SESSIONS RESUMED

The Legislative Investigating Committee Continues the Examination

SLIGHT TILT OCCURS

Between Attorney Hughes and Richard A. McCurdy, President of Mutual Life Insurance Company,

New York, Oct. 17.—The legislative committee which is investigating the insurance business resumed its sessions today. Richard A. McCurdy, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, was the first witness called. During the examination, Mr. Hughes announced that the committee had received a large number of letters relative to dividends on the policies of the Mutual Life. Some of them he read. One writer said that on his policy he received $55.76. This was cut by degrees until in 1904 he received $3. McCurdy said the committee had the wrong witnesses. It was the actuary who looked after the dividends, he did not have information. McCurdy complained of the general character of the investigation. He had understood it was not the intention to make it an inquisition. Hughes replied that it was indeed an inquisition.

"We will have occasion to call your actuary," said Hughes, "but I want to know what you know about the company. You have a salary of $150,000. I want to learn for what you are responsible."

"You are trying to prove me a fool," the witness retorted.

"Without commenting on that which is obvious, let me ask you to tell us to the best of your ability some lines on which your company is conducted," said Hughes.

McCurdy insisted that the actuary must answer questions on dividends and how they are calculated.

Although pressed by Hughes, McCurdy repeatedly "refused to answer" questions along this line.

Salaries of Executive Officers Not Reduced.

McCurdy said he thought the investigation should be executive. He said the witnesses' replies were distorted and the witnesses were made to look like criminals. Continuing the examination, Mr. Hughes brought out the statement that salaries had been slightly reduced in the reforms of the clerical force and the general agencies. "I have not reduced the salaries of executive officers. They may never be cut. They are none too fat, anyway," said McCurdy.

SLOW WORK ON EXTENSION.

Quarantine Regulations Preventing Activity on New Santa Fe Line in Louisiana.

Topeka, Kansas, Oct. 17.—Work of construction on the Jasper and eastern extension of the Santa Fe in Texas and Louisiana is progressing very slowly. This is due to quarantine restrictions, which prevent much grading being done in Louisiana territory and also makes it hard for the contractors to get men for work on the piling in the Sabine River. The latter work is progressing much slower than both the management of the road and the contractors would like to have it.

Material for the big bridge over the Sabine is arriving at the scene of operations daily. In fact the main portion of the material for the starting of the work on the bridge has arrived already. The steel has now been laid to the edge of the Sabine and the water in that river has receded sufficiently to allow the driving of the piling for the remainder of the trestle work unfinished at the time the quarantine restrictions were put in effect.

The work of cutting down a big hill on the Louisiana side of the river has just been started. This job is the only hard one on that side of the river, but it is one that will keep contractors and men busy for some time to come.

Burbank is now on trial at Iloilo before a court martial on the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

HALE HORTENSTEIN MAY BE SANE.

Dr. Hubert Work Declares That Roswell Young Man Has Recovered His Reason.

Pueblo, Colo., Oct. 17.—Hans Hale Hortenstein, the young man from Roswell, New Mexico, who was separated from his young wife just at the close of the honeymoon to be confined in Woodcroft sanitarium, recovered his reason?

In a petition filed in the county court here Dr. Herbert Work declares that Hortenstein is perfectly sane and accordingly Judge Mirick has directed Dr. R. F. Donnell and Dr. C. B. Marmaduke to examine the young man and report to the court as to his mental condition.

Mrs. Hortenstein has visited her husband since he has been confined at Woodcroft and she has been gratified to find him much better at each succeeding visit. Hortenstein will probably be brought before Judge Mirick in the county court by the physicians appointed by the court, and if they report the patient to be sane he will be released from Woodcroft by the court's orders to join the young wife from whom he was so cruelly separated.

HARROWING STORY OF SUFFERING AND SHIPWRECK

Six Seamen Die From Exposure, Hunger and Thirst—Only Two Survive.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 17.—A story of a North Atlantic shipwreck in which eight seamen suffered so fearfully from exposure, hunger and thirst that six of them either died outright, were washed away, or crazed by their fearful experience, or threw themselves into the sea, was told yesterday by the two survivors of the coasting schooner Van Name and King of New Haven, which was beaten to pieces by a gale off the South Carolina coast on October 6.

The two men who lived through the five days and were rescued by the schooner Stillman of Kelly, which arrived here late last evening, are William Thomas and William G. Warner, both about 29 years old, six feet three inches tall and hail from Antigua, British West Indies. The six who one by one succumbed were: Captain William A. Maxwell, of New Jersey; Mate E. A. Chase, home unknown; colored seamen, William Griswell, and Alfred Arthur, both of America.

A telegram was received by the delegation from Kingman, saying that the whole town was opposed to the measure. Adams and Miner, of Wisconsin, were the only speakers. Both reiterated their determination to fight for separate statehood for Arizona, declaring that the Beveridge report was incorrect as to existing conditions in Arizona.

ATTACK ON FORMER GOVERNOR

Claim Made That C. S. Thomas, of Colorado, Suggested Alteration of Records.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 17.—An attack on the professional conduct of former Governor C. S. Thomas of Colorado, an attorney in the noted Portland mining suit for stocks and dividends to the value of $1,000,000, is contained in an affidavit by J. R. Bischoff, of Colorado Springs, which has just been filed here. Bischoff charges in effect that Mr. Thomas suggested the alteration of the Portland Gold Mining Company's records in order to prevent James Doyle, the plaintiff in the case, from recovering 2,000 shares that the books showed were his property.

In the trial of the Portland suit last spring, Bischoff was a witness for James F. Burns, the defendant, having previously served as a private secretary to Burns and also a bookkeeper of the company. He now states that he had a conversation with Burns and Thomas over the 2,000 shares. Thomas is quoted as saying: "That is embarrassing for us, and I will never be satisfied until the stock ledger is re-written."

Bischoff claims Thomas intimidated him that he was the only man competent to re-write the ledger, as the original was in his hand writing.

Success at last crowned his efforts when he sold a small part of his interest in the Independence mine, near Elizabethtown, Colfax County, New Mexico, for a neat little sum. He at once sent for his sweetheart who had waited so long for her gallant knight and last week met her at Springer. THE ANTIQUITY OF IRRIGATION.

Irrigation is not a new science. It was practiced by the nations of antiquity, in fact, the greatest empires of the ancient world were established in agricultural valleys irrigated by the waters of the Euphrates, the Tigris, the Aces, and the Nile. And as old as irrigation, so old is irrigation law. A real service from a historical as well as a legal standpoint, has been done therefore by E. F. Ware, an attorney of Topeka, Kansas, who is one of the counsel of the state of Kansas in the Kansas-Colorado water suit, in a compilation just published under the title of "The Roman Water Law." In its introductory part the book briefly reviews the laws governing flowing waters in ancient times. He quotes Herodotus who told of the superiority of agriculture by irrigation over agriculture which had to depend upon the rainfall for success. The old historian said: "The land of Assyria is but little watered by rain, and that little nourishes the root of the corn. However, the stalk grows up, and the grain comes to maturity by being irrigated from the river, not, as in Egypt, by the river overflowing the fields, but it is irrigated by the hand and by engines. For the Babylonian territory, like Egypt, is intersected by canals, and the largest of these is navigable, stretching in the direction of the winter sunrise; and it extends from the Euphrates to another river, the river Tigris, on which the city of Nineveh stood. This is, of all lands, with which we are acquainted, by far the best for the growth of corn; it is so fruitful in the produce of corn that it yields continually two hundredfold, and when it produces its best it yields even three hundredfold. The blades of wheat and barley grow there to full four fingers in breadth; and though I well know to what a height millet and sesame grow, I shall not mention it, for I am well assured that, to those who never have been in the Babylonian country, what has been said concerning its productions will appear to many incredible."

The code of Hammurabi, written four thousand years ago, contained the following provisions, timely in part to this day, as quoted by Mr. Ware in his very interesting work:

"Any one failing to keep his irrigating dam in repair, and through his neglect and laziness a break occurs in the dam and his neighbor's lands are flooded by the overflow of the water therefrom, he shall compensate the owner of the damaged land for his loss of grain or other property occasioned by the overflow."

"In the event he is unable to repair or make good the damage incurred by his neglect, his property is to be sold, and those incurring damage through his negligence are to divide his property among themselves in accordance with the extent of the several losses occasioned by his negligence."

"If any one opens his canal for the purpose of irrigation in a negligent manner, and thereby floods the fields of his neighbors, he shall be held to account to those neighbors and to pay them grain corresponding with their losses."

"Any one negligently and maliciously found to be guilty of flooding his neighbor's tillable fields shall measure out to that neighbor 'gan' for every ten 'gur' of grain destroyed thereby."

"If any one steal a water wheel from the field he is to give the owner five shekels of money upon proof of his guilt."

"If he steals a dipping bucket or a plow, he is to give three shekels of money to the owner upon proof of his guilt."

Thus, with every turn of the page, one finds interesting facts to show how "modern" these "ancients" were or proof of the antiquity of irrigation works.

Owing to its advertising patronage, the Raton Range has increased from four to eight pages and is issued twice a week instead of weekly as formerly. It has three one page advertisements in its last issue. It is from evidences of prosperity and growth of that kind that the outside public judges what a town amounts to from a business or any other standpoint.

A DEMORALIZING FORCE.

Says the Tucson Daily Star: "There is nothing in the rumor that gambling will again be opened in Tucson because of the shortage which will come to the school fund, because of the non-payment of gambling license. Licensed gambling will never again make its appearance in Tucson. If our public schools can not be maintained without gambling license funds then we had better close the schools. This day and generation is for the education of boys and girls, but not at the expense of their morals and manly and womanly character."

Fortunately, Santa Fe is not dependent for the maintenance of its public school system upon the money derived from gambling licenses, in fact, the share contributed to the public school fund and for municipal purposes by the gaming devices in Santa Fe is so ridiculously small as to be a reproach to the city administration.

On this same subject the Roswell Daily Record says: "If the same conditions did not prevail in other towns of New Mexico, people would hesitate about sending their boys to attend a military institute or any other kind of school in a city where open gambling is allowed."

Said a leading citizen and property owner of Santa Fe yesterday: "You would be surprised to learn how many people give New Mexico the go-by because gambling is legalized by the Territory. It is not only a serious reproach upon our citizenship but also a direct financial loss, for the father or mother looking for a home for a son ill with consumption, or seeking a new home for themselves, all other things being equal to them, will not move into a community where their children are exposed to the insinuating temptation of legalized gambling; nor will a wise capitalist establish manufacturing or other industries employing labor where the earnings of workmen are certain to a large extent to find their way into the capacious pockets of the green cloth fraternity."

SCHOOL GARDENS.

At the meeting of Indian educators at Asbury Park, in connection with the National Educational Association convention, Clinton J. Crandall, superintendent of the United States Indian Training School, in speaking of the need of Indian day schools said:

"There should be a school garden, the grounds should be fenced, and flower gardens and lawns should take the place of unkempt and untidy yards."

What applies to the day schools of the Indians, in this respect, certainly also applies to the public schools of the Territory. There is no excuse for a school yard being anything but a beauty spot, especially not in cities like Santa Fe. It is to be hoped that with the completion of the fine central school building in Santa Fe, a new leaf will be turned by those having the supervision of the public schools in this city and that every school building, no matter how humble, will next spring and summer be surrounded by lawns, flower gardens, and where the space permits, will demonstrate what can be done with the hoe and water in New Mexico in the line of raising vegetables. In fact, that part of the Fort Marcy Reservation not occupied or sold by next year should be made a school garden where the pupils will be given the best and cheapest manual training to be obtained anywhere. What is good enough in that line for Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Los Angeles should be good enough for Santa Fe.

The El Paso & Southwestern Railroad is still considering the building of a cut-off line from Dawson to Torrance via Las Vegas. The New Mexican wishes that this project will soon be beyond the considering point and will have become a reality. New Mexico cannot have too many railways and Las Vegas especially, offers many advantages as a railroad center that railway constructors cannot always overlook. It has always commanded a large trade territory and the mountain valleys tributary to it are rich not only in agricultural resources but will eventually have many producing mines besides being favorite resorts of summer visitors and sportsmen. If there is any city in the Territory that has promise for a prosperous and permanent future, despite occasional setbacks, it is Las Vegas.

Tent life in the Southwest as a specific for consumption is finding many new adherents each year and in consequence tents have become a noticeable feature in every southwestern settlement. They add little to the picturesque and nothing at all to the beauty of western towns but they have come to stay and the best thing to do about them is to adopt reasonable municipal restrictions which will keep tents out of the business districts and will compel their owners to submit to sanitary regulations and inspection.

The police powers of incorporated municipalities are sufficiently wide in latitude to cover all reasonable restrictions which can and ought to be imposed.

The Tawney Congressional party from which the Joint Statehood League expected a confirmation of its dictum that separate statehood for New Mexico and Arizona are out of the question, has come to quite a different conclusion, especially after learning the true sentiment of the people in Arizona and New Mexico which is dead set against any mesalliance of the two territories. Of course, the members of the Joint Statehood League are much better posted than Congressman Tawney and his fellow members of Congress!

FIRE INSURANCE NEEDS AIRING.

Some of the fire insurance journals maintain that any regulation of the insurance business by Congress would be unconstitutional being without the powers granted by the states through the constitution to the federal government. The doctrine of state rights received a severe shock somewhere along 1865 at a place called Appomattox and it is apt to receive another shock when Congress gets a hold of the insurance business. Former Assistant United States Attorney General James M. Beck, in an address to the fire underwriters of the northwest pointed out a way of overcoming any question of state rights by declaring that the insurance business is interstate commerce and therefore plainly within the power of legislation by the federal government. In addition he said: "This much is sure: That what the American people imperatively need in the matter of government they ultimately get, and either by judicial interpretation or by formal amendment the central government will one day assume the supervision of this most important and beneficent form of interstate intercourse."

By the way: What makes the fire insurance companies so dead set against federal legislation on the subject of insurance? Is it, perhaps, as the New Mexican has intimated before, that the management of the fire insurance companies is even more rotten than that of the big life insurance companies?

The learned editor of an exchange recently informed the newspaper world that it is as plain as A B C, that North America was populated from Asia. Now comes the Cosmopolitan in its November issue and maintains that Asia, and in fact, all the rest of the world, was populated by people from America. However, most scientists will continue to assert that very little can or will ever be known as to the origin of the North American Indian or of the Mongolian races, the New Mexican editor and the writer in the Cosmopolitan to the contrary notwithstanding.

The fathers of this nation did not believe in joining two commonwealths into one state for the federal constitution expressly provides that two states or portions of two states cannot be constituted one state unless with the consent of the legislatures of both states concerned. Wouldn't it be just, before passing a joint statehood bill, for Congress, to ask the opinion of the New Mexico legislature and the Arizona legislature? Fortunately, the joint statehood specter is receding and will soon be as dead as are politically some of its advocates.

What New Mexico gains every time, a farmer comes to this Territory and reclaims land that was formerly good only for grazing, is indicated by the fact that 23 acres are necessary to sustain one man on fresh meat. The same space of land, in wheat, will feed 42 people; in oats 88 people, in potatoes or Indian corn 176, and in fruit or vegetable crops, if intensely cultivated, 300. Hurrah for the farmer!

The mention of ex-Delegate B. S. Rodey's name for the governorship is receiving the most enthusiastic acclaim in the Democratic camp, which is not passing strange considering the history of the past fourteen months.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE DOCKETS.

The New Mexican Printing Company has prepared civil and criminal dockets especially for the use of justices of the peace. They are especially ruled, with printed headings, in either Spanish or English, made of good record paper, strongly and durably bound with leather back and covers and canvases sides; have full index in front and the fees of justices of the peace and constables printed in full on the first page. The pages are 10-2x6 inches. These books are made up in civil and criminal dockets, separate, of 320 pages each, or with both civil and criminal bound in one book, 80 pages civil and 320 pages criminal. To introduce them they are offered at the following low prices:

Civil or criminal	$4.00
Combination civil and criminal	$5.00

For 45 cents additional for a single docket, or 55 cents additional for a combination docket, they will be sent by mail or prepaid express. Cash in full must accompany order. State plainly whether English or Spanish printed heading is wanted. Address, NEW MEXICAN PRINTING CO.

MARRIAGE LICENSE LAW.

The new marriage license law requires probate clerks to post three copies of the new law in conspicuous places in each precinct. The New Mexican has printed the law neatly on card board and is now ready to fill orders in English or Spanish at fifty cents for each poster. Probate clerks should enter their orders immediately as the law goes into effect on April 14, 1906.

A "WANT AD" will bring results.

THE GREATEST EPOCH OF MARRIAGE

The first is the most crucial time. If for the first time the greatest event in your married life is about to occur, how expectant, how wrapt up in it you find yourselves.

You try to overlook, but in vain, that element of uncertainty and danger that you have been led to expect from the experience of those mothers and fathers who have struggled through this ordeal in ignorance of what it is, and what it does.

If at this time every expectant man and wife might know of this greatest of boons, devised for the express purpose of alleviating and dispelling the suffering and consequent danger of childbirth, how quickly would all doubt and worry be dissipated.

Mother's Friend is an invaluable liniment for external massage, through whose potent agency countless mothers have been enabled to experience the joy of parturition for the first time without danger to themselves or their off-spring.

SOME SEASONABLE ADVICE.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

A JUDICIOUS INQUIRY.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

Have your stationery printed by the New Mexican Printing Company.

INSOMNIA AND INDIGESTION CURED

"Last year I had a very severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by all druggists.

The New Mexican Printing Company has on hand a large supply of pads and tablets suitable for school work, the desk and also for lawyers and merchants; good anywhere. We will sell them at five cents in book form but will give a discount on quantities.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by all druggists.

THE WAY TO LIVE.

Better live rich than die rich. Many who skip themselves would live rich if they would only board at the Bon Ton Lunch Counter and Hotel. Regular meals only 25 cents—they would cost 50 cents elsewhere. Short orders at moderately reasonable prices. The best of everything always on hand in its proper season.

COMMUNICATION FROM A. C. IRELAND.

Offer to Refund Money if Hyomei Does not Cure Catarh.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

I have been asked recently if the advertisements printed in your columns regarding Hyomei were true, where I offer to refund the money if this treatment does not cure catarh. I wish you would please print this letter in as conspicuous a place as possible in your paper, saying that we absolutely agree to refund the money to any purchaser of a Hyomei outfit if it does not cure catarh.

This outfit consists of an inhaler of a convenient size to be carried in the vest pocket so that the user can breathe the Hyomei four or five times daily. With this is included a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The outfit sells for $1.00 and is a most economical treatment, for the inhaler lasts a lifetime and there is enough Hyomei for several weeks' use, while extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

I trust this letter will settle any doubts that may have arisen as to my willingness to refund the money for a Hyomei outfit, in case the purchaser is not perfectly satisfied.

Respectfully yours,

A. C. IRELAND.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE.

Will Often Help You Greatly. Read What a Santa Fe Citizen Says.

You may hesitate to listen to the advice of strangers, but the testimony of friends or residents of Santa Fe is worth your most careful attention. It is an easy matter to investigate such proof as this. The evidence must be conclusive. Read the following:

Juan A. Ortega, ex-policeman, of Loma St., says: "If all troubled with pain in the back have that annoyance ended as quickly as the use of Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Ireland's Pharmacy ended mine, then backache due to kidney complaint would cease to have any terrors for users of this strengthening and curative preparation. No one in Santa Fe need be in the least dubious about using Doan's Kidney Pills if they require a medicine to strengthen their kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

District Clerk A. M. Bergere, on October 10, celebrated his birthday anniversary at Aztec. The other court officials and friends at Aztec, presented him with a Navaho blanket as a souvenir of the occasion.

E. H. Salazar of Las Vegas, who visited his mother, Mrs. W. H. Mandersfield on Sunday, returned home just in time, according to the Las Vegas Optic, to be present at the arrival of a male addition to his family.

A. Sparkman, of Spokane, Washington, passed through Santa Fe this morning on his way to El Paso and Mexico points, where he has gone on business connected with mining interests he has in the sister republic.

Brooks, left this morning for the White Lakes in southern Santa Fe County, where they will spend three or four days. The main object of their trip is to secure ducks, which are said to be plentiful at the lakes. However, if other game makes an appearance it will receive the business end of the rifles and shotguns.

The Washington Post gives the following personal to Governor Otero: "The Territory of New Mexico has a thoroughly business executive in the person of Hon. Miguel A. Otero, who was seen at the New Willard. Governor Otero is now nearing the end of his second term, and it is considered probable that he will be again chosen for the office. During his administration the public debt of New Mexico has been materially decreased, the credit of the Territory strengthened, and many reforms have been established. The Governor is one of the most extensive sheep breeders in the Southwest, and his flocks in Guadalupe County aggregate 65,000 head. He is a native of the Territory, a scion of one of its oldest families, and speaks Spanish and English with equal fluency."

Jonas Moch, member of a wholesale jewelry firm of Los Angeles, California, owing to the sickness of the firm's representative in this district, interviewed the jewelers of the Capital City, in an endeavor to increase the business of his company. This is Mr. Moch's first trip to New Mexico and he says that in all his travels, which have covered the greater part of the United States and several countries in Europe, that he has never seen scenery or enjoyed climate like that of the "Sunshine Territory." This name for New Mexico he says is more than deserved as in three weeks spent in the Territory he has not witnessed a cloudy day until today. And even with the clouds overhanging the sky, the air is bracing and invigorating. He expects to spend a part of next summer in Santa Fe with his family.

DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA

Under Physicians Five Months. Went from Bad to Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Wonderful Change in One Night. In a Month Face Was Clean as Ever.

"I was troubled with eczema on the face for five months, during which time I was in the care of physicians. My face was in such a condition that I could not go out. It was going from bad to worse and I gave up all hope, when a friend of mine highly recommended Cuticura remedies. The first night after I washed my face with Cuticura Soap and used Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent it changed wonderfully, and continuing the treatment it removed all scales and scabs. From that day I was able to go out, and in a month my face was as clean as ever."

THOMAS J. SOTH, 317 Stagg St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE AGONIZING

Itching and Burning of the Skin

As in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worried parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures of the civilized world. Absolutely pure.

MINOR CITY TOPICS

Through countless centuries I slept,
Sun-baked and thirsty to the core,
While over other lands there crept
The moisture plentiful—and more.
Day followed day—no living thing
Upon my famished bosom grew:
No song of birds, nor anything
That other lands in fullness knew.
Shunned was I by the march of man
Counted as treacherous and base:
By men and beasts placed
Neath the ban
And marked with scorn—the desert place.

They came! and waked me
From my sleep,
Held to my thirsty lips the cup,
And drinking, drinking long and deep,
My head in gladness, I held up,
And now across my fertile fields
The farmer takes his busy way,
In glory my dominion yields
Its richest treasures day by day.
The waving grass, so cool and sweet;
Bedecks the one-time desert
place:
Ashamed no more, I gladly greet
My children, men, now face to face.—Clifford Trembley.

The board of managers of the Elks' Bazaar of All Nations, on behalf of Santa Fe Lodge No. 460 B. P. O. Elks, has sent to all the ladies who so kindly assisted in the booths and in handling the books of chances, a personal letter thanking them for their valuable services.

The boys of the public schools are making arrangements to organize an athletic association. The basis will be similar to that used in a number of institutions throughout the country in which an entrance fee will be charged and monthly dues assessed to pay current expenses. All those who pay the entrance fee and keep up with the monthly dues are allowed to use the athletic grounds and goods of the association. A football team is also being organized and the girls are getting ready to put a good basket ball team in the field.

Stowe's celebrated concert band, under the direction of Edward Hayworth, will give a grand musical concert on the streets around the Plaza at noon tomorrow. The band is with the great scenic production of Ten Nights in a Bar Room, which will appear at the opera house tomorrow evening. Reserved seats on sale at Ireland's Pharmacy.

Laborers in the Capital City are a scarce article at the present time. The Elks have been trying ever since the Bazaar of All Nations closed to get men to clean up the street but have been unsuccessful. City Marshal Gorman has volunteered his services to get a man and the public is assured that the street will be put in as good condition, if not better, than it was before the festival, and that by tomorrow night.

Don't forget the rummage sale to be held by the Woman's Board of Trade at the library rooms tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. A large number of donations of clothing, food and other articles necessary to the daily life have been made and the sale promises to be a success. It is in a good cause and should be well patronized. Remember the day and time, Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the library rooms.

Joe Hentrich arrived Friday from Wisconsin, where 47 years ago he knew Patrick Maher and wife of Durango before they were married. He comes to the Southwest to locate and Saturday morning in company with Mr. Maher went down to Aztec and Farmington to look for land. Now that the work of sidewalk construction on Palace Avenue below the Arroyo Sals, and around the Plaza as well as on Don Gaspar Avenue and San Francisco Street, as far down as the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad crossing, is nearing completion, the work of sidewalk construction on Montezuma Avenue and on Palace Avenue from the Arroyo Sals to the city limits should be pushed before the winter sets in. There should be a continuous sidewalk from the Plaza to the depots and also to the city limits by way of Palace Avenue.

S. B. Grimshaw, assistant to the president and general manager of the Santa Fe Central Railway, has received another letter from John Sebastian, general passenger agent of the Rock Island System, assuring him that in the future Santa Fe would be featured in every advertising publication of the Rock Island. Mr. Grimshaw deserves much praise for his efforts to have the manifold scenic, climatic and historic attractions of Santa Fe widely advertised. It will result in bringing many more visitors to this part of New Mexico than came formerly.

It transpires that the arrest of Policeman Camilo Martinez yesterday was the work of irresponsible individuals and was mostly incited by spite. This morning Camilo gave bond for his appearance before the grand jury in the sum of $500. The information filed against him was not that as given to the New Mexican yesterday. He was charged, instead, with assault, the basis for the charges being that the policeman went to the assistance of City Marshal Gorman when that official had been almost knocked out with the foulest kind of a blow. Policeman Martinez's act was strictly in conformity with his duties as a policeman and there is absolutely no censure to be given him.

MAJESTIC RANGES SOLD IN ALL OF THE ABOVE COUNTRIES.

2,500,000 People In the United States, now enjoying food cooked in the MAJESTIC, affirm that the half has not been said in its praise. The manufacturers of this range pledge themselves that all parts of the MAJESTIC, except the fire-box and ornaments, are made of steel and malleable iron, and purchasers are assured that it is as good and as honest as skilled labor and money can produce. If the parts now in malleable iron were (as in other so-called steel ranges) made of cast iron, the price could be greatly reduced; but the MAJESTIC is not made with a view to furnishing extra parts for repairs.

FARMERS BUSY WITH HARVEST.

Union County Showing Considerable Activity—News Notes of Interest From Logan.

Special Correspondence New Mexican. Logan, N. M., Oct. 16.—The Rock Island is preparing to take crushed rock and gravel from this point to ballast the track of the system.

The farmers are busy harvesting their crops, which consist mostly of Kaffir corn, Milo maize and sorghum. There is some Indian corn and a very good crop of beans, mostly of the Mexican variety. Watermelons of large size have been grown in this section in abundance.

All crops are grown without irrigation. But little farming has been done in this section. There are about a dozen farms in this township upon which from ten to forty acres of crops were grown. The land was nearly all sod, broken with a sod plow in May and June. Some of the seed was planted in furrows as the land was being broken, and some put in with drills.

Many fine apples and pears were brought here to market, grown in the western part of the county.

There are but few settlers outside the town, but a number have filed on government land within the last few months and it is expected that the country will be well settled in another year.

What few cattle are to be found in this section are mostly grade Herefords, some thoroughbreds and a few shorthorns. The sheep are almost all Moreno.

There are not many good horses and but few mules, they being very small.

The country in this section is a level prairie, fine for agricultural purposes and with good cultivation will make a first class farming district. The rainfall is plenty and the ground easily tilled.

Two men came here recently from Harriman, Tennessee, with a view to locate claims, and are very well pleased with the outlook. They have written many letters to friends in the east and it is expected that a number will come from that part of the country to make this section their home. A few Ohio and Indiana farmers have been here looking over the ground and will in all probability bring their families here in the near future.

CHAPTER XXX.

"MONTY, you are breaking my heart," was the first and only appeal Mrs. Gray ever made to him. It was two days before the 23d, and it did not come until after the secondhand store men had driven away from her door with the bulk of his clothing in their wagon. She and Peggy had seen little of Brewster, and his nervous restlessness alarmed them. His return was the talk of the town. Men tried to shun him, but he persistently wasted some portion of his fortune on his unwilling subjects. When he gave $5,000 in cash to a home for newsboys even his friends jumped to the conclusion that he was mad. It was his only gift to charity, and he excused his motive in giving at this time by recalling Sedgwick's injunction to "give sparingly to charity." Everything was gone from his thoughts but the overpowering eagerness to get rid of a few troublesome thousands. He felt like an outcast, a pariah, a hated object that infected every one with whom he came in contact. Sleep was almost impossible; eating was a farce. He gave elaborate suppers which he did not touch. Already his best friends were discussing the advisability of putting him in a sanitarium, where his mind might be preserved. His case was looked upon as peculiar in the history of mankind. No writer could find a parallel; no one could imagine a comparison.

Mrs. Gray met him in the hallway of her home as he was nervously pocketing the $60 he had received in payment for his clothes. Her face was like that of a ghost. He tried to answer her reproach, but the words would not come, and he fled to his room, locking the door after him. He was at work there on the transaction that was to record the total disappearance of Edwin Brewster's millions—his final report to Seward Jones, executor of James Sedgwick's will. On the floor were bundles of packages carefully wrapped and tied, and on the table was the long sheet of white paper on which the report was being drawn. The packages contained receipts—thousands upon thousands of them—for the dollars he had spent in less than a year. They were there for the inspection of Seward Jones, faithfully and honorably kept, as if the old westerner would go over in detail the countless documents.

He had the accounts balanced up to the hour. On the long sheet lay the record of his ruthlessness, the epitaph of a million. In his pocket was exactly $79.08. This was to last him for less than forty-eight hours, and then it would go to join the rest. It was his plan to visit Grant & Ripley on the afternoon of the 22d and to read the report to them in anticipation of the meeting with Jones on the day following.

Just before noon, after his encounter with Mrs. Gray, he came downstairs and boldly, for the first time in days, sought out Peggy. There was the old smile in his eyes and the old heartiness in his voice when he came upon her in the library. She was not reading. Books, pleasures and all the joys of life had fled from her mind, and she thought only of the disaster that was coming to the boy she had always loved. His heart smote him as he looked into the deep, somber, frightened eyes, running over with love and fear for him.

"Peggy, do you think I'm worth anything more from your mother? Do you think she will ask me to live here any longer?" he asked steadily, taking her hand in his. Hers was cold, his as hot as fire. "You know what you said away off yonder somewhere, that she'd let me live here if I deserved it. I am a pauper, Peggy, and I'm afraid I'll have to get down to drudgery again. Will she turn me out? You know I must have somewhere to live. Shall it be the poorhouse? Do you remember saying one day that I'd end in the poorhouse?"

She was looking into his eyes, dreading what might be seen in them. But there was no gleam of insanity there; there was no fever. Instead there was the quiet smile of the man who is satisfied with himself and the world. His voice bore traces of emotion, but it was the voice of one who has perfect control of his wits.

"Is it all—gone, Monty?" she asked, almost in a whisper.

"Here is the residue of my estate," he said, opening his purse with steady fingers. "I'm back to where I left off a year ago. The million is gone, and my wings are clipped." Her face was white; her heart was in the clutch of ice. How could he be so calm about it when for him she was suffering such agony? Twice she started to speak, but her voice failed her. She turned slowly and walked to the window, keeping her back to the man who smiled so sadly and yet so heartlessly.

"I didn't want the million, Peggy," he went on. "You think as the rest do, I know, that I was a fool to act as I did. It would be rank idleness on my part to blame you any more than the others for thinking as you do. Appearances are against me; the proof is overwhelming. A year ago I was called a man; today they are stripping me of every claim to that distinction. The world says I am a fool, a dolt, almost a criminal, but no one believes I am a man. Peggy, will you feel better toward me if I tell you that I am going to begin life all over again? It will be a new Monty Brewster that starts out again in a few days, or, if you will, it shall be the old one—the Monty you once knew."

"The old Monty?" she murmured softly, dreamily. "It would be good to see him—so much better than to see the Monty of the last year."

"And in spite of all I have done, Peggy, you will stand by me? You won't desert me like the rest? You'll be the same Peggy of the other days?" he cried, his calmness breaking down.

"How can you ask? Why should you doubt me?"

For a moment they stood silent, each looking into the heart of the other, each seeing the beginning of a new day.

"Child"—his voice trembled dangerously—"I wonder if you care enough for me to—to—" But he could only look the question.

"To start all over again with you?" she whispered.

"Yes—to trust yourself to the prodigal who has returned. Without you, child, all the rest would be as husks. Peggy, I want you—you! You do love me. I can see it in your eyes; I can feel it in your presence."

"How long you have been in realizing it!" she said pensively as she stretched out her arms to him. For many minutes he held her close, finding a beautiful peace in the world again.

"How long have you really cared?" he asked in a whisper.

"Always, Monty; all my life." "And I, too, child; all my life. I know it now; I've known it for months. Oh, what a fool I was to have wasted all this love of yours and all this love of mine! But I'll not be a prodigal in love, Peggy. I'll not squander an atom of it, dear, not as long as I live."

"And we will build a greater love, Monty, as we build the new life together. We never can be poor while we have love as a treasure."

"You won't mind being poor with me?" he asked.

"I can't be poor with you," she said simply.

"And I might have let all this escape me!" he cried fervently. "Listen, Peggy; we will start together, you as my wife and my fortune. You shall be all that is left to me of the past. Will you marry me the day after tomorrow? Don't say 'No,' dearest. I want to begin on that day. At 7 in the morning, dear? Don't you see how good the start will be?"

And he pleaded so ardently and so earnestly that he won his point even though it grew out of a whim that she could not then understand. She was not to learn until afterward his object in having the marriage take place on the morning of Sept. 23, two hours before the time set for the turning over of the Sedgwick millions. If all went well they would be Brewster's millions before 12 o'clock, and Peggy's life of poverty would cover no more than three hours of time. She believed him worth a lifetime of poverty. So they would start the new life with but one possession—love.

Peggy rebelled against his desire to spend the $70 that still remained, but he was firm in his determination. They would dine and drive together and see all of the old life that was left—on $70. Then on the next day they would start all over again. There was one rude moment of dismay when it occurred to him that Peggy might be considered an "asset" if she became his wife before 9 o'clock. But he realized at once that it was only demanded of him that he be penniless and that he possess no object that had been acquired through the medium of Edwin Peter Brewster's money. Surely this wife who was not to come to him until his last dollar was gone could not be the product of an old man's legacy. But so careful was he in regard to the transaction that he decided to borrow money of Joe Bragdon to buy the license and to pay the minister's fee. Not only would he be penniless on the day of settlement, but he would be in debt. So changed was the color of the world to him now that even the failure to win Sedgwick's millions could not crush out the new life and the new joy that had come to him with the winning of Peggy Gray.

CHAPTER XXXI.

SOON after noon on the 22d of September Monty folded his report to Seward Jones, stuck it into his pocket and galloped forth. A parcel delivery wagon had carried off a mysterious bundle a few minutes before. Mrs. Gray could not conceal her wonder, but Brewster's answers to her questions threw little light on the mystery. He could not tell her the big bundle contained the receipts that were to prove his sincerity when the time came to settle with Mr. Jones. Brewster had used his own form of receipt for every purchase. The little stub receipt books had been made to order for him and not only he, but every person in his employ, carried one everywhere. No matter how trivial the purchase, the person who received a dollar of Brewster's money signed a receipt for the amount. Newsboys and bootblacks were the only beings who escaped the formality; tips to waiters, porters, cabbies, etc., were recorded and afterward put into a class by themselves. Receipts for the few dollars remaining in his possession were to be turned over on the morning of the 23d and the general report was not to be completed until 9 o'clock on that day.

He kissed Peggy goodby, told her to be ready for a drive at 4 o'clock, and then went off to find Joe Bragdon and Elton Gardner. They met him by appointment, and to them he confided his design to be married on the following day.

"You can't afford it, Monty," exploded Joe fearlessly. "Peggy is too good a girl. It isn't fair to her."

"We have agreed to begin life tomorrow. Wait and see the result. I think it will surprise you. Incidentally it is up to me to engage a minister's services. It's going to be quiet, you know. Joe, you can be my best man if you like, and, Gardie, I'll expect you to sign your name as one of the witnesses. Tomorrow evening we'll have supper at Mrs. Gray's, and among those present will not comprise a very large list, I assure you. But we'll talk about that later on. Just now I want to ask you fellows to lend me enough money to pay the preacher. I'll return it tomorrow afternoon."

"Well, I'm blessed!" exclaimed Gardner, utterly dumfounded by the nerve of the man. Gardner promised to have the minister at the Gray house the next morning. Monty's other request—made in deep seriousness—was that Peggy was not to be told of the little transaction. He then hurried off to the office of Grant & Ripley. The bundles of receipts had preceded him.

"Has Jones arrived in town?" was his first anxious question after the greetings.

"He is not registered at any of the hotels," responded Mr. Grant, and Brewster did not see the troubled look that passed over his face.

"He'll show up tonight, I presume," said he complacently. The lawyers did not tell him that all the telegrams they had sent to Seward Jones in the past two weeks had been returned to the New York office as unclaimed in Butte. The telegraph company reported that Mr. Jones was not to be found and that he had not been seen in Butte since the 3d of September. The lawyers were hourly expecting word from Montana men to whom they had telegraphed for information and advice. They were extremely nervous, but Montgomery Brewster was too eager and excited to notice the fact.

"Lend me enough money to pay the preacher."

"A tall, bearded stranger was here this morning asking for you, Mr. Brewster," said Ripley, his head bent over some papers on his desk.

"Ah, Jones, I'm sure! I've always imagined him with a long beard," said Monty, relief in his voice.

"It was not Jones. We know Jones quite well. This man was a stranger and refused to give his name. He said he would call at Mrs. Gray's this afternoon."

"Did he look like a constable or a bill collector?" asked Monty, with a laugh. "He looked very much like a tramp." "Well, we'll forget him for the time being," said Monty, drawing the report from his pocket. "Would you mind looking over this report, gentlemen? I'd like to know if it is in proper form to present to Mr. Jones."

Grant's hand trembled as he took the carefully folded sheet from Brewster. A quick glance of despair passed between the two lawyers.

"Of course, you'll understand that this report is merely a synopsis of the expenditures. They are classified, however, and the receipts over there are arranged in such a way that Mr. Jones can easily verify all the figures set out in the report. For instance, where it says 'cigars' I have put down the total amount that went up in smoke. The receipts are to serve as an itemized statement, you know." Mr. Ripley took the paper from his partner's hand and, pulling himself together, read the report aloud. It was as follows:

"It's rather broad, you see, gentlemen, but there are receipts for every dollar, barring some trifling incidents. He may think I dissipated the fortune, but I defy him or any one else to prove that I have not had my money's worth. To tell you the truth, it has seemed like a hundred million. If any one should tell you that it is an easy matter to waste a million dollars refer him to me. Last fall I weighed 180 pounds; yesterday I barely moved the beam at 140. Last fall there was not a wrinkle in my face, nor did I have a white hair. You see the result of overwork, gentlemen. It will take an age to get back to where I was physically, but I think I can do it with the vacation that begins tomorrow. Incidentally I'm going to be married tomorrow morning, just when I am poorer than I ever expect to be again. I still have a few dollars to spend, and I must be about it. Tomorrow I will account for what I spend this evening. It is now covered by the 'sundries' item, but I'll have the receipts to show all right. See you tomorrow morning."

He was gone, eager to be with Peggy, afraid to discuss his report with the lawyers. Grant and Ripley shook their heads and sat silent for a long time after his departure.

"We ought to hear something definite before night," said Grant, but there was anxiety in his voice.

"I wonder," mused Ripley, as if to himself, "how he will take it if the worst should happen."
