THE GREAT LONDON FIRE

Enormous Crowds Surrounded Smoldering Ruins of Yesterday's Disasterous Conflagration

160 BIG WAREHOUSES WERE BURNED

Losses Estimated at From $10,000,000 to $60,000,000—Three Hundred Firms Seeking New Offices—Insurance Companies' Loss.

London, Nov. 20.—A number of fire engines are still playing upon the smoldering ruins which mark the scene of the great conflagration near the general post-office yesterday. Walls are falling every now and then. The last flames disappeared at 11 o'clock this morning. The burned district is surrounded by enormous crowds and the railroads are running excursion trains from the country.

In spite of the magnitude of the disaster only two firemen were slightly injured. Estimates of the amount of damages range from $10,000,000 to $60,000,000, but, according to the best opinion, the loss is about $10,000,000.

An official report says the cause of the fire is unknown.

One hundred and sixty warehouses, from five to six stories high, have been burned, the whole covering an area 200 by 150 yards, bounded by Nicholls square, Edmund place, Jewin Crescent, Australia avenue, Paul's alley and Red Cross street.

Three hundred firms are seeking new offices.

Consolidated India three per cent have fallen heavily on the belief that the losses will necessitate heavy sales by insurance companies, and most of the insurance companies' shares have dropped from 10 to 20 shillings.

The Standard, in its financial article, says that it is believed the bulk of the fire losses will fall upon American insurance companies.

It will be several days before the fire is completely extinguished and the ruins thoroughly explored. The insurance agents take an optimistic view of the losses, their estimates ranging from $1,500,000 to $4,000,000. They say that the sensational rumors regarding their losses have been promoted for the stock exchange in order to influence stocks.

By good chance no one was injured today. The rails had been turned, and when the engine struck the gap, it toppled over on the east bound track. Two cars were piled on top of the locomotive.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20.

SENATOR FORAKER is protesting a good deal.

AFTER JANUARY 1, Mr. Van Wyck may be the real mayor of New York, but he will have to make quite an effort to make people believe that Richard Croker is not the real mayor.

MANAGER HANNA will settle the row in the Ohio horns and will be elected to the United States senate, Eshenell, Kurtz and the rest of the crowd to the contrary notwithstanding.

A PAPER will shortly be established in Washington whose special mission will be to secure the repeal of the civil service law. As a side issue it will become Congressman Grosvener and Senator Gallinger for president and vice president.

THE White Oaks Eagle pays the following compliment to the newly appointed Republican postmaster at its town:

"John A. Brown has been appointed postmaster at White Oaks. A more satisfactory selection could not have been made. Mr. Brown secured his position in a few hours after receiving official notice of his appointment. He will take charge of the first of the year."

PROMINENT Republicans and such Republicans as have done the work of the Republican party in this territory for many years, have addressed letters to the powers that be in Washington, urging that the principle of home rule in appointments in this territory, specially judicial appointments, be observed. What the outcome will be cannot be said at this writing.

THOMAS BRACKETT REED has a laudable ambition to be president of this great country some day, and his positive denial of the rumor that he intended to remove to New York, is equivalent to saying that he does not propose to smother his chances in the smoke and fog of New York politics. Maine may not be as big as New York state, but it is a heap cleaner in many respects.

"It is reported that three of the judges of the Supreme court, who reviewed the Chavez y Chaves case, signed the request for the commutation of sentence presented to Governor Otero."—Las Vegas Examiner.
The report is absolutely true. In the executive office there are on file letters from Judges Collier, Hamilton and Bantz, recommending executive clemency in the case and expressing a belief that the ends of justice would be attained if Chavez' sentence were commuted to imprisonment for life.

The Albuquerque Citizen is authority for the statement that Harry P. Owen, a stenographer who resided for a short time in Albuquerque and who is now employed in the office of Judge Fields, attorney for the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago Railway company in Chicago, is to be clerk of the Second judicial district court under Judge Crumpacker. This may be so. In the meantime it is proper to remark that if the people of New Mexico want home rule, they had better unite and work for statehood for this commonwealth.

The New York Times, in making its usual protest against protection says: "What we need is not protection, but emancipation." In view of the fact that the farmers, cattle raisers, and manufacturers of the United States are furnishing wheat, corn, railroad iron, electrical appliances, locomotives, cars, and a few hundred other articles for most of the civilized world, it looks very much as if protection had brought about emancipation. The Times made a slight mistake in its language. What it doubtless intended to say was: "What we need is fewer Anglo-Americans and more thorough Americans."

There is a determined fight among Texas Republicans over the appointment of a collector for the El Paso custom district. Dr. Grant, member of the national Republican committee from Texas, has endorsed ex-Mayor R. F. Campbell of El Paso, for the position, and Mr. Green, chairman of the Republican state committee, has endorsed Captain Moses Dillon of El Paso, for the place and these two high dignitaries will not come together. The situation is becoming very much complicated and it is believed now that Colonel Philip Mothershill of this territory, who is strongly endorsed in New Mexico and El Paso and who is also backed by Secretary of War Alger, may receive the appointment. It is to be hoped that this will be the case.

Down in Louisiana they are going to hold a constitutional convention, and so arrange matters that the negroes cannot vote. As outlined by the editor of one of the leading Democratic papers in the state, the right of franchise is to be restricted in three ways: Adopt the Australian ballot, an educational qualification, and a property qualification. The Australian ballot and the educational qualifications cannot be objected to for the reason that they will bear equally upon all classes, and are in themselves safeguards against the ascendancy of the ignorant and vicious, but the constitution revisers will do well to let the property qualification alone. Often it is the men who have the greatest amount of money who cause the most trouble in politics, and to even matters up poor men should have an unrestricted franchise.

In the case of the petition for a commutation of sentence of Jose Chavez y Chavez, which has been pending before Governor Otero for a couple of months, some singular stories came from Las Vegas, where the man is now confined. Among a certain set of men there it seems that when confessions, affidavits and statements, implicating certain men in crime are made, they are to be believed and are to be taken as genuine and as giving facts. On the other hand, when other confessions, affidavits and statements are made that are not suited to the purpose of a certain clique up that way, why then they are untrue, false and most damnable forgeries. Why the confessions of one man charged with the crime of murder and believed to be guilty, should have more weight than the confessions and testimony of another man charged with the same crime, is not easily understood by the average fair-minded citizen. But then there may be hidden reasons, of which the average, decent and respectable citizen is not supposed to know much.

THE GREAT AMERICAN DESERT.
Not so many years ago that vast area of the public domain which lies between the Missouri river and the Rocky mountains was marked upon the maps of the school geographers as the "Great American Desert," and something over 50 years ago Daniel Webster, who was accredited with knowing about all there was worth knowing about the North American continent, described the same section of country as "unimportant, uninhabitable and without value." Today the "unimportant" great west is the richest storehouse of the United States and promises incalculable riches for the future.

Since the close of the war of 1861-65 lines of railroads have been stretched across the great plains into and over the mountains on their western border, and the American desert of former years has been made to blossom like the rose; the fairest and most healthful and most inviting part of the land is located within its borders. In place of a desert there is an empire filled with cities, covered with farms, and dotted with schools and churches. Some idea of what has been accomplished in the far west may be gathered from some figures given and statements made by Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, in an article which has appeared in the Illustrated American.

In speaking of the arid lands, he points out that they not only include the most valuable mining area on the surface of the globe, but he presents some interesting and instructive figures regarding the agricultural and commercial value of this hitherto despised and rejected territory. "At the present time," he says, "a careful computation discloses a total in that country of more than 40,000,000 head of domestic animals, made up in round numbers of 2,000,000 horses, 50,000 mules, 14,000,000 cattle and 24,000,000 sheep. The latter produce more than 60 per cent of all the mutton grown in the United States." He asserts, too, that the aggregate annual value of products moved out of the arid region is now approximately $250,000,000, while the total commerce reaches the sum of $550,000,000, an amount largely exceeding the value of our commerce with any foreign country, excepting Great Britain.

The practical side of the development of the arid region is shown in the fact that it is the best field for the production of wool and of the sugar beet. Wool and sugar, as Senator Warren forcibly asserts, are the two products which the United States fails to produce in quantities sufficient to meet our demands, and their purchase from abroad occasions the greatest leak in the national treasury. Upon the 700,000,000 unoccupied acres of public domain in the arid regions there can be produced all the wool and sugar that is necessary for national consumption. The sugar beet thrives best under the highest percentage of sunshine and the lowest amount of moisture, and in a naturally cloudless country where the water can be regulated at will through irrigating canals the best conditions are reached. There is ample water for irrigation, as Senator Warren points out, provided the national government will inaugurate the necessary system of reservoir storage in the snow-covered mountain heights. He admits that there is a clash of interests because the states that own the waters and the federal government which possesses the lands, but he argues that wise legislation can be enacted which will remove all friction.

The senator's article is timely and to the point. There are thousands of persons in the east who are broken in health looking for a climate and land where they can live and support themselves by some out of door employment. They have money enough to engage in business and the article will attract their attention to the west, and the possibilities of sheep raising and beet growing. To those persons the New Mexican would drop a hint that no portion of the west offers more opportunities than New Mexico. In this territory they can find the finest climate in the world, any altitude they may desire or need; nowhere else can sugar beets be grown to such perfection, and the wool and mutton raised on the grazing lands command the best prices in the markets of the country.

LOCAL INTEREST AFTER ALL.
Senator Donelson Caffery of Louisiana, is the leader of the opposition to the annexation of Hawaii, and a few days ago published a letter in New York stating his reasons for the position he occupies on the question. The sum and substance of the published letter was:

"The fortunes of a handful of sugar planters do not justify us in undertaking the dangerous experiment of mid ocean government over a population alien, unassimilable and unChristian."
This very full statement of the position held by so prominent an anti-annexationist is valuable as furnishing the text for most of the arguments which will be heard in the senate chamber when congress convenes and the subject comes up for discussion. Mr. Caffery does not present anything new, and what he has said is after all not very depressing to the annexationists. He espouses the idea of this government "pushing our coast line 2,000 miles out into the Pacific," ignoring the fact that, according to official maps, Hawaii is well within a line drawn south from the most northwesterly possessions of the United States; that argument falls to the ground of its own weight, or perhaps it would be better to say that it takes wings into space because it has no weight. He despises the idea of annexing a population largely native and Japanese, unfit for statehood in his judgment. He does not believe the country can be constitutionally acquired except as a preliminary to statehood, and therefore should not be touched at any price.

He thinks that by simply serving notice that this government will not tolerate foreign interference would serve every purpose of a guarantee of independence. When the question shall come up in the senate Mr. Caffery may have some difficulty in impressing this view. The kind of "independence" which a certain majority of Japanese residents would give to the country, when they grew strong enough to control it, might not suit everybody.

Mr. Caffery further thinks that the fortunes of the sugar planters in the Hawaiian islands are not sufficient to warrant their annexation. It is evident that he feels that the assumed interests of some other sugar planters—those in Louisiana by the same token—are ample reasons for defeating the treaty.

An equally patriotic attitude has been occupied by the transcontinental railway influence in opposition to the Niobrara canal. It is not the first time that, in the eyes of the local statesman, some limited interest of his own district has appeared of greater importance than a measure of enormous national value and necessity.

After coughs and colds the germs of consumption often gain a foothold.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites will not cure every case; but, if taken in time, it will cure many.

Even when the disease is farther advanced, some remarkable cures are effected. In the most advanced stages it prolongs life, and makes the days far more comfortable. Everyone suffering from consumption needs this food tonic.

THE PENDING ALBEMARLE TRANSFER
No Doubt Entertained That O. F. Posey and His Associates Will Take This Valuable Property—Exhaustive Tests Being Made.

The New Mexican this morning received a brief and hurriedly written note from Bland conveying the gratifying information that the Lone Star group of mines in the Cochiti district has been sold to H. McFarland, a millionaire millionaire manufacturer of Chicago, for a large sum of money, the exact amount not being named.

The Herald, also, received this morning, fully confirmed this important information as follows: A little over a week ago a gentleman by the name of H.
McFarland, who has proved to be a millionaire manufacturer of Chicago, the personal friend of many years' standing of W. B. McPherson, the official manager and constructor of the Bland Milling company's plant, quietly arrived in Bland, and little was thought of his visit beyond that it was merely a friendly call upon Mr. McPherson, until Monday, when Mr. McFarland in company with Chester Greenwood, manager of the Lone Star mine, departed for Denver.

The Herald's informant, whose name is referred from publication by request, knowingly says that the mission to Denver of Messrs. McFarland and Greenwood was to close the negotiations with Thomas H. Lowthian and Charles H. Toll, two of the principal owners of the property, for the purchase of the Lone Star group of mines by the first named gentleman; to whom notice of the property was brought by Mr. McPherson, who indirectly has had the Lone Star group of mines in the Bland mill and operate that plant with increased facilities in connection with the Lone Star group of mines.

The Lone Star group was located on December 30, 1893, by Chester Greenwood, Norman Bletcher, Henry Woods and Thomas Lowthian. Through transfers the ownership had passed into possession of Messrs. Greenwood, Lowthian, Woods and Toll. Mr. Bletcher transferring his interest in the Lone Star to Mr. Greenwood for the latter's interest in the Albemarle. The group consists of the Lone Star, Dry Monopole and Free Trade.
From the time of discovery operations have been carried on with considerable profit to the owners while working under difficult circumstances. The amount of shipments to smelters up to date is slightly over 1,200 tons of a total value of some $52,000, making an average of $43-75 to the ton.

The width of the vein in the present working of the Lone Star is from ten to 32 feet. The total amount of work done is some 15,000 feet, distributed in three levels with connecting drifts and shafts.
Other improvements are ore bins, sorting house and a substantial road to the mine.
Mr. McFarland, the purchaser of this valuable group of mines, is a mining man of years of experience, having been interested in this business since 1860. Beside his manufacturing interests in Chicago, the principal specialty of which is the manufacture of the wagon used by the express companies, he is the owner of a large quartz mill north of Laramie, Wyo., which is in constant operation and was constructed by Mr. McPherson, who introduced into it several of his efficient inventions for the treatment of refractory sulphide ores.

The New Mexican is also advised by the Herald that Messrs. Posey, Coran, Merrill and Stephens, who have been in Bland for some time exhaustively examining and testing the Albemarle group of mines in Col. canna with a view to purchasing the same, have returned to Denver for the purpose of testing 20 tons of Albemarle ore by means of cyanide and other modern methods. W. J. Cartan remained in Bland for the purpose of supervising the shipment of the ore mentioned.

The tests so far made, as announced in the New Mexican yesterday, have proved unquestionably satisfactory, and the sale of the valuable properties to Mr. Posey and his associates is practically assured. The Albemarle ore certainly is not seriously refractory, much of it being free milling, and the success of the tests in Denver is not doubted. Probably it will take two or three weeks, however, before the same are completed and the deal finally closed.

As many eastern people will spend Sunday in the city it would be well to thoroughly sprinkle and tidy up the streets this evening. This suggestion ought to be followed every day in the week, but it is particularly timely when a train load of visitors is coming. First impressions are usually enduring.

A meeting of the local members of the capital rebuilding committee should be had and the question of the opening of the new street north of the capital grounds should be speedily decided. It seems that it is necessary to obtain the approval of the commission to the arrival of the street made by City Engineer White. Speedy action should be taken and the provisions of the law should be complied with.

INSURANCE LAW.
Bonds Deposited Would Be Subject to Taxation—Banks May Be Selected As Depositories.

In response to a request made by the governor, Solicitor General Fall has rendered the following opinion on the law requiring each insurance company doing business in the territory to deposit with the treasurer of the territory not less than $10,000, either in cash or in bonds of the territory, or of some county or city of New Mexico:

Hon. M. A. Otero, Governor of New Mexico, Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 19, 1897.—Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of your request for an official opinion upon certain features of chapter 49 of the Laws of 1897, entitled "An act requiring deposits of fire insurance companies doing business in the territory of New Mexico," approved March 17, 1897.

I have given the law referred to my careful consideration and beg to say that as to the first and principal question submitted to me for determination, "Would the bonds deposited by the companies as required by the act above referred to, be subject to state, county and municipal taxation?" I am of the opinion that such bonds, whether territorial, county or municipal, would be subject to territorial, county and municipal taxation at the place of deposit.

A further question upon which you have requested my official opinion is as to whether or not it would be permissible under the act of 1897 for the territorial treasurer to perfect an arrangement with the companies at interest by which the bonds may be held by a responsible bank satisfactory to the treasurer and subject to his order, such bonds to be delivered to the treasurer by the bank at any time on reasonable notice, as for example, 15 days. The purpose of this arrangement, suggested by certain companies, is that it will relieve the treasurer of the personal custody of what may be a very large amount of bonds and at the same time give the company the additional security afforded by the services of the bank.

There is much reason in the suggestion that the law of 1897 affords but inadequate protection to the companies for securities deposited by them, but the only limitation imposed by such an arrangement as that above outlined would be that the treasurer would be obliged to give the bank 15 days' notice of a desire for the securities held by the bank, during which time the company could be notified by the bank of this call for its securities. The matter of details in case such an understanding is to be entered into, would, I assume, be arranged by the treasurer only after full consultation with this office; and for the present it seems sufficient to say that I am unable to see how the interests of the territory or of the policy holders in the territory would be injured by such an arrangement and I believe it would be entirely legal and permissible. Very respectfully,

ALBERT B. FALL,
Solicitor General of New Mexico.

A CORRECTION OR TWO.
Some Facts Concerning the Santa Fe-Pacific Train Robbery.

The following interesting bit of news concerning the Grants station train hold-up appeared in last evening's Optic:

"United States Marshal Foraker of Santa Fe, admits that at least $35,000 in gold was secured by the robbers and an unknown amount of greenbacks."

With the following exception the item is tolerably correct: Marshal Foraker never admitted that at least $35,000 in gold and an unknown amount of greenbacks were taken. On the other hand the officials of the express company state emphatically that the robbers did not secure to exceed $2,500, and that the actual loss of funds will not go much above $2,000.

Marshal Foraker was in Deming last Thursday and met the marshal of Arizona to confer in regard to the pursuit and capture of the gang. This fact was known to the New Mexican, but since it was a trip on secret service it was considered best not to mention it.

Marshal Foraker also says that the men who did the work will not be allowed to rest until they are either caught or dead.
