OJO CALIENTE

(HOT SPRINGS.)

THESE Celebrated Hot Springs are located in the midst of the Ancient Cliff Dwellers, twenty-five miles west of Taos, and fifty miles north of Santa Fe, and about twelve miles from Barranca Station on the Denver & Rio Grande Railway, from which point a daily line of stage runs to the Springs. The temperature of these waters is from 90° to 125°. The gases are carbonic. Altitude 5,000 feet. Climate very dry and delightful the year round. There is now a commodious hotel for the convenience of invalids and tourists. These waters contain 100-25 grains of alkaline salts to the gallon; being the richest Alkaline Hot Springs in the world. The efficiency of these waters has been thoroughly tested by the numerous cures attested to in the following diseases:—Paralysis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Consumption, Malaria, Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Syphilis and Mercurial Affections, Scrofula, Catarrh, Le Gripe, all Female Complaints, etc., etc. Board, Lodging and Bathing, $5.00 per day. Reduced rates given by the month. For further particulars address—

ANTONIO JOSEPH, Prop., Ojo Caliente, Taos County, New Mexico

This resort is attractive at all seasons and is open all winter.
Passengers for Ojo Caliente can leave Santa Fe at 11:15 a. m. and reach Ojo Caliente at 6 p. m. the same day. Fare for the round trip from Santa Fe to Ojo Caliente, $7.

Denial of Report That Secretary Gage Recently Tendered His Resignation to the President.

PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY ARE AGREED

Secretary Gage's Financial Views and Those of President Are Essentially the Same and Former Will Continue in Office.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Assistant Secretary Vandelup, when asked today concerning the report that Secretary Gage had tendered his resignation and that President McKinley refused to accept same, said: "There is nothing in it."

The report in question gave Vandelup as authority for the statement, that at the time of the conversation the president informed Mr. Gage that his views were in accord and he must not think of resigning. It is regarded as certain that Mr. Gage will continue in office.

Died of Neuritis of the Heart.
Denver, Dec. 28.—Judge Gilbert B.
Reed, a prominent lawyer, died today of neuritis of the heart. He was born in New York in 1828, graduated at the University of Michigan, came from Illinois in 1860, and was recently a member of the court of appeals, being succeeded by Adair Wilson last year.

DISASTROUS DETROIT BLAZE

Two Large Business Blocks Ruined by the Flames—Free Press Company Loses Heavily.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—The Arcade building, owned by the Heyman estate on West Second street, burned this morning, completely destroying the paper stock of Wm. O. Japp, the stock and plant of Charles L. Roshan & Son, wholesale stationers, and the stock and perfume materials of the Eliseum Engine company.

A five story structure west of the Arcade building, occupied by the Detroit Free Press Printing company, was for a time threatened, and the stock and plants of the Free Press, Eon, wholesale stationers, Cliff & Higgins, bookbinders, and the Habbe Engraving company were nearly ruined.

The total loss on the two buildings and contents will reach $125,000, of which the Free Press Printing company sustains about $60,000, with $45,000 insurance.

TROUBLE IN THE ORIENT.

Twenty British Warships Have Arrived at Port Hamilton—A Japanese Fleet Has Also Arrived There.

London, Dec. 28.—A dispatch from Shanghai says that a British fleet is anchored at Port Hamilton, and a report is current at Chee Foo that a Japanese fleet has also arrived at Port Hamilton.

London, Dec. 28.—The Globe this afternoon says that a private telegram reached London last evening announcing that over 20 British warships had arrived at Port Hamilton.

CABINET CRISIS IN YOKOHAMA.
Yokohama, Dec. 28.—Owing to the failure of the premier, Marquis Saigo, to reconstruct his cabinet, all the members have resigned. The newspapers demand the formation of a strong ministry capable of coping with the situation east.

AN Actor Sentenced.

New York, Dec. 28.—Edward K. Radcliffe, an actor, found guilty of assault in the third degree for striking his wife, was today sentenced to six months in the penitentiary.

COMEDIAN DAN DALY HURT.

A Hard Fall in a Boston Theater Will Probably End the Actor's Brilliant Career.

Boston, Dec. 28.—Dan Daly, the popular comedian, and one of the leading lights in the "Belle of New York" company, received probably fatal injuries in the Park theater last night.

At the finale of the first act, Daly makes a "flying entry," alighting in an inclined wire. Either the wire or handle broke.
Daly falling to the stage, striking on his shoulders and the back of his head. He was sent to the hospital where this morning he was still unconscious.
His physicians believe that he is suffering from concussion of the brain.

Big Business Consolidation.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 28.—Eighty per cent of the edge-tool manufacturers of the United States have consolidated their interests and arranged for the erection of a new plant near Chartiers, Pa., 40 miles south of this city. The concern will be known as the American Ax & Tool company and will have a capital stock of $2, 000,000.

TRIED TO EXTORT MONEY.

A Negro Sent to the Work House in New York for Writing Threatening Letters to Millionaires.

New York, Dec. 28.—J. W. Harris, a North Carolina negro, was arraigned today on the charge of sending threatening letters to Wm. R. Vanderbilt, Charles Broadway Rouse, John Wauamaker and other prominent men. The letters demanded money and threatened personal violence and alleged that the writer was a member of a society formed to extort relief from millionaires at any price. As no one appeared to prosecute, Harris was committed to the work house as a vagrant.

Eight Persons Cremated.

Scottsdale, Pa., Dec. 28.—The farm house of Jacob Stryer, in Salt Lick township, Fayette county, burned last night and Jacob Stryer and wife were cremated.
Their son Jacob was badly burned. During the past 48 hours eight persons have been burned to death in Fayette county.

JOHN B. KETCHAM'S WILL.

Widow and Relatives Appear in Court in a Contest for Administration of the Estate.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Judge Kohlsaat today heard testimony in regard to the admission to probate of the will of the late John B. Ketcham, and the demand of the dead claimant's widow, Mrs. Minnie Wallace Ketcham, that she be made the sole executrix. Attorneys W. B. Keep and Clarence Brown represented the contestants, brothers and relatives of Ketcham. Mrs. Ketcham was represented by Attorney A. S. Trade. Joe Keller, the butler, and Mrs. Ketcham's cousin, Mrs.
Sean Terry, who witnessed the will, testified to the signing of the will. Then Attorney Trade, in behalf of Mrs. Ketcham, asked that an administrator ad litem be appointed until the case was settled, and Judge Kohlsaat said he would do so. The case was then continued until next Monday.

INDIANA REPUBLICANS.

Conference at Indianapolis Largely Attended—Currency Reform Discussed—Civil Service Law Talked About.

Indianapolis, Dec. 28.—Five hundred representatives of the Republican party in Indiana, outside of the city of Indianapolis, attended today's conference.
Influential men in the party were encouraged by the statements of senators and representatives that there is hope for currency reform, not radical legislation, but such as will tend to set the party right before people. The unanimity of the party in the state on the proposition that the currency must be reformed was a surprise to many men attending the conference. The Democrats, it was averred, will declare for free silver in the next state platform, and the Republicans will, of course, take the opposite ground.

In the event of a failure on the part of congress to take any action looking to a reform of the currency, certain members of the party said, the Republican party in this state will go into the state campaign on the defensive from the start.
In the hotel lobbies there was a great deal of talk against the civil service law, but it came largely from men who had made application for office immediately after the nomination of President Mc-Kinley and had been disappointed. Prominent men of the party agreed that no one need fear that the Republicans of Indiana will ever declare against the law.

GENERAL ALGER VERY ILL

Secretary of War Suffering from An Acute Attack of Grip with Typhoid Symptoms.

HIS CONDITION IS PRONOUNCED CRITICAL

Regardless of the Advice of His Physicians He Continued to Discharge His Official Duties Up to Yesterday Afternoon.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—The Post's Washington special says: General Alger, secretary of war, is lying critically ill at his residence on K street from an acute attack of grip with typhoid symptoms.

It is only within the last few hours that his condition became such as to warn his family. Up to yesterday afternoon he continued to discharge his official duties.
This he did against the advice of his physicians. Since then, however, he has become very much weaker.

Death of a Distinguished Woman.

Omaha, Dec. 28.—Elizabeth Stanton Woolworth, wife of Hon. J. M. Woolworth, ex-president of the American Bar association, died today, at the age of 61 years. Mrs. Woolworth was a daughter of Moses Butterworth and a lineal descendant of William Bradford, the first governor of the Plymouth colony.

Murderously Assaulted.

Joan Griego, of Los Griegos, was brutally assaulted Thursday night, being beaten over the head with wine bottles, and finally dragged with a rope around his neck to the railroad track several hundred yards away and left there.

He is now in the hospital, and is paralyzed, and is being tended by the train. The placing of the man on the track was witnessed by a woman who reported the occurrence to Deputy Sheriff Gregorio Garcia, who saved Mr. Griego from being run over. His assailants were said to have been Juan Antonio Pascual, son of Canon del Yriarri, and Genorio Sanchez, of Rancho de Albuquerque. They were arrested a short time after the assault and were taken to the county jail, where they now are. They will have their preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace J. C. Samora, at Los Griegos, on Monday. Griego is still in very bad shape as a result of his rough treatment, says the Albuquerque Democrat.

Holdups in Custody.

The cowboys, arrested for holding up the Southern Pacific train at Stein's Pass on the evening of the 9th inst., were examined before Court Commissioner Calvert, at Tucson, Ariz., last Friday and were remanded to the custody of U. S.
Marshal Griffith, who turned them over to U. S. Marshal Forsaker and Deputies Bacon and Molloy. They were taken to Silver City and lodged in the county jail to await trial at the February term of the U. S. court. They were charged with destroying the United States mail. At the preliminary examination the prisoners gave the following names: Wm. Wadman, F. L. Capehart, Henry Marshall, Walter Hoffman and Leonard Alverson.
They all deny their guilt but the evidence against them is said to be most convincing. At Tucson the Denver and Silver City men identified them as the persons who held up the train, and these are undoubtedly the right fellows, says the Deming Headlight.

TERRITORIAL TOPICS.

Colonel E. W. Eaton has returned to Socorro from a several weeks' business and pleasure trip to Los Angeles, Cal.

The last number of the Enterprise contains "A Story of Silver City" from the pen of Hon. S. M. Ashenfelter.

Wm. Keif, the lead king of Cooke Peak, who has been on a visit to his home in Germany, returned last week. He had a most enjoyable visit.

There are three Richmonds in the field for the position of district clerk. Oscar Lohman, H. B. Holt and Harvey Miles, says the Dona Ana County Republican.

Max B. Fitch, superintendent of the Graphic smelter at Magdalena, returned last Wednesday from a ten days' visit to Chihuahua, Mexico. He is looking fine and reports that he had a most enjoyable trip, says the Socorro Chief.

The rich vein of coal discovered by J.
P. C. Langston and son east of White Oaks proves richer the further it is prospected. The vein is four and a half feet wide and is the best quality of coal with one or two exceptions that has been discovered in this vicinity.

Most of the New Mexican's esteemed daily exchanges in the territory have finally discovered that Judge McFie has been assigned to the First and Judge Parker to the Third judicial district. The New Mexican printed this information on the day the appointments were announced.

A pretty wedding took place at the Depot hotel last Saturday evening, when Judge L. R. Marshall joined in wedlock L. C. McGrath and Miss Ella Marble. Mr.
McGrath is the prominent county superintendent of public schools and Miss Marble is one of Lumburg's able teachers.—Deming Headlight.

The philosopher of the Springer Stockman says: This has so far proved to be a stormy winter for proverbially sunny New Mexico. But the snows we are having are just what we want, as they will put the ground in excellent condition for the farmer and the grass for the stockman. Vegetation will then thrive and stock will fatten for the early markets.

A party of Mesquero Indians were here Monday marketing produce raised on their farms at Mesquero county year. The agency is dotted over with small farms, and the Apache is rapidly learning to take care of himself, as a result of Lieutenant Scott's efficient management for the past few years, remarks the White Oaks Eagle.

Dr. Lane, of Las Cruces, as soon as his health permits him, will construct a beautiful lawn to surround his new residence, which he will cover with blue grass and and construct a terrace, 14 feet wide at the front side of the house. A line of ornamental shade trees will be planted on the walk from the gate to the front door and a pipe line will be laid which will give facilities to water the ground by a hose in all directions.

J. E. Outhouse, a miner of 30 years experience on the coast, arrived in Deming last Saturday from Phoenix, and remained over until Sunday, when he went up to Pinole Alto, where he will take charge of the mining properties of the Hearst estate, as foreman. This is Mr. Outhouse's first visit to New Mexico, although he was superintendent of the famous Schafter silver mine in Texas for a period of seven years, says the Deming Headlight.

Hon. Hugh H. Price, general manager of the Helen Mining company at Graham, came in from Graham Wednesday and went to Hudson Hot Springs this morning to recuperate. Constant attention to the extensive business interests of the company have so exhausted him that it was imperatively necessary he should have a few days to rest and recuperate.—Silver City Enterprise.

All of the candidates for District court clerk from the northern portion of the district have withdrawn in favor of H. B.
Holt and have unreservedly endorsed Mr.
Holt for the position. He has the unanimous endorsement of the bar and his appointment by Judge Parker would give great pleasure to a large majority of the people in this judicial district. No more competent nor popular selection could be made, says the Silver City Enterprise.

Says the Springer Stockman: It comes straight as an arrow to this office that in a short time, a large business firm with unlimited capital will commence operations in this city. The mountain and ranch trade adjacent to Springer is to be sought, and it will be only a few months until the business capacity of Springer will be greater than a majority of towns with a population five times as great.
Wholesale men are not going to permit the trade to gradually slip away from them when, by establishing branch houses here, they can hold it.

TRAGEDIES AT GALLUP.

A Drunken Man Kills One Man and Seriously Wounds Another—
Thomas T. Gutierrez Breaks
His Neck.

A special dispatch from Albuquerque says: Major J. W. Green, town marshal of Gallup, came in last night, bringing with him the dead body of Thomas T.
Gutierrez and a young Mexican wounded in the arm. The latter was placed in the hospital and the former was turned over to his father, Judge Thomas C. Gutierrez, and will be buried tomorrow morning.

"Christmas eve and Christmas day were lively at Gallup," said the marshal.
James Maloney, a furniture dealer and undertaker, took several drinks on Friday night and the liquor seemed to set him crazy. He went to his store from the saloon, and on securing his pistol planted himself at the front door, where he took several shots at persons passing. His brother-in-law, Jack Smith, attempted to stop the fusillade of shots and secured a bullet through his breast. He will die.

The young Mexican, brought to the hospital had his arm shot to pieces with a bullet, while a locomotive fireman barely escaped with his life, the ball incoming from him passing through his overcoat.

Marshal Green appeared and was about to let Maloney have the pistol when his wife appealed to him "not to kill, as he was insane." The marshal then ponced upon the man and in wrestling the pistol from him had his eye-brows and several locks of hair shot off. The latter was then overpowered and placed in the Gallup jail, where a guard for last night, a few hundred yards away. He walked across a bridge over the Rio Puerco, a dry stream, and on slipping on the snow fell over an embankment 17 feet high. A friend saw him fall and ran to his assistance and found him dead. Dr. Hixon examined the body and discovered Gutierrez' neck was broken. He was about 30 years old and was connected with some of the best Spanish families of central New Mexico.

is a visitor at the capital for the purpose of making final proof before the register and receiver of the local United States land office in the matter of the applications for patent on the Long Star, Free Trade and Dry Monopoly mines. He paid for the land embraced in the claims and took the receiver's receipts thereof this forenoon. Mr. Greenwood regards the outlook for the Cochiti mining district as being very bright.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28.

Is the earth settles very materially in the direction of Chicago on Saturday, no one need be alarmed. Mr. Eckels is going to that city at that time to live, and a change of that kind is apt to unsettle cosmic conditions to some extent. However, things will gradually right themselves. Mr. Eckels as the president of a bank will not weigh nearly so much as he did while comptroller of the currency.

Brooks and securities of all kinds are scheduled to take a header in value the coming week. Senator Morgan has announced that the United States must give immediate attention to the Chinese troubles, and to the speculators on Wall street that amounts virtually to a declaration of war on all the powers that are stealing Chinese territory. A war of that kind, even in the imagination, is a terrible thing. It is very strange how quickly securities become undesirable property when there is a remote possibility of gunpowder being used.

The announcement is made that the government officials at Washington are very much surprised at the exhibition of feeling at Madrid over the latest and most diplomatic note presented by Minister Woodford, on the war in Cuba. The most surprising thing about this surprise is that governmental officials should be surprised at anything surprising the surprised Spaniards do in a surprising manner. The Cuban question has been a series of surprises to the surprised people in the United States from the very beginning, and that the officials have at last reached a surprising state of surprise is indeed a surprise to the country.

At the last session of congress the senate passed a Cuban belligerency joint resolution, but it did not reach the house before adjournment. Since the present session convened many of the public men have endeavored to prevent any action on the resolution, but indications now point to a speedy action on it after recess, and it will undoubtedly be passed. The Hawaiian annexation matter will also be taken up, and the treaty now pending will either be ratified by the senate, or the islands will become a part of the United States by the passage of a joint resolution. After having accomplished these two things and passing the appropriation bills, congress will please the country at large by adjourning. The taxpayers will pay salaries very cheerfully to senators and congressmen while they take a long vacation. It will prove cheaper in the long run than if the statesmen attempt to earn wages by enacting legislation which will tend to unsettle business conditions.

CONCERNING THOSE JUDICIAL APPOINTMENTS.

Information from Washington establishes the fact, that the appointment of Judges John R. McFie and Frank W. Parker was made solely and exclusively upon the recommendation of Governor Otero, the president desiring to strengthen his administration and hence appointing such applicants as had the governor's approval. A similar course will be pursued in the appointment of a chief justice and it is as certain as anything in politics will be the nominee; this also upon the request of the governor. There exists no doubt that the president's course is the proper and sensible one in the case. Governor Otero represents the administration and President McKinley. He is the latter's personal appointment and representative.

in New Mexico and the president proposes to stand by him.

Many foolish tales and foolish inventions have been published of late concerning the political status of the territory, in which it was hinted or asserted or declared, that Governor Otero did not enjoy the fullest confidence and esteem of the president.

This is also totally untrue; quite the reverse, there is no man in New Mexico, and there are not many men elsewhere, who have the president's good opinion as much and to such an extent as is enjoyed by the present executive of the territory. This the New Mexican knows, and what is also a fact, the governor fully deserves this very happy state of affairs.

At the same time it is also a fact that the men who have borne the heat and burden of the day, who have won the Republican battles in the past, who are counted upon to win them in the future, and who are the bone and sinew of the Republican party in New Mexico, are not only well satisfied with Governor Otero's action as the executive of the territory, but also with his recommendations for federal office. They know it is the aim of Governor Otero to solidify and unite the Republicans of New Mexico and give the people a clean, honest and beneficial administration, and in this laudable endeavor they will stand by him shoulder to shoulder and do the best they can to make it an accomplished fact.

CONFESSION OF WEAKNESS.

The action of the Chicago Federation of Labor, in issuing a request to all members of that organization in the ranks of the state militia to secure a discharge from the service, for the reason "that a union man could not consistently serve in the militia and incur the risk of being called out to shoot down fellow trades unionists on a strike," is a virtual acknowledgment that trades unions are not always law abiding, and a confession of weakness in the organization.

The history of every strike of any importance that has been inaugurated in the country since the organization of unions is pretty much like this: At the outset the declaration of the leaders is that in no case will force be resorted to in order to gain the point in dispute; that after a time of apparent failure rioting begins which is followed by attacks upon "non union men" and the destruction of property; that when this point is reached state troops are called out to protect personal and property rights. Can it be that the labor bosses intend resorting to force in order to deprive capital and non-unionists of their rights which are guaranteed by the constitution of the United States, and hope to so reduce the state forces, which would be used to preserve peace and property to such an extent that there can be no resistance offered one of the worst forms of tyranny known in the present age?

The very fact that the leaders of the unions object to the members of such organizations belonging to the most effective police body of the country's forces is evidence that strikes must necessarily become destructive in order to be successful, and the weakness of trades unions is made an open secret. A strong order, backed up by right, would not be compelled to resort to questionable methods to win a struggle for the betterment of the condition of its members.

No other men in the land are so pronounced in their denunciations of the "Pinkerton hirelings" as are labor leaders, and yet their attitude on the militia membership question makes the "hirelings" almost a necessity in times of labor troubles. Capital has rights that must be respected and protected, and if that protection cannot be gotten from the state authorities, it will be had in the form of mercenaries who are not held in check by officers of judgment and responsibility. "Fidei goeth before a fall" and the arrogance of the trades unionists is fast placing them in a position where the sympathy of the public will be lost. Without that no contest for shorter hours or better wages can be gained. Force will be met with force and in the battle capital will win with hands down.

Fat is absolutely necessary as an article of diet. If it is not of the right kind it may not be digested. Then the body will not get enough of it. In this event there is fat-starvation.

Scott's Emulsion supplies this needed fat, of the right kind, in the right quantity, and in the form already partly digested.

As a result all the organs and tissues take on activity.

Taxpayers, Attention!

Notice is hereby given to all taxpayers in Santa Fe county, territory of New Mexico, that the tax rolls for the year 1897 have been placed in my hands for collection, and that from this date on I will receive the taxes due for said year.

The law provides that one-half of the taxes levied during the current year are due and payable on or before the first day of January, 1898, and all those delinquent on that date are subject to a penalty of 5 per cent, which provision will be strictly enforced unless otherwise determined by the honorable board of county commissioners.

VARIOUS NOTES.

Suggestions For Weddings—The Head and Hair.

Large clusters of orange flowers are no longer worn to fasten the bridal veil to the hair. A very small coronet of blossoms and buds mingled, only as wide as one flower, is considered quite sufficient. White gloves of kid, not suede, are worn, and white silk stockings, the shoes of kid or satin having orange blossom buds instead of buckles.

It is not now fashionable for the bride to carry in her hand a big bouquet of orange flowers. The bridal bouquet is carefully preserved as a souvenir, a few sprays from it being given to the bride's most intimate friends as keepsakes which will bring good fortune to the possessor.

Women who are subject to neuralgia and colds should be careful about wetting the head or hair. Instead of washing the latter with water, it may be cleaned by thickly sprinkling it with finely powdered dry starch, which must be well shaken down among the roots. It is then brushed out of the hair with a rather stiff brush, no traces being allowed to remain.

When the hair comes out in large quantities, it is an indication that some sort of tonic treatment is required for the scalp. A saturated solution of salt in rum usually has a most beneficial effect, arresting the fall of the hair and stimulating it to new growth. The salt and rum should be thoroughly rubbed in.

The illustration given today shows a costume of dark red cloth. The skirt is ornamented at the sides with inlet fans of dark red velvet, and three bands of fur are arranged obliquely below the hips. The blouse bodice of red cloth has a plaited yoke of red velvet traversed by bands of fur and opens over a plastron of red velvet. The sleeves of cloth are plaited at the shoulder, a lengthwise puffing of velvet extending from the puff to the elbows. The plaiting is encircled by three bands of fur. The valois collar of fur is fastened by a bow of black satin and a gold buckle. The belt is of yellow leather.

FRENCH FASHIONS.

New Notes of Various Minor Articles of Dress.

Hats of violet or blue velvet very frank in tone are sometimes worn with gowns of quite a different color in Paris and the effect is rather startling. More pleas-are large hats of pale gray felt, loaded with ostrich plumes and draped with colored velvet. These accompany almost any toilet satisfactorily.

Fur trims thinner and reception gowns, as well as street costumes, and toques all of fur are a novelty or, rather, an old fashion revived. They are very small, because when large they are too suggestive of a dream and an imposing headgear. The toque is lifted slightly at the side and trimmed with ostrich tips or quills.

Vilgones, poplins and silk and wool moires are in great demand.

White gloves are less worn, and this is a pleasant fact to chronicle, for they are most unbecoming, besides being expensive on account of the need of constant renewal. Pearl gray, putty color, dark cream and light suede are now the favorite tints in Paris.

Jackets are the preferred outer garment for young girls this winter in spite of the variety of capes, pelermes, redingotes and jacket wraps seen. Blouse jackets and ordinary jackets are adopted almost exclusively for their wear.

The cut shows a dinner gown of pink bengaline. Around the foot of the skirt are three very full plaitings of pink bengaline de sole. The bodice of bengaline is draped horizontally and has a full berth of white lace, over which is a small fichu of pink bengaline de sole bordered with plaitings. The close, wrinkled sleeves are of white lace and have a lace frill at the wrists.

1894 separate analysis, chiefly carload lots, showed AN AVERAGE of 17.01 per cent sugar in beet; 84.1 per cent purity.

THIS REMARKABLE RESULT was accomplished by raw farmers, unacquainted with the culture of beet root, on new land and under very trying circumstances, as the factory was not assured until May, and a majority of the sorghum was planted between JUNE 1st AND AUGUST 10th.

MARY AND JEAN.
How oft at dusk did Burns along The banks of Ayr appear,
A melancholy child of song, Musing amid a mournful throng Of recollections dear?
The kindly after years had healed
The wound within his breast, Fair Jean's devoted love revealed That happiness which death concealed When Mary went to rest.
He fondly scanned his locks at play About the cottage door, Tolled slowly onward day by day, Obedient to honor's way Which bound him evermore.
And yet mayhap in some lone place Where Ayr's clear waters roll, His dreams at eve recalled the grace Of sainted Highland Mary's face—
The mistress of his soul.
He loved, and who that loves today Shall grudge the penitential hour When, clad in sorrow's mantle gray, He pauses beside Ayr's quiet way To woo oblivion's power?
What dreams were his of pleasures deep That he might never know!
Perhaps, through years his secret keep,
Thinking of her who fell asleep,
He dreamed "twas better so."

THE INN AT BIRNLEY.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

In every city and town in the land you will find a mill, store or factory which seems to be hoodooed. The location is apparently all right, but whoever buys, leases or rents makes a failure. When George Walters of the town of Birnley decided to build an inn and become a landlord, he selected what was called the best location in the corporation. He was a man liked by all, had a fair amount of money, and everybody wished him luck and predicted that he would do well. It was strange what a turn of luck came to the man. He had been successful in everything, but on the day he broke ground for the new enterprise he fell over some timbers and broke his leg. Before the framework was up a workman had been killed. While the building was being completed a painter fell from a ladder and was fatally injured. The inn was opened with a howling warning. Some of the guests drank too heavily, a quarrel occurred, and the policeman of the town was stabbed to death. The people advised Walters to get out of it. He looked upon it merely as a run of ill luck and remained until his wife died of typhoid fever. Then he sold the inn to a stranger named Grafton and moved away.

Grafton had a wife and three children, and he had not been in the house a month when two of the children were drowned in the river near by. Fifteen days later the tavern stables were burned to the ground. The man realized that the place was hoodooed and got out of it, and it was taken by another stranger named Eldridge. This owner made a low place of it, but for six months nothing happened to create much gossip. Then Eldridge was killed in a quarrel over cards, and that was the last of the Red River inn as an inn. It was offered for sale at almost any price, but the story of its ill luck had gone abroad, and no one would take it. It was finally put to use as a warehouse, but after a fire, which destroyed a portion of the structure, it was left an unoccupied ruin.

It had stood thus for a year or so, an eyesore to the town and a wonder to all strangers, when a man named Cummings came along and made certain inquiries, which at once revived all the gossip. He had a sister married to a man named Drayton. On a certain date the pair had set out from Columbus, O., to drive to a town in Illinois. They had their own carriage, and that they passed through the town of Birnley was proved by the fact that the sister mailed him a letter with the postmark on it. After that letter nothing further was heard from her, though the husband had been seen in one of the territories alone. I was only a boy then, and I cannot remember all the details. I recollect, however, of Cummings explaining that it was not a happy marriage, that the woman had a large amount of money with her and that he was sure the husband had made away with her at some point on the journey.

No one in Birnley recollected the arrival of the couple or anything connected with them—no one but me. It so happened that I was able to furnish information. They arrived at 8 o'clock one evening while there was a circus in town. I had helped the hostler to put out the team and had seen the man and woman at supper. Just at daylight the next morning after we had taken in the circus—we were called upon to bring around the team. I saw only the man get into the carriage. I was sure the woman did not depart. When I spoke to the hostler, he took no interest in the matter. When I asked Mr. Eldridge, the second landlord, about it, he replied that of course she went with her husband, though he was stumbling about and half asleep, and I am sure he did not see her. Eldridge had gone, the hostler had gone and I was the only one who could give any details. I remembered and described the two people and the horses and carriage, and Cummings had no doubt that they stopped at the inn. From Birnley he proceeded on his journey west, seeking to pick up the trail. He got no trace of the man or woman, but the woman had not been seen. After three or four weeks he came back to Birnley with the firm belief that the wife had been murdered there.

body had been buried there. The barns had never been rebuilt after the fire. Cummings hired a dozen men and had the debris removed, but still the search was unsuccessful. He had previously gone over the house, which was little better than a ruin, but now he entered upon a closer investigation. The windows had been broken, doors carried away, and the leaky roof had let in the storms until the floors were rotten. Now and then half a dozen boys entered the house and clambered about, but as a rule it was avoided as an uncanny place. Up to this time no one had hinted at a ghost or strange things, but that was to come.

Mr. Cummings, a constable and myself entered the old inn one evening after supper to make a thorough search. What the brother expected to find he did not say, but he made up his mind that his sister never left Birnley alive. My persistency in declaring that she did not go away with her husband and the fact that the husband left at such an unusual hour probably gave Cummings the idea that she had been made away with during the night.

On entering we mounted to the second story and entered the room the couple had occupied that night. We were standing still and gazing about when there suddenly came a sound as of a woman sobbing. I bolted at once, but the constable followed at my heels, and when Cummings joined us below he was pale and trembling. It was a queer sound we had heard, and after discussing it for a spell the constable went for Mr. Hastings, who was a justice of the peace. Hastings arrived to ridicule our fears, and together the four of us went up to the room. It was not yet dark outdoors, but very gloomy up there. The justice walked about, knocking and rapping with his cane, and perhaps ten minutes had passed when we heard a noise as of slippers feet crossing the floor, followed by gurgling and sobbing. The sounds were so real and at the same time so uncanny that the four of us made for the stairs at once. When we had got safely down, Cummings said the noises had been produced by the wind and wanted to go back, but no one would go with him. It was agreed to keep the affair a secret and inspect the house next morning, and after breakfast our number was increased to six. The two others were merchants of the town, and they had a hearty laugh at the way we had been driven out.

At half past 8 o'clock in the morning we gathered in that room. Most of the plaster was off the floor was sinking and cobwebs hung from the corners. Quietly enough, access was had to the garret above through this, the best room in the house. There was the scuttle in the ceiling, with the trapdoor shut down, and I wondered that I had never taken notice of it before. Cummings had just remarked that he would like to take a look up there in the garret when there came a wailing, gurgling, sobbing sound which lasted for at least 15 seconds. Every one of us had the same idea about it. It sounded as if a hand had clutched a woman's throat and choked the life out of her.

There was a move for the stairs, and every one's face was as pale as death, but Cummings made a gesture which checked the retreat, and there was a long minute of silence. Then there was heard what might have been called a death rattle—a noise sound to make the flesh creep. After it had died away Cummings said:

"Gentlemen, murder has been done in this house. Let no one go away. We will get a ladder and take a look into the garret."

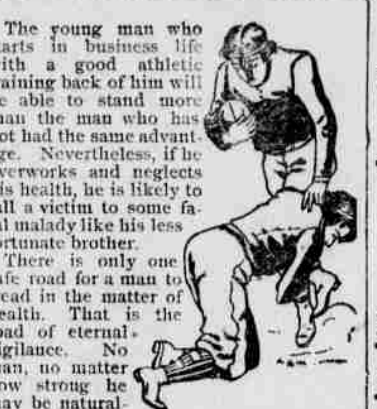

The constable fetched a ladder, and Cummings was first through the scuttle. The garret was 40 feet long by 20 wide, with the end windows broken out and daylight and sunshine streaming in. There were loose boards over the joists, and the garret was the roosting place of scores of pigeons. For two or three minutes nothing was to be seen. Then Cummings, who had made his way to the west end of the garret, beckoned to us and pointed to an object lying on the laths between the two end joists. It was a bundle of black mold and bones—the skeleton of the missing woman. She had been murdered in the room below and carried up there, and one might have looked into the garret a hundred times without discovering the body. It had been there so long that there was only dust and bones to be gathered up and taken down for identification and burial. The murderer had stripped the body of all clothing, but on one finger had been left a ring, which the brother had given her as a bridal present. There was not the shadow of a doubt as to who the victim was, and so great was the popular excitement over the ghastly noises and the dreadful find that 100 men turned to and pulled the ruins apart and made a big bonfire of the last board. Steps were at once taken to apprehend the murderer, and a trail was followed for many months, but to this day his crime is unpunished.

Not a Pleasurable Day.
The man was a wealthy and still young northern squire, selfish and self-indulgent, childless, who was fortunate, for he was unfit to play a father's part, and suddenly widowed. It was to the funeral of the wife that my friend was professionally invited. It had not been a happy marriage. The man was gloomy, not because of the bereavement, but because of the solemnity and seriousness it entailed.

He would have gone away if he had dared and left her relatives to bury her. He did not like them and swore he would not be shut up in a carriage with any one of them—he would ride alone. "No," said my friend, who had great influence over him (as indeed he had over most people with whom he was brought into contact). "You must not do that." There were good reasons why he should not have gone alone. "If you will not go with your relatives, you must go with the clergyman." "The clergyman? Well, if I must, I must, but it will quite spoil my day."—James Payn in Nineteenth Century.

DR. GUNN'S
For People That Are Sick or Just Don't Feel Well.
ONLY ONE FOR A DOSE.
Tennessee Springs, Tenn. (Manufactured and Bottled by Dr. J. H. Gunn, Jr., at his drug store, 101 N. Main St., St. Louis, Mo.)

The young man who starts in business life with a good athletic training back of him will be able to stand more than the man who has not had the same advantage. Nevertheless, if he overworks and neglects his health, he is likely to fall a victim to some fatal malady like his less fortunate brother.
There is only one safe road for a man to tread in the matter of health. That is the road of eternal vigilance. No man, no matter how strong he may be naturally, can with impunity neglect the little ills and indispositions of life. These little disorders are what make the big ones. When a man suffers from headaches and loss of appetite, feels drowsy and dull during waking hours, cannot sleep at night and is nervous and shaky at all times, he is in a dangerous condition. If he neglects his condition he will find himself a very sick man. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all medicines for the many diseases that are caused by an impaired digestion and insufficient and improper nourishment. It creates a hearty appetite, it makes digestion and assimilation perfect, it invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve tonic. For chronic, bronchial, throat and nasal affections it is an unequalled remedy. An honest dealer will not suggest some inferior substitute.
Rev. C. M. Leonard, (P. O. Box 207), Quamby, Hardeman Co., Texas, writes: "I write to say that during the late trouble between the States I became very ill as well as my wife and child. I suffered from chronic bronchitis, throat and nasal affections, and I was unable to do my duty as a minister of the Gospel. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, given to me by the lady who sold it to me. After six bottles had been used the pains and aches in my lungs began to give way, and now I feel that with a judicious course of life I may live many years. I thank God for giving to the world a man who has done so much for suffering humanity."

THE BETTER BARGAIN.

A Minister's Story of a Shaky Pulpit and a Church Pillar.

"I can remember very distinctly," the minister was saying, "when I was in very truth passing through the wilderness of my calling, hoping every day and never quite doubting that after awhile Canaan would gladden my eyes and give rest to my weary mind and body, for I think when a preacher's soul is hard to hoe it is very hard indeed. My salary was about $40 a year and what I could pick up, and the picking wasn't anything to boast of. The bulk of what salary I did get was paid by a most exemplary Christian woman of our congregation, who also very largely met the other expenses of the church, but as she was rich for the section in which she lived the burden was not too heavy.
"But the poor little church was nearly as badly dilapidated as its poor little pastor, and after a year or two of preaching in it the pulpit became so unstable that I was afraid it would fall down with me, and in order to reduce the strain upon it to the minimum I restrained my enthusiasm to such an extent that the congregation complained of my lack of animation. Up on this I went to see the main group and pillar of the church. I told her what was needed and what she already knew as well as I did, but she shook her head.
"Well, I can't preach in it unless something is done," I said, with considerably more emphasis than I would have used in the pulpit.
"How much will it cost?" she asked.
"About $34."
"Thirty-four dollars?" she nearly shrieked. Then let her voice fall. "I guess," she said, "we'd better change preachers." And for the year or so I staid there I preached from the pulpit steps."

Appointed.
Willard S. Strickler, Joseph C. Baldridge and John M. Moore, residents of the county of Bernalillo, have incorporated the Albuquerque Abstract company, and filed articles of incorporation in the territorial secretary's office. The objects of incorporation are the preparing of a set of abstract books and furnishing abstracts of title to real estate in the city of Albuquerque and county of Bernalillo; for the purpose of acquiring title by purchase or donation, selling, holding and owning land and real estate of every kind and description; for the purpose of transacting a general real estate, loan and insurance business. Capital stock, $10,- 000; principal place of business is located at Albuquerque.
BOND APPROVED.
On yesterday the acting governor approved the bond of Mr. P. H. Curran, as treasurer of the New Mexico Agricultural college, in the sum of $60,000. The bondsmen are Numa Raymond, H. D.
Bowman and W. H. Cox, all of Las Philharmonic orchestra will also render several numbers.

Lost Five Toes.
J. P. O'Brien, who is in Santa Fe from San Pedro looking after his son, Gus, whose right foot was seriously crushed at Lamy last week, informs the New Mexican that his son is getting along nicely at the sanatorium and will probably be out in a week or so. The young man lost five of his toes, but enough of the injured foot was saved to prevent him from being seriously crippled.
Business Change.
Mr. Charles W. Dandrow has purchased the interest of Mr. Frank S. Davis in the coal and transfer business, and will conduct it at the old stand by himself. Mr.
Davis will remain in the city, but will probably not engage in active business for some little time.
The Weather.
The weather yesterday was clear and slightly warmer, the maximum temperature reaching 86 degrees and the minimum 14 degrees. The mean relative humidity was 54 per cent. Continued fair weather is indicated for tonight and Wednesday.

nual smoker as a compliment to his officers and soldiers, has arranged with Captain Matthews, of company B, to hold the first one at Post hall next Friday night.
Invitations have been extended to all officers and troops in Santa Fe to attend and a jolly good time is expected.
One of the features of the evening will be that the troops will fire a blank volley in front of the governor's palace at midnight, the closing moment of 1897.
Professor Perez' band will be present and altogether it will be quite a novel affair.
Toys.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION.
Decided to Issue 50,000 Pamphlets Concerning Important Interests of the Territory for Distribution at Transmississippi Exposition.
Mr. J. D. Hughes, business manager of the New Mexican, returned from Albuquerque last night, where he attended a called meeting of the New Mexico bureau of immigration yesterday. He reports that Frank A. Manzanarez, of Las Vegas, president; Lucius Dills, of Roswell; Lorion Miller, secretary, and J. D.
Hughes, treasurer, were present.
After mature consideration, the bureau decided to issue 50,000 pamphlets describing the mining districts of New Mexico, 20,000 pamphlets on agriculture and horticulture and 10,000 pamphlets on the climate and hot medicinal springs of the territory. These publications will be especially prepared and printed for distribution at the coming Transmississippi exposition at Omaha.
After adding the accounts for the year and disposing of accumulated routine business, the bureau adjourned subject to call of the president.

NATIVE COPPER NUGGETS.
Phenomenal Strike in Taos County—Pronounced the Greatest Showing of Copper in the World.
A. W. Tennant, a pioneer miner of the southwest, recently exhibited in Denver some remarkable copper specimens from a mine located about 45 miles southeast of Taos, N. M. Quite a large portion of the ore is in the form of copper nuggets, resembling solid gray copper or steel galena, running 65 to 90 per cent copper.
Mr. Tennant says there are six parallel veins over two miles in length, and all included in a width of 500 feet. The vein they are now working is four and one-half feet wide at a depth of 340 feet, 215 feet below the water level. It is a true vein, with a dip of 12 feet in 100, and the nugget copper all appears below water level. Above water line the ore varies, running from 1 to 6 per cent, but after striking the water line its value increases rapidly.
Near this wonderful deposit flows Coyote river, and the Mexicans have a legend that the mine was worked more than 200 years ago and malleable copper taken out in large quantities. The old and primitive workings are visible all around there.
Shipments were recently made of this nugget copper returned by the railroad, one lot of 20 tons, 52 per cent; one ear 55 per cent; one, 67 per cent, and one 63 per cent. Some of the nuggets weigh several hundred pounds each. The veins appear to lie between a kind of lime shale on one side, broken and confused, and a true, even wall on the other side of porphyry. Mr. Tennant thinks it is the greatest copper showing for the development in the world. He is confident of marvelous results below the water line.
Great hoisting works, immense pump, mattie smelter and other improvements are to equip the property as soon as possible.
INDIANS AND SUGAR BEETS.
Two Widely Variant Subjects Discussed by T. J. Helm in Denver.
Mr. T. J. Helm, general agent for the Denver & Rio Grande road in this city, is in Denver, and in an interview with a representative of the Republican said:
"There are a great many Indians in New Mexico," said Mr. Helm, "and those living comparatively near Santa Fe, are very inferior in every way when compared with the Indians further north. The Santa Clara, San Ildefonso and Tesuque Indians, who live near Santa Fe, in the Es-panola valley, are very ignorant, besides being almost dwarfs. They are inclined to be very lazy and shiftless. They raise a few miserable sheep and cattle, and do a little farming. But in spite of that it is impossible to tell how they live.
"During the civil war the Tesuque Indians were considered very wealthy. They were well off both financially and in stock and sheep. But during the past quarter of a century they have allowed themselves to degenerate most woefully. Today they are as poor as so many church mice, shiftless and unkempt. They have retrograded until they are barely self-supporting.
"Last spring they were in such a deplorable state that they actually followed the herds of sheep that were grazing on the ranges, eating the lambs and sheep that died. If they had not done that I guess many of them would have starved to death. The government soon learned of their pitiable condition, and sent out an officer to examine into their case. As soon as the federal officers learned of their true condition they provided food and clothing for the Indians and have watched after them ever since.
"A short distance south of Albuquerque are the Laguna Indians. While they are small in stature, they are comparatively intelligent, and have large herds of sheep and cattle. They are very industrious, and never let an opportunity slip by to make a few dollars. They dress well, and the squares are good looking. Some of them might almost be called handsome.
Their chief industry is the manufacture of pottery. They have become quite adept at the business, and turn out some very dainty and artistic pieces of earthenware. Their pueblo is near Pacific Junction on the Santa Fe railroad, and all passenger trains on that road stop at the junction to allow these Indians to dispose of their wares to tourists. They make considerable money that way, which, added to their stock and farm products, makes them comparatively well off. These Laguna Indians are especially noted for their cleanliness.
"The Cliff Dwellers of New Mexico are a very ignorant class. They, too, are short, thick set, ignorant. They have not advanced at all during the past 100 years.
If anything, they have degenerated.
They have long since abandoned their dwellings in the cliffs, occupied by their forefathers, and are living in adobe houses in the valleys. They, too, make and sell pottery, but their class of work is much inferior to that made by the Laguna Indians.
"The Espanola valley is very fertile, and last year I distributed beet seed among 64 ranchers living therein. I also sent seeds to 42 in the Santa Fe valley, which is below the Espanola valley.
While I did not receive returns from all the farmers in these two valleys, I did not learn of a single failure with those who reported their success to me. In spite of the fact that none of the farmers know very little about the sugar beet raising industry, they met with flattering success, some of their beets weighing six pounds. Those beets, analyzed early in the season, showed 10 per cent sugar, while those tested later showed an increase of 12 per cent, averaging 22 per cent.
"There are large valleys near Santa Fe which could raise enough beets to keep a good sized plant in operation. These beets raised in the Espanola valley would be ready for market a couple of weeks before those planted in the Santa Fe valley, and below that valley is the Rio Grande valley, which would send its beets

In Cupid's Clutches.
Fred Walsen, an ex-state treasurer of Colorado, who has friends in all parts of New Mexico, will be married in St. Louis today to Miss Storck, of that city. The bride-elect is the daughter of remote relatives of Mr. Walsen, who befriended him when he first came to this country from Germany. Miss Storck is a true type of the model German housewife and a woman of accomplishments. Mr. and Mrs.
Walsen will leave for their home in Denver immediately after their marriage.
Arrested in Colorado.
John Mayo, who became notorious by his escape from jail at Clayton last week, and by stealing the horses of the deputies who were in pursuit of him, was captured Sunday near Trinidad by Constable Lewis.
Mayo was sought for an interview by officers in New Mexico, for several offenses, but as the officers of Colorado have him on charges preferred against him up there, he will no doubt take a contract for state work for a specified time in Colorado, says the Springer Stockman.
