INTERSTATE DIFFICULTIES

May Result Between California and Colorado on Account of The Moffatt Road

OVER THE RESERVOIRS

Local Commercial Bodies Claim That Prevention of Dam Building on the River Would Work Damage.

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 22.—Interstate difficulties growing out of divergent interests may result between Colorado and California over the question of erecting dams across the Colorado River in Colorado for the purpose of furnishing irrigation for the arid lands of Colorado, Arizona and parts of California. The Los Angeles really board and the chamber of commerce, at a meeting yesterday, authorized the appointment of committees to wait upon United States Senator Flint and Congressman McLachlan to get their support in the matter. It is charged that the Denver, Northwestern & Pacific Railroad, better known as the Moffatt road, which is now building from Denver to Salt Lake, is endeavoring through the courts of Colorado to prevent the construction of the proposed reservoirs along the Colorado River in the Grand Canon, Browns Park and Northwestern Colorado, urging as a reason for so doing the railroad's requirements in rights of way. It is the contention of local commercial bodies that the prevention of the building of dams would destroy the irrigation plans of the government looking to the reclamation of about two million acres of arid lands in the southwest, a large portion of which is directly tributary to this city.

NEW IRRIGATION PROJECT.

Near El Rito, Rio Arriba County—About 9,000 Acres of Fertile Land to be Reclaimed.

The New Mexico Irrigated Lands Company, which is the owner of the Lobato Land Grant in Rio Arriba County, is now engaged in the development of the southeastern portion of the grant in the El Rito Valley. A natural reservoir site, three-quarters of a mile wide and one mile long, located about four miles from the town of El Rito in the valley of the Arroyo Seco, is being cleaned and as soon as this is done, a dam will be constructed across its mouth and a large reservoir will be the result. The depth of the water there will be on an average 75 feet and in places it will be 135 feet. The water supply will be sufficient to irrigate about 9,000 acres of very fine agricultural land and the ditch system for the necessary irrigation for this land will be constructed, part of it being under construction now. The water supply will be taken from the flood waters of the Arroyo Seco and from the permanent supply of the El Rito River. About 15 miles of ditches will be put in. A force of 25 men is at work under competent engineers cleaning the reservoir site and on the ditch system.

The land is sold in small tracts to actual settlers, these plots containing from twenty to 150 acres each. The lots are surveyed and are held at from $20 to $40 per acre, pay to be made in five annual installments, the first payment to be made when the land is purchased.

Since the first of the year, about 25 families have come into the valley, who have purchased tracts averaging mostly 40 acres, have made their first payments and are constructing houses on the lands purchased for the coming winter. The management expects that at least 25 more families will arrive there and purchase land by the first of January and that there will be a hundred families actually settled on land under the reservoir and ditches of the company by spring. A townsite, about three and a half miles from El Rito, has been laid out but no name has as yet been given it. The land which will be reclaimed by the reservoir and the ditch system described is of the best quality and will raise abundant crops of fine fruits, cereals and vegetables. The headquarters of the company is in Denver. The project seems well thought out and the managers state that they are sure of success, as they have made careful surveys and experiments and are certain of obtaining an ample and constant water supply for irrigating the 9,000 acres under their dam and ditch system, adequately and at all seasons.

T. A. BUCKNER ON STAND

President of New York Life Before the Legislative Investigating Committee.

THE "NILIC" ACCOUNTS

Record of System of Bonuses Paid to Agents is Taken Up—Andrew Hamilton Cables a Denial.

New York, Sept. 22.—Upon the re-assembling today of the legislative committee which is investigating the life insurance business, Thomas A. Buckner, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, who has charge of the company's agencies, was called to the stand. The matter of the "Nilic" accounts was taken up. They include the records of the system of bonuses paid to agents. Nilic, he said, was a body drawn from the ranks of agents who create business for his company. Mr. Buckner said that what money the agents get from Nilic was in addition to the regular agent's commissions. Witness stated that the cost of Nilic today is one per cent of the renewal of premiums. Mr. Buckner said Nilic was invaluable in holding agents in solidarity. Buckner Explains the "Nilic" Fund. New York, Sept. 22.—Mr. Buckner testified that the total payments to Nilic members aggregated less than one per cent of the total premiums. The company has 916 agents who are members of the Nilic and over 5,000 who are not.

A second Nilic was inaugurated January 1, 1902, for the agency directors, inspectors and supervisors of the United States, Canada and the West Indies. The trustees were given control of a fund made up of amounts contributed in part by members and in part by the life insurance companies. This fund was to be divided among the members in 1912, according to the amount of business written under the direction of the members. The fund now amounts to $337,777. Hamilton Denies That $100,000 Was Used to Influence Legislation. New York, Sept. 22.—The World today received a cablegram from Andrew Hamilton, of Albany, who is in France, to the effect that the $100,000 received by him from the New York Life Insurance Company in March, 1904, was not used for influencing state legislation. Mr. Hamilton reached Biarritz yesterday, after completing an automobile tour through south France.

FIRST ENGINE ON NEW ROAD.

Laying of Rails Has Begun at the Colfax County Seat on the Raton Eastern Railway.

Raton, Sept. 22.—The Raton & Eastern Railway assumed a practical form this week when the first engine was run out from the Santa Fe roundhouse. The work of grading is being pushed at the outer extremity, and the laying of rails has begun at the Raton end of the line. The first steel was laid last week with material unloaded at the shops, but by the first of this week it was deemed practical to run out an engine to convey the material. The track up to date has been laid about a mile and a half out of Raton. The line when completed will connect the city with the new coal mines now being opened in the Sugarite Canon. In order to do this it will require about twelve miles of track. The company is employing a large force of men and pushing the work with all possible speed. At the present rate, it will require about three weeks to connect the city with the Sugarite by rail.

TABASCO BEING REBUILT.

Colorado Fuel and Iron Company Replacing Houses Destroyed By Recent Cloudburst.

Trinidad, Sept. 22.—Twenty houses have been finished by William Wacker in the ruined district of Tabasco. The houses were all built by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company and are better than those destroyed.

The flood swept camp is resuming its normal appearance. The railroad now has practically rebuilt its tracks for the entire distance to Berwind, putting in the most solid kind of bridges.

The new houses have been placed against the edge of the canon, above the reach of a similar flood.

TO SUPPORT THE TYPOS

The Allied Printing Trades Council of Chicago Takes Radical Action

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

In Which the Pressmen, Mailers, Bookbinders, Rulers, Stereotypers and Electrotypers Pledge Aid.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The Allied Printing Trades Council of Chicago last night took radical action in the fight between the Chicago Typothetae and the Chicago Typographical union No. 16. Resolutions were adopted in which all other trades pledged themselves to support the printers. The council consists of the pressmen, the mailers, the bookbinders, the paper rule makers, the stereotypers and the electrotypers. The executive board of the Typographical Union announced that nine firms had signed the union agreement during the day.

STUDYING RAILWAY MOTORS.

General Passenger Agent W. J. Black of the Santa Fe, May Try Them on That System.

Topeka, Kans., Sept. 22.—W. J. Black, general passenger agent of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway System, is on a trip to Omaha where he proposes to make an exhaustive study of the tests that are in progress there by the Union Pacific Railroad officials with gasoline motor cars for use on branch railroad lines where the traffic is light.

These tests have been successful to a great degree and the Union Pacific has two cars of this type that it intends to put in use soon. Others are being built. If Mr. Black is favorably impressed with these cars it is likely that the Santa Fe will make some experiments with them. Their use or lines where passenger travel is light would be at such a saving over steam engines that many lines which hardly pay expenses now could be run at profit.

MAY MAKE NAVAL DEMONSTRATION.

United States Asked to Join in This if Venezuela Continues Obstinate With France.

Paris, Sept. 22.—The semi-official Temps this evening prints a leading article reflecting the official sentiment on the subject of the Venezuelan trouble. It said M. Taigny, the French Charge d'Affaires at Caracas, had been ordered to insist on Venezuela's withdrawing her offensive refusal to deal with him. If the withdrawal is made and President S. Castro makes ample apology, then the negotiations will continue. If Venezuela does not accede, it is asserted the best course would be for France and the United States to make a joint naval demonstration in which Great Britain, Germany and Italy may take part.

The autopsy revealed evidence that the woman had been the victim of an unsuccessful surgical operation and that the dismembering of the body had been the work of skilled hands. No promising clues have yet been disclosed.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE.

John Conley Faces a Jury on Indictment for the Murder of Chas. Purdy and Jas. Redding.

This forenoon, the case of the Territory vs. John Conley, of Red River, Taos County, but formerly of Denver, was called. The charge is murder and the case is being tried on a change of venue from Taos County. The trial is one of dramatic interest. The prosecution depends upon circumstantial evidence to make out its case as there were no eye witnesses to the deed, while the defense will set up the plea of self defense. On the morning of January 16, 1905, John Conley, Charles Purdy and James Redding, all three unmarried, left Questa on horseback for a placer claim, four miles down the Red River from Questa, upon which Conley was to do the assessment work for the owner living at Minneapolis. Purdy, aged 70 years, and Redding, aged 21 years, son of E. S. Redding, the hotel keeper at Questa, had been hired by Conley to work for the placers, about 9 a. m., two boys herding sheep in the vicinity, heard revolver shots and going to the camp they found Redding in the tent, shot in the forehead and throat, and Purdy about 25 yards from the tent, with bullet holes in the throat and in the eye. Both were dead and each had an axe lying near him. The boys saw Conley leave the camp on horseback. Conley rode to Questa and there purchased a box of cartridges from Henry J. Young, the storekeeper, remarking incidentally that he had been shooting deer. From Questa, Conley rode to Red River. Upon the news of the murder reaching Questa, a deputy sheriff went to Red River, where a posse of citizens was organized. Conley's house was surrounded, and some time during the night he surrendered to Joseph Phipps. He was held without bail and lodged in jail. He was later granted a change of venue. Conley maintains that in a quarrel with Redding and Purdy over money matters, the latter two attacked him with their axes and threatened his life. He drew a revolver in self defense and, being a dead shot, he killed both men before they could harm him. Conley is between fifty and sixty years of age and a Civil War veteran. His attorneys are Judge Oliver B. Liddell, of Denver, an old friend, J. B. Lusk of Taos. Conley having been formerly a client of District Attorney E. C. Abbott, of Santa Fe, the prosecution fell to District Attorney Alexander Read of Rio Arriba and San Juan Counties. He is assisted by R. H. Hanna and C. H. Spencer of the law firm of Hanna and Spencer.

The trial now going on is upon one indictment, viz., the one charging Conley with the murder of Redding. It is believed that the trial will take several days and today was spent in securing a jury. At four o'clock this afternoon the prosecution and the defense had passed all the jurors for cause, but the prosecution had made one peremptory challenge and the defense four such challenges. It was 11 o'clock when Conley was brought into court. He is a stockily built, broad shouldered man, and well preserved for his age. He has regular features, a somewhat florid complexion, bleached by his confinement in jail. His hair is sparse, a dark brown and was carefully combed and parted. He has a large bald spot on the back of his head. The defendant was clad in dark gray-blue trousers, a dark blue coat and vest, light blue shirt with lay down collar and dark tie. From the upper side pocket of his coat protruded a carefully folded white handkerchief. He seemed composed and self confident, except for frequently twirling his brown, almost sandy moustache, as he took his seat between his attorneys and facing the jury box.

He chatted and laughed with his attorneys, although talking with them more seriously at frequent intervals. District Attorney Alexander Read commenced the examination of the panel of jurors at 11 o'clock and in half an hour had completed his work, accepting the panel as called. J. B. Lusk, for the defense, went into greater detail in examining the jurors and when court adjourned for the recess at 12:15 p. m., had examined only the following jurors: Francisco Lujan y Martinez of San Ildefonso, married and who did not know whether he was over sixty years of age or not; Jesus Maria Lopez, of Santa Cruz, aged 56 years, married, and Miguel Chaves, of Chimayo, aged 26 years and married. Every member of the panel is a native born citizen and speaks the Spanish language.

The witnesses for the prosecution are as follows: Eugenio Gonzales, Antonio J. V. Gomez, Pedro Varela, J. M. Phipps, Floyd Hamblen, Lee Ray, Daniel Sisneros, Francisco B. Rael, John H. Young, Henry J. Young, Jesus Herrera, Navor Herrera, Oneimo Herrera, Arthur Shields, E. S. Redding, and Juan Archuleta. For the defense: J. T. Heathman, Ricardo Martinez, Gavino Sisneros, George B. Paxton, Denane Monehan, Melquiades Rael, Robert Hutton, William Floyd, James Brigham, F. D. Morse, and A. P. Smithers.

MEMORIALS PRESENTED

Various Associations Appeal to Japanese Throne Not to Ratify Peace Treaty.

DEMAND RESIGNATIONS

Leading Papers Editorially Insist That Government Ministers Retire—Opposition is Very Firm.

Tokio, Sept. 22.—The number of direct memorials to the throne from various associations objecting to the conditions of the peace treaty and asking that its ratification be refused exceeds forty. Despite persistent editorials in the leading papers demanding the resignations of the government ministers, it is believed they will continue to hold office until postbellum measures and proceedings with regard to finance and the Chinese and Korean problems have assumed definite shape. It transpired that, notwithstanding Premier Katsura's assurance to the editors, there exists a clause in the peace treaty by which Japan agrees not to fortify the Strait of Soya. Intense indignation is felt over this concession among influential men, who regard it as a restriction placed on Japan's territorial liberty. The constitutionalists are gradually assuming a firm attitude of opposition to the government.

One Lone Instance of Rejoicing.

Tokio, Sept. 22.—The solitary instance of the public rejoicing at the conclusion of peace with Russia will take place at a meeting to be held today at Kotaka in the remote northeast corner of the island of Nippon.

FOR REDUCTION IN ICING CHARGE.

American Pomological Society Adopts Resolutions to Secure Legislation Therefor.

Kansas City, Sept. 22.—The American Pomological Society in convention here resolved to urge all congressmen to use their influence to secure the passage of legislation looking to the reduction of icing and refrigerator charges for the shipment of fruit. This action was taken following the reading of the report of the committee on resolutions, stating that "the fruit industry is being ruined by refrigerator lines which charge growers excessive prices for icing cars."

THROUGH SERVICE FROM ST. LOUIS.

Wabash and Santa Fe Make Arrangement for Tourist Sleepers Direct to Los Angeles, Cal.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—An agreement has been perfected between the Santa Fe and the Wabash by which through tourist car service will be established between St. Louis and Los Angeles, California. The service will be over the Wabash from St. Louis to Kansas City and then over the Santa Fe to Los Angeles. The agreement will be in effect until March next, and as much later as the amount of travel will warrant.

COURSE OF RAILROAD EDUCATION.

University of Chicago Co-operates With Number of Railroads for Its Establishment.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Co-operation between the University of Chicago and a number of railroad officials has resulted in the establishment of a four years' course of railroad education. The advisory board, composed of railway men, has been established with E. W. McKenna, assistant to President Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, as chairman.

The course will be held at frequent intervals. District Attorney Alexander Read commenced the examination of the panel of jurors at 11 o'clock and in half an hour had completed his work, accepting the panel as called. J. B. Lusk, for the defense, went into greater detail in examining the jurors and when court adjourned for the recess at 12:15 p. m., had examined only the following jurors: Francisco Lujan y Martinez of San Ildefonso, married and who did not know whether he was over sixty years of age or not; Jesus Maria Lopez, of Santa Cruz, aged 56 years, married, and Miguel Chaves, of Chimayo, aged 26 years and married. Every member of the panel is a native born citizen and speaks the Spanish language.

The witnesses for the prosecution are as follows: Eugenio Gonzales, Antonio J. V. Gomez, Pedro Varela, J. M. Phipps, Floyd Hamblen, Lee Ray, Daniel Sisneros, Francisco B. Rael, John H. Young, Henry J. Young, Jesus Herrera, Navor Herrera, Oneimo Herrera, Arthur Shields, E. S. Redding, and Juan Archuleta. For the defense: J. T. Heathman, Ricardo Martinez, Gavino Sisneros, George B. Paxton, Denane Monehan, Melquiades Rael, Robert Hutton, William Floyd, James Brigham, F. D. Morse, and A. P. Smithers.

LAND OWNERS MUST SIGN UP

Supervising Engineer Hall Makes Forcible Speech to Mesilla Valley Farmers

IT IS NOW UP TO THEM

If Required Acreage is Not Guaranteed Texas Will Be Asked to Fill Quota for Elephant Butte Project.

Las Cruces, Sept. 22.—The remarks made at the meeting here by B. M. Hall, supervising engineer of the United States reclamation service, relating to the prospects for beginning work on the Elephant Buttes dam and reservoir project, are still the subject of discussion among the Valley land owners. He told the people that the Washington authorities could not quite understand why there should be any opposition or hesitation on the part of valley land owners, and that they did not propose to take any further steps in the matter until the valley people themselves should demonstrate, by sending in formal pledges for all the land required, that the project, if undertaken, would be in compliance with a unanimous demand, and that the government would be certain to get its money back.

While the law passed by Congress last spring, said he, insures the backing of the government for the whole project, it also requires certain preliminaries. For one thing, the reclamation service construes the law to mean that 180,000 acres of land must be pledged in the United States before the work can be undertaken.

"The reclamation service will not proceed until the requirement is met," said Mr. Hall. "If New Mexico does not want to include so much land as was allotted to her, we shall be forced, under the provisions of the act of Congress, to open the books to Texas, we are assured, can easily supply the required acreage."

"Should Texas undertake to supply the quota, her signers would of course acquire rights under this government project that would be valid against subsequent claimants. The government could not and would not disturb any existing water rights, but after the dam is built those outside water rights would be worth nothing to the owners, for no water would be available to them from the stored supply and each farmer would have to store his own water supply or go without at the driest season."

Mr. Hall was asked about the Leasburg diversion dam, planned as part of the main project, and to be built near Fort Selden. This would supply water in season to all the ditches in the valley between Selden and the Texas line, being especially valuable to Las Cruces and Mesilla Valleys.

"Money has been set aside for this work," said Mr. Hall. "Nearly $200,000 is available to build this diversion dam and carry on the preliminary work on the main project. But not one cent of this money will be spent in your valley until the success of the whole project is assured and the 180,000 acres signed up according to law."

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

HOME MAKERS HEADED FOR NEW MEXICO.

Within the next two or three years the influx of immigrants into the Sunshine Territory and Sunshine State will be greater than ever. From information received by the Bureau of Immigration it is learned that hundreds of immigrants and homeseekers have come to New Mexico since the first of the year and there are many more contemplating doing so in the near future. A ten line advertisement in "The Earth," a monthly paper published by the passenger department of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, concerning the bulletin issued recently by the bureau, entitled, "Ho! to the Land of Sunshine," brought 291 requests for the bulletin from as many different localities, between the first day of August and this date. This item shows conclusively, first, that New Mexico is in the public eye, second, that people are favorably disposed towards the Territory; third, that many want to seek new homes in the southwest, and fourth, that judicious advertising pays. William Nicholson, the colonization agent of the Santa Fe Railway system, writes the bureau that he could profitably distribute 50,000 copies of the bulletin, could he secure them. The records of the U. S. Land Offices having charge of the public lands in the eastern part of the Territory are also most positive that homeseekers and homestead settlers have arrived during the past year and are coming to the Territory today in goodly numbers and are making homes on the public domain. New Mexico is receiving the right kind of immigration and is growing in the right way, despite unjust, unfair and untrue attacks upon its resources and people in eastern newspapers and by writers as well as members of Congress and U. S. Senators and even by some of its own citizens and newspapers that think they and they only are "it," and have little regard for the good name and fair fame of the commonwealth which gives them good homes.

FOR THE CAUSE OF GOOD ROADS.

The forthcoming convention to consider the question of good roads and easily traveled highways for New Mexico is attracting considerable attention and it is universally acknowledged that the subject is of the greatest importance to the Territory. Says the Silver City Independent: "The First Territorial Good Roads Convention to be held at Las Vegas September 26 and 27, 1905, is a movement in the right direction. The Independent is pleased to note that the meeting promises to be a success in every particular and especially in the good that will result to the people of the Territory from the intelligent exchange of views on the subject of roads, streets, alleys, bridges, etc., and the enactment of proper laws governing them. It is proposed to show what can be done in the way of road building by convict labor, and at the same time show the proper method of constructing roads in mountainous sections. The desire is to give the movement such a start that nothing can retard its future growth. Much interest is being manifested throughout the Territory. Grant County is particularly interested in the question prevailing here, and it is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance from this section in order that we may be able to participate in all of the benefits to be derived from the Las Vegas meeting."

The ranges of New Mexico are in prime condition and with a fair amount of snow this winter, they will keep in such for at least a year and a half. The outlook for the New Mexico stock growers for the year 1906 is very good. Next year may not be as profitable as it was this year, but they cannot expect a clear 100 per cent profit on their investments every year. There must be ups and downs.

The joint statehood promoters of the Duke City have not had much luck with the conferences they held this week. They are of the kind of promoters, who wish to sell something which they do not own and the people generally do not take much interest in such bunco games.

THE KIND OF ADVERTISING THAT PAYS.

A remarkable case of successful advertising and convincing proof that judicious and constant advertising pays in all lines of business is given in a recent editorial in the Topeka State Journal. The bank in question is the Citizens State Bank, and it is located in Jewell, Kansas. Says the State Journal: "Something over a year ago a new bank was started in a northern Kansas town. The town was a small one—with less than a thousand inhabitants—it was not a county seat, and it already had a big, strong national bank. Many people thought it required considerable nerve to start a second bank in a town like that. But the new bank has been a remarkable success. It is a state bank with a capital of only $25,000, yet today it has deposits amounting to $116,000 and its loans reach $84,000. Yet it has not torn down the business of the other bank, but instead it has created new business of its own.

"The average person is inclined to think that general newspaper advertising is of as little use in the banking business as in any line of business on earth, but advertising has had much to do with the success of this Kansas bank. In the local paper every week since it started it has had an advertisement nearly as large as any business house in the town. Its 'ad' is always three columns wide and eight inches long, and it always occupies the most prominent position in the paper—the top of the first three columns on the first page. Sometimes this space is expanded to half a page. And every advertisement is as carefully prepared as that of any merchant. The same announcement is never run more than once, and it is always directed to the farmers and business men of that individual community. The object and uses of a bank have been explained, how the patron of a bank conducts his business with the use of checks, and the advantages of a bank account. The result was that a great many people who had never carried bank accounts commenced to do so and new business was created."

A GREAT VARIETY OF KNOCKERS

"The fair knocker is said to have become active in Las Vegas."—Las Vegas Optic.

The Meadow City is fortunate if it has only the fair knocker to contend with. In the Capital the public spirit and decent citizens have all varieties of knockers to fight. There is the political knocker, the business knocker, the anti-improvement knocker, the knocker who spreads calumny and falsehoods concerning the town and its best people, the social knocker, who delights in untrue gossip and the general knocker who never contributes to public enterprises or objects but who is always on top when it comes to abusing and decrying the citizens who are doing good work for the advancement and progress of the town. These classes of Santa Fe's population injure it greatly and retard its business, advancement and prosperity.

THEY'LL LIVE TO FIGHT SOME OTHER DAY.

The greatly advertised joint statehood conference which was held in the Duke City on Wednesday the 20th, proved a genuine fizzle and complete failure, although something like 5,000 circulars had been sent out by the joint statehood gang to many citizens urging them to attend the conference and shout "Give us joint statehood or give us death!" They failed to respond and less than a baker's dozen of joint statehooders assembled on the momentous occasion. They were too few to "cheek" it through and hence they adjourned to some other day.

The Phoenix Gazette is in the habit of calling a spade a spade in the joint statehood question. It does not mind the wrath of the Albuquerque Joint Statehood League, but seems to thrive upon it. Indeed but a day or two ago it had the nerve and hardihood to publish the following editorial items:

"The rag time joint statehood arguments of the Albuquerque gang would be amusing were they not on so serious and important a subject."

"The Albuquerque Journal proposes that the joint statehood boomer drop the word 'joint' from their statehood literature. That's right; continue your campaign of deception, it is fooling no one and will gain nothing for the Albuquerque clique in the long run."

President McCall of the New York Life Insurance Company testified Wednesday last before the legislative investigating committee now in session in New York City, that the Democratic candidates in the last November election, from the immaculate Alton B. Parker, up and down, demanded fat money contributions from his company for campaign purposes. They were after every dollar in sight and wanted all they could get and much more. It does seem as if the immaculate Judge Parker at times is not as saintly and as holy as he claims to be, especially when it comes to asking Democratic campaign contributions.

Here is a peculiar state of affairs and the New Mexican will endeavor to straighten it out. This year's Minnesota State fair was attended by over 80,000 people and the board of managers has a large surplus of actual cash, which it does not know what to do with. The easiest and best way to get rid of it and never to recover it is to turn it over to the Albuquerque Joint Statehood boomer. What they do not know about getting away with other people's money, is not worth knowing.

A GOOD THING FOR THE RAILROADS.

Both the Republican and Pop-Democratic State conventions recently held in Nebraska have declared against the free transportation system and have demanded legislation making it a misdemeanor for railroads to give and for state officials to accept passes over the railroads in the state. Evidently politicians of all political shades there, feel aggrieved at the railroads but it is not clear how the railroads will be hurt if anti-pass legislation is enacted. In the opinion of many experienced railroad managers, the abolition of the pass system would be a good thing for the railroads. These corporations would then pay for what they wanted and the traveling public would pay for what it wanted. It is being considered by many newspaper managers and editors that cash pay for advertising in place of railroad transportation would be more beneficial to the newspapers than the present system. Were there no passes and no free transportation, railroad rates would have to come down to a fair and equitable basis and after all, this would be the best state of affairs.

According to the Albuquerque newspapers there were several thousands of visitors in the Duke City last Wednesday. According to reliable reports none of these could find time or opportunity to present themselves at the grand conference of the their high and mightinesses, and their excellencies, the Joint Statehood League. This was to be expected. The people, outside of a few real estate boomers in the Duke City, care precious little for the project of the Joint Statehood League and still less for the bosses who are the self constituted leaders of the movement.

The people of San Juan County are feeling good. They now have direct rail connection with Durango and this will enable them to ship the large amounts of agricultural and horticultural products raised in that county more quickly and more profitably, to good markets. San Juan County is one of the richest sections of this rich Territory and, since it has direct rail connection with the outside world, its rich resources, in the farming, light growing and stock raising lines and in the development of its great coal fields will begin in earnest. Lucky San Juan!

The Democrats and Populists in Nebraska have fused and have nominated one state ticket for the November election within that state. This was Mr. Bryan's last vote before starting on a year's European and Asiatic journey. What it will profit him, the future will tell.

The board of commission Santa Fe County should not forego a new and modern jail building prime necessity in this county, levy for the purpose of raising for the construction of such a jail has been made. Why delay?

SCROFULA

FROM PARENT TO CHILD

The laws of heredity are invariable and the diseased blood of parents is handed down to children in the form of Scrofula. Being thus deeply rooted nothing can reach the disease but a constitutional remedy. The very foundation of the blood is diseased, and until it is purified and made strong, those who are born with a scrofulous tendency cannot have the blessing of robust health.

Cleveland, O., 122 Brownell St. I inherited Scrofula from my ancestry, and this means, of course, weak, impure blood and a run-down, debilitated condition of the system. Treatment of physicians did not do me anything like the good S. S. S. did last winter when I took it. It promotes appetite and digestion, gives strength and energy, builds up the general health in every way, and in addition to being an excellent blood purifier it adds to its success as a remedy for Scrofula. It did more for me than anything I have used, and with pleasure I recommend it. S. S. S. completely cured me of this blighting disease.

MRS. LOUISE COHEN,

S. S. S., the king of blood purifiers, is the medicine that is required, because it changes the quality of the blood by cleansing it of all poisons and impurities, building it up and strengthening the entire system. When S. S. S. has restored the blood to a healthy condition and forced out the scrofulous deposits, there is a sure return to health. No remedy has ever been found to equal this great vegetable preparation for the cure of all diseases arising from a diseased or impure blood supply. If you have Scrofula or any tendency that way write us all about your case and we will send you a book describing the disease and give, without charge, any medical advice you may need.

Mr. G. W. Fowler, of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Ala. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some soured meat and I gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me. Two fellow-jurors in the same manner and the cured the three of us all druggists."

NEWS NOTES

General Manager Douglas denies flatly the rumor of the purchase by the Phelps-Dodge Company of Greene's Cananea or Shannon mine.

The territorial loan commission accepted the bid of Seasongood & May, brokers of Cincinnati, Ohio, for the $25,000 bond issue ordered by the commission to refund certain Pima County indebtedness.

Allen R. English, of Tombstone, one of the most widely known lawyers of the Territory, was fined $25 and cost by Judge Campbell for contempt of court. The fine was remitted later when English apologized to the court.

A gambler by the name of McCaskill is alleged to have slugged Kid McCung in the Orient at Bisbee the other night. After getting the pugilist down, he is said to have bitten a chunk out of his ear. McCaskill was bound over on a charge of mayhem.

A rumor has been circulated in Globe that A. M. Beal had passed from life at a Los Angeles hospital. A letter dated Sunday last stated that he was very low and might not recover, but might linger for days or weeks. Mr. Beal has been superintendent of the Globe, Gila Valley and Northern Railway.

Before the eyes of fifteen helpless patients in the surgical ward of the Copper Queen hospital, Frank Miller, a miner, Thursday night at Bisbee, cut his throat from ear to ear with a razor. Miller was from Illinois, unmarried and aged 30. He had been under the care of the surgeons for a month on account of a broken leg. Despondency over his condition is the likely cause of the trouble.

The Arizona Directory Company has been organized and as soon as the ordinance providing for the numbering of the houses is passed by the council and the work of numbering begun, work will commence on a directory of Douglas. The directory will contain the name of every one in the city and Pirtleville over the age of 16, and a complete census of the entire population of the city will also be made at the same time.

Judge Holt, in the United States District Court, appointed Judge Hiram D. Steele, of New York, receiver for the Arizona Water Company, a Maine Corporation owning lands and water rights in Maricopa County. The receivership was applied for by the New York Trust Company, which is trustee for the $300,000 worth of bonds issued by the company in 1899. The Trust Company alleges a default in the payment of interest.

The story of pretty Estella Segorri's 10,000 mile trip by land and sea from Sunny Italy to Arizona to marry the man she loved, only to be sent to the insane asylum, is most pathetic. True, she married and was happy for a short time and then their home at Poland, Yavapai County, was assailed by a ruffian, who administered a severe beating to her husband, Sanati and herself. As a result of the injuries received she gradually lost her mind and it became necessary to confine her. She has just been placed in the territorial asylum for the insane at Phoenix.

John Skaggs killed George Clark at the Skaggs ranch near Flagstaff last week. The weapon used was a shotgun loaded with No. 2 buckshot. Clark was shot in the left breast, his heart being torn to pieces. There were no witnesses to the killing and Skaggs says it was done in self defense. Clark had leased the Skaggs ranch, and his wife was the only person on the place, aside from the principals, and she knew nothing of the affair until it was over. Clark's pistol was found about two feet from the body. It was half cocked and one chamber had been fired. Skaggs claimed that Clark ran after being shot from where his pistol lay to where his body was found. There is considerable excitement among the neighbors of Skaggs and Clark over the killing. The latter was a young man who had never been in serious trouble before. After the shooting Skaggs went to Camp Verde and gave himself up to the deputy sheriff. He is one of the old settlers on the Beaver, and heretofore has not had trouble of a serious nature.

A daily program has been arranged for Indian games, dances, and foot and pony races, in addition to which the Santa Fe band will be engaged for the occasion and arrangements are now in progress for securing the Carnival Shows from the Territorial Fair at Albuquerque.

Ample arrangements have been made for the accommodation of a large number of people and reduced rates of transportation have been arranged.

Rev. R. M. Craig, superintendent of education of the home mission board of the Presbyterian Church, who has been in Santa Fe on business connected with the location here of the James Mission School for boys, left last evening for Albuquerque, from where he will go to Muskogee, Indian Territory. After several days there on business Rev. Craig will return to New York City.

Judge Oliver D. Liddell, of Denver, arrived in the city last evening and is quartered at the Palace. Judge Liddell will conduct the defense of John Conly, of Taos County, whose trial on indictment of murder is now in progress in the district court here. Judge Liddell held the position of Judge of the district court in the city of Denver for six years and for the past ten years has been practicing his profession in the Queen City of the Plains.

Judge F. D. Morse, proprietor of the Weekly Sun, at Santa Rosa, the county seat of Guadalupe County, arrived in the city last evening and will remain here several days. His object in coming to the Capital is to take part in the defense of John Conly, who is on trial in the district court here on indictment for murder. Conly was deputy sheriff and constable in the criminal court in the city of Denver for two years while Judge Morse was the presiding judge of that court.

MISS ROSE IVY PLEASES LAS VEGAS.

Concerning Miss Rose Ivy, who appears at the opera house tonight, the Las Vegas Optic of yesterday says:

"The entertainment at the Duncan opera house last night given by Rose Ivy was certainly one of the most wonderful exhibitions ever seen in Las Vegas. Miss Ivy performed feats which were beyond explanation. A billiard cue was held in her open palm. It could not be moved by six men. Ten men could not lift Miss Ivy from the floor, although they strained every muscle, six men on a chair were lifted by her without any sensible pressure of her hands against the side of the chair, and many things seeming equally as impossible were done by this human dynamo."

SOMETHING NEW AT LAS VEGAS FAIR AND FESTIVAL.

You won't have to spend much money, nor go very far to see it, either. Go to Las Vegas Fair and Festival.

One and one-half cents per mile each way is all it will cost. Just $2.50 from Santa Fe to Las Vegas and return.

TORTURE AND HUMILIATION

For Fifteen Years Face and Body Mass of Itching Sores — Could Not Express Suffering — Doctors Failed — Had Lost Hope

CURED BY CUTICURA AT COST OF $1.25

"My head was one mass of scabs, my forehead was covered down almost to my eyebrows, and I had to wear my hat all the time. My body was covered with spots in size from a pin-head to as large as a silver dollar. A white, crusty scab would form and itch, and words cannot express the torture and humiliation I suffered for fifteen years. I tried many doctors, and all kinds of treatments, but could get no help, and I thought there was no hope for me. A friend told me to get Cuticura. I did, and in three days my head was as clear as ever. I applied the Ointment night and morning, also taking a hot bath three times a week, and using the Ointment freely after the bath. After using one cake of Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was completely cured, without mark or blemish. I was so pleased I felt like running down the street to tell every one I met what Cuticura had done for me. If any one is in doubt about this, they may write to me. (signed) H. B. Franklin, 717 Washington St., Allegheny, Pa."

COMPLETE TREATMENT For Every Humour $1

Complete external and internal treatment for every humour, consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may now be had for one dollar. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, and scaly humours, eczemas, rashes, and irritations, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Sole U.S. Agents. Send for "Skin and Blood Purification."

Chairman Arthur Seligman of the Board of County Commissioners of Santa Fe County has received the acceptance of Charles F. Easley of his appointment as a delegate from Santa Fe County to the Good Roads' Convention to be held in Las Vegas, September 26th and 27th, 1905. This makes a total of twelve delegates, who have signified their intentions of attending the convention as representatives of this county.

Mrs. Frank Padilla y A. died this morning at her home on Cerrillos Road after a lingering illness of twelve months duration from cancer of the stomach. Deceased was born in Socorro, Socorro County, February 27th, 1865, and leaves a husband and two sons to mourn her loss. Funeral will be had Monday morning, mass being said at the Cathedral and in terment made in Rosario Cemetery. Charles Wagner, undertaker, is the director in charge.

Dr. A. Jones, of Logan, Union County, New Mexico, writes to this paper that crops in the vicinity of his town are very good and that everything is peaceful. Despite letters sent to eastern newspapers from New Mexico that this is a very bad country, not a single assassination has occurred since he settled there some time ago; and matters are very peaceful and quiet. Farming there is mostly conducted under the Campbell soil culture method and is so far successful.

The forecast for New Mexico is showers and cooler weather tonight, except in the southeast portion; showers generally Saturday; Colorado: fair weather tonight and Saturday; warmer in the southeast portion tonight. The maximum temperature in Santa Fe yesterday was 78 degrees at 3:05 o'clock in the afternoon, the minimum was 43 at 5:40 o'clock in the morning, the mean was 60 and the relative humidity was 27 per cent. At 6 o'clock this morning the temperature was 53 degrees.

John A. Laughlin, the Trinidad contractor and builder, has been awarded the contract for the construction of the N. B. Laughlin block, corner of San Francisco Street and Don Gaspar Avenue, and work will commence at once on the new structure. The building is to be completed by January 17, 1906, provided the necessary brick can be procured. It is to be 95x90 feet and will be two stories in height. The work will be completed just as fast as skilled labor and plenty of it can bring this about.

Tomorrow the Indians of the Santa Clara Pueblo, located about twenty-eight miles north of here, will give one of their yearly dances, which promises to be a very interesting and unique affair. Tourists now in Santa Fe should attend this event. The Santa Clara Pueblo can be easily reached by driving overland or going via the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad. The Santa Clara Pueblo is very interesting and novel to eastern people. The trip will also be very pleasant from a scenic standpoint, as the Rio Grande Valley now presents a very pretty appearance and as the section of country in which the Santa Clara Pueblo is located is very picturesque.

And still the demand for dwelling houses in Santa Fe keeps up. The demand is far in excess of the supply. A number of residences are expected to be built this fall but only a limited number have been commenced. A. Reingardt has begun the construction of a modern cottage on lot three of the Fort Marcy Addition on Washington Avenue, directly opposite the Palace Hotel. Evaristo Lucero is making arrangements for the erection of a comfortable dwelling house on his property at the corner of Don Gaspar Avenue and Cerrillos Street. A large number of such homes would be a paying investment and enterprising citizens, who have money to invest, should use it in the construction of suitable houses or cottages.

Miss Rose Ivy, who will appear at the opera house tonight and tomorrow, last May gave an entertainment at the University of Alabama, and the Tuscaloosa Times-Herald says of her: "Miss Rose Ivy, the magnetic marvel, gave a very interesting and enjoyable exhibition at the University last night. Clark Hall was well filled with faculty and students, all of whom took a lively interest in Miss Ivy's performance. Her wonderful feats puzzled the most scientific of the University professors as well as the most unlearned laymen. A committee of the faculty gave a written endorsement of Miss Ivy and commended her exhibition in the highest terms. Whenever she shall care to come back to Tuscaloosa she will be warmly welcomed."

Max Kirchman, who is in Socorro, with a view to locating a colony of Bohemian farmers in central New Mexico, is well pleased with that section of the Territory. He will write letters from there to newspapers in the Bohemian language, in the city of Chicago, where there are 100,000 Bohemians and where four daily newspapers in the Bohemian language are published. Mr. Kirchman has written to the Bureau of Immigration for literature to be sent to prominent Bohemian citizens who are interested in an immigration project for their countrymen in New Mexico. He is sanguine of success and thinks that within a reasonable space of time he will be able to induce a large number of his countrymen to buy land in the Rio Grande Valley and become permanent citizens there.

Although the erection of modern dwelling houses in Santa Fe has received but little attention in the past several months, the building fever is strong. The new high school building is well on the way to completion, ground is being broken for the construction of a business block by Judge N. B. Laughlin at the corner of Don Gaspar Avenue and San Francisco Street, the Woman's Board of Trade is working diligently towards the erection of a library building, N. Salmon has the preparatory arrangements completed for the erection of a large business block on the site

NEW MEXICO HAPPENINGS

The seven-year-old son of Green Ussery, a ranchman near Carlsbad, in Eddy County, was seriously injured last week by falling from a horse.

Miss Nellie Ekert, of Pinos Altos, Grant County, and Sergeant William Murphy, of Fort Bayard, were married at the home of the bride's parents last Sunday.

Out of the 110,000 acres of land which the land owners of the Mesilla Valley must sign in order to get the Elephant Buttes dam, over 90,000 acres have been signed.

Rev. J. A. Armstrong, Baptist minister at Silver City, has handed in his resignation from the pastorate and will accept a clerical position with the Santa Fe Railway Company.

W. C. MacDonald, member of the Territorial Cattle Sanitary Board, has been seriously ill at his ranch near Carrizozo, Lincoln County. He is slowly improving.

George McSherry, ranchman on the Mimbres River in Grant County, has fifteen acres of alfalfa from which he harvested this year eighty tons of hay for which he gets $10 a ton.

Thirty-six homeseekers have arrived in the Pecos Valley during the past few days. They were brought there by the Pecos Valley Immigration Company and stopped off at Roswell, Hagerman, Artesia and Lakewood.

Socorro and Magdalena, in Socorro County, have been connected with a telephone line. The system will in a short time be extended and incorporated into the long distance line between Denver and El Paso.

An old land mark in White Oaks, Lincoln County, has been destroyed. The old "McDonald Castle," which has been there for a number of decades, has been torn down and the material moved to be used in another building.

Gregorio Baca, of Manzano, was last week bitten on the face and arm by a vicious dog. The boy was just starting to Estancia but had to remain at home. The wounds are healing nicely. The dog was immediately shot by the boy's father.

John Molesworth, of Clarendon, Texas, has purchased 3,000 two and three year old steers in the Pecos Valley for delivery in the Texas town this month. The stock will be wintered in the Panhandle country of Texas preparatory to shipment to Kansas City early in the spring.

The following marriage licenses have been issued by the probate clerk of Socorro County, during the past week: Cristobal Padilla to Miss Maria Lina Baca; Felipe Moreno to Miss Carlotta Garcia; Victorio Lopez, to Miss Felipe Baca; Caledon Romero to Miss Porfiria Jojola; Elias Armijo to Miss Florentina Montoya.

Rev. T. E. Marshall, of Carlsbad, Eddy County, in a sermon last Sunday, made several remarks in regard to the location and condition of the Eddy County jail. His points were well taken. It is proposed to build an underground bastille in the county seat of Eddy County and the minister denounces this as criminal and inhuman.

Unlabeled Securities.

"I don't see why Mr. Stubbs wasn't willing to lend Willie Porter the $200 he needed to get that business opportunity in Nashville," said Mrs. Compton to her husband on her return from the sewing circle. "Everybody was talking about it this afternoon, and Mrs. Porter feels real hard to Mr. Stubbs."

"Folks have lent money to Willie Porter before this and never seen the color of their money again," said Mr. Compton, "and Mr. Stubbs made his money by hard work and saving. He'd hate to lose a mite of it."

"He wouldn't lose a mite of it," said Mrs. Compton indignantly. "Willie's been unfortunate, but so have some others now and again. Do you recollect your fancy squash investment? Well, anyway, this time Willie had excellent security to offer, and he was willing to pay back 2 per cent at the end too."

"What security?" asked Mr. Compton, not deigning to refer to the rate of interest offered.

"He offered Mr. Stubbs two dozen silver teaspoons and a ladle," said Mrs. Compton impressively, "besides a feather boa and a seal plush coat and a sewing machine that runs the easiest of any in this town. I don't know what he could have wanted more than that, I'm sure."

African Hospitality.

Hospitality may be considered as one of the characteristics of not only the Veis, but of the whole African race. It is considered the duty of every citizen to entertain strangers without the smallest compensation. Places of rest stand always open, and when these are found occupied by strangers a man goes and tells his wife, who will send her servants with water for the strangers to wash their feet, for, as they wear no shoes, they naturally need such an accommodation. Afterward rooms and cloth wrappers are given them, food is brought from all quarters or they are invited to eat with the people. They continue to be so provided for even if they stay months. Their garments are also washed and returned to them. On leaving they generally make a small gift to the wife of the host, though not more than two or three cents or two or three English pennies—Century.

CHAPTER VI.

FORTNIGHT later Montgomery Brewster had a new home. In strict obedience to his chief's command, Nopper Harrison had leased until the September following one of the most expensive apartments to be found in New York city. The rental was $23,000, and the shrewd financial representative had saved $1,000 for his employer by paying the sum in advance. But when he reported this bit of economy to Mr. Brewster he was surprised that it brought forth a frown. "I never saw a man who had less sense about money," muttered Nopper to himself. "Why, he spends it like a Chicago millionaire trying to get into New York society. If it were not for the rest of us he'd be a pauper in six months."

Paul Pettigill, to his own intense surprise and, it must be said, consternation, was engaged to redecorate certain rooms according to a plan suggested by the tenant. The rising young artist in a great flurry of excitement agreed to do the work for $500 and then blushed like a schoolgirl when he was informed by the practical Brewster that the paints and material for one room alone would cost twice as much.

"Petty, you have no more idea of business than a goat," criticised Montgomery. And Paul lowered his head in humble confession. "That man who calculates your studio could figure on a piece of work with more intelligence than you reveal. I'll pay $2,500. It's only a fair price, and I can't afford anything cheap in this place."

"At this rate you won't be able to afford anything," said Pettigill to himself.

And so it was that Pettigill and a corps of decorators soon turned the rooms into a confusion of scaffoldings and paint buckets, out of which in the end emerged something very distinguished. No one had ever thought Pettigill deficient in ideas, and this was his opportunity. The only drawback was the time limit which Brewster so remorselessly fixed. Without that he felt that he could have done something splendid in the way of decorative panels—something that would make even the glory of Puvie de Chavannes turn pallid. With it he was obliged to curb his turbulent ideas, and he decided that a rich simplicity was the proper note. The result was gorgeous, but not too gorgeous—it had depth and distinction.

Elated and eager, he assisted Brewster in selecting furniture and hangings for each room, but he did not know that his employer was making conditional purchases of everything. Mr. Brewster had agreements with all the dealers to the effect that they were to buy everything back at a fair price if he desired to give up his establishment within a year. He adhered to this rule in all cases that called for the purchase outright of substantial necessities. The bump of calculativeness in Montgomery Brewster's head was growing to abnormal proportions.

In retaining his rooms at Mrs. Gray's he gave the flimsy but pathetic excuse that he wanted a place in which he might find occasional seasons of peace and quiet. When Mrs. Gray protested against this useless bit of extravagance his grief was so obviously genuine that her heart was touched, and there was a deep, fervent joy in her soul. She loved this fair faced boy, and tears of happiness came to her eyes when she was given this new proof of his loyalty and devotion. His rooms were kept for him just as if he had expected to occupy them every day and every night, notwithstanding the luxurious apartments he was to maintain elsewhere. The Oliver Optic books still lay in the attic, all tattered and torn, but to Margaret the embodiment of prospective riches, promises of sweet hours to come. She knew Monty well enough to feel that he would not forget the dark little attic of old for all the splendors that might come with the new dispensation.

There was no little surprise when he sent out invitations for a large dinner. His grandfather had been dead less than a month, and society was somewhat scandalized by the plain symptoms of disrespect he was showing. No one had expected him to observe a prolonged season of mourning, but that he should disregard the formalities completely was rather shocking. Some of the older people, who had not long to live and who had heirs apparent, openly denounced his heartlessness. It was not very gratifying to think of what might be in store for him if all memories were as short as Brewster's. Old Mrs. Ketchell changed her will, and two nephews were cut off entirely. A very modest and impecunious grandson of Joseph Garrity also was to sustain a severe change of fortune in the near future if the cards spoke correctly. Judge Van Woort, who was not expected to live through the night, got better immediately after hearing some one in the sickroom whisper that Montgomery Brewster was to give a big dinner. Naturally the heirs-to-be condemned young Brewster in no uncertain terms.

Nevertheless the dinner to be given by the grandson of old Edwin Peter Brewster was the talk of the town, and not one of the sixty invited guests could have been persuaded to miss it. Reports as to its magnificence were abroad long before the night set for the dinner. One of them had it that it was to cost $3,000 a plate. From that figure the legendary price receded to a mark as low as $500. Montgomery would have been only too glad to pay $3,000 or more, but some mysterious force conveyed to his mind a perfect portrait of Swearingen Jones in the act of putting down a large black mark against him, and he forbore.

"I wish I knew whether I had to abide by the New York or the Montana standard of extravagance," Brewster said to himself. "I wonder if he ever sees the New York papers."

Late each night the last of the grand old Brewster family went to his bedroom, where, after dismissing his man, he settled down at his desk, with a pencil and a pad of paper. Lighting the candles, which were more easily managed, he found, than lamps and much more costly, he thoughtfully and religiously calculated his expenses for the day. Nopper Harrison and Elton Gardner had the receipts for all moneys spent, and Joe Bragdon was keeping an official report, but the "chief," as they called him, could not go to sleep until he was satisfied in his own mind that he was keeping up the average. For the first two weeks it had been easy—in fact, he seemed to have quite a comfortable lead in the race. He had spent almost $100,000 in the fortnight, but he realized that the greater part of it had gone into the yearly and not the daily expense account. He kept a "profit and loss" entry in his little private ledger, but it was not like any other account of the kind in the world. What the ordinary merchant would have charged to "loss" he jotted down on the "profit" side, and he was continually looking for opportunities to swell the total.

Rawles, who had been his grandfather's butler since the day after he landed in New York, came over to the grandson's establishment, greatly to the wrath and confusion of the latter's Aunt Emmeline. The chef came from Paris, and his name was Detuit. Ellis, the footman, also found a much better berth with Monty than he had had in the house on the avenue. Aunt Emmeline never forgave her nephew for these base and disturbing acts of treachery, as she called them.

One of Monty's most extraordinary financial feats grew out of the purchase of a $14,000 automobile. He blandly admitted to Nopper Harrison and the two secretaries that he intended to use it to practice with only, and that as soon as he learned how to run an "auto" as it should be run he expected to buy a good, sensible, durable machine for $7,000.

His staff officers frequently put their heads together to devise ways and means of curbing Monty's reckless extravagance. They were worried.

"He's like a sailor in port," protested Harrison. "Money is no object if he wants a thing, and—hang it—he seems to want everything he sees."

"It won't last long," Gardner said reassuringly. "Like his namesake, Monte-Christo, the world is his just now, and he wants to enjoy it."

"He wants to get rid of it, it seems to me."

Whenever they reproached Brewster about the matter he disarmed them by saying: "Now that I've got money I mean to give my friends a good time. Just what you'd do if you were in my place. What's money for, anyway?"

"But this $3,000 a plate dinner!"

"I'm going to give a dozen of them, and even then I can't pay my just debts. For years I've been entertained at people's houses and have been taken cruising on their yachts. They have always been bully to me, and what have I ever done for them? Nothing. Now that I can afford it, I am going to return some of these favors and square myself. Doesn't it sound reasonable?"

And so preparations for Monty's dinner went on. In addition to what he called his "efficient corps of gentlemanly aids" he had secured the services of Mrs. Dan DeMille as "social mentor and utility chaperon." Mrs. DeMille was known in the papers as the leader of the fast young married set. She was one of the cleverest and best looking young women in town, and her husband was one of those who did not have to be "invited too." Mr. DeMille lived at the club and visited his home. Some one said that he was so slow and his wife so fast that when she invited him to dinner he was usually two or three days late. Altogether Mrs. DeMille was a decided acquisition to Brewster's campaign committee. It required just her touch to make his parties fun instead of funny.

It was on Oct. 18 that the dinner was given. With the skill of a general Mrs. Dan had seated the guests in such a way that from the beginning things went off with zest. Colonel Drew took in Mrs. Valentine, and his content was assured. Mr. Van Winkle and the beautiful Miss Valentine were side by side, and no one could say he looked unhappy. Mr. Cromwell went in with Mrs. Savage, and the same delicate tact—in some cases it was almost indelicacy—was displayed in the disposition of other guests.

Somehow they had come with the expectation of being bored. Curiosity prompted them to accept, but it did not prevent the subsequent inevitable lassitude. Socially Monty Brewster had yet to make himself felt. He and his diners were something to talk about, but they were accepted hesitatingly, haltingly. People wondered how he had secured the co-operation of Mrs. Dan, but then Mrs. Dan always did go in for a new toy. To her was inevitably attributed whatever success the dinner achieved, and it was no small measure.

Yet there was nothing startling about the affair. Monty had decided to begin conservatively. He did the conventional thing, but he did it well. He added a touch or two of luxury, the faintest aroma of splendor. Pettigill had designed the curiously wayward table, with its comfortable atmosphere of companionship, and arranged its decoration of great lavender orchids and lacy butterfly festoons of white ones touched with yellow. He had wanted to use dahlias in their many rich shades, from pale yellow to orange and deep red, but Monty held out for orchids. It was the artist, too, who had found in a rare and happy moment the massive gold candelabra—ancient things of a more luxurious age—and their opalescent shades. Against his advice the service, too, was of gold—"rank vulgarity," he called it, with its rich meaningless ornamentation. But here Monty was obdurate. He insisted that he liked the color and that porcelain had no character. Mrs. Dan only prevented a quarrel by suggesting that several courses should be served upon Sevres.

Pettigill's scheme for lighting the room was particularly happy. For the benefit of his walls and the four lovely Monets which Monty had purchased at his instigation he had designed a ceiling screen of heavy rich glass in tones of white that grew into yellow and dull green. It served to conceal the lights in the daytime, and at night the glare of electricity was immensely softened and made harmonious by passing through it. It gave a note of quiet to the picture which caused even these men and women, who had been here and there and seen many things, to draw in their breath sharply. Altogether the effect manifestly made an impression.

Such an environment had its influence upon the company. It went far toward making the dinner a success. From far in the distance came the softened strains of Hungarian music, and never had the little band played the "Valse Amoureuse" and the "Valse Bleue" with the spirit it put into them that night. Yet the soft clamor in the dining room insistently ignored the emotion of the music. Monty, bored as he was between the two most important dowagers at the feast, wondered dimly what invisible part it played in making things go. He had a vagrant fancy that without it there would have been no zest for talk, no noisy competition to overcome, no hurdles to leap. As it was, the talk certainly went well, and Mrs. Dan inspected the result of her work from time to time with smiling satisfaction. From across the table she heard Colonel Drew's voice: "Brewster evidently objects to a long siege. He is planning to carry us by assault."

Mrs. Dan turned to Subway Smith, who was at her right—the latest addition to her menagerie. "What is this friend of yours?" she asked. "I have never seen such complex simplicity. This new plaything has no real charm for him. He is breaking it to find out what it is made of, and something will happen when he discovers the sawdust."

"Oh, don't worry about him," said Subway easily. "Monty's at least a good sportsman. He won't complain, whatever happens. He'll accept the reckoning and pay the piper."

It was only toward the end of the evening that Monty found his reward in a moment with Barbara Drew. He stood before her, squaring his shoulders belligerently to keep away intruders, and she smiled up at him in that bewildering fashion of hers. But it was only for an instant, and then came a terrifying din from the dining room, followed by the clamor of crashing glass. The guests tried for a moment to be courteously oblivious, but the noise was so startling that such politeness became farcical. The host, with a little laugh, went down the hall. It was the beautiful screen near the ceiling that had fallen. A thousand pieces of shattered glass covered the place. The table was a sickening heap of crushed orchids and spluttering candles. Frightened servants rushed into the room from one side just as Brewster entered from the other. Stupefaction halted them. After the first pulseless moment of horror exclamations of dismay went up on all sides. For Monty Brewster the first sensation of regret was followed by a diabolical sense of joy.

"Thank the Lord!" he said softly in the hush.

The look of surprise he encountered in the faces of his guests brought him up with a jerk.

"That it didn't happen while we were dining," he added, with serene thankfulness. And his nonchalance scored for him in the idle game he was playing. (To be Continued Tomorrow.)

THOMAS HANNA BUYS MARKET.

Bischoff & Ortiz Have Disposed of Their Butcher Shop and Slaughter House to Him.

Yesterday afternoon a business change was consummated in Santa Fe whereby Thomas Hanna, a prominent ranchman and stock raiser of Lamy, became sole owner and proprietor of the meat market and slaughter house formerly conducted under the firm name of Bischoff & Ortiz. Mr. Hanna, who is a brother of Attorney R. H. Hanna, of this city, will take possession Monday next. The market will be moved from its present location at 222 San Francisco Street to the room occupied by the Coronado Restaurant at No. 254 San Francisco Street, the restaurant to be installed in the building vacated by the market. The new proprietor will fit up a first class modern market and will keep the best of meats. It is rumored that after the new market is established and opened for business that a revolution in the prices of meat will visit the Capital City. Mr. Hanna has several hundred head of cattle which he wishes to dispose of as soon as possible, as his range is overstocked. These animals are in the best of condition and will be sold at the lowest possible price. The retiring proprietors of the market will remain in Santa Fe for some time and all accounts will be collected by them.

DISTRICT COURT.

The fall session of the First Judicial District Court for Santa Fe County was called to order yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the court room at the county court house, Associate Justice John R. McFie presiding. Other officials present were District Clerk A. M. Bergere, District Attorney E. C. Abbott and Under Sheriff Jose L. Lopez.

In the case of the Territory vs. Ethel Bemis, in the district court for the First Judicial District for Santa Fe County, the jury last evening brought in a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation for mercy, upon the charge of maintaining a bawdy house contrary to statute within 700 feet of a place of public assembly. The house in question is a new, large stone building on Manhattan Avenue, not far from the athletic grounds of St. Michael's College. During the trial of the case, Judge John R. McFie made the important ruling that a grandstand on a baseball ground like that of St. Michael's College, is a place of public assembly within the meaning of the statute which prohibits the maintenance of bawdy houses within 700 feet of places of public assembly.
