SANTA FE, N. M., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1898.

NO. 227.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

The new goods purchased by S. Spitz, the jeweler, while east, are now being placed for public inspection. They consist of a fine line of decorated china and glassware. New ideas in silver novelties, ebony and leather goods and fancy clocks. These goods in connection with the usual large line of diamonds watches and jewelry always found in his cases will give the Santa Fe public an opportunity for selection seldom found outside of the large cities.

OJO CALIENTE

(HOT SPRINGS.)

THESE Celebrated Hot Springs are located in the midst of the Ancient Cliff Dwellers, twenty-five miles west of Taos, and fifty miles north of Santa Fe, and about twelve miles from the Denver & Rio Grande Railway, from which point a daily line of stages runs to the Springs. The temperature of these waters is from 100 to 125°. The gases are carbolic. Altitude 6,000 feet. Climate very dry and delightful the year round. There is now a commodious hotel for the convenience of invalids and tourists. These waters contain 100.34 grains of alkaline salts to the gallon; being the richest alkaline Hot Springs in the world. The efficacy of these waters has been thoroughly tested by the miraculous cures attained in the following diseases: Paralysis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Consumption, Malaria, Bright's Disease of the Kidney, Syphilis and Mercurial Affections, Scrofula, Catarrh, La Grippe, all Female Complaints, etc., etc. Board, Lodging and Bathing, $2.50 per day. Reduced rates given by the month. This resort is attractive at all seasons and is open all winter. Passengers for Ojo Caliente can leave Santa Fe at 10:30 a. m. and reach Ojo Caliente at 5 p. m. the same day. Fare for the round trip from Santa Fe to Ojo Caliente, $7. IT IS FINISHED

All Points Susceptible of Agreement Settled Between the Joint Peace Commissions,

BUT SPAIN IS SO VERY SORE

Over the Loss of Her Colonies That She May Finally Refuse to Sign the Treaty—France Too Feeling Bad.

Paris, Dec. 8.—The treaty is finished, Judge Day said today: "We have settled all the points on which there is any possibility of agreement." Only engrossing remains.

The Spaniards refused today to cede to the United States a coaling station in the Caroline Islands. The Madrid papers are disposed to revive the question of the Maine and create public opinion against the United States on account of the reference made to this in President McKinley's message. They report that Senator Montero Rios, president of the Spanish commission, made an impassioned denunciation of President McKinley at the last joint meeting of the commissions. However, these reports are practically without foundation.

Senator Rios referred to the Maine incident, but only in a calmly worded sentence, expressing regret that the president had spoken, as Spaniards thought, unjustly of them. The Spaniards had already proposed this conference to have the responsibility of the Maine reported upon by a joint commission of European powers. The American commissioners refused to listen to this and permitted Rios' reference to the president's message to pass unchallenged, as discussion would have provoked bad blood.

The French government is reported as resolved to take up the case of the French holders of Cuban bonds, and it is believed that France will declare that the repudiation of the bonds is the result of the treaty a victorious nation has imposed upon Spain. They agree that through the treaty, the responsibility has been shifted upon America, and, therefore, the French government will endeavor to exact some pledge for payment or guarantee of the bonds.

The American peace commissioners entered the joint conference today in a nervous frame of mind, having reasons to believe a possibility existed even at this late hour, for a rupture, as the Spanish commissioners do not conceal the fact that, having failed to gain all important points, they were indifferent as to whether the conference resulted in signing a treaty by which Spain loses all of her colonies.

Safe Safely Sacked.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 8.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Arrowsmith, Ill., says that the private bank of Taylor & McClure was entered last night by robbers who secured $4,000 worth of negotiable paper after wrecking the safe with dynamite. Blood hounds are being used to track the robbers.

MOST OF THE CREW SAVED.

Forty-five Survivors Were Rescued by Another British Steamer and Are Brought Safely to Port.

Philadelphia, Dec. 8.—The British steamer Vedmore, from Liverpool, passed Cape Henry last night and reported she had on board 45 of the crew of 58 men belonging to the steamer Londonian. The Londonian sailed from Boston November 15 for London, and was later sighted, abandoned. This is the first news of the crew; the Londonian has undoubtedly gone down.

FURTHER DETAILS.

Boston, Dec. 8.—A dispatch received at the office of the Furness Line Steamship Company from Baltimore, announced that Captain Lee and 24 of the crew of the Londonian were lost, but 45 survivors were rescued by the steamer Vedmore. The lost include Lee and the first and third officers and first and third engineers.

Fell Asleep on their Bikes.

New York, Dec. 8.—"Dutchman" Waller, took the lead in the six days bicycle race at 2 o'clock this morning and passed the 1,200 mark at 4:30. At 5 o'clock Miller was third, Pierce having dashed by him. At 8 o'clock, Pierce was once more at the top string. Albert climbed to second place at 4 o'clock. But at six he left the track and lost some advantage. Several riders fell asleep on their wheels. At 8 o'clock Pierce was 37 miles behind the best record made by Miller last year.

The score at 2 p. m. was: Waller, 1,323 miles; Miller, 1,320; Pierce, 1,307; Albert, 1,291; Stevens, 1,260; Gimm, 1,205; Hale, 1,157; Lawson, 1,161; Aronson, 1,173; Nawn, 1,156; Forester, 1,081; Schinner, 1,085; Joyeux, 1,024; Turville, 1,018; Julius, 1,019.

ALLEGED BLACKMAILER MAY ESCAPE.

A Hung Jury in the Case of Mrs. Margaret Cody, Who Wrote Questionable Letters to the Goulds.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 8.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Margaret E. Cody, alleged blackmail, after being out since 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, came into court and asked for an explanation of the penal code regarding blackmail. After this was read, they again retired. Mrs. Cody has been on trial for eight days on indictments for blackmail found against her in April last, the indictments alleging she wrote blackmailing letters to George Gould and Miss Helen Gould about the suit of Mrs. Angell to establish dower rights in Jay Gould's estate. The jury stands 8 for conviction to 4 for acquittal.

At 2 o'clock the jury in the Cody trial came in, and their foreman announced they had taken several ballots and had not agreed on a verdict. They were sent back for further deliberation.

GENERAL STERNBERG TALKS.

He Wanted to Prepare His Department for Emergencies, But Was Told the Policy Was to Wait.

Washington, Dec. 8.—The conduct of the medical service of the army was taken up today by the war investigating commission and Surgeon General Sternberg was rigidly questioned. He said the medical department was equipped only for an army of 25,000 men when war broke out. From year to year the estimates he had submitted were materially reduced by congress. So soon as there was a prospect of war he began preparations, but when he suggested to Secretary Alger the propriety of making purchases for his service, "the policy was to wait."

At one time there were 650 contract surgeons employed, and he conceded it was a mistake not to have appointed more contract surgeons from those who had had experience in the civil war. The regimental surgeons were good, bad and indifferent, but he recollected no instance of dismissal for incompetency.

The Law's Interminable Delays.

Paris, Dec. 8.—The court of cassation this afternoon ordered a stay of proceedings in the Pinquart court martial.

Got a Jury at Last.

San Francisco, Dec. 8.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Cordelia Botkin, accused of murdering Mrs. John P. Dunning of Dover, Dela., was completed this morning.

Till Robbed Under his Eyes.

Clifton, Calif., Dec. 8.—The local postoffice was robbed last night by two masked men who emptied the till in the presence of the postmaster. The robbers escaped.

The Poor, Bismarck Bitten East.

Buffalo, Dec. 8.—Continued high winds are causing a serious delay of railway traffic today. The snow is drifting as fast as the railway companies can remove it, and a number of trains have been abandoned.

Woman Burned to Death.

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 8.—Mrs. L. K. Kent, aged 74, was burned to death last night. She was filling a coal oil lamp by candle light, when the candle fell over and ignited the oil. The flames caught the woman's clothing. Mrs. Kent came from Denver.

CUBANS IMITATE DONNYBROOK

In Their Method of Observing the Anniversary of Antonio Maceo's Death—Cuban Captain in Jail.

Santiago de Cuba, Dec. 8.—Cubans here are much excited over yesterday's disturbance resulting from commemorating the death of Antonio Maceo. Bullets fired by insurgents near the trocha struck the 10th immunes' camp, and three drunken Cubans entered a Spanish club, where they smashed chandeliers and furniture. Decent Cubans deeply deplore the outrage.

Colonel Beacom, acting military commander, today arrested Juan Castillo, a captain in the Cuban army, who led his negro companions into the club.

Wandered off and Perished.

Ouray, Colo., Dec. 8.—George Howard and Frank Hyde, froze to death last night, and their bodies have been brought down from Ironton. They wandered off the road and perished.

BOUND FOR HAVANA.

Illinois and North Carolina Troops En Route for the Cuban Capital—Quartermaster's Department in Good Shape.

Washington, Dec. 8.—The steamer Roumania sailed today from Savannah, Ga., carrying the entire 1st North Carolina regiment and part of the 2d, to serve as part of the Havana garrison. The 2d Illinois regiment is loading today at Savannah for the same destination. The quartermaster's department is making satisfactory progress in preparing docks, railroads and camp sites in the neighborhood of Havana for the reception of troops.

Wild Beast Hunt in Colorado.

Debuque, Colo., Dec. 8.—One hundred and fifty sportsmen from all parts of the state assembled here today, to participate in a grand hunt for wild beasts under the auspices of the West Slope Hunting Association. The hunt will continue for three days.

Anti-Saloon League Election.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 8.—The anti-saloon league elected the following officers today: President, H. M. Miram Price of Washington; vice president, Rev. Luther B. Wilson of Washington; second vice president, Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul; superintendent, Rev. H. H. Russell of Ohio; secretary, James L. Erwin of Washington; treasurer, William C. Lilly of Pennsylvania.

SOME CLINCHING EVIDENCE.

Further Clues in the Mysterious Murder of Elliot L. Duckworth, Found Dying in St. Louis Two Years Ago.

St. Louis, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Eva C. Hutchinson, of Hutchinson, Kan., throws more light on the mysterious shooting of her brother, Elliot L. Duckworth, in this city, July 14, 1897. She says the letter that deceived her brother from his home was handed him at Nichols Junction, Mo., six miles from Springfield, the day before the shooting, by the stranger. She says the stranger was Doling or his agent. The man also furnished him with money to buy a ticket to St. Louis. This stranger asked Duckworth if he possessed a revolver. He received an affirmative reply. The stranger then bought a revolver. This same weapon, with only one chamber empty, was found by Duckworth's side in Forest park next day.

The Farmers "Still Talking."

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 8.—D. G. Purcell of Savannah, Ga., addressed the farmers national congress today, his subject being "Railway Discrimination." A. E. Stillwell of Kansas City read a paper entitled "the past and the future condition of railroads in the west and south west."

BIG PENSION ROLLS

Senator Vest Says the Government is Paying Out Now Annually $141,000,000 in Pensions.

IT IS TIME TO CALL A HALT

Bulwer-Clayton Treaty with Great Britain to Be Modified Allowing United States to Operate in Isthmus of Darien.

Washington, Dec. 8.—At the opening of today's session, the senate decided that adjournment would be until Monday. It was also decided to give an hour of today's session to consideration of pension bills.

Senator Vest, of Missouri, said: "I do not want to be captious about this pension business, and do not want to set myself up as a reformer, but this passing of a lot of pension bills simply by reading titles not present, has got to be stopped. Recent events have obliterated sectionalism, and we are united. We can therefore come here and object to this legislation—I use the word advisedly—without any fear of having our motives impugned or our words misconstrued. We are paying out in round figures, $141,000,000 annually in pensions. It is our duty to find out why, 33 years after the close of the civil war, pension claims amount to so enormous a sum.

"I have been criticised by some of my people because I have not taken a more determined stand on this pension question. I want, however, to pay pensions liberally, as I regard such payment as a sacred duty; but I do object to passing these bills without proper consideration and without the same restrictions that are hedged about other measures."

Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, as chairman of the pension committee, agreed with Senator Vest in his desire to have the pension bills carefully considered. He thought a quorum of the senate ought to be in attendance when the pension calendar was considered.

During consideration of the bills on the pension calendar, Senator Caffery, of Louisiana, introduced a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the senate that the "president enter into negotiations with the government of Great Britain to abrogate or modify the Clayton-Bulwer treaty in so far and to the extent that the same may be deemed to prevent the United States from owning, constructing, controlling or operating any oceanic canal across the Isthmus of Darien."

The president today sent to the senate the nomination of Richmond P. Hobson to be naval constructor.

Senator Vest introduced today a resolution providing for the appointment of a joint commission to investigate the charges of corruption in the conduct of the war with Spain. The resolution calls for the appointment of three senators and five members of the house.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, moved to take up the Nicaragua canal bill today. A motion to adjourn was made by Senator Pettigrew, but the motion was defeated. The bill was then taken up, and afterward the senate adjourned on motion of Senator Morgan.

THE HOUSE.

On motion of Chairman Cannon, of the appropriations committee, the house went into committee of the whole immediately after reading the journal, to

Did you ever see a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snow storm.

No need of this snowstorm.

As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this: It prevents their formation. It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system, which may be easily remedied.

consider the urgent deficiency bill for support of the military and naval establishments during the six months beginning January 1, 1899.

The deficiency bill gave rise to a long debate on the increase of the army and mustering out of volunteers, a number of Democrats insisting that the bill would enable the president to retain the volunteers in service after peace had been declared. Messrs. Dockery and Sayers, the leading Democrats of the appropriations committee, defended the bill, and said it could not be so construed as to modify the volunteer law. Mr. Rae, Democrat, of Arkansas, announced his purpose to move for an amendment specifically declaring the bill should not have such effect. The house finally passed the urgent deficiency bill.

FATAL DOCK FIRE.

Three Lives Lost at West Superior, and 600 Feet of Dock Destroyed.

West Superior, Wis., Dec. 8.—The local fire department is unable to control the dock fire which started yesterday, so aid has been asked from St. Paul. The loss is now raised to at least $150,000, as 400 feet of dock has gone into the lake, and 200 more is so badly burned as to require rebuilding. Only one man was saved of the four carried into the lake by falling coal yesterday.

SANTA FE'S ANNUAL MEETING.

Purchase of San Joaquin Valley Line Ratified—War Has Opened Great Possibilities for Santa Fe System.

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 8.—The annual meeting of the Santa Fe stockholders was held this noon. Only a few stockholders were present, but more than two-thirds of the capital stock was represented by proxy. Chairman Aldeo F. Walker, president Ripley, W. S. Roach and C. K. Holliday were re-elected members of the board of directors, and a formal approval was made of the purchase of the San Joaquin Valley line, by which the Santa Fe will run trains into San Francisco. Chairman Walker said the company hopes the addition of this line to the system will result in the increase of business which will be felt over the entire line. Mr. Walker said the war had opened greater possibilities for the west and San Francisco will be a much more important point to the road than it has ever been.

The meeting formally ratified the purchase of these branch lines: Kansas City, Topeka & Western; Leavenworth Northern & Southern, Southern Kansas, New Mexico & Southern Pacific, New Mexico & Rio Grande, Mexico & Pacific, Silver City, Deming & Pacific; Wichita & Western, St. Joseph, St. Louis & Santa Fe.

SANTA FE COUNTY SUGAR BEETS.

Richest in Sugar Content and Highest in Purity—Thousands of Acres of Land in Vicinity of Santa Fe Adapted to Beet Culture.

E. F. Hobart, receiver of the land office in this city, is in receipt of the following letter from the agricultural college:

Mesilla Park, Dec. 3.—The sample of sugar beet submitted by you, our laboratory number 1014, analyzed as follows: Per cent of sugar in juice, 29.5; purity, 83.7. This sample has the highest sugar content of any that we have analyzed this year.

ARTHUR GROSS.

Vice Director. The beets were raised on Mr. Hobart's ranch in the Rio Grande valley, about 29 miles northwest of Santa Fe, and the analysis reported is conclusive proof that beets raised in Santa Fe county are the richest in sugar content and the highest in purity of any raised in the entire country. There are thousands of acres of land in the county surrounding this city peculiarly adapted to sugar beet culture, and the conditions are such as to offer extraordinary inducements for the erection of a factory and the growing of beets on a large scale.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8.

The attitude of the Republican party of New Mexico has always been consistent on the question of the admission of the territory as a state. We favored the admission of the territory when the Democratic party was united in their opposition against it. We still favor its admission, believing that there is no good and substantial reason for keeping it out of the Union as a state and believe that this can best be accomplished by the election of a delegate to congress who is in harmony with Republican politics and principles.—Republican Platform, New Mexico, 1898.

The Los Angeles Times was 17 years old last Sunday, and is patting itself on the back for the success it has made in the newspaper world. The Times is among the best papers in the country, and has every reason to feel proud of its growth, prosperity and accomplishments.

A promise has been partially made that the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain will be signed on Saturday. It has taken considerable time to arrive so near the end, and it is to be hoped that the present week will close up the bargain and restore diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The United States, according to some prognosticators, is doomed to immediate ruin, but there is a wide difference of opinion regarding the cause of the impending catastrophe. Senator Teller says that the demonization of silver will bring about that result, while Elliot, Hoar and Carnegie state emphatically that the annexation of the Philippines will swamp the government. In the meantime the country seems to be in a very healthy state both financially and industrially.

The impression is gaining strength that the few members of the senate who have done so much shouting the past month over what they were going to do to the treaty of peace when it was sent to that body for ratification, were talking more to hear the sound of their own voices than to express their real sentiments. Now that congress is in session the roaring of the anti-annexationists has grown very much less in volume and penetrating power, and by the time the treaty is ready to be submitted to the consideration of the senators the roar will no doubt have disappeared entirely.

Sugar beets grown in Santa Fe county the past season averaged over 20 per cent of sugar content and 83 per cent in purity. There are thousands of acres of land in the county adapted to growing beets and several large sugar factories can be supplied with a sufficient tonnage to run for several months, or, in fact, as long as the "campaign" lasts anywhere. This source of wealth to the county is allowed to lie for want of enterprise on the part of the business men and property owners. When will those who are the most deeply interested in the growth and prosperity of Santa Fe get together and secure a factory in this city?

Eastern papers are advocating the restoration of the whipping post and cat-o-nine tails as a means of punishment for wife-beating, seduction and similar offenses against the laws, and the humane societies are taking the matter up with the intention of securing laws in different states to legalize public whippings for the crimes mentioned. The use of the public whipping post appears brutal at this time of the world, but it is no more brutal than the men who indulge in the pastime of bruising their better halves, and its introduction might have a very salutary effect upon that class of people. No great harm will result to the country by giving that method of punishment a thorough trial.

Some interesting developments may be expected in the Philippine islands within a few days. The president has instructed General Otis to demand the immediate release of all Spanish prisoners held by Aguinaldo, and if the demand is refused the prisoners will be released by the American forces. The effect of this action will be to compel the insurgent leader to make known his intentions and plans regarding American occupation, and then this government will act accordingly. Following the formal assumption of authority over the islands by the United States will be the disarming of the insurgent forces, and if any trouble is to be had with the Filipinos, it will come when they are told to give up their arms and disperse. The troops at Manila may have some warm times yet, before the Philippines are taken into the complete control of this country.

The one thing needed in New Mexico to make of the territory almost an earthly paradise is capital. Nature has furnished inexhaustible deposits of gold and silver, lead and copper, iron and coal, and numerous varieties of semi-precious stones; the climate is healthful and mild; the valleys are fertile and the plains and mountains furnish grazing for almost innumerable cattle and sheep, but the one thing lacking must be supplied by congress—statehood. New Mexico as a state will attract the necessary capital to develop the natural resources, settle up the vacant lands and start the wheels of industry to whirling. To this desirable end the people ought to work in harmony and never cease their efforts in that direction until they succeed.

A resident of Canada has hit upon a good plan for Great Britain to secure everything she wants in the Philippines, and that is to trade her North American possessions to the United States for the islands and thus take full control of them. Such an arrangement would, of course, contract the expanse of country, east and west, over which the stars and stripes would wave, but it would concentrate interests and save traveling expenses, to say nothing of other matters which are likely to prove disagreeable before they are finally settled; and then, the mutual benefit to be derived would be greatly increased. If the Canadians will call the attention of the British government to the subject and get its consent to the exchange, the trade could be made without a hitch.

Relic of Barbarism Abolished.
After many years of agitation and vain attempts at its abolition, a move that promises to amount to something has been taken looking towards doing away forever with hazing in American colleges. The honor belongs to Princeton, whence so much good in raising the morale of college life has come in the past; and it is not too much to say that the hearty thanks of every educator in the land are due to "Old Nassau" for the noble action of her students in resolving to abolish hazing from Princeton forever.

For decades, yes, for centuries, it has been regarded as eminently fitting and proper that first year students in the higher institutions of learning both in Great Britain and the United States, should be subjected to annoyance, indignity and abuse, as the most approved way of initiating them into collegiate life. This barbarous custom no doubt was a reflection among the older students of the mean and despicable treatment so often given smaller boys by larger ones at school. The great preparatory schools in England and in the more noted universities practiced hazing upon the younger and inexperienced pupils and students. It would seem from time immemorial, and often with an intensity never to be forgotten by the sufferers and only to be re-practiced by them upon the generation of students immediately succeeding. In the United States, hazing has been at times carried to a shameful extent, and frequently have the papers had occasion to chronicle painful accidents, maimings for life, and sometimes fatalities, as the outcome of this wretched "time honored custom."

Freshmen have been visited in the night by more or less drunken sophomores, pulled from their beds and subjected to indignities and brutal treatment that in any other surroundings would have called for the use of a six-shooter. Freshmen have been carried off into the country, their hair shaved half off and left to grope their way home as best they could in the cold with only their night clothes on. A freshman of the class of '81 at Yale was lowered by a rope over a railroad bridge while a train passed underneath, and the hot steam and cinder laden blast blackened and burned the sufferer's skin and destroyed his clothes. A Cornell student was walked into an excavation and killed while being "chaperoned" by sophomores; the chapel seats of the freshmen at Princeton were daubed with the pitch one morning, and some 20 pairs of trousers were ruined in consequence. Sophomores have visited freshmen quarters, turned the entire place upside down, and destroyed considerable property in so doing; freshmen have had their windows smashed, have been personally assaulted both on the streets and in their rooms, have been deliberately robbed of their belongings, compelled to "set up the drinks" to their tormentors, buy suppers for them and endure many other such annoyances. At the United States military and naval academies hazing has been pushed to the most unnatural extreme until the expulsion of whole classes was threatened in punishment. A very promising nephew of the late Lieutenant Swatka, the explorer, was so maltreated at Annapolis that he died soon after, and the commanding officer merely reported that the youth had been the victim of "a little horse play." At West Point the most outrageous conduct has been more or less winked at by the authorities, as this breaking in was considered promotive of development of the more hardy side of the cadet's nature. The experience of the colored cadets in particular has been a blot on the good name of the institution, and the case of Cadet Whitaker will never be forgotten. It has taken a long, long time to realize that there is nothing manly or brave in presumption upon the youth, inexperience or weakness of others. It is not only an outrage upon the victims, but it is debasing to those practicing it, and makes men braggarts and bullies rather than gentlemen.

Of late years a healthy public sentiment has exerted such an influence that the evil has been largely diminished, and now comes this most praiseworthy and noble action of Princeton students. Let Yale, Harvard, Amherst, Dartmouth, Columbia and other great collegiate institutions follow quickly in the footsteps of "Old Nassau," and set their feet of condemnation on and bury forever one of the worst and most reprehensible customs ever attached to college or school life.

Report of Secretary of Agriculture.
The annual report of the secretary of agriculture, which has just been issued contains much of interest to the country generally. The labors of the department cover a wide range, and aside from considering the agricultural interests of the United States, it is engaged in improving the quality and encouraging the production of many minor products, such as tropical fruits, and in introducing new products of the soil for which the nation now depends upon foreign countries.

Secretary Wilson asks congress to provide an appropriation for investigating at once the agricultural resources of the new lands acquired from Spain, and for inaugurating in the colonies the departmental methods and operations which have been of great value to the farmers of the United States. Especially does he desire to adopt promptly measures to protect American producers from such plant diseases and pests as may be found to exist in our newly acquired domains.

The report calls attention to the efforts of the department to extend foreign markets for American farm products. Experimental shipments of butter and cheese have been made to Europe, and special representatives have been sent to Japan and China to establish agencies to which trial shipments of food products may be made and which can gather such information in that region of the world as may be of benefit to exporters of farm products. There is a possibility of developing in China and Japan a large demand for wheat and corn and for other food products of the United States, and the time may come in the near future when millions of barrels of corn meal and wheat flour will be shipped to the Orient instead of the few thousand barrels which now go there.

The department has engaged, not only in facilitating the production of larger and better crops in this country, and in protecting them from destructive pests, but also in finding a market for the constantly growing output of the farms. The report shows that the department has been conducted in an able manner and for the benefit of the farmers of the country. The efforts which have been made to better the conditions governing agriculture, to expand the markets for American products, and to improve and increase the variety of crops have been marked with a gratifying degree of success. The money which has been expended by Secretary Wilson has been put to good use and the country at large has profited thereby.

PRESS COMMENTS.

WORK OF THE LEGISLATURE.
(Roswell Record.)

Now that the laws of the territory have been newly compiled and different laws on kindred topics placed under the same headings, the inconsistencies and imperfections are more readily seen. There will be plenty of work for the incoming legislature, in trimming up the laws we have, paring down here and adding to them, to say nothing of creating entire new chapters. The political complexion of the body is such that no matters of partisanship can with any justification mar the usefulness of the session, and the entire 60 days of the session should be devoted to the betterment of the laws. There are members of the body who understand fully what should be done in the premises for the legal advancement of the territory, and if they will be actuated by a desire to work singly and unselfishly to that end, much can be expected for good. If, however, the members of the legislature devote the time to devising and working through schemes for their personal advantage, regardless of the best interests of the territory as a whole, New Mexico would be better off if nothing save the necessary appropriation bills were passed.

LET US WORK TOGETHER.
(Albuquerque Democrat.)

In the past, sectionalism has been a curse to this territory. City has been arrayed against city, village against village, section against section, to the fatal detriment of the whole territory. It has long been impossible to secure any legislation, educational, commercial or industrial, for the benefit of the whole or a part of the territory without bestowing some favor upon the representatives of other localities. It is a cause for the sincerest congratulation among citizens of New Mexico that this pernicious state of affairs is fast passing. The people of the territory are realizing that the branch can grow no faster than the trunk, that the development of any one section means the development of all. A railroad in the Pecos valley, a gold mine in the Jicarillas, a sugar factory in Farmington must help Albuquerque, and help every part of the territory. That which tends to develop the resources of one district, that which directs to New Mexico the attention of the outside world, that which peoples the most remote valley, or brings a single individual to the busiest center, must count for the advantage of all. It is certainly pleasing to observe that this fact is being understood, that all localities are showing an inclination to join hands in a united effort to welcome the fair visitor, prosperity, who is lingering upon our borders. Let us bury forever petty jealousies, sectional stifes, race differences and make our territory that which nature has designated her to be, the wealthiest, most attractive region of the west.

A WISE AND PATRIOTIC SUGGESTION.
(Albuquerque Citizen.)

This territory should erect a monument in front of the new capitol at Santa Fe, in memory of the New Mexico volunteers who gave up their lives in Cuba in defense of the American flag and that the people of that island might enjoy the boon of freedom.

TERRITORIAL TOPICS

BERNALILLO COUNTY.

Blind people are arranging for an extended Christmas entertainment for the children.

Chester Greenwood, of Bland, has gone to Colorado for a month's visit.

Dr. R. B. Benham, of Bland, has gone to New York on business.

Mrs. M. L. Cole and children, of Bland, have gone to Albuquerque to spend the holidays.

The wife and family of J. L. Saylar have arrived from Erath, Texas, to Bland, where they will remain with Mr. Saylar.

LAS VEGAS.
Foot pads and watch snatchers are abroad in the city.

O. L. Houghton, of Las Vegas, is starting the entire community by laying the town's virgin brick sidewalk for 300 feet in front of his property. This is filling a long felt want with a vengeance.

Conductor Fugate had to give up his run the other night because of sickness, and hurry home to Albuquerque.

Oh, the Pain of Rheumatism!

Rheumatism often causes the most intense suffering. Many have for years vainly sought relief from this disabling disease, and are to-day worse off than ever. Rheumatism is a blood disease, and Swift's Specific is the only cure, because it is the only remedy which can reach such deep-seated diseases.

A few years ago I was taken with indomitable Rheumatism, which became so intense that I was for weeks unable to walk. I tried several prominent physicians and took their treatment faithfully, but was unable to get the slightest relief. In fact, my condition seemed to grow worse, the disease spread over my entire body, and from November to March I suffered agony. I tried many patent medicines, but none relieved me. I was in a desperate condition when I was advised to try S. S. S. Before allowing me to take it, however, my physician, who was a chemist, analyzed the remedy, and pronounced it free of poisons and mercury. I felt so much better after taking two bottles, that I continued the remedy, and in two months I was cured completely. Rheumatism is permanent, for I have never since had a touch of Rheumatism, though many times exposed to damp and cold weather.

Still, I feel compelled to say, I feel that I am a better man for having taken S. S. S. Don't suffer longer with Rheumatism. Throw aside your oils and liniments, as they can't reach your trouble. Don't experiment with doctors—their poisons and mercury will add to your disability and completely destroy your digestion.

will cure perfectly and permanently. It is guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no poisons, mercury, or other mineral. Books mailed free by Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

COLFAX COUNTY.
Postmaster Gausa, of Osha, has resigned and will remove to Raton.

Miss Katie Deacy, of Springer, will attend school at Las Vegas.

Colfax raised thousands of bushels of apples that are now bringing good prices.

RIO ARRIBA COUNTY.
Brazos will have a Christmas tree, ball and band concert on the 24th instant.

Rio Arriba has been enjoying seven inches of snow.

Four Mormon elders have invaded Chama and are preaching the gospel of Joseph and Hyrum, as it is according to the church of J. C. of L. D. S.

DONA ANA COUNTY.
Cesario Pendergon, of Las Cruces, is a candidate for interpreter of the next territorial house of representatives.

There are nearly 300 men employed near the Fresno postoffice getting out timber for the railroad, sawmill and other enterprises.

Anthony, down on the Texas line, is to have a roller flour mill of 50 barrels per day capacity, milling operations to begin by March 1. The projectors of the enterprise are C. E. Miller, of Anthony, and E. M. Schumacher, of Las Cruces.

The Southern Pacific section boss who filled the hip of a Mexican with buckshot the other day in a fight while driving a gang of tramps from the right of way, has been arrested and will be tried at Las Cruces.

The Alamogordo Lumber Company has contracted to supply the Mexican Central railroad with 60 miles of railroad ties. This means 1,000 carloads of material which will keep the big mill working to its full capacity for several months. Alamogordo is also to have one of the largest box factories in the United States.

THE PECOS VALLEY COUNTY.
The Pecos Valley exhibit has been returned from Omaha, and is held in the depot at Eddy pending the settlement of freight charges alleged to be excessive.

G. B. Stone and A. S. James, of Wichita Falls, Texas, are in Eddy with a view to investing in local irrigation projects.

C. B. Eddy has withdrawn all of his La Huerta farm and Eddy town property from the market pending an increase in price due to the improved condition of valley affairs.

Over 1,000 lambs are fattening on waste beet pulp from the sugar factory at Eddy. They have averaged a gain in weight of 10 pounds in 21 days.

Editor Mullane, of the Eddy Current, was assaulted the other day by J. S. Crozier with a chunk of iron because of criticisms in the Current. When Mullane got through with Crozier, the latter was hunting for a heap of sawdust to lie down on, for he was weary and faint would be at rest. The editor is now wearing a rooster in his chapeau.

SOCORRO COUNTY.
Station Agent Lepage at Lava and family have gone on a pleasure trip to the Pacific coast.

James Booth, an old "time" repairer at Socorro, is dead at the age of 88. He was a native of Dublin and worked at his trade in this city from 1878 to 1883, removing to Socorro in the latter year. Booth leaves no family.

Percy A. Ross, of San Marcial, is a popular man. He recently removed to Winslow, A. T., and the pretty much of San Marcial rose up to bid him good bye with a musical, social and hop, a description of which filled half a column in the local paper.

GENERAL ITEMS.
C. B. Willingham, of Roswell, has shipped 24 cars of hogs to Kansas City.

Fine Hereford cattle are being shipped into Roswell from Missouri stock farms.

District Attorney Hulbert, of Lincoln, has removed his family together from Fort Scott, Kas.

Small bands of Apaches are reported scattered through the south end of the Mogollons and in the mountains on either side of the box canon of the Pecos. As yet the redskins have done no damage, but settlers are becoming alarmed, as they know that the Apaches are too treacherous to be trusted.

Five Miles up in the Air.

Two daring London aeronauts ascended five miles above the earth in a balloon and nearly froze to death. The temperature at that height was 61 degrees below zero. The men went in the interest of science, and while the actual benefit of their trip to humanity at large was considerable, it will not begin to equal the great good accomplished by the medical scientist who gave the world Hottel's Stomach Bitters. Nothing to equal this remedy has ever been discovered for ailments of the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys. The Bitters are the best remedy for indigestion, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, sleeplessness and nervousness. They strengthen the brain, the body, the nerves. They brace up the despondent and cheer the invalid.

Would Husband His Fortune.

But I am only your mother's cook! protested the sweet girl. Why do you fall in love with me? The rich young man in the society drama thought deeply for awhile. I don't know he finally answered, unless it is that a cook wears the mistress's dresses, whereas if I were to fall in love with somebody else, it would necessitate another wardrobe. With a cry of joy she flung herself into his arms; for his evident sincerity touched her deeply.—Detroit Journal.

Two Pointed Questions Answered.

What is the use of making a better article than your competitor if you can not get a better price for it?

Ans.—As there is no difference in the price the public will buy only the better, so that while our profits may be smaller on a single sale they will be much greater in the aggregate.

How can you get the public to know your make is the best?

If both articles are brought prominently before the public both are certain to be tried and the public will very quickly pass judgment on them and use only the better one.

This explains the large sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The people have been using it for years and have found that it can always be depended upon. They may occasionally take up with some fashionable novelty put forth with exaggerated claims, but are certain to return to the one remedy that they know to be reliable, and for coughs, colds and croup there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

When One Is Young.

When one is young, what matters care? For youth has mirth and joy to spare. The future blazing is a fire That lights the pathways of desire. And doing's but a name for dare. What smiling masks the grim fate wear.

He alluded to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and bought a bottle before he left the store. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

THE SWORD.

"Think not I have come to send peace." The sword is sharp—the sword is truth. That makes the cruel places plain And teaches roughly, without ruse. Great virtues pressed home through pain; That serves through falsehood a living flesh To cut the cords that drew her mesh.

The sword is merciless—as love. That lures dead to a living wound; That holds the unbelieved soul above Sleek safety, with dishonor crowned. "Say, hast thou stopped to count the cost?" "Say! nations die and so were lost!"

The sword costs dear—the sword this day Is honor, worth all worlds to him Who bears the future's patriots' prayer. "Leave not this stain on thy shield to dim!" The sword deals death? Then wait for life To do the deed with duller knife!

The sword is terrible—the sword Is God, the God of Hosts, the Lord. Who yet made forth a chosen band To lift the curse that loads a land. Through tears of women, blood of men, His peace on earth must come again.

The rusting sheath when right is wronged— The fainting four-foot leechen shed, Or eyes in shameless sleep prolonged— Nay, these are terrible as God. As sharp as truth, as dead as death, That never stifled freedom's breath! —Louise Bates Edwards in Collier's Weekly.

TOWARD THE MIST.

I have heard it said of her that she made up for an excessive sense of her own sex by being true to all her indiscretions. If she had heard this, she would have said, "Any little thing like that—a derisive phrase she applied equally to a paradox or a powder puff, accompanying the remark with a gleaming smile, the ingredients of which have puzzled even scientists. I have studied that smile long and earnestly, with a view to imitation, but I was fated in the end to confess it too subtle for me. There was a white glitter of teeth, a delicious curling of the lips, a twitch of the eyelashes and your heart was gone from you. She has mine yet. I believe I am the only woman who ever loved her—perhaps because it was given only to me to see that other side to her soul which Browning says we all possess. I met her first on board the Scot, when we were both on our way to Mashonaland homes—she to join her husband in Salisbury and I to take a short vacation of time with my two brothers in the same town.

She had a manly box, with dainty silver instruments nestling in soft sky velvet, and the finger nails of those few upon whom she bestowed her friendship she would pinken delicately, sitting on the edge of a glory of white canvas with the sunlight dancing among her and romping with the rings on her fingers, while the other women sat alone and made audible and insolent remarks about people who performed their toilet in public.

She always wore ravishing frocks, was never sick and looked at the women through her eyelashes in a peculiarly aggravating way which commended itself to me. They hated her, but it welded an indissoluble bond between us. She had cultivated what De Quincey called the luxury of contempt, and would curl a woman up with one eye and with the corner of her mouth make a man wish he had never been born. She did not, like so many refined actresses, make a parade of her immense and intense respectability, but she kept certain moods for certain people. For the starchy wives of civic magistrates and such she kept a droop of the lower lip and a limp, inquiring eye, answering all remarks with an idiotic but perfectly well bred, "Oh, yes!" or rather, "Oh, as!" giving the impression that she had been born dull, which was exactly what it was meant to do. Then she complained to me afterward that they had not laughed in her face.

"You are the only woman in Mashonaland with any sense of humor, Peter," she would say, "and I believe you are a boy." For the frisky, horse woman visitor who goes to make up the queer mixture called society in that far country she had the same inquiring gaze, but her speech was embellished with a lip. "Yes, we have vast dwellings," I heard her replying to a lady of this description who was complaining in a strident voice of the rat and mice nuisance, and she twiddled her hands and twitched her hands like a shy baby. But enter one of the circle of men she was pleased to call her friends, and in which I also was included, and she immediately became most "sweet and sufficient." A vivid and original personality. She lectured everybody on their love affairs, beginning with me, who had none.

Kniven Kallender's broad, sweet smile, that made him so popular in the world of men, and the suave courtesy of his manners to women, had never taken me in. I had seen the big black bruises disfiguring the white flesh of Dorothy's body, and I had gone over her when she had lain in white pain, utterly unable to rise from her bed. The secret of it was that he was an intermittent drunkard, and cruel and uncontrollable in his drunkenness. No one ever suspected this. They were looked upon as a model couple by men, and the women said that he was far too good for her. So where I would have left him, careless of the world, she staid on, too proud to publish her shame, hiding her hurt and the hollowing of her life in friendships and flirtations. The tale of these was endless, and so daring in their innocence that I came to understand how a woman might lose her reputation without losing her honor. Her safety lay in that she could never see a man daily for a week without growing bored, and the moment a man put his passion into words or attempted to do so he was dismissed from her presence, and the "Red ranch knew him no more."

"I suppose I have no soul, Peter, dear," she would say in her exaggerated way, "or else I am incapable of a grand passion. Any youth who comes along can have a slice of my affection for awhile—but I soon get bored." Men grew infatuated and mad over her, but she kept them in order in her cool, despotic little way. Understanding of their madness came to me one night. It was at a dance, and I came into the dressing room just as she was unwinding the wraps from her sweet body, coming out of them like a pale green star, diamonds gleaming and moving on her bosom. I think there must be something of the man in me, for I suffered a leaping of the heart at that revealed and suggested beauty. I turned my lips to her, and, stooping, I kissed her just in the curving outline of the cheek where it melted into the lips. The blood flowed crimson to the spot where my lips had been and spread all over her neck and face.

"You silly kiddie," she said, "Peter, I believe you are a boy." Her adorer came and went in batches, according to the time it took her to grow tired, but they adored her always. In time I grew so used to the cold, sweet, short friendships and the faces that came and went that I ceased to fear for her, and anticipated the coming of her son's counterpart, whom I believed to be seeking her. Once indeed, when Desborough, a great limbed lawyer, with broad, determined hands and a close mouth, shadowed the house, I grew fearful for her. He would sit for hours unspeaking, in a corner of her drawing room, while she poured tea for her visitors, discoursed literature and abused and imitated her neighbors and acquaintances, never her friends, and he would laugh moodily sometimes at her hypocrisy and frivolity. She rode a little old pony her husband had given her, which rarely, if ever, went out of a fast walk, which just suited Dorothy, whom no amount of ridings would make a good rider, though she looked well on horseback. The pony was afflicted with a wet nose, and Dorothy would climb down many times and wipe it gently with the little lace rag she called her handkerchief.

Desborough would accompany her on these excursions, coming back moodier still and with a devouring passion staring in his eyes, but one day when they returned his face was old and pallid, and there was a little hardness about her mouth, so that I knew he had spoken, and she, as usual, had been merciless. He left for England the next day, though all his interests were in the country.

When Lewis Lyndhurst walked into the shade of her red lamp, I was so busy allying my fears of Desborough that I hardly noticed him. So he and Dorothy trod the old path undisturbed by the guarding eye and he drank deep of the cup of Circé. Ah, she put her lips to it, too, and so was the tragedy of Tristram and Isolde once more to tell.

It came upon me very suddenly. I was sitting by her as she lay among the purple silk cushions of her divan with her hands under her head among her glimmering hair. She was wearing what I called her "fragile" gown, a loose tea gown of emerald green satin, with gold dragons vomiting scarlet poppies all over it, and she gossiped casually while I stroked the glossy dragons.

"Peter," she said suddenly, "a certain person is beginning to occupy my thoughts more than is quite cool or comfortable."

"Dorothy, don't talk rot," I said, with ghastly jauntness. "You're only trying to make me miserable."

"He wears red ties, dear, and he says, 'Ain't you coming?' What! How can one help caring?"

For a moment my fears were soothed. Then the doorbell rang and Lyndhurst was shown in. I wonder if a man will ever look at me as he looked at her? It would be something worth living and dying for, I think. I turned to her and the light behind her eyes as they rested on him shivered my soul within me.

Soon the beginning came of the ending. One morning as I sat at breakfast with my brothers came a little note to me, addressed simply to "Come to me," was her quaint fashion. "Come to me," was all it said. I flew, and, coming, found her on her divan. She was clad in her tragic gown, and her face was heaven lit like a lustrous sunset and happier than I had ever seen it. I knew at once what I was to face. I knelt down and kissed her again, and then, being a weak fool, I cried all over her face and her lovely gown.

"We are going tonight, Peter," she crooned in her golden voice.

"No, no, Dorothy, darling; never, never. You shall not go."

"We are going tonight, dear," and she stroked my hair; "going together to find those islands of the blest."

"No, Dorothy, no," I moaned. "Mayn't I have a little happiness?" she asked fiercely. "What has my life been, Peter?—Then relapsing into an infantile tenderness, 'You see, Peter, he cannot do without me—we cannot do without each other.'"

Later, when I was stonily calm, she told me their plans. They were going to take horses that night and ride for Untall, getting fresh horses there and a dog to take them to Beira—and then straight home. Once out of the country they were safe.

"But Kniven?" I asked. "He will follow you, and you are not a good rider, Dorothy."

"Oh, I will ride—I'll ride like the devil," with a little laugh. "And I shall be with him, Peter. Kniven will be away at a billiard match, and we shall get a good start—and he may not follow us."

I thought I knew him better. In the twilight I turned them off. She went in her riding habit, taking nothing with her, and for the last time I straightened her shirt for her and gave her the reins. Then I took Lyndhurst by the hands, and looking into his eyes cried to him to be good to her, to love her all his life, never to let her regret, and he promised in a voice deep with love. They say dark men are as true as men can be. Then when I had kissed her little stockinged ankles and she had said, "Bless you, little Peter, if a wicked woman's blessing can do any good, and goodly," they rode away into the night, and I lay down on my face in the grass with my heart full of the tragedies of life. After awhile I stumbled blindly homeward, a wild wish struggling within me that some one would come and take me away, too, and that we four—Dorothy, Lewis, the other and I—might all go together and find the islands of the blest. As I neared the house a man came into view under a lamp some few yards off. He had a white, fury lashed face, with a mouth set hard and cruel. Then I fainted.

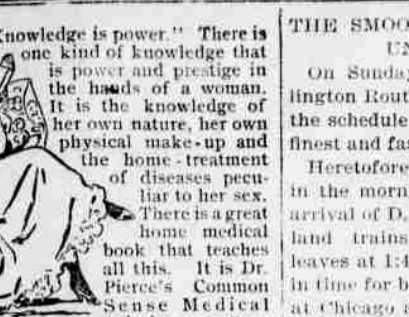

It was only horse against horse, and he came upon them at a farmhouse before they had even got half way.

I rode out with my brothers, who had loved her, too, and the clergyman who buried them. When I had hidden the ugly mark on her forehead with flowers, there was nothing to reveal in the sweet calm of her face, but we covered his face all over with them. And I believe they are forgiven and have found the islands of the blest.—Denver News.

Good Novels Are Good Teachers.

"But a good novel! Is there anything equal to it?" writes Ruth Ashmore in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Think of the story of 'Henry Esmond'; think of the pleasures and joys that came to him, and then, sympathizing with him in his disappointment, his hope of him in his successes, following his fortunes into this new land, you will go among the Virginians and there read how he was loved and respected. Or choose the 'Tale of Two Cities' and learn how one man can give his life for another because he loved him. I think there must be something of the man in me, for I suffered a leaping of the heart at that revealed and suggested beauty. I turned my lips to her, and, stooping, I kissed her just in the curving outline of the cheek where it melted into the lips. The blood flowed crimson to the spot where my lips had been and spread all over her neck and face.

Knowledge is power. There is one kind of knowledge that is power and prestige in the hands of a woman. It is the knowledge of her own nature, her own physical make-up and the home treatment of the diseases peculiar to her sex. There is a great book that teaches all this. It is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Over 1,200,000 American homes contain copies of this work. It used to cost $1.50; now it is free. For a paper covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.; French cloth binding, 31 stamps.

This great book tells all about a medicine that is an unfailing cure for all weakness and disease of the delicate organs distinctly feminine. That medicine is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During the past thirty years many thousands of women have used it with marvelous results. It imparts heat, vigor, vitality, strength and elasticity to the organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Taken during the period of gestation, it makes the carrying of baby easy. It almost painless. It completely banishes the pain and misery that are the result of a woman's neglecting her womanly health. An honest medicine dealer will give you what you ask for, and not try to persuade you to take some inferior substitute for the little added profit he may make thereon.

Mrs. Jas. Schaffer, of Freemansburg, Northampton Co., Pa., writes: "It is with pleasure that I write to let you know the great good I have received from your medicine and the local self-treatment at home. I was troubled with female weakness, had pains in my back and at night I tried different doctors but they could not help me. Then my husband got Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, and induced me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. After taking six bottles of the Favorite Prescription I feel like a new woman."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good."

UNNATURAL HISTORY.

Being a Little About the Land of the Dervishes.

Egypt is as full of sand as are soldiers. It is famous for camels, which can hump them, yes across the desert and arrive, after days on the burning plain, in as good trim as when they started, which is not saying much. The camel is a most marvelous animal, for it can go nine days without taking a drink. In this it differs from us, thank goodness.

Ramesses I once ruled over Egypt and invented a great game, which is played today, called, after him, Biancho, or faro. The early Egyptians were French, as is proved by the fact that they were haters of the children of Israel.

One of the chief works of this epoch was the construction of the pyramids, which were erected to make learned men ask questions. The pyramids were weather bureaus, and the Egyptians could tell the weather for five years in advance. I have studied their methods, and as nearly as I can tell without a pyramid at hand the weather in London for the next five years will be fog, rain and wind, alternately separate and mixed, with cracks of sunshine in the summer months, but not enough to bother us in our calculations.

The cause of the decline from power of the Egyptians was their language, which some of them really understood, but the toil of acquiring it was too much and destroyed their strength in the course of a few thousand years.

The chief river in Egypt is the Nile. Ignorant Russians believe that all the inhabitants of Egypt are nihilists, which is the reason Russia wishes to disarm.

The Egyptians had some curious funeral customs. When a person died, he was bound over to keep the pieces. The last adjuration to the defunct was: "Mum's the word!"

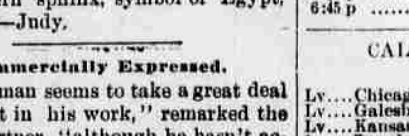

This is the origin of the word mummy. (See Petrie, volume 6, page 342, note q.) I forgot to mention, in speaking of the burning plain (see supra), that naughty devils are sent from the pit of fire to the desert for their punishment. The poor devils sit on the sand and cry for the sweet coals of home. I shall refrain from calling attention anew to the fact that the Kitchenier is within range of the enemy and about to cook the khalifa's goose. According to Grimm's law, dervish is the native word corresponding to our word devil. The modern sphinx, symbol of Egypt, is a lion.—Judy.

Commercially Expressed.

"That man seems to take a great deal of interest in his work," remarked the junior partner, "although he hasn't accomplished much."

"Yes," answered the crusty capitalist, "he's a positive usurer. He can get more interest out of less actual capital than anybody else I ever saw."—Washington Star.

THE SMOOTHEST TRAIN IN THE UNITED STATES.

On Sunday, November 20, the Burlington Route made a radical change in the schedule of the Chicago Special, its finest and fastest Denver-Chicago train. Heretofore, this train has left Denver in the morning—immediately after the arrival of D. & R. G. and Colorado Midland trains from the west. It now leaves at 1:40 p. m., arriving at Omaha in time for breakfast next morning, and at Chicago at 8:15 p. m. the same day.

In other words, it runs 1,040 miles in 29 1/2 hours—an average rate of speed of about 36 miles an hour. There are not half a dozen long-distance trains in the United States which are scheduled faster than 36 miles an hour. And there is not one—not a single one—which has as good a record as the Chicago Special for being "on time all the time."

The equipment of the Chicago Special consists of one sleeping car, one dining car, one library and two chair cars. The cars are of the newest design, and have been in service less than six months. All of them have the new wide vestibule, and are lighted with Pintsch gas.

The sleeper is upholstered in peacock blue, and contains twelve sections and a drawing-room. The toilet rooms are unusually roomy—a circumstance of which much of the train's popularity is due.

In each of the two reclining-chair cars are seats for 56 persons, ladies' and gentlemen's toilet-rooms (with soap, marble wash-basins, comb, brush, towels, and an abundance of water, both hot and cold), and a smoking-room upholstered in leather.

Of the eleven dining-cars operated by the Burlington Route, none is finer than that on the Chicago Special. It is as bright as a new pin. The linen is spotlessly clean, the service is prompt, and on every table is a gorgeous bouquet of American Beauty roses, one of which the waiter affixes to your coat when you have finished your meal. Best of all, the a-la-carte plan prevails—only pay for what you order.

The library car is the men's favorite retreat. It is a veritable club-house on wheels, a place where comfort, religion, and where the necessity for exerting one's self is reduced to a minimum. If you want anything—today's paper, the monthly magazines, a cigar, a bottle of apollinaris, or a pillow—press a button and the smiling attendant brings it to you.

The Denver Republican calls the Chicago Special the "smoothest train in the United States." The phrase describes it to a nicety. It is a smooth train—inside and out. Its furnishings are in admirable taste, and the track over which it glides is perfection itself. Fortunate is the traveler who goes east on it. Kings fare no better when they travel, than he.

SANTA FE LODGE OF ELKS.
A Lodge Organized in This City Last Night
With the Best Known Young Men in Town As Members.
The preliminary steps towards the organization of a lodge of Elks in this city were taken last night in the Catron block by a large number of Santa Fe's best known society men, who began with the following membership:
A. C. Ireland, Dr. J. B. Brady, C. A. Scheurich, Dr. J. A. Massey, A. J. Fischer, Edw. Ochs, Jacob Levy, Abraham Gold, W. N. Townsend, J. L. Zimmerman, A. B. Renahan, J. J. Sheridan, C. M. Foraker, E. B. Linnen, R. C. Gortner, James L. Seligman, Arthur Seligman, Chas. Haspelmath, H. K. Kinsell, A. J. Loomis, A. W. Tennant, Dr. T. P. Martin, Hon. Alex. Read, Geo. P. Miller, Dr. J. H. Sloan, R. J. Taupert, C. F. Easley, L. Sparks, J. W. Akers, Dr. David Knapp, A. M. Bergere, Max Luna, G. L. Solignac.
The following officers were then elected: Exalter ruler, C. F. Easley; esteemed leading knight, Arthur Seligman; esteemed loyal knight, E. B. Linnen; esteemed lecturing knight, C. A. Scheurich; secretary, A. B. Renahan; treasurer, J. W. Akers; Tyler, J. Levy; assistant tyler, Drs. J. A. Massey and J. H. Sloan; esquire, J. L. Zimmerman; chaplain, R. C. Gortner; inner guard, J. L. Seligman; board of trustees, W. N. Townsend, A. J. Fischer, James B. Brady; board of relief, J. J. Sheridan, Chas. Haspelmath, A. Gold. Special committee of entertainment for the initiators, C. F. Easley, Arthur Seligman, J. B. Brady, J. A. Massey, A. J. Fischer.
Measures were taken to hold an institution January 10 next, when the charter will be received, and a grand social indulged in. A committee from the stately herd of noble Elks are now browsing around for a park, that is to say, a lodge room. There is much local interest taken in this move, largely owing to the political and social prominence of the membership.

There is good skating on the ice ponds, but those loving the invigorating sport must wait until the crop is harvested and then they can skate all their pleasure. Skating now is not permitted, as people expectorate and throw cigar stumps on the ice, and as it is to be used for domestic consumption, the ice must be kept clean from all such impurities.
Yesterday A. M. Bergere, agent for the New York Life Insurance Company, paid to Mrs. Marie de J. Digne, mother of Louis Digne, deceased, the amount of the policy, carried in that company, amounting to $2,000. The deceased met his death in a tragic manner on the morning of November 13 in Cerrillos, and the promptness with which the policy has been paid speaks well for the company.
The feast of Light, an eight-day feast among the Hebrews, begins tomorrow in commemoration of the victory of the Maccabees over Syrians, and the dedication of the temple in 169 B. C. A feature in the feast is the lighting of an increased number of candles each evening and enjoyment of various games, while songs supposed to be 2,000 years old are sung. The Hebrews in Santa Fe, as elsewhere in the world, will suitably celebrate the occasion.
The membership and instrumentation of the local cavalry band under the re-enlistment is as follows: Professor F. Perez, bandmaster and clarinet; Jose Perez, principal musician and solo cornet; Antonio Alarid, cornet; Amado Gutierrez, alto; Nicanor Baca, alto; Rudolph Gonzales, alto; Augustin Salcido, tenor; Crescencio Escudero, tenor; Mateo Ortiz, tenor; Manuel Baca, tuba; Patricio Sandoval, snare drum; Joseph Ungalo and Gabriel Sena, drums and cymbals.
