GOULD WINS VICTORY

Over Joseph Ramsey, Jr., In Fight for Control of the Wabash Railroad

BY A LARGE MAJORITY

The Vote Was 228,510 Against 31,840--Six Bond Holders' Directors Lost to Deposed Official.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 11.—George J. Gould today won a decisive victory over Joseph Ramsey, Jr., in the contest for the control of the Wabash Railroad, electing all of the six directors to be chosen by the bondholders. The vote cast by Gould was 228,510, against 31,840 for Ramsey. The latter's claim of the right to vote under the cumulative system was disallowed by the tellers. When the meeting opened this morning George Green, for Mr. Gould, withdrew the nominations made yesterday and substituted the names of Thomas H. Hubbard, E. T. Jeffery, John T. Terry, Winslow S. Pierce, R. M. Galloway and E. T. Welles. The names withdrawn were Russell Sage, Robert S. Clowry and W. E. Saunders. Mr. Ramsey did not make nominations in advance of the vote. Stockholders' Meeting Also Tediuous.

Toledo, Oct. 11.—After the close of the bondholders meeting, a caucus of stockholders to choose directors convened and the same tedious examination of proxies that consumed so much time in the bondholders' caucus was commenced and the meeting promised to continue even longer than that of the bondholders.

INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AT SANTA FE.

INSTITUTE FOR DEAF AND DUMB

New Home Opened September 18, 1905--Built at Cost of $18,000

FUNDS ARE INADEQUATE

For Its Maintenance With Full Quota of Pupils -- Brief History of Its Existence.

The New Mexico Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, located in this city, has been opened since September 18, 1905, and now has enrolled four pupils. The Board of Trustees of the Institution has sent circular letters to all parts of the Territory and it is expected that within a few weeks at least twenty more pupils will arrive. The board of trustees consists of R. J. Palen, president; Francisco Delgado, secretary and treasurer; Grant Rivenburg, S. G. Cartwright and J. A. Wood, with Governor Otero as an advisory member.

Lars M. Larsen, the superintendent, formerly conducted a private institution for the deaf and dumb in the building just north of the present handsome structure. The Territorial institution was created in 1887 and about ten years ago the Larsen building was purchased. The first board consisted of the attorney general, the territorial auditor and the territorial treasurer. In 1889 a new board was created consisting of five members. The original school was kept open until 1901, having taken care of an average of about twenty pupils each year. It was then closed for lack of funds, the Territory having failed to make an adequate appropriation. The U. S. government had appropriated 50,000 acres of land for the school and in 1902 work on the present building was begun, the funds for its construction having been derived mainly from the sale of 10,000 acres of the land. Failure to secure the necessary brick retarded its completion until 1904, and in August of that year it was turned over to and accepted by the board from the contractors. The total cost was about $18,000.

This year the building has been partially furnished and on September 18, it was formally opened with Lars M. Larsen as superintendent, and Mrs. Larson as matron. The building will accommodate from 75 to 100 pupils but the $2,800 a year received from the Territory for its maintenance is entirely inadequate to take care of this number. However, the proceeds from the future sale, when made, of the balance of the 50,000 acres of land, given by the government, will be invested and the income will be used as a maintenance fund.

In 1903, the Territorial legislature passed a law creating a Territorial Institute for the Deaf and Dumb and located the same at Santa Fe, although the new law did not make any change in the existing arrangement for the maintenance of the institution. As rapidly as the names of eligible pupils can be obtained, it is the intention of the present board of trustees to arrange for them at the school, where they will be educated and taught some trade which will enable them to gain a livelihood later in life.

INAUGURATE WAR ON GAMBLING.

The Methodists of Arizona Ask That It Be Prohibited in the Enabling Act.

Yuma, Arizona, Oct. 11.—At the annual meeting of the Methodist church of Arizona, the ministers by unanimous vote adopted the following resolution:

In view of the probability of Congress passing an enabling act providing for the admission to statehood of Arizona and New Mexico, singly or jointly, we, the ministers of the Methodist Episcopal mission of Arizona, in annual conference assembled, urge upon congress the importance and right of Arizona citizens and our large population of Indians, on and off government reservations, being protected from the gambling evil as is provided in the Oklahoma and Indian Territory section of the statehood bill. The Indians and citizens of Arizona are as much entitled to protection from these evils as are Oklahoma and the Indian Territory.

We urge, on behalf of the coming state, that the Arizona section of the enabling act provide a prohibition against the licensing of gambling or lotteries in the coming state.

We also make an appeal to the ministers and members of the great Methodist church throughout the United States to come to our help in this struggle, reminding them that Arizona citizenship is composed largely of the sons and daughters of every state in the Union.

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED.

Emperor Francis Joseph Puts an End to Sessions for Next Two Months.

Buda Pest, Hungary, Oct. 11.—Parliament was prorogued yesterday by royal rescript until December, 1905. Acting Premier Baron Fejervary and his colleagues did not attend the brief sitting of parliament. The Baron merely sent the president of the Lower House the rescript signed by the King-Emperor Francis Joseph proroguing parliament and explaining that the step was necessitated by the fact that no success has been attained in forming a new cabinet on a basis which would secure parliament against disorder.

Shouts of "scoundrels" and similar epithets mingled with queries of "where's the constitution?" greeted the reading of the rescript, but there were no cabinet ministers present to take note of the insults hurled at them.

Count Julius Andrássy rose and denounced the ministers who contrary to precedent failed to appear before parliament.

"The government," he said, "has thereby shown contempt of the house and has abandoned all pretense of conforming with the laws."

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

Final disposition of a number of applications for land was made, after which the resolution passed at the morning session was again discussed, with the result that all members of the commission will do all in their power to get the government to take hold of the Avalon dam project at Carlsbad and hasten the reconstruction of same. The hearing in Mrs. L. C. Klasner's case was postponed until the next regular meeting, upon request of counsel of Mrs. Klasner. The American Valley Water Storage and Irrigation Company made application for land in western Socorro County for irrigation project, but the commission needed more data and information in regard to the extent, etc., of the project before action could be taken. The company was notified to prepare a complete report of the project and present it at the next meeting.

George B. Paxton and others made application to be allowed to purchase land at $1.50 per acre, but the board refused to consider the proposition as the law states clearly that the minimum price of land shall be $3 an acre.

Chairman Pratt was authorized to take up the matter of the White Mountain Irrigation Company's project in Lincoln County with the United States Reclamation service with a view to having an investigation of same made by government experts for the purpose of finding whether the proposed project is a feasible one or not.

H. C. Abbott, of Springer, was given until the next regular meeting to prepare, present and file a complete and detailed report of the irrigation project in Colfax County, in which he is interested, after which the board will take final action.

Accounts against the commission for the past quarter were examined, audited and ordered paid.

There being no further business before the commission it adjourned at 4:30 o'clock until the next regular meeting in January.

FIVE YEARS OF GROWTH.

It is now acknowledged, in view of developments during the past five years, that the census of 1900 did a palpable injustice to New Mexico and yet, that census had a number of pleasing surprises for the Territory. In view of the untoward years of the first half of the decade of 1890 to 1900 and the slow growth during the five years that followed, it was believed that the Territory had not gained in population or in wealth from 1890 to 1900 to any appreciable extent. However, the census showed that in population New Mexico had increased at a greater ratio than the rest of the United States, and that in its public schools, in industrial advancement and in wealth it had progressed greatly. It was shown that the agricultural values alone exceeded the entire assessed valuation by $15,000,000 and that the value of agricultural products during 1900 was more than $10,000,000, or a gain of 800 per cent over the agricultural production of 1890. The number of people engaged in gainful employment was a much larger percentage of the whole than the most sanguine had believed to be possible and railroad building had received an impetus which was adding hundreds of miles annually to the railroad mileage. It was opening vast tracts of undeveloped resources and was building prosperous towns where there were none before.

And what was true of 1900, is doubly true of 1905. During the past five years New Mexico has grown faster and has accomplished more in material progress than during the entire decade preceding. Almost a thousand miles of railroad have been built and the towns of Tucumcari, Portales, Dayton, Lake Arthur, Texico and a score of others which in 1900 had no place upon the map are today important business centers. Sections like the extensive Estancia Valley and the Inland Valley of Roosevelt County are being settled rapidly and the population of the Territory has increased from less than 200,000 to 300,000. Four great irrigation projects have been investigated and favorably reported upon by the Reclamation Service and one of these is nearing completion, while another, built by private enterprise, is about to be taken over by the government and to be considerably extended. Agricultural products have increased from $10,000,000 a year in 1900, to $20,000,000 in 1905; fruit growing has demonstrated this year that it is becoming a great and wealth-bringing industry. A census report just issued shows that the commercial value of the railroads in the Territory is nearly $90,000,000. The agricultural wealth represents another $100,000,000; the commercial wealth is not far from $50,000,000; the mines and city property represent another $50,000,000 while the population of the Territory in the same time has increased over fifty per cent with the stream of homeseekers constantly growing, almost 4,000,000 acres of the public lands having been entered during the past five years. True, the year 1905, has established a new record for growth and prosperity for New Mexico but there is not the slightest doubt that the average of the next five years will greatly exceed it, for the soil of the Territory has been scarcely scratched and its resources have been but touched.

Since 1900, the Territory has produced $5,000,000 worth of copper, 600,000 tons of iron; almost $4,000,000 worth of gold and silver and altogether over $15,000,000 worth of precious and base ores and other mineral. Upon the mesas and hill tops and in the valleys graze over 6,000,000 sheep, over a million head of cattle and thousands upon thousands of goats and horses.

At present, over 200 miles of railroad are under construction in Central New Mexico, a new standard gauge railroad has just been completed into one of the richest agricultural regions of the southwest, the San Juan Valley; a railroad is being built from the eastern boundary to Raton and Elizabeth town and only the other day, a railroad project was incorporated to build from Santa Fe to the Espanola Valley and up the Chama Valley into San Juan County. The railroads are merely beginning to seek the most resourceful portions of the Territory. Formerly they were anxious to find the shortest route across the arid region to the Pacific coast and failed to touch some of the most fertile, most beautiful and richest parts of the commonwealth so that a view from the car windows of the great trunk lines gives but slight idea of the progress and actual wealth and the real resources and attractive scenery of this part of the southwest.

As New Mexico is growing in material wealth, so it is advancing along intellectual lines. Public school building after public school building is being reared, the handsome new high school building of the Capital City being but a type of the many that have been built during the past five years. Churches in every settlement and private schools by the score, all demonstrate that New Mexico does not lag behind other commonwealths in those respects. The Territory expends a large portion of its revenues for the maintenance of public institutions including colleges, normal schools, hospitals, and for the support of the public schools. Yet, the public debt has been reduced to less than $800,000 during the past eight years from over $1,200,000 and many of the counties and cities have followed this example, at least to the extent of refunding their indebtedness at a lower rate of interest, which was made possible by the fine credit which the Territory and most of its counties have established in the past few years.

Of course, this all gives but a slight indication of the growth, the progress and the great prosperity which exist in New Mexico today. No man need go without profitable employment, no woman without the comforts of an advanced civilization, no child without an adequate schooling. Necessarily, the record of today is but an indication of the promise of the future. In other words, it is well with New Mexico and should the Territory be called upon to assume the dignity and the rights of statehood next year it will take a position proudly not among the least of the commonwealths of the Union but well toward the front.

WORSE THAN AN ARMY OF LOCUSTS.

New Mexico is deriving no benefit from the invading army of professional gamblers who have been driven out of Wyoming, Colorado, Texas and Arizona and now find that this Territory is about the only haven where they can ply their trade unmolested by paying only a small license fee. Even the slot machines ruled out of business in neighboring commonwealths are being shipped to this Territory to pick up every stray nickel or quarter. Of course, this invasion is not exactly to the liking of those members of the green cloth fraternity who have been established in business in New Mexico for years. Their only protection against the new comers is the exaction of high local license fees. Town and city authorities should not hesitate to impose heavy license fees upon slot machine operators as well as upon every other gambling device. In the meanwhile, the sentiment against gambling is growing in the Territory. Says the Roswell Daily Record:

"Many cities of New Mexico will demand of the next legislature such changes of the liquor and gambling laws as will permit cities and counties to drive out gambling entirely if they so desire."

And says the Dayton Echo:

"The authorities throughout the territory seem to be awakening on the gambling question in New Mexico. In Artesia the city council has prohibited it altogether, and other towns and cities are taking steps in that direction. It is only a question of a short time when the spirit of civilization will prevail in this matter in New Mexico."

THE NEW MEXICO INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

Unhappy is the lot of the child deprived of the power of speech and of hearing. Handicapped from the start in the effort of gaining an education, and later a livelihood, the deaf and dumb child should be an object of tender solicitude. It is but right and proper that everywhere the state has taken upon itself the duty of educating and training deaf and dumb children. New Mexico has established at Santa Fe an Institute for the Deaf and Dumb and only this fall opened the doors of a fine new administration building, modern in its furnishing and equipment and large enough to take care of all the children in the Territory afflicted with loss of speech or hearing. It must be remembered that the special equipment, the especially trained faculty and the special methods of aiding the child to overcome his handicap can not be provided by the public schools or the ordinary private schools and that therefore these helps are to be found only in state institutions, excepting a few high-priced private schools conducted especially for that class of pupils. No tuition is charged by the New Mexico Institute for the Deaf and Dumb and not one parent in the Territory, who has a child bereft of speech or hearing should neglect to send it to the institution at Santa Fe which is maintained at the taxpayer's expense. At present, accommodations are provided for twenty pupils and the board of trustees as well as the faculty are anxious that these twenty places be filled early in the school year.

SORES THAT DO NOT HEAL

Whenever a sore or ulcer does not heal, no matter on what part of the body it may be, it is because of a poisoned condition of the blood. This poison may be the remains of some constitutional trouble; the effect of a long spell of sickness, which has left this vital stream polluted and weak, or because the natural refuse matter of the body, which should pass off through the channels of nature, has been left in the system and absorbed into the circulation. It does not matter how the poison became entrenched in the blood, the fact that the sore is there and does not heal is evidence of a deep, underlying cause. There is nothing that causes more discomfort, worry and anxiety than a festering, discharging, old sore that resists treatment. The very sight of it is abhorrent and suggests pollution and disease; besides the time and attention required to keep it clean and free from other infection. As it lingers, slowly eating deeper into the surrounding flesh, the sufferer grows morbidly anxious, fearing it may be cancerous. Some

I have had a crippled foot all my life, which compelled me to use a brace. By some unaccountable means this brace caused a bad ulcer on my leg, about six years ago. I had good medical attention, but the ulcer got worse. I was induced to try S. S. S., and am glad to say it cured me entirely, and I am convinced that it saved my leg for me. I have, therefore, great faith in S. S. S. and gladly recommend it to all needing a reliable blood medicine.

S.S.S.

PURELY VEGETABLE.

There is only one way to cure these old sores and ulcers, and that is to get every particle of the poison out of the blood. For this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. It goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, cleanses the blood and makes a permanent cure. S. S. S. enriches and freshens the circulation so that it carries new, strong blood to the diseased parts and allows the place to heal naturally. When this is done the discharge ceases, the sore scabs over and fills in with healthy flesh, and the skin regains its natural color. Book on Sores and ulcers and any medical advice desired will be furnished without charge.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

J. W. Reagan of the Arizona and Colorado Railroad is quoted as saying that the line will be built from Denver to the City of Mexico via Durango, Farmington, Cochine, Guaymas, Mazatlan and Topolobampo, this north and south railroad to make up to the Southern Pacific, to which it will be subsidiary, the tonnage and the revenue which is expected to be lost to transcontinental freight traffic after the completion of the Panama Canal. For the sake of the development of western New Mexico, the New Mexican hopes that the line will soon be beyond the "projected" state although the route outlined by Engineer Reagan is more crooked than a dog's hind leg. But possibly, he has been misquoted or seeks to hide from the public the exact location of the line really mapped out and already partly surveyed. This much seems certain, that the Arizona and Colorado will be built in the near future from Durango, Colorado, to a connection with the Southern Pacific. Further extensions are apt to follow as a matter of course.

The postal service of the United States is good but it is mighty slow. The postoffice department has not yet discovered that a railroad has been built and is running regular trains from Durango, Colorado, to Farmington, San Juan County, and is still sending the mails overland over bad roads, causing a delay of at least ten hours in all mails for most of the post-offices of San Juan County. The same way, mail for Roswell and other points in the lower Pecos Valley from this part of the Territory is still being sent around by way of El Paso and Trinidad, although it would gain twenty-four to thirty hours by being dispatched via Torrance and the automobile line to Roswell. Uncle Sam has the reputation at home and abroad of being at the head of the procession but the postal service certainly is doing very little to maintain this reputation.

It is a standing disgrace to the county and to the city that the road up the Santa Fe Canon to the Scenic Highway is in the same deplorable condition it was left by the floods of last fall and this spring. The Santa Fe, the Santa Fe Central and the Rock Island railroads are ready to feature the Scenic Highway as soon as the canon road is placed in passable condition but for the sake of saving a few hundred dollars, the city and county are willing to sacrifice the thousands of dollars which would flow into business channels from tourists as a result of the advertising that would be given the Scenic Highway, and incidentally Santa Fe, by the above railroad systems.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

SOME SEASONABLE ADVICE.
It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

A JUDICIOUS INQUIRY.
A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

INSOMNIA AND INDIGESTION CURED.
"Last year I had a very severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by all druggists.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by all druggists.

MINES AND MINING.

SIERRA COUNTY.

Last week the Empire Company shipped from its mill near Hillsboro, a carload of concentrates. Another battery is to be added to the equipment of the mill.

MCKINLEY COUNTY.

The American Fuel Company has established a new coal mining camp near Gallup which will be known as Heaton. A new mine has been opened, a large number of men is employed and new men are being added to the force daily. The camp is a short distance from the old camp of Gibson.

LUNA COUNTY.

According to the latest reports, the find of zinc ore at Tres Hermanos is of the greatest importance and experts who have visited the district pronounce it one of the largest zinc deposits in the United States. The camp has taken new life and is growing as is shown by the fact that it now has a school population of twenty where a few weeks ago there were no children at all.

SOCORRO COUNTY.

E. C. McDermitt, acting for a corporation of which David Moffat of Denver is a director, has purchased the property of the Helen Mining Company at Graham and Mogollon and has ordered the machinery for a 75 ton reduction plant. The plant will be put up at Graham to treat the tailings from the mill after which several thousand pounds of ore from the Confidence mine will be treated as an experiment. There are enough tailings on the dump to keep the plant running for four months. The Confidence is well developed. It has five miles of workings and the main shaft is down 600 feet. The mine is lighted by electricity and has an electric hoist. The property has been closed down two years since the death of John T. Graham, then the principal owner.

OTERO COUNTY.

A force of men has been put to work on the Excelsior at Jarilla by O. D. Warnock, general manager. A four foot vein of sulphides is being exposed. Ore running as high as 22 per cent. of copper is being taken from it. The average of the vein runs five per cent.

The Southwestern Company announces that it will have its smelter at Jarilla completed and blown in by New Year.

The northern drift on the tunnel level of the Lucky at Jarilla is now in ore running $26 to the ton in gold and copper.

The Jarilla Development Company has given order to its secretary, Paul Roam, to begin work on the Ferro Oro property on the west side of the Jarillas.

Work is being pushed on the 500 foot level of the Nannie Baird at Jarilla. The level is being driven toward the west and is in good ore.

GRANT COUNTY.

Ground is being graded for the extension to be made to the 209 ton concentrator of the Burro Mountain Copper Company at Leopold. Twelve additional Willy tables and three vanners will be installed. It will take ninety days to make these improvements and by New Year the company expects to be one of the leading copper producers of the Southwest.

Metcalf and Mungall working a silver-lead property at Camp Fleming have netted 191 ounces of silver and 21 per cent. lead or $306.77 from a test shipment of 5,300 pounds to the smelter at El Paso.

The Camp of Fierro is on the boom. The Hermosa Copper Company has just added twenty-five men to its force. The Phelps-Dodge Company is employing twenty five men on the Hanover dump and in the Hanover mine. The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company has employed over one hundred laborers from Mexico in its iron mines at Union Hill and is constantly increasing this force.

A BUSINESS MAN'S

MEAL FOR 25 CENTS.

While your family is away or if you are too busy to go home, it is just as well for you to know that you can get a delicious meal at the Bon Ton Lunch Counter, served in the daintiest manner. You cannot imagine how appetizingly good these meals are until you try one. Meals served at all hours and there is the same comfort, the same neat and appetizingly delicious china, the same careful service and, in fact, all the advantages of eating at home.

RESULTS TELL.

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Santa Fe.

Results tell the tale. All doubt is removed. The testimony of a Santa Fe citizen can be easily investigated.

What better proof can be had? Genovevo Sandoval, surveyor's chairman, of Galisteo Street, says: "I had not the greatest faith in Doan's Kidney Pills, I would never have gone out of my way to recommend them to more than one of my friends and acquaintances. I had backache for about a year, not continually, but I never knew the moment when a recurrence would take place. I tried more than one medicinal preparation guaranteed to stop such annoyances before I went to Ireland's Pharmacy for Doan's Kidney Pills, but I met with very indifferent success. The treatment with Doan's Kidney Pills positively stopped the trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MARRIAGE LICENSE LAW.

The new marriage license law requires probate clerks to post three copies of the new law in conspicuous places in each precinct. The New Mexican has printed the law neatly on card board and is now ready to fill orders in English or Spanish at fifty cents for each poster. Probate clerks should enter their orders immediately as the law goes into effect on April 14, 1905.

SIN'S CONSEQUENCES.

Innocent Indulgence Often Brings Trouble—A. C. Ireland Offers Means of Escape.

The consequences of violating physical law are often as unpleasant as the breaking of a moral rule. The innocent indulgence of over-eating brings consequences that amount to real suffering. Indigestion is not natural; it is not right; it should not be. A. C. Ireland offers a means of escape in Mirona tablets that is simple and practical.

These simple tablets are composed of such valuable medicinal agents as bismuth subgallate, which is superior to all other remedies for stomach troubles, cerium oxalate, and tonics and correctives which promote the action of the digestive organs, strengthen the whole digestive tract, and make it possible to eat what you like and when you like.

Ask A. C. Ireland to show you the guarantee under which he sells Mirona. It costs nothing unless it cures. The risk is all his.

If it's worth printing, you will find it in the New Mexican.

2,500,000 People In the United States, now enjoying food cooked in the MAJESTIC, affirm that the half has not been said in its praise. The manufacturers of this range pledge themselves that all parts of the MAJESTIC, except the fire-box and ornaments, are made of steel and malleable iron, and purchasers are assured that it is as good and as honest as skilled labor and money can produce. If the parts now in malleable iron were (as in other so-called steel ranges) made of cast iron, the price could be greatly reduced; but the MAJESTIC is not made with a view to furnishing extra parts for repairs.

A letter addressed to Miss May E. Collins, 3 Reading Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts, is held at the post office for postage. Also a letter addressed to M. Mullican, Box 426, Santa Fe.

Nothing has been heard from the four runaway pupils of the United States Indian Training School. Superintendent Crandall has several scouts on the look out for the fugitives and is sure that it will be but a short time until they are apprehended.

Although the Tesuque valley was not visited by the frost on Monday night, it was severely nipped last night and the late peaches were all damaged to some extent. No harm was done to the apples. One half of the late apple crop in the valley has been picked and while somewhat inferior in quality to previous years is yet very satisfactory to the orchard owners.

Santa Fe Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F., has changed its time of regular meeting from Friday to Thursday night. It snowed in Denver, Colorado Springs and other Colorado points on Sunday. Santa Fe thus far has not had a single cloudy day in October.

Los Bailadores will hold a business meeting this evening at the office of the president, Dr. Wheelon, 103 Palace Avenue, at 7 o'clock. All members are requested to be present as matters of importance will come before the club.

The Santa Fe Central has 6,600 sheep in its stock yards at Stanley ready for shipment to Albuquerque. Chadwick & Co., of the Duke City are the purchasers and shippers. They will be handled either today or tomorrow.

Workmen have begun tearing down the Berger building at the corner of Don Gaspar Avenue and Water Street. This should have been done weeks ago, but better late than never, and it is to be hoped that in the place of this old, ramshackle building a modern structure will be built.

Work on the construction of the residence being built by A. Reingardt on lot 3, of the Fort Marcy Addition on Washington Avenue, is progressing nicely. The brick work is up to the second story and as fast as this part of the structure is put up the carpenters are placing the wood work and timbers.

A nice lot of young tender beef at the Hanna market. Usual low prices predominate.

The excavation for the business block built by Judge N. B. Laughlin at the corner of San Francisco Street and Don Gaspar Avenue, is almost completed. The work of laying the foundation will be commenced as soon as all the dirt is removed and construction will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

John F. Stowe's big scenic production of Ten Nights in a Bar Room presents all the weird and startling effects. A strong cast of twenty talented artists is headed by Alvin Wyckoff as Joe Morgan. The play is staged with fine scenery and a good orchestra. At the opera house on Wednesday night, October 18.

The regular meeting of Santa Fe Lodge No. 460, B. P. O. Elks, will be held in the lodge rooms to-night at 7:30. After the business meeting a social session will be called, and a fitting close of the Elks' Bazaar of All Nations will be had. All members of the local lodge are urged to be present and visiting brothers are cordially invited to attend.

Justice of the Peace Jose Maria Garcia this forenoon bound over to the grand jury of the March term, 1906, of the District Court for Santa Fe County, under $300 bond, Filemon Cloaky for discharging fire arms in a settlement. Cloaky attended a dance at Canoncito last night and sought to add to the hilarity of the occasion by discharging his revolver promiscuously.

The case of the Territory of New Mexico vs. Santiago Martinez, a San Ildefonso Indian, for discharging a deadly weapon in the settlement of San Ildefonso, was heard by Justice of the Peace Jose M. Garcia at his office yesterday afternoon. After all testimony had been given, Justice Garcia bound the defendant over to the grand jury in the sum of $500. The bond was furnished, Marcelino Garcia and Manuel Apodaca going as security.

The Woman's Board of Trade will hold a rummage sale at the library rooms, Wednesday next. All persons having any articles of clothing, household goods, etc., will confer a great favor on the board of trade by kindly leaving said articles at the library rooms on library days. The more donations the more benefit. Let all who have anything whatever that can be of use to others and which they themselves do not need, donate same to the Woman's Board of Trade for this sale.

Joseph Steinman, for many years a resident of this city, and who up to a few months ago, despite his age of 65 years, plied his trade of painter, died at one o'clock this morning at St. Vincent's hospital of a complication of diseases. Undertaker Charles Wagner has taken charge of the remains. The funeral will take place tomorrow forenoon at eight o'clock. Interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery. Steinman leaves no near relatives except a sister in Hungary.

The forecast for New Mexico is fair weather tonight and Thursday, with warmer weather Thursday. For Colorado the forecast is fair weather tonight and Thursday with rising temperature. The maximum temperature in Santa Fe yesterday was 66 degrees at 3:10 o'clock in the afternoon, the minimum was 27 at 5:50 o'clock in the morning, the mean was 42 and the relative humidity was 42 per cent. The temperature at 6 o'clock this morning was 22 degrees and another killing frost occurred during the early morning hours.

George Summers, who with his family, is spending the winter at Summit, is quite ill.

Oscar Klein, letter carrier in the Santa Fe post office, has bought from the board of education a lot on Grant Avenue on the Fort Marcy Reservation. The lot faces Johnson Street and Mr. Klein will erect upon it a $2,500 brick cottage, ground for which will be broken within three months.

George Willson, the young man who was in the city last week, soliciting aid to enable him to get into a school for the deaf and dumb, has turned out to be a fake. He had a piece of paper upon which was written his name, age and where he had last attended school. He wrote that he had been a pupil in the Colorado School for the Deaf and Dumb at Colorado Springs, for six years and was trying to get enough money and clothes to return. Major R. J. Palen wired the authorities of the Colorado Institution in regard to Mr. Willson and received the reply that the fellow was an imposter. Willson was very successful in Santa Fe and evidently made enough to get far enough away to escape arrest. His deafness and dumbness were acting, pure and simple, and sympathetic persons of the Capital City were taken in.

TOO MUCH WHISKEY CAUSED HIS ARREST.

He was followed for about eight miles and finally captured, being fined $50 and costs before Justice of the Peace Lucero. He was also fined $50 and costs for conducting a gambling device without a license, and $20 and costs for threatening an officer.

The law is for the protection of livery stable keepers against dead beats and persons who damage any vehicle or injure any animal hired from a livery stable. The New Mexican has printed the law neatly upon cardboard and is ready to fill all orders at $1.00 for each poster in English or in Spanish.

The Great West

has been made since the first Studebaker wagon was made. Indeed the Studebaker wagon helped to make the West. It has been one of the most efficient aids to the advancement of civilization by making transportation easy for the pioneer. Many of the first men in the West took the Studebaker with them. They are still buying Studebakers, having learned their value by experience. The Studebaker is better to-day than ever before.

Studebakers also make a full line of all kinds of vehicles, harness, etc. They control entire output of the World Buggy Co. and make the "Lazer Line" of vehicles. All dealers handle Studebaker goods. Write us for catalogues, etc.

SOCORRO IS PROSPEROUS.

Improvements Are Being Made in Every Direction—Ranch Purchased By Superintendent H. O. Bursum.

Special Correspondence of the New Mexican.

Socorro, October 10, 1905.

Socorro has made more improvements during the past six months than it has in any three years since 1886. Still more would have been accomplished, but carpenters, painters, paperhangers and upholsterers could not be had in sufficient numbers although a number of citizens sent to Albuquerque for skilled labor. Local businessmen and manufacturers report business improving in their respective lines. Money is circulating freely owing to the general prosperity of the stockmen, farmers and fruit growers of the country tributary to Socorro. There is a steady increase in the production of the mines of the county. The Santa Fe Railway distributed a large amount in wages as it has a force of men at work since spring raising its tracks two to four feet and ballasting them with furnace slag and gravel. The public schools are well attended and the board of education has engaged a good faculty of teachers. Many pupils are enrolled at the Convent of Mount Carmel. The New Mexico School of Mines has an able corps of professors and instructors although the attendance this year is not as large as it should be, considering that one fourth of the money expended in New Mexico for wages is paid by mine owners. There is a wide and profitable field for trained engineers and mining men in the Southwest and the New Mexico School of Mines is fully up to the standard set by the best technological schools in the country.

The A. F. & A. M. lodge is adding good material to its membership and the local Knights of Pythias lodge is taking in new members right along.

The Socorro Improvement Association and the Commercial Club are working assiduously for the city's progress and have looked diligently after the work of street improvements and a better city water service.

The health condition of the city and surrounding country are excellent, in fact, have been never before as good.

Socorro needs a first class hotel, the Windsor, the property of C. T. Brown, having been recently destroyed by fire.

H. O. Bursum, superintendent of the territorial penitentiary has purchased from Charles Bruton the best watered stock ranch in this vicinity. Its stock, pastures and range are in tip-top condition and the water controls the range of a country 65 miles from east to west and 20 miles wide.

A social club and a music club have been organized lately, which assure many pleasant social evenings during the coming winter.

But little interest is being manifested in the statehood question in this section and it is not being much discussed.

BREWSTER'S MILLIONS

By...
GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON
(Richard Greaves)
Copyright, 1904, by Herbert S. Stone & Company

This masterful romance was started in the issue of Monday, September 18, 1905. Back numbers can be secured by addressing or calling at the office of the New Mexican Printing Company.

Mohammed departed with the late declaration that he would come another day and that the whole world would tremble at his approach. Disgusted with himself and afraid to meet the eyes of the other men, Brewster went below in search of Peggy. He took time to comfort the anxious women who crowded about him and then asked for Miss Gray. She was in her stateroom and would not come forth. When he knocked at the door a dismal, troubled voice from within told him to go away.

"Come out, Peggy; it's all over," he called.

"Please go away, Monty," she said. "What are you doing in there?" There was a long pause, and then came the pitiful little wail, "I am unpacking, please, sir."

That night Brewster entertained on board the yacht, several resident French and English acquaintances being the guests of honor. The story of the day was told by Mrs. Dan DeMille, commissioned especially for the duty. She painted the scene so vividly that the guests laughed with joy over the discomfort of the sheik. Peggy and Brewster found themselves looking sheepishly at one another now and then in the course of the recital. She purposely had avoided him during the evening, but she had gamely endured the raillery that came from the rest of the party. If she was a bit pale it was not surprising. Now that it was over the whole affair appalled her more than she could have suspected. When several of the guests of the evening soberly announced that Mohammed was a dangerous man and even an object of worry to the government she felt a strange catch in her throat, and her now fearless eyes turned instinctively to Brewster, who, it seemed, was the sheik's special object of aversion.

The next day she and Monty talked it over. The penitence of both was beautiful to behold. Each denied the other the privilege of assuming all the blame, and both were so happy that Mohammed was little more than a preposition in their conversation so far as prominence was concerned. But all day long the harbor was full of fisher boats, and at nightfall they still were lolling about, sinister, restless, mysterious, like purposeless buzzards. And the dark men on board were taking up no fish; neither were they minding the nets that lay dry and folded in the bottom of their boats.

Far into the night there was revelry on board the Flitter, more guests having come out from the city. The dark hours before the dawn of day had arrived before they put off for shore, but the fisher boats still were bobbing about in the black waters of the harbor. The lights gradually disappeared from the portholes of the yacht, and the tired watch was about to be relieved. Monty Brewster and Peggy remained on deck after the guests had gone over the side of the vessel. They were leaning over the rail at listening to the joyful voices of the visitors as they grew fainter and fainter in the distance. The lights of the town were few, but they could plainly be seen from the offing.

"Are you tired, Peggy?" asked Brewster, with a touch of tenderness. Somehow of late he had often felt a strange desire to take her in his arms, and now it was strong upon him. She was very near, and there was a drooping weariness in her attitude which seemed to demand protection.

"I have a queer feeling that something awful is going to happen tonight, Monty," she answered, trouble in her soft voice.

"You're nervous; that's all," he said, "and you should go to sleep. Good night." Their hands touched in the darkness, and the thrill that went over him told a truth of which he had been only vaguely conscious. The power of it made him exultant. Yet when he thought of her and her too quiet affection for him it left him despondent.

Something bumped against the side of the ship, and a grating sound followed. Then came other gentle thuds combined with the soft swish of water disturbed. Peggy and Brewster were on the point of going below when their attention was caught by these strange sounds.

"What is it?" she asked as they paused irresolutely. He strode to the rail, the girl following close behind. Three sharp little whistles came from above and behind them, but before they had time even to speculate as to their meaning the result was in evidence.

Over the sides of the ship came shadowy forms as if by magic; at their backs panther-like bodies dropped to the deck with stealthy thuds, as if coming from the inky sky above. There was an instant of dreadful calm and then the crisis. A dozen sinewy forms hurled themselves upon Brewster, who, taken completely by surprise, was thrown to the deck in an instant, his attempt to cry out for help being checked by heavy hands. Peggy's scream was cut off as quickly, and, paralyzed by terror, she felt herself engulfed in strong arms and smothered into silence. It all happened so quickly that there was no chance to give the alarm, no opportunity to resist.

Brewster felt himself lifted bodily, and then there was the sensation of falling. He struck something forcibly with all his weight and fell back with a crash to the deck. Afterward he found that the effort to throw him overboard had failed only because his assailants in their haste had hurled him against an unseen stanchion. Peggy was borne forward and lowered swiftly into arms that deposited her roughly upon something hard. There was a jerky, rocking motion, the sudden splash of oars, and then she knew no more.

The invaders had planned with a craftiness and patience that deserved success. For hours they had waited, silently, watchfully and with deadly assurance. How they crept up to the Flitter in such numbers and how the more daring came aboard long before the blow was struck no one ever explained. So quickly and so accurately was the abduction performed that the boats were well clear of the yacht before alarm was given by one of the watch, who had been overlooked in the careful assault.

Sleepy sailors rushed on deck with a promptness that was amazing. Very quickly they had found and unbound Brewster, carried a couple of wounded shipmates below and had Captain Perry in his pajamas on deck to take command.

"The searchlight!" cried Brewster frantically. "The devils have stolen Miss Gray."

While swift hands were lowering the boats for the chase others were carrying firearms on deck. The searchlight threw its mighty white arm out over the water before many seconds had passed, and eager eyes were looking for the boats of the pillagers. The Arabs had reckoned without the searchlight. Their fierce exultation died suddenly when the mysterious streak of light shot into the sky and then swept down upon the sea, hunting them out of the darkness like a great and relentless eye.

The Flitter's boats were in the water and manned by sturdy oarsmen before the glad cry went up that the robber fleet had been discovered. They were so near the yacht that it was evident the dusky tribesmen were poor oarsmen. In the clear light from the ship's deck they could be seen paddling wildly, their white robes fluttering as though inspired by fear. There were four boats, all of them crowded to the gunwales.

"Keep the light on them, captain!" shouted Monty from below. "Try to pick out the boat that has Miss Gray on board. Pull away, boys! This means a hundred dollars to every one of you—yes, a thousand if we have to fight for her!"

"Kill every one of them, Mr. Brewster!" roared the captain, who had retired behind a boat when he became aware of the presence of women on deck.

Three boats shot away from the side of the yacht, Brewster and Joe Bragdon in the first, both armed with rifles. "Let's take a shot at 'em!" cried a sailor who stood in the stern with his finger on a trigger.

"Don't do that! We don't know what boat holds Peggy," commanded Brewster. "Keep cool, boys, and be ready to scrap if we have to." He was half mad with fear and anxiety, and he was determined to exterminate the band of robbers if harm came to the girl in their power.

"She's in the second boat!" came the cry from the yacht, and the searchlight was kept on that particular object almost to the exclusion of the others. But Captain Perry saw the wisdom of keeping all of them clearly located in order to prevent trickery.

Brewster's brawny sailor boys came up like greyhounds, cheering as they dashed among the boats of the fugitives. Three or four shots were fired into the air by the zealous American lads, and there were loud cries from the Arabs as they veered off in panic-stricken. Monty's boat was now in the path of light and not far behind the one which held Peggy. He was standing in the bow.

"Take care of the others!" he called back to his followers. "We'll go after the leaders."

The response from behind was a cheer, a half dozen shots and some of the most joyous profanity that ever fell from the lips of American sailors, mingled with shrieks from the boats they were to "take care of."

"Stop!" Brewster shouted to the Arabs. "Stop, or we'll kill every one of you!" His boat was not more than fifty feet from the other.

Suddenly a tall, white robed figure arose in the middle of the Egyptian craft, and a moment later the purkusers saw Peggy's form passed up to him. She was instantly clasped by one of his long arms, and the other was lifted high above her. A gleaming knife was held in the upraised hand.

"Fire on us if you dare!" came in French from the tall Arab. "Dog of an American, she shall die if you come near her!"

CHAPTER XXV.

BREWSTER'S heart almost ceased beating, and every vestige of color left his face. Clear and distinct in the light from the yacht the Arab and his burden were outlined against the black screen beyond. There was no mistaking the earnestness of the threat, nor could the witnesses doubt the ghastly intention of the long, cruel knife that gleamed on high. Peggy's body served as a shield for that of her captor. Brewster and Bragdon recognized the man as one of Mohammed's principal retainers, a fierce looking fellow who had attracted more than usual attention on the day of the sheik's visit.

"For God's sake, don't kill her!" cried Brewster in agonized tones. There was a diabolical grin on the face of the Arab, who was about to shout back some defiant taunt when the unexpected happened.

The sharp crack of a gun sounded in the stern of Brewster's boat, and an unerring bullet sped straight for the big Arab's forehead. It crashed between his eyes and death must have been instantaneous. The knife flew from his hand, his body straightened and then collapsed, toppling over, not among the oarsmen, but across the gunwale of the craft. Before a hand could be lifted to prevent, the dead Arab and the girl were plunged into the sea.

A cry of horror went up from the Americans and something surprisingly like a shout of triumph from the abductors. Even as Brewster poised for the spring into the water a flying form shot past him and into the sea with a resounding splash. The man that fired the shot had reckoned cleverly, and he was carrying out the final details of an inspired plan. The Arab's position as he stood in the boat was such as to warrant the sailor's belief that he could fall no other way than forward, and that meant over the side of the boat. With all this clearly in mind, he had shot straight and true and was on his way to the water almost as the two toppled overboard.

Monty Brewster was in the water an instant later, striking out for the spot where they had disappeared, a little to the left of the course in which his boat was running. There was a rattle of firearms, with curses and cheers, but he paid no heed to these sounds. He was a length or two behind the sailor, praying with all his soul that one or the other might succeed in reaching the white robes that still kept the surface of the water. His crew was "backing water" and straining every muscle to bring the boat around sharp for the rescue.

The sailor's powerful strokes brought him to the spot first, but not in time to clutch the disappearing white robes. Just as he reached out an arm to grasp the form of the girl she went down. He did not hesitate a second, but followed. Peggy had fallen from the dead Arab's embrace, and that worthy already was at the bottom of the sea. She was half conscious when the shot came, but the plunge into the cold water revived her. Her struggles were enough to keep her up for a few moments, but not long enough for the swimmers to reach her side. She felt herself going down and down, struggling, smothering, dying; then something viselike clutched her arm, and she had the sensation of being jerked upward violently.

The sailor fought his way to the surface with the girl, and Brewster was at his side in an instant. Together they supported her until one of the boats came up, and they were drawn over the side to safety. By this time the abductors had scattered like sheep without a leader, and as there was no further object in pursuing them the little American fleet put back for the yacht in great haste. Peggy was quite conscious when carried aboard by the triumphant Brewster. The words he whispered to her as she lay in the bottom of the boat were enough to give her life.

The excitement on board the Flitter was boundless. Fear gave way to joy, and where despair had for a moment reigned supreme there was now the most insane delight. Peggy was bundled below and into her berth, Dr. Lotless attending her. Brewster and the sailor were carried to a place where hot toddies were to be had before blankets. "You have returned the favor, Conroy," said Brewster fervently as he leaned across the heads of his bearers to shake hands with the sailor who was sharing the honors with him. Conroy was grinning from ear to ear as he sat perched on the shoulders of his shipmates. "I was luckier than I thought in saving your life that day."

"It wasn't anything, Mr. Brewster," said young Conroy. "I saw a chance to drop the big nigger, and then it was up to me to get her out of the water."

"You took a big risk, Conroy, but you made good with it. If it had not been for you, my boy, they might have got away with Miss Gray."

"Don't mention it, Mr. Brewster; it was nothing to do," protested Conroy in confusion. "I'd do anything in the world for you and for her."

"What is the adage about casting your bread upon the water and getting it back again?" asked Rip Van Winkle of Joe Bragdon as they jubilantly followed the procession below.

There was no more sleep on board that night. In fact, the sun was not long in showing himself after the rescuers returned to the vessel. The daring attempt of Mohammed's emissaries was discussed without restraint, and every sailor had a story to tell of the pursuit and rescue. The event furnished conversation food for days and days among both the seamen and the passengers. Dan DeMille blamed himself relentlessly for sleeping through it all and moped for hours because he had lost a magnificent chance to "do something." The next morning he proposed to hunt for the sheik and offered to lead an assault in person. An investigation was made, and government officials tried to call Mohammed to account, but he had fled to the desert and the search was fruitless.

Brewster refused to accept a share of the glory of Peggy's rescue, pushing Conroy forward as the real hero. But the sailor insisted that he could not have succeeded without help—that he was completely exhausted when Monty came to the rescue. Peggy found it hard to thank him gently while her heart was so dangerously near the riot point, and her words of gratitude sounded pitifully weak and insufficient.

"It would have been the same had anybody else gone to her rescue," he mused dejectedly. "She cares for me with the devotion of a sister, and that's all. Peggy, Peggy," he moaned, "if you could only love me, I'd—I'd—oh, well, there's no use thinking about it! She will love some one else, of course, and—and be happy too. If she'd appear only one-tenth as grateful to me as to Conroy I'd be satisfied. He had the luck to be first, that's all, but God knows I tried to do it."

To Be Continued.
