intruders from the Cherokee Nation Likely to Cause Trouble.

Silom Springs, Ark., Sept. 6.—From present indications trouble will follow an attempt to eject intruders from the Cherokee nation. When the Cherokee strip was sold, the government promised to put out all intruders, but upon one technicality or another they managed to remain.

The government has now ordered their removal forthwith. There are 5,000 of them and Agent Wisdom will undertake the task at once.

Word from the nation today says that there will be resistance and serious trouble is not improbable, as some are desperate men. Two or three companies of cavalry are being held in readiness at Fort Gibson.

Close of Amateur Rowing Season.

New York, Sept. 6.—Ideal weather conditions favored the amateur oarsmen today at the eighth annual regatta of the Middle States Regatta association races, which began at 9:30 on the Harlem river. This regatta marks the closing of the amateur rowing season so far as open regattas are concerned. The distance for all events is one mile straight away.

Murderers Captured.

Trinidad, Colo., Sept. 6.—Deputy Sheriff Eli Green came from New Mexico last evening with two Mexicans, Ferraro and Apolinario Garcia, whom he had arrested for complicity in the murder of Deputy Green and Kelly at San Isidro in April of last year.

TRIBUTE TO RANGE HORSES.

Wonderful Endurance Displayed by Western Bronchos on a Notable Journey.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—No horses in the world excel the range horses of our western states for military purposes, and I think the trip just finished by my cowboy friends proves my assertion. Dr. William A. Burnett, special commissioner of the bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture, today.

"William and Bert Gabriel," continued Mr. Burnett, "have demonstrated that the bronchos and range horses of our plains can cover 2,400 miles in 90 days and subsist on grass and water along the route, without grain, and, more important still, from a military point of view, without being shod. No other horses in the world could have made the trip under those circumstances."

"The route, beginning at Sheridan, Wyo., and ending at Galena, in this state, covered all kinds of country, turf, sand, rock, clay, and mud. When they entered the last 100 miles of the journey, the horses were in as good condition in every way as when they started from Wyoming, but from Dubuque to Waterloo, Ia., the road along the Mississippi river was either over jagged rocks, or through deep mud. The heels and frogs of the horses feet were so badly bruised that, although they could have completed the distance to Chicago, I telegraphed the men to let the noble little animals stop at Galena."

Piano Works Burned.

Pittsburg, Sept. 6.—Mammott plant at Mendelssohn park, near McKeessport, Pa., containing the Mendelssohn piano works, Barenboff organ works and the Dickson and Wood works, were destroyed by fire today, entailing a loss of $50,000. The speculation is that the building was set on fire.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 6.—Governor McLaughlin, has just received the following telegram from two members of the state board of health, who went to Ocean Springs, Miss., yesterday, to investigate the yellow fever scare:

After a most thorough investigation in every conceivable light, it is the unanimous opinion of the representatives of the Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi state boards of health and the marine hospital service, that the epidemic now prevailing in Ocean Springs is yellow fever.

REPORTS DISCREDITED.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The marine hospital service is investigating the fever at Ocean Springs, Miss., and the information at hand inclines them to the belief that the disease is not yellow fever.

Boys Badly Injured.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Four boys, whose ages range from 7 to 14 years, were severely injured today by the explosion of a dynamite cartridge they found while playing. The injured are: W. Martin, eye torn out; John Martin, leg broken; Frank Olinski, face mangled; Joseph Olinski, face mangled.

Trades' Union Congress.

Birmingham, Eng., Sept. 6.—The trades union congress met here today. There were 420 delegates, representing 1,250,000 unionists. The parliamentary committee reported that the legislation in many decisions of the courts during the year 1897, was not based on the principles of equity and justice and was calculated seriously to injure the cause of labor and give capitalism an unfair advantage.

Mortuary Record.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 6.—Robert Bleakley, president of the advisory board of the international commercial congress, which met in Philadelphia in June, president of local dock commission and ex-president of the commercial club, died last night after a brief illness. Mr. Bleakley was one of the best known men in the city.

Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 6.—Ex-Congressman T. T. Giesler is dead, aged 68.

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 6.—Ex-Congressman Lew Hanback died today at Armourdale, Kas.

ALLEGED GOLD DISCOVERY.

Fabulous Story of Rich Gold Quartz on Lake Wawa—An Uninhabited Region.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6.—A special received today by the Evening News from Wawa City, the new town in the Michipicoten gold country on Lake Wawa, says: "Quartz has been found here that assays over $300 a ton. It is found not only in one location, but in different places extending over several thousand acres. Quartz has been found here containing free gold in chunks as big as a kernel of wheat. Prospectors every day are finding specimens that assay $50 a ton. Probably 100 are today working in the hills. Another party of 65 reached here yesterday afternoon. Several thousand acres have already been claimed, but there are all kinds of disputes about priority of claims. The country where the discoveries were made has never been opened up for settlement. The only inhabitants are Indians and Hudson Bay traders."

LUETGERT MURDER CASE.

Prosecuting Officers Confident That They Have Convincing Proof of Corpus Delicti.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—An important conference was held today between the state's attorney and the experts in the Luetgert murder case in which the "corpus delicti" was under discussion.

If the state can show that portion of the body of a human being were taken from the fatal vat and from the ashes from the furnace, it will have a case of remarkable strength.

"It can be stated," said State's Attorney Deneen, "that the state has found it can produce convincing proof of the corpus delicti, further than it would be wise to state at the present time."

Situation Serious.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 6.—The authorities of Alaska have awakened to the seriousness of the situation at White Pass. Colonel F. S. Chaddbourne, state harbor commissioner of California, a passenger on the steamship Queen, says that he and a force of United States marines have determined to raid the Skagway and clean out the whiskey smugglers and saloon men.

KILLED AT ROWE.

Manuel Archuleta Shot Through the Heart at Rowe on Saturday Night.

A telegram was received in Santa Fe this morning by Ricardo B. de Gonzalez announcing that Pablo Archuleta killed Manuel, son of Antonio Archuleta, at Rowe on Saturday night.

The killer was a first cousin of the dead boy's father and the deceased was a cousin of Mrs. Gonzalez, who received the telegram.

No details of the tragedy have been received further than the fact that the boy was shot through the heart and died almost instantly.

The preliminary examination into the facts of the unfortunate affair is in progress at Rowe today.

MINERS IN MASS MEETING

Pittsburg Strikers Seriously Considering Terms of Compromise Proposed by Columbus Conference.

PRESIDENT DOLAN FAVORS ACCEPTANCE

Probabilities That the Protracted and Rancorous Struggle Between the Operators and the Miners is Drawing to a Close.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 6.—Mass meetings are being held today all over the Pittsburg district by the striking miners for the purpose of appointing delegates to the district convention, which meets here tomorrow to consider the Columbus compromise and elect delegates to the National convention at Columbus on Wednesday.

President Dolan, Secretary William Warner and District Organizer Cameron Miller say that they feel sure that a majority of the miners will vote to accept the 65 cent rate.

President Dolan is of the opinion that a settlement of the strike on this basis is the best that can be accomplished at this time.

Mining officials say that the struggle against the New York & Cleveland Gas Coal company will be pushed until the mine workers force President Dearing to pay the district price without differential in his favor.

MEN GOING BACK TO WORK.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 6.—The leaders of the miners' strike are waiting on the outcome of the Columbus convention. They are, however, using their best efforts to keep the men from returning to work, but only with moderate success. The movement toward settlement has gone so far that all see that West Virginia will not cut a small figure and the men are going back to work where a chance offers.

OBSTINATE COAL MINERS.

Pittsburg, Sept. 6.—Fifteen hundred striking miners, of the Wheeling division of the Burlington & Ohio railroad, attended a meeting at Gastonville last night to consider the proposed settlement of the strike upon the basis of 55 cents per ton. After several speeches it was unanimously decided to stand out for the 65 cent rate.

ALBUQUERQUE NOTES.

The parade in this city on September 13, designated as Governor's day at the territorial fair, promises to be notably imposing.

Miss Frances Lockhart, who holds a first class normal certificate, has been appointed principal of the public schools at Las Cruces.

The two bright sons of Captain and Mrs. A. B. Fitch of Magdalena, have been enrolled as students at the New Mexico university for the ensuing year.

John J. W. Green, mayor of the town of Gallup, lodged a robo named Lacey in the county jail at Albuquerque for 90 days on Saturday, charged with stealing valises from passenger coaches.

Mayor Strickland Aubright has issued a proclamation enjoining upon the citizens of Albuquerque to observe Monday, September 6, Labor day, as a general holiday. The postoffice will be open during Sunday hours and the banks will be closed.

The New Mexico university will reopen on Tuesday, September 7. All students are requested to present themselves promptly at 9 o'clock in the assembly room. Immediately after the opening exercises registration and assignment to classes will take place.

At a recent meeting of the Commercial club R. P. Hall and T. N. Wilkerson were chosen directors for the ensuing year. The directors subsequently elected O. N. Marron president, and F. W. Cliney and T. N. Wilkerson first and second vice presidents of the club.

It is said that one of Geo. C. C. Culley's running horses, now in training on the Albuquerque race track for the approaching fair, ran as well as the famous Kempton park meet in England and is well known at Saratoga in this country.

Judge B. F. Adams has received a letter from Judge William F. Kuehnbecker, of Gallup, notifying him that the railroad officials have agreed to make a round trip rate of $5 from Albuquerque to Gallup during the season of K. P. grand lodge there. The rate will be made on September 12, and tickets are good until September 16. Mr. Kuehnbecker says the members of the lodge there are very busy now preparing for the grand lodge, says the Citizen.

Hon. H. B. Ferguson has moved out of his beautiful home in old Albuquerque and will board, with his family, in the home of Frank Hanning until it is necessary for him to return to Washington next month, says the Democrat. His residence will be occupied by the family of Louis Hanning of Los Lunas, whose children will attend school here. Miss Emma, Fred and Louis will attend the university, while Lolita will go into the kindergarten.

LAS VEGAS NOTES.

Thrashing machines are at work in San Miguel and Mora counties.

Charles Russell recently sold 5,000 head of sheep for good, stiff prices.

Hon. Felix Martinez, clerk of the district court and editor of the La Voz del Pueblo, has returned home from a business trip to El Paso.

Charles Corcoran, the old gentleman who was struck by a train at Onawa station, having an arm and ribs broken, and who was brought down to the Las Vegas jail by Santa Fe section men, about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, died of his injuries between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning. During all these long, anxious hours of excruciating pain, he was not afforded any medical attention. Somebody seem to have been criminally at fault in this matter, says the Optic.

John Hill, the well known contractor and builder, has been awarded the contract for the construction of the new Colfax county court house at Raton. The bids were as follows: Taylor of Pueblo, Colo., $22,561; Atkinson Bros., $20,787; Morrison Contracting Co., $19,970; John Hill, $19,585. According to the plans of Architect Rapp the building will have an auditorium 40x80 feet, with commodious galleries, while an unique feature will be an enclosed bridge connecting the jail and court room, thus obviating all publicity in removing prisoners from one building to the other.

THE SAN JUAN COUNTRY.

Orchards in Splendid Condition and the Fruit Crop Enormous—Railroad Building the Talk of the Hour.

Special Correspondence New Mexican: Santa Fe, Sept. 4, 1897.—I have been asked for a short article on my trip through the San Juan country, and in the midst of a thousand pressing duties I hasten to give a few lines.

The immediate object of my visit to that country, which will be reported elsewhere, took up so much of my time that I had only a few hours to look into the resources of that wonderful valley.

Of the journey itself I will only say that the magnificence and grandeur of its scenery is not surpassed anywhere from the Atlantic to the Pacific and no tourist in the "middle west region" should miss it.

After leaving Durango and traveling by stage some 20 miles across the Indian reservation, which, by the way, should at once be thrown open for settlement, I reached the fruit belt of which I had heard so much, and from that point to Farmington a distance of 40 miles and I was told for 20 miles beyond this belt extends, and the immense quantities of fruit, together with its quality is destined to attract the attention of thousands far beyond our borders.

As you know I have lately returned from California, but nowhere in the state of the Golden Gate did I see such apples, pears, peaches, nectarines, apricots, and plums, either as to quantity or quality as in that fertile valley of the San Juan.

I had only time to visit one large orchard with its 15,000 trees. It belongs to Mr. Woodward of Farmington, who, by the way, is with advantage following the example of the California fruit growers, in that he keeps his orchard in the finest state of cultivation, not a weed nor a blade of grass can be seen among his trees. The trees are literally one mass of fruit of the finest quality I have ever seen. Not a spotted nor wormy apple can be found.

The pears in this orchard were as great a surprise to me as the apples, there were scores of trees loaded to the ground.

But it is necessary to see and taste in order to have any idea of the quantity and quality of the fruit of San Juan.

Last week a representative of the Porter Brothers company of Chicago came down upon the valley and it is stated on the best of authority that he purchased in the orchards of Farmington over $100,000 worth of fruit.

This company sends in its own packers and takes the fruit from the orchards paying the producers 50 cents per 100 pounds. And the very fact that this company has chosen this valley as the seat of operations indicates the value of the fruit there grown.

But this valley is not confined to the growth of fruit. The alfalfa, with the wheat, oats and other cereals, together with potatoes and other vegetables are produced in large quantities.

I have always been led to believe that, but I am free to say that the potatoes I saw and tasted in Aztec, grow right here, have no superior anywhere, and if the Santa Fe merchants could only handle them I for one would use no other. The only thing that prevented me from bringing home a sample was the largeness of the potato and the smallness of my valise.

Of this wonderful valley not one-seventh of the arable land is under cultivation, whilst the irrigation advantages are all that could be desired. The San Juan, Animas and La Plata rivers furnish an abundant supply of water, not at all contaminated by any artificial reservoir.

I was disappointed in not seeing more cattle in the valley, but was told that the owners had taken them at the present time to the mountains, but the abundance of alfalfa in the valley is sufficient for keeping and feeding right there tens of thousands of the best cattle in America.

With all its magnificence this valley has, at present, its drawbacks. Bridges are needed over the rivers, but what is especially required to develop this country is the building at once of a railroad so that the people there can compete with the outside world. I found considerable agitation over the building of the Durango & Albuquerque railroad and I know of no better argument in favor of such an undertaking than the present condition of the fruit growers and farmers of the San Juan valley.

I did what I could to induce some of the people to send fruit to the horticultural exhibit to be held in this city next week, but I fear that even with the reduced rates and the free transportation of the exhibits so generously granted by the D. & A. R. G. very little will find its way to Santa Fe, on account of the expense and the altogether too early date at which the fair is held.

I have already written more than you asked for, but with the hope that you will send your traveling correspondent to the Farmington fair to write up this country, and with great hopes for the future of San Juan country, I am yours, etc., R. M. C.

Wonderful Nectarines.

Before tomorrow afternoon the Horticultural exhibition will have shown to the world that New Mexico is the best of all fruit producing countries. But meanwhile we must call attention to one particular fruit which is scarcely known in the east but which grows to a wonderful perfection here. We refer to the nectarine. Those raised by Mr. Boyle in this city have been celebrated for years, but it seems now as if the Espanola valley was specially adapted to the culture. For the last ten days Major Twitell has been shipping large quantities of magnificent nectarines from his orchard near Espanola, the fruit being of large size and great beauty and exciting admiration everywhere. They were of the Elrage variety with perhaps some of the Early Violet, both kinds having a rosy glow on a greenish yellow ground, and it is understood that there will be a fine display of them at the fair.

On Saturday Governor Prince came down from his orchard in the same vicinity, bringing nectarines which in size are beyond anything ever seen before in this county or recorded in horticultural books. They are of a much later kind, the Stauwick, and will not be ripe for sometime, but in their present condition look more like round apples than nectarines. There are plenty on trees weighing five ounces each. The largest of those brought in is just eight and a half inches in circumference, and the others are little below that measure. Verily New Mexico is the right place to raise nectarines.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

THE ENCHANTED MESA.

A Recent Visit to the Mesa Encantada Reveals Evidence of Former Inhabitation.

A few weeks ago, Professor Libby, of Princeton college, with much blowing of horns and shooting of cannon, scaled the heights of the enchanted Mesa Encantada, and after remaining on the plateau about two hours, descended, packed up the cannon, coiled the ropes, and departed for the east. The results of the trip were vividly set forth in Harper's Weekly two weeks ago. In that article Professor Libby ridiculed the idea that anyone ever lived on the mesa, and denounces the legendary accounts of the destruction of the pathway to the top of the mesa by lightning as a myth and falsehood in the following words:

"The medicine man of the future will now have to publish a new and revised edition of the story. * * * There were no remnants of pottery, or fragments of household implements of any kind; no water tanks for the storage of rain-water; one object alone looked as though it might have been built by human hands, and that was a small cairn-like mass of stones."

Professor Libby is undoubtedly a learned man, but what he does not know about New Mexico mesas and Indians would fill a very large volume. At the time he made his startling announcement, those persons who had some knowledge of ancient Indian habitations ridiculed the idea that the old Indian tradition had no foundation in fact, and declared that more thorough investigation would reveal abundant evidence that the mesa was inhabited at one time.

That prediction has been verified, and Mr. H. C. Hayt, an old gentleman from Chicago, who was in Santa Fe yesterday, was a member of the party which found evidences of Indian occupation.

Mr. Hayt was seen at the D. & A. R. G. train this morning by a representative of the NEW MEXICAN, and asked about his persons in the party.

"I make no difference at this time," said Professor Libby of Princeton college is a badly deceived man. We ascended the mesa without much difficulty at a point where the climbing to within 40 feet of the top is an easy matter, and that 40 feet was surmounted by means only known by the members of the party. On reaching the top we remained 24 hours, spending one night in the open. We found pieces of broken pottery, mounds and other evidences of former habitation, and they were most certainly placed there by human hands. A number of pictures were taken, but since I do not wish to forestall articles which will be written by one member of the party I must decline to say anything more. I wish I were at liberty to tell you more, but I cannot betray a confidence."

As the train pulled out Mr. Hayt promised to send the NEW MEXICAN the articles to be written on the mesa by his friend, so soon as they appeared, and then, the full particulars of the visit will be known.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 6.

This is Labor Day.

The expected has happened. The Denver Times says the "Noose tightens," in speaking of the Luetger murder trial.

Wheat, as a campaign issue, turns out to have been loaded, and the darned thing has gone off in Billy Bryan's pocket.

SENATOR TILMAN says that the people are fools. He ought to know, since he is one of the cheapest, commonest kind of people.

The months with an "A" have again come around, and the silent, patient oyster is hunting that hole in the bottom of the sea.

KAINER WILLIAM is very wroth. France and Russia have been spooning, and Billy imagines he has been insulted during the little love scene, but just how he has not yet decided.

HERE is the sort of thing that drives men to murder—this particular atrocity being from the Chicago Times-Herald: "Gold is washed out by the ounce in Klondike, but the Californians are picking it up by the quart."

SEN Low has been nominated by the citizens' union for mayor of greater New York. The better element of the American metropolis will now lay low until election day and then proceed to give the rings of that city a knockout blow.

An engine rebounded from the force of the collision and ran in an opposite direction until steam and water were exhausted. The free steamers are in a position very much like that engine. They have bumped into a rapidly advancing wave of prosperity, and are running backwards without a brakeman.

THE St. Louis Republic is one of those papers which no fellow can understand. In its editorial columns it declares that there is no return of prosperity, while in its news items it says that the increase of business is creating serious blockades in the streets of that city. The wide-awake reporters and the hide-bound silver editor seem to see conditions through different glasses.

It is said that Dr. Thomas W. Evans, the American dentist who has made $10,000,000 pulling teeth in Paris, is in his 78th year, but in spite of his advanced age is singularly strong and well preserved, and not a gray hair marks his temples. Well, who wouldn't be strong and happy with $10,000,000 and lots of fun every day? It's the fellow who has the teeth pulled that fills an early grave.

It appears from all indications that the $30,000,000 lead trust is getting itself disliked in many quarters and its stock is liable to take a tumble before many days pass. The trust is using an unlimited amount of money to keep the price of that metal below the $4 mark, but with poor success. St. Louis dealers are paying $4.10 per hundred for lead carrying no silver values, and the trust is quite indignant over such temerity. But in the language of a celebrated railroad magnate the trust be—

In the judgment of a Seattle police officer is worth anything, there will be a few necktie parties in the Klondike region the coming winter. Gamblers are flocking to the new gold fields, but "they won't do any business," says the city guardian of the place. "They are all ore-thief men, with records back of them and guns in their pockets. They will try their crooked work at Dawson City; there will be a meeting of miners, followed by a hanging party, and the friends of these gamblers will never hear from them."

FRUIT CROWERS MUST ACT.

The territorial board of immigration has done its part in arranging for refrigerator cars in which to ship fruit to the eastern markets, and now the success of the enterprise is in the hands of the horticulturists of the territory.

As has already been stated in these columns, the manner in which shipments will be made is a matter to be settled by the persons interested in each community, and if the result should not be what can be made of the arrangement, no one will be to blame, but the very men for whom the cars were secured. The railroad company will not, cannot, run these cars at a loss, and if they are not profitable to the company, there is only one thing to do, and that is to take them off and discount the service.

The Santa Fe road reaches nearly every fruit section of the territory, and it will be an easy matter to fill the cars with fruit, at different stations, and make profitable shipments to the Chicago markets, but some organization must be had.

The New Mexican suggests that the owners of orchards in the different towns along the line of railroad hold meetings at once, select a local manager whose duty shall be to superintend the loading of cars and arrange for shipments on certain days of the week. By so doing a systematic trial can be made of the eastern markets and the results to shippers will soon be known. If the experiment proves a success then larger and more frequent consignments can be made to the eastern commission merchants.

Unless something of this kind is done, and that speedily, the railroad will undoubtedly discontinue the refrigerator car service and it will be a difficult matter to get it restored. It is true that the season is a little late, but unless a start is made at this time the opportunity to reach the best markets in the whole country, at low rates, may not soon be offered again.

PROSPERITY FOR LEAD MINERS.

Some of the territorial papers contend that prosperity has not struck New Mexico with any startling effect, but just the same lead has gone above the $4 mark, and if that does not mean prosperity for the territory, the high price of sheep and cattle will result in bankruptcy for every stockman south of the Colorado line.

Like everything else lead received a setback during the hard times and in August, 1896, touched the lowest price it ever reached. Since August, 1897, the price has steadily ascended the scale until lead ore is now worth $4.07 in the St. Louis market, and it is confidently predicted by competent authorities that the price will reach $4.50 before the close of the present year. To New Mexico, with her great deposits of lead, this condition of the market means an enormous sum of money, and with increased activity in working lead properties resulting from the high price, the money received by miners in the territory will be vastly augmented in a short time, by the opening up of new claims.

Despite the wonderful resources of the lead bearing sections of the United States, this country imports annually about 50,000 tons of lead. It is estimated that in the ordinary course of events the United States will consume 250,000 tons of lead ore during 1897, and that it will produce 200,000 tons, leaving a shortage of 50,000 tons. Probably 25,000 tons will be admitted to the country with silver bearing ore, the remaining amount necessary to supply the demand must be imported as lead and pay the duty of 2½ cents a pound, and that duty will keep the price at the top notch.

In New Mexico all lead ore bears silver to some extent, and at the present price of lead there is little wonder that the silver miner is attracted to the operation representing a clear profit to the miner to what ever amount the white metal is worth, and the New Mexico lead worker has an advantage over the miners in Missouri and other lead producing states in that respect which will add materially to the profits of the industry.

The Dingley tariff law may not meet the approval of the southwestern free silver-free trade, but as a factor in lead mining it will certainly prove of great benefit to miners in the territory.

IMPORTS FOR AUGUST.

The Democrats and free silver advocates, in persisting that the government is practically bankrupt because in its very first month the new revenue law does not yield a revenue in excess of the expenditures, are neither fair nor honest. When the bill was before congress these calamity howlers were persistent in their opposition to the measure, and while they well knew they could not defeat it, delayed action until foreign manufacturers and importers of foreign goods were able to fill the markets with importations sufficient to supply the demand for some time, under the old tariff rates, and as a natural consequence the revenues from imports during the past month were greatly decreased.

For four years the opponents of a protective tariff have done every thing in their power to break down the credit of the country, destroy confidence in American currency, and convince foreigners that it was dangerous to invest money in American securities, and now when they have an opportunity to display some little patriotism, they show their true colors by shouting, "There is no prosperity, nor can there be any until free silver, free trade," or some other kind of quack nostrum is administered to the languishing industries of the land, which have been nearly wiped out by the dose given during the past four years. But recent events in the industrial world have proven conclusively that the Dingley bill has aided in restoring conditions to a much more healthy state, even if the revenues have not reached the high water mark.

When the tariff act was passed free trade journals held that it was a vicious measure because it had not provided enough revenue to make good the first year the loss incurred through anti-protectionary imports, which was by some carefully estimated at $40,000,000 and others at $100,000,000. This state of facts made it inevitable that the maximum effect of this anticipation of new duties would be felt at the outset. In wool these importations cover more than a full year's supply, in woollens about a third, and in sugar, lumber, animals and other articles about a half or a little more, and in the case of other commodities the importations which were sent into the country are sufficient to supply the demand for several months in the future. Under these circumstances how could it be otherwise than to have a deficit in the revenues? It was never contended by the advocates of the new law that the money received under its operation would meet the requirements of the government right from the start.

Thus it is palpably dishonest to treat the importations during the first month as a fair indication of the meaning and effect of the new revenue law. The actual decrease during the month of August, judging from the returns at the New York port of entry, was about 17 per cent, as compared with the same month last year. Such a decrease is not as much as was expected for the first month after increasing importations amounting to over $100,000,000 in anticipation of increased duties. Considered in the light of the fact that the decrease of revenue from that cause must be expected to be greater in the first than any subsequent month, the returns cannot with fairness be represented as in the least discouraging, in respect to the revenue yielding powers of the new tariff. It is true that its workings have not been so tested as to indicate with much accuracy what its results would be. But if the decrease of imports proves greater in the first than subsequent months, as any reasonable man would expect, the shrinkage in revenue will soon disappear in the presence of the swelling demand for goods resulting from rising prosperity.

THE FINISHING TOUCH.

Hank was married, but One More Legal Procedure Was Necessary.

"Say, judge, will ye jine us?" Baldy Spiller, justice of the peace, notary public and aider and abettor of lawful wedlock in Cornudas Corners, was sighing because the hotel porters had thus far failed to round up a $3 brace of matrimonially inclined lovers at the tables when the door of his office opened and the red face of Hank Biffer, the local blacksmith, was thrust in.

"Say, judge, will ye jine us?" he repeated.

"Did I ever refuse a drink, Hank?" Justice Spiller said reproachfully as he leaped to his feet.

"I don't mean a drink, judge," faltered Hank. "I mean will ye jine Bridget an me?"

As he spoke he shot into the room as if shoved from behind, and a tall, rawboned woman of 40 appeared in the door and bowed to the justice. She was six inches taller than Hank, and her hair was aggressively red.

"Waal, I'll be jiggered! Goin to get hitched, air ye?" cried the astonished justice.

"Yep," assented Hank.

"We be," nodded Bridget.

"Yes, we been keepin cumpny a long time an concluded to have ye jine us," continued Hank.

"But—Bridget, didn't ye have Hank arrested for knockin ye down two weeks ago, an didn't I fine Hank $5?" stammered the justice.

"Yes, sor, so yez did," said Bridget with a smile.

"An, Hank, didn't ye have Bridget brought before me the next day an fined $5 for fannin ye with a chair?"

"Guess I did," said Hank, hanging his head, "but them was really only love taps, ye might say, an we think that when we git hitched legal an broke to harness, we'll be pretty steady gaited, judge, an not 'll be to kick over the traces."

"Ah, I see," said the smiling justice. "Come a little nearer an I'll jine ye."

Hank and Bridget did as they were bid, the justice read the simple ceremony that must be performed in the presence of a witness from an adjoining office, and Hank paid the marriage fee.

The happy pair started for the door, then paused and came back.

"It's all over," said the justice. "There's nothing more that I kin do for ye."

"Yes, there is," Hank said earnestly. "Ye've jined us legal all right, we know, but now we wants ye to put us both under bonds to keep the peace!"—Earle H. Eaton in Truth.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHING.

Sailor Suits of Brown Holland and Greenaway Gowns.

Mother Hubbard and Greenaway gowns still remain in favor for children, being of a style easily made, picturesque and becoming, and especially suited to wash goods, a consideration of great importance when a child's wardrobe is in question. There is also a revival of two piece frocks for very little people, whether boys or girls, the plaited skirt being sewed on a low necked, sleeveless bodice of muslin which buttons behind. Over this is worn a blouse, of the same goods as the skirt or of white muslin, or a little jacket. Sleeves follow the same general lines as those of older persons. Sleeves for little boys' clothing are very little longer at the top than at the wrist, being finished usually with a cuff of some sort.

Perhaps the most serviceable, comfortable and pretty costumes for summer wear for very little boys are the sailor or kilt suits made of brown holland or striped galatea. The latter goods are especially pleasing when trimmed with plain galatea of the same color as the stripes. This usually forms the sailor collar and the cuffs. Today's illustration shows a gown for a girl 6 years old. It is of pink and white woven cloth and has a skirt gathered all around at the waist. Half way down the skirt are placed three horizontal bands of narrow black velvet. The blouse is mounted on a yoke of plaited white batiste trimmed with embroidered insertion. The plain sleeves of plaid have a cap consisting of three plaited ruffles, bordered with black velvet. The belt is of white cloth, and a sailor hat of white straw is worn, trimmed with a black band and white quills.

When We Demoralize the Stomach.
By excess or imprudence in eating, we cannot hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion must succumb to abuse of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enfeeble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyspeptic has only to do two things to insure his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt an easily digestible diet. Second, he should use with regularity and persistence, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading gastric invigorant of the age. The multifarious symptoms of dyspepsia, and the almost invariable attendant disorders, biliousness and constipation, will assuredly cease to persecute the sufferer if the above advice is attended to. Who that has suffered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy which, if the most positive evidence of the medical profession and the public is to be received with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint.

HORTICULTURAL FAIR.

Full Program for the Three Days—
The Orchestra—Halt Beautifully Decorated.

The New Mexico Horticultural fair will be formally opened to the public at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the large two-story, red building on the Fort Marcy reservation formerly used as a storage warehouse by the quartermaster and commissary of the United States army.

The building is large, commodious and well adapted to the purpose. It is reached through the double gates nearly opposite the Palace hotel.

A New Mexican scribe called the ladies of the women's board of trade busily engaged with a number of assistants in the important and congenial work of decorating the interior of the building with a profusion of red, white and blue bunting, evergreens and flowers. The work had proceeded far enough to satisfy the reporter that it would be very tasteful and attractive.

The carload of exhibits from the Pecos valley, including sugar beets, fruits, melons and other products of that region, reached Santa Fe last night from the south in charge of Mr. Robert Kullshus and Van H. Jones. These gentlemen are now actively engaged in unpacking and arranging their exhibits in the places assigned. They brought their own furniture and many of their fruits are in glass jars similar to those used at the World's fair. This display promises to be very fine.

A number of other outside exhibits came in last night and will be expected this afternoon and tonight. It is hoped that local exhibitors will hasten forward the fruits, flowers and vegetables that they contemplate displaying. Certainly the people of Santa Fe should do all in their power to make the fair a complete success.

Program.

FIRST DAY.

The officers and superintendents will be in attendance at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and receive entries, place exhibits and attend to the business of the society.

The fair will be opened to the public at 10 a. m., before which time only exhibitors and those coming on business will be permitted on the grounds.

The reception committee will be in attendance at 10 o'clock to welcome visitors. The section of the ladies' reception committee having special charge during this day, is under the direction of Mrs. P. E. Harroun.

The press committee will be in attendance to meet their journalistic brethren and to furnish them with the latest news. At 3 p. m. the formal opening will take place. Music will be furnished by the Philharmonic orchestra.

An introductory address will be made by the president of the society, to be followed by an address by Hon. R. E. Twitchell of Las Vegas, on the subject, "What I know about an orchard."

The fair will close each day at 6 p. m.

SECOND DAY.

Entries of exhibits received by rail will be made until the opening of the fair at 10 a. m.

The section of the ladies' reception committee having special charge during this day is under the direction of Mrs. Langhlin.

The judges will perform their duties during the morning, and report to the secretary as soon as practicable. At 3 p. m. the awards of premiums will be announced. After this announcement the names of exhibitors may be placed on articles exhibited.

Music will be furnished as before and some brief addresses may be expected from distinguished visitors.

During the afternoon the ladies of the W. B. T. will provide refreshments at reasonable prices.

THIRD DAY.

The section of the ladies' reception committee having special charge during this day is under the direction of Mrs. Carran.

At 3 p. m. a meeting will be held at which general reports regarding the fair will be made. Music will be furnished as before and remarks appropriate to the occasion made by well known horticulturalists and distinguished visitors.

At 6 p. m.—Admission until next year. The Philharmonic orchestra which kindly furnished music to enliven the Horticultural fair, consists of Mrs. P. E. Harroun, Miss Schormeyer, Miss Walz, Mr. Harroun, and Mr. Lorenzo.

While under the rule, all entries must be made before the opening of the fair on the first day, yet as the arrangements for railroad transportation have been very recently made and apply to freight and not expressage, exhibits arriving by rail during the afternoon and night of Tuesday will be permitted to be entered until the opening of the fair at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

Whereas this is the first horticultural fair held in the territory, and many fruits are being grown the names of which the owners have had no previous opportunity to learn; therefore on this occasion and not as a precedent of the future, the proper names may be attached to fruits and the entries modified accordingly, at any time before the opening of the fair on the second day.

Walker, a brother of Judge Walker and United States attorney for the Kansas City district, and the bereaved mother is a sister of the wife of Senator F. M. Cookerill of Missouri.

This has been literally Labor day in the New Mexican establishment as the large force of printers, pressmen, bookbinders and writers has been hard at work as usual, the day when daily papers can afford to suspend publication on holidays having become one of the numerous back numbers of the unrecalled past. However, the banks and most of the federal and territorial offices were closed in recognition that this is really a National holiday, fittingly proclaimed as such by both the president of the United States and the governor of the territory. Sunday hours were observed at the post-office.

The force of clerks in the surveyor general's office, at the federal building, is busy checking off the books, papers and other property, preparatory to turning the office over to the new surveyor general, Hon. Quincy Vance.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

List of the Players Who Will Compete for the New Mexico Championship.

The drawings for the play were made at noon today. Prof. Sam Black being awarded the kinetoscope privilege. Commencing tomorrow morning, Tuesday, at 10 o'clock, singles will be played on both courts as follows:

Mr. R. C. Gortner, vs. Mr. Julius Stab. Mr. Wallace Reynolds, vs. Mr. H. F. Reynolds, and at 11 o'clock, Mr. Spies, vs. Mr. J. L. Seligman; Mr. F. H. Hudson, vs. Mr. Arthur Stab. Messrs. Pope, A. Seligman, L. A. Hughes, and E. Stab go by this round.

At 2 o'clock p. m., the four players last named and the winners of the contests above specified, play the "first round" for the singles championship. The winners of the first round, four in number, will be drawn, and the two winners then resulting will be scheduled to play for the New Mexico championship in singles on Thursday, the last day of the Horticultural fair.

All contests in singles to be two in three, except the finals, which shall be three in five.

On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the doubles championship preliminary round will be fought out, between Messrs. Seligman and Seligman, and Stab and Stab, on the one court; and Messrs. Gortner and Hudson, and Reynolds and Reynolds on the other. The two teams winning will compete for the championship in doubles on Thursday. All contests in doubles, including finals, to be three in five. The mixed doubles, in which many ladies have been entered, will be scheduled on tomorrow, and played on Wednesday.

Messrs. Wright and Dison, of Boston, Mass., have donated a Sears' special racket for the championship prize in singles; and the fair association have liberally contributed to the prizes in doubles. Accommodations for seating the spectators will be provided, and the tennis tournament will be a most attractive feature of the week.

New Mexico's Sweetest Singer.

On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, September 14 and 15, Miss Claude Albright will give two concerts in the city of Albuquerque. Miss Albright is one of the most gifted singers in the west, and the Albuquerque Democrat, in speaking of the concerts, says:

"New Mexico's sweet singer, Miss Claude Albright, who won the gold medal at the World's Columbian Exposition before leaving for Europe, where she studied for over two years with Madame de La Grange, and made her debut last spring in Paris, has decided to make the price of admission to her concerts to be given Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of fair week only $1. Miss Albright is desirous that her many friends may have this opportunity of hearing her sing—that they may see the great progress she has made during her absence. She expects to leave soon for Europe to fill engagements that she has made to sing at receptions for the coming Paris season to be given in the homes of the Countess of Trobriand, the Baroness du Jast, Countess Stankowitch, Prince and Princess of Roland, and at all the court musicals given by Isabella, ex queen regent of Spain."

Persons wishing to secure tickets for Miss Albright's concerts can get them, and have seats reserved, by writing to L. A. McRae, Albuquerque.

LIBERAL CONSTRUCTION.

Auditor Garcia Will Be Contented If County Assessment Rolls Are in His Hands This Week.

Auditor Garcia reports that he has received the complete assessment rolls from the counties of San Juan, Union, Rio Arriba, Chaves, Taos, Sierra and Colfax. Assessor Hudson of Santa Fe county, made a tender of the assessment roll of this county, with the explanation that the work could not be passed upon by the county commissioners, as required by law, until the meeting of the board this afternoon. Thereupon the auditor told him to hold the document until after such meeting.

The auditor also reports that he has received telegrams from the assessors of four other counties announcing that their rolls will reach his office today or tomorrow and he has no doubt that all of the assessors will have their rolls here before the week ends.

It appears that the law in the premises is somewhat conflicting. One section designates the second Monday in September as the time for the meeting of the territorial board of equalization and another requires county assessors to file their assessment rolls with the auditor on the first Monday in September. Inasmuch as these rolls will not be imperatively needed until the meeting of the territorial board of equalization on next Monday, Auditor Garcia has concluded to place as liberal a construction upon the law as possible and will make no complaint if all the rolls are in his hands before his office closes on next Saturday afternoon, especially as he is conscious that several assessors are merely awaiting approval of their work by the county commissioners today or tomorrow.

THE SANTA FE LIMITED.

A Magnificent Flyer Again to Be Put On—Quicker Time Than Ever Before.

The Santa Fe is making great preparations for its "Limited," which will again be put in service on September 15, says the Los Angeles Times. This train will consist entirely of vestibuled sleeping, dining and drawing room cars, and will make the run from Los Angeles to Chicago in 72 hours. The train will leave this city twice a week until near the end of the year, but through the latter part of December and during January and February of next year it will be run three times a week.

The cars which will comprise the new train will be the latest in every way and General Passenger Agent Byrne says that nothing as elegant in the way of train service has ever been seen on this coast. They are figuring on the time, by the by, and it is barely possible that six hours may be lopped off the time schedule before the card is made out.

The deceased was a member of Pilot lodge No. 38, I. O. O. F., of LeClaire, Ia., and has relatives in that place. Mr. John Osborn, a brother of the deceased, was notified of the sad occurrence this morning.

The remains are in charge of Mr. Gable and will be held until instructions for their disposition are received from the relatives.
