NEWS FROM MANILA

Steamer China Has Arrived at San Francisco with Major General Greene and Staff.

INSURGENT AGENTS ABOARD

Aguinaldo Expects Ultimate Independence—Greene Does Not Expect Further Trouble with Filipinos—Health Conditions Improving.

San Francisco, Sept. 22.—The steamer China, from Hongkong, and the Nagasaki, a clean bill of health, so was not put in quarantine. General Merritt did not come on the China, as was expected, but Brigadier General Greene and staff are on board with 150 soldiers returned from Manila on account of sickness.

Among the passengers on the China were seven privates who came back because of the expiration of their terms of service.

Among the passengers were Filipino Agoncillo and Jose Lopez, who are going to Washington as representatives of General Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader. Agoncillo declines to make public what Aguinaldo wants or expects, but states that the insurgents generally look for ultimate independence.

General Greene says he received his orders to return to San Francisco the same day General Merritt received orders to proceed to Paris by the way of the Suez. With reference to the report that he was recalled owing to his action in conducting an illegal court martial at sea, General Greene says Major General E. S. Otis gave him the cases to try, and showed him a paragraph in the articles of war, giving him authority to try them. The cases were tried according to General Otis' orders and the findings of the court were later reversed by the Washington authorities.

General Greene says there is no truth in the story that he had trouble with General Merritt. On the contrary, he says, they are the best of friends. General Greene expressed the opinion there would not be any trouble with Aguinaldo, but declined to go into details. The health conditions in Manila are improving.

Spain Must Evacuate Cuba As Rapidly As Possible—United States Ready to Occupy the Island.

Washington, Sept. 22.—At the War department today, in reply to a question whether there was any disposition to accede to the request made by the Spaniards for a postponement of the evacuation of Cuba until next spring, the statement was made that no delay would be considered. The evacuation must proceed with expedition and the troops from the United States are being put in readiness for the occupation of Cuba and would be sent there.

Yellow Jack Decadent.
Merida, Mexico, Sept. 22.—There have been no more deaths from yellow fever; but there have been many cases of fever in the interior towns, mainly intermittent in character which at first deceived experienced doctors.

REVOLUTION IMMINENT.

The Dreyfus Case Has Reached An Acute Stage in Paris That Excites the Live-liest Apprehensions.

Paris, Sept. 22.—The situation here is generally admitted to be grave by both the press and people. The conflict between the civil and military authorities is becoming acute. The sudden action of General Zurlinden, military governor of Paris, in prosecuting Colonel Picquart on the charge of forgery and of using forged documents assumes a grave aspect on account of the circumstances attending this intervention of the military authorities in a civil court. At the present moment, when the political atmosphere is surcharged with dangerous electricity, generated by Dreyfus, the general, who has just quitted the cabinet, in defiance of the civil authorities, takes, without consulting his successor or premier, an important step. In ordinary circumstances, the military governor is empowered to act independently; but now the Dreyfus question has become a great national matter, and every proceeding in the affair has a state importance. General Zurlinden's ignoring this obvious fact is very significant. He comes forward as a defender of the army, the prosecutor of its supposed calumniators and a resolute opponent of the revision case. From this to appeal to the public in the line of the establishment of a dictatorship there is no wide step. The Fronde asserts that Premier Brisson disavows the measures taken against Picquart, which he says were instituted without the knowledge of the cabinet.

Puerto Rican Evacuation Continues.
Washington, Sept. 22.—Acting Secretary of War Melickjohn has received a cable message from General Brooke, chairman of the Puerto Rican evacuation commission at San Juan, saying that 800 Spanish troops embarked for home today.

What Will John Bull Do Now.
London, Sept. 22.—A dispatch to the Globe from Hongkong purports to give details of a secret convention signed in Peking March 27. It appears that Hsu-Ying-K'ou, of the Chinese foreign office, thereby concluded an agreement with St. Petersburg by which China ceded Port Arthur and Ta Lien Wan, stipulating that only Russian and Chinese warships should enter or dock at Port Arthur.

Russia, it also appears, gets the exclusive use of the inner harbor of Ta Lien Wan, the sole administration of the ceded territories, and a tract of land north of Ta Lien Wan is designated as the buffer belt.

Four More Unfortunates.
Washington, Sept. 22.—The adjutant general of the army has received a cable message from Major General Brooke, dated Ponce, Puerto Rico, September 21, announcing four deaths yesterday.

Likely to Antagonize England.
Paris, Sept. 22.—The government has decided upon the immediate dispatch of a company of Senegalese sharpshooters and a detachment of artillery to re-enforce Major Marchand, the French explorer who is reported to have occupied Fashoda, on the Nile, about 400 miles above Khartoum.

Eulogized McKinley.
Trenton, N. J., Sept. 22.—The Republican state convention to nominate a candidate for governor was called to order in Taylor's opera house at noon today by Chairman Frank M. Murphy, of the state committee, who introduced Attorney General Griggs as the presiding officer. Mr. Griggs was given an ovation, and made a speech eulogizing President McKinley.

Later—Acting Governor Foster M. Voorhes was nominated by acclamation for governor.

Only Five Days to Think.
Buenos Ayres, Sept. 22.—El Tiempo says Chile has given Argentina five days to accept unrestricted arbitration in the boundary dispute between the two countries.

Miners Getting the Upper Hand.
Monongahela City, Pa., Sept. 22.—Having secured a victory at the third poll, the miners will now turn their attention to the miners of the fourth poll, where the Chicago agreement is being violated. The contest will be opened in a few days and the officials say will be waged vigorously until every operator is paying the district rate.

The miners at the third poll are still idle, their employer, Captain S. K. Brown, not having signified his willingness to comply with the Chicago agreement. The fight will be continued at these mines until the strikers are successful.

Remains of Winnie Davis Taken South.
Narragansett Pier, R. I., Sept. 22.—The remains of Winnie Davis, daughter of the chief of the Southern Confederacy, left this place today en route to Richmond, Va., where they will be interred.

Emperor of China Has Abdicated.
Peking, Sept. 22.—An imperial edict has just issued definitely announcing that the Emperor of China has resigned his power to the empress (the dowager empress) who has ordered the ministers to deliver to her in the future their official reports.

It is difficult to obtain reliable information at the palace in regard to the proceedings, but recent reformatory edicts probably caused the change. While the emperor was subservient and a mere figure head, the dowager empress permitted him to remain in peace, but as soon as he attempted to act on his own initiative, his practical deposition was the result. His principal adviser, Kang Yumoi, a Cantonese reformer, fled in spite of vigorous attempts made to arrest him, and it is said he is now on his way to Shanghai.

The effect of the change must be great. In all probability Li Hung Chang will be reinstated in power and Russian influence will increase.

Suspect Arrested.
Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 22.—Harry Gunford, son of Nancy A. Gunford, whose name has been frequently mentioned in connection with the Yellow Mill pond mystery, was arrested today, as he was about to unlock the door of his mother's house.

FATAL FAMILY ROW

Three Men Dead As the Result of Dispute Over Possession of Property.

OFFICER INSTANTLY KILLED

After His Arrest the Murderer Was Shot Through the Head While in Custody of the Sheriff by Unknown Person.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 22.—Frank P. Myers shot and instantly killed John Lenhart, constable, and Michael Kerns, a by-stander, at Garrett, Md., yesterday, while resisting eviction from a house which was the subject of a family dispute. He then barricaded doors and windows, but was finally captured by the sheriff. As he was being taken to jail some one shot the prisoner in the head, and he fell in the sheriff's arms dead.

Scottish Rite Masons.
Cincinnati, O., Sept. 22.—The supreme lodge of Scottish Rite Masons adjourned this afternoon to meet in Philadelphia, September, 1899. The report of the financial committee was adopted. Its balances were all on the surplus side, including items amounting to $181,000 in investment fund.

COLONEL BRYAN IN WASHINGTON.

Desires That the Sick in His Regiment Should Be Mustered Out—Made No Reference to Resigning.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Colonel Wm. J. Bryan, of the 3rd Nebraska volunteers, was at the War department today, and occasioned as much interest among the employees as a returned Santiago hero. Colonel Bryan was accompanied by Governor Holcomb and Representative Stark of Nebraska. Neither to the acting secretary of war nor to the adjutant general did Colonel Bryan or Governor Holcomb make any request regarding the mustering out of the 3rd Nebraska regiment, or allude to the wishes of Colonel Bryan in reference to the subject.

After leaving the War department Colonel Bryan and party went to the White house, where they were cordially received by President McKinley and remained in conference with him for more than an hour. They did not prefer a request for mustering out the regiment as a whole, but for the discharge of such members as are disabled by disease or have peculiar calls upon them. They represented that about 20 per cent of the members of the regiment are ill, and urged that these should be relieved of military duty, but the American commissioners refuse to discuss these themes as being beyond their jurisdiction.

Admiral Cervera in Madrid.
Madrid, Sept. 22.—Admiral Cervera arrived here today. There were no incidents worth noting.

RAISING MANY QUESTIONS.

Spanish Members of Puerto Rican Military Commission Want to Discuss Matters Over Which They Have No Jurisdiction.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 22.—The Spanish transport San Francisco sailed for Spain Wednesday. Captain General Macias and staff reviewed the departing soldiers who bade farewell to sweethearts and wives. Some soldiers wept profusely. The Spaniards, at the meetings of the military commissions, are raising many questions regarding the civil administration of the island and the disposition of public property, but the American commissioners refuse to discuss these themes as being beyond their jurisdiction.

IMPORTANT DEPARTMENT RULING.

Secretary of the Treasury Holds That Chinese Consuls in Foreign Countries Can Not Issue Entry Certificates.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The secretary of the treasury today made an important ruling in which he holds that Chinese consuls in foreign countries are not authorized to issue certificates to privileged classes of Chinese entering this country. The effect will be to prohibit the entry into this country of privileged classes, except upon the presentation of certificates issued by the imperial Chinese government, and in view of the fact that the government has never issued certificates of this character it is believed that comparatively a few Chinese, even the exempt classes, will apply hereafter for admission.

The fact remains and no personal and lying attacks on this paper or its editor can wash it away, that the present board of county commissioners of San Miguel county has been guilty of many acts of malfeasance in office. This fact cannot be talked away. The law should be vindicated.

The territorial treasury has lost about $25,000 by the illegal action of the board of county commissioners of San Miguel in unlawfully abating taxes by the wholesale to the amount of 25 per cent and in accepting county paper instead of cash, as the law demands and prescribes. What are the territorial law officials going to do about this? Is there to be no reckoning and are county commissioners to be allowed to break the law with impunity, when other men accused of violating the laws of the territory are indicted and tried for such violations of law. What is legal sauce

Stay at Home.

A piece of advice comes floating across the water from Honolulu which, if remembered, will save many men in this country trouble and possibly sad experience, particularly those who are contemplating removing to the Hawaiian islands for the purpose of bettering their condition in a new country. Letters received from the islands say that it must be borne in mind that the Hawaiian islands are in no sense of the word a "new country." For many years past there has been a population there which has taken up all the ordinary avocations of life, and business is as much overdone as any where in America. Before the arrival of the United States troops after annexation there were many idle persons in all towns, and since annexation hundreds of young men have arrived in the islands anticipating opportunities which could not be found at home only to be disappointed, and the labor question has become a serious one.

There are opportunities on the islands for making money, but they are all in the nature of developing lands and plantations and require large sums of money to be made successful. It is the same old story. Money is required to make money, with the disadvantage that the extent of the country is entirely too small to permit of finding of employment in one place if it cannot be found in another. The fact of the matter is that no country on earth offers as many opportunities for a man to acquire a competency as the United States. To the average young man who is compelled to start in life with nothing but his head and hands, some land far off many times presents alluring prospects, but in almost every instance of that kind distance is the only quality which lends enchantment to the view; a close inspection removes the glamour and actual conditions are found to be worse than in his native country. Of course there are exceptions, but they are very few and far between. The success attained in a few instances is always heard of while the thousands of failures are never reported in the prospectuses of immigration and steamship companies. No better illustration of that statement can be pointed than the late Klondike boom.

There is money to be made in the United States, but it requires hard work, economy and everlasting sticking to the work picked out to gain the end desired. The great obstacle to acquiring wealth is the extravagance of the people and the desire to make as much show on a small income as is made by the rich. To that one cause can be laid two-thirds of the dissatisfaction in the land today, not to the conditions which surround the people who are compelled to earn their living by work.

It will be found that America is the land of opportunities for the men of small means and those who have none at all for many years to come, and that all the golden tales which come from countries great distances off will fade away the nearer the searcher after wealth gets to them.

The Strength of Faith.

It matters not what one thinks of faith cure, there is no use denying the followers of that doctrine are a remarkable as well as a wonderful people. Last week a "convocation" of faith cure believers was held in Jersey City, and one of the delegates present arose "in meekness" and solemnly told to solemn listeners how he had been cured by faith of injuries he had sustained in a fall from a steep 200 feet high. Of course it was a church steep he fell from, no ordinary, everyday cupola on top of a sky-scraping building, and of course he was hurt when he struck the ground, the fall did not injure him in the least. Just the exact nature of his injuries was not entered into with any great detail, but the fact that he fell exactly 229 feet was sufficient evidence that some bruises were sustained, and that it was necessary to use crutches in walking (unfortunately the crutches were not produced in evidence). Any way the story was believed, and considerable faith was manifested on the part of the audience.

That the test of faith—on the part of the listeners—was a success is evidenced by the fact that in place of attempting to conceal the romance from the outside world, newspapers were supplied with the story in all its harrowing details, not even the height of the steeple being omitted, and now the faith of an incredulous world is being tested.

This course may not have been as dangerous as might be imagined. The episode will excite the smiles of the unthinking, but others will recognize its importance. Of course it proves nothing in regard to faith cure, but how great is its significance as regards the faith cure! And the accurate logician will deduce from it, not the conclusion that they are beneath the serious consideration of sane persons, but that they are a social factor of almost alarming importance. When folks reach the state of mind induced by the telling, hearing, and promulgating of a yarn like this they are apt to make a stir in the world. Faith is a strong lever, and these people have it. They are as fearless of derision as they are of the laws against manslaughter, and though they will cure much fewer maladies than the scientific hypnotists do, yet they will make every cure count for vastly more.

The Eminent Proper Thing.

(El Paso Times.)

The people of New Mexico and Arizona are arranging to give their "Rough Riders" a royal welcome home. That is proper. Give the brave lads to understand that their offer to sacrifice their lives for their country's flag is appreciated. They suffered hardships and faced death; and yet they are deserving of no more credit than thousands of others who volunteered and were eager to go to the front but were prevented from doing so.

PORK AND TRIMMINGS

Santa Fe Soldier Boys at Whipple Barracks Enjoyed a Change in Bill of Fare.

UNDER ORDERS TO GO EAST

Feeling of Discontent in the Regiment Disappearing—Arizona Not So Bad After All—Meet Us At Lamby With Oats.

Correspondence New Mexican.

Whipple Barracks, Sept. 19, 1898.—The 1st territorial regiment, which was moved from Whipple Barracks to Lexington several times last week, is yet in Whipple Barracks. The latest news is that a move will be made Thursday. Unless another political convention, baseball game or some other important event causes further delay, the 1st territorial regiment will go to Lexington, Ky., Thursday, Friday, Saturday or Sunday. This news is positively official.

In fact, as certain as former reports of the movements of Camara's feet. The Southern Pacific railroad is said to be responsible for previous delays. Nothing but stock cars could be found for moving the regiment and Colonel McCord declined to allow the proprietor of California to palm off "any old thing" on the regiment. It begins to look as though there is no truth in the report that the government contemplates exchanging the American eagle, for a hog or likeness of Col. P. Huntington, to represent the emblem of liberty.

Last week, fresh hog and apple sauce graced the table of Company T. Today a herd of sheep is grazing on the hills north of camp and fresh mutton will appear on the bill of fare tomorrow. It would be a shame to scandalize Santa Fe society by telling who stole the hogs. However, Lieutenant Catron was heard to remark: "I'm going to see that the boys have enough to eat if I have to buy it." You see, the boys are hunters, headed by the lieutenant, brought in 100 pounds of honey. "Honey! You're Out of Sight," is now a very popular air. Those who have never indulged in the fun of bee hunting have missed half their lives. Not only delicious, but long tramp and long tramp are some of the joys of the bee hunt. It's a Sunday school picnic, personified with the ants and kindred joys. The bees of Arizona have the same old-fashioned kind of stingers that the bees of our boyhood wore.

Some of the blue coated braves formerly so disgusted the citizens with drunken exhibitions that a majority of them claimed the post was of no material benefit to the town. They averred, the saloons, not the substantial business affairs, reaped the entire advantage. Seems singular that a few disagreeable characters could confer so much credit on an entire regiment. As an evidence of the bad character of the "bad soldier boy," it is said that Prescott mothers used the word "soldier" as a bugaboo to frighten unruly children into submission. A story is told of a preacher who saw a little boy going along the street with a fish pole over his shoulder last Sunday. The preacher stopped the boy and asked: "Little boy, do you know where the bad people go to?"

"No man, I don't."

Just then he saw a life of blue coats entering a near by church, and he hastily corrected himself.

"If you mean the soldiers, I guess they go into that house over there."

This is an old story revised to the everlasting credit of the territorial regiment, and a broad chalk mark given the ones who set examples of decorum.

If the regiment was to remain here another month the churches of Prescott wouldn't hold the soldier worshippers and the people would wonder that they never noticed so many good people in the world before.

"Tom" Gable is in Whipple. The first question he asked was the altitude from the train was: "Say, do you know where a fellow can find a nice, cool glass of beer?" The friend wondered if he intended to electoroner before he got his feet warm in the territory. It is reported that "Tom" has the correct proportions to fill a vacancy in the regiment and to step into his new duties this week. He will accompany the regiment to Lexington.

A man who dies by a bullet or some equally fatal missile shall rise again; so the good book says; but a man who dies politically is liable to remain dead a long time ago. Glad "Tom" escaped such a fate.

The dissatisfaction which prompted numerous volunteers to kick, petition and nearly mutiny has almost entirely passed away. A revolution of feeling has entered the hearts of the sensible minded and they now are satisfied to take their share of whatever is to be, like men. They realize that "kicking" will not induce the War department to take any action relative to mustering out the regiment, and that they are merely making an unworthy exhibition of themselves in showing their discontent, to those who have "been through the mill" previously, and actually suffered almost unendurable hardships and privations, to witness the antics of some of the volunteer regiments who have not yet had a taste of starvation at the front, decimation by the enemy's fire, nor that of "howling" to be more maligned types of diseases. The boys here are also beginning to realize that it is only necessary to be half way decent and gentlemanly to keep out of the guard house, and that the actions of drunkards, anarchists and malcontents who have no right to be here, are a disgrace to the regiment and to the territory.

Army discipline has been the principal cause of dissatisfaction. Those who previously enjoyed every form of liberty naturally rebel at restraint. Yet this regiment has not witnessed rigorous restriction nor will it for some time. Perhaps a little snow shoveling, sleeping in tents, and imprisonment five miles from town, will this winter cause the boys to think Whipple a paradise compared to Lexington. Then they will wonder why they did not petition to send here instead of "howling" to be moved. The 1st territorial has suffered some, of course, but their troubles are, after all, inconsequential, when the miseries endured by others are considered.

J. F. MANNING.

P. S.—Word has just been received that the regiment will leave here Sunday morning for the Santa Fe. It is hoped that a large delegation of "Santa Fe" (with cake) will meet the boys at Lamby.

Eczema!

The Only Cure.

Eczema is more than a skin disease, and no skin remedies can cure it. The doctors are unable to effect a cure, and their mineral mixtures are damaging to the most powerful constitution. The whole trouble is in the blood, and Swift's Specific is the only remedy which can reach such deep-seated blood diseases.

Eczema broke out on my daughter, and continued to spread until her head was entirely covered. She was treated by several good doctors, but grew worse, and the dreadful disease spread to her face. She was taken to two celebrated health springs, but received no benefit. Many patent medicines were taken, but without result, until we decided to try S. S. S. and by the time the first bottle was finished, her head began to heal. A dozen bottles cured her completely and her skin is now as healthy as when she was sixteen years old, and has a magnificent growth of hair. Not a sign of the dreadful disease has ever returned.

H. T. SHORE, 2301 Lucas Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Don't expect local applications of soaps and salves to cure Eczema. They reach only the surface, while the disease comes from within. Swift's Specific is the only cure and will reach the most deep-seated places in the body. It is of all similar remedies, because it cures cases which are beyond their reach. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no poison, mercury or other mineral.

NEW MEXICO CROPS.

The General Harvest of An Abundant Crop—Ranges Need Rain for Winter Feeding.

U. S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE. Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, New Mexico Section. (Santa Fe, N. M., September 20, 1898.)

The weather for the week ending September 19, although not averaging as cool as the week previous, still was slightly below the normal. The days have been bright and sunny, with rather cool nights, and with little or no precipitation. From many sections, especially in the south, there is considerable complaint of drought, and in central and southern districts water for irrigation is getting scarce, and farmers are put to much trouble and expense in securing sufficient for their needs. In the northern counties along the Rio Grande pastures are drying up rapidly, and fear is expressed that winter feed will be short.

Harvesting the latest grain crops is about finished, and the thrashings with few exceptions are yielding very satisfactory returns. The third cutting of alfalfa is about all secured in northern counties, and under most favorable conditions. Corn cutting is making rapid progress, and some northern farmers have begun work on the winter wheat. No wheat conditions have been reported with the general abundance and fine quality of all garden produce excepting the frost of the 11th and 12th over the more exposed localities of the north, where as stated in the previous bulletin considerable loss was sustained in tomatoes, cabbages, melons, etc.

Fruit, grapes and melons continue abundant in the markets notwithstanding the effects of the frost on the grapes and melons of the localities just mentioned, although owing to several high winds of the past week there has been some loss in falling fruits.

The following remarks are extracted from the reports of correspondents: AZTEC—C. E. Mond—Bright, clear week with little precipitation. The gradually declining temperature indicates fast approaching winter. The frosts of the 11th and 12th froze the potatoes, tomatoes, melons, etc., and some corn and alfalfa injured slightly. Farmers are still making the third crop of hay although a great deal was secured before the frosts. Apples, peaches, pears and grapes continue in abundance, also beans, tomatoes, cauliflower, cabbages, onions, potatoes, etc. Many farmers are cutting corn and water melons and are being planted. There is plenty of water for irrigation. Highest temperature, 87, on the 10th; lowest 31, on the 12th. Rainfall, trace.

Bernalillo—Brother Gabriel—Very dry weather since the 20th of August with few exceptions. A trace of rain on the night of the 9th of September. Cool days and nights from the 9th to the 15th, with frost on the Sandia Mountains on the 12th. Gardens consequently have ripened somewhat slowly. Late fruits not very encouraging. Vineyards somewhat better than expected, but not so good as the public has been led to believe, and although irrigation ditches are pretty well supplied it is with much trouble and expense to gardeners. The highest temperature, 86, on the 15th; lowest, 43, on the 13th. No rain.

Gallinas Springs—Jas. E. Whitmore—Cool, clear, bright weather, dry, and the drought was ripened up rapidly by the rains of the 10th. Ranges also were greatly refreshed and are maturing finely. Stock continue in good condition. High winds have caused considerable "falling" of the apples and pears. Highest temperature, 85 on the 14th and 15th; lowest, 35 on the 12th. Total rainfall, 0.70.

Mesilla Park—Cayetano Thompson.—The weather has been clear, with no trace of rain. Water is scarce and crops are suffering from the drought. The third crop of alfalfa has been harvested with much success. Tomatoes are fast ripening. Highest temperature, 92 on the 16th; lowest, 39 on the 13th.

Ojo Caliente—A. Joseph—Light frost on the 11th, which injured garden truck such as beans, melons and tomatoes. Corn is maturing rapidly, with the promise of an average crop. The stock ranges are short of grass owing to the severe drought which has prevailed here during several weeks past. Highest temperature, 89, on the 13th; lowest, 30, on the 11th. No rainfall.

Santa Fe—U. S. Weather Bureau—A bright, sunny week, although somewhat cooler than usual, and without rain. Harvest and threshing wheat, and cutting the third crop of alfalfa has progressed rapidly and under most favorable conditions. The later fruit crops ripened rapidly and in abundance, but some loss was occasioned by several high winds during the week. The highest temperature was 77 on three days, the lowest, 39, on the 17th.

A LOST ISLAND.

It was a night of pitchy darkness. At four bells in the first watch not a breath of air was moving, the moon shined pale, set by the afternoon and evening rains, hung heavily from the yards or flapped against the masts and rigging as the ship rolled lazily on the long leaden swells of the Pacific ocean. A number of days had passed without an observation of the sun or stars, and they had to run by "dead reckoning," and were not, therefore, sure of their latitude or longitude. They might be nearer danger than they thought.

The captain had gone below at eight bells; but, feeling troubled about the portentous appearance of the weather, was unable to sleep and was on deck again, walking nervously fore and aft, now looking on this side and then on the other side of the quarter deck, looking anxiously into the darkness, then aft, then at the compass and then at the barometer which hung in the cabin gangway. Round and round went the ship, heedless of her helm, and the mercury told the same tale it had told for hours before.

In vain did the eyes of anxious men peer into the darkness. Only ink-blackness met their straining gaze everywhere. This mists stood till six bells, when the mercury began to fall suddenly. The quick jerking voice of the captain was then heard.

"Mr. Smalley, you may take in the light sails."

"Aye, aye, sir," and, stepping to the mainmast called out, "Forward, there!" and was immediately answered, "Forward, sir!" "Stand by the topgallant and the flying jib halyards!"

In a moment he heard the report, "Ready, sir."

Let go the halyards and clew down. Let go the sheets and clew up. That'll do. Belay all. Now jump up and furl them. Be lively, lads!"

While this was going on the captain took another look at the barometer and found the mercury still going down fast. Thoroughly aroused now, he caught his speaking trumpet from the boats and sung out:

"Hold on, there! Down from aloft, every man of you! Call all hands!" Down came the men again.

"All hands ahoy!" was called with great strength of voice at both the cabin and foremast gangways, and then followed one of those scenes which defies such description as would make it intelligible to a landsman, but which any sailor readily understands. The topsails were close reefed, a reef taken in the mainmast, the gill and flying gill and all the light sails were furled, and the ship was ready for the expected gale. But yet no breath of air had been felt moving, while an unnatural stillness and heaviness of the atmosphere was observed by all. Several of the seamen saw a dim, purple streak suddenly appear right ahead of the ship and called out, "Here it comes, sir!"

"Where?" said the captain.

"Right ahead, sir."

"Hard a port your helm!"

"Hard a port it is, sir!"

"Brace round the yards!"

"Aye, aye, sir."

The yards were braced around, and the ship was got ready to receive the expected blast on the larboard tack. That dreadful streak of cloud grew almost crimson, and there was heard what they thought was the heavy roar of the coming gale, and every man seemed to hold his breath awaiting the first gust.

But the ship and the waves that shrank from the terrible onslaught like frightened children. When God speaks in those fearful storms, his voice is awful to the ear, and many a strong man has quailed before it. And the storm itself is scarcely more trying to one's nerves than the moment before it strikes, while men wait in dreadful suspense.

Thus those men waited till the minutes lengthened into hours, and the only change perceptible was in the deepening color of that lowering cloud of crimson light.

Just at midnight their ears were stunned with successive quick reports, louder than whole broadsides from a hundred gun ship. The whole heavens were lighted up with a fiery red light. The ocean was stirred from her profound depths. Great waves, without any visible cause, ran in the most awful combination now striking together and throwing the white foam and spray high in air, then parting, to meet again in fearful embrace as before. A school of sperm whales ran athwart the ship's bows, making every exertion to escape from the strangely troubled water. Within a few seconds the ship an immense column of water was thrown masthead high and fell back again with a roar like Niagara. A deep, mournful moan, like the echo of thunder among mountain caverns, was instantly heard, and none could tell whence it came. The noble ship was tossed and shaken like a plaything.

"Great God, have mercy upon us!" cried officers and men. "What is this? What is coming next? Is it the day of judgment?" The royal psalmist described them accurately—"They reel to and fro and stagger like a drunken man and are at their wits' end."

Soon the mystery was solved, when right before their eyes, about one league from there, there arose the rough sides of a mountain out of the yielding water and reared its head high in air; then from its summit flames burst forth, and melted lava ran like a river down the declivity and fell like a cascade of flame into the seething ocean. It was a birth throes of nature, and an island was born which was miles in circumference.

Two years afterward I sailed right over that place, but the placid water gave no intimation that an island had been there. Yet no man has said that he saw the death and burial of that land whose birth I have thus chronicled.—Exchange.

The New Evil of Tea-Smoking.

Physicians in various parts of the country report an alarming growth of tea-smoking. The habit is contracted by those whose nerves are disordered, who can't sleep, whose digestion is imperfect, whose liver is out of order, who get the "blues" and feel their strength departing. It seems strange that sufferers from the above disorders should not cure themselves with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This is a medicine which whets up the appetite, regulates the bowels, steadies the nerves and induces sound sleep. Those who take it find that it cures dyspepsia, and there is no bad taste in the mouth in the morning, no feeling of weakness after the day's work is done. It is well worth a trial.

Poking Fun at Willie.

The Kron-prinz up and spoke to his father. And now about Bismark, papachen, he inquired, are we sorry? We are mein zion, replied the German Emperor, playfully catching the lad a terrific blow with the horsewhip which he always carries. The noble boy immediately burst into a flood of tears. Such is the perfect sympathy existing between this imperial father and son.

P. E. Butler, of pack-train No. 3, writing from Santiago de Cuba, on July 23, says: "We all had diarrhoea in more or less violent form, and when we landed we had no time to see a doctor, for it was a case of rush and rush night and day to keep the troops supplied with ammunition and rations, but thanks to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, we were able to keep at work and keep our health; in fact, I sincerely believe that at one critical time this medicine was the indirect saviour of our army, for if the packers had been unable to work there would have been no way of getting supplies to the front. There were no roads that a wagon train could use. My comrade and myself had the good fortune to lay in a supply of this medicine for our pack-train before we left Tampa, and I know in four cases it absolutely saved life."

Burlington Route

Burlington trains run on time.

One of the principal reasons for the Burlington's popularity among Colorado travelers is the reliability of its service. Its trains run on time. If the time-card indicates that a certain Burlington train is due in a certain city at a certain hour, it may be depended upon to get there at that time, and not a minute later.

PERSONAL MAGNETISM.

The old house hasn't seen a day of such excitement since that lady entertained a monarch there. His wish was more respected for than that of any prince. And news of him was listened to with care. Of course there was excitement when his mother told us all. That for his father he, in language plain, had several times, with earnest emphasis, been heard to call. And that doubtless he would do it soon again.

His mother and his father and his uncle and his aunt. And the hired girl and the farmhands gathered round.

You'd have thought a famous tenor had arrived to lead a chant. By the way they stood and listened for the sound.

They watched his face for symptoms of an intellectual start. No oracle was ever more revered. And when he smiled and spoke his mother held him to her heart.

And his father and the hired men whooped and cheered. The years have passed above him. He's a grown up man now.

He lectures to the masses oft and long. Success has sometimes passed to place a laurel on his brow. And his mental grasp is wonderfully strong. But he cannot hold an audience in a still, expectant spell.

Though he's been a speaker since he was a lad. As he did when, in the cradle long ago, he couldn't tell. A thing we didn't know, but just said "Dad!"

THE STORM.

A sudden gale had sprung up from the northeast; great black backed gull and feeble winged puffing had been forced aside through the smoking mists inland. Night fell amid the clash of wind and sea. A narrow track winding round the cliffs led past a cottage; light shone from the windows, and in the kitchen were three women. The youngest lay in a trundle bed, a baby against her breast; an old woman, tall, gaunt and white haired, sat at a table, the Bible before her, muttering over familiar passages with awkward lips; the third moved softly about the room preparing supper. She stood a moment by the bed, as the child broke into a long, low wail.

"Poor lamb!" she said. "He frets as if your breast was cold to him."

"Maybe 'tis cold," replied the sick girl indifferently.

"Aye, but not tonight, Nan," the other protested, "and his father out in a storm like this."

"The Lord have mercy on the lad," exclaimed the old woman, glancing up, "he's got that scamp Rab Tapp wi' him in the boat. Scores o' times I've told Joss 'twould be safer to sail 'long o' decent folk."

Nan stirred uneasily. "Rab's as good as the rest o' 'em," she muttered, "and a long ways handier."

"Handy wi' his tongue belike," retorted the old woman, "there ain't his equal for lying in this here parish. 'Tis only reasonable that the Lord should be angered ag'in him, though maybe the Almighty will mind that Joss has been a good son to me and spare the boat."

She was silent a moment, listening to the continuous clatter of the massive door bolts that barred back the storm. "Aye, that Rab," she burst out fiercely, "they should cast him overboard the same as the men o' Joppa cast the prophet Jonah, son of Amittai. Who knows but the Almighty may be speaking now by the voice o' the wind? 'Cast him out, cast him out, and the raging waves o' the sea shall foam upon his shame.'"

"How dare 'ee speak such words as them!" cried the girl, springing up in bed. "The Lord ain't no Moloch to devour men's lives."

"And what's Rab Tapp's life to thee?" replied the other sternly. "It'll become a mother with her first child at breast to be taking such thought for furen men's lives."

"Come, come, mother," interposed the third woman, "let Nan be. Supper's on the table, and you'd feel better for a snatch o' sommat."

"I did well to name 'ee Martha," cried the old woman, turning on her. "Your thoughts be too much taken up wi' the things o' this world. What call have I for life or sup when the great starved sea is hungering after my soul?"

Aye, but Joss, lad, lad," she continued to herself, "and you that fond o' whistling!"

Martha made no answer, but, pouring out a cup of tea, brought it to the sick girl. "Happen 'twill quench your thirst a bit, Nan," she said.

"'Taint that kind o' thirst," replied the other wearily.

"Take it all the same, lass," Martha urged, and the girl drank.

"'Tis salt as the sea!" she exclaimed, pushing the cup from her with a shudder. "Seems as if I knowed the taste o' drowning."

"And well you may," exclaimed the old woman, "when your man is forced so nigh to it."

"Joss will not be drowned," replied her daughter-in-law carelessly. "What for should he be drowned? Oh, my God," she ended, with abrupt change of voice, as the hurrying scream of the storm wrenched its way through the cottage, "why did yer make the sea?"

She flung herself back in the bed, and the child began once more to cry, but she paid no heed to it.

"Poor heart," said Martha, stooping and raising the baby in her arms, "he frets over things." She walked to and fro in the little kitchen, her face pressed close against the child's, her soft brown hair mingling with his soft, downy fluff. "My own chile," she continued meditatively, "was wonderful contented."

"Your own chile!" exclaimed the harsh voiced old woman. "Why, your own chile was born dead!"

"Her was never dead to me," Martha answered gently. "I used to talk a deal to her lying there so close and trustful ag'in my heart. But now I sarter feel that if me and Jim had another chile maybe 'twould be born dead."

"Aye, and no wonder," retorted her mother. "A more shiftless body than Jim I ain't come across, always trapezing round in searching work and never finding it. He's a poor stick. The sea never gave him no call, and you can sit here and eat your victuals content, come storm, come clear."

The sick girl raised herself on her arm. "There's one thing I never could fathom," she exclaimed with sudden interest, "and that's his being own brother to Rab. Why, he ain't no patch on him."

"No," rejoined her mother-in-law sharply. "He's more fool than cheat for certain. If 'twor he out in the boat wi' Joss, happen the Lord might overlook him."

The girl's dark eyes flashed, and Martha interposed in a hurt voice: "Maybe Jim ain't so quick at the take up as Rab, but he's mortal perseverous at trying. After all, Nan," she added, "you ain't never seen Rab but twice."

"No, I ain't never seen him but twice," the girl repeated.

"And when you did meet never spoke much to one 'nother," continued Martha wonderingly.

"No, us never spoke much to one 'nother."

"Aye, certain," exclaimed Martha. "Why, the last time he come in here 'twas a matter of three weeks ago. You was sitting up in front of the fire nursing the chile, and he jest stood over again 'ee by the chimney-piece, sorter thoughtful. 'Do you love it?' he axed, 'do you love it?' but you didn't make no answer. There were his words. Do you mind, Nan?"

"Yes," said the girl softly, "I mind."

"'Twas a queer question I reckoned to put to a mother, but there, you ain't never been terrible up wi' the chile."

"No."

"Maybe you didn't speak to him sorter tender afore you borned him, same as I did my little girl."

"No."

"Yes 'twor my chile that was born dead."

"Aye," the girl answered fiercely, "and ain't mine born dead too?"

The elder woman glanced at her in astonishment. "What ails you, Nan?" she exclaimed. "Why, the poor lamb is calling for the breast."

"I don't hear it call," the girl answered stonily.

Martha looked down with sad eyes at the child on her knee. "You don't love it terrible tender," she said.

The girl, turning away her head, made no reply. Without the storm clamored more fiercely and the faces of the listening women grew white and tense.

"Pray for them at sea," exclaimed Martha, glancing at her mother.

"And ain't I praying for 'em?" expostulated the old woman passionately.

"Say the word aloud, mother, and let us join in."

The old woman clasped her hands, worn with toil, knotted with age, and sank on her knees. Her thin lips trembled, but no words broke from them. Wind and sea, as if in derision at her helplessness, burst into more hideous combat, and the thunder heaved its way through their clamor with a noise like the splitting of mountains.

"O God!" sobbed the woman, "he wor a good son to me, a good son to me." She was silent a moment, and the storm without upheaved itself against the cliffs, rocking the cottage in its heavy embrace. "O God!" she burst forth again, "Ye would have spared Sodom for the sake o' ten righteous men, and 'twor a terrible big and wicked city—spare the boat cause o' Joss! I wouldn't have axed so bold if 'twor a ship, but it's nought but a boat, mortal small and tiddeliwinkie, wi' only dree men and a lad in it, and the lad's a deacon lad come o' respectable church folk, no chappellites a-setting o' their selves up above their betters. Happen you're angered ag'in Rab Tapp, and well you might be, for he's not over and above conspicuous in good works. Still he's young—and youth's luring time—but, if ye be terrible set on cutting him off, and I'll not deny the temptation—then, O Lord God, speak to Joss through the mouth o' the winds, same as ye did the men o' Joppa, so that he shall rise and cast Rab forth into the deep, and the sea shall cease her raging!"

As she uttered the last words the sick girl sprang from the bed and caught the old woman by the shoulders. "How dare 'ee mind the Almighty o' Rab's weaknesses at such a time," she cried passionately.

"And do you reckon that the Lord has forgotten 'em?" replied the old woman in a hard voice. "Ain't they all written in the book o' judgment?"

"There be scores and scores o' folk on the sea tonight," the girl answered, "deal wickeder folk than Rab, and why should the Almighty be special took up wi' he? Oh, 'twas cruel, cruel o' yer to put him in mind o' the lad."

"Ain't the names o' all sailor men written on the same page, that the Lord may read and choose in the twinkling o' an eye? And shall I see my own cast away for fear o' speaking out?" retorted the old woman fiercely. "My firstborn, that lay at my breast and milked me true love. Shame on you to think o' stranger folk afore your own wedded husband."

While she spoke there was the sound of heavy knocking on the door without. Martha crossed the room, shot back the great bolts, and a man, pale faced, drenched and battered, staggered in. The old woman gave an abrupt, keen cry. "My son!" she exclaimed, and would have taken him in her arms, but he put her gently aside and came toward the girl, who stood barefooted on the cold stone floor, her long brown hair curling over her coarse nightgown.

"Nan," he cried, "sweetheart, woman, wife, God's has given me back to 'ee."

"And Rab?" she asked hoarsely.

"The sea has taken his toll. Rab's drowned," he answered.

"'Twas he I loved, not you," she cried and fell at the man's feet as dead.

The Name and the Burden.

Why do you speak of him as the strong man? He isn't put up like a man of great strength.

Ah, but you ought to have seen the load he carried the night of our fraternal banquet.

Everybody Satisfied.

Here's always bound to be kickers, exclaimed Meandering Mike. Did you ever know a time when the people agreed unanimously that dey had de right man in de right place?

Only once, replied Plooding Pete. I was being put into jail on de occasion.

When we read of an elephant hunter who has been trampled to death in the wilds of India, we wonder at the foolhardiness of a man who will travel round the world and endure all manner of hardships, in order to court death in a far away jungle. A man does not have to make a journey to India in order to court death in a manner equally foolhardy.

Thousands of hard working men are daily courting death in a much more certain form, without ever leaving their native villages or cities. They are the men who neglect their health. They are the men who court death from consumption, or some other deadly disease due to improper or insufficient nourishment. The man who suffers from bilious or nervous disorders, who has a weak stomach and an impaired digestion, who has lost the power to eat, rest or sleep, who fails to take prompt steps to remedy these conditions, is courting death in the guise of some fatal malady.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures 98 per cent. of all cases of bronchitis, throat and laryngeal affections that lead up to consumption. It soothes the cough, facilitates expectoration and restores the lost appetite. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, makes the assimilation of the life-giving elements of the food perfect. It invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, nerve tonic and restorative. It is the best of all known remedies for nervous disorders. Dealers sell it and have nothing else "just as good."

"I had a bad cough and got so hoarse with it that I could not sit up," writes Mrs. Mittie Gray, of New London, Conn. Co., Ark. "Our family physician told my husband that I had consumption. I had pains through my chest and spit up blood. I took your Golden Medical Discovery and it cured me. It saved my life."

THE SONG OF THE CLICK.

With fingers shriveled and bent, With eyes that are never at rest, A general who bore a profusion of gilt, Set working the typewriter keys.

Click, click, click! In arrogance, folly and pride He thumped the old keys with a long precise tread case. And smoothly and neatly he lied.

"We've beaten the Yankees again, We've won the whole lot with their gore, We've set their big fleet in a shameful retreat. And their loss is a thousand or more!"

"Our gunners have filled 'em with woe, Their cruisers are pitiful wrecks. If our triumphs hold good—and of course they should— We'll soon have our feet on their necks!"

"Our losses are really so small— They are small as the failures to fight— That I know you'll make sport when I gravely report The only one killed is a mule!"

"Their blockade is flimsy and weak, Our Morros the Yankees all fear, And our wealth of supplies would gladden 'em— We've too much to eat for a year!"

Click, click, click! Along in the beaten old rut Poor Blanco's fakes go, for the don doesn't know That the very last cable is cut!

Drifts From Billville.

The government has decreed a stamp tax for checks on money in bank. This will not affect us, as we buried ours some time ago and have forgotten where it's located.

If these war taxes continue, people will find it cheaper to join the army and fight for their country.

The president contemplates a third call for volunteers. If they keep on cutting around the tree, they'll get to us after awhile.

The Billville brigade captured a wa-termelon patch recently. Fall reports are now coming in.

We would join the army if our old general could command us. But he died soon after Lee's surrender, and that lets us out of it.

The Spaniards announce the capture of an American camp kitchen. This will be a godsend to them, as all their reports are "cooked."

MINOR CITY TOPICS.

City council meets tonight.

U. S. weather bureau forecast for New Mexico: Generally fair tonight and Friday.

Republican county convention to select 16 delegates to the territorial convention at Albuquerque meets in the court house at 10 o'clock tomorrow forenoon.

Dr. Knapp, assisted by Dr. Harroun, performed this morning a very delicate and successful operation on Mr. Theodore Joseph, the superintendent of the National cemetery.

The territorial game wardens have received word from the national fish commissioner, that a large consignment of trout and bass will be sent to this territory within the next 60 days.

A party of archaeologists, representing the American museum of natural history and the Peabody museum of New York City, are examining a prehistoric city in Bonito canon on a tributary of the Chaco river.

Yesterday the thermometer at the local weather bureau registered as follows: Maximum temperature, 77 degrees at 1:45 p. m.; minimum, 51 degrees at 4:15 a. m. The mean temperature for the 24 hours was 64 degrees.

Justice Gorman held Antonio Ortega, the policeman, charged with shooting Pablo Martinez in the sum of $1,500 bail on yesterday on a hearing of the case, although Ortega made out a strong case of justification. Martinez, the wounded man, is getting on quite well.

The meeting held at Odd Fellows hall last night, under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World, was largely attended and successful in every way. Deputy Sovereign Commander Gann gave an interesting talk on Woodcraft, and after the public meeting was dismissed, two new members were initiated in the mysteries of the order.

Jose M. Garcia, justice of the peace of precinct No. 17, announces himself as a candidate for re-election; this at the request of many friends. The justice of the peace election does not take place until January next, but Mr. Garcia believes in the advice, that in the justice of the peace business, the early bird catches the official worm.

The small-pox patient, Julian Montoya, is on the road to recovery. Dr. Knapp has seen to it that the premises are put in a cleanly condition, and a small yellow flag is nailed over the front door, where beneath is the legend, "Small-pox here." The mayor says he intends to take the strictest pains in preventing contagion, and will keep a sharper watch than ever on any case of suspected disease that he can learn of.

The very swift young escaper who skipped from the penitentiary by the light of the cold, pale moon the other night, has been located by Assistant Warden Merrill and guards after a long, hard, untiring search. The nimble gentleman struck out in the direction of the orient after leaping off the penitentiary wall, then took a northerly course, then southwesterly, then again he struck the Santa Fe river just above the reservoir. There he entered the river and by making that his roadway, he threw the dogs off the scent. However, the officers were indefatigable and finally located the fugitive somewhere among the Penitentes in Chimayo on the Santa Cruz river. As the convict is a Penitente, his compadres at the settlement are doing all in their power to hide and shield him. The warden has the place guarded, and the recapture of El Don Sr. Estrupillo is merely a matter of time.

Wheat is getting to be a bigger factor in local products than ever, and there are now five large flouring mills in the valley doing a rushing business.

Los Alamos, N. M., Sept. 20, 1898.—A great many good solid names have been recommended through your columns and others. Of course lawyers are more naturally inclined to be our statesmen, now why not let the lawyers to one side for once, and run a thorough business man for our next delegate. Surely a good level business man has our welfare at heart and will accomplish much more than our great lawyer friends, start the ball a rolling. I say let us put on the top of the Republican ticket Charles Hild, of Las Vegas, that is if Mr. Charles will accept.

Murder in San Juan County.
On Saturday morning last, at La Plata, Riley Scott was shot and killed by Robert Caviness. As near as can be learned, Scott, who was quite an old man, was sitting in Paddock's store when Caviness and his son Barney drove up in a wagon, Caviness going into the store and attempting to start a quarrel with Scott. That falling he struck the old man over the head and then shot him twice through the stomach, the wounds causing death in about an hour afterward.

Caviness jumped into the wagon after firing the shots, and with his son started the horses on a run to escape. Robert Caviness, who did the shooting, succeeded in getting out of the country, but Barney Caviness was caught and is now in jail at Aztec charged with being an accessory to the crime. It is claimed that the killing was unprovoked and premeditated, and Caviness in the country runs high over the affair.
