THE PEACE JUBILEE

Chicago's Great Peace Fiesta Opened in the Auditorium Before 8,000 People.

GREAT DAY FOR SPEECHES

President McKinley, General Miles, Judge Emory Speer, General Duffield, Secretary Wilson, Archbishop Ireland, Mayor Harrison and Others Speak.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Eight thousand people, packed within the Auditorium building today, witnessed the formal opening exercises of the national peace jubilee. Chairman Charles Traux, of the jubilee committee, introduced the presiding officer, George R. Peck, who spoke on the significance of the celebration. Mayor Harrison delivered the formal address of welcome to President McKinley. The president, who received an enthusiastic welcome, made no formal reply to the addresses. Archbishop Ireland spoke next, and was followed by Judge Emory Speer, of Georgia, who made the closing address. During the afternoon five meetings were held in different parts of the city. Among the orators were General Miles, General Duffield, Booker T. Washington and Secretary Wilson.

At the conclusion of the program there were loud calls of "McKinley!" The president stepped to the front and said: "My fellow citizens, I have been deeply moved by this demonstration; deeply touched by the expression of patriotism uttered by distinguished men so eloquently in your presence. It is gratifying to all of us to know that this never-ceasing desire for a war of humanity, the last ship that sailed from the harbor of Havana before the war was declared was an American ship that had taken to the suffering people of Cuba supplies furnished by American charity (applause), and the first ship to sail into the harbor of Santiago was another American ship bearing food supplies to the suffering Cubans (applause). And I am sure it is the universal prayer of American citizens that just acts and humanity and civilization shall characterize the final settlement of peace as they have distinguished the progress of the war." My countrymen, when currents of destiny flow through the hearts of a people, who will check them? Who can divert them? Who can stop them? And the movements of men planned and designed by the Master of men will never be interrupted by the American people."

The Colon Will be Raised.

THE DIPLOMATIC SNAG.
Cuban Debt's Assumption by the United States Still Insisted On by the Spanish Commissioners.

Paris, Oct. 18.—The Gaulois today reviews yesterday's session of the joint peace commission, referring to the delay caused by the differences in language spoken by the commissioners, and adds: "But according to the Spaniards, the main cause of the difficulty encountered in the negotiations is a lack of conciliation in the attitude of the American commission. Spain concedes Puerto Rico to the United States and abandons sovereignty over Cuba. But the question of the Cuban debt remains and neither power is inclined to yield." The proposition alleged to have been made yesterday by the Spanish commissioners to surrender to the United States the entire Philippine group rather than that Spain should be held responsible for the Cuban debt, did not take the officials here by surprise. It was recognized immediately as only another phase of the Spanish effort to connect the Philippines and Cuba in the negotiations.

BLIZZARD STRICKEN.
Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska Enshrouded with a Bone Penetrating Storm—Much Damage Done to Stock.

Kansas City, Oct. 18.—Freezing weather followed yesterday's storm of rain and snow in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. A strong wind is still blowing and the wire communication, so badly demoralized yesterday north and west, has been only partially restored. At most places the cut has been ascertained today, snow ceased falling about midnight, when the thermometer began to drop. Last night communication with Topeka, Wichita, Omaha and Denver, shut off for 15 hours, was reopened. This morning, however, the freezing snow caked on the wires, again making the service uncertain, but at 10 a. m. Denver was reached, although imperfectly. Omaha is almost completely shut off. Brief news of suffering on the open prairies, where stock was unprotected, has been received, but enough to say that great damage to cattle will result. Predictions are still for rain or snow.

Persons Seeking Employment Have Rights Which Must Be Respected by Labor Unions—Injunction Against Strikers Granted.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 18.—Judge Hammond, of the United States circuit court, granted the application of the American Steel and Wire Company for injunction against the striking wire drawers today. The injunction is a blanket one and applies to all defendants named in the petition and any others who may hereafter interfere with employees of the company. The court held that those seeking employment have rights the labor unions and strikers are bound to respect, and the one right of each citizen is that of unobstructed access to any place where work is to be done and over streets and highways used as approaches to such places.

TRYING TO BE SLY AND CUTE.

Spanish Commissioners at Paris Inciting Holders of Cuban Bonds to Persuade Uncle Sam to Guarantee Them.
Washington, Oct. 18.—It is hoped, though hardly expected, by officials here that yesterday's proceedings before the peace commission at Paris marked the high tide of Spanish opposition, and that from now on the Spanish commissioners will retire gradually from their extreme position.

The opinion prevails that the purpose of the Spaniards is to work upon the sympathies of other European nations, while appealing to the interests of holders of Cuban bonds. These are purely Spanish securities, which would be affected by sympathy from Spanish argument, directed to showing that the United States must assume sovereignty; and the Spanish position is interpreted as a bid for the intervention of foreign bond holders.

La Fayette Day Exercises.

As tomorrow will be "La Fayette Day" there will be no school in the city schools. At 10 o'clock appropriate exercises will be held in the University building, for which an interesting program has been prepared. "NO SUFFERING AMONG THE SICK."

So Testified Chief Surgeon Maus, of 7th Army Corps, to the Conditions at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 18.—The war investigating commission began the examination of witnesses at Jacksonville today. Colonel Louis Maus, chief surgeon of the 7th army corps, said when orders came for the establishment of division hospitals, there was some delay in getting supplies, such as tents. There was no suffering among the sick. "Nor," added the doctor, "do I think the world has ever seen a parallel to our present case of the sick." He thought typhoid had been introduced in the camps by Mississippi and Virginia troops. Shallow wells and surface drainage had done much toward developing the scourge. He also thought flies disseminated the fever.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 18.—The river steamer, Potter, which left Portland at midnight for Astoria, collided with the steamer Shaver, bound up from Clatskanie this morning, off Martyr's Islands. The Shaver sank in eight minutes. Twenty-five of the passengers were rescued by the crew of the Potter.

Laredo Democratic Politicians Padding School Census by Importing Mexican Children Across the Rio Grande.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 18.—The grand jury of Webb county has found nearly 20 indictments against parties for school census frauds. More than 1,000 fraudulent names have been discovered on the rolls of the public schools of Laredo through importing Mexican children across the Rio Grande.

These indictments are the result of charges made by Barrett Gibbs, populist candidate for Governor, that during the last seven years over $3,000,000 of state school funds have been paid out in southwestern Texas to political tools of the state administration on the school census padding plan.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION AT EDDY.

Three Candidates for County Offices Are Nominated, and Delegates Are Chosen to the Legislative Convention.

Eddy county Republicans met in convention at Eddy on Monday, the 9th, with W. L. McEwan as chairman and G. W. Otis as secretary. A platform was adopted and the following resolution passed: Whereas, There is dissatisfaction in the ranks of the Democratic party of Eddy county, and charges of dishonesty in conducting primaries, that so far we will nominate men to fill these offices as to place such a ticket before the voters of the county as will give them an opportunity to secure honest, straightforward and consistent men for the administration of county affairs. That as the time is limited for making a thorough canvass of the county, we, your committee, recommend that this convention place in nomination, not a full ticket, but candidates only for the offices of treasurer and collector, assessor and superintendent of schools.

These candidates for county offices were then placed in nomination: Treasurer and collector, J. F. Matheson; assessor, Frank Rheinboldt; county school superintendent, A. N. Pratt. The convention then decided to endorse the other officers on the Democratic ticket, incorporating them with the three Republicans on a ticket to be known as the Republican ticket.

As the Argus says: The Republicans expect to make a strong fight for their ticket, and certainly in their contention evidenced most convincingly that their sole desire is that the officials of Eddy county shall be competent and honest men. They are not seeking partisan advantage, but say to every business man and property owner in Eddy county, we offer you a ticket which it is your interest to vote.

The company demanded full fare, whereupon the laborers took possession of a car and beat off the train hands who opposed them, until the train men finally cut off the car and left it on a siding. Then the rioters cooled down.

Yellow Jack in the Army.

"It isn't the number of men that yellow fever kills that frightens you," said a soldier, "but the unexpected suddenness of its attack, and the rapidity with which it kills." A man is well and hearty at 3 P. M.; at 4 P. M. he is dead; at 5 P. M. he is buried. The man who dies of yellow fever sometimes digs trenches right up to within four hours of his burial. In much the same manner men will work day after day in apparent health, and then suddenly appear a general weakness. The body is giving out. It needs something to strengthen it, to tone up the stomach, and assist digestion. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is highly recommended. It is the best tonic ever made.

Three Doctors in Consultation.

From Benjamin Franklin.
"When you are sick, what you like best is to be looked after by a medical man in the first place; what experience tells you is best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason (i. e., Theory) says is best is to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inclination, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best advice that can be taken."

When you have a bad cold Dr. Inclination would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take. Dr. Experience would recommend it because it never fails to effect a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition. A WINDSTORM ON THE CARIBBEAN.

One day upon the white, brown veined sand upon a aerial spirit. Fell now he bore, scarce had he passed when, let upon the shore struck in deep moans many a steel clad hand Of the waves army. Then 'twixt sea and land rose the siren strife, high raging more and more.
Till all the land lay sodden, wet and sore, And the sea soldiers' plumes with fury fanned, Caught in the conflict, lashed the sandy palm, hair, far, far, sat among the gleaming host Of billows robed a ship that prayed for calm And sunny heavens. As a weeping ghost She dripped and shivered till, like a sweet psalm.
The sea sang, and she saw the smiling coast.

THE REAL BURGLAR.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

From the time I could read the life and adventures of "Sixteen String Jack" up to a few months ago I had a profound admiration for the highwayman. Next to the highwayman came the burglar. I don't know but he was an equal favorite in my imagination. For years I left doors unlocked and windows open, hoping a burglar would call, but for reasons unknown to me my house was avoided.

A few weeks ago I was left to keep bachelor's hall while the rest of the family paid a visit in the country. One night at midnight, as I peacefully slept in my bed, something happened to arouse me. It took me a minute or two to discover what that something was, but I made no mistake. A man stood over me with a cocked revolver held close to my head, and as he saw that I was awake he growled:

"Now, then, I want to talk to yer. If yer go to raisin any row, yer'll git a bullet plumb through yer head."
"Who are you?" I asked.
"Yer kin call me most any name."
"And what do you want here?"
"I'm after the swag."
"Then you must be a burglar?"
"Fur sure."

So my burglar had come at last. I sat up in bed to get a good look at him, and after one glance I felt sick at heart. The burglar of my imagination had always looked the gentleman. This fellow was a low browed, common looking man who hadn't been shaved for a week even if he had washed his face or combed his hair during that period. He not only looked common, but he looked low minded and tricky. I had always given a burglar credit for wearing good clothes, but this man had on a cheap suit, and it was badly worn in spots. I was disappointed and disgusted, and he saw I was and asked:

"Are you sure that you are a burglar?" I queried.

"Of course I am. Haven't I bin arrested five or six times and served two different sentences for burglary?"
"That may be, but I had a different idea of the fraternity. You are not an intelligent looking man. You wear very shabby clothes. You can't speak ten words without making a slip in your grammar. Be candid with me. Aren't you a chap who got in here by mistake? Wasn't it your plan to rob the clothes-line or steal something from the wood shed?"

"What yer givin me, ole man?" he exclaimed as he tapped me on the head with the muzzle of his pistol. "After I gits through with yer yer'll think I'm a burglar fast 'nuff. Git over ag'in the wall! Now, then, if yer move a finger I'll bore yer!"

One side of my bed stood against the wall, and I moved over at his bidding. My clothing hung on a chair at the foot of the bed, and he laid down his pistol and picked up the garments in succession and searched them. From my trousers he took a roll of money amounting to about $40, from my vest a gold watch, from the breast pocket of my coat some papers of no value to him, and after a glance he returned them. On the dresser was my diamond scarfpin, and when he had placed that with the other plunder I said:

"I have always believed that men were driven to burglary through poverty or misfortune or unjust treatment. Now I see that's not the case. I want unthinkin dead easy," he replied, with a solemn wink of his left eye.

"And doesn't a burglar's conscience trouble him now and then?"
"I never heard if it did. If the pur loose lets us alone, our consciences are all right. Where's the rest of the stuff, ole man?"

"Are you asking if I have anything else of value you can carry off?"
"Fur sure! This is no haul. There ain't 'nuff money in this to pay me fur walkin half a mile."
"It will figure up close to $300, and it seems to me that is pretty fair pay for an hour's work."

"Set up. Now, then, git out bed."
"What for?"
"I'm goin to tie yer fast while I ransack the crib. Where's the wife and children?"

"Out in the country."
"That's good. I'll hev the crib all to myself. Put on yer trousers. Now sit down."
He placed the chair against the radiator, and as I sat down he whipped a sheet off the bed, tore it in strips and tied me to both chair and radiator. He was nervous and alarmed all the time, but attempted to hide it by bluster. I finally told him that he ought to be ashamed of such nerve and was rewarded by a cuff on the ear which kept my head ringing for five minutes. When he had secured me to his satisfaction, he looked me over and said:

"I'm goin down into the kitchen for smthin to eat, and if yer try any tricks on me it'll be the wuss fur yer."
"It is no use to go down," I replied. "There has been nothing to eat in the house since the folks went away a week ago."

"Then I'll hev to go hungry. Let's see what's in this safe deposit." Let's see what's in this safe deposit. He opened all the drawers in the dresser in rotation. There were a few old pieces of jewelry, half a dozen old coins and the baby's savings bank, containing 119 pennies.

"You wouldn't rob a baby, would you?" I asked as he poured the pennies into the pocket of his sack coat.

"And why not?" he queried with a cunning leer. "It's the business of a burglar to take all what comes."
"Well, that's another disappointment. I supposed the burglar to be above robbing infants of their pennies. If I'd had the least idea that any such man as you was around, I'd have taken precautions to keep you out. By the way, how did you enter?"

"By the kitchen door."

"Yes, I left it unlocked in order to save a burglar time and trouble. Where are you going now?"
"I'll take a look about. If yer yell out or try to git away, I'll be right on to yer in a minute!"

He left the bedroom and went down the hall, and I heard him in the guest's chamber and the servant's room. He was gone about ten minutes, and when he came back he was in bad temper. As I wasn't stocked up for burglars he had found no other plunder.

"Look here, cully!" he growled as he stood looking me up. "I haven't found no bankbook yet." "I haven't found no bankbook yet." "I haven't found no bankbook yet." "I haven't found no bankbook yet."

"But if yer don't bank yer sugar where is it?"
"Whenever I have a dollar left I give it to the Society of Reformed Burglars."
"Oh, yer does, eh? Well, I want more money. See? Yer got money hid somewhere, and if yer don't shell out I'll cripple yer!"

"You've got every dollar in the house."
With that he pulled up a chair, sat down, took a match from his pocket and lifted one of my bare feet on his knee. He was going to burn the sole of my foot to make me betray the hiding place of my cash.

"Will yer tell or take this?" he demanded as he scratched the match on the floor.

I was about to answer when I saw the form of a policeman in the door. He had seen lights flickering about my stairs, had entered the yard to find the side door and the kitchen door open. Suspecting that all was not right, he had entered the house and looked about and made his way up stairs. My burglar had his back to the door. As he held the lighted match in his fingers the officer stepped forward and gave him a blow with his club, which knocked him off the chair and seemed for awhile to have finished his career. When the handcuffs had been slipped on his wrists, I was untied, and the officer and I sat down to compare notes and wait for the fellow to regain consciousness.

We didn't hasten matters by the use of brandy or water or a palm leaf fan. We gave him all the time he wanted, and meanwhile I went through him and recovered my own. After a long half hour my burglar opened his eyes and sat up and inquired:

"What's goin on here?"
"Nothing much," I answered. "You were not satisfied with taking all I had, but were going to torture me in hopes of getting another shilling or two. This officer came in just then and cracked your head."

"And I'm a prisoner?"
"You are."

"Say, gents, I'm a poor, unfortunate man and was driven to this, and I hope yer'll take pity on me," he whined, having no more pluck than a child.

"I thought burglars were brave, determined men," I said.

"No, sir, they are not. If yer'll let me go, I'll leave this part of the country and never come back. Gents, think of me as a old mother."

"What! Do burglars have dear old mothers to weep and worry when arrested and prison come?"
"Yes, sir, and my wife will be so upset that she won't be able to go to her washin."

"Then you are the husband of a wash woman?"
"It's true, sir. See, gents—I'm weepin. I'm as sorry as I kin be, and if yer'll let me go I'll never even steal an apple as long as I live. Try me, gents—try a broken hearted, sorrowful man, who must have been walkin in his sleep, or he'd never hev got in here."

And that was my ideal, my hero, my burglar. He had come after a score of years of waiting, and I had found him ignorant, vicious and only a step above the brute. I went away and sat down by the hall window and gave way to my grief and disappointment, while the officer lifted the mudsill to his feet and walked him down stairs and escorted him to the station. I hoped the man might nerve up and become a hero as he faced the judge and jury; but, alas, he pleaded guilty, shed tears when sentenced, and as they took him away he turned back to me and whispered:

"Yes, sir, I'm a burglar, and I axes yer humble parding fur disturbin yer sleep that night."

"Automatic Photography."

An automatic photograph of a deer taken at midnight is one of the marvels of photography. This was secured by means of an automatic arrangement devised by Charles Hughes of Red Bluff, Cal. By a mechanical device the deer, in touching a linen thread while moving along a rail at midnight, put in action the movement which opened the camera, flashed the magnesium powder and then closed the shutter.

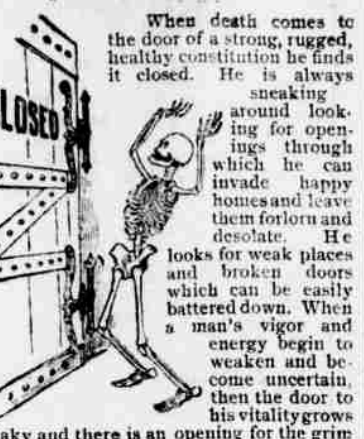

Activity Accented For.

"I have been reading," said Mrs. Darley, "Lord Kelvin's astounding statement that there are 1,000,000,000 molecules in a cubic inch of gas and that in each of these molecules there are several atoms moving among themselves at the rate of 70 miles a minute."
"Gracious!" replied Mr. Darley. "It is any wonder that the gas meter is endowed with perpetual motion?"—Detroit Free Press.

OZUNA, Register.

When death comes to the door of a strong, rugged, healthy constitution he finds it closed. He is always seeking around looking for openings through which he can invade happy homes and leave them forlorn and desolate. He looks for weak places and broken doors which can be easily broken down. When a man's vigor and energy begin to weaken and become uncertain, then the door to his vitality grows shaky and there is an opening for the grim visitor to enter.

It is commonly said that people die of old age, but the truth is they die of constitutional weakness. If more people realized this they would understand why the great "Golden Medical Discovery" invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., cures so many cases of lunging, coughs, throat, bronchial, and kindred affections of the air passages. It gives thorough abundant constitutional vitality. It gives the digestive and blood-making organs, where consumption usually begins, power to do their work completely so that no poisonous drugs can get into the circulation to fasten on the lungs and vital tissues.

"I have been troubled with bronchitis for several years," writes Mrs. Maria O'Hara of Perth Amboy, N. J. "In the first place I had sore throat; doctored with different doctors and took various medicines, but got no lasting relief. We made up our minds to try the medicine advertised as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After I had taken one bottle we thought we could see a little change. We sent and got another bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and so on until we had better results. I took them alternately, and in a few days I began to see some better results. I took two of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of 'Favorite Prescription', and, really, I have felt as well as in years. I sleep better than I have in twenty years."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice, a 1000 page illustrated book, will be sent free by the World's Dispensary Medical Association for 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, or a more substantial cloth-bound volume for 31 stamps.
